This is the front elevation of the new city hall, according to the plan of Stuart Pavey, who was awarded the first prize of $2,000 in the competition. Colonel Chadwick of Toronto and S. F. Fryer of Hamilton, who made the awards, complimented this plan on the dignity and simplicity of its appearance and on the careful arrangement of the interior, which would make t economical to build and also to maintain. Mr. Pavey describes it as a type of Italian Renaissance, and adds that simplicity was one of the chief hings he sought in designing it. Another interesting feature of the plan s that both sides of the interior are exactly similar. This is in accordance with the French idea in planning buildings of this kind, and as it continues from the ground floor to the third, proves wonderfully convenient to both he regular inhabitants and to visitors.

DOCTRINE OF EASE

Says Any Man Can Support a Family by One Day's Work in Every Seven.

Roger Payne, B.A., LL.D., noted hobo philosopher, who claims through his peculiar philosophy to have attained greater happiness than any living man, has been in London for several days, and left the city this morning to continue his transcontinorning to continue his transcontinental hike from Vancouver to the

A Cambridge graduate, possessing remarkable wealth of knowledge and culture, Payne, nevertheless, has found the secret of happiness in the philosophic attitude of the ignorant tramp.

-In his meanderings, Payne has cir culated as much as possible the gospel of easy living. To the average man engaged in making a living, he brings a message of economic free-dom, which, he claims, represents the touchstone of wisdom and happiness.

Work But One Day. "Why work six days a week when you can get a living by working one?" is a pertinent question to which Payne claims there is no logical answer. He believes the ordinary citizen nowadays who devotes his time almost exclusively to the pursuit of wealth and to the expense of happiness is merely a product of an happiness is merely a product of an age in which culture and natural ensyment are secondary to the wor-

"Today," said Mr. Payne, "we are only at the dawn of civilization. The recent shambles in Europe, the existence of starvation in the midst of plenty, the belief in palmistry, astrology, occultism, faith healing, etc., shows that many of us are still mentally in the age of "magic." Too Much Work.

Some of the startling contentions that Mr. Payne declares can be followed out to the advantage of mankind are that a wife and a family can be supported by one person working a single day in the week. With the remendous development in machin-ry and labor-saving devices, citizen should be able to produce sufficien should be able to produce sufficient food and other necessary commodities in one day to keep himself and his family happy. Employees of the board of educaon, under the direction of Captain Robinson, superintendent of works, are busy redecorating the north building of the Central Collegiate. The work, which consists of painting and cleaning the interior, probably occupy about 10 days, and is the last of the program of this work for the year. The classes at the school are not being interrupted, the work being arranged so that the rooms are done while the students are attending classes in the other building.

Other schools that have been renovated and decorated this year are Talbot street, Charles street, St. George's, and the London East Collegiate, in addition to odd rooms here and there.

Figures Are From Public Documents. A correspondent of The Advertiser questions statement made in these columns a few days ago about the Canadian government merchant marine being built, or started, at a time when more ships were being built than were being sunk by German submarines. The correspondent states that the merchant marine is generally regarded as part of Canada's war effort, and allowance made on that score for the high cost.

The statement made in this paper was even a mild one. The government knew the costs of construction; knew they were away high as compared to Clyde figures; knew there was no urgent call for the vessels; knew they could not be delivered for months after the serious moment. war was over.

The first ship was delivered two months after the signal for calling off the whole scheme and settling dead policemen. with the yards. Seventeen vessels were delivered during 1919; in 1920 along came 26 more; then in 1921 18 more.

It meant that when the King government came into power one of the white elephants handed to it was providing for 65 vessels that had cost so much that ing trade of the world.

