Here's a Hunch:

FIRST thing you do next get a tidy red tin of Prince Albert and fill up a jimmy pipe or roll a makin's cigarette. Either will make peace with your tongue before the first inning's over. For you never smoked the likes of P. A.—tobacco made by an exclusive patented process that takes out the bite and the parch.

PRINCE ALBERT

the inter-national joy smoke

No matter what you pay for your pipe or cigarette makin's tobacco, you'll never stay put till you get acquainted with "the inter-national joy smoke."

Such flavor, such aroma, such freshness! Why, just to write about it or talk about it puts that "lead me to it" spirit right into your system.

You join the P. A. band and find out for yourself why Prince Albert is sold to more men in the U. S. than any other pipe and cigarette tobacco!

Prince Albert is the largest seller in the United States. It is now being imported into Newfoundland and is sold by all of the leading dealers in one-eighth-lb. tidy red tins.

The Earl's Son;

—OR— TWO HEARTS UNITED.

CHAPTER IV.

It was clumsily drawn, was full of pitfalls, and delightfully open to adverse criticism; and Mr. Talbot Denby, as he stood with one white, shapely hand resting lightly on the bench in front of him, and the other thrust half into his pocket, was dissecting it with all the cold, deliberate incisiveness of a surgeon revealing a human deformity. The opposition were chuckling and cheering and exchanging delighted glances, while his own party, inwardly squirming, tried to look scornful or unconcerned; but Talbot Denby went on his vitriolic way unrelayed by the cheers, undaunted by the murmurs which now and then reached him from the benches behind him.

"Denby's in fine form to-night," said Mr. Boucher, the well-known independent member, to his crony, Mr. Welch, as they sat in their usual places below the gangway and listened to the cold, metallic voice.

Welch nodded.

"Yes, he's a clever beggar; and he's never more clever nor more effective than when he's turning on his friends. He is the coming man, there can be no doubt of that. And yet I don't like him. But I don't know him so well as you do."

"Oh, I know him well enough," said Boucher; "but I don't like him any better than you do. He's one of the best-looking men in the House, and his manners are simply perfect; and yet there is something about the man that repels one. Oh, I don't mean because he has a slash at his party now and again; that's the fashion: it pays. It is something in the expression of his eyes, in his voice. Whenever I am talking to him or listening to him I seem to be talking or listening to a man who is wearing a mask; I am always suspicious of a man who is always on guard; and I never part from Talbot Denby without thinking, 'There is a mystery about that man; there is something in his life he is concealing.'"

"You ought to have taken to fiction," remarked Welch, with a smile. "I wish I had; anything but this!" said the famous Mr. Boucher, with a sigh and a weary glance round the crowded House, still listening with strained attention and tense excitement to Mr. Denby's cutting phrases.

"I hear that his uncle, Lord Lynborough, and he do not get on very well together," said Welch, after a pause.

"Not particularly well, I believe," assented Mr. Boucher. "Talbot Denby's father and the earl quarrelled—the old man has a genius for quarrelling—I should say Talbot Denby gets his bitterness from him. It was not until Talbot's father died that the earl recognized and took up Talbot. He was obliged to do so, in a sense. Talbot being the heir and next in succession. The earl makes him a very good allowance, and they see each other occasionally and keep the peace, mainly owing to Talbot, who is too wise to quarrel with his bread and butter; in fact, too wise to quarrel with anyone. That's his way. He will be quite affable and friendly with his party, notwithstanding this speech which is making them all mad. And really there is nothing against the man, though you and I don't like him. He leads, apparently, an irreproachable life; lives quietly in quite modest rooms in Chelsea; goes into the proper kind of society; entertains his friends occasionally in an unobtrusive way, and appears to have no vices."

"Just so," observed Mr. Welch. "Just the man to succeed; and of his success to-night there can't be a shadow of a doubt. His party will have to do something to shut those thin lips of his or he'll ruin them. How the other side cheer! And yet he seems quite unmoved; there isn't a touch of colour in that white face of his, not the trace of a smile in his eyes or on his lips! 'Pon my soul, I believe that young man to be incapable of feeling any emotion; incapable of experiencing one thrill of honest triumph, of generous impulse; incapable of any love—"

"Excepting for himself," put in Mr. Boucher. "Well, he's finishing. There'll be no division to-night; let's go out of this insanitary hole and go to bed."

Mr. Talbot Denby concluded, not with an eloquent peroration, but with a short sentence which seemed like the last cut of a lancet, the last thrust of a poisoned dagger; then, while the opposition was still cheering and laughing, he took his hat and, passing through his "friends" with his white, impassive face and half-closed eyes, he left the House.

The evening of the day which had shone so brilliantly on Veronica as she rode across the moor had clouded over, and the air was blowing with a pleasant coolness as he walked across the yard and, calling a cab, was driven to his flat in Charlotte Mansions, Chelsea. He let himself in with his latch-key and went into the dining-room where Gibbon, his man, had set a spirit stand and syphon and a biscuit-box on the table as usual.

Talbot Denby rang the bell and Gibbon appeared. He was not altogether unlike his master: a tall, thin man with downcast eyes and a repressed manner; a toneless kind of man with colourless eyes and colourless hair.

Mr. Talbot Denby had shown a somewhat peculiar method in his choice of a servant, for he had taken Gibbon from the "Prisoners' Aid Society." The man was a convicted thief; but his master did not appear to be afraid to trust him, and his trust had not been misplaced. Whether swayed by love or fear or gratitude, Gibbon was that extremely rara avis, a faithful, devoted servant.

"I am going out again, Gibbon," said Mr. Denby. "You need not wait up."

The man inclined his head, his lips moved in a scarcely audible, "Yes, sir," and, with a glance round the room of his colourless eyes as if to see if there was anything wanting, he went out.

Talbot Denby leant against the mantel-shelf for a minute or two, his thin lips curved with a smile that was half a sneer: he was thinking of his night's triumph. Presently he took up a biscuit, but though he broke it, he did not eat it, and throwing it on the table, poured himself out a soda-and-brandy. He was about to drink this at a draught but checked himself and, setting the glass down, murmured:

Hidden Flavors Brought out by Windsor Table Salt

"No, no! I've got to keep cool to-night."
He smoked a cigarette with the same air of repression, but with a kind of patient impatience, as if he were waiting for something; then, when half an hour had elapsed, he opened the door quietly and, crossing the small, artistically decorated corridor, listened at Gibbon's door. The man was snoring. Talbot Denby came back to the dining room and, unlocking a safe—an unusually large one—took out first a cash-box and then an old, long overcoat and a soft felt hat. From the cash-box he lifted a small bundle of notes and some gold.

As he counted these his lips grew tight and his dark brows drew together with an anxious frown. He put the notes and the gold in his pocket, replaced the cash-box in the safe and put on the long coat and hat turning up the collar of the former and pulling down the latter well over his face. As he assumed this disguise, his erect figure became bent, and, as if mechanically and instinctively, he slouched across the room instead of walking with his usual light and firm gait.

