DEATH OF MRS. JAS. BLAIR

At the home of her brother, Munsell Brown of Glen Elbe, the death occurred on Sunday of his sister, Mrs James Blair of Ellisville. Mrs Blair had spent the past couple of months in Brockville receiving medical treatment and feeling very much improved, left for home on Monday of last week, stopping with Mr Brown enroute to make a short visit. Contracting a cold, pleurisy developed and in her weakened condition she could not withstand the attack. Throughout her illness she was a most patient sufferer.

Mrs Blair was a daughter of the late J W Brown, a pioneer of Leeds County and a representative of one of its best known families. The greater part of her life was spent in and around Ellisville, where she was much beloved. Besides her husband she is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Mrs Halladay, Ellisville; Mrs McVeigh and Mrs J McIntosh, Brockville; Mrs G M Bates, Byron Brown, Munsell Brown, Glen Elbe; Hiram Brown, Iona, Mich, and Omer Brown, Delta.

The body was taken to Ellisville on Monday for interment.

WEIGHING CHEESE

At the last meeting of Brockville Cheese Board, Mr Wilson said he would submit to the royal commission the following suggestions as to the weighing of cheese:—

1 That at least ten per cent of the shipment or lot be tested and the cheese weighed separately as at present.

2 No allowance to be made over good up-beam weight.

3 That on every cheese tested the weigher must place on the box of such cheese some stamp to designate that the cheese had been re-weighed.

4 That the government appoint an inspector-referee on weights, he to obtain copies of weighers' certificate and weigh as many of the tested lots as time will permit.

5 If said inspector finds any lot of cheese incorrectly reported by the public weigher he should report the same to the salesman and buyer of the lot or lots of cheese.

6 If any salesman or buyer requests the inspector to investigate the public weigher's report on weights of any particular lot of cheese, in such case he to act as a referee on weights, his report being final.

Mrs E Plant was second with 29,000,000 but the other contestants were considerably behind those figures. An enormous number of votes were turned in so that the friends of the contestants must have worked with a will. Since the announcement was made on Saturday Miss Moore has been congratulated on all sides on her success. The piano is a handsome one of the Upton make."

TURK ARMY ROUTED BY INFERIOR FORCE

Four Days' Battle Resulted in Utter Defeat of Moslems by Bulgarians.

Nazim Pasha, Porte's War Minister, Reported Dead—Allies Plan For Spoils.

Sofia, Nov. 4.—Details thus far of the rout of the immense Turkish army by the Bulgarians show that the Bulgarian forces were numerically far inferior.

The Turkish army is reported to have aggregated 200,000 men. It included the garrison which had retreated from the captured fortress of Kirk-Kilisah, as well as the main body of Turkish troops which had advanced from Constantinople. It comprised practically the whole of the Turkish troops remaining in Europe, apart from the garrisons of Adrianople, Salonika, Monastir, Kania, Scutari and a few other towns.

This great army was under the personal command of Nazim Pasha, Minister of War and commander-in-chief, who was assisted by some of the most able Turkish generals serving in the army at the present moment.

The fight opened with the discovery by the Turks of a number of Bulgarian cavalry scouts. The Turks drew in their outposts, and those were closely followed by lines of Bulgarian skirmishers, who were succeeded by the main Bulgarian army in fighting formation.

The battle, which was destined to last several days and result in the defeat of the Turks, was soon in progress all along the line.

The Bulgarian troops repeatedly delivered fierce attacks, sometimes at one point, sometimes at another, along the Turkish line extending from Lule Burgas to Serai.

The Turkish troops offered a stubborn and desperate resistance, but were unable to withstand the onslaught of the impetuous Bulgarians, and finally they turned and fled in great disorder toward Tchorlu, in the south.

The losses of the Ottoman army are reported to have been enormous in dead, wounded and prisoners, as well as ammunition and other supplies.

The capture of a third Turkish military train near Lule Burgas before the battle was an immense advantage to the Bulgarians, as it furnished them with more facilities for the transport of their troops and supplies to the district where the fighting took place.

negotiations on the subject have yet taken place.

CUTS TURK'S COMMUNICATIONS.

