Men Becoming More Handsome

London, Jan. 2 .- The conditions London, Jan. 2.—The conditions of modern civilization are changing men's faces and making them generally more handsome, according to Sir Arthur Keith, conservator of the museum of the Royal College of, Surgeons. He says a diminished use of the jaws is causing changes in the boney framework of the human face. Walter Stoneham, who com-olles the photographic record of dery, declares that in general men's faces are becoming nar-rower and more refined.

HOLD RALLY AT KNOX OF PRESBYTERY Y.P.S.

Expect Six Hundred Will Attend Large Gathering on February 9.

The young people of the Presbyterian churches of the city are holding their annual meeting at Knox church, London, on Feb. b. It is expected that there will be about 600 members present, and special speakers will be missionary volunteers from Knox College, Toronto.

Rev. F. W. K. Harris will give an address on "New Church Literature" in the afternoon. Hugh Carroll, the presbytery president, will occupy the chair. The members will then divide into four groups for conference work.

For there is no other woman in the world who works so hard and toils such unmerciful hours as does the wife and mother in a poor family. There is no union day for her. She has no hour off at lunch. Her day does not start at 9 o'clock and cnd at 5. It begins at 6 and runs around to 6 again, because there is no hour of the day or night in which she is not on duty end subject to call if needed.

She can never knock off work and call it a day, because a woman's work in the home is never done. She must be forever cooking meals, and sending clothes, and washing little faces because these things have to be done over and over again every day, year in and year out.

Hadden I there is one thing st. Jobis maked in potential source is in pitchers, and for that matter the same may be said of Boston, yet Boston needs infielders and outfielders perhaps worse than it needs mound men. If St. Louis could be induced to drop off some of its surplus fielders in exchange for a pitcher, Boston might get something that would help. Yet even then the Bostons would be forced to hustle, for they would have to find pitching support before they could make much headway in the National league.

If Bancroft, the Boston manager, succeeds in making anything out of the material he has, he will establish a reputation that should make him one of the best constructive men in baseball.

MAJESTIC PLAYERS

Object Lesson Does Not Dull Entertainment—Present-Day Conflict Depicted.

While theatregoers attend the offerings of the producers primarily for entertainment, many adroit authors have found that a play setting forth an object-lesson is acceptable if the moral does not dull the entertainment value. Such a play is "The Fool," Channing Pollock's Broadway success, which has enjoyed such a good run here, and will close Saturday night, "The Fool" is so human and so built around the present-day conflict of the powers and emotions, that it could scarcely but be attractive. The play might almost be called daring, for the author has made no attempt to gloss over existing conditions in America.

There is a wealth of observation accurately set down. The ideals, the aims and desires of the American are placed on exhibition, as it were. Each character has his views on re-Each Character

COOLIDGE SHAKES 4,000 HANDS IN DAY

President of U. S. Holds New Year's Reception at White House.

Associated Press Despatch.

*Washington, D.C., Jan. 1.—Throw ing open the door of the White House to all who cared to call, President and Mrs. Coolidge today received 4,000 persons at their New Year's reception. The chief executive and his wife for four hours and a half stood in the blue room shaking hands with their callers and extending and receiving New Year's greetings. Beginning at 11 o'clock, the reception was scheduled to end at 2:30, but when that hour arrived Mr. Coolidge desired that it be continued until all who desired had opportunity to

The number received was no greater than in previous years, but the proportion of the general public to the portion classed as officials was larger. Moreover, there was less formality about the affair than in the more recent years, some of the older White House attaches describing it as a reversal to the New Year reservices of the pre-war period when

FREEDOM IN RUHR IS GERMANS' WISH

President Voices Bitter Disappointment Over Action of Allies.

PROGRESS IN 1924

Associated Press Despatch Berlin, Jan, 1 .- The German valedictories to 1924 and the greetings o the incoming year are largely colored by the ill-feeling over the prospective failure of the allies to evacuate the Cologne area on Jan. 10 as forecast from Paris. While the retrospective views expressed concede that the past year has been one of economic and social progress, the new year prophets are none too sanguine over the immediate outlook for the continued improvement of the nation's internal affairs and its foreign relations.

"The year just closed has been one of conspicuous and progressive convalescence and internal consolida ion for our sorely-tried fatherland, n that our currency, our state finance and our economic life have been liberated from the vicious manifestations and effects of the inflation period and given more secure foundations." President Ebert told a delegation of government leaders, headed by Chancellor Marx, on the occasion of its new year visit to the executive mansion today.

President Ebert said he believed thanks were due Chancellor Marx and his associates in the cabinet for the progress that had been achieved, and he declared Germany owed it to the government's energy and perthe government's energy and per-severance in the face of heavy odds that a tangible step forward had been made.

that a tangible step forward had been made.

Discussing the subject of the evacuation of the Rhineland, the president continued: "Whatever their political faith, the Germans everywhere are today one in their feeling of bitter disappointment and their consciousness of a new and painful injustice. Under pretexts, with which we are as yet unfamiliar and which we therefore are unable to examine, but of the inconsistencies of which we are all convinced, we are to be deprived of the sole advantage vouchsafed us in an immeasurably oppressive peace treaty—the evacuation of occupied German soil."

This condition, President Ebert observed, was all the more intolerable because Germany was the only truly disarmed nation in a Europe bristlin with armaments.

THE BREATH OF THE AVENUE Here are new fashions you will be seeing and wearing from now on if you go south and even if you stay at home: Hats are high. And then that extra height is crushed down again as suits you best. If it weren't for its denting or creasing, a new hat would look very much like a cloche. But that soft, crushable crown makes all the difference between the new and the old.

Dresses look so slender, and yet they can fit themselves to the longest stride. Godets and groups of pleats do all sorts of clever things with dresses now. But the inverted pleat is the newest invention. You will like the looks of this deep pleat. And when you wear it, you will like it
