CHAPTER XXIX.

"Well," said Fitz, "they sent all sorts of messages to you, and Ethel implored me with tears in her eyes to assure you of her affection and love. Poor Eth, all her troubles are over now, and she's happy. Violet, dare I hope that you forgive me and think I have done right? And will you make me happy, too, Violet?" and, with an imploring look, he tried to take her hand.

Violet drew it from him and sank on to the sofa. Fitz looked perplexed, and stared.

"You don't speak! You haven't said a word!" he said. "What is the matter?"

"Have you not received my letter?" she breathed.

"No," said Fitz, thrusting his hands into his pocket. "Perhaps it is here; I haven't opened them yet. Oh, Violet, you have not refused me; you don't mean to make me miserable for life! Don't say it, don't say it!"

"I have written it," said Violet, paler and paler each moment. "I have written a full explanation. It cannot be; it is forever impossible. Lord Boisdale—Fitz, I am to marry Mr. Murpoint."

"What!" exclaimed Fitz, "am I dreaming—am I mad? Violet, are you to marry the captain?"

Violet rose.

"Let me leave you, my lord! I am so sorry that my letter—then she turned and tried to leave the room.

But Fitz strode after her and seized her arm.

"Violet," he said, "one word more. I see I am not dreaming, that it's truth you are telling me. But if it is true there is villainy somewhere! You are right to reprove me. Heaven knows I am not worthy of you—but the captain!"

"Violet, if Leicester could come to life again, I would have yielded to him quietly, without a word, for I know you were his. But not to the captain! You never did and you never can care for him, and if you marry him it will be against your will. Violet, listen to me, I implore you, I believe—I am sure within my own heart that the captain, Howard Murpoint, is a rogue and a villain."

"Silence!" said Violet, sadly, yet indignantly. "You forget yourself, my lord! You have no right to say such cruel things, to attack an absent man. Mr. Murpoint will be my husband, and I will not—I dare not listen to such a groundless accusation. Enough! Not a word more. Leave me, I beg, my lord!"

"Yet one word more, I implore," said Fitz. "I will leave you and I will not see you again; but, mark me, I will not let the matter rest, and if you care for Howard Murpoint, as you would have me believe you do, warn him that there is one on his track who will search him to the heart, and who will cost him what it may, and whether he is an honest man or the rogue he thinks him. Violet, Ethel has escaped his clutches, and you have fallen into them. Escape while there is time, I implore of you! See, I beg you on my knees to take time, to do nothing rashly, to break off this hateful, this horrible engagement!"

"If there had been one thing wanting to confirm me in the path I have taken, Lord Boisdale, your words have supplied it. I will do my duty by an innocent man maligned, and be true to him. I will be true to the man I have promised to marry, though all the world rose to slander him."

"Violet, you do not love him!" groaned Fitz.

"No," said Violet. "But, though I have lost the power to love, I can still act with honor."

And, with a sad smile, she left the room.

Fitz rose, stunned and dazed. He took up his hat and, leaving the house, walked in a maze to Lackland House.

As he was about to enter a footman came up to him.

"My lord, the earl is desirous of seeing you."

"Eh?" said Fitz, who was scarcely conscious of what he was about.

"Upstairs, my lord, in the earl's study."

"All right," said Fitz, and he ascended the stairs with a heavy gait.

Knocking at the study door, he received a cold, stern "Come in," and, entering, found Lord Lackland seated in the same chair at the same table in the same room in which he had sat that morning when he informed Fitz that the Lackland estates were mortgaged and that the Lackland purse was empty.

"Good-morning," said Fitz.

The earl bowed with cold politeness.

"You have arrived this morning?"

"This morning," said Fitz. "I have not been in town three hours."

"I am glad of it," said the earl, "as I wished to see you immediately you arrived."

"I left Ethel—"

"Thank you," said the earl, interrupting him with stately politeness. "I do not wish to know anything of your disobedient and undutiful sister. If I should at any time, I will come to you, who, it seems, is a partner and chief abettor in her misconduct. Be good enough not to mention her name to me."