As he let himself out of the flat stealthily, he listened once more at Gibbon's door. Striking across Lower Sloane Street he went quickly but slouchingly through the smallest and least frequented of streets until he reached Soho, and, stopping before an ordinary-looking tobacconist's, which appeared to be closed like the rest of the shops in the squalid street, he knocked four times on the shutter.

The door was quickly but stealthily opened by an unseen hand, and Talbot Denby, going down the narrow passage, looking neither to the right nor left of him, as if he were familiar with the place, passed through a door into the usual kind of shop parlor, in which there was yet another door. He gave the four knocks on this, and it was opened by a short, thick-necked, oily, foreign Jew, with a villainous countenance which was rendered still more villainous by the smirk with which he welcomed his visitor.

"Goot-efening, goot-efening, sare!" he said, in a hoarse whisper, half servile, half impudent, and with a confidential leer which one would have thought would have been an irresistible temptation to the great Mr. Talbot Denby to strike him across his thick, evil lips. "I was afraid you wasn't coming; you wash so unlucky the other night. But there! Luck ish always changing; thatsh the beauty of it; thatsh what makes it so—what you call it—fashinating. Come this way; there ish a goot company to-night."

Round the table were seated about a dozen men; a motley crew. There was the dissipated "gentleman" with blood-shot eyes and bags under them; the swarthy Pole with hollow cheeks and pointed chin adorned by a blue stubble; the well-to-do Jew merchant in evening dress, with a diamond stud in his creased shirt-front and rings half way up the fingers of his dirty hands; the gilded "youth about town" with a vacuous smile on his flushed face; the book-maker, with red, swollen lips and bulbous eyes; in short, the usual crew of lost souls, which may be found any night in their fitting place—the low gambling halls of London or Paris or Vienna.

They were so absorbed in watching the roulette board that they scarcely noticed the entrance of the newcomer, and Isaacs, the keeper of the hall, had to push two men apart so that he could place a chair for Mr. Talbot Denby.

Seriously Hurt.

Mr. Frank Woods, delegate of the Firemen's Union, is now confined to his home suffering from injuries received when he fell from a carriage on the Gouids Road, on his way home from trout on Wednesday night.

He and two others were coming along the road in the carriage, when the horse suddenly stopped the vehicle coming into contact with a raised plank of a bridge. The sudden jolt threw Mr. Woods to the ground heavily and as a result he was badly cut about the face and hands. He was rendered unconscious and had to be brought to a nearby house where he regained consciousness after which he was driven to the city for medical treatment. It will be several days before he will be about again.

Footballers Get Hurt.

In the early part of last night's match, C. Strong, of the Pelidians, while playing the ball in the air received such a severe kick in the knee that he was obliged to take a rest.

Jim Pike, of the Collegians, also got out of commission for a few minutes by allowing his face to come in collision with the back of an opponent's head; although bleeding copiously Pike was able to continue playing.

Being so badly frightened by a dog recently and from the effects of which he is still suffering an eight-year-old boy named Percival was removed from his home on McDougall Street to the general Hospital for treatment yesterday.

Fishery Report.

The latest report of the fishery from Pushthrough to Cape LaHune have been just received, as follows:—

"The codfish catch all round averages only 1 quintal per man, while at this date last year it was 1 1/2 quintals. There are no bankers or schooners for the Labrador out of this section this season. The lobster catch amounts to about 100 a man or 50 each short of last year's. Salmon are very scarce, practically none having been taken to date. There is enough herring for bait purposes, but the fishery is the worst I have seen in my life, and there is no sign of improvement.

June 6th, from W. R. Andrews (Cape to Hermitage).—The total catch of codfish is 500 quintals, with 25 for last week. One hundred dories and skiffs are fishing. Prospects are very poor, the bait supply being short. The lobster fishery is practically a failure, only 20 having been taken in 100 pots. Stormy weather has been hindering operations. The fishermen say it looks like a bad year for Hermitage Bay, and so far it has been the worst on record."

$30 In Cash.

Got Five Quintals.

Joseph Wall, a fisherman of Cape St. Mary's, got five quintals of codfish on his trawls on Monday and Tuesday last with herring bait. The fish were taken only a mile from the land and were found fairly plentiful. Mr. Wall is of the opinion that with caplin baiting and favourable weather exceptional fishing will be had.

Successful Concert

AT CANON WOOD HALL.
Last night's concert at Canon Wood Hall was largely attended and proved highly successful. The programme, which elicited much applause, was as follows:—

Pianoforte solo, Miss E. Tapper; vocal solo, Miss Oakley; recitation, Miss Quick; comic song, Mr. Irvine; whistling solo, Mrs. Stranger; violinist, Mr. Wheeler; vocal solo, Miss Colton; violin solo, Mr. Maund; vocal solo, Mr. Lloyd; instrumental quartette, Misses Petrie (3) and Mr. Maund. Interval. Pianoforte duet, Messrs. Slattery and Hickey; vocal solo, Miss Allix; comic dust, Messrs. Lloyd and Collier; mandolin solo, Mr. Lloyd; vocal solo, Mr. Luten; comic song, Mr. Collier.

Mr. A. M. King, of Montreal, gave a recitation which was greatly enjoyed, and which proved him to be a splendid elocutionist. Rev. G. R. Godden acted as chairman, and the accompanists of the evening were Mrs. Kenny, Miss Tapper, Messrs. Slattery and Hirst.

The proceeds which were quite satisfactory will be devoted to the funds of the Church of England School at Quidi Vidi.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modernly and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland.—sp17.14

New Club Launched.

A new athletic club known as the St. John's Harriers, was formed at a meeting held at the Seamen's Institute last night. Mr. O. W. Steele, who is one of the principal promoters, acted as chairman, and outlined the object of the club which is to foster physical culture by a series of paper chases, running and walking. Several runs countrywards have already been taken with beneficial results and the next one will take place on Friday evening next at 6.30, from the C.L.B. Armoury. The following officers were elected at last night's meeting:—

- | |
|-----------------------------|
| President—F. Marshall. |
| Vice-President—Stan Green. |
| Captain—F. Marshall. |
| Secretary-Treas.—W. Barnes. |
- The officers, together with Messrs. J. Campbell, J. Steele and Robins will form the executive. The patrons of the new club are Messrs. J. S. Munn, E. A. Bowring, and the colors selected were dark blue and gray.

Concert at Northern B.

The concert held in the R. C. at Northern Bay, on the 6th and 5th was one of the successful entertainments ever at that place.
The troupe had been selected somewhat different lines from former years, for while some artists had on this occasion pleased to take the passive places were unhesitatingly volunteers from other places knowledge of theatricals was seen to advantage.

Rev. J. Lynch very generous charge of the musical part programme, and the rendition excellent. Miss M. Lynch, in "Bonnie Lizzie Lindsay," the audience. Other pleasing were "Rock me to sleep, my Mama's Boy," by Mrs. R. and Miss K. King respectively.
Mr. P. J. Murphy sang "mond" and was loudly while the Misses Kelly and Kelly did well in their songs.