If our correspondent wants figures, we refer him to the fourth annual report of the directors (April, 1923), showing the ships rated at $50 per ton, against speeding up production. It is so much easier to write a cost of $191. DR. GANDIER AND CHURCH UNION. Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir,—Principal Gandier, as moderator of assembly, has published broadcast an official message to Presbyterians, telling them that "the question of church union is now finally settled," and calling upon them to rally in support of the mission funds—telling them, in other words—that their church is to be scrapped, wiped out forever—that they, them-selves, with all their rights in that church, are to be handed over by civil law to a new church which has been prepared for them—that they may as prepared for them—that they may as gave a combined total majority well accept the situation and pay out against "union." 2. Dr. Gandier states that the whole procedure in re "church union" has procedure in re "church union" has been in strict accordance with the constitution of our church. This statement is absolutely untrue. The church has no constitutional provision for its own disbanding, and Dr. Gandier cannot point out one single provision in its constitution for such an end. THE MAYOR'S PERSONAL MESSAGE TO YOU as to where the Mayor stands on the Street Railway question. It is only fair that you get the facts direct from the Mayor.

In Order To Clear the Minds of the Public In Géneral

(AND A FEW POLITICIANS IN PARTICULAR)

A question was raised a few days ago headed, "Is the Mayor Fighting for the Street Railway Company?"

Now to me personally that sounds like a question that you can best answer. If you will look back on the Mayor's record as to how he stood in the past on the Street Railway question; his general attitude against the company for years past will convince any person that he is not fighting for the company.

You will recall that while in the council in 1921 as an alderman he was successful in collecting many thousands of dollars the Street Railway Company owed the city, and against all opposition of the council and against the advice of the city solicitor brought suit against it, got judgment, and then again against the wish of the council, and contrary to advice of the city solicitor, was successful in collecting that judgment when the few politicians said it could not be done.

The present Mayor was instrumental in having the road seized and made them pay the judgment, and by consistently sticking to it for three years made them pave Stanley street as it should be paved.

By continuously getting after them, both through private business as well as my public office about their poor service, it compelled them to buy more cars and better cars in order to give better service, and they will have to buy still more.

Early in the year the city had a showdown with the company, in which they agreed to pave their-track allowance on any streets we desired to pave this year in general, and in particular, Richmond street, Wellington, Briscoe, Oxford West, Horton and Wharncliffe road. Some of this has already been finished, some is being done, and the rest will be done, and you must agree that we are getting better service, and if the 1922 Mayor and Council had done its duty the Street Railway Company would not have been successful in getting a five-cent fare from

Through my personal instructions to the company's vice-president they have painted poles white, so you know for the first time just where the cars do stop.

Now I leave it to you to answer the question, "Is the Mayor working for the company or for the citizens?

And then if you will look up the Mayor's record in general you will find that he has not changed his mind on this question any more than he has on other important civic questions that he has undertaken.

The reason for this is that first of all he makes sure that the move is right for the best interest of the citizens in general. Secondly, he does not belong to any political organization, so does not have to do as he is told by the political bosses, which would be against the interest of the

This is and will be his position on the Street Railway question regardless of what has appeared or will appear in the newspapers.

Now as regards the Richmond street pavement. The Council, along with the Mayor, is responsible to you that you get good value for your money, and the Mayor wants to assure you that he is taking the same interest in this job that he does in his private business. The board of works approved the work as being carried on by your engineer.

As to the Mayor's stand on the purchase of the Street Railway, his position today is the same as it was last year: YES, if we get a definite price and the price is reasonable, and NO, if we do not get a price or the price is unreasonable.

And as to the Mayor's interference in connection with the Council's resolution that we appoint Sir Adam Beck to get for us a definite selling price from the railway company, to date neither the Council or the Mayor has ever received any acknowledgment that this appointment has been accepted; therefore any effort on the Mayor's part to secure either better service or better rates, or both, from the railway company is at all times for the best interest of the citizens in

And finally, until my office as Mayor expires, no one outside of the council will be able to call a meeting over the Mayor's head, NOT EVEN AN M.P.P., as was attempted a few days ago. If this were permitted the Mayor would not be functioning in the position to which you have elected him; no one but a ward politician would permit it.

In conclusion, if you, as a ratepayer, don't like the Mayor's methods and principles in carrying out your instructions for a businesslike administration of civic affairs, you can tell him to stay at home in December elections, when he permits his name to come before the electors, and the Mayor assures you that on his part, no one will be bad friends.

was made here this afternoon that Wm. Billings, star right-hand pitcher of the local Southern Ontario Baseball League champions, is the leading hitter of the St. Thomas team for the S. O. loop games, and incidentally wins the suit of clothes donated by the Times-Journal of this city. He will be presented with the suit at the Star Theatre Friday night, when the London Advertiser trophy will be presented to the St. Thomas team. It will be a big baseball night, and Mayor C. E. Raven as well as other city officials will be present. Officials of various baseball leagues, including a number from London, will be on hand.

