ITALIAN ENTRY INTO WAR GROWING MORE IMMINENT

JUSTICE DEPT. SAYS RILEY TO BE REARRESTED

MEN CAN WIN, BUT MUNITIONS NEEDED

His Release Subject of Inquiry in House of Commons Today.

HIS FREEDOM AN ERROR

Is Now in Fort Scott, Kan.—Rev. Bingham Says He'll Return to Jail.

[Canadian Press.] Ottawa, April 12.—The release of the prisoner, Thomas Riley, of Hamilton, from Kingston Penitentiary, was the subject of inquiry by Dr. J. W. Edwards in the House today. The Minister of Justice said steps had been taken to rearrest the man who got his freedom through error.

In Fort Scott Now. Springfield, Mo., April 12.—Thomas M. Riley, who went to Everton, Mo., following his release from Kingston Penitentiary, could not be reached at Everton today. The city marshal said that Riley returned to Everton to visit his mother, Mrs. Fannie Jones. He remained until last Sunday night, when he left for Fort Scott, Kansas, to join his wife and baby, who were visiting there.

Thinks It Legitimate. Surrounded by his old-time friends, wife and baby, Tom Riley, who was released from Kingston Penitentiary by mistake, is in Fort Scott, Kansas, and thinks that because he was a "model" prisoner up here in Canada, he was pardoned.

When he learns that it has all been a terrible mistake, and that he is still due for a dozen more long years in jail, will he willingly give himself up to the Canadian authorities, or will he lose himself, as no doubt he could easily do?

Rev. H. B. Bingham, who made Riley's close friend when he was in Kingston, believes that Riley will give himself up when he is officially notified by the Canadian officers that he is still "wanted."

Great Test of Faith. "It is certainly a great test of a man's faith, this question which Riley must face up to for the future. It is no doubt a test of strong arguments to his already doubtful mind, that he should remain free," said Mr. Bingham. "I do not think he will back out, but I am sure, of course, we don't know yet, just how much of the unseen hand has been working in Riley's case. Riley thinks he is reasonably well off, and it seems almost unbearably cruel to him, and to his relatives, to tell him that it was a mistake. If he had known that it would be, he would be an entirely different person."

Thinks He'll Come Back. "If it is left to Tom Riley's honor, I think he will come back and give himself up," Mr. Bingham declared, "and such a man," he continued, "would deserve to be pardoned then, surely. The man who has been in prison for so long, who would surely have public opinion on his side so strongly that the authorities would be hardy as to do anything to let him go. Riley is the kind of man, I believe, who would do just that."

Can't Bring Him Back. "I don't think it is possible to bring Riley back, although I have not investigated the matter," said Mr. Meredith, K. C., who was Riley's counsel when he was in this city at the assizes one year ago.

The difference of opinion which exists in legal circles as to whether or not Tom Riley can be extradited, is shown by the remarks of legal authority, who however, does not wish his name used in connection. "Riley is really an escaped prisoner. He did not escape voluntarily, but he is now living in that capacity, since he is not serving a sentence to which he was committed, and he has not been pardoned. He is free simply because a clerical error was made. There have been cases," the lawyer continued, "where escaped prisoners have been extradited and taken back to the country from which they fled, to serve their sentences."

Matter of Negotiation. "It is a matter of negotiation between the governments of the two countries. I believe Riley would be wise to give himself up. If it is found that he can be legally extradited, if he did this, I believe public opinion would be so strong in sympathy with such an honorable act, that Riley would probably be pardoned in a short time anyway."

THE MARY OF MARS

The German attack on the Russian forces in the north, near the Prussian frontier, was resumed yesterday, and another battle is in progress for possession of the important Russian fortress of Osowetz. The abandonment of the former siege of this fortress was interpreted in Petrograd as indicating that the Germans had given up their attempt to break through the Russian line of defenses and advance on Warsaw from the north, but it is now said semi-officially at the Russian capital that the invaders have brought up howitzers and began a new bombardment. One of the German siege batteries is said to have been damaged badly by the Russian guns.

Five independent Austrian armies are operating along the Carpathian front. Petrograd newspapers publish semi-official details concerning this campaign, to the effect that the vari-

Sir John French "Knows" That His Men Can Break Through Germans—Joffre Twisting Hard On Western Vise Gripping German Position.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser.] London, April 12.—Lord Durham, speaking last night, said that three weeks ago, when he was visiting British headquarters, Sir John French told him: "I know what our troops can do. I know individually our men are superior to the Germans. I know when the time comes for us to make our great move we can break through the Germans." and the British eyewitness statement of yesterday, that there are plain signs of the "gradual weakening of the German resistance," are accepted here as an intimation that the present steady pressure on the western front will shortly develop into events of vast scope. It is thus expected that the next three months will be especially memorable in this epoch-making war.

A Promising Opening. Military writers are of the opinion that the reported French successes between the Meuse and the Moselle, an important region stretching between the rival fortresses of Verdun and Metz, have given a promising opening for the spring campaign. They regard it as the signals for the general offensive movement which has been awaiting the arrival of adequate accumulations of men, equipment and supplies.

The suspension of infantry fighting in this all-important Verdun district has been quickly broken down, as was expected, by the gallant German attempt to recapture the position at Les Eparges, possession of which enabled Gen. Joffre to give another twist to the screw of the vise wherewith he hopes to grip the German position at St. Mihiel, that bastion-like projection into the French line which the invaders have held tenaciously for so many months.

The Russian offensive in the Carpathians continues to meet a strenuous defence on the part of the combined Teutonic armies, and although it appears to be slowly winning its way forward toward the plains of Hungary, it has encountered enormous difficulties. The Austrians have been preparing their defensive positions throughout the period which has intervened since the

7TH C.M.R. AGAIN HONORED BY MILITIA DEPARTMENT

Lt.-Col. Leonard Receives Word That Divisional Cavalry Squadron Is To Proceed Overseas With Second Contingent.

Orders have been received from militia headquarters by Lieut.-Col. Leonard, commanding officer of the 7th Canadian Mounted Rifles, that the squadron of divisional cavalry for the 2nd Canadian Overseas Division is to be taken from the unit under his command. As a result, the two squadrons of the 7th C.M.R. now in training at Queen's Park will be reorganized, one squadron proceeding overseas with the second contingent as Divisional Cavalry, the other remaining here. The disposition is received from Ottawa, which it is expected will arrive at an early date. The commanding officer and officers of the regiment feel very much pleased and honored that the divisional cavalry for the second division should be selected from the 7th C.M.R. C. E. Bennett, Lt.-Col. Leonard, and the divisional cavalry which has proceeded to France, so far as present reports show, is the Divisional Cavalry for the 2nd Canadian Overseas Division, commanded by Lieut.-Col. Jamieson, of Edmonton. Col. Leonard has selected the following officers, non-commissioned officers

VILLA, WITH ONE GUN, BESIEGES MATAMOROS

[Canadian Press.] Brownsville, Tex., April 12.—The bombardment of the Matamoros trenches by the Villa army besieging Matamoros, Texas, today continued. Several shells exploded in the air above Matamoros. Only one cannon appeared to be in action. The Villa gunners got the range after a few minutes and dropped two shots within a few yards of the trenches on the west side of Matamoros. They kicked up some dirt, but did no other apparent damage. Before the range was obtained four shells burst over Matamoros, one of them above the French theatre near the American consulate.

KRONPRINZ ASKS TIME FOR REPAIRS

[Canadian Press.] Washington, April 12.—The German Embassy today transmitted to the state department a formal request of Capt. Thierfelder of the auxiliary cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm for permission to have his vessel examined to see what repairs were necessary to render her seaworthy and also for permission to have those repairs made.

FIRE DRILL SAVES PATIENTS IN BLAZE

[Canadian Press.] Chicago, April 12.—Two hundred convalescent patients of the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane were rescued today from a fire which destroyed a frame structure used as an annex to the institution at Dunning, northwest of the city. Warned by previous blazes in the building, the hospital authorities had prepared a fire drill, which worked without a hitch. Some 2,800 other inmates of the institution were guarded to prevent panic or undue excitement in the main building a few hundred feet away. The loss was estimated at $150,000.

The Italian military authorities have ordered army officers to dull the metal on their uniforms and sabres. This is described as a measure usually adopted on the eve of war.

"THE" TOM RILEY WHO WAS PARDONED

This man lives in Hamilton, and had served two years of a seven-years' sentence for murder. His health failing, he was pardoned. Another man of the same name was dismissed in error. He was Tom M. Riley, sentenced here.

ANOTHER TRENCH TAKEN BY FRENCH

Few Artillery Duels Fought Between the Sea and River Aisne.

GERMAN REPORT DIFFERS TELLS OF ALLIES' GREAT ACTIVITY IN FOUR DIFFERENT DISTRICTS.

[Canadian Press.] Paris, April 12.—Via London, 1:30 p.m.—The French war department's official statement given out this afternoon says: "Between the sea and the Aisne there is nothing to report except a few artillery duels. To the east of Berry-au-Bas we gained the possession of a German trench. In the Argonne there were minor operations, engagements of both arms and grenade throwing between our own and the enemy's trenches. Between the Meuse and the Moselle our forces succeeded at several times in coming in contact with the wire entanglements of the enemy's defence."

GERMAN VERSION. Berlin, April 12.—(By wireless to Saville)—The German war office has given out a report on the progress of hostilities in April 12, which reads as follows:

"The French yesterday attacked near Berry-au-Bas and between the Meuse and the Moselle near Marchoville, which is east of Verdun; near Marchoville, which is southeast of Malancourt; on the north of the Meuse, near Marcheville and south of Hartmannsweilerkopf. Everywhere they were repulsed.

"The French are reported to have thrown 150 bombs upon the station and the foundry at Bruges, according to their own announcement. In the suburbs of Bruges, and two near Bruges itself without doing any damage.

ALL THROWING BOMBS. German troops have thrown large quantities of bombs into Poperinghe, Pozobrouk and Kassel trenches.

"At a point northeast of Stulpes the enemy again has made use of projectiles developing an asphyxiating gas.

"There has been fighting day and night in the forest of Le Pretre, in which the Germans slowly gained ground.

"There has been no change on the eastern front."

HAGUE CONVENTION AGAIN VIOLATED

Germans Using Torpedoes Which Do Not Sink, Says French Report.

[Canadian Press.] Paris, April 12.—A communication given out today by the French ministry of marine declares that the Germans again have violated the Hague convention in their sea warfare.

Article I of the eighth Hague convention provides that torpedoes carry an automatic attachment which will cause them to sink if they do not explode, and this clause is a menace to navigation. German torpedoes recently discovered in the English Channel, the announcement declares, although unexploded, were still floating. An examination of them showed that the submarine appliance had been tightly caulked, permitting them to float on the surface of the water.

This made them into floating mines. The United States may or may not care to raise such an issue. The declaration that point must be made by President Wilson himself.

Reply To Be Drafted. Certainly many high officials of the administration consider that it is incumbent upon the United States to re-

18th Battalion Worships God

The 18th Battalion, as a body, attended a special communion service and service of praise at St. Paul's Cathedral this morning conducted by the rector, Rev. Canon Tucker. It was a most impressive sight to see a thousand or more heads and khaki-clad shoulders bowed during the rather lengthy prayer service, and, perhaps, even more impressive to see more than two hundred communicant soldiers, officers and men, each reverently up to the altar, where they partook of the bread and wine.