In the dialogues the well sustained by the Misses Hogan, Kelly, Power, H. March, and by Messrs. Hogan, O'Flaherty, Kelly, Power, Murphy and Woodfine. Several recitations were "The Best thing in Life." English, proved a treat for all. After the concert folk thoroughly enjoyed the of the light fantastic until snow glow of dawn illumine the sky. WASHINGTON, June 11.
The repeal of the Panama Canal tolls exemption for American coast-wise shipping passed the Senate tonight fifty to thirty-five. The measure now goes back to the House, which is expected to accept the Norris amendment, specially reserving rights the States may have under the Hay Pauncefote treaty.

LONDON, June 11.
Militant suffragettes staged one of the most dramatic acts of their campaign this afternoon, when they exploded a bomb in Westminster Abbey, at the very moment the Rt. Hon. Reginald McKenna, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, was delivering an optimistic speech in the Commons regarding the Government's dealing with the "Wild Women." The bomb was placed beside the famous Coronation Chair in Edward the Confessor's Chapel. Although it did little damage, like previous attempts, at destruction of the same kind, its report penetrated the chamber of the House, interrupting McKenna's oration, and bringing some of the members to the street to learn what was the cause of the noise. No arrests were made. McKenna stated practically no change would be made by the Government in dealing with the suffragettes.

History We Owe to Spades.

Accidental Discoveries Have Added to Our Store of Knowledge.

The recent discovery of the diaries of the famous Black Prince, eldest son of Edward III., victor of the battle of Crecy and Poitiers, and the first wearer of the well-known "Prince of Wales" feathers, has added a little more to our knowledge of the England of over 500 years ago.

The diaries are most extraordinarily interesting. In them, for instance, is stated that at one time the Prince was so hard up that he was compelled to pawn his gold crown. This is probably the first time that pawnbroking was put on record!

Discoveries of ancient documents, books, and writings of various descriptions are continually being made, and, indeed, upon them we depend to a great extent for our knowledge of the customs of our ancestors. Most of these documents find their way eventually into some museum or other, and in the British museum alone there are some hundreds of old illuminated MSS, and so on, without which our knowledge of the "good old times" would be comparatively small.

The most famous discovery of writings, was, of course, that of the Rosetta Stone, now in the British Museum. The discovery of the Rosetta Stone, in fact, shed more light upon the history of the world than any single discovery before or since.

This famous stone is a slab of basalt about a yard high by thirty inches wide, and was found near Rosetta, in Egypt.

Egypt Was a Sealed Book.

Until it was brought to light by one of the officers of Napoleon, very little was known of the history of Egypt, for no one could read the queer hieroglyphics which covered the rolls of papyrus and other documents found in the tombs.

The stone, however, had on it three proclamations—two in unknown tongues, and the third in Greek. From that the meaning of the hieroglyphics was found, and the most wonderful and amazing civilization of Egypt was added to the world's history. Without that accidental discovery of the famous stone we should have remained ignorant of Babylon and its wonders, save for fragmentary scraps of knowledge, and of the meaning of thousands of documents and writings since discovered "in the tombs of Egypt."

A short time ago, during the excavations at Pompeii, a public house was discovered, in one of the tills of which there still remained some ancient Roman money. Evidently, when the terrible earthquake had overtaken the town an election had been in progress, for on the walls of that ancient public house were writings and proclamations telling the Roman citizens to vote for so and so, and throwing a flood of light on the way elections were carried on in those days. A list, too, was found giving the current prices of wines and beers of the day.

Combs and Hairpins Found at Pompeii.

The excavations at Pompeii, indeed have added an immense amount to our knowledge of the lives of the people in the first century, A.D. Many of the private houses of the wealthy, for instance, were found to contain a wonderful system of hot and cold water heating. Hairpins, combs, brushes, mirrors, kitchen utensils, articles of furniture, and so on, have all been found, many of them almost identical with those in use at the present day. Hundreds of writings on walls, papyrus, on stone, and so on, have practically written the history of the period for us, a history unknown till the excavations began.

In 1904 similar discoveries were made at Newcastle when the ancient Roman city of Constopitum-on-Tyne was unearthed giving remarkable evidence of the Roman occupation of England.

Only a few years ago, too, at Royston, in Herts, some laborers accidentally alighted on an underground church which was used by early English Christians. The subterranean place of worship had carved walls, decorated with sacred symbols and emblems, and there were records, which enabled historians to add another page to English history.

The bringing to light of the Bayeux tapestry added to our knowledge of the England of hundreds of years ago. The famous tapestry is covered with scenes showing the conquest of England by William the Conqueror. The scenes, seventy in all, are embroidered on a piece of linen 207 feet long and 20 inches wide, and over each is a short description in Latin. One scene represents and gives an account of the famous battle of Hastings.

Wm. G. Dryer et al vs. The Nfld. Clothing Factory, Ltd.—This is an action for $5,000 for damages for trespass to land situate on the South side of Duckworth Street, and for damage to house situate on said land. Mr. Kent, K.C., for plaintiff; Mr. Furlong, K.C., for defendant. The special jury were Cyrian Ellis, Charles Henderson, Frederick Callier, John Angel, Wilfred Pippy, Thomas Curran, Ellis Watson, James Phillips and Charles Bradbury. Wm. G. Dryer was examined. The Court adjourned till 2.30 p.m.

Wedding Bells.

GODDEN—MORGAN.

At the C. E. Cathedral on Wednesday afternoon, Miss Bertha Godden, daughter of Mr. W. Godden, and Mr. J. R. Morgan, were made man and wife. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon White, assisted by the Rev. G. R. Godden, cousin of the bride. The bride was beautifully attired in a French Point-de-sprit gown and looked charming as she entered the church leaning on the arm of her father. The surpliced choir rendered appropriate hymns. The groom was supported by Mr. W. Reeves. After the ceremony a reception was held at Smithville. About 70 guests were present and the health of the bride and groom was honored. Dancing was then indulged in. The Telegram extends its congratulations.

Here and There.

EXPRESS DUE.—The incoming Lutroze express is due in the city about 7 p.m.

EARL OF DEVON.—The Earl of Devon left Joe Batt's Arm at 11.35 a.m. to-day, coming South.

WEATHER.—It is calm and dull along the line of railway to-day, with the temperature ranging from 55 to 45 above.

TRAP FISHING.—This morning traps out at King's Cove got from a half to two quintals of fish each. No hook and liners were out.

BACK FROM THE GULF.—The schr. Shamrock, Daily master, has arrived at Bay of Islands from the Gulf, hauling for 150 quintals of codfish.

LEFT FOR GLOUCESTER.—The schr. Jennie B. Hodgson has sailed for Gloucester from Wood's Island with 100,000 pounds of codfish, and 655 barrels of herring.

INVERMORE SAILS.—The Invermore sailed from Placentia at 10.30 a.m. to-day with the following passengers in Salon:—A. W. Leke, C. F. Bishop, H. Spencer, Thomas Jones, P. Fogarty, Miss Sinnott, Miss B. Hollet, and Mrs. Winsor.

BANKER MEET MISHAP.—The schooner Theresa M. Gray has arrived at Salmonier from the Grand Banks, hauling for 70 tubs of codfish and reports fish plentiful. The vessel lost an anchor, cable and trawls in last Tuesday's storm which was very violent.