Billings finished the season with a batting average of .349. He played in 22 of the 24 games, making 30 hits out of 86 times to bat. Leo Doan annexed 22 runs in 23 games in which he participated, an average of almost one run per game. Doan also leads in the stolen bases for the season, his total being eight, while Ernest Crawley, a member of the team and formerly of London, led the entire list with a batting average of .625. He only played in six games and therefore is not entitled to the honors.

Danny McPhee, the southpaw, who goes to the Brooklyn Nationals, was second high on the regular line-up, batting to the tune of .328 in 21 games played. Danny suffered a slump at the first of the season, but he finished brilliantly, making 18 hits in six games played. Danny suffered a slump at the first of the season, but he finished brilliantly, making 18 hits in six games played in the second series of the semifinals. He was 14 times at bat in the first series and 47 times in the second. Norbert Arlein came third with a batting average of .310. Arlein was also a little off color at the first of the season. He made the greatest number of hits of any player, making 32 in all. Billings proved to be the most consistent hitter. William Riseborough, the Saints' clever shortstop, is fourth on the regular line-up with .267, while "Snapper" Binns came fifth with .343.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Sept. 25.—The management of the Athletics definitely announced today that they had entered their team in the junior O. R. F. U. series, and not the intermediate. It was felt that a better showing would be made in this series, as the team is not very strong. Next year, probably, the team will advance a step higher. It is anticipated here that the Athletics will be grouped with London, Sarnia and Chatham, although nothing definite has been learned. The Athletics have arranged a big practice for Wednesday night. Their regular line-up will be chosen from the following players: Ellis, Jewell, Logan, Rupp, Skelding, Shaw, Martin, Johns, Beal, Garron, Staniforth, Lang, Johnson, Cassidy, Billinghurst, Searle, Robertson, Shingles and Tyler.

street railway, owned and operated by the ratepayers, indorses by common usage the track and paving recommendations, as submitted by $13 per single track foot, while the Sir Adam Beck and his engineering London job will cost from $15 to $17. Sir Adam Beck and his engineering Sir Adam Beck and his engineering expert, T. U. Fairlie. This fact was disclosed today when a deputation from London, including City Engineer Near questions this, however, asserting that the hydro estimates have been used for the London job and not the proper London figures. City Engineer Near has evidently not been convinced that Sir Adam's views must be followed, and from the Detroit track allowance as well as Windsor's hydro operated and municipal owned railways. The Detroit trailway engineers will permit the use of nothing but steel ties with a more the so-called slab construction.

In common with Sir Adam's engineers, the chief engineers of Detroit assert that the steel tie if properly laid would better serve than the cak ties. But as City Engineer Near differs with Engineer Fairlie, so do the Detroit engineers differ. The latter maintain that they would never use anything but steel tiez for straight tracks, but if it becomes imperative to use wood ties, they differ in the type of concrete construction Engineers Differ.

The Detroit chief engineers would then favor the so-called "slab" construction as advocated by Engineer Fairlie, while others adhere to the Richmond street type. Engineer Fairlie maintains that the London Street Railway job is but 50 per cent efficient. He would favor their type of construction with the steel tie, but as the wood tie is being used he would follow the slab process. All engineers will disagree in many ways. This they acknowledged freely today, appreciating the fact that it would be difficult for the average person to choose between the arguments. Today's survey of the situation reveals the established fact, however, that Detroit is adopting in the main a system as enunciated by Sir Adam Beck and his engineering advisers. While the Detroit engineers differ as to how they would lay their pave-ments with wood ties they have elim-inated this problem. They adhere strictly to steel ties, and they refute the claim advanced by Vice-President Ivey of London that steel ties are be-Ing replaced. Steel ties are being re-moved from a section of Cleveland track, stated Assistant Construction Superintendent Fenton of the De-troit Street Railway Department, troit Street Railway Department but this is not because they were inferior, it is because of faulty construction." Cleveland was the pioneer In steel ties, and they were not prop-erly laid. That is why they are being replaced.

