Pioneer Frontiersmen Who Settled in Fort Fraser District Are Realizing Their Most Sanguine Hopes.

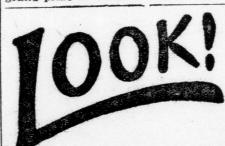

INDUSTRIAL CENTRE OF THE CENTRAL INTERIOR

Outside World Has Not Yet Begun to Grasp an Inkling of the Stupendous Possibilities of Fort Fraser District.

Possessing in magnitude and importance any plan of railroad construction hitherto conceived as a whole, the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific Transcontinental Line through the central interior of British Columbia is opening up a field of agricultural, commercial and industrial activity which embraces countess opportunities for capitalists, merchants, manufacturers and agricultural settlers. Between Edmonton and Prince Rupert, the western terminus of the line, the road passes through the largest and most prolific stretch of agricultural country anywhere in the Dominion. On this land pioneer settlers have demonstrated the practicability of transforming this vast region into the greatest diversified farming area west of the Rocky Mountains. Scientific agriculturists who surveyed the country long before the railroad began to spy out the land declared the fertility of the soil to be par excellent, and that it would yield more readily to cultivation and at a lesser cost than any in the province Gradually the tide of prosperity swept along to the Fort Fraser district, which is the central location of this vast hinterland and the city of Fort Fraser, establishing a little more than a year ago on a townsite adjoining the old Hudson's Bay Trading Post, which for close upon a century has been the base of supplies, is today a strong evidence of what the railroad can do for a place when it takes the notion. The city, as Byron said, "woke one morning and found itself famous." Since then it has never looked back. It grows at a tremendous pace. Everybody is busy. There is an empire in itself tributary to it. The land already surveyed extends for over 900,000 acres, and there is more than that area again which remained untrodden by the foot of white man. In the city business houses and residences are being built with unchecked energy. A sawmill with a daily capacity of over 20,000 feet cannot keep pace with the demand for building material. Inexpensive water power awaits the manufacturers and the townsite provides level industrial sites adjoining the railroad track. In the district there is free timber for which will last for years, coal deposits have been located. In fact the outside world has not yet even begun to grasp an inkling of the stupendous possibilities, as vet practically untouched, which await the necessary capital and labor to develop them. In another decade land prices will have jumped to the high water mark. Fortunes will be won by those farseeing enough to get in on the ground floor. Today the trend of settlement moves towards this centre and the builders of Fort Fraser are putting forth their utmost efforts to accommodate with efficiency and dispatch the industrial activity of this new empire of the central interior. "Yes," answered the mayor. "this is the admiral's game. "You'd hardly expect ain't nothing to the reform gag."

The train slowed down at a small yelme to know it, would you? I don't hang out at the swell clubs where the admiral does. They won't have me there. But once I took the admiral on a public service board with me—one time when I wanted a lot of dignity and no brains pretty bad—and he sort of come back by teaching me his game in the long dull hours when we had nothing to do but a train slowed down at a small yellow station. Mr. Magee peered out the town the station. If housestown," he read, "Reuton—10 miles." He saw Mr. Max get up and leave the car.

"Not a thing to it, Doc," Cargan repeated. "Your bunch has tried to get me before. You've shouted from the house-tops that you had the goods on me What's laways happened?" me to know it, would you? I don't hang out at the swell clubs where the admiral does. They won't have me there. But once I took the admiral on a public service board with me—one time when I wanted a lot of dignity and no brains pretty bad—and he sort of come back by teaching me his game in the long dull hours when we had nothing to do but serve the public. The thing gets a hold on you, somehow. Let's see—now the spade—now the heart."

"And the other?" Kendrick persisted softly. He pointed to the remaining deck. A terrible smile of understanding drew his thin lips taut. "And the other, Mr. Cargan?"
"Red." replied Cargan. "What else could it be? All red."

He picked it up and shuffled through it to prove his point. Kendrick turned like a drunken man and staggered back from the aisle. Magee rose and hurried after him. At the door he turned, and the look on his face caused Magee to shudder.