Sofia, Nov. 4.—The Bulgarian troops to-day occupied the Turkish town of Demotica, thus completely cutting off the possibility of communication between Adrianople and Constantinople.

MORE DETAILS.

Sofia, Nov. 4.—A few more details have reached here of the four days' battle between Adrianople and Constantinople, which resulted in the utter rout of the Turkish army.

General Savoff, Bulgarian commander-in-chief of the Turkish army of 250,000 men, under Nazim Pasha, the War Minister. The battle extended along the line from Lule Burgas eastward to Serai. The Turkish front was over 31 miles long.

The Turkish forces greatly outnumbered the Bulgarians, the latter not exceeding 150,000, many having been investing Adrianople.

The eastern wing of the Turkish army at Viza was able to maintain its ground at first against the Bulgarian troops, but could gain no success, and after three days' fighting, fled. The Bulgarian army vigorously pursued the Turks, who retreated in disorder and panic on Serai and Tchorlu. Yesterday they were driven from this stand. Many guns and large quantities of ammunition have been captured. Aivali, near Lule Burgas, and Maras have been burned. All the Christian inhabitants, according to the Bulgarians, were massacred.

The Bulgarians are in pursuit. This seems to indicate that the lines which the Bulgarians are drawing about Constantinople are being brought materially nearer the capital, with only a disorganized and fear-stricken army between the Bulgars and their goal. The Ottoman losses in killed, wounded and prisoners were enormous. Many guns and flags and large quantities of ammunition and other equipment were captured. Bulgarian advisers received last night stated that the villages of Aivali, near Lule Burgas, and Maras, near Adrianople, were burned by the Turks, and all Christians massacred.

IS TURKISH LEADER KILLED?

Budapest, Nov. 4.—The Pester Lloyd reports that Nazim Pasha, the Turkish Minister of War, who was in command at the front, has been killed.

LONDON HEARS IT.

London, Nov. 4.—A despatch from Sofia to the Central News says there is a rumor there that Nazim Pasha has been killed.

Sofia reports the capture of Nazim Pasha's headquarters, but makes no mention of the War Minister's death.

SOLDIERS IN CAB

Toronto Inquest Reveals Strangers Were in Engine.

Toronto despatch: Within 5 minutes before an adjournment was taken last night in the inquest being conducted by Chief Coroner Arthur Jukes Johnson at the city morgue into the Streetsville Junction collision on Thanksgiving evening, when Pte. John A. Bannatyne lost his life, the fact was brought out that two soldiers were in the engine cab of the troop train at the time of the collision.

Although Acting Crown Attorney Thurston conducted the examination of the witnesses, it remained for Attorney Spence, representing the C. P. R., to bring this fact out in the testimony of George Spence, the fireman on the troop train. Spence was asked if there was anything to distract the attention of either he or the engineer on the trip from Milton to the point of the collision. At first the witness said there was not, but when led on by the solicitor for the C. P. R., he acknowledged that two soldiers had entered the engine cab at Milton just before the train pulled out and begged permission to ride there for at least part of the trip.

One of these men rode on the seat with the engineer, while the other occupied the seat of the fireman, on the opposite side of the engine cab.

George Spence, the fireman, said the train was a very heavy one, and he was kept busy at the fires during the entire trip from Milton to Streetsville. When he went to the window shortly after the engineer blew the whistle for Streetsville he noticed that the semaphore was set against the troop train and so informed the engineer. The engineer's reply was that he had seen it. He could give no idea as to why the train did not respond to the application of the emergency brakes, which he said the engineer applied, unless it was because the air had been used up in the application of the brakes in the attempt to bring the train to a stop through the ordinary application of the air.

Chief Coroner Johnson adjourned the inquest until next Monday night at 8 o'clock.

TWO YEARS AND THE LASH.

Windsor despatch: Found guilty of attempting to assault an eight-year-old girl in a vacant house on Sunday, October 13, Arthur Garvey was this morning sentenced by Judge McHugh to two years in the Central Prison, and to receive ten lashes during his imprisonment. This is the second time in the history of the county that a sentence has included the bestiality of the lash.

BLAMED FOR COLLISION.