Windsor, Sept. 25. — The Detroit street railway, owned and operated would show better results. Would Cost More.

Engineer Fairlie maintains that the of nothing but steel ties with a monolithic type of construction similar to Richmond street, although wherever they use the white oak ties, they use the white oak ties, they use the so-called slab construction.

The London deputation covered a lot of ground today, and it was on Belle Isle Bridge when City Engineer Near and Sir Adam's engineer Fairlie engaged in the so-called slab construction. heated verbal combat while debating the question with the Detroit en-gineer. The latter's personal opinion was sought and City Engineer Near was sought and City Engineer Near charged that Engineer Fairlie was first denouncing the London job and then preparing to deliver a lecture concerning the same. Engineer Fair-lie claimed that his attitude was evidently misunderstood entirely, and he subsequently advised The Advertiser that he was not particularly interested in the London angle and had terested in the London angle and had been merely called in to give his opinion, and in conclusion did not care whether they chose to act accordingly or not. The Detroit superintendent was reluctant to give further opinions as he knew that he would "tread on some one's toes." And he suggested a request for an official opinion from the Detroit board of management.

In any event while both sides may claim victory, all members of the deputation are quite pleased with today's survey, and feel that they have gained much valuable information for the ratepayers.

Those in attendance from London were City Engineer Near, Alderman L. T. Douglass, chairman of the board of works, and two members of the transportation commission, Alderman John Greer and P. J. Watt. Several members of the Windsor Street Railway and engineering department were present with Engineer Fairlie.

YOHN'S TRIAL DELAYED FOR INDEFINITE PERIOD

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter. Detroit, Sept. 25. — John Casey Yohn of London, Ontario, facing several charges, including murder, robbery while armed and automobile theft, will not face trial for several tie rods. These are always used with toak ties as another precautionary measure. A slight depression on the surface of the pavement occasioned on Detroit streets, from the use of tie rods, is unavoidable, but an important part of the rods of the pavement occasioned to be a native of Detroit, appeared today in Judge Jeffries' court for preliminary evamination. Young peared today in Judge Jeffries' court for preliminary examination. Yohn waived these proceedings before Judge Faust in the recorder's court. Yohn is charged with the fatal shooting of Floyd Johnson employed as an attendant at a Standard Oil gas station, Harper avenue and Grand boulevard. He claims accidental shooting, alleging that Savelli pushed Johnson into him.

"Jimmy" Yohn, a brother, and Mrs. Gladys McKenzie, supposedly his sister-in-law, and who were apprehended on suspicion at the time of Casey's arrest, have been released. Yohn and Savelli are charged also by the police with implication in several automobile thefts.

Does your elusive thimble cause frequent breaks in the continuity of your sewing hours? There are two ways of avoiding this. You might take one of the memory courses which teach you to associate your thimble with your rubbers, and thus remember where your thimble is while you are looking for your rubbers. Or you might get one of the little sewing tables which I Personally, I should incline to the latter course, for they are just as attractive as they are convenient. They are made from beautiful dark polished woods—oak and walnut and mahogany. And such a variety of novel shapes! There are little compartments for your thimble and spools, your sewing and bits of lace, and the convenient handles make them easy to carry from one room to another. Do come and see them in our Furniture Department.

Now let's go down to the Main Floor! I want you to see the beau-tiful laces and dress trimmings. French laces and aress trimmings. French laces in dainty valenciennes, or hand-made filet, Irish crochet or picot edge. They are the loveliest things imaginable for fine lingerie or for collar and cuff sets of hand-kerchief linen.

Very special mention must be given to the French bertha laces of black silk net, beaded in bright Bulgarian colors in floral and conventional designs. I have seen nothing lovelier than those metallic laces in gold and silver on silk net, or the dainty Chantilly laces.