The men made a splendid showing as they paraded from the park to the church and back again, and their progress was watched by thousands of citizens who lined the streets. The crowds did not cheer except occasionally, but their comments as the soldiers marched by in perfect step and alignment showed their appreciation of the fact that these are the men who are sacrificing everything that those who stay behind may continue to enjoy the liberty and privileges for which the flag of Britain always has stood.

Saturday afternoon and Monday morning a regular snowstorm of contest voting ballots and subscriptions coupons descended upon The Advertiser office, leaving the members of the staff appointed to count the returns much in the position of the famous "Babes in the Woods" of childhood lore. On a large table in front of them were piled high the bundles of coupons in orderly sections, continually disturbed by new arrivals, candidates who had been putting forth every effort since the first announcement of the contest. There were others who came for the time being, and still more who were only becoming lately enthused and preparing to astonish their friends by the time the standing is again announced some days hence. The anxiety that had been shown by any the first few days after entering had now disappeared.

GERMANY MISTOOK NATURE OF FRENCH Expected To Meet Frivolous Nation, But Met Iron Will.

Guert, France, April 12.—"Germany, ignorant of the soul of France, now is being punished for her mistake," was the declaration made by Premier Viviani at the opening yesterday of the departmental council of Creuse. "She thought to find," he continued, "a divided, frivolous nation, but she met an iron will, against whose heroic resistance the flower of her army was broken. Then behind the iron will, simple, unbreakable, toward the western front, crushing little by little the army whose chiefs were not prepared for so long and bitter a struggle."

VON BERNSTORFF'S RECALL MAY BE DEMANDED OR HIS PASSPORTS HANDED TO HIM

[Canadian Press.] New York, April 12.—A Washington dispatch to the Herald says: "The activities of the German embassy have become the absorbing topic of thought with officials here, engaging the attention of the departments of state, treasury and justice."

While the action to be taken by the United States with regard to the memorandum of the German ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, charging the United States with the violation of the Hague convention, has not yet been determined, there is a strong indication that the action being given to the general activities of the German embassy will uncover facts which either will enable the United States to demand the recall of the ambassador or to stop the campaign which he is waging to influence political thought in this country.

SENATE SPEAKER IS STILL MISSING

Two Senators Reported For Absence Without Any Reason Being Given.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, April 12.—The trouble is still on in the Senate, for Acting Speaker Borden took the chair again this morning. A report by the committee on orders and customs was presented by Senator Power. It stated that Senator James E. Robertson, of Prince Edward Island, and Senator W. J. Macdonald, of British Columbia, had not been in attendance during the two past consecutive sessions, and had failed to furnish any reason why their seats should not be declared vacant.

NEUVE CHAPELLE LOSS NOW TOTALS 7,835

[Canadian Press.] London, April 12.—4:30 p.m.—The casualty list issued today, of further losses in the fighting last month at Neuve Chapelle is much smaller than those given out previously. It totals 385 men, of whom 110 were killed and the remainder wounded.

This is the seventh list of losses given out by the British authorities on the Neuve Chapelle battle, and it brings the total of killed and wounded up to 7,835 men, of whom 2,422 were killed.

M. C. R. TOLD TO LEAVE CITY'S LINE TO LAKE

Said To Have Been Notified To Vacate by July 1—City May Lose Services of the Road, Say Railwaymen.

It was stated today on good authority, though official confirmation could not be secured, that the Michigan Central Railway has been notified to vacate the London and Port Stanley Railroad by July 1.

In railroad circles it was said the meaning of this order was that the Michigan Central would be "kicked out of London." It appears the company has refused to come to the terms demanded by Sir Adam Beck in regard to using the electrified line, and that, as a counter-stroke, Sir Adam has notified them to discontinue the use of the line.

It was also stated that the head of the Michigan Central was obdurate in his stand, and that he would not permit his line to be forced into using the L. & F. S. R. unless satisfactory terms were made. During the electrification contest, Mr. Ledyard, chairman of the M. C. R. board of directors, wrote to the late Col. J. W. Little, stating that, in his opinion, it would not be practicable for the M. C. R. to use the line if electrified. Sir Adam Beck said that the road would be forced to come in.

It appears that the M. C. R. has said that it must operate its own trains and have a certain amount of business guaranteed, and that the Port Stanley board has refused to agree to its request. The board is anxious to haul all the business itself.

The report was adopted. Senator Borden called the attention of the Senate to the fact that the acting speaker, who presided, wore no robes of office. He also called attention to the fact that the noonday gun, which was fired as he was speaking, was five minutes late, and suggested that the Government should look after the affairs of the country better than it was doing.

EX-PREMIER OF ITALY DECLARES WAR INEVITABLE

Giolitti Certain, Although He Has Been Strongly Against Participation.

NO ALTERNATIVE IS LEFT

Corriere Della Sera Says the Hour of Decision Is At Hand.

[Canadian Press.] London, April 12.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Milan telegraphs: "Signor Giolitti, formerly premier, who has been against Italy's participation in the war, on his arrival in Turin met some intimate friends with the remark, 'War is inevitable.'"

"Today the Corriere Della Sera publishes articles stating that the hour of Italy's supreme decision approaches, but that there is no alternative to war. I learn that provision has been made for lodging the general staff in a certain town at the commencement of war."

HASTY PREPARATIONS.

[Canadian Press.] Rome, April 12.—9:15 p.m., via Paris, April 12.—An order has been issued by the Military Journal directing all army officers to dull the metal on their uniforms and the scabbards of their swords. This is a measure which is usually adopted on the eve of war.

After receiving a warning from the minister of war that in case of mobilization the army would be called to the colors, it also was decided that as far as possible street cars and other public utilities would be operated by women as far as possible, provided mobilization resulted in a shortage of male employees.

WILD RUMORS.

[Canadian Press.] Rome, April 12.—Via Paris, April 12.—A long audience granted by King Victor Emmanuel to Foreign Minister Sonnino this afternoon, followed by a session of the council of ministers, resulted in the circulation of many wild rumors regarding a decision as to Italy's attitude concerning the war. A semi-official source was quoted as having, however, denying that any such action had been taken.

Even while the council of ministers was in session, it was reported that a most momentous decision was imminent. The assertion was made by persons who professed to be well informed that Italy had decided to throw its weight with the Allies and invade Austria. Another rumor was that Prince Von Buelow, the German ambassador, had induced Austria to enter the war, and that the audience between the King and Baron Sonnino, followed by the meeting of ministers, was to result in a decision to enter the war.

The statement denying these reports declared that Baron Sonnino was received by the King to make reports on the international situation, while a session of the council of ministers had been necessary, following the Easter vacation.

TENSION INCREASING.

[Canadian Press.] Geneva, Switzerland, April 12.—Via Paris, 2 a.m.—German frontier officials still are detaining all the freight cars belonging to Italian lines whose shipment has been stopped here from Germany and Italian frontier towns say that the tension between the two countries is increasing.

Britain Protests Villa Regulations

Foreign Office Hears Mining Laws Really Amount to Confiscation.

[Canadian Press.] London, April 12.—2:15 p.m.—The foreign office has instructed the British charge d'affaires at Mexico City to lodge a protest with General Villa against the new mining regulations promulgated by the Villa regime. The foreign office took this action upon the receipt of advice from the charge, to the effect that the mining regulations in question, amounted virtually to confiscation of foreign mining interests.

GERMANS IN ROME DENY PEACE IDEA

Say Germany Is Well Supplied With Food and Munitions.

[Canadian Press.] Rome, April 12.—(Special.)—The highest German sources in this city to the effect that there is absolutely no basis for the report that peace negotiations under certain conditions are being considered in Berlin. These reports, it is said, are based on ignorance of actual conditions in the German empire.

The assertion is made that both Germany and Austria, particularly the former, have within their borders supplies of everything necessary to prolong the war indefinitely. Well-informed Germans in Rome declare the determination of the central empires to carry the conflict to the end will become apparent soon, when the campaign is resumed with fresh vigor on both fronts, according to plans mapped out by the general staff during the winter.

The same sources of information are authority for the statement that not only can Germany provide enough food to supply her people, but that she has on hand a plentiful store of supplies for manufacturing arms and ammunition.

POTATOES SEEM SCARCE. [Canadian Press.] Berlin, via London, April 12.—Regulations have been adopted by the federal council, which are designed to insure a supply of potatoes for the spring and summer. An imperial committee, under the control of the chancellor, has been appointed to conserve the supply, and see that it is equalized in various parts of the empire. Owing to storage and other difficulties potatoes will not be scarce, but arrangements will be made with owners to hold specified quantities for specified periods.

Farmers and others having a considerable supply on hand have been permitted to charge a stipulated sum for storage. Charges for potatoes obtained by municipalities for their needy citizens will be paid from the imperial treasury.

PRIZE COURT DENIES IMMEDIATE HEARING

American Ships, Held Since November, Must Wait Longer.

[Canadian Press.] London, April 12.—Sitting in the prize court today, Sir Samuel T. Evans, judge of the court, denied immediate trial to the Norwegian steamers Friedland, Kim, Alfred and Bjornstjerne, and fixed the hearing of these cases for June 7.

The court was crowded with attorneys representing the shipowners and American firms having goods on board these vessels, which have been held since November last. American packers had nearly $3,000,000 worth of provisions upon these vessels. The lawyers pleaded for an immediate trial, arguing that the shipowners would be bankrupted by the continued delay, but the court acted on the plea of the crown counsel for further time to investigate.

IT ALL CAME FROM STRAIN AND COLD

But G. K. MacDonald Found Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Nova Scotia Man After Fifteen Years' Suffering Found a Cure Through Reading an Advertisement.

Harrington Cove, Halifax County, N. S., April 12.—(Special.)—After suffering for fifteen years from lame back, kidney trouble, Mr. George K. MacDonald, a well-known resident of this place, is telling his neighbors of the great benefit he has received from using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My trouble started from a strain and a cold," Mr. MacDonald states. "I was troubled with a lame back, kidney trouble, and the muscles. My sleep was broken and unrefreshing, my limbs were heavy and I had a dragging sensation across the loins.

"My back ached and I suffered from rheumatism, when reading an advertisement led me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I am only too pleased to say that the treatment was successful. Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me a great deal of good."

Mr. MacDonald's symptoms show that he was troubled with kidney disease. That's why Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him.

BRITAIN REMAINS FINANCIAL CENTRE

Money Cheap and Plentiful, Owing To Government's Strict Rules.

WILL RETAIN SUPREMACY

Position, Based On Shipping and Trade, Unshaken By War.

London, April 12.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Money remains cheap and plentiful. The Government apparently intends to maintain this condition, even at the risk of seeing New York scoop up, as a result of the strict regulations imposed, some of the outside financing heretofore done through London.

The Government control over capital issues, undertaken to protect its supply of funds and to conserve the private supply against avoidable drain, is far-reaching. Under this scheme, ordinary financing must pass a kind of censorship. Private capital may not be furnished for British enterprises unless it can be shown to the satisfaction of the treasury that they are "advisable in the national interest." In the British Empire overseas the rule is somewhat more rigid; there must be "special circumstances and urgent necessity." Outside of the Empire there is absolute prohibition, the treasury reserving the power, however, to authorize issues of capital.