London, Nov. 4.—The president of the Admiralty Court gave judgment today in an action arising out of the collision between the Helvetia and the Empress of Britain in the St. Lawrence last July, in which the former was sunk, finding that, while both vessels were to blame, the principal fault lay with the Helvetia, the owners of which must pay seven-tenths of the damage.

MANY CHANGES BY NEW LAW

Revised Municipal Act Is Ready For House.

INVITE CRITICISM

Civic Authorities Will Get Copies For Discussion.

Toronto despatch: A revised municipal act is one of the promises in store for Ontario at the next session of the Legislature. Perhaps more than a revised act, the Government's bill is almost a new act, designed to be an improvement on the existing statute, simplified, clarified and made workable.

At the last session of the Legislature, Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, introduced what purported to be a revision of the Municipal Act. The bill was given a first reading, and subsequently withdrawn, so that it might be placed in the hands of county and district court judges, solicitors and municipal officials for criticism and suggestion. The bill is now printed, and will be distributed within a few days. Those receiving a copy will be asked to send any observations they may have to make to Mr. W. B. Wilkinson, Law Clerk of Municipal Bills, so that they may receive consideration by Mr. Hanna before the bill is actually introduced.

The revision represents the work of two years by expert draughtsmen, specially engaged for the purpose, and, following the Minister's instructions, the old act containing about 750 sections, including the numerous amendments since 1903, has been cut down to 538 sections, and at the same time incorporating a number of other acts and parts of acts which should more properly be included.

As the municipal act is practically a text-book to municipal officials, the object of the Government has been to make the procedure as simple and uniform as possible, and as nearly as may be to express the intention of the Legislature in language so that he who runs may read.

Among the many changes, the following more important have been noted: To remove doubt in matters relating to annexation of territory as to what constituted a ratepayer the word "elector" is used throughout.

The occupant of land under an agreement of sale with the owner is deemed to be the owner, and the unpaid purchase money is to be deemed a mortgage.

Wherever power to acquire land for the purpose of the corporation is given, the power to expropriate is to be included.

Municipalities in districts are to be placed in the same position as municipalities in counties, except as to the amount of property qualification required. This gives widows and spinners possessing the necessary property qualifications in a township in any of the districts the right to vote at municipal elections and on local option bylaws, etc. At present only males have the right to vote in municipalities formed in unorganized territory.

WANT NEW RULES

Breeders Wish Changes in Impotment Laws.

Ottawa despatch: A delegation consisting of Messrs. Miller, Garneau, Brethour, Gardhouse and Smith, comprising the National Live Stock Breeders' Committee, waited upon Hon. Mr. Barrell, Minister of Agriculture, to recommend certain changes in the Canadian customs regulations by which animals are admitted free of duty.

The present regulations, the delegation pointed out, allowed a person domiciled in Canada or a British subject the duty-free privilege. As a consequence, it was contended, many United States firms interested only in the trafficking of stock "domiciled" an agent in Canada, who was able to bring in live stock, which in some cases were not considered to be the best breed for the improvement of the stock. The new regulation proposed would accord the duty-free privilege only to a "British subject resident in Canada."

THE IRISH SENATE

British Commons Agrees on Elective Body.

London, Nov. 4.—The Government offered its amendment to the Home Rule Bill providing for election of members for the Irish Senate according to proportional representation schemes in the House of Commons tonight. The members of the first Senate are to be appointed by the Government. Introducing the amendment, Augustine Birrell, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, indicated that it was intended as an additional safeguard against the objections of the Unionists. The debate on the amendment then began.

Ramsay MacDonald, the Socialist and Labor leader, astonished the House by asserting that though he was utterly opposed to proportional representation, he was prepared to allow the experiment to be tried on the Irish Senate because Ireland, he said, represented a low form of social organization.

Bonar Law, the Opposition leader, opposed the amendment on the ground that it was utterly valueless as a safeguard.

John Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, gave the amendment his warm support. He said he preferred a nominated Senate, but as long as the nomination idea was to be maintained for the first critical five years he would support it.

The amendment was carried by a vote of 206 to 209.

ITALY BARS WOMEN LAWYERS.

Rome, Nov. 4.—The Court of Appeals today confirmed the decisions of the lower courts to the effect that women cannot practice law. The case was brought by Miss Labriola, a Socialist, who was the first woman lawyer in Italy, and who has already pleaded with success in the courts.