For an afternoon frock or for evening wear, they may be used for drapes, overdresses, for a deep flounce, or a graceful girdle. The last touch of Parisian smartness may be added to the dress you have made by one of our new girdles. There is a very effective one in black silk lace braid, with motifs in gold thread and solid blocks of lipstick red.

If you are being your own modiste, during Sewing Week you will enjoy choosing an ornament or girdle for your dress. There are lots of pretty ones which are inexpensive too, so you won't have to select them with one eye on the unruly budget we mentioned the other day!

LAST SURVIVORS OF A VALIANT TRIBE.

Since the motor truck has proven its efficiency, the originally large stable f horses maintained by the local fire department is now but a remnant of its former self. These four veteran steeds are what remains of the once famous company, and these in time will also be discarded as the demand for efficiency proves stronger. The sentimental attachment for the four musketeers is very pronounced by old-time firemen, who in days gone by regarded their trusty animals as companions and friends. The above picure was taken this morning by an Advertiser staff photographer. The four norses, reading from left to right, are Pete, Tom, Nigger and Colonel. Says Parental Unseeing Love

Love Doesn't Demand Perfection-The Eyes of True Love Sees Faults as Well as Virtues-But Our Defects Only Endear Us the More.

A woman asks "Do you have to think people perfect in order to love them?"

Heavens, no! If love required perfections, none of us would Love isn't blind. It has X-ray eyes that see our every defect, but it sees them not as blemishes, but as some quaint characteristic that make us dearer. The very essence of love consists in some one knowing us for exactly what we are, and loving us still.

igure a perfect thirty-six; that he is blind to the fact that she gets her. complexion at the drug store, and that he never suspects that her permanent wave is the result of art likes to delude herself by believing disposition, and is altogether too good and fine for this wicked world. Undoubtedly, in the days of courtship, her lover perjured himself like gentleman and told her all these hings that she was longing to hear. But the man knows at the time that he is lying, and the woman would know it, too, if she would permit Mount Brydges and herself to face the truth for a moment. For she is perfectly well aware that no man who had sense enough to be permitted abroad without a keeper could have such a delusion about her No man, for even a passing glance, thinks a plain woman beautiful, nor a dull one brilliant, nor a fat one thin, nor does he mistake a red-headed, snappy-eyed woman for a meek and patient Griselda. He doesn't love her for something she isn't, but for the thing she is. He sees the snub nose and the hay-colored hair; he knows that she isn't going to set the world on fire, and that many a time he is going to have to walk on eggs to keep from riling her.

But, all the same, there is something in her plain face that makes a greater hit with him than any living picture; something that soothes him in her unexciting babble; something that makes him feel he'd rather fight with her than live in peace with another

That's the love of a man for a woman. Something that says: "With all thy faults I love thee still."

And it's the same way with women. Probably no woman would ever get a husband if she didn't make some man think that she thought him General Pershing and Otis Skinner and Rudolph Valentino and Mr. Rockefeller and Solomon, all rolled into one, and that she couldn't find a fault in his whole make-up if she hunted for it with a microscope.

But that's press-agent stuff. That's campaign literature. There isn't a man living clever enough and subtle enough to fool a girlbaby while she is still in the cradle about what he is. Every woman has got the number of every man she has known for an hour, down to the last figure, and she knows him better than he

Do you think that the bride who swears at the altar to take a man for worse believes that it is all better and no worse in hers? Not much. Do you think she thinks that some little, sawed-off, egotistical chap, who talks too much about himself, is a tall, modest, reserved hero? She just doesn't care about how he looks to others because he looks good to her, and he can't bore her talking about himself because he's the one subject in the world she's the most interested in. And that's that. Male Quartete sang the musical num-

We don't demand perfection in those we love. We don't really good who are most loved; it is the poor, blundering sinners. It's the prodigals that we are always getting out the brass band and slaying the fatted calf for, not the austere saints.

And perhaps the reason for this is because we have no kinship, no fellowship with the faultless. We need forgiveness so often ourselves that we love best those who are in our own class, and who also have a fellow-feeling for us because they likewise do not grade up too high.

This is why men and women seldom marry their ideals, and why we choose for friends "poor Fanny" or "poor Mary," who are always making ridiculous blunders, and "poor John" and "poor Tom," whom we are always pulling out of the holes they get themselves into, but whom we love better than we do better men and women.