Will Retain Supremacy. There is some difference of opinion among financial men as to what the future effect of these artificial barriers will be upon British control of world financing. The opinion is expressed invariably, however, that Britain's supremacy as the financial centre of the world has not been shaken. It is pointed out that British shipping and trade are the foundation upon which this supremacy rests, to which must be added the influence of fixed habit. Inasmuch as Britain's control of shipping is as secure as ever and her commerce and industry have not been organically injured as yet, it is felt that the world habit of clearing everything through London will persist.

Owing to the regulations imposed by the Government, the effect of the issue of war loans on the usual issue of capital will be somewhat measured. The ease with which the last loan of a billion and three quarters of dollars was floated gave some indication of the financial resources of this country and their ease of mobilization.

Estimation Excellent. The effect on permanent interest rates which will be exerted by the war is a subject of much conjecture, although financial observers point out that the effect of economic authority makes futile any estimate.

Sentiment on the stock exchange is hesitant. The preference is for short term investments. From what can be learned by general inquiry, the belief is almost universal that should the war end within a year, and to the advantage of Great Britain, the economic and financial damage inflicted on this country by war expenses must be reckoned Britain's great surplus income from trade will continue to spite of the war, though in diminished volume.

Czar Decorates French Soldiers

Officers, Non-Coms, and Men Given Orders for Their Bravery.

[Canadian Press.] Paris, April 12.—Decorations have been conferred by the Emperor of Russia upon 61 French officers, 500 non-commissioned officers and 700 soldiers, all of whom have distinguished themselves in various ways since the war began. The officers were given the order of St. Vladimir, St. Anne and St. Stanislaus, the non-commissioned officers the cross of St. George, and the men the medal of St. George. The Gazette containing the announcement is one of the largest on record, consisting of 47 large pages.

MAN FOUND ASLEEP BESIDE DEAD WOMAN

Mysterious Death Puzzling Police of Montreal—Man Won't Explain.

[Canadian Press.] Montreal, April 12.—The police here are puzzled over the death of an elderly woman, whose body was found behind a fence in a vacant lot on St. Catharines street east this morning. An intoxicated man was found asleep near the body.

The woman's body was clothed in two overcoats and four skirts, while brown paper was wrapped outside. In a pocket was a twenty-dollar gold piece, two $2 bills and a watch. A wedding ring was on the hand.

When interrogated by the police after being found, the man refused to give his name, and explained his presence near the body by saying: "I was there because I wanted to be there."

WILHELMINA CASE AGAIN ADJOURNED

[Canadian Press.] London, April 13.—When the case of the American steamship Wilhelmina, at present detained at Falmouth, came up before the British prize court today the hearing was again adjourned on application of the Government counsel in order to permit of further negotiations. Counsel for the crown again expressed the hope that a settlement of this case soon would be reached.

BODY IS RECOVERED AFTER SIX MONTHS

Robert Davis Was Drowned at Sarnia, Trying To Board Tug.

[Special to The Advertiser.] SARNIA, April 12.—The body of Robert Davis, who was drowned last October while trying to board the tug "Sport" at Port Huron, was found floating at the mouth of Black River this noon. The remains were badly decomposed. So far as is known, no relatives of the dead man reside in this city.

An effort will be made to locate relatives.

The victim of the drowning accident was identified by marine papers found in his coat pocket. No one saw him fall into the river. The fact that the body was found but a short distance away from where the accident occurred leads officials to believe that it had become caught on some object on the river bottom.

MOTHER FINDS SON LYING IN MORGUE

Finding of Floating Body Unveils Pathetic Story in Chatham.

CHATHAM, April 12.—The body of a man found floating in the river on Saturday has been identified as that of Richard D. Simmons, who has been missing from his home since last December. Simmons formerly worked in Brantford.

His father in this city wrote to him last fall offering to get him a position here. When he arrived the post office had been filled. Simmons tried ineffectually to secure work for some time, and finally he went to his mother, who was ill at the time, and told her that he intended to drown himself if he didn't secure work.

Shortly afterwards he disappeared. His mother has identified the body.

GODERICH TOWNSHIP LOSES WEALTHY FARMER

CLINTON, April 12.—By the death of John Middleton, who occurred at his home this morning, Goderich Township loses one of its oldest sons.

Mr. Middleton was in his 72nd year, and had been a life-long resident of the township, having been born on the old homestead, which passed into his hands at the death of his father, who was one of the first settlers in this district.

He was an extensive farmer, having acres of land in Goderich Township, and over one thousand acres in Manitoba and the Northwest.

He was acting as license commissioner for South Huron during the past year, and held the position of township reeve for several terms and formerly as councillor.

He was a great horse man, and had already settled two of his sons on farms of their own. The English Church near his home was established by the help of his family, and he had always taken a deep interest in the work of this church.

While not in the best of health for one year, it was only three weeks ago that he was compelled to desist from

of their several travellers. Tomorrow there will be opportunities of picking up some of these special purchases of new and staple goods at attractively low prices. Shop early if possible.

BASEMENT.

This School Girl Had Bad Fainting Spells

Was Weak and Run-Down, But Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Made Complete Cure.

Life comes during the school age, when she is impelled by rivalry to put forth her best efforts in studying for examinations. At the time she should have healthful outdoor exercise and abundance of fresh air to keep the blood pure and rich, she is confined to her studies. Is it any wonder that she becomes run down in health and suffers from headaches, indigestion, loss of appetite and spells of weakness or fainting?

The case described in this letter is a good illustration, and you can read here the splendid results of using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to help through this critical period.

Mrs. H. Houston, Highland Grove, Ont., writes: "While attending school my daughter became weak and very much run down. She was frequently troubled with bad fainting spells, and nothing we tried seemed to do her any good. We had always taken a deep interest in the work of this church."

While not in the best of health for one year, it was only three weeks ago that he was compelled to desist from

Agnes, at home; also Charles, John and Fred, who were associated with their father in managing the farms. Mrs. S. A. Jewett, of Bayfield, is the only sister living. He will be buried at Bayfield Cemetery on Thursday.

The reason Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so effective in cases of this kind is because of its extraordinary blood-forming influence. By creating an abundance of rich, red blood it strengthens the action of the heart, revitalizes the exhausted nerves and builds up the system in every way.

The appetite is restored, digestion improves, you rest and sleep well and the new vigor and energy is felt in every organ of the human body. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is doing wonders for men, women and children whose systems have become weak and run down. 50 cents a box, $ for $2.50. Dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

LONDON, TUESDAY, APRIL 13.

GET AFTER THE TOURISTS.

THIS summer the tourist business of Europe will be dead, only a venturesome few will go abroad, even should the war end within the next few weeks. But our American cousins have got to have their summer outing, war or no war, and here is an opportunity for Canada to make some hay while the sun shines. It is said that annually the American tourist leaves close to $100,000,000 in the British Isles and on the continent. This year he will spend a slice of this in sight-seeing and recreation in Canada and the United States. And when it comes to a question of playgrounds and hot weather resorts we have the advantage of our neighbors. Over there they are getting crowded. The Adirondacks and the Catskills have become largely the private parks of a few millionaires, but for the millions of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois, Canada places right at their doors a vast field for recreation in lake, river, seashore and forest. For fishermen and hunter there is nothing to beat Northern Ontario or Quebec, Labrador or New Brunswick, and for those who do not care to rough it there are the palatial steamers and hotels of the St. Lawrence, the Great Lakes and Muskoka, where one's outing may be taken in luxury. Farther afield, for those with the longer purse, are the majestic Rockies and the game-teeming prairies of Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

But it is not only the American that should be invited and encouraged to try this vast and finest of playgrounds. Many Canadians are unaware of the fact that Canada has the finest fishing, hunting, yachting, touring domain in the world. This province especially is so situated as to get some of this tourist and vacation money that under normal conditions would go abroad. As a recreation ground Ontario has been for years a favorite with tens of thousands of Americans, but with early and widespread advertising by the Government and the steamship and railway companies, there is no reason why we should not this summer have visitors by the hundred thousands. And they will come here, they will come back, your ancient castle or famous art collections seldom lure the average man to a second visit, but the mysterious heart of the ancient woods of Ontario, and the exhilarating tang of her lake breezes, will draw a man back year after year.

WOMEN FOR PEACE.

NEW YORK reports a few days ago told us that a certain Mrs. Schwimmer was leaving that city with a delegation to a Peace Conference to be held at The Hague, the object being to protest against the continuance of the war. This lady with a German name has been speaking in ninety cities in the United States, she says; and expects to talk in many towns in Sweden and Norway before the Conference opens. On similar lines there have been conferences of women in the States since the war began; and we believe even delegations of them asking the President to take some action.

It is quite probable that many of the rank and file connected with this movement are actuated by the best of motives; but it may also be presumed that some of the leaders are more anxious to get into the lime-light than to exercise concern about the war. Whatever their motives, however, they must have an exalted opinion of their own persuasive powers if they suppose that anything they can say or do will have the slightest effect in bringing peace. Nor, if their desire was to show woman's abhorrence of war, was it necessary for them to make any talk about it. There are some millions of women in Europe today who are more anxious for peace than these ladies in the United States and other neutral countries, who are making speeches on the subject. They know what war means. Their husbands and sons and brothers are in the fighting rank. They have men near and dear to them who are in the battle field; or lying sick or wounded in hospitals; or languishing in prison; or whose bones are mauling under alien skies.

These are the women who are really longing for the day of peace to dawn. But they are not making speeches about it; or passing futile resolutions. They are bearing in silence with unexampled courage the burdens, which war has laid upon them; burdens in comparison with which wounds, or even death, on the battle field are not to be mentioned.

But while the women of combatant countries are more anxious for peace than any women can be, we doubt if many of them are anxious for "peace at any price." The outraged women of outraged Belgium do not want peace under the iron heel of the barbarous Hun. The women of France do not want a peace that shall rob their country of land and money, and sink it deep down in the scale of nationhood. The women of the wide-spread British Empire want peace; but it must be "peace with honor." Even the women of many who hope for peace hope for it only as the result of Germany's success. To talk about peace to the women, whose men are fighting in what they consider a righteous cause is to talk nonsense to ears that will not listen.

If the good ladies of neutral countries have any other than an academic interest in this war, they will find abundant room for their sympathies in the sufferings of their own sex in Europe; abundant scope for their energies in trying to relieve the distress that war entails on their sisters across the sea. They can render greater service to humanity than in holding conventions, passing resolutions, or interviewing diplomats. There is knitting to be done; and sewing to be done; and money to be raised; and needed help to be sent to those in need. They can find plenty of work for willing hands. If their hearts are willing their hands should work.

THE LETTER "M" DID IT.

SOMEbody blundered. There were two Thomas Rileys in Kingston Penitentiary for taking human life. One of them was Thomas M. Riley, formerly of Everton, Missouri, who shot and killed George Blackburn, a London bartender, last winter. He was serving the first year of a fifteen-year sentence. The other man was Thomas Riley, of Hamilton, who killed his wife and had served a number of years in the penitentiary. Owing to representations made in his behalf, the Minister of Justice signed what he believed to be a parole for the Hamilton Riley. But the letter "M" slipped into the paper and when it was delivered it opened the doors of Kingston to a man who must have thought an angel of deliverance followed on his footsteps. Perhaps it was because he was from Missouri and that letter "M" acted as the talisman.