"You heard," he said helplessly. "My God! It's funny, isn't it?" He laughed hysterically, and drawing out his hand-kerchief, passed it across his forehead. "A pleasant thing to think about — a pleasant thing to remember."

Professor Bolton pushed open the smoker door.

Something told Mr. Magee that he ought to rise and drag Kendrick away from that table. Why? He did not know. Still, it ought to be done. But the look in Kendrick's eyes showed clearly that the proverbial wild horses could not do it then. "Tell me how it's played," went on Kendrick, trying to be calm. "You must be getting old," replied the mayor. "The admiral told me the young men at his club never took any interest in his game. "Solitaire," he says to me. "is an old man's trade." It's a great game. Mr. Kendrick."

"A great game," repeated Kendrick.

"I'm not a church politician," protested the professor. "I'm bitterly opposed to the lily-white crowd who continually rant against the thing they don't understand. I'm practical, as practical as you, and when—"

"And then you build," Mr. Kendrick," he said. "The reds and the blacks. You build the blacks on the left and the reds on the right, do you get me? Then—Say, what's the matter?"

For Kendrick had swayed and almost fallen, on the admiral's game—the game that had once sent a man to hell.

"Go on," he said, bracing. "Nothing's the matter. Go on. Build, build!"

The mayor looked at him a moment in surprise, then continued.

"Now the king," he muttered, "now the ace. We're on the home stretch, going strong. There it's finished. It's come out right. A great game, I tell you."

He leaned back. Kendrick's fever-yellowed face was like a bronze mask. His eyes were fiercely on the table and the two decks of cards that lay there.

"And when you've finished." he pointed. When you've finished. When you've finished. When you've finished. When you've finished." he pointed. When you've finished. When you've finished." he pointed. When you've finished. When you've finished. When you've finished. When

CHAPTER XXI. The Mayor Is Welcomed Home. It was a good story—the story which the mayor, Max, the professor and Magee read with varying emotions there in the smoking-car. The girl had served her employers well, and Mr. Magee, as he read, felt a thrill of pride in her. Evilently the employers had felt that same hrill. For in the captions under the pictures in the headlines, and in a firstpage editorial, none of which the girl had written, the Star spoke admiringly of its woman reporter who had done a man's work—who had gone to Baldpate Inn and had brought back a gigantic bribe fund "alone and unaided."

"Indeed?" smiled Mr. Magee to him-

In the editorial on that first page the triumphant cry of the Star arose to shat-ter its fellows in the heavens. At last, said the editor, the long campaign which his paper alone of all the Reuton papers had waged against a corrupt city administration was brought to a successful close. The victory was won. How had this been accomplished? Into the Star office had come rumors, a few days back, of the proposed payment of a big bribe at the inn on Baldpate Mountain. The paper had decided that one of its reprea paper had decided that one of its repre-sentatives must be on the ground. It had debated long whom to send. Miss Evelyn word moved down the car to John Cargan and Max. Magee's mind was dazed by the tragedy he had witnessed. "A pleasant thing to think about—" He did not envy Kendrick his thoughts.

The mayor of Reuton had pushed aside the cards and lighted a huge cigar.

"Well," Doc," he remarked jocosely, "how's trade Sold any new schemes for renovating the world to the up-state rubes? I should think this would be sort of an off-season for the reform business. Peace on earth, good will toward mentat ain't exactly a good advertisement for the reformers, is it?"

quieting title "Prison Stripes for the Mayor." The girl's story told how, with The girl's story told how, with one companion, she had gone to Upper Asquewan Falls. There was no mention of the station waiting-room, nor of the tears shed therein on a certain evening, Mr. Magee noted. She had reached the inn on the morning of the day when the combination was to be phoned. Bland was the combination was to be phoned. already there, shortly after came the mayor and Max. "You got to get me out of this," Magee

"Keep still." replied the mayor roughy. He was reading his copy of the Star with keen interest now. "I've done your dirty work for years," whined Max. "Who puts on the rubber shoes and sneaks up dark alleys hunting votes among the garbage, while you do the Old Glory stunt on Main street? I do. You got to get me out of this. It may mean jah, I couldn't stand that. "I'd nean jail, I couldn't stand that.