The only time when love is blind is when parents look at their children. Then, indeed, we see people afflicted with an astignatism that renders them incapable of seeing the thing that is before their

We see parental love so blind that it cannot behold in its offspring the faults that are patent to the world. We see parents who really believe homely girls beautiful; neglected girls belles; runty little children withadenoids marvels of childish grace and fascination; who hear the music of the spheres in their children's screeching, and who see nothing but playful spirit in their children's destruction of property.

It is because parental love is blind that fathers and mothers fail to see their children's faults and correct them, and so wreck many a life that might have been of use to the world. It is only parental love that is blind. All other love sees and loves. But parental love loves without seeing. DOROTHY DIX. Copyright, 1923, by Public Ledger Company.

It Is Easy to Lose An Unsightly Complexion

And do you know you can do that very thing? Not to actually remove the entire skin all of a sudden; that would be too heroic a method, and painful, too. The wornout cuticle comes off in such tiny particles, and so gradually, it doesn't hurt a bit. Little by little the beautiful complexion underneath comes forth. No matter how muddy, rough, blotchy or freckled your complexion, you can surely discard it by this simple process. Just get an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at your druggist's, apply nightly like cold cream, washing it off mornings. The result will be traly marvelous.—Advt.

> Judge Refers To Lack of Criminal Cases At Fall Assizes.

Special to The Advertiser. Sarnia, Sept. 25 .- In his charge to the grand jury at the Lambton fall assizes today, Justice Orde extended congratulations to the County of Lambton for the lack of criminal cases. There was only one case on the docket. The recent amendment extending the jurisdiction of the county court had served to bring many cases before that tribunal instead of supreme court.

In receiving the presentment, Justice Orde commented on the condition of the courthouse, stating that it was, one of the most satisfactory in the province, as far as convenience and equipment were concerned, and more satisfactory than the courthouses in some of the older communities. He urged the provision of witness rooms, which would eliminate the necessity for witnesses excluded from the rtroom to stand in the corridors Justice Orde also stated that thi might be the last time he would speak to a grand jury in Sarnia. He had been recently elevated to the appellate division, and after Jan. 1 next, might not be on circuit work any

THIS is the housewife's busiest season. The family is home; cooler weather calls us indoors; social engagements press; slush, mud, coal dust and ashes make extra cleaning up necessary. What then could be more welcome than the labor saving qualities of a Dominion Linoleum Rug—so warm and cosy and so easily cleaned? Light mopping replaces tiresome scrubbing and sweeping when these sensible floor coverings are used.

Dominion Linoleum Rugs, too, are highly sanitary and germicidal; they are waterproof, stainproof, germproof. Nowhere will you find more harmonious combinations of beauty and economy.

Dominion Linoleum Rugs are made in sizes to fit any room. The range of patterns and colorings will please the most fastidious and many designs are available in at least two distinct sets of colorings.

DOMINION Linoleum by the Yard

Studebaker Reaches Year's Low and Tires Yield to Bear Attacks.

By STUART P. WEST.

Special to The Advertiser.

New York, Sept. 26.—Further weakness in some of the motor stocks and in the ruboers and tires was one of the chief incidents in the trading on the stock exchange today. Studebaker maos a new low for the year. Seiling in the tire shares was not heavy, but they yielded very readily to bear attacks.

One of the rumors accompanying this week's campaign against Studebaker has been that the Fords were planning a quantity production of Lincoln cars. If there were anything to this story it might account for the weakness in the Studebaker stocks, but it does not jibe with the steadiness displayed by General Motors. This one stock, at least, which has been consistently and very socially supported, yet with good reason, in the earnings warrant a higher dividend, and this could come at any time. Resistance began to be encountered in steel common around 86, in Baidwin Locomotive below 113, in Studebaker around 96, and in American Can under 90. These four stocks had been making about a third of the total trading, and when they commenced to steady the general list was immediately influenced.