At any rate this blunder was the "open sesame" to the London man and the Canadian form of punitive justice is made a laughing stock. It is difficult to believe that Riley, of Missouri, will ever come back or that the law can bring him back. It is a tragedy of coincidence for which no one can seriously hold the Minister of Justice responsible; the wheels of justice are liable to slip a cog just as all other wheels slip.

This accidental benevolence, let it be hoped, will have the effect of making the man of Thomas M. Riley he professes he wants to become. There is slight possibility that he will offer to serve out his term, though a man who makes the professions he has made might well allow the department to correct the error of his expense.

A DIFFERENCE.

DURING the South African War the Government of that time had occasion to buy horses and supplies. The advertiser submits it is a fair statement to say that no act of corruption was brought to light in connection with the purchase of horses or supplies. The Liberal Government, whatever may have been its faults, did not have among its leaders men base enough to profit from the extremity of the country.

Horses were bought at a fair price, and were of first class stock. The British army officers were never accused of permitting graft in horse buying, nor were those who bought for the Canadian Government. The Government selected for its troops boots that carried them through South Africa with a record for ability to move quickly. The Canadian boot of that time became a standard boot for the British army to a certain extent.

The advertiser does not contend that the Conservative Government is a dishonest Government, nor that Sir Robert Borden would permit one dollar of graft to be paid if he could prevent it. But the Liberal Government was a stronger government. It was not open to assaults by the army grafter. Of course there were far fewer contracts and horses, but the best was demanded and the best secured.

WHY NOT?
WHY SHOULD NOT the German prisoners confined in Great Britain be distributed upon the merchant and passenger ships leaving British ports? Would not this be a deterrent to the German submarines' piratical activity? In a short time all vessels going to and from Great Britain could be supplied with a good number of such hostages, who though not pleasant company, would nevertheless be some safeguard perhaps and interesting samples, on view in cages, of the famous Kultur breed.

Such a policy would not be of the same order as the German practice in Belgium of using civilians as screens. That was unlawfully and cruelly done against legitimate fire, but there is nothing legitimate about the submarine raid. There is also a further, though minor difference, in that the Germans used even women and children in their infamous cowardice.

It is said that the Germans intend to use their prisoners to sow and reap their crops. Commerce is the great harvest of the British, and they might similarly use their prisoners to assist in bringing in the ships to harbor safe and sound, in the manner suggested above.

TERMS OF PEACE.

GERMANY'S terms of peace as unofficially published the other day include the stipulation that no German territory, continental or colonial, shall be sacrificed. It is very likely that the Allies may consent to leave Germany proper intact. But there are several territories embraced within the German and Austrian empires that are not German, and to which those empires have no just claim. It may be that the Allies will decide to redistribute these territories according to the wishes of their inhabitants.

Posen and Galicia will be assigned to Poland, Italy will doubtless grab of the Italian provinces of Austria north of the Adriatic and the Alps, Alsace-

Lorraine will declare for France, and Schleswig will be lopped off in the north and reclaimed by Denmark. Serbia and Montenegro will certainly receive the reward of their wonderful heroism in the Serbo-Croatian lands of Austria and Hungary, and very probably the dual empire will be dissolved into (1) German Austria, (2) Hungary, (3) Bohemia and Moravia (with Silesia?). Belgium ought, if possible, to have a correction of her frontiers to make them more easily defensible against a German attack, and to receive an indemnity sufficient not only to cover material losses, but to finance a modern system of defenses, in case no plan of general disarmament is found feasible. Nothing German may be taken from Germany, but her swollen head will be reduced and her stolen goods returned to the owners.

ITALY WELL PREPARED.

IN RESPECT to both numbers and equipment, Italy is well prepared. Besides an army of nearly six hundred thousand men thoroughly trained, there are three million reserves, all men of a good fighting age, with at least a two years' military training to their credit. The Italian in all gets nineteen years of training for war. First of all he is given two years of training, and then a respite of six years, when he is once more called into the service, this time with the mobile militia. From there he serves his time in the territorial reserves.

Besides these, Italy has a regular army, which consists of carefully-selected men, with two years' training. In this way Italy has as the backbone of her armies men not only well drilled, but possessed of all the soldierly qualities, as none but the very best are chosen, physically, mentally and morally.

Italy has specialized in the cavalry and artillery branches, and in the first named is said to lead all the armies of Europe. Their cavalrymen are fearless riders, superbly mounted, and from the nature of their training equally effective on mountain or plain. The most modern magazine rifles are used in all branches of the service, and the artillery equipment is modelled along the lines of the French, admittedly the best in the world.

With a small but powerful navy, a large aeroplane fleet, which includes a score of dirigibles, and an army drilled right up to the minute, Italy will be able to give a good account of herself.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It will probably rile the justice department to find that it has released the wrong Riley.

A headline says: "Canadian Bayonet Lacks the Reach." But there are Canadians who had it.

It will be impossible to convince the German naval authorities that Uncle Sam isn't the soft, old thing.

Wireless from the captain of the Elito to the captain of the Kron Prinz Wilhelm: "Come on in, the interners' fine."

Germany will not attack Holland, as it would open a new door of invasion, and just now she is unable to keep the other doors shut.

The American protest over the British blockade says that it cannot believe Great Britain will do wrong because Germany does. Rather a neat, back-handed slap at the "paper blockade", that.

"Bob" Rogers says he hears the country's insistent clamor for an election. That noise belongs in the same category as the great naval fights that used to take place off the coast of Maine in the early part of the war.

One may have a photograph record made with anything on it one wants, and he may play the thing over and over again. Bob Rogers evidently has had one run off, trained to cry out "We want an election!"

April—the most fickle and capricious month of the year; coy, demure, lovable, in turn—like a spoiled child shedding tears one minute, laughing fully the next, and smiling with wondrous transient sunshine. Coaxing buds and blossoms with warm rain, whisking the ugliness of winter away with a smile, laughing buds into birth, and luring us out with roguish guile, only to drench us with sudden shower. Bewitching as youth, lovable as a mischievous child, lovable as a winsome Irish colleen, all tears and laughter. Yet, with all her faults, we adore her and how our spirits rise in answer to her. April is the house-cleaning season of the year, washing the whole world from top to toe and ornamenting it anew with gay trimmings.

KNOCKS THE SCHOOLS.
[Buffalo Courier.]

The self-made man was in a caustic mood. "These schools, ye know," he said, "they're no good. Don't give a boy no practical knowledge; see what I mean? Now, my son, he's supposed to be learning Greek, an' Latin, an' algebra. An' the other day I asked him to tell me algebra for fried potatoes, an' he couldn't."

ONE ON THE MINISTER.
[Exchange.]

A well-known preacher was making a pedestrian excursion in a wild rural district. Feeling rather hungry, he looked at his watch to see if it was nearly dinner time, but found the watch was stopped. Just then, happening to meet with a country boy, he asked him:

"What time is it, my boy?"

"Just 12 sir,"

"Only 12?" said the minister. "I thought it was more."

"It never is more round these parts," said the boy, simply. "It begins again at 1."

A WIFE'S WORTH.
[London Sphere.]

Wife—"You used to say I was worth my weight in gold."

Hubby—"Yes; but since you gained the last fifty pounds, things have changed."

OUR POETS OF WESTERN ONTARIO

What We Can Do For Canada.

What can we do for Canada,
Where our forefathers came
To clear and till the virgin soil
And humble cabins frame—
Where they in peace might worship God,
And His protection claim?
This we can do for Canada:
Uphold our fathers' fame.

What can we do for Canada?
First, we must true remain
Unto the flag that rules the seas
And burns aloft again—
Defending sacred Rights' decrees
On sea and bloody plain—
This we can do for Canada:
Britannia sustain.

What can we do for Canada
To hold her for the free,
And make of her a nation strong
With sway from sea to sea?
Nurse neither hate nor countenance wrong,
But dwell in unity:
This we can do for Canada,
And guard our liberty.

What can we do for Canada,
To swell her tides of trade,
Her wheels of industry to turn,
Her ships of commerce laden?
Let not our hearts with envy burn,
Nor greed for gold degrade—
This we can do for Canada,
And labor unafraid.

What can we do for Canada
To guide her ship of State
In this hour of Freedom's peril,
When foemen lie in wait?
For Britain's cause we can unfurl
Our flag, and trust her fate—
This we can do for Canada,
And sail a course that's straight.

What can we do for Canada,
Where our forefathers came
To clear and till the virgin soil,
And humble cabins frame—
Where they in peace might worship God,
And His protection claim?
This we can do for Canada:
Uphold our fathers' fame.

HIGHLANDERS!
FIX BAYONETS!

Mark the quiver along the line;
See the fixed-point weapons shine;
There's a mighty din, but above it all,
The command rings out, a clarion call:
Highlanders—Fix bayonets!

A broken quiver and a wasted land;
An Empire sunk like a house of sand;
But the pipers scream like an angry thing,
And the rising war notes seem to ring:
Highlanders—Fix bayonets!

(REFRAIN)
Battle blade on rifle steel
Flashing of fire as the musketeers feel
The giggle of the foe's musketeers
Terror of death in that grinding steel
Look to the hills, the conquering foe,
Are crouching again for another blow,
But see the rush of a hundred clans
Charge as you did at Prestonpans:
Highlanders—Fix bayonets!

WILLIAM D. MOYER

So much has already been heard, and so much more is certain to be heard, on both sides of the Atlantic, of the new war song, "Highlanders Fix Bayonets!" that the men who made it are as patriotic as the song itself, with long generations of service to the Empire behind them.

The writer of the words, William J. Pitts, is a member of the 48th Highlanders in Toronto, Canada. Geoffrey O'Hara, the composer, is of a family of Irishmen, his grandfather's name was war. He is descended on his father's side from John O'Hara, Lord Tyrone, and on his mother's side from John O'Hara, an officer in Queen Elizabeth's army, who married a granddaughter of Hugh O'Neill, the "fighting Earl of Tyrone."

Their son, Arthur Dobbs, was governor of North Carolina in 1753. Mr. O'Hara's grandfather was lieutenant-colonel in the British Army through the Peninsular War. He had eight medals for gallant service and was knighted by the government of Portugal and was made assistant adjutant of the British forces in Canada in 1837.

Mr. O'Hara, who is more or less of a cosmopolitan, and has recently been employed on a special mission by the United States Government in connection with its efforts to preserve the musical traditions of the Red Men, was interviewed in New York City by a metropolitan newspaper man, who asked the composer how he happened to write "Highlanders, Fix Bayonets."

"I have been interested in martial music," replied Mr. O'Hara, "ever since I first heard, as a boy, the story of a famous exploit of my grandfather in the Peninsular War. He was a colonel then, under Wellington. At the head of the 47th Regiment, 600 strong, at the battle of day, on a misty morning, charged down a steep hillside, to the accompaniment of a wild war-cry from 600 lusty throats, which so completely surprised and deceived a large contingent of the French Army, that they surrendered—more than 2,500 men, and 18 officers. The prisoners confessed that they had thought from the noise, that they were being surrounded by a great host of the enemy, and that there was nothing to be done but capitulate."

"This story which I heard in the impressionable period of childhood, and the records of which, duly authenticated, I have since seen more than once, exerted a powerful influence, you may be sure, to convince me of the value of the war song. Its effect is two-fold, of course, upon the advancing army, and also upon the foe. So that I well know the value of martial music. Very recently, in my stay among the Navajo Indians for the United States Govern-

AN EMBARRASSING POSITION

[By Radnor King.]
Roy Posterson had come to propose to the one girl in the universe, who, in this case, was Marion—just Marion; though the census-taker would have added Endor.

