MISCELLANEOUS.

eds, (Megantic,) 17th Feb., 1851,

A HARD SHELL'S HYWN BOOK -A travelle called at nightfall at a farmer's home, the owner of the house being from home, the mother and daughter being alone, refused to lodge the traveller. How far then, said he, to a house where a preacher can get lodging he "Oh, if you are a preacher, said the old lady, you can stay here." Accordingly he dismounted. He deposited his saddle bags in the house, and led his horse to the stable. Meanwhile the mother and daughter were debating the point as o what kind of preaches he was. He cannot be a Presbyterian said the one, for he is not dressed well enough. He is not a Methodist, said the other, for his coat is not be right cut for a Methodist. If a could find his Hymn Book, said the daughter, I could find his Hymn Book, said the daughter, I could tell what sort of a preacher he is, and with that she thrust her hand into the saddle-bags, and pulling out a flask of liquor, she exclaimed: La! Mother, be's a Hard Shelled Baptist."

RED COATS AND LADIES' LOVE .- Had the Royal Army of Israel been accourted after the color and fashion of the British battalions, I am quite satisfied that another enigma would have been added by King Solomon to his special list of incomprehensibilities. The extraordinary fascina-tion which a red coat exercises over the minds and optics of the fair sex, appears to me a greate phenomenon than any which has been noticed it Geothe, in his "Theory of the Development ensanguined cloth will irritate a bull, clarm viper, and charm the heart of a woman." civilian, however good-looking or clean-limbed— and I rather pique myself upon my pins—has the ghost of a chance when opposed in the lists of love to an officer, a mail-guard, a whipper-in, or a postman. You may be as clever a fellow as ever coopered up an article for a Magazine, as great a poet as Byron, in beauty an Antimous, in great a poet as Byron, in beauty an Antimous, in wit a Selwyn, in oratory a Canning—you may dance like Vestris, draw like Grant, ride like Alexander; and yet, with all these accomplishments, it is a hundred chances to one that your black coat, although fashioned by the goose Stalz, will be extinguished by the gaudy scarlet habiliments of a rawboned ensign, emancipated say. months ago, for the first time in his life, from the widerness of a Highland glen, and even now as awk ward a rub as ever presumed to plunge into the perils of a polka.—Blackwood's Magazine.

THE CELTIC WOMEN.—The Celtic women, too the polka.—Blackwood's Magazine.

PROOF THAT A MAN IS DEAD .- A subscriber to one of the eastern papers a few years ago being points. Woman's mind is not masculine generally sadly in arrears for the same, promised the editor that if his life was spared to a certain day he would without fail discharge his bill. The day passed, and the bill was not paid. The conclu passed, and the bill was not paid. The conclusion, therefore, was that the man was dea'—absolutely defunct. Proceeding on this conclusion, the editor in his next paper placed the name of his delinquent under his obituary head, with the attending circumstances of time and place.

Pretty soon after this announcement, the subject may be found, perhaps, next door, or street may be found, perhaps, next door, or street may be found, perhaps, next door, or street.