ST. PATRICK'S GARDEN PARTY.—Preparations are now being made for the garden party in aid of St. Patrick's Church, which is to take place on July 22nd. The site of the proposed party is not yet announced, but will be settled at a meeting to be held shortly.

LOCAL ARRIVES.—The local from Carbonear, via Broad Cove, arrived in the city at 12.15 p.m. to-day with the following passengers:—J. W. Norris, R. Rogers, J. W. Jeans, T. Connors, Capt. John Sheridan, Capt. Moses Young, Mrs. Churchill, Rev. J. J. Coady and about 20 others.

FOREST FIRE.—In the early part of this week a forest fire raged in the vicinity of Greenwood, but it only lasted a short while as the residents there soon had it under control and only a small section of the woods was burnt. Sergeant Noseworthy who helped to fight the blaze got one of his eyes slightly burned and feels the effects of it ever since.

Charged With Murder at New Waterford.

Sydney, N.S., June 8.—To-night Crown Prosecutor Hearn was called by telephone and informed that as a result of a drunken fight, a Frenchman Felix Bennett, is dead, and an Italian comrade, Louis Brachatti, is arrested, charged with murder at New Waterford.

The story, as given by Magistrate McKinnon of Waterford, is as follows: "This morning three prisoners confronted Magistrate McKinnon at the police court in that town, all charged with fighting and drunkenness. They pleaded guilty and were fined, the three of them being again placed in jail. Bennett complained of a pain in his head, accusing Brachatti of hitting him with some heavy weapon."

"Little attention was paid to the complaint, as similar complaints are frequently heard in that station. However, during the morning the man grew worse, until in the afternoon it was thought advisable to send for a physician. Dr. McLeod attended and ordered the man removed to the hospital. However, before the removal could be effected, Bennett succumbed to the injury, dying about five o'clock."

The Crown Prosecutor was immediately informed of the case, and he ordered an autopsy on the body of the deceased, also that a charge of murder be preferred against Brachatti. A coroner's jury has been empanelled and will investigate the cause of death. The autopsy will be held to-morrow.

Wounded by Dead Hand.

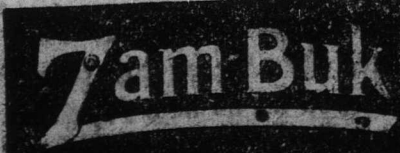

Berne, Switzerland, June 8.—A remarkable accident occurred here near Wil Egg. Some tourists were walking through the forest, when they came upon the body of a man who had evidently committed suicide by shooting himself. The right hand still clutched tightly a revolver. One of the tourists attempted to remove the weapon, and while he was releasing the dead man's fingers from the trigger, the revolver went off. The bullet pierced the tourist's chest, and he is so badly wounded that a fatal result is feared.

Died of Her Injuries.

This morning, Deputy Minister of Justice Hatchings, had a message from Mr. Geo. Skiffington, J.P. Gamba, to the effect that the little four-year-old girl named Ellen Lucretia Ward, of Middle Brook, who was shot in the head by a boy named Barrow, on Tuesday last, died from injuries received, at three o'clock yesterday afternoon. Magistrate Fitzgerald, who was on his way to Grand Falls from Glenwood, was ordered to stop off and hold an investigation.

King Received General Booth.

London, June 8.—King George received in audience General Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army, who had been requested to go to Buckingham Palace to give His Majesty details of forthcoming International Congress of Salvationists. The King expressed his warm hope that Congress would be productive of great and lasting good, and declared that he was a thorough admirer of the worker of the Salvation Army.

Bonfires on St. John's Day.

By H. F. SHORTIS.

It is a matter of conjecture to many why the boys look forward so eagerly to build their numerous bonfires on the 24th of June. Many believe it is in commemoration of the discovery of our Island by John Cabot. It was at daylight on this memorable day that the lookout of the "Matthew" first announced to the Great Admiral, the sight of Prima Vista, or better known to us now as Cape Bonavista. Others tell us that these Bonfires are in commemoration of the naming of our City, and it is quite possible that it too was discovered on St. John's Day. There is another very ancient custom, which I think has as much to do with these bonfires on the 24th of June as anything else, and after you have heard this little story, I hope all the Irish Boys and the descendants of the good old stock will help more than ever to keep up this good old custom. It links the Old Land with the New and for more reasons than one as mentioned above, we have every reason to commemorate this historic date. It is still a common practice in the South and West of Ireland to see numerous Bonfires on St. John's Eve, as it is called now. But Historians tell us that this custom dates back prior to the Christian era, and it is a survival of one of the great religious festivals, when our Pagan forefathers were worshippers of the Sun.

The 24th of June is Midsummer Day. The Sun has then reached its highest zenith, and in commemoration of this, the Druid Priests held one of their great festivals, of which Bonfires was a very important part, but when Christianity came into force it was gradually given up. Another great Druid festival was on December 25th, the shortest day of the year, when the sun had reached its lowest limit, and started to come up again. This date, as we all know, commemorates the birth of our Saviour, and for this reason it is our joyous festival, and links the Old Druid religion with the New.

Now let us get back to our story about the bonfires on the 24th of June.

There is great rivalry among the boys in the towns of the South and West of Ireland to see who will build the biggest bonfire. In the large towns you will still see the boys of each street banding together to out-rival each other with a collection of old oil barrels, and turf or peat if nothing else. When so many of the Irish youngsters came to Newfoundland about one hundred and fifty years ago, what is more natural than the renewal of this old custom especially at St. John's, where the most of them settled. When we think for a moment of what our City was like at that time, with every house built of wood, and inflammable fish flakes in all directions, we can readily understand why the youngsters were prevented from building fires in our narrow streets, and were sent to build their bonfires on the Southside Hills, where there was unlimited scope for their energy. The wharfingers assisted the boys one hundred years ago, as many of them do now, keeping the old tar barrels for this special occasion, for although you hear a grumpy word at times, still there can be little doubt that many of them could remember old times, and had partaken in the fun themselves in younger days.

This little story is more about the fishermen than anyone else, but I want to show a very good reason why the Scotchmen should help to swell the bonfires, and I think our Irish boys will have very little difficulty to persuade any Scotchman to give him all the tar barrels, and old oil casks, when they remind him that the 24th of June this year is the Six Hundredth anniversary of the Battle of Bannockburn.

Every Scotchman all over the country should want to have a bonfire of his own for that occasion.

In conclusion, I think that all will agree with me that the 24th of June is a memorable day for this country, and that everyone of us should help to keep up this old custom of bonfires on St. John's Eve, and when it is connected to the Southside Hills, as it should be, it is not alone harmless, but very picturesque, and it is a boon for the youngsters, who I am mentioning this little article for, so that they can understand better what they are all working so hard for when they are getting these old barrels up to the hill tops.

FRIDAY, June 12th, 1914.

Premier's Mission A Failure.

The Premier, Sir Edward Morris returned to-day by the Digby after an absence of three months. His mission as is well known and as was announced in the Government press on the eve of his departure was to float the debentures authorized by the Legislature last session.