A horrible parody of a man's real fear was in his face. The mayor shook him-self as though he would be rid forever of the coward hanging on his arm, "Hush up, can't you?" he said. see you through."

MILITARIST CLAP-TRAP.

The foolishness of ordinary militar 1st arguments is something almost incredible. In Great Britain jingoes want a navy equal to all others combined. Why on earth or on sea should Great Britain keep up such a navy Oh, she must meet Germany in the North Sea, and Italy and Austria in the Mediterranean. But when did Italy become the enemy of England? And if France should switch, would not Germany, too?

German war men get a tax levied on capital for two years, because, they say, an all-Slav combination threatens to unite with France to wipe Gerthe map. But a Russian urges in the St. Petersburg Novoye Vremya, that Russia need count on no Slavic union, when it has been seen what Servia and Bulgaria did to each other. So the Balkan business frightens or encourages both German and Russian fingoes to greater armaments; it proves two opposite and contradictory things, peril to Germany from Slavic power, and peril to Russia from Slavic disunion.

But the silliest jingoism of all is that which would extract money from a country like Canada for the benefit merely of British Dreadnought-builders. or that which would line our peaceful land frontier with forts and a red-coat line. There not even an attempt at argument for the latter of these.

THE FORDS' GREAT GIFT. From Detroit comes the announcement of the most stupendous profits sharing plan for employees known modern business. The Ford Motor Company announces that during the present year it will distribute a fund of $10,000,000 amongst its workmen in addition to their regular salaries. Furthermore, five dollars has been set as the minimum wage on an eighthour basis. A three shift plan will be adopted, and this means that four thousand more men will be taken on. Twenty-three thousand five hundred workers are affected, and the humblest laborer will get thirty dollars weekly. Needless to say there was a huge crowd of men at the company's office Monday morning struggling to secure a position. Henry M. Ford, the head of the firm, has stated that this radical act is due to his feeling that the distribution of earnings between capital and labor has been too uneven. His gift is a resplendent one. Compared to it the benefactions of Carnegie, Rockefeller, and other philanthropic millionaires appear small. Its strongest appeal is the direct distribution of hard cash. Hereafter the ordinary, unskilled workers, who have had a bare living wage, will receive a salary greater than that of many skilled artisans or professional men. Skeptical persons will at once questions the motive of Mr. Ford's act, probably charging that it is part of a huge advertising scheme, and a plan to attract the best in the automobile labor market. However, those of a more generous nature, considering the immediate benefits, will praise the magnificent gift.

Both the Premier and the leader of the Opposition supported him; and the resolution passed almost unanimously. Then Sir Wilfrid Laurier began the work that both parties in the House had authorized. But Mr. Borden and his friends broke away from their agreement, and when they came into power on a trade question they swallowed all their previous utterances, and abandoned the policy they had formerly advocated. They are the people who brought the navy into politics. And if they want to get it out, they will have to go back to their own policy of 1910, which the

The wired-hoop tunic, called La Minaret, because Poiret's costumes for the play of that name have become the fashion, adorns almost every new dancing frock. This coquettish dancing frock for the social season is of white liberty satin, with sleeves and wired tonic of daring flame-tinted tulle. The tunic is edged with a very narrow line of black fox also a daring effect in combination, with the white and red frock. The skirt is deeply slashed at the front, and is tied together over a chiffon petticoat, flounced with white silk bows. Buttoned dancing slippers of white satin match the frock.