Followers of the railroad stocks onc Followers of the railroad stocks once more had occasion to be disappointed by the way they acted. Northern Pacific and Great Northern preferred both came down a point, and were off over two points from their recent high. Evidently their little upturn had been entirely dependent upon the covering in a short interest. Although Union Pacific's Angust statement made the best comparison with other months of any that so far have happened, the stock was freely offered, one or two large blocks changing hands on the dip to 128.

Sugar stocks were helped by the further advance in sugar prices, both raw and refined. A little buying came in to Anaconda and one or two others of the coppers on the idea that the prospective resumption of business in the Ruhr would improve the export deniand for the copper metal.

Sir Basil is the Royal Dutch Company. He has been referred to in the House of Parliament as the world's richest man. He is certainly Europe's richest man. He holds the destinies of half a dozen countries of Europe at this minute, for he has financed them all. About 1860 or a little later he was a ragamuffin on the streets of Paris. Today the potentates of Europe seek him and pay tribute to him. He has patronized many persons and movements of one kind or another and yet but few persons know him. He declines to make use of automobiles or typewriters.

lagers from the mountain districts have their yarns dyed for them by skilled chemists.

The "tying" of rugs is done with the same primitive cleverness of native fingers as in other days, with the village women sitting astride simple looms stretched between pegs on the ground, working to the music of the hillside shepherd's flute. What-ever advance in colors outside seigne has provided, nothing is modern or machine-driven about the weaving. Even in the Persian city factories where rugmaking is a trade there is the inevitable shadowy romance that belongs to the rugs created by the forgotten arts of the ages.

Fielding Gives Statement

Fear Halt of Passive Resist-

with some anxiety, in view of the possibilities of a nationalist movement, such as one tending to separate Bavaria from the Reich, the outbreak of mild Bolshevism in Prussia, and fresh impetus to the separatist movement in the Rhineland. Should serious disturbances of any sort arise in the rest of Germany, it is thought they would most certainly have the result of increasing the number of Rhine-landers desiring to assure continua-tion of their tranquility by separation.

The allied troops, it is asserted in official circles, will not be allowed to take sides in any conflict, as in the absence of other military force tesponsibility rests upon them for the maintenance of order in the occupied territory. There is good reason for the conclusion that the French attribute little importance to the attribute little importance to separatist movement thus far, but that they will not intervene to pre-vent the inhabitants from taking any action they see fit, so long as order is not disturbed.

In the event the cessation of passive In the event the cessation of passive resistance is not attended by violent outbreaks, the allies will, it is assumed here, be faced at once with the necessity of providing for a new regime of occupation. The hypothesis is that the industrial leaders of the Ruhr, freed from the restrictive decrees of the Berlin government, will repeat the promises made after the repeat the promises made after the beginning of the occupation to pay the coal tax demanded by the occupation authorities and to keep up with them.

Associated Press Despatch. Duesseldorf, Sept. 25 .- The decision of the Berlin government to cease passive resistance in the Ruhr and the Rhineland thus far has not pro-duced a single ripple of disturbance among the population of the Ruhr. Notwithstanding leading editorials in the German newspapers, even as late as Monday, predicting that there would be a spontaneous outburst of disorder if passive resistance were abandoned unconditionally, the news of its actual abandonment could not have produced a more undramatic

As to whether the lack of visible excitement was due to stupefaction caused by the abruptness of the Berlin Government's decision, or whether the population generally fully re-alized that passive resistance had really petered out on its own account, opinion of the leading Germans today was divided. Some of today's newspapers declared that the gov-ernment's decision was the only thing to be done, and that it was really "the natural course of events." Other newspapers satisfy the pride of their readers by saying that Chancellor Stresemann and cabinet apparently decided to give up passive resistance, there really were mental reservations, and a successful resumption of the economic activities in the Ruhr depended on how France decided to treat the popula-York — Demand, a general attitude, somewhat as foltion. Seven or eight loads of hay were the Seven or eight loads of hay were the only offerings on the local market this morning. Farmers are busy at the present time preparing for fall work, and are unable to attend the market. On this account oats are scarce, and prices have advanced slightly. Hay figures show no change at $12.00 to $14.00 per ton for the better grades.