It will be remembered that the Government introduced a bill authorizing them to float £400,000 debentures, on which was to be paid 3½ per cent. interest yearly. In view of the state of the money market for the past 18 months, it was an extraordinary proceeding on the part of the Government. No Colonial Government for a long time previous to the introduction of the bill had attempted to float any Three and a Half per cent. issues.

Many and many a time in the columns of the Evening Telegram we had previously directed the attention of the Government and the public to the state of the money market and the unlikelihood of the Newfoundland Government being able to do what the most powerful financially of the Colonies of the Empire were unable to do. The Government were, however, heedless of the warning, and they went ahead, forgetful of their blind expenditure on railway building and their wasteful expenditures in other directions.

Sir Robert Bond referring in his last Manifesto to the expenditure on Branch Railways said:—

"The result of all this is that the estimate of cost placed by the Prime Minister before the Legislature for its guidance in passing upon the Contract was entirely misleading and has already been exceeded by MILLIONS OF DOLLARS, to which will have to be added millions more before the Colonies is through with this iniquitous Railway Scheme."

Not only did the Government go blindly into railway building without properly counting the cost, but they changed the method of payment and, instead of paying in debentures agreed to pay in gold, and gloated over the change as a Morris masterpiece. The country has now an object lesson on the intrinsic value of this masterpiece in seeing the Premier return from a failure to float the bonds he followed in the Legislature had authorized him to sell. In the Legislature the leader of the Opposition and others did their best to point out the blunder the Government were making, but the Government went on regardless of reason and now they have to put up with the proof of their folly. The plain English of the matter is that the Premier failed absolutely in his undertaking to float the loan the Legislature authorized at the instance of the Government. The money market is no better to-day than it was at the time the loan was authorized. In the London Daily Mail of May 27th, we find the following information on the recent Colonial issues:—

"Alberta, 4½ Per Cent. issued at 97½ and quoted at a discount; British Columbia, 4½ Per Cent. issued at 99 and quoted at a small discount; New South Wales, 4 Per Cent. issued at 99, quoted at a small discount; Nova Scotia, 4½ Per Cent. issued at 98, quoted at a 1½ to 1½ discount; Queensland, 4 Per Cent. issued at 99, quoted at a small discount."

As to Canada's last loan, we give the following clipping:—
"London, June 6. — Underwriting was in progress yesterday on the Dominion of Canada's 4 p.c. loan of £5,000,000 at 98. Like the previous issues of 4 p.c. this stock will be redeemable from 1940 to 1960. It is supposed to be connected with the government aid to the Canadian Northern."

What could Sir Edward Morris expect in his attempt to float a 3½ per cent. loan but absolute failure and that failure he met with. But he either did not know or should have known the fate his attempt would meet with, before he left. The signs of the times were so clear as to be unmistakable.

TROON, Scotland, June 11.
 Francis Guinet, the American golfer, was defeated to-day by Harry Vardon, of England. In the qualifying round for the open championship of England, there were 194 entries. Outmet completed the round in 77, and Vardon in 73.

LONDON, June 11.
 Premier Asquith announced to-day his intention of introducing the proposed bill to amend the Irish Home Rule Bill before any further progress is made in the House of Lords with the second reading of the main measure. Unionists have thus won the day with their insistent demand that he would take this action.

LIVERPOOL, June 11.
 Pitiful scenes were enacted here to-day, when the steamer Alsatian, having aboard 120 members of the crew and 47 passengers, survivors of the ill-fated steamer Empress of Ireland, arrived. Pathetic scenes followed the reunions between members of the families of the survivors. During the rush of women to clasp their loved ones, many fainted. The bodies of nine of the dead from the wreck were also aboard the Alsatian.

LONDON, June 11.
 The Prince of Wales attended his first official banquet last night, when he went as the guest at the annual dinner of the Officers of His Majesty's Yacht Club at the Hotel Metropole. The young Prince sat between Commodore J. R. C. Nicholson, who presided, and Admiral Seymour. He was in evening dress, with the ribbon and garter. As is customary on these occasions, there were no speeches, the only toast being the King.

LONDON, June 11.
 Some significant indications are visible of a possible change of policy on the part of the Government with regard to the suffrage question. Mr. Lloyd George, addressing a meeting of the Women's Liberal Association, declared that only the militant campaign stood in the way of women getting the vote. According to statements in the Liberal papers this morning, Home Secretary McKenna will make a statement in the Commons of the Government's views, but will suggest no new legislation on the subject. It is understood that the Cabinet has refused to consider all suggestions for legislation to indemnify prison authorities in case of death by hunger-striking women prisoners, on the ground that such action would only lead to an increase in militancy, and possibly to attacks on life. According to the police view, there are not more than thirty women actually engaged in incendiary and destruction of property.

Maurice Costello

In a Vitagraph at the Crescent.

Sidney Earnshaw's farewell performance at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day and to-morrow should prove a big attraction, he is singing that appropriate ballad: "Good Bye, Boys." A list of feature pictures, the best for the week, will mark the occasion. The leader in a two reel war drama, "The Guerrilla Menace," which is followed by the Vitagraph drama: "Counsel for the Defence," featuring the popular movie actor Maurice Costello. "Getting Rid of His Mother-in-law" is a comedy that is a sure cure for the blues, a laugh from beginning to finish. The opening bill next week—the three reel feature, is Andrew Lang's famous fairy tale, a magnificent production. Coming, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in three reels. Note the usual big Saturday matinee to-morrow an extra reel is promised.

Number Engaged.

Mr. Sam Sothern, who has made such a success in A Pair of Silk Stockings, now transferred to the Prince of Wales Theatre, says the worst moment of his stage career was passed in a state of mental paralysis owing to a trick played on him by another actor.

This actor, who had a passion for practical joking, and Mr. Sothern were appearing in the same play. It was a sentimental comedy in which Mr. Sothern had to make a long and effective speech with the stage all to himself. The practical joker got an alarm clock, timed the alarm very carefully, and set it upon a sideboard upon the stage.

"At the very moment I opened my mouth to declaim," Mr. Sothern says, "it went off! I stood before the footlights literally gaping, whilst that blatant bell rang and thrummed and clattered through an eternity. It was a nightmare! I wanted to run, and could not; I wanted to speak, and could not. Suddenly from the gallery a piercing voice cried out: "Say, boss, I guess your line's engaged!"

Last Night's Football Match.

A FAST GAME—COLLEGIANS TWO GOALS; FEILDANS, ONE.

A large and enthusiastic gathering witnessed a fast and exciting exhibition of football on St. George's Field last evening. The opposing teams were the Feildians and Collegians, and the match ended in a victory for the latter by 2 goals to 1.

THE GAME.