Tea-Table Talk

Mark Twain said that the 'two most interesting charac-Helen ters of the nineteenth century are Napoleon and Helen Keller." Edwin Markham goes farther than that. He says "Helen Keller is, to me, the most interesting being on the planet." And thinking it over, one is inclined to agree with Markham. Miss Keller's life has indeed been one of such wonderful achievement and triumph over apparently impossible obstacles that one thinks no tribute can be too high to pay her. All the world has heard of Helen Keller; all the world has read her marvellous book "The Story of My Life"; and all the world has rejoiced in each succeeding victory, especially in the crowning one of all-the power of speech, accomplished only after years of patient trial and effort. One can scarcely make mention of Helen Keller without also including her teacher and companion, Mrs. Macy, better known to the world as Miss Sullivan. Helen was but seven years old when Miss found the little afflicted child living in almost total intellectual darkness, passionate and self-willed. The first steps of development were slow, but once the desire for knowledge was aroused in the little pupil's heart, her life became one unbroken series of triumphs. Today, Helen Keller is an honor college peril.

The two-room, one-story units, built along the four sides, open directly upon the square and have no corridors, halls, or street doors. A two-story assembly hall on the street side and gates at the four corners give entrance to the quadrangle and a concrete arcade around the edge serves as a cloakroom. The heat. ing and ventilating plant is in the as-sembly building. This plan gives a contral playground, 200 feet square, surrounded by an amphitheatre which will seat several thousand people. A swim-ming pool in the basement is to be open to the public at certain hours."

STUDY CIRCLES MAY BE FORMED IN THE WOMAN'S CAN. CLUB

This, With Other Business Matters, Discussed at Club Meeting Yesterday.

One or two matters of business were brought up at the meeting of the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon before Professor Franz arrived to deliver his excellent lecture on "The Feeble-Minded." Mrs. F. P. Betts, the president, occupied the chair. Mrs. Hughes read the minutes of the executive meeting held on Friday last, introducing the idea of forming of circles Canadian Club members, each to study on one special subject and deliver one or more papers before club at future meetings. It is felt that meetings might become more general The subject will be brought up again The matter of changing the date of the annual meeting from May to October, was also brought up, and will be further discussed at a future meeting The attendance at yesterday's meet-

Suffrage Debate On January 16

A unique program is being arranged for the evening of Jan. 16, when a suffrage debate, in which prominent citizens, both men and women, will take part, will be held under the auspices of the London Suffrage Society. Interviewed by The Advertiser yesterday, a prominent member of the organization stated that already many citizens had signified their intention of being present, and very keen interest was being shown in the proposed debate. Each side of the subject will, of course, be presented. Full arrangements will be made within a day or two.

VALUE OF A BOOK. The value of any book after all, is not in the entertainment it affords for the once, though this is something, but in the permanent residuum left in the mind after reading. The times are too much in earnest for abandonment to simple recreation. Were this not so, imitations of Punch would answer the same purpose Punch itself, with which we laugh. The solid residuum we speak of depends upon the amount of thinking which the book has demanded of us. That which the old epitaph affirms of worldly goods holds true here also what we gave we have. ABusiness That Is Being Built Up On Its Cash Discounts.

The reason why: We have been able, while always insisting on the best of quality and featuring low prices to you, to grow faster and more surely than any other firm in Western Ontario.

In the last few years we have missed no chance of lessening the cost of goods to us, and a consequent lessening of the cost to you, by in every case paying spot cash and taking every possible discount.

Many a business more extensive than ours, far from being able to do this, has to borrow money at a rate of interest, to meet payments on goods, when in the ordinary course of business they come due. There is in this way a difference of from 5 per cent to 15 per cent in the prices we pay, and the prices many a merchant has to pay.

Some time in the near future we will be in our new store, and always in the future as in the past we will give you the best of service and the highest in quality at the lowest prices.

Unsatisfactory Game Played On Toronto Ice Last Evening.

Toronto, Jan. 6.—Midland defeated Toronto R. and A. A. tonight at the Arena in their scheduled Senior O. H. A. fixture by 7 to 5, after one of the most unsatisfactory games seen here in some time. Shortly after the start Referee Fraser stopped the play when he discovered that the local seven were going to drop Thornton, their injured right wing play-Frankie Fleming May Get Chance Shortly that the local seven were going to drop. Thornton, their injured right wing player. This they did, and after much wrangling, Armstrong was dropped to even up. Thornton did not touch the puck while he was on the ice, and it could easily be seen that he was about to be dropped and thus have only six men a side on the ice. Shortly after this Chase received a gash in the leg and was forced to retire. This left five men a side. in one of the three ten-round bouts at day night. If his (Kilbane's) demands are not too steep the match will be clinched.