PLOTTED IN PRISON

Claim Against McNamara in Dynamite Case.

Peculiar Story Regarding Hockin's Alleged Plans.

Indianapolis, Nov. 4.—That J. J. McNamara since he has been confined in San Quentin prison in California, has been plotting to "get" William J. Burns and Walter Drew, of the National Erectors' Association, was the substance of testimony given this afternoon by Edward J. Brennan, a Government agent, at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial. Brennan testified Hockin stated he (Hockin) had visited McNamara in San Quentin this year and that McNamara had said: "I would like to see them 'get' Burns and Drew."

When Hockin was going to the station to return to Indianapolis, Brennan testified McNamara had said: "I would like to see them 'get' Burns and Drew."

Later he met the stranger and procured a general description of him. The man brought a package, which he left at the iron workers' headquarters.

"A few days later Walter Davis, a member of a local iron workers' union in New York city, came in. Hockin gave him the package, saying, 'Take that out of here and get rid of it.' Davis returned with a check from the Union Station. Hockin then took the check to District Attorney Miller. Later Frank Sherman, an iron worker, who is an Irishman, came in and asked for the check. Hockin pretended he had lost it. Another time Sherman returned and said, 'Say, that man says you're a liar and a crook,' meaning Hockin had not lost the check. J. A. G. Badoff, who testified that Hockin confessed to having 'tipped off' the identity of the Los Angeles Times dynamiters, was cross-examined this afternoon by Senator J. W. Kern, counsel for the defense.

"When Hockin told you he had got in touch with Burns two weeks after the Los Angeles explosion, did he tell you how he did it?" Badoff was asked.

"No, he did not tell me how. I told him he was a fool for allowing Burns to get a reputation as a detective on information he was furnishing."

"Did Hockin say he was guilty of dynamiting?"

"He said he thought he might plead guilty, and gave me to understand he was in for it. He said he thought all they could give him was 18 months or two years."

CHILD DIES IN FIRE

Mother Badly Burned in Attempted Rescue.

CHOICE GERMAN FOOD.

Owen Sound despatch: Mrs. Crates Tebbitt, of Bellefleur, near Port Hope, was critically injured in an attempt to save her child from a burning house. She was removed to the Hospital here at once and since yesterday has lain in a precarious condition. Mrs. Tebbitt left her two-month-old child in a cradle in the kitchen when she went out to the barn. It had also been there originally and when she came out of the barn she saw flames issuing from the kitchen. She rushed in in a desperate attempt to get her child, but her efforts were futile, and she was severely burned about the face and neck and body. The house burned down and the remains of the child were recovered yesterday. Mrs. Tebbitt's recovery is doubtful.

CHOICE GERMAN FOOD.

Halle, Germany, Nov. 4. Scores of stray dogs were found and taken to the meat sold to the public in the city market. There was a race to obtain the "meat" and "meat" as it was were a great deluge.

The city authorities ordered the destruction of the animals, which had been captured for the past month. It is planned to combat the meat famine with domestic animals, and the pastor of the city may next year "kill" the city.

Tractors Are Making Their Way In Rural Canada.

Traction farming is always of keen interest to the young man. Nothing on the farm will hold his attention longer than the rigging up of any machinery whereby labor can be saved and his own ingenuity vindicated. The production of the wheat fields of Western Canada would be at present impossible without a tractor. It is also invading the live stock farmer's domain, and steam and gasoline, as well as kerosene and electricity, are to play very important parts in the evolution of Canadian farming says Eliud Kester in The Farmers' Magazine.

When the first agricultural motor contest was held in Winnipeg five years ago there were not three hundred gas tractors employed on farms of the Canadian West. The fifth annual meet which has just closed at Winnipeg, the great distributing centre of the West, sees the number of tractors magnificently increased. It is estimated that there are over four thousand gas tractors, and about five thousand steam tractors employed by Canadian farmers. The year 1911 was considered to be a big year on engine sales but this year has already proved to be a big one, and Winnipeg, where the "Motor Derby" is held is the great gateway of this extensive and great field of manufacturing activity.