The Feildians won the choice of ends and took the advantage of a fresh breeze. Play opened briskly. The Feildians began the attack and brought the ball down field, but were repulsed by the Collegians who were equally determined to gain honours first. Aided by centre-half Tait, the Feildian forwards got in some pretty combination and for a few moments invaded their opponents goal. Rendell and Pinsent made several bold attempts to score but were unsuccessful. The Barnes brothers, ably assisted by Barrett, put up a capital defence whilst Quick gave a creditable exhibition of goal tending, as he saved many difficult shots. The Collegians managed to keep the ball clear of danger until Hutchings captured the leather, and combining with Smallwood dashed up field. The latter passed to Ches. Quick, who called on Lush to save which he did successfully. The ball was driven to midfield where Tait took possession of it but lost to Barnes who sent it skying to his opponents territory again. The Feildians now worked with increased energy and determination and made an onslaught on the Collegian goal. A free kick was awarded the Feildians just outside the penalty line, but did not materialize as Quick was on the spot and acquitted himself brilliantly. Shortly after, the Feildians again resumed their rushes, pressing more vigorously than ever, but failed to score. Their luck seemed to be against them. Incidentally some players were too anxious to gain prominence first and perhaps this accounted for bad results. Eventually the Feildians had the privilege of another free kick. The ball was neatly placed by Tait, but struck off Bond's head and went over the cross bars. A corner was conceded the Feildians without result and the teams crossed with no scoring done by either side.

SECOND PERIOD.

At this juncture the consensus of opinion was that the Collegians would have it too easy because they then had the wind in their favor. The expectations of onlookers were fully realized as before thirty seconds had elapsed Hutchings, by a clever bit of play and a well directed shot found the net and the first goal for the Collegians was recorded.

Urged on to victory the Collegians worked like trojans. To prevent them from scoring, their opponents worked strenuously. For a while some pretty combination was witnessed. From the left wing, E. Barnes sent a drop shot to Lush who proved unequal to the occasion and the second goal for the Collegians was notched up.

The Feildians were not in the least discouraged and increased their pace. Pinsent and Rendell made a few pretty runs. Just before full time Rendell secured an opening and scored the one and only goal for the Feildians.

Mr. W. J. Higgins was referee. The personnel of the teams were: COLLEGIANS—C. Quick, goal; Bond, Barrett, backs; H. Barnes, E. Barnes, J. Pike, halves; Maddock, Smallwood, Hutchings, Noonan, Ches. Quick, forwards.

FEILDANS—F. Lush, goal; F. Rendell, J. Strang, backs; C. Strong, B. Tait, R. Ryall, halves; T. Winter, C. Rendell, E. Pinsent, E. Rendell, J. Trebble, forwards.

NOTES.

The game was well worth witnessing. The winners are a strong aggregation and bids fair to capturing the championship.

Yet the losers may also have to be reckoned with later in the season.

The changing of two men would fill the bill. Hutchings and Pinsent are ideal centres. Charlie Quick is some goal keeper. Tait and the Rendells played well. Smallwood and the Barnes Bros. were in splendid form. To-night the C.E.I. and St. Bon's will meet.

Vigorol

If you want to feel well, bright and cheery, full of ambition; be able to move about quick and smartly—VIGOROL, the Great French Tonic, will brace you up—it cleanses the whole system. If the manufacturers could only impress this upon every one who does not feel as they ought to, the world would owe them a great gratitude; but all we can do is to ask you to try one bottle and see for yourself. The change will be wonderful. You need a spring medicine—then take VIGOROL. Sold at all drug stores.

Donning Push.

Red McGhee says: For breakin' up a quiet calm those Jennings Tigers grab th' palm — they're sure there on the push. But let's not take the whole darn crew, right now we'll have enough to do to tell 'bout Owen Bush. He leads off on the battin' chart, so w h y can't we pick him to start? We can. What's more—we will. His night is dimmed by bigger stars, but he can field to beat the cars an' also swat the pill. He's one swell leadoff man at bat. He crouches like a spittin' cat an' dits from left or right; he coaxes passes by the score an' makes 'oposin' boxmen sore, he's such a little mite. But when they need a good old clout he straightens up an' poles 'er out jus' like big Sam or Ty. Aroun' them bases he can scoot jus' like a spring was in his boot—he's sure one speedy guy.

Another place the midget helps is when he chatters, howls an' yelps around his short field plat. He keeps the infield wide awake an' steadies pitchers' nerves that shake when swat-kings come to bat. An' Donnie covers lots o' ground, that glove of his is there to drowned the slow of speedy knocks. To name the little devil right, 'touside his "Bush" we oughta write: "Hugh Jennings' Pepper Box."

Seeking Gloom.

There's always something to worry o'er," says old Jim Grouchy, the village bore; "the cows go dry or the hens don't lay, or the chinch-burns m m t h e corn and hay; if we have a drouth it will kill the oats, if we have a rain we must go in boats; there'll be tornadoes along in June, and blow our homes clear around the moon; there'll be a frost and the storms will rave, and I sort o' look for a tidal wave." And old Jim Grouchy has ne'er a chum; the people hide when they see him come; he makes them tired with his graveyard grin, and they'll all be glad when he cashes in. "There's always something to chortle o'er," says old Joe Jinks, of the Good Luck store. "If one thing falls, then another thrives, the sun is shining in all our lives. There'll be no storms and there'll be no frost, and we'll have gazelles for the goats we lost; the world is bully and life is great, and he who croaks is a tin horn skate." We all love Joe with his cheery spels who is always telling how gay he feels.

For breakin' up a quiet calm those Jennings Tigers grab th' palm — they're sure there on the push. But let's not take the whole darn crew, right now we'll have enough to do to tell 'bout Owen Bush. He leads off on the battin' chart, so w h y can't we pick him to start? We can. What's more—we will. His night is dimmed by bigger stars, but he can field to beat the cars an' also swat the pill. He's one swell leadoff man at bat. He crouches like a spittin' cat an' dits from left or right; he coaxes passes by the score an' makes 'oposin' boxmen sore, he's such a little mite. But when they need a good old clout he straightens up an' poles 'er out jus' like big Sam or Ty. Aroun' them bases he can scoot jus' like a spring was in his boot—he's sure one speedy guy.

Is Your Back Full Of Aches All Day Long?

That Stab-like Pain in the Back is Sure Indication of Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Anna Rodriguez writes as follows from her home in Valencia: "For a long time I suffered with failing strength and nagging headaches. My condition grew steadily worse, my limbs became bloated and shaky. I was sallow and thin, felt rheumatic pains, dizziness and shills. I unfortunately didn't suspect my kidneys and was nearly dead when I discovered the true cause of my sufferings. I read so much about the wonderful health and strength that comes to all who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills that I felt sure they would help me. Such blessings of health and comfort I got from Dr. Hamilton's Pills I can't describe. They speedily put me right, and their steady use keeps me active, energetic, strong and happy. I strongly urge others to regulate and tone their system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut."

No greater medicine exists than Dr. Hamilton's Pills for the cure of indigestion, constipation, flatulence, liver, bladder and kidney trouble. Refuse substitutes. 25c per box or five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid by the Carterhobozo Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

AT ROSSLEY'S.

A large and delighted audience at Rossley's last night. The vaudeville act by Dan Cusack was very good, and his great song "A Moving Picture Taken from Life," was loudly applauded as was his clever dancing. The pictures, five of them, were extra good. An American Biograph, a Vitagraph, Gaumont, Lubin and Bisson, all first rate subjects. The comedy pictures were more than funny, and the large audience certainly laughed long and loud. An up-to-date first class entertainment.