Roy's name did not sound like Roy at all. As happens to all of us, Roy was christened when he was very small and his toes were very pink. No one then had any idea that he would some day be over six feet tall, with a deep bass voice and an arm like the haunch of an ox.

But here he was, standing like a Colosseum among the old-fashioned furniture of the Endor parlor, his head on a level with the chandelier and his heart among the flowers on the carpet—waiting for the swish and rustle that would send his heart back to its proper place in one leap. A step sounded in the hall, the door opened, and of course it was not Marion.

It was a stout little old lady, with thin grey hair combed very tightly back from her forehead and gathered into a hard knot about the size of a walnut. She wore a black dress, which she was smoothing with her hands, and a black shawl lay over her shoulders.

"My name is Roy Posterson," said the young man, extending his hand. "I presume this is Mrs. Endor?"

"Oh!" said the little old lady, staring unblinkingly at Roy and slowly seating herself. "So you're the young man that Marion has been about?"

"Why," Roy replied with a blush, "I guess I—"

"That's right!" said the little lady. "That's right! Own up like a man. 'Tain't no use tryin' to hide it. Ever since Marion come back from Flotsam Beach, she ain't hardly—well, a word about the ocean. And her tongue's been everlastingly goin', too. I says to Charles: 'Charles, says I, 'the girl's in love.' Mark what I tell you; she's got a man! I knowed it right away. She couldn't fool me!"

Roy shifted uncomfortably from one foot to the other.

"Ain't you goin' to sit?" asked the old lady. "Marion is upstairs dressin'. As soon as she sees you comin' she run to her room to prink up."

Roy was glad to sit down. He was feeling an uncomfortable weakness in his knees, and short, cold shivers were running up and down his spine. This was Marion's mother! Her mother! The thought stunned him.

"Marion is a mighty sensible girl in some ways," Roy was further elucidated. "She was brought up that way. There never was no foolishness in the Endor family, I tell you! We taught Marion how to cook and sew. She makes all her own clothes, and that's more than most girls today can say. In my day all the girls made their own clothes; either they had to have plainer lessons and go to college. Lord, in my day we didn't know there was such a thing as a college. We never even went to the high school. When Marion was sent away to college I told Charles so, and Marion ain't learned much that I can see. It ain't no use, I hope that good, except give her notions. I'm glad she's goin' to hook up now. There ain't nothin' to cure a girl of notions better than a couple of kids. But there! Marion's all right. She'll make you a good wife, Mr. What's-your-name!"

"I—I—," Roy stammered.

"That was as far as he could go. He drew a handkerchief from his pocket and wiped his brow."

"Hot, ain't it?" The inquisition was in session again. "Funny, none of us ain't ever seen you before. Charles is in the city at least once every week, and it seems like he ought to have seen you somewhere. But city people is always in a hurry, and so I guess it ain't so surprisin' after all. Say, you and Marion ain't engaged?"

"No," Roy instantly replied. "Thank heaven!" he murmured under his breath. "I have just known her for two weeks."

"He went on audibly. 'I never met her until she came to the seashore. She—she is a charming girl, and I accepted her invitation to come. I hope that you don't tell me anything! I know all about it. It's as plain as the nose on your face!'"

"But," exclaimed Roy desperately, "I don't want to be misunderstood in this matter. Marion and I are not in any way engaged. Nothing of that nature has passed between us, I assure you, and—"

"Now, young man!" The old lady executed a sly wink. "You can't fool me. I've seen too many lovers in my days. They all acts in the same way, and when they denie the hardest I knows they're in deepest."

"But I assure you," exclaimed Roy, "that in this case—"

"Oh, get out! You ain't no different than the rest. Men are all alike when it comes to the girls. I don't see no cause why you should be tryin' to hide—" anything from me, and you needn't try. I'll bet you ain't been dressed so neat for a long time, and everything just so except your necktie, which is just a little out of kilter. I got you there! That's a sure sign!"

"Where is Miss Endor?" Roy gasped. "Will she be down soon?"

The little lady chuckled with glee, and smoothed her dress.

"That's right," she said. "Now you're more natural. Pshaw! I knowed I was right all along! And now, as you're gettin' real nice about it, I'll tell you something."

Roy's horrified look and the wave of his hand were of no avail.

"You're lucky in more ways than one to get Marion. Besides bein' a sensible girl, she'll get all her Aunt Lavinia's property when she dies, and that's something. Mind, I ain't sayin' how much it is, but it's worth while. Aunt Lavinia's gettin' pretty old, too."

Roy rose wildly to his feet. He felt that he had heard all that he cared to hear. He wanted to get away—far, far away—and think; but in the doorway he found himself face to face with Marion. She smiled, and then, in spite of all, he decided hastily that perhaps he could think some other time.

"Aunt Lavinia!" Marion exclaimed, when she saw the stout little old lady. "Yes, I have," said the little lady, rising. "And I like him—"

"Yes, yes," Marion cut in hastily, "but mother, you're—"

"Aunt Lavinia gave a frightened cry, and without as much as one more word rushed out of the room."

"Your aunt," said Roy slowly, "is a very entertaining old lady."

"Yes," Marion answered. "She is."

Presents and Love.

Dear Miss Grey—May I reply to "Sunshine" with experience on both sides of the question?

1. When engaged to my first husband, he gave me presents before marriage, but sadly neglected me after.

2. He never gave me anything, not even a ring, but for sixteen years he never missed a birthday or Christmas; once he forgot the day and date; when he came home, he was so sorry that he asked to be forgiven. The one who will see after you after marriage, help with home and family (I have a large one), is the one for me. And always change your dress before he gets home to supper and put a fresh tie on or a bit of lace, men like to see you dress for them. My mother used to say if you dress to get a husband, always dress to keep one.

Yours,

TWICE MARRIED.

No Quarrel Yet.

Dear Miss Grey—I think that "Star that Guides" is paying her future husband a very poor compliment, in saying she intends bearing all the trouble and worry. He will marry with the idea that her future happiness and comfort must depend on a great deal on him, and he will appreciate her coming to him with her troubles, and knowing that she has confidence in his help, more than if she foolishly tries to treat him as a child and tries to bear the burdens of both.

I married on my eighteenth birthday and after six years of married life can say with perfect truth that we have our first quarrel yet to have, and we are neither of us models either. But we just try never to get out of sorts at the same time. We have two dear little boys and are so happy, and I know I always feel better after telling all my fancied troubles, and I think my husband also appreciates the fact that he can talk "shop" and get a little sympathy when things seem to go wrong. I never felt particularly fortunate in having such a happy home life till I read some of the letters in your column, and only wish some of your correspondents could experience the love and sympathy of a truly good man. From

CONTENTED WIFE AND MOTHER.

Pat and Mike.

Dear Miss Grey—Noticing "Pat's" request for a marmalade recipe with grapefruit, I gladly send ours, which I hope she will like. We have used it for several years. We always read your page, and enjoy it very much, also we have obtained many excellent recipes from it. Wishing the page continued success.

MIKE.

Ans.—Your recipe, which sounds most excellent, will be found in the new "Cook-Book" column. Hope among those appearing each day you may continue to find helpful recipes, "Mike."

Bringing Them to Light.

Dear Miss Grey—I have had these questions tucked in the corner of my head, and am just bringing them in the light.

1. I am fourteen years old, 5 feet 7 inches in height and weigh 110 pounds, is that enough?

2. How long should my skirts be? I wear mine about three inches below my knees and my friends think that too short.

3. Am I old enough to wear a flared collar?

4. What day did January 6, 1911, fall on?

5. What do you think of my writing, grammar and composition?

"NODDLE."

Ans.—1. Will do very nicely.

2. Yes, should advise you to add an inch or two to the length—you're a big girl now.

3. Yes.

4. Sunday.

5. All are fair; would stand improvement; punctuation noticeable by its absence!

A Man's Promise.

Dear Miss Grey—I am a reader of your Mail Box. I enjoy it, and also derive benefit from it. Don't you think the readers, if they haven't anything encouraging to give some of the others, would do better if they didn't hint at uncleanliness or slovenliness? Some women I know have a hard time, and would like a little sympathy. Is it

A Man's Promise.

Ans.—I. Will do very nicely.

2. Yes, should advise you to add an inch or two to the length—you're a big girl now.

3. Yes.

4. Sunday.

5. All are fair; would stand improvement; punctuation noticeable by its absence!

SPINACH

(BY CAROLINE COE.)

"The broom of the stomach" is what old-fashioned folks call spinach, and its medicinal qualities rather than its food value make spinach the best of all spring vegetables.

Housekeepers who practice economy sometimes substitute sweet drippings from roast beef or chicken for butter, this substitution makes even the new spinach just coming into the market an inexpensive dish.

Here are some spinach recipes that you may not have in your cook book, but I have tried them and I know they are good.

Cream Spinach—Put the spinach in a pan with one pint of boiling water and a tablespoonful of salt to each peck of spinach. Cook 25 minutes, drain, put in chopping tray and mince fine. A little before serving time put 3 tablespoonfuls of butter in a pan, melt but do not brown, add the juice of 2 lemons and brown, add slowly 2 tablespoonfuls of flour.

Stir the mixture until it becomes smooth and in bubbles, then add the minced spinach and cook 8 minutes; stir all the time to keep from scorching. Add 1 cup of cream and serve.

Spinach Plain Boiled—Cook spinach, drain and chop. Serve on platter with rings of hard-boiled egg and finger strips of toast.

Spinach a La Maitre D'Hotel—Cook spinach as for plain boiled, chop very fine, heat slowly 2 tablespoonfuls of butter, add 2 tablespoonfuls of flour, do not brown, add the juice of 2 lemons and brown, add slowly 2 tablespoonfuls of flour.

Stir the mixture until it becomes smooth and in bubbles, then add the minced spinach and cook 8 minutes; stir all the time to keep from scorching. Add 1 cup of cream and serve.

Spinach Pates—Boil, chop fine 1 peck of spinach, press out every drop of water. Heat in saucepan 2 tablespoonfuls of butter and 3 of flour; add the spinach, salt, pepper to taste and add a dash of nutmeg, cook 5 minutes and pack into buttered paste pans; set in oven for 10 minutes.

Turn out on hot platter, lay slice of hard-boiled egg on top of each form and pour white sauce over and serve.

Spinach Soup—Cook half peck of spinach in double boiler until tender; put through a sieve, and add a quart of beef stock season to taste; roll 1 tablespoon of butter and 1 of flour smooth, add to soup, bring to quick boil and cook 1 minute. Serve with small cheese wafers.

1246—A Very Pleasing frock for the Growing Girl—Girl's Dress, With or Without Tunic, and With Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths.

As here shown, white linen was employed, with striped tulle for collar and cuffs. A jaunty sash of blue material trims the waist. The dress may be finished without the tunic. The style is good for serge or cashmere, for taffeta, crepe or batiste. It would be very pretty in all-over embroidery or flounce, or combined with lawn.

If made of linen the panel could be embroidered. The waist is cut with draped shoulders, to which the sleeve portion is joined, and this may be in wrist or short length. The pattern is cut in four sizes, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. It requires three yards of 44-inch material for an 8-year size.

THE OLD ARMCHAIR.