Large crowds were present each day at the contest. The farmers were so eager to inspect the work of the various engines in the plowing contests that they journeyed out to the 200 acre tract nine miles west of Winnipeg even on a rainy day when all operations had to be called off. The first part of the motor competition which included all the brake contests of the numerous engines, steam and gasoline, took place on the Exhibition grounds during the first week of the fair. This exhibition work only proved a good feeder for the real agricultural contests that were to take place the following week at Berger.

Each of the three divisions in the competition, the brake contest, the engine contest and the plowing contest, allowed entries by three classes of machines. The engines were divided into classes determined by their power.

The contest for the engines, each having plows, required them to make six miles. The machine is judged on the amount of power used, the fuel consumed and the general endurance displayed. While the field was rather stony and of a heavy soil, conditions were more favorable for the heavy engines than was the tract that was chosen last year for the test where so many steam tractors almost got lost in the mud. Perhaps it was not a bad matter of policy for the directors of this competition to secure a good, hard clay for the work. It must have occasioned considerable chagrin to the manufacturers of the heavy engines in any contest where a little gasoline tractor might have the opportunity of pulling them out of the hole.

The regulations for the competition of plows were similar to those for engines. They could be drawn by any engine and were judged according to the amount of power that was required to pull them.

Facilities Improve.

A recent report from the Department of Trade and Commerce states that the capacity of the grain elevators in the west for 1911-12 is 99,514,900 bushels, which is an increase of about five millions over the preceding year. In Manitoba the storage capacity is 21,813,900 bushels; in Saskatchewan, 29,465,000; in Alberta, 8,764,500. Ontario milling elevators have a capacity of 1,740,000 bushels; terminal elevators in the same province will accommodate 25,700,400 bushels, while the eastern transfer elevators have a capacity of 20,535,000. The grand total shows 863 stations with a total capacity of 105,466,700 bushels.

The percentage of shipments from Fort William and Port Arthur terminals to American ports has been steadily increasing during the past four or five years. It is considered that the milling in bond transit privilege given by the States will account to a considerable extent for the increase during the past two years, also the lower freight rates via United States ports to the seaboard which prevailed on occasions during the year. Canadian wheat exports to Great Britain and other countries show a decline against the figures of the previous 12 months.

"Commercial Canoeur."

In common with many other Canadian cities, Montreal is experiencing decided activity in real estate transactions, and its suburbs are "decorated" with a great many real estate signs.

Several of those signs have been put up in a hurry, and some of them have been lettered by Frenchmen. Probably both of these circumstances had something to do with the burlesquing of one of the signs. At any rate, one of the agents in charge of a certain suburban subdivision got a shock a few days ago while showing a prospective purchaser over the property.

"That's a great sign," said the p.p. "Read it," was the answer.

The agent read it, and was horrified to find that it contained a line in big type which said that his firm were the "SOLD AGENTS."—Canadian Courier.

U. S. Catholics In West.

So great has been the migration of United States farmers to western Canada during the past few years, that the Roman Catholic Church in the United States, finding that the movement included many of its members and communicants, has formed an association for the purpose of aiding and directing the settlers to a section where they could be in touch with communities of their own faith. Negotiations were entered into with a land company, and the association acquired a large acreage, which is now known as St. Peter's colony, in the Quill Plains district of Saskatchewan. A monastery was established, and there is now a considerable Catholic population.

Winsome Winnie

"My dear Miss Caerlyon, stop a minute, please," he said, haughtily. "You are laboring under a mistake, Mr. Pascoe. You cannot be very long in the mine-office in Tolgooth, sir, or you would have known me," he added, suppressing an explosion of quarter-deck wrath for the sake of the young girl by his side. "My name is Stephen Tredennick, of Tregarthen, sir; and, as I said just now, when you interrupted me, I overtook Miss Caerlyon on the road as she was returning from my aunt, Madam Vivian's house, where I met her yesterday evening."

"Oh, indeed—Captain Tredennick of Tregarthen? Indeed, sir, I did not know, I am sure," said Mr. Pascoe, resuming his refined accent with an effort, and smiling and rubbing the palms of his hands with an air of sudden fawning politeness. "I know you by report, very well indeed, sir—have heard tell of you very often, Captain Tredennick. Long returned from your last voyage, sir?"