A Touch of Old Sie Andrew Agrew.—

Lord G onge Murray having established his quarers in the village of Blair, about Lord G arge Murray having established his quarter or a mile from the north of the castle, soon and down a summons to Sir Andrew Agnew, Bart 10 surrender, intimating that "he should answer to the contrary at his peril." Now Sir Andrew was reputed to be a man of an outra-cour temper; and the flighted answer to the contrary at his peril." Now Sir Andrew was reputed to be a man of an outra-cour temper; and the flighted dragoons, shrank from encountering the sturdy-imperious old suddier. The only person, therefore, who could be prevailed upon to carry the summons, was a maid-servant from the irin at Stair, who, being a comely Highland girl, and acquainted with being a comely Highland girl, and acquainted with eas a maid-servent from the firm at Brair, ware, being a comely Highland girl, and acquainted with some of the soldiers, conceived herself to be on so it endly a footing with them that she might encounter the rist. The aummons was written on a counter the rist. counter the rist. The summons was written on a very dirty piece of paper; and corresponded well with the appearance of the herald who conveyed it. P ovided with this, the young woman set out; as she approached the castle, she waved the summons over ner head several times, and drawing near one of the windows on she basement story, made hereaft he windows on she basement story, made hereaft heard. She was received by the officers with bostserous murth; they assured her that they should soon revisitfie village and her master's house again, and drive away the Highlanders; but, when entreated by the girl to take her into Sir Andrew's presence, they all at first refused; at last the summons was reflectantly conveyed to the commandant, by a lieutenint more venturesome than the rest. HEREPTART TYPES OF RACES.—M. Abel Amuses has been able, by comparing hinguage with history, to discover all the notundic tribes of Asia is their primitive souts, not withstanding the numerous revolutions and co-quests in that part of the gibe. If the two are in equal numbers and mingle, the characteristics of each will mark their descendants; but will not be blended in every instance, because it is not possible for every pair to be one of each nation. If they are disproportionate, the characteristics of the most numerous will prevail; but the disproportion must be extreme, and the twa must greatly mingle, for the characters of one to be diluted till they are effaced; and if effaced, their disappearance arises probably not from mere mingling, but from the cruel oppression of a very am li by a very numerous race till it is extinct. The difficulty of the disappearance of a type will be increased by the probability of each people inhabiting some particular districts, and so not mingling. From these circumstances, Dr. Edwards was able to discover the type of the ancient Romans, and probably of the founders of the assens and their surrounding ensmises, in the Papal territory; and in Tuscany, this, and also another race with a high and well-developed forehead, long and not be oad head, nose cut well till the particular and other distinguished men of the republic of Flornnee, and traceable in some Etruscan bastraliefs, and met with by him at Bologna, Ferrara, Padua, Venice, and still more frequently at Milan, as well as on this side of the Alpa at Genera and HESEDITARY TYPES OF RACES,-M. Abe reliefs, and met with by him at Bologna, Ferrara, Padua, Venice, and still more frequently at Milan, as well as on this side of the Alpa at Genera and Chalons. In Burgundy, Dauphiny, and Savoy, another type, with rounded head, middling forehead retreating at the temples, straight nose and features, and middling stature, prevailed the most. These two types were the posterity of two Gaulish tribes the letter the descendants of the ancient Gaula, and the former of the Cimbri. This type he found in Eng and, and therefore infirst that the ancient Britons, whose descendants they are, were ancient Britons, whose descendants they are, were never exterminated. It exists chiefly in the north of France, the Belgium of Casar, and Armorica. In France, the Gaul, type prevails, and bence the stumpy French so dera; in Normandy and Bel-gium the tail men with long faces and noces show the Cimbrian or Kimbric type to prevail.—The

THE AFFOHAMS OF OLD .- The hardy mountaineers of Affghanstan, Bokhars, Khiva, and Thibet, were then, (the period of Alexander the Great's Indian conquests), as at present, far different to the generality of Asiatics in warlike spirit and endurance. From these districts Danius sollected large bodies of admirable infantry; and the countries of the modern Kuds and Turcomans supplied, as they do now account of the present the state of do now, squadrons of horsemen, hardy, skilful, bole, and trained to a life of constant activity and warfare. Contingents also came in from the numerous other province: that yet obeyed the Great King. Altog ther the borse are said to have been forty thousand, the sey'l-bearing to hariots two hundred, and the armed elephants fifteen in number. The amount of infantry is uncertain; but the know ledge which both ancient and modern times supply of the a uni character of oriental armies, and of their populations of camp followers, may warrant us in believing that many myriads were prepated to fight, or to encumber those who tought, for the last Darius. His great assailant came on against him across the Euphrates and the Tigris, at the him across he cophrains and the lights, at the head of a army, which Arrian, copying from the memoirs of Macedonian Generals, stales, to have consisted of about forty, thousand foot and seven thousand borne. To Englishmen, who know with what mere handfuls of mon our own Generals have at Plassy, at Assaye, at Meeance, and other Indian battles, routed large hosts of Asiatics, the dispatity of numbers that we need of in the victories with by of numbers that we read of in the victories won by the Macedonians over the Persians presents noth ing incredible. The army which Alexander now led was wholly composed of v teran troops in the highest possible state of equipment and descriptine, enthusiastically devoted to their leader, and full of confidence in his military genius and his victorious destiny. They marched on till within a few miles of the Persian came, which some intervaling his

Neither did it, like other apparitions, wait to be first spoken to, but broke silence—"What the _, Sir, do you mean by publishing my death?" "Why, Sir, the same that I mean by publishing the death of any other person, viz. to let the world know that you were dead."—"Well, but I am not dead." "Not dead! then it's your own fault, for you told me you would positively pay your bill by such a day if you lived till that time. The day is past, the bill is not paid, and you positively must be dead, for I will not believe you would forfest your word—O no!" I see you have got round me, Mr. Editor—but say no more about it, here is the money. And harkee, you was, just contradied my death in the next paper, will you!" O, certainly, Sir, just to please you—though, upon my word, I can't help thinking you died at the time specified, and that you have merely come back to pay this bill, on account of your frieendship for me."