Gus. Edwards is not a defence man, although he played well. He would show much better on the forward line. He is a fast skater and it is doubtful if any player on the London team can equal his speed.

Midland were the favorites on account of the weakened condition of the champions, but it was only by a spurt in the last five minutes of play that they snatched victory from the locals. Taking the game as a whole, however, they deserved to win. They had speed to burn, especially Beatty, on the forward line, and Lavigne, on the defence. Scott, in goal, played a wonderful game, and it was his excellent work that probably saved Midland from defeat.

Alex Collins, of That City, Dies of Heart Failure at Game Last Night.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Stratford, Jan. 6 .- Tragedy and a Midget victory perched on the junior O. H. A. clash between Stratford and Mitchell tonight. Seven goals to one was the final tally, but though defeated, the Mitchell lads left a deep respect for their doggedness in the hearts of the Stratford puck men.

While Laval was slapping in Stratford's third goal just as the half-time whistle was about to blow, Alex. Collins, drover, and guardian of the press box at hockey matches, succumbed to heart failure. First noticed lying stretched head downward on the stairway, he was borne with care into the press box, and medical assistance summoned. In the light which was supplied by the reporters burning copypaper the doctors worked over him. A delay followed to allow the summoning of the coroner and undertak-

TRUSTEE HUNT SLATED A GERMAN HEIRESS FOR THE CHAIRMANSHIP

Will Likely Succeed E. R. Dennis As Board of Education Head.

The organization meeting of the new board of education will be held on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The new board comprises several members who have not hitherto held public office and the usual welcomes will be extended Trustee A. M. Hunt, chairman of last year's No. 2 committee, is almost certain to be chosen as chairman of this year's board in succession to Trustee E.

Great objection is being raised in various quarters to the regulations governing the election of school trustees. No property qual fications whatever are required despite the fact that the board of edudespite the fact that the board of education is the heaviest-spending public body in the city. If a man is 21 years of age and a British subject he is eligible for the board of education. City Clerk Ramuel Baker also states that school trustees are not even required to take an oath of office as are members of the other civic bodies.

DY THE WANT AD MAN

No. 52

ASKED a "high-brow" friend of mine, who is employed in the editorial department of a big newspaper, if he had any ideas on Want Ad. advertising. He said he "sure had" and was a firm believer in the pulling power of that kind of advertising. He said he'd write down what he thought on the subject. He did. Here is the note he wrote:

"The first Want Ad. of which we have record was written by Julius Caesar, who enlivened the dead walls of Rome with announcements of his Gallic victories and who skilfully appealed to his fellow-countrymen to call at his headquarters the next day and enlist for a still greater and grander conquest. Caesar's Want Ad. ultimately brought him the proffer of a crown.

"No less wise than Caesar are the employers and employes of today. They recognize the fact that the most successful way to achieve a definite purpose from an advertising viewpoint is to present your wants in a concise, direct manner. The employer looks upon the Want Ad. columns as an advertising barometer; the employe, as the keystone to the arch.

"In a Want Ad, you reach the man who wants something, and you get into direct and immediate communication with him."

Good! A Want Ad. is a little thing, but it goes to its goal quickly. EVER TRIED ONE?

IMPORTANT ISSUE BEFORE THE UNIONS

Nobility And Diplomats Attend Balloting On Policy of Applying Union Funds To Political Objects.