"No, sir—not long," vouchsafed Stephen Tredennick, shortly; "but I think in any case you need not have been afraid that this young lady was in improper company."

"Well, no, indeed, sir," said Mr. Pascoe, smiling again; "but I did not know I could not bring to my mind at all, sir—but that you were a stranger; and a young maid like Miss Winnie Caerlyon can not be too particular, sir, ye know?"

He had edged himself up to Captain Tredennick's side, and was beginning to chat fluently, with an evident intention of constituting himself a third in the party. If he calculated on the sailor's easy good-fellowship and pleasant conversation, he was fated to be instantly undeceived.

cap of white and violet crepe. "Waited, dear aunt?—Of course I have." "Without a cup of coffee or chocolate or anything after your long walk?" exclaimed Madam, sitting down before her silver breakfast equipage. "For I understand from Trewhella, my maid, that you have actually been out of the house since daylight!"

"Yes, I have," said Captain Tredennick—mentally adding, "I wonder how Trewhella knew!" "Where did you walk?" inquired Madam. "Give me some of that Strasburg pate, please, Stephen. Did you go to Tregarthen?"

"No, I did not," replied Stephen Tredennick, without adding that he had never thought of it until he had returned to the door of Roseworthy Hall. "By the way, aunt, I saw your little friend going home this morning."

"Indeed, Stephen," said Madam, and a rather amused malicious smile curved her lips. "Where did you meet her?" "Oh, on the road by the head," answered her nephew, slightly resenting his aunt's and Straszburg's stare. "And you escorted her safely home, I suppose, with your usual thoughtful consideration?"

"Yes, of course. That is a well-behaved road for a girl like her to travel of course I went along with her until I saw her safe."

"She has travelled! It is a good many times these last three years," said Madam, carelessly, but with her keen, sniffing eyes fixed on her nephew's face. "That how did you manage to scrape acquaintance with my little protégée, Tredennick? You only saw her standing in the doorway for a minute last evening?"

and barter, still one ought to make the best exchange, and barter as equally as possible. Looking at the matter from a commercial point of view, a pretty young girl, with a fair share of brains and social attractions, and of decent family, might barter herself for something better than mere clothes and food given to her by a very ill-favored lover of a fellow whom she detests."

A ringing, sarcastic laugh came from Madam Vivian as he concluded. "Bravissimo, Stephen! I begin to have some hope of you! You are growing romantic!" Then, quite suddenly, looking into the coffee urn as she spoke, Madam asked her third searching question: "How do you know that she detests him, Stephen?"

"Because—have you not just said that she does not admire him? I am sure no girl could!" This was an evasion with a vengeance, and Captain Tredennick felt ashamed of it, and coughed two or three times, and resolved to tell Madam the whole story of the morning. It was odd the disinclination that came over him to do so, which he could not understand in the clear morning sunlight, with Madam Vivian's keen eyes watching his face—about his invitation, and Winnie's refusal to go into Tregarthen House—about the tangled tress of hair, his request for a keeppake, Pascoe's coarse taunt, and all—ending with poor Winnie's one passionate allusion, as they went down the hill together, to the scene of which his delicate sympathy for her mortification would not suffer him to make any mention, nor must wonder at it and my friends, sir," she had said, bitterly; "it is my misfortune that that man can claim my relatives as his, though he is neither relative nor friend of mine. I hate him, Captain Tredennick! They want me to like him, and that makes me hate him the more!" Her words were rather unintelligible at the moment, but they were clear enough now, Madam herself changed the subject.

"Do you really consider the girl pretty?" she asked, with a smile of compassion for his utter ignorance of the requisites of beauty. "Poor little Winnie! Why the child has not a single good feature in her face; certainly her eyes are nice and bright, but so are most young persons."

"Nice and bright!" those pleading, and true, deep dark eyes, with a sort of feeling in their light and shadow, he did not understand them thus far, perhaps, but he felt, as a noble intelligent nature would, the power and worth and truth of the sound which shone through them, and had not noted in them— which Madam Vivian doubtless never had—the fire of passion and glow of beauty created by that soul's strongest emotions.

"She has beautiful hair, though," Madam added, presently. "I have heard that Stephen Tredennick, by a method best known to himself, by this time had arrived at the conclusion that he had better leave the beauty of Winnie's beautiful hair alone."