St. John's Gas Light Company.

Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your works and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Violating Fox Laws.

Sergeant Noseworthy, who was in the interior of the country for the past few weeks on Game Protection work, arrived back in the city last night. He had two residents of Glenwood tried before Magistrate Fitzgerald, for a violation of the Game Laws—not reporting the number of foxes they captured and had in their possession. The defendants were convicted and each fined fifty dollars and costs. Sgt. Noseworthy said that in the section of the country he visited foxes were very plentiful and that the trappers there had met with exceptional success. The officer also informs us that trout were in abundance but that salmon were very scarce.

Divorced Life

Strictly Business

"Don't!" cried Mirian, trying with all her might to free herself from Ratgenhauer's embrace. "You've got an awful kick," he smiled grimly, rubbing the spot. "And you've got an awful nerve," she shot back angrily. "I'd like to know what you mean by treating me like this." "I love you," he said calmly. "Ha. You certainly take a gentlemanly way to prove it," she answered with withering irony. "I don't see why you object to a little thing like a kiss?" argued the manager. "Well, I do object, whether you have the brains to understand it or not. How would you like to have me tell your wife about your conduct?" "What good would that do?" smiled the other complacently, lighting a cigar. "Assuming that she believed what you said," he added shrewdly. "I'm going," returned Mirian, seeing the force of his retort. "So long, honey," he said lightly. "Sorry I hurt your feelings. What you want to do is to get over this squeamishness of yours. It won't do you any good."

"What's that? A threat?" demanded Mirian quickly. "Why should I threaten you?" laughed the manager. "I tell you I love you. I'm crazy about you. You've certainly got me going." Routed, disgusted, angered beyond words, and filled with contempt for the manager, Mirian started for the door. She had a whipped feeling. Her spirits slumped with a feeling of defeat. How could she cope with a man like this? With her hand on the door she paused. A spark of resolution burned through her trembling brain. A taunting mental question nagged her. "Am I not woman enough to get along with this fellow and keep him in his place?" she asked herself.

"You've got an awful kick," he smiled grimly. "I've lived through it," she answered with a hard smile, slaying the sneer that strove to rise to her lips. "Sure you have," smiled the manager. "You're a good little scout. I admire your pluck. It's the pluck, clinging, catch-me-if-you-can that gets on my nerves." He consulted his watch. "Got anything on for dinner? Let's go out and have a bite." "Thank you," returned Mirian, again through a smile. "I have another engagement. Some other time," she murmured. Leaving, she felt that she had seized and controlled the flying reins of her difficult enterprise.

The Folly of Superstition.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The enlightened twentieth century sometimes speaks patronizingly about the "ignorance and superstition of the middle ages."
 One would think there was no such thing as superstition nowadays.

When my neighbour's little girl, who is four, takes a patronizing interest in a small visitor aged two, and calls it "a cuming baby," we are amused at the humour of her. When the twentieth century speaks patronizingly of the superstition of the middle ages, it is almost as absurd. For many of us are still children as far as superstition goes.

And not only ignorant people, either, but folks who are, or at least ought to be, well educated.

An acquaintance of mine who has two lovely children, a kind husband and the best prospects, has recently become very much depressed. No, her husband has not been unfaithful to her, her children are not ill, she has no financial trouble. Nothing real is the matter. It is simply that she has broken a mirror and is worrying over the portent of death within a year, or of seven years' hard luck.
 She has actually made her husband and family miserable over the silly little accident. In vain they try to reason her out of it. She will not listen to reason. She insists that she has never known it to fail. Well, I have.
 Five years ago I broke a mirror, and no one in my family died within a year, and I don't think I've had any specially bad luck, either. Moreover,

 I have a friend who says that when he was at a camp with a college crowd this summer, they each bought the little round hand mirrors, as there were no others. And he is sure they broke at least half a dozen of them without any bad results.

Again. A pleasant gathering was entirely upset the other evening when a woman discovered that thirteen had sat down to the table. She ran into the other room and cried. Order was finally restored by finding a fourteenth guest, but the evening was spoiled. Several of the people who sat down to the table were elderly, so I suppose the chances are fairly strong that one of the gathering may die within the year. If that does happen the hysterical woman will surely say, "I told you so. It's all because we sat down thirteen at the table."
 And yet she is a Christian.

What is the connection you say?
 Well, if she is a Christian she must believe that a kind and just God regulates the Universe. Surely she cannot believe that he would punish people for sitting down thirteen at a table, and equally, of course, she cannot believe it would happen without his permission. "Not a sparrow falls to the ground"—you know. And if it cannot happen either with or without God's permission, how can it be at all?

Christianity and superstitions like these are absolutely inconsistent. The woman who stands for Christianity owes it to her faith to come out of the middle ages, put aside such unworthy superstitions and be free.

State Capitals.

AUSTIN, TEXAS.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash."

Austin, Texas, is situated on the Colorado River (Southern Series), about 200 miles north of the firing line at the Rio Grande. It is on the border line of the moderate zone.
 North of Austin, cotton, corn, black soil and commercial clubs predominate. South of Austin the cactus, greaser, tarantula and horned toad increase with every mile.

Austin has been the capital of two republics. When Texas shot itself out of Mexico, Austin was founded and named in honor of Stephen Austin, the Texas patriot. When Texas was initiated into the United States, Austin continued to be the capital in spite of the earnest and heartfelt efforts of Houston and Huntsville and other cities at various times to transplant the state government.

Austin is a dignified and good-looking city of 35,000 people with a large wholesale business. The people of Austin are statesmen of the highest order, which is proven by the fact that they have secured seven large state institutions, including the University of Texas. The city is justly proud of the Colorado River, a beautiful but peculiar stream, which is only navigable in winter, and has to be sprinkled in summer to keep the dust down. All local history in Austin dates from the big flood of 1900, when a gigantic dam a quarter of a mile long, let go and allowed Lake McDonald, thirty miles long, to escape through the city.

Austin contains the most expensive state capital in the nation and probably the most costly building in the world. The state of Texas paid about $100,000,000 for it, though it didn't know it at the time. In the early eighties the state gave 3,000,000 acres of land to a Chicago syndicate for building the capitol and thought it was getting a bargain as the land was only worth 50 cents an acre and the capitol is bigger than a Detroit automobile factory. But Texas land has gone up since then. When the Texas legislature is in session, Austin contains more large black felt hats and long coats than any city of its size in the world.

Austin is the southernmost capital in the country and while it is centrally located, it is more than 500 miles from some parts of Texas. It is probably on the account that Texas legislators who have to travel huge distances over Texas railroads are very severe on the said railroads and have taken revenge upon them for their sufferings by making it illegal for them to do practically everything except pay taxes.

Fads and Fashions.

Crepe is displacing lace in waists.
 Malinge ruffles are used for suits.
 Ostrich is growing in favor with milliners.

Wheat ears appear again on all-black hats.

Gabardine is sometimes known as punkah cloth.

Pique neckwear is in favor for sporting wear.

Both large and small checks are correct in style.