I love it! I love it! And who should dare To chide me for loving that old armchair?

I've treasured it long as a sainted prize, I've bedewed it with tears and embalmed it with sighs;

'Tis sacred by a thousand bands to my heart; not a tie will break, nor a link will start.

Would ye learn the spell? A mother sat there, And a sacred thing is that old armchair.

In childhood's hour I lingered near The hallowed seat with listening ear; And gentle words that mother would give, To fit me to die, and teach me to live.

She told me shame would never betide With truth for my creed and God for my guide.

She taught me to keep my earliest prayer, As I knelt beside that old armchair.

I sat and watched her many a day, When her eye grew dim and her locks were grey.

And I almost worshipped her when she smiled, And turned from her bible to bless my child.

Years rolled on; but the last one sped— My idol was shattered, my earth-star fled.

I learned how much the heart can bear When I saw her die in that old armchair.

'Tis past! 'Tis past! But I gaze on it now With quivering breath and throbbing brow.

'Twas there she nursed me; 'twas there she died, As memory flows with lava tide.

Say it is folly and deem me weak, While the scalding drops start down my cheek;

But I love it! I love it! And cannot tear My soul from a mother's old armchair.

1246—A Very Pleasing frock for the Growing Girl—Girl's Dress, With or Without Tunic, and With Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths.

As here shown, white linen was employed, with striped tulle for collar and cuffs. A jaunty sash of blue material trims the waist. The dress may be finished without the tunic. The style is good for serge or cashmere, for taffeta, crepe or batiste. It would be very pretty in all-over embroidery or flounce, or combined with lawn.

If made of linen the panel could be embroidered. The waist is cut with draped shoulders, to which the sleeve portion is joined, and this may be in wrist or short length. The pattern is cut in four sizes, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. It requires three yards of 44-inch material for an 8-year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

THE OLD ARMCHAIR.

I love it! I love it! And who should dare To chide me for loving that old armchair?

I've treasured it long as a sainted prize, I've bedewed it with tears and embalmed it with sighs;

'Tis sacred by a thousand bands to my heart; not a tie will break, nor a link will start.

Would ye learn the spell? A mother sat there, And a sacred thing is that old armchair.

In childhood's hour I lingered near The hallowed seat with listening ear; And gentle words that mother would give, To fit me to die, and teach me to live.

She told me shame would never betide With truth for my creed and God for my guide.

She taught me to keep my earliest prayer, As I knelt beside that old armchair.

I sat and watched her many a day, When her eye grew dim and her locks were grey.

And I almost worshipped her when she smiled, And turned from her bible to bless my child.

Years rolled on; but the last one sped— My idol was shattered, my earth-star fled.

GREAT SHOT MADE AT BILLIARD TOURNAMENT

One of the most spectacular shots of the world's three-cushion tournament in Chicago was made by George Moore in his match against John Daly in the play-off for first place. In the 47th inning Daly left the balls almost frozen at the top of the table. Moore saw an opening for a calculation shot. He played off the white ball, going around the table for four cushions. His cue ball connected with the red ball which had been driven to the side rail across to the right top corner.

JOHN PASCOE DEAD; PROMINENT HORSEMAN AND GREAT SPORTSMAN

WOODSTOCK, April 12.—John Pascoe, a life-long resident of this city, died this morning of a blood poisoning, which started from a scratch in the hand and spread through his system. He was born here 78 years ago. For the past eight years he had managed the "Fire" farm, the property of J. W. Boyle, of Dawson City, following 33 years of being in business for himself in the east end.

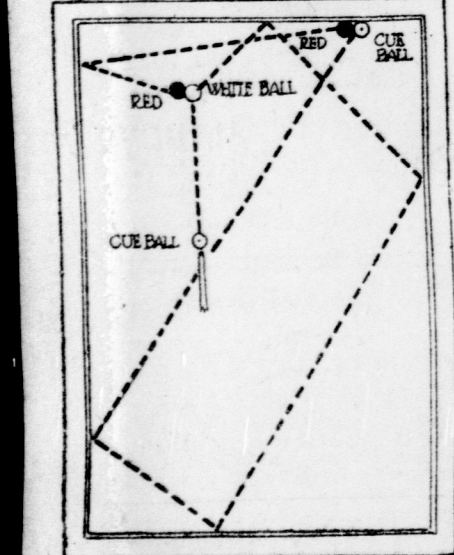

Mr. Pascoe took keen interest in all sports. He was a good baseball player, a skilful cricketer, a good shot, a fleet runner, a splendid billiard player, and a lover of thoroughbred horses, of which he owned several, and one of which he had entered in the Queen's Plate.

There are left to mourn him a widow and daughters, Mrs. A. Windsor, Lis-towel; Mrs. Robert MacKay, Toronto; Mrs. Alf. C. White, Los Angeles; Mrs. Roger McKay, Hamilton; and Mrs. R. H. Walton, Sudbury. The funeral will take place Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to the Baptist Cemetery.

FUNERAL OF J. W. CLARK.
PORT STANLEY, April 12.—The funeral of the late J. W. Clark took place on Sunday, and was largely attended. The service at the house was conducted by Rev. Mr. Durant, and at the grave by I. O. O. F. Lodge, 96, of St. Thomas.

The floral offerings were beautiful. Mrs. Stacey and Mrs. Jane Nicholas attended the funeral of George Hindley in St. Thomas on Saturday, the former remaining over for a few days.

It doesn't matter how long you have suffered, or how often you have failed to get relief—even though catarrh may affect every organ in your body, you can be permanently cured by inhaling the soothing vapor of Catarrhazone.

A few breaths through Catarrhazone inhaler clears the phlegm out of the throat and stops your cough. The nostrils are cleansed of offensive mucous discharge, and sneezing and sniffing stop at once. pleasant than Catarrhazone. It's healing piney vapor sends a warm, cleansing sensation through all the air passages and the head and throat makes you feel better in half a minute.

"My ears buzzed by the hour and I had frightful headaches," writes J. P. Purdy, from Port Huron. "Catarrh fairly filled my whole head and throat. I got relief mighty fast when I tried Catarrhazone. It hit the spot instantly. You bet Catarrhazone has cured me and I simply swear by it."

AFTER TWO YEARS ON CLEVELAND BENCH HE MAY STAR WITH OUTLAW FEDERALS

NICK CULLOP, pitcher, of Kansas City Feds, who jumped from the Cleveland team this past winter because he claimed he wanted to pitch ball, not sit on the bench all the time, Cleveland secured Cullop in 1912, but he did not appear seasoned enough, and although he was kept on the club he got few opportunities to work. Last season he was tried a few times, but was not worked regularly, lack of control being his worst fault. With the Kansas City Feds this season he looks good, and he shut out the Pittsburgh Feds with five hits yesterday in his first Federal League start.

REVIVAL OF LACROSSE EXPECTED AT STRATFORD

Good Material for Strong Team Has Been Located in Classic City.

STRATFORD, April 12.—According to lacrosse enthusiasts there is every indication of a big revival of the national pastime in Stratford this summer. Several likely boys have been located, and it is known that there are others who can play the gutted-stick game with ability.

An effort was made to get things going last year, but nothing resulted. This year, however, those behind the move feel confident that they can gather together a real good team.

BOWLERS COMPETE TODAY IN ALL THREE EVENTS

New York, April 12.—Games for two men teams headed the list of events for today in the national bowling tournament. To win a place among the first five teams in that division it was necessary to roll 1472 or better, while Walter and Smith, of Rutherford, N. J., still topped the list in the doubles with a score of 1,232.

The regular monthly meeting of the I. O. O. F. will be held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. John Price.

Hamilton Team Will Get Two Weeks of Training

Manager Cristall Will Have His Players Report May 5—Has Decided To Pass Up Dunlap, Former London Short-Stop.

HAMILTON, April 12.—Manager Billy Cristall, of the Hamilton club, will report to this city on April 20, and then will commence the real, live interest in the club's workings. He will order his assistants here on May 5, exactly two weeks previous to the opening of the season.

Cristall has a harder job ahead of him than any of the former managers of the local club. The time for spring training is limited to two weeks, and in that time he will have to weed out his surplus material. It's a short time in which to get in as much work as he would like, but he has not rounded up any too many and hopes to be in fighting trim when the going gets the clubs on their four months' dash for the gonfalon.

The Hamilton club will not attempt to get Dunlap the former London short-stopper, who went to the Cleveland Americans and thence to Omaha. His hitting last year was not up to the mark, and Manager Cristall feels that he would not be willing to come here at the figure he would be able to offer.

It is proposed to make the prizes in the athletic events sufficiently attractive to draw some prominent outside participants.

War In Europe, By Proving Women's Ability To Do Men's Work, Winning Them "Place In the Sun"

Advertiser Illustrations.

European women, as shown in the pictures above, driven to it by the war, are doing a wide variety of things once considered only man's work. Left to right the first picture shows a French woman working at a street car conductor in Paris; the second shows a German woman working as a street cleaner in Munich; the third shows Bavarian women helping to build a railroad, and the fourth an Englishwoman working as a "middy."

BY NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH.

Will the world-war win for woman her place in the sun? Has the devotion of the heroic mothers, sisters, and wives of the men at the front already done more for the advancement of feminism in Europe than 50 years of agitation? Look at these pictures of German and English women doing work performed by their husbands and brothers in normal times and answer the question for yourself!

Germany once dedicated to the Kaiser's epigrammatic dictum that cooking, church and children should bound the horizon of woman's interests is today run and ruled by women. Women clean the streets, man the street cars, turn the switches by which the cars are directed. They shoe horses, climb ladders, mix mortar, lay bricks. In fact, they do about everything which reactionary opinion has declared them to be forever unfitted to do. In England similarly women now drive cabs, run street cars and omnibuses. Seven thousand women of the leisure class, women who had never done a stroke of work in their lives, responded promptly to the Government's call for women workers. And the call was for women to do manual work—what the world has always regarded as man's work. Of the gallant women who are nursing the wounded at the front it is only necessary to say that their valor and efficiency have converted to the cause of woman suffrage in England, the man who was known as the most rabid anti-suffragist in the British Empire—Field Marshal Sir John French, commander-in-chief of the British forces. For years the activities in the suffrage cause of Mrs. Despard, the general's sister, had estranged him from her. He opposed her publicly and snubbed her privately. Then the war came, and hundreds of suffragists volunteered as war nurses. Christabel Pankhurst ceased her activities for suffrage and became a volunteer recruiting officer. And such was the power of the loving service of the suffragist war nurses that on one of the few leaves of absence which the British commander-in-chief has taken since the outbreak of the war he went to London, sought out his sister, Mrs. Despard, at suffrage headquarters, put both his arms around her neck and said, his voice thrilling with repressed emotion: "My Dear—I was wrong. You brave women deserve everything Englishmen can give you. Henceforth I am the friend of woman suffrage!"

DOMINION ENGINEER STATES SANDSUCKERS DESTROY PELEE

Provincial Official Said To Have Held the Same Opinion in Recent Visit, But Reported Differently—Letter of Protest Sent.

To the Editor of The Advertiser.

PELEE ISLAND, April 11. — There was an engineer from the Dominion Government here last week to look into the damage done to the island by the American sand-suckers, and after giving a thorough examination, he declared that there was not the slightest doubt that untold damage was being inflicted upon the shores and properties of the inhabitants by these agencies.