ANTIQUIET OF THE USE OF GOLD IN DENTHERY.—Having occasion the other day to turn up Cicero's Treatise on the Laws, the following passage sitracted our notice as illustrating a fact which in this self-glorying age we often forget,
viz., that the sacients understood and practised
many of the nicer arm with a perfection quite equal to that of the moderns. Speaking of the religious laws of the Romans, Cicero says;—

The following is a copy of Her Majesty's Speech

My Lords on! Gen! men!—It is with great satisfaction that I again meet my Parliament, and reart to your advice and assistance in the consaleration of measures which affect the welfare of our country. I continue to maintain the relations of peace and amity with Poreign Powers.

It has been my endeavor to induce the States of Oermany to carry into full wflect the provisions of the Treaty with Denmark, which was concluded at Berlin in the menth of July of last year. I am much gratified in being able to inform you that the German Confederation and the Government of Denmark are now engaged in fulfilling the stipulations of that Treaty, thereby putting an end to hostilities, which at one time appeared full of danger to the peace of Europe.

I trust that the affairs of Germany may be aranged by mutual agreement in such a manner as to preserve the strength of the Confederation and t maintain the freedom of its separate States.

I have concluded with the King of Serdinia
Asticles additional to the Treaty of September, 1841, and I have directed that those Articles shall be faid before you, change that the new, and opposition, such as it was, proceeded from Mr. Roebuck, who can see no danger in the dominion of Popery. With him it is nothing but the do-minion of intellect! He advocates free-trade in

The state of the Commerce and Manufactures of the United Kingle in his been such as to afford general employment to the laboring classes.

I have to lamont, however, the difficulties which are still felt by that important body among my people who are owners and occupiers of land. But it is my confident hope, that the prosperous condition of other classes of my subjects with have a favorable effect in diminishing those difficulties, and grounding the interests of agriculture.

The recent assumption of certain Ecclesiastical Titles conferred by a Poreign Power has excited strong feelings in this country, and large bodies of my subjects have presented Addresses to me expressing attachment to the Throne, and praying that such assumptions should be resisted. I have assured them of my resolution to maintain the rights of my Crown, and the independence of the nation, against all sucreachment, from whatever quarter it may proceed. It have, at the same time, expressed my connect desire and firm determination, ander God's bleasing to maintain unimpaired the Religious Liberty which is so inside rived by the people of this country.

The administration of justice in the Civil Departments of Law and Equity will no doubt receive the serious attention of Parliament; and I feel confident that the measures which may be submitted with a view of improving that administration, will be discused with that mature deliberation which important changes in the highest Courts of Judicature in the Kingdom importations.

To combine the progress of improvement with the stability of our institutions will, Lam confident, be your doubtint care. We may esteem ourselves fortunate that we can pursue, without disturbance, the course of calm and peaceable amelioration; and we have every cause to be thankful to Almighty God for the measure of transmillity and happiness which has been youtheafed to us.

The people of this country, although they look forward to the publication of the Royal Speech sorward to the publication of the Royal Speech with interest and anxiety, never expect to find in it anything but an indistinct and shadowy out-line of the intentions of Government; and on the present occasion, notwithstanding there are one or lian of the intentions of Government; and on the present occasion, notwithstanding there are ease or two subjects of wast importance which must compute the intentions consideration of Parliament, Ministern determined that the Spoech should be a variety and indonite as possible. As regard the Payla aggression, Her Majesty has not been permitted to site a single sentiment beyond the third constituted the Replies to the varieties. Addresses, which have been presented on the subject, namely; the assurance of Her Majesty has not been all the subject of the surface of Her Majesty has not been permitted to site a single sentiment beyond the anticipated reministon of examining the maintain the rigits of her Crown and the independence of the Nation against all encreachment, from whatever quartes it may process. It is satisfactory, however, to know that, although the latest was not departed from the usual course in the construction of the floral Speech, they have asken the earliest orportunity of informing the Nation as to the stopes which they intend to the search of the floral Speech, they have asken the earliest orportunity of informing the Nation as to the stopes which they intend to the regard to the intendent assumption of Propries, for we find that, these of intendents in the stopes which they intend to the regard to the floral Speech, they have asken the earliest orportunity of informing the Nation of the Royal Speech, they have been the state of aggression, the Premier would, on Prival part, (this evening,) more for leave to the state of aggression, the Received on the Agreement of the Royal Speech, they have been as BIR to prevent the assumption of Propries, for we find that, these of intendents of the floral Speech they have been as a second to the state of aggression, the Royal Speech they have been as a second to the state of the state of aggression and the state of the state of aggression, the Royal Speech they have been as a second to the state of the state of the state of aggression of the Queen's maning sion of the Slave-Trade, and Mr. D'Israeli will call the attention of the House to the continued distress of the agricultarists, with a view of adopting some measures for their relief.