> [Canadian Press.] New York, Jan. 6 .- A cable to The Tribune from London says: A very important ballot, the result of which may have a far reaching influence on labor politics in this country, is now in progress among the trade unions. The ballot is being carried out in conformity with the provisions of the Trade Union Act last year, by which it was made lawful to apply funds of a trade union to political objects, if the promotion of those objects was approved by a majority of the members voting in secret ballot. The Ballot Act, it will be remembered, was the outcome of the Osborne judgment, which pronounced the compulsion of pay for political work to be illegal, when applied to unwilling members of a trade union. The annual conference of the Labor party is to be held at Glasgow on January 28, 29, and 30, and will be preceded on January 27 by a special conference on the electoral and parliamentary policy of the party, and in view of these conferences great in terest is felt in political circles in the results of the ballot now being taken. Some results are already known, and majorities in favor of the proposal

N. W. Rowell Shows That It Is Most Needed Where Defeated

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Jan. 7.-An estimate of the result of the local option votes this week was the feature of Mr. N. W. Rowell's address on Tuesday evening to the Canada Forward Club. "Of the many good measures passed have been obtained, but in many cases by the Liberal administrations in this the polls have been comparatively province for curtailing the evils of the fiquor traffic, local option is one of the best," declared Mr. We now have 502 out of 835 municipalities without bars.

"The voting yesterday affords striking illustration of both the utility and insufficiency of local option as a weapon for fighting the evils of the iquor traffic. Its utility has been demonstrated by the large area of the province which has been brought under its operation, but its insufficiency has been shown by the practical impossibility of bringing it into force in the larger centres of popula-

ion. "The Liberals of Great Britain, continued Mr. Rowell, "recognize that in any effective program of social reform they must include dealing with the evils of the liquor traffic, and for many years they looked forward to the adoption of a local option law as the most feasible and effective method of curtailing these evils. But as the Rt. Hon. Herbert Samuel, in his book on 'Liberalism' has so well pointed out: "It has been more clearly recognized that local option might prove an ineffective weapon and be enforced least often in the localities where reform is needed most; for where the public houses have the greatest number of patrons there also they are likely to find at the poll the greatest number of defenders. The truth of this statement was most clearly demonstrated yesterday. In the 17 municipalities which carried local option, there were only 24 licenses; in the three-fifth requirement, there were

YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's ime. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out of took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair, and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant. For sale by W. T. Strong, London.

Thought She Would Go Mad WITH HEADACHE.

In all cases of headache the treatment should be directed to remove the cause, or with the cause removed the headache vanishes for all time. Headache powders just relieve for the time being, but what is necessary for a permanent cure is something that will go right to the seat of the trouble. For this purpose it is impossible to find a better remedy for headaches of all descriptions than on every organ of the body to strengthen, purify and regulate the whole system.

Mrs. Althea Bowman, Hamilton, Ont., writes:-"I have suffered terribly with my head for weeks at a time till I thought I would go mad. A friend advised me to give Burdock Blood Bitters a trial, so I got a bottle and found relief. I have used four bottles in all and I am glad to say that I have had no more headaches since. I would advise all sufferers to give it a fair trial."

The illness of Sir James Whitney has delayed the preparations for the session more than the ministers like, and the plain facts were faced at a session which extended antil late this afternoon. Unless the worst combination of circumstances possible happens the Legislature is to be called together about the second week in February. Although no definite date has been decided this is the For St. Thomas information The Morning Advertiser is able to gleen from a convergation

Will Not Lead House. It is admitted on all sides now that Sir James will not lead the House this session. Even if he desires to take the lead his physicians will set a stern face against the exertion that will be involved, and the Prime Minister will have to inveigh against newspaper reports and leave it to others to denounce those whom his wrath would impeach. Beyond this session is all conjecture, but there seems o be a deep-rooted leeling that Sir James will never be able to take the helm with his oldtime vigor, and the opinion is frankly expressed at Conservative headquarters here that he has met his last Legislature.

Foy Will Act. Hon. J. J. Foy, as the senior memper of the cabinet, will in all probability be called upon to assume the leadership for the timebeing. What the permanent choice will be remains entirely with the Lieutenant-Governor. Ontario's system differs somewhat from that of the Dominion and Great Britain. West Shore Promoter Severely Lectured.