The usual Wednesday shipment of live hogs was made, selects bringing $9.00 f.o.b. Peaches are steady, and prices for No. -1 quality are firm as quoted in

TODAY'S OPENING PRICES. Associated Press Despatch. Chicago, Sept. 26.-Influenced by reports that European purchasing wheat yesterday on this side of the Atlantic totalled almost 2,500,000 bash-Atlantic totalled almost 2,500,000 bushels, the wheat market here averaged higher in price today during the early dealings. The fact that the Winnipeg market was firm despite liberal receipts counted also as a bullish factor. Besides Washington despatches telling of various plans for farm relief attracted considerable attention. Opening prices, which varied from ½c decline to ½c advance, were followed by moderate gains all around. Corn and oats were firm with wheat, and September corn toucifed a new high price record for the season. After opening at ¾c off to ½c up, the corn market held inside of narrow limits. Oats started unchanged to ½c up, and later steadied a little above yesterday's finish. Lower quotations on hogs weakened the market. Futures opened:

What is General Motors?

A question the answer to which is of interest to every present or prospective motor car owner.

Cadillac, McLaughlin-Buick, Oldsmobile, Oakland and Chevrolet—these are automobiles known and with GMC Trucks, they carry people and goods wherever motor vehicle transportation is employed.

General Motors is an operating corporation, owning the plants, properties and other assets of companies which make, finance and distribute automobiles and automobile parts, accessories and equipment of nearly every sort. There are 33 manufacturing organizations, 28 sales companies and 10 miscellaneous companies—a total of 71—in the General Motors family. And its sales and service organizations cover the globe.

Each General Motors' productfrom the finest limousine to the tiniest ball bearing—is better because of its association with the rest. Thus the phrase "A General Motors' Product" is a symbol of higher quality at lower cost the world over.

Besides six complete motor vehicles, divisions of General Motors make automotive accessories and equipment which not only go into General Motors' cars but are standard on practically all the fine cars made in this and other countries.

RUHR SURRENDER

British Cabinet May Hear Result of Premier's Conversation.

PAPERS PERTURBED

Associated Press Despatch. London, Sept. 26.—Germany's unconditional surrender in the Ruhr invests tiday's meeting of the British cabinet with additional importance. It is the first cabinet council in several weeks during which time events of great moment directly affecting British interests have happened. The deliberations, of course, are secret, as usual, and no official report of them is to be expected. It is taken for granted that the foremost subject of the discussion will be foreign affairs, and that before the close Minister Baldwin of his much-discussed conversation with Premier Poincare. It in not supposed, however, that the cabinet members will be called upon to decide any important point of policy, in view of the present uncertainty in the situation ail around.

of Germany is very limited. The Dally Mail, staunch supporter of France, raises a paean of triumph and praise for Premier Poincare, but the newspapers which so severely condemned his policy are mostly silent.

The Morning Chronicle, however, harshly scores France and the present British government for causing in Germany "a financial collapse of appalling magnitude," and adds: "The economic ruin of Germany is a deadly blow to British trade and to the British ideas of reconstruction. . . . It is rather a bad day for England and English

Some of the newspapers are greatly perturbed as to how Great Britain will are in reparations in view of Germany's present position. The Times more than doubts whether the payment of repara-tions to any of the Allies appears more than probable as a result of the French success in the Ruhr.

BAILIFFS TAKE CHARGE OF LOCAL AUTO PREMISES

Baliffs, acting on behalf of the Ballis, acting on benall of the landlord, have taken possession of the garage and building used by Tennent and Wilkinson as a showroom and workshop for the cars which they are agents for in this

A visit to the premises this morning disclosed no sign of activity but the bailiff sitting in the office. Not the bailiff sitting in the office. Not a car was to be seen in the garage and according to the bailiff, three display models which are kept in the show windows have disappeared. Steps are being taken to bring these cars back, and secure them for part of the assets to cover the liabilities. On Monday a bailiff acting for the city seized the repair truck of the firm for taxes unpaid amounting to firm for taxes unpaid, amounting to about $85, while the landlord's bailiff took possession yesterday.

It is not known for what amount the firm failed for nor whom the creditors are, but it is understood that the liabilities are much greater