He said it would be impossible to amend this damage. The gravel, which protected the shores, has been all taken away and the steady wash of the waves is steadily eating into the farms.

About this time last spring an engineer was sent from Toronto to look into the matter. He was met by good part of the inhabitants of the island, who thought that at last the Ontario Government had come to their assistance, but notwithstanding the fact that the engineer said most emphatically that he was sure that the sand-suckers were destroying the island, the natural wear and tear of the shore, a likely thing, when, according to the customs officers' report, there were some 1,300 boatsloads taken away last year.

Such an enormous hole would take a great amount of gravel to level off and which the changing currents will do, and the gravel, which goes to fill up those excavations, must come from the deposits along the shores. Last season, there were about fifteen sand-suckers, taking gravel night and day, reaping enormous profits from the deposits on the island. Yet Pelee Island's best, in which the majority of the islanders have stock, went behind $1,000.

SAY CABINET MEMBERS DID CONSPIRE TO WRECK BANK

Officials of Riggs Accuse Secretary of Treasury and Comptroller of Currency at Washington With Attempt To Ruin Institution.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 12. — Secretary McAdoo, of the treasury department, and Comptroller of the Currency John Skelton Williams, were made defendants today in proceedings begun in the District of Columbia Supreme Court, by the Riggs National Bank at Washington, D. C., which alleges that these officials have combined and conspired to wreck that institution. Temporary and permanent injunctions to halt the alleged conspiracy, and to prevent the comptroller from making what the bank charges are unlawful demands for special reports of various kinds, are sought from the court.

The bank's bill of complaint alleges that the comptroller has adopted unusual and legally questionable tactics in dealing with the institution. It recites that evidence of an unusual desire for information concerning the bank was shown by Mr. Williams shortly after he assumed the office of comptroller, more than a year ago, and has continued ever since. Prior to that time, in December 1913, it says Mr. McAdoo charged officers of the bank with responsibility for publications concerning a local financial deal involving two trust companies. When this charge was denied by the officials, the bill asserts, Secretary McAdoo cursed Milton E. Ailes, a vice-president of the bank, and said to C. C. Glover, its president, "Mr. Glover, you know what this means to the Riggs National Bank."

TO THE KAISER

(A Reply to the Chant of Hate.)

[By Frank Browne.]

Eagle or vulture! which? since o'er the land, As wolves that howl and raven o'er their prey, Unloosed thine hordes—the one to thy command, Slaying, go yet to slay.

Who like to thee abhorred? the cursed of race (The lengthening torment things around its fall), Disowned of Europe! hide they recant face.

For thee nor strength of arms nor fleets avail! We spare you sneer, yet your late exultation— As ruler and great judge of dynasties, Trails in the dust the good that was your nation— Even now in disintegration swift it dies.

As little child o'ermastered with a toy, And the toy's victim shapes he to its ends— Knowing not whether he will go he lends— In mad pursuit in knowledge of his joy, Till self-exalted he needs clutch his fist, To smite one older, wiser than is he, To fall. As such art thou, O proud of plumes that melt beneath the sun.

Disdaining any counsel save thine own, To miss the one, Clear vision that beset thy peers; For thee the throne, And disregard of tears; Assaulting heaven with prayer, and 'mid thy praise, Planning to cry of red-striken days.

Hadst thou forgotten, or didst vision blind? Didst thou not yet remember Britain stood Betwixt thee earlier in a mart of blood, Saying, "Thus far!" to free where thou wouldst bind, That thou ignorest now! The like of thee Has had her oft; upon the sea, These shall we break as we did break of old.

The fenced in purple and the strong in gold— A rabid France in leagued tyranny, And that contemptuous Phillip, who from walls of Lisbon watched his pennons flow, Sanctified with bead and rite, A string of flame that turned to day a night.

When Europe reeled 'neath the tremendous blow, And curse and wall went forth from papal halls.

Came you to our mother's house, and we Made you guest and gave you meat; What we had was yours; you spake Fair to us, till foul within glittered through your spotted skin. We who slept were one part wake— They slept not who knew of this! We have this pride, we yet are just to truth; This consolation, not of ours the strife; We have not sapped the growing fruit of life.

Nor been all void of ruth; Nor desolated shrines, nor disinterred The vandal-shackled past so long forgot. By warning nations, nor of ours the lot Of women ravished, children maimed.

RUSSIANS SMASH AUSTRIAN TRAINS

Attack By Rail Near Bojana Repulsed—Roumanians Show Friendship.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, April 12.—A fierce struggle continues in Bukovina, according to a dispatch to the Petit Parisien from Bucharest. The Austrians are reported to have dispatched two armored trains against the Russians near Bojana yesterday. They were met by a terrific fire from the Russian artillery. One of the trains delivered two furious attacks, but are said to have been repulsed. The dispatch says four steamers loaded with troops, ammunition and war materials for Serbia passed Olenitz, a Roumanian town on the Danube, yesterday. They were loudly cheered by the Roumanians.

FIVE AUSTRIAN ARMIES.

[Canadian Press.]

Petrograd, via London, April 12.—The Bourne Gazette and other newspapers today publish semi-official details concerning the operations in the Carpathians. Five independent Austrian armies, it is said, are operating against the Russians, who are advancing on to the Hungarian plains. One of these armies, under command of Gen. Weisbach, is operating in the region of the Nida River, while the four others are commanded respectively by Archduke Eugene, Frederick and Gens. Borchevich, Remormoll and Penzenz.

Kaiser in Command.

The German troops operating in the Carpathians are said to be under command of Gen. Alexander Linsingen, and exceed seven corps. The newspapers say that the general direction of the Carpathian operations is in the hands of the German headquarters staff, which has assumed all the authority. It is reported this staff is under the personal supervision of Emperor William.

GERMANS MOWN DOWN LIKE WHEAT

Desperate Courage Awaited Them Nothing in Battle of Albert.

[Canadian Press.]

Montreal, April 12.—A dispatch to the Gazette under date of "North of France," in giving a description of the battle near Albert on Saturday and Sunday, says the Germans showed magnificent courage. Again and again, in shoulder-to-shoulder work, the men were launched forward with their "hoochs," as they charged, sounding like the roar of some ferocious beasts of prey, but their cheering was soon drowned by the deafening rattle of the French rifles and machine guns, which, favored by the clearness of the night, poured an accurate and devastating fire into their ranks.

"They fell," said one who took part in the affair, "like wheat before the sickle, but as one line of them went down another took its place, only to suffer the same fate. This massacre for it was nothing less—went on for some hours. The ground in front of the French trenches at this moment was piled high with German dead and dying in thick swaths.

"What adds to the value of this German reverse is that the French losses were comparatively slight."

GERMANS GAVE WELL.

Winnipeg, April 12.—The financial statement presented by the executive of the Manitoba patriotic fund showed the total amount promised to the fund on March 31, this year, was $89,292, of which $45,384 has already been received in cash. Rhineland, a German municipality, has contributed a larger amount to the fund than any other outside point except St. Boniface.

LONDON HAS NOT HEALTH OFFICER

Mayor Stevenson Is Surprised When Told Dr. Hutchinson Is Not Acting.

UNDERSTOOD OTHERWISE

Contents Council's Intention M. O. H. Should Remain Till Another Named.

London today is in rather the unique position of being without a medical officer of health. It is true that there is a temporary assistant M. O. H., but his appointment was merely a temporary one, and he was put on the board of health simply to take charge of the smallpox epidemic that is now practically over.

At the council meeting a week ago this evening, the council, without comment, passed the recommendations of the board of health, that the resignation of Dr. T. V. Hutchinson, medical officer of health, be accepted. When due notice of this action was served on the veteran M. O. H. by City Clerk S. Baker, he took it that he was out of employment, and, accordingly, yesterday was his last day in office.

"I am through," he told The Advertiser today. "The council has seen fit to dispense with my services, and I am not sorry to be away from the annoyance and bother of the office. Back has been plugging me for years, and I am at last thrown out."

Dr. Hutchinson further declared that the council's action left him no other alternative but to quit the service of the city, a service in which he has been for the past 29 years.

Though no mention was made of it at the time the resignation was accepted, it was generally understood that some honorarium would be granted the veteran health officer by the city. At the inaugural meeting of the council of 1915 a deputation of doctors appeared before the aldermen and controllers and asked that something be done in this respect. No promise was made by the council, but consideration was promised.

Lays Responsibility on Council.

Chairman C. R. Somerville, of the board of health, admitted today that Dr. Hutchinson was through, but claimed that the responsibility lay with the council, and not with the health board.

"The council employs the M. O. H., and it also has the right to discharge him or accept his resignation," said Mr. Somerville. "We as members of the board of health have nothing whatever to do with that except make certain recommendations. If the council saw fit to accept Dr. Hutchinson's resignation without any conditions that he remain in service until a successor was appointed, or grant him an honorarium, it is something beyond our control."

There is a meeting of the board of health this afternoon, and the Hutchinson case is naturally sure to come up, as provision will have to be made for a successor, even if it be a temporary one. Any recommendations made, however, will be inoperative until sanctioned by the council.

Mayor H. A. Stevenson expressed surprise when informed by The Advertiser that the M. O. H. was no longer acting. "We didn't intend that such a course should be followed at all," said the mayor. "We expected to retain Dr. Hutchinson in service until a successor was appointed. We were told that no medical man would apply for the position until it was vacated by the resignation of the present incumbent, and that is the reason that we accepted the resignation."

The mayor intimated that a move would be made at the next council meeting to secure a temporary reappointment of Dr. Hutchinson in order that he could act until a successor was ready to take over the office. The chairman of the board of health has intimated that this would be September 1, so that if this is the case, it would leave more than a four-months gap between the departure of Dr. Hutchinson and the time his possible successor gathers up the reins of office.

"COWARD," SAYS CARVELL, AS RHODES CALLS WITNESS LIAR

Hearing Over Purchase of Horses Results In Warm Session—De Witt Foster Makes An Effort To Excuse Himself.

[Special to The Advertiser.] OTTAWA, April 12.—Conservative members today made heroic efforts to defend A. Dewitt Foster, M.P., the horse buyer. Witnesses have given evidence that the Foster party bought horses with spavins on two legs; horses with ringbones; wind-blown horses from twenty to thirty years old; a horse that was condemned as too old at the time of the South African war and a horse that had once been sold for a drake and the battle front. Conservative members tonight showed bitter resentment against witnesses who have told these facts. An effort was made to shake the evidence, without success. Finally E. N. Rhodes, M.P., declared to one witness that he did not believe he was telling the truth. "You are a coward to say a thing under the shelter of your privilege as a member," thundered P. B. Carvell. Mr. Rhodes flushed, but made no effective reply.

Foster, M. P., was heard in his own defence. The figure he cut was far from heroic. He would not take the oath until practically compelled by Mr. Carvell.

Contemptible Steal. "This is the most contemptible steal ever pulled off in this country, and I want to say to you, sir, that I believe you know it," declared Mr. Carvell to Foster, at the conclusion of the statement and examination. So astounded was Foster that he did not know what to say. He made a statement of his own, but it was not accepted without challenge, and Foster stumbled out of the box.

Foster made his statement on his honor as a member of Parliament, declining to be sworn. Mr. Carvell would not allow it to go on record until the oath had been taken. His statement was that he had been asked by Lieut. Col. Neill, chief veterinarian of the militia department, to make up a complement of horses. He had consented to do so, had signed checks for horses purchased, and had taken no commission for himself. "Now," he said, "I am ready to submit to any questions that may be asked."