RAILWAY BOARD HEARING Chairman Asks For Explicit Accounting.

[Canadian Press.] Toronto, Jan. 6.—Chairman McInvre, of the Ontario railway board, read J. W. Moyes a severe lecture be-fore the investigation into the affairs of the Ontario, West Shore Railway this afternoon.

"There is one thing I would like to say," remarked Mr. McIntyre. "It s unfair that the persons interested in this inquiry should have to grope in the dark for facts. As a result of the evidence so far some things are perfectly clear. One is that Mr. Moyes was undoubtedly the author of these two companies—the Ontario West Shore Railway Company and the Huron Construction Company. There have been no doubts as to that. Accounting Is Due.

"Large sums of money, for which the municipalities interested in the construction of this road are liable," he continued, "were paid over these two companies so controlled and fathered by Moyes. The municipalities that have guaranteed these bonds and have incurred this large pecun-iary liability are entitled to a fair able to glean from a conversation with several members of the cabinet Constructive Member Declares and candid and explicit accounting of these companies from he who represented these companies and controlled

"But the matter does not rest there. The disclosures show that some of these moneys found their way through Moyes to Moyes' private account. That raises, under the principle of moral law, an additional obligation upon Mr. Moyes that these moneys that so cating the removal of the countervail- reached his private account were proing duty on Canadian wheat entering perly diverted and applied to the trust for which they were intended when they came into his possession. Moyes' Obligation.

"These being undisputed facts there is a clear obligation upon Moyes to be active in showing that these moneys were honestly applied to the purpose for which they were granted. I don't think Moyes has shown the diligence be put on Mr. Simpson's motion, the and activity it is his clear duty to use to show that those moneys were honestly applied. I think Mr. Moyes should endeavor to satisfy this board and the public that these money were properly applied."

Some Interesting Exhibits. Some interesting information may be gleaned from the accounts which Wm. Proudfoot, on behalf of the municipalities through which the road runs, put in as exhibits when the inrestigation opened. Robert P. Little, an accountant of the Sterling Bank, was questioned regarding the accounts of J. W. Moyes, and the Huron Construction Company, of which Mr. Moyes was president, and which took a contract for the construction of the West Shore Railway. The documents show that a personal account was opened by Mr. Moyes in Toronto with a deposit of $4,587, and

Mr. Moyes' Trust Account.

On June 30, 1910, Mr. Moyes started trust account, with a debit of $14,-000. The security for this was $3,000 bonds in the West Shore Railway and 150 shares of common stock. There was $330.05 of the account unpaid, and there is still standing against this $3,000, or the price of the bonds.

Thomas E. McCracken, a student at aw, called as witness, said he was one of the original company, and knew nothing about the missing papers which have impeded the progress of the investigation.

"Did you subscribe for stock?" asked Mr. Proudfoot. Had One Share. "I can't recollect, but I suppose subscribed for the one share of stock to comply with the act." "Did you pay for it?" 'No. I did not."

"Did you ever expect to pay for it? "No. I didn't." Mr. Little was put in the box, and he accounts opened by Mr. Moyes and by the Huron Construction Company at Goderich and Toronto, were shown and put in as evidence.

young lady.
"Then there is such a thing?" asked a reporter.
"Yes; it's just the color, though, not the shape," she explained. "The nearest I can come to it is to call it a blend between orange and a green. And of course I can wear it. Surely they won't bar tango gowns just because of the name. There's bsolutely nothing harmful about the

The council hopes that something will be done toward securing hydro. The members have been trying to line up Parkhill, Ailsa Craig and Lucan in this matter, but so far little progress has been made. It is expected, however, that a conference will be arranged again shortly and some ac-

EGGS ARE BECOMING CHEAPER ON MARKET

Hay Offerings Very Small-Brisk Trade In Grain-The Quotations.

Although Wednesday is set aside as a hay market on the local square, there was a small offering today at $13 to $15. Previous to 10 o'clock in the morning, only one load had been offered, which brought $14.50 and was a slow sale. There is no appreciable reason for the slowness of the commodity, and it is expected that there will be a brisker demand tomorrow.