The Budget is to be brought forward immediately, in order to put a stop to the agitation aging on in carrous localities to obtain the preference in the anticipated remission of taxation. When a man is so ready with his accounts, it wears a very favorable appearance; and if is to be hoped the Chancellor of the Exchequer will, mimoral by clamar, deal out impactial justice; and i have no dcart in that case the wast major ty of the nation will give him their appear.

ing these diffication, and premoting the interests of agriculture. Upon wast grounds the Government lasts restand to put these worth into the month of their Royal Mistrem. I am at a loss to discover. It is the boast of the Free-Trade perty, that "other classes" have been prospering since the repeal of the Corn Law,—and yet we see that, with such continued and increased prospering since the repeal of the Corn Law,—and yet we see that, with such continued and increased prospering, the condition of the "owners and occupiers of land" has been reduced from had to worse, and that "the present moment agricultural produces does not pay the cost of profiction. The Government will have some difficulty in detending their position when the question is brought under the consideration of Parliament by the Opiosition. cannot but indulge the hope that the reforms contemplated in the Court of Chancery, and the Law Courts of Westminster, will be of the most extensive character. The expense, delay, and cumbrous ive character. The expense, delay, and cumbrous machinery of our great Equity tribunals, are the reproach of the age in which we live, and the rain of almost all those whose property becomes engulfed within their vast and dreaded jurisdiction. The simplification of pleadings and process in the Law Courte is indeed equally and imperatively demanded by all classes and ranks of Eng-tishmen. The paragraphs which relats to Foreign affairs do not call for particular notice. It is worthy of remark that the Speech dom contain a word respecting our Colonial Dependencies. The measures of the present Government have entailed ruin upon a large class of Her Mejesty's subjects connected with the Colonies, and yet there is not a word of sympathy for them, nor is there a single ray of hope as regards the future.

The Address moved and seconded in the House of Peers respectively by Lords Effingh on such language as to command unanimity, even from the Roman Catholics in both Houses. That

In the erection of machines, steam power, water power, and the multitudinous arrangements rendered necessary before the treasures of the world are properly displayed, there is yet an astonishing deal of labor to get through that the skill, ingenuity, and industry, brought to bear upon the whole scheme, leave no doubt but that it will be complete by the time a position.

It is m lancholy to see the abortive struggles made by Mr. John O'Connell, to hold his father's oface in Ireland. Mr. O'Connell in by no means descitate of ability, but he has fa ten into the great mistake of supposing that his father's moutle he descended upon his senatorial shoulders, or that the people of Its land will be guiled into the belief that the mission of the liberator has descended by right of p imogeniture. Mr. John O'Connell called a neeting of the trish members, to take place on Tuesday, for the purpose of deliberating on the line of policy ta be followed during the ensuing esssion. No notice was taken of the sun mone, and Mr. O'Connell found himrelf alone - a very humiliating position for the self-constituted leader or a party t be placed in. Mr.

The Bill was, as matter of course, referred to the Bureaux to repor t rms the proceedings of the Pope-without a diupon. Some murmuring vented itself on the vision. Of the result no one can entertain a left, but the general feeling of the Assembly doubt. There is no doubt, therefore. that the dotation will be refused by an immense majority, composed of the whole force of the Legitimists and Republicans, and a good aprinkling of M. Thiers' followers. The majority consider that the project was of too serious a character to have been brought forward by the transition Miniptry. The Bonapartists themselves desire the rejection of the Bill, because they think thet the country will deem the President ill-used, and come forward with a subscription, for excepting the sum demanded of the Assembly. The half-expressed " muttered" opposition of Mr. Bright and his clique would only timulate the Peers, and, indeed, perhaps, the Commons, to retaliate, by making a " Protestant Aggression" upon Roman Catholic Ireland. We shall have all kinds of fussy speeches about "retrograde steps." by a small clique, but the overwhelming majority of both Houses, and of the people of England, will approve of any effectual steps which may be taken to guard the bulwarks of our Protestant religion from any future isolent aggression.

Some of our contemporaries have published a, long letter purporting to be written by the Rev. Heber Playfair, D. D., copied from some English paper, and siddressed to Lord John Russell, in which the writer takes high ground against His Lordship, and in a centain degree argues in favor of Dr. Wiseman. From passages in the letter, it would appear that the writer denires it to be believed that he is a Clergyman of the Church of England; but it is somewhat odd that no such name is to be found in the list of the Clergy of the Datted Church of England and Iroland. We are indebted to Mr. Lord, Purser of the Crescent City, for our Jamaica files to the 10th instant. The cholera had ceased to produce any auxiety in Kingston, but still lingered in the interior of the Island, where it had lost none of its malignity.

The journals are decussing the propriety of inviting the immigration to the Island of free blacks from the United States, to repair the scarcity of labot which exists there. A work is now in press in Kingston, which is designed to present the advantages of Jamaics as at anylum for the free negroes of the United States. It is intimated that Government may offer some inducements to the colored immigrant.