Garland Said It, Too. "Garland made a statement something like that," remarked Mr. Carvell, quietly, "and something like $10,000 were paid back." Foster had associated with himself, G. H. Oates, secretary of the Conservative Association of his county; Keever and Woodworth, two former Canadians, now interested in Western American gold mines; Mortimer and "Doc" Chipman. He made checks for horses bought by McKay, Keever and Woodworth, handed over to Oates, with instructions that they should be paid when receipts were turned in showing purchases had actually been made.

"Where are the receipts and vouchers now?" asked Mr. Carvell. "In the hands of Keever and Woodworth, the men who should have them," replied Foster.

Vouchers Sought In Vain. These receipts and vouchers have been vainly sought by the committee for weeks. This case has been on for weeks; you are vitally interested. Have you made any attempt to get the receipts?" asked Mr. Carvell. "Foster said he did not know Keever's address," he had written Woodworth, who replied that as soon as he could get his hands on the receipts and arrange his private business he would come to Ottawa.

"Didn't you see Keever and Woodworth in Boston a week ago?" asked Mr. Carvell.

Saw Them a Week Ago. Foster hesitated, then admitted he had seen Woodworth, exactly at a distance, but had no chance to talk with him. It was evident that there was some talk, however, as Mr. Carvell asked: "Did you try to get the receipts?" Foster parried, remarking that Woodworth said he would appear before the committee as soon as he could.

"Did you tell him that the House would prosecute within a few days?" Foster replied that he had not, that he had not tried to get vouchers or receipts, that he had not tried to get a statement of purchase from Woodworth or Keever, as he did not think they would have it. "Did you ask Keever to come here at all?" asked Mr. Carvell. "No," replied Foster.

Mr. Carvell wanted to know why Foster had made up the statement for Col. Neill, showing that he had bought 428 horses and paid $72,000 for them out of Government money.

"Took Their Word." The reply was that Oates checked up

WARSHIPS WERE ON WILHELM'S HEELS

German Cruiser Escaped Destruction Only by a Miracle.

HEARD VESSELS TALKING

Makes Way to Port While Warships Chase a Collier.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., April 12.—The German commerce raider Kronprinz Wilhelm will not be permitted to go into Liverpool at the shipyard here unless Lieutenant-Commander Thierfelder, commander of the ship, makes formal request for time to complete such repairs as he deems necessary to make his vessel seaworthy.

Thierfelder told Collector Hamilton tonight he could not do so before tomorrow. Experts from Newport News who examined the ship today found her leaking slightly and her boilers in bad condition. Unofficially it was learned that the vessel would require extensive repairs. That was taken to indicate the ship eventually might be forced to intern.

The German captain, however, is insistent that he must hasten to repair his ship, and return upon his work as a merchant raider. He discharged today officers and men of the British ships, whom he brought here, and they were transferred to the British steamer Cassandra, which sailed tonight for England.

Escape Was Miraculous. That the escape of the Wilhelm from the allied warships off the cape was a miraculous one was attested tonight by Capt. Thierfelder in describing his experience after destroying the Coleby in March 27 last.

"We started north from the equator short of coal and provisions," he said. "As we came up the coast we continually heard the British warships talking to each other by wireless. It seemed on some days and nights that there were as many as eight warships within a radius of a few hundred miles. But we kept on due north, running as rapidly as we would, with our ship darkened at night. One night we heard the exchange of news about the Prinz Eitel Friedrich being at Newport News. Thereafter we heard information about the Eitel every night, and a few nights ago we got the news from the British wireless that the Prinz Eitel had been interned."

"Immediately thereafter all talking between the British warships ceased. We presumed that the fleet was breaking up, and on Saturday night we decided to bolt in for the Virginia Capes."

One Ship Near. "With all lights out we started at top speed, but had not gone far when we again picked up the wireless of the allied warships. However, we kept on. As we got near the coast it seemed to us from the signals that there were as many as three British warships and one French ship within distances varying from three to fifty miles with our ship seemingly dangerously near as we approached the cape."

"One night on our way up we were to have met a German cruiser and made, for her. There were low, overhanging clouds about us, but in the distance a brilliant moonlight showed us our ship, and there were two British warships after her. The clouds protected us and we escaped. We never heard of the cruiser again."

From other sources it was learned the collier was believed to have been the Macedonia, which was reported to have put out from Las Palmas about two weeks ago.

It was reported that the allied warships were upon the Wilhelm's trail was given out tonight by Capt. Lucas, of the British ship Berwindford, who followed the German raider into the cape. He said that when the Wilhelm passed within the three-mile limit he saw her stern reflected by a searchlight, and that he later discovered the light had been thrown from afar by a French warship.

HUERTA WILL NOT GO TO MEXICO OR CUBA

NEW YORK, April 12.—Gen. Victoriano Huerta, the exiled former president of Mexico, arrived here late today from Spain on board the steamer Antonio Lopez.

Gen. Huerta was permitted to land after he had taken oath before the immigration inspectors that he was not going to either Mexico or Cuba, and had stated that his stay in this country would be divided between business and pleasure.

The former president of Mexico was accompanied by his secretary, Gen. Delgado, and a friend, Abraham Rathner, who said he was forced out of Mexico last May.

CAPTAIN WITH RIFLE DRIVES OFF AEROPLANES

LONDON, April 12.—8:45 p.m.—"Armed with a rifle, Capt. Sharp, of the British steamer Serula, which has arrived here, successfully repulsed an attack made upon his steamer by a large German hydroplane and a small aeroplane off the Northumberland lightship," says Reuters' Amsterdam correspondent.

The aeroplane first approached the ship, dropping bombs, which fell into the sea. As it returned to the attack Capt. Sharp fired upon it with a rifle, hitting the machine several times and damaging one of its wings. Then the hydroplane took up the attack, but it also was driven off. Capt. Sharp says he is convinced the aeroplane was badly damaged so that it was unable to reach Zeebrugge.

The machine fell three hundred feet and Pool's skull was fractured. He died almost instant.

NO VODKA MEANS DOUBLE SAVINGS

Country Enjoying the Most Prosperous Period in Its History.

TRADE OUTLOOK GOOD

Country Expects Part of Business Enjoyed By Germany.

[Canadian Press.] PETROGRAD, April 12 (via London) 5:31 p.m.—The opinion was expressed today by Pierre L. Bark, Russian minister of finance, that economically considered, the war has been a blessing to the people of this country. Disastrous the financial and social aspects of the conflict, in an interview with the Canadian Press, Mr. Bark said:

"Notwithstanding the depressing and paralyzing effect of the war, the Russian peasant class is more prosperous than at any previous time in the history of the country. It is not difficult to account for this unusual prosperity. By virtue of the allowance made by the Government to the families of soldiers, the earning power of the power of the soldiers, the total income of these families is greater than in times of peace."

"What about vodka?" was asked of the minister.

"It is the prohibition of the sale of vodka which is primarily responsible for the ameliorated condition of the peasant," he responded.

Evidence of Prosperity. "It is necessary to invent theories to explain why the Russian people should be more prosperous for the actual fact is that this prosperity is everywhere noticeable. Before the war, the average yearly savings deposited amounted to 20,000,000 to 40,000,000 rubles ($15,000,000 to $30,000,000), while in the month of January alone about 60,000,000 rubles ($30,000,000) was deposited."

"What about the crops?" was the next question.

"The farmers have been very fortunate in being compelled to hold their supply of grain on account of the difficulties of transportation, for now grain is at the highest prices of the year. There is every reason to believe that the farmers will soon be able to dispose of their grain in foreign markets and at a great advantage."

Discussing the conference in Paris of the finance ministers of Russia, France and Great Britain for the consideration of financial problems arising from the war, Mr. Bark said:

"This is an excellent arrangement for all concerned, for while Russia has enormous resources, she is in need of immediate capital, and our allies, on the other hand, have more capital than supplies."

"I have arranged a credit of 625,000,000 francs ($125,000,000) in France, and of 25,000,000 ($25,000,000) in England, which Russia is to use at any time the occasion requires. We are on the point of making use of part of the French credit."

In response to a question regarding the recent increase of 30 per cent in the tariff, Mr. Bark said: "That is only a temporary affair, designed partly to make up for the loss in revenue from the vodka traffic. I do not believe that this temporary increase in the tariff will discourage foreign trade with Russia."

"In fact, Russia looks for a tremendous increase in trade with the United States and her allies, to replace the German trade existing before the war. I am not an authority as to what kind of trade treaties will be formed at the end of the war, but I am sure every-thing will be done to open the Russian market to these countries, and not permit it to slip back to Germany."

"There is now a particular opportunity for the United States, for she is not crippled by the war."

Mr. Bark was asked what means were being employed to replace the revenues formerly derived from vodka.

"The amount of this revenue exceeded 900,000,000 rubles ($450,000,000)," he replied. "This is being replaced in a variety of ways, including a special war tax on railroad transportation, matches, sugar and most ordinary commodities."

He did not say that he had it now and quoted Alfred Minister, of Toronto, the man whose conscience would not let him make boots according to sample.

P. H. McCurdy maintained that the majority report was founded upon the preponderance of the evidence.

E. M. MacDonald declared that the manufacturers who had made the boots excused failures and praised the boots.

Chairman Middleboro held that the 1914-15 boots were as good or better than the 1899-00 boots which marched through Africa.

Hon. Charles Murphy condemned the boots, condemned middleman transactions, and quoted the condemnation of boots called by Hon. George Perley and Gen. Alderson.

Middlemen's conscience? J. A. Ramsville blamed the failure of the boots on the weather and said the matter of middlemen's profits was one for each middleman to settle with his own conscience.

E. W. Nesbitt stated that he had gone on the committee with a feeling of almost sympathy for the manufacturers.

HARPALYCE HAD PAPERS FROM GERMAN MINISTER

LONDON, April 13.—2:27 a.m.—In a dispatch from Rotterdam the Daily Telegraph's correspondent says:

"I am officially informed that the British steamer Harpaluce, under charter to the American minister at the Hague, which was sunk several days ago in the North Sea by a torpedo or mine, was actually carrying papers issued by the German minister at The Hague. These took the form of a safe conduct and were intended to protect her against attacks from German submarines while returning to the United States."

The belief has been expressed that the Harpaluce had been unloaded at Rotterdam her cargo of gifts for the relief of the Belgians, and was on her return voyage when she met with disaster.

DODGES ALIEN LAW WITH 'BALL TEAM'

[Canadian Press.] BATTLE CREEK, Mich., April 12.—On the charge of being in this country illegally, Edwin Mashe, superintendent of the M. Rumely plant here, was taken into custody by the local police today at the request of United States Immigration Officer Faber, of Port Huron. He will be given a hearing tomorrow.

Inspector Faber claims that Mashe not only entered the United States in violation of the Alien Labor Law, but also brought with him a dozen men from Toronto, disguised as a baseball team.

The Rumely Company operated a plant in Toronto, which has been closed. Mashe came here and has been acting as superintendent of the local plant, after being here some time he returned to Canada for his family and on his way back was refused admittance. It is stated, at Port Huron. Then, according to his own story, he entered the country at Detroit and had been here for some time before the officials at Port Huron realized it.

He will be given a hearing tomorrow.