Eggs are somewhat easier on the square, the hen fruit selling for 38 to 40 cents per dozen. Although the supply was small this morning, prices will likely remain firm at the present price. With the milder weather and the fact that the hens are laying steadily once more, the high egg prices of the earlier winter are placed in the background. MAY SIT AS TWO

Mr. Llewellyn Meredith Should Have Retired and Sought Re-Election.

BUT MISTAKE OCCURRED

tion and Now Really Has Two Seats.

The peculiar conditions of affairs rising out of the discovery that Llewellyn Meredith should have sought reelection to the hospital trust at the municipal nominations last month instead of Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore still exists. It seems that the general impression was that Co. Gartshore's term was to expire at the end of 1913. no opposition, City Clerk Samuel Baker on Tuesday evening declared Co. Gart-shore duly elected. Another alternative is offered, viz., that Col. Gartshore resign the last half of graduate nurses working individually his unexpired term and commence on fail to get the highest benefits from his new term, thus making way for the appointment, either by the trust or by the city council, of the other member necesdumnae and kindred associations. The sary to give a full compliment. However some who are interested in the situation, argue that Col. Gartshore, to resign at all, must resign from the board, in which event he would be knocked out of both terms and the trust would be two nembers short.

City Solicitor T. G. Meredith has been asked by the city clerk for an opinion, and it will be ready in a day or two. Mr. Meredith recently expressed the idea that another election would not be necessary, but that the council or hospital trust would appoint the missing member.

Later it developed that Col. Gartshore had another year of his old term to serve, and that Mr. Meredith was the one whose term was to expire at the end of the year. Mr. Meredith quite overlooked the matter, it seems, and neither the hospital or civic authorities realized the true state of affairs until later.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT ALREADY IN WIRING

Inspector Pleased With Work So Far Accomplished to Safeguard Electric Service.

'You'd be surprised at the improvenents that have been made in electric viring already," said W. B. Legate, the city's new wiring inspector, who commenced his duties a few weeks ago, to The Advertiser today.

Inspector Legate is making a special effort to have all "dead" service wires Some manufacturing concerns that have changed from one kind of power to another, have left the original service wires up. These are to be re-moved, as they constitute a danger to firemen and also a greater fire risk. Concerns using several motors have sometimes two or three feed wires entering their buildings. Not more than one will city. be allowed in the future, according to the inspector, for the same reason as in the "dead" service wires.

It has been said that the wiring on the hydro street lights is far from perfect, but Inspector Legate said that he had no knowledge of this, nor would he likely examine the wiring, his work being confined to buildings.

Washington Professor Sees Great Hope for Feeble Minded Juvenile Delinquents.

Five classes of individuals who might be classified under the heading of feeble-minded were discussed in a most practical way yesterday afternoon by Professor Shepard Franz in a lecture delivered before the Women's Canadian Club in the Normal School. Professor Franz is the head of the science department of the George Washington Hospital for the Insane, Washington, D. C., and was eminently qualified to handle his sub-"The Feeble-Minded - What Shall We Do With Them?" He dealt only with plain truths and handled those from the shoulder. The first three classes Professor Franz grouped together. They were the idiot, whose mental condition was similar to that of an infant of two years and under; the imbecile, whose understanding was parallel to a child of from three to seven years, and the moron, whose mental age never ex-ceeded that of a child of twelve. These three unfortunate types of people, Professor Franz stated, were apt to be better provided for than those belonging to what scientists termed the "retarded" class, and the "delinquent" class. As a rule, they were segregated-kept in institutions maintained for that purpose. This Professor Franz believed to be the wisest course by far. Their condition he attributed to various causes: accident at birth, or shortly after, searlet fever, meningitis, or perhaps a lack of some of the organs of sense. S. Frank Glass, M. P., was re-elected As such individuals became older, it president and S. D. Dawson, secretary, was quite possible to help them to