Brassiers are now made for all types of figures.

There seems to be no end of variety among silks.

Surplice draperies are used for all sorts of dresses.

There is a suggestion of a return to the heavier laces.

Chiffon and crepe embroideries are among the best.

Checked materials demand a certain plainness of cut.

Shadow laces are in slightly less favor than they were.

The Japanese influence still shows in butterfly bows and sashes.

Braded effects are most important among dress trimmings.

The rage for beads in every shape and form continues unabated.

Double skirts of striped taffeta are reported favorites in Paris.

The Builders.

All are architects of fate
 Working in these walls of Time:
 Some with massive deeds and great,
 Some with ornaments of rhyme.

Nothing useless is, or low:
 Each thing in its place is best:
 And what seems but idle show
 Strengthens and supports the rest.

For the structure that we raise,
 Time is with materials filled:
 Our to-days and yesterdays
 Are the blocks with which we build

Truly shape and fashion these:
 Leave no yawning gaps between;
 Think not because no man sees,
 Such thing will remain unseen.

In the elder days of art
 Builders wrought with greatest care
 Each minute and unseen part:
 For the gods see everywhere.

Let us do our work as well,
 Both the unseen and the seen:
 Make the house where God may dwell
 Beautiful, entire and clean.

Else our lives are incomplete.
 Standing in these walls of Time:
 Broken stairways, where the feet
 Stumble as they seek to climb.

Build to-day, then, strong and sure,
 With a firm and ample base:
 And ascending and secure,
 Shall to-morrow find its place.

C.C.C. Reserves.

The C. C. C. Reserves paraded at the Armoury last night for drill. A large number attended. Before falling in the anniversary parade was discussed. The parade will take place on Sunday week, 21st inst., and matters in connection with the same will be finalized at a special meeting to be held on Friday night next. A large attendance is particularly requested as matters of an important nature will be fully discussed.

With an effort she pulled herself to-the man's contemptible lust,

KEEP MINARD'S LINIMENT IN THE HOUSE.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day. The morning papers comment in a tone of intense dissatisfaction on the inadequacy of McKenna's proposals for the suppression of infanticide and points out the evils likely to follow such an agreement among newspapers.

OTTAWA, To-day. The address to the King asking amendments to the British North American Act to permit an increase in Western senatorial representation and to secure for Prince Edward Island four members in the Commons was moved by Borden. Borden after explaining that the way was left open for the inclusion of Newfoundland in Dominion, said it was desirable that any approach to such union should be made by the Colony itself. Laurier, said that while he did not endorse all principles involved in resolution, agreed not to oppose it.

LONDON, To-day. The announcement in the Commons by Asquith that the Amending Bill will be introduced before the Home Rule Bill is introduced in the Lords, is taken to indicate the abandonment of any hope for compromise at this stage. It is expected the Home Rule Bill will be taken up in the Lords in the week beginning June 29. A definite statement is expected from the Marquis of Crewe on Monday. Lloyd George has definitely informed one Nationalist leader that the Amending Bill will be confined to the Government's offer of temporary exclusion of Ulster by county voting. Home Secy, McKenna's appeal to newspapers to suppress reports of outrages in order not to play into militants' hands by advertising them, will fall on deaf ears.

LONDON, To-day. Discussing the militant campaign of the suffragettes in the Commons, Lord Cecil suggested deportation for offenders. Home Secy, McKenna dismissed the suggestion of deportation as impracticable and declared that to let them commit suicide by starving in jail would likely arouse sympathy. He appealed to newspapers to kill the agitation by ceasing to give them advertisement which they fed them upon. James Kier Hardie, Socialist and independent Labor member, denounced police interference with the procession under the leadership of Sylvia Pankhurst, which sought to see the Premier, and declared it was perfectly constitutional that Miss Pankhurst should not have been arrested. Sir Arthur Markham, Liberal, said that the suggestion that there would be a reaction in the country if hunger strikers were permitted to die, was a piece of sloppy sentimentalism.

At the Yarmouth Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp, held at Tusket Falls in August, I found MINARD'S LINIMENT most beneficial for sun burn, an immediate relief for colic and toothache.

Obituary.

MRS. SARAH BOYD.

Yesterday at Carbonear, her home for several years, there passed away Mrs. Sarah Boyd, wife of the late Joseph Boyd, ex-M.H.A., Sergeant at Arms and former Superintendent of the Poor Asylum (which reached a high state of efficiency under their joint efforts), and the daughter of James L. Mews, at one time Magistrate at Old Perlican. Mrs. Boyd was an estimable lady of quiet disposition, and had reached the advanced age of 82, having in the evening of her days, had the comfort of the near ministrations of her daughters, Mrs. John Maddock, of Carbonear, and Mrs. Mrs. Rabbits, of Heart's Content. One sister, Mrs. Collins, and two brothers, Mr. James Mews and Mr. Stephen Mews also survive her. The late George W. Mews and William J. Mews were brothers. We understand that the interment will be in the Church of England Cemetery here, the body arriving by the noon train tomorrow. The Evening Telegram joins in sympathy with the bereft.

Funeral at 3 p.m. to-morrow Saturday, from the house of Mr. Arthur News, 114 Military Road.

Out-door Toys for Out-door Youngsters.

Children are happiest and healthiest out of doors in the fresh air. Why not cultivate the "fresh air" habit in them by getting them Toys that are specially made for outdoor fun? It's quite easy; just bring the youngsters down to our store, and let them choose from among our splendid collection of Expresses, Tricycles, Go-Carts, Wheelbarrows and Doll's Carriages, they'll be charmed.

We've got outdoor Toys at very reasonable prices, that are put together to stay—Toys that are built for real sturdy Girls and Boys—that will stand hard usage—just the very Toys that bright youngsters will want to keep them amused when the holidays come along.

Reliable Toys at Reasonable Prices.

The Eastern Trust Co.

The Eastern Trust Company has removed to the offices in Pitts' Building, Water Street, lately occupied by Messrs. J. & W. Pitts.

The vacancy in the Board of Directors for Newfoundland occasioned by the death of the Hon. J. S. Pitts, C.M.G., has been filled by the appointment of Hon. John Harris as Chairman, and of Mr. F. W. Ayre as a member of the Board.

The Company is now prepared to execute all manner of trusts. It does no other business. It does not speculate and lives only upon the revenue it derives from the execution of the trusts it is called upon to administer.

Below is a further list of the larger trusts which the Company administers:—

Church Endowment Fund of the Church of England, Nova Scotia.
Diocesan Synod Fund of the Church of England.
Dalhousie University, Halifax, N.S.
King's College, Windsor, N.S.
Province of Nova Scotia Sinking Funds.
Town of New Glasgow Sinking Funds.
Town of Glace Bay Sinking Funds.
All Saint's Cottage Hospital, Springhill, N.S.

DEAR MADAM,—

We have just received a fresh shipment of Armada Tea.

We import this Tea direct from Ceylon and it is thus naturally fresher than tea imported through England. Grown in the celebrated Hill District of Ceylon it has a bouquet and aroma unrivalled by any other tea.

Won't you try a tin and be convinced?

Very truly yours,