"Has she?" said he, coolly butting some toast. "A flash of unbridled amusement, vexation and contempt crossed Madam Vivian's handsome, laughing face. Through the medium of Miss Trewhella's glib tongue, she knew that on the evening before he had openly and warmly expressed his admiration of Winnie's eyes—a one of undeniable loveliness; and now he pretended not to have noticed it."

"Men are all the same, full of sly double-dealing and pretty falsehoods, where women are concerned," thought the fair habitué of ball-rooms during five-and-twenty years, with a curl of her lip. Then, with something like a pang of alarm or annoyance, she told herself, "He says nothing, because he admires it so much; admires her, too!" Immediately she recollected herself, smoothed her brow, and laughed at her own folly. "I am too absurd," she said, mentally. "I think I have been dreaming."

WEAK STOMACHS

Need New, Rich Blood to Restore Them to Healthy Condition

Actually in need of food to nourish the body and yet afraid to eat because of the racking pains that follow. That is the condition of the sufferer from indigestion—a choice between starvation or needless torture. The urgent need of all dyspeptics, of everybody whose organs of digestion have become unfit to perform their important duty, is for stronger stimulants than can extract nourishment from food. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give weak stomachs just the strength they need by enriching the blood supply, thus giving tone and strength to the stomach and its nerves, and enabling it to do the work nature intended it to do. Thousands of cases of indigestion have been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, of which the following is but one. In witness, Miss L. A. Brown, Port Albert, Ont., says: "For a number of years I was a terrible sufferer from indigestion, and as a result I became completely run down, and suffered from backaches and nervous troubles as well. I had to force myself to eat, but never enjoyed a meal owing to the awful pains that followed eating. Life was becoming a burden, and as a medicine after medicine failed to help me I felt I was doomed to go through life a constant sufferer. Finally a married sister strongly urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I have reason to be thankful that I followed her advice, as they have fully restored my health, and I can now enjoy all kinds of food without the least discomfort, and my friends say I am looking better than I have done for years. At all events I know I feel like a new person, so I shall always praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

parted lessons in vocal music, as they ceaselessly swooped, and dived, and soared, and shrieked around the craggy cliffs. Winnie, aroused from her lounge by the low white breastwork that hemmed in the little yard or terrace before the house, sat up and looked mechanically watching the sea-birds' flight, the tossing of the green, froth-crested waves in the cold March sunlight, and the flitting lights and cloud shadows out on the great rippling expanse of ocean before her. Winnie's only relaxation, amusement, or pleasure in this world, but one—that one her tri-weekly visit to Roseworthy—look up the baby obediently, who resisted, as she did so, with loud peevish cries; but perseverance in kisses and caresses, and showing the gulls, and the "pretty, pretty sea," and the "beautiful little ships," stilled baby's lamentations at length, and she sat up in her sister's arms, in her little blue hood and cloak, like "a beautiful little dearie," as Winnie said.

This child, the youngest and frailest and sickliest of the seven, it had always entirely fallen into Winnie's lot to nurse and care for by day and night, from her stepmother's prolonged indisposition at her birth and other causes. Winnie had "got the way" of managing, feeding and soothing the little one better than anyone else; hence, washing, dressing, nursing and putting to sleep were all left entirely to the patient loving hands that never shook or slanted the waiting, faithful little creature—as its mother did in a fit of temper sometimes—that were always ready by day or night to "take baby."

The young girl's rest, desire, amusements, were all curtailed or cut off on account of "baby"—poor little fifteen-months-old Louie—who turned her pitiful little face and out-stretched arms away from every one to "Eenie." Sister "Eenie" sacrificed herself ceaselessly and patiently, because of the love, the strong, tender, incipient mother-love, that rose above all self-consideration in her true womanly nature, for the helpless babe dependent on her.

"Winnie! Winnie! I say!" She hastened back from her wearisome parade, with the baby in her arms, to the upper window, and it screamed mandating a second time. "Take the baby down on the rocks with the rest. You shouldn't leave those children down there so long by themselves! And mind you don't let them wet their feet!"

"Yes, mamma." "The Sarah Matilda got her brown jacket on?" "Well, mind you don't let Tom go near the water this throat's as sore as possible, and, Winnie!—Winnie! I say! wait until I have done speaking, will you? I never saw such a headless maid!" "I wasn't going, mamma." "Mind you don't let Caroline touch that nasty sea-weed, or those shells. She's always eating tell her she shall have Gregory's powder if she does, and I'll engage she'll let 'em be first enough!" Winnie hurried away as she spoke, and though she heard a renewed scream of "Winnie! Winnie! I say!" when she was half way down the cliff path, she only descended the faster, until she reached the pebbly shore, panting, tired and nervous.

A WONDERFUL CASE

Three Months in Hospital and Came Out Uncured.

Zam-Buk Cured Him in Few Weeks. Mr. Fred. Mason, the well-known upholsterer and mattress manufacturer, of St. Andrews, N. B., says: "I had eczema on my knee, which caused me terrible pain and inconvenience. The sore parts would itch and burn and tingle, and then when rubbed or scratched, would become very painful. When the knee got warm, it burned worse, and the itching and burning and smarting were almost unbearable. I tried various remedies, but got no better, so I decided to go to Montreal and take special treatment. I received treatment at the Montreal General Hospital for thirteen weeks, but at the end of that time I was not cured, and almost gave in. A friend advised me to give Zam-Buk a trial."

FRUIT GROWING IN CANADA.

A year ago the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, through the Branch of the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, undertook an investigation of the fruit growing conditions throughout Canada. The enquiry was intrusted to Mr. William H. Bunting, an extensive fruit grower at St. Catharines, Ont., who secured as much information as possible on the following points:

1. The possibilities of an extension of the fruit growing industry of Canada in the different localities visited.
2. The tendencies in the matters of the planting and growing of different kinds of fruit, and with regard to apples, the varieties which are being most extensively planted in the different districts.
3. The difficulties which are likely to be encountered in the further development of the fruit growing industry.
4. Methods of production and orchard management which have been most successful in the different districts, and the probabilities of over-production.
5. The conditions under which British Columbia, Ontario and Maritime Province fruit is marketed in the Prairie Provinces as well as the character and effect of American competition.

The enquiry was concluded in due time and the report has been printed for general distribution. It contains a large amount of detailed information gathered in every province, making it an invaluable guide to persons who desire to take up fruit growing as an industry. In his general conclusions Mr. Bunting points out that while the growing of fruit offers ample reward to the man of energy, patience and perseverance, there is perhaps no phase of agricultural endeavor which requires to be more closely studied, and in which a wider range of information is more desirable and necessary. The future of the industry, he states, was never brighter than it is today, the prospects never more attractive nor the field of extensive effort in all fruit growing provinces more inviting.

THE TRUE SOCIALISM.

Mr. A. C. Benson, in an article on "Real Life" in Public Opinion (a paper which enters its fifty-second year this week) says:—

"The plain duty of the man who desires to help on the life of his time is to have an ideal that is both simple and disinterested; he must not claim too large a share of comfort, and he must assume all things desired to impart as well as to participate. That, I take it, is the true Socialism, the constructive Socialism not based on confiscation but on participation. The tendency to isolate oneself, to feel superior, to be very conscious of one's rights, to wish to avoid one's duties—that is the individualism with which no terms must be made."

"It is on these lines that I believe our new Democracy is shaping itself; and I rejoice with all my heart to think that it is not a mere vague ideal, but a belief which is amply justified by the signs of the times."

NO GOOD IN THE NORTH.

(Nikola Pallas, N. Y. Gazette) A protestant pastor of a dissenting church, who is a very busy man, has been the victim of a scheme to solve the secret of the universe. A philosopher for an hour, he has spent a great deal of time in a study of the subject, and has concluded that the secret of the universe is that there is no good in the north."

Halloween in Athens was marked by less than the usual number of pranks by the youngsters. Strangely and wondrously arrayed boys and girls appeared on Main street and interested and amused promenaders. Two or three vehicles, gates and steps changed places. The Gamble House bus was given its annual outing, but the procession was halted on Reid street by Chief Campo, and after a wordy combat the game was decided a draw. Mr Hillis did the drawing next day, and peace in boydom again reigns.