"But, my lord," said Fitz, who was nearly out of his mind, "surely you do not mean to say that you intend to be hard upon Ethel for marrying where she liked? She has not married a chimney-sweep, or run away with one of the coachmen. Bertie is the best, the most famous man in London—"

"Thank you for the information," said the earl. "I know nothing of Mr. Fairfax, and I do not wish to add to my knowledge. Be kind enough to leave the subject where it is; it is one that is extremely distasteful to me. I wished to see you on business. Here are a number of bills—they have all been contracted by you—I pass them to you for payment."

Fitz stared at them.

"My lord," he said, "I cannot pay these! You know that it is impossible!"

The earl shrugged his shoulders.

"I have nothing to do with that," he said, coldly. "You are over age, you were twenty-one last month; you are liable, I believe."

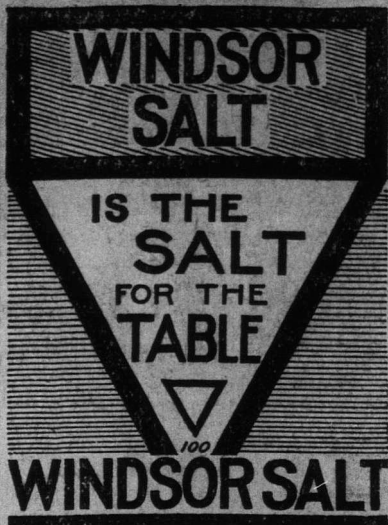

"I am liable, I know," said Fitz, in despair, "but, of course, sir, I have always looked to you."

"And, I believe some time back, in this very room, I warned you that you could no longer do so. I have my own bills to pay, and I cannot concern myself with any others. Be good enough to take them away; they litter my table."

"But," said Fitz, "I cannot pay them, and you know that I cannot. What is to be done?"

"I regret that I cannot inform you. I should advise you to pay them, or in all probability the creditors will endeavor to compel you."

"In other words they will put me in prison?"

The earl shrugged his shoulders. "I cannot say; I know nothing about it. May I remind you again of the conversation which I before mentioned as taking place between us in this room? I ventured to advise you and my advice was not taken; you cannot be surprised at my reluctance to repeat that advice."

"Is it my fault that Violet Mildmay very properly refuses to enrich a ruined house by marrying the poverty-stricken eldest son and heir, who love her as he does, is utterly unworthy of her?"

"Your fault!" retorted the earl, with icy scorn. "I know nothing of your affairs, but unless I am grossly misinformed it is your fault that Ethel has married a boy and refused a millionaire; that is enough for me. Go on in the course you have before you, Lord Boisdale. Go in the path you are treading, and find yourself a penniless debtor, rotting in jail; it is perfectly indifferent to me. I have pointed out to you the secret of success—you have scorned it or failed to get it by rank foolery. I have done with you! Lackland Hall and money will last my lifetime; afterward it can go to the dogs, which I can see, already at your heels. I am busy, and therefore compelled to wish you good-morning."

So saying, the earl pointed to the pile of bills, and then to the door.

Lord Fitz took up the bills and quietly left the room, dazed still, and more like a man walking in his sleep.

CHAPTER XXX.

We left Leicester and Mr. Thaxton, assisted by Stumpy, carrying Job to the nearest magistrate.

When Leicester had, as well as was able, removed his disguise, and Job saw that Leicester was alive and in the flesh, he had shown the greatest joy, and that notwithstanding the personal peril which Leicester's whim had placed him in.

After a time, when Job reflected upon all the consequences which would fall upon himself, he grew wonderfully quiet, and sat at the bottom of the cart sullen and moody.

"I suppose I'll be hanged," he said, "and I deserve it; but I'll tell the whole truth, Master Leicester, every word of it."

"In that case," said Leicester, "I will do my best to shield you from punishment."

"I'll turn King's evidence," said Job, with a grin. "I won't turn on the boys; but I'll be even with the captain, curse him!"

Mr. Thaxton exchanged glances with Leicester, and drove on in silence.

As the morning broke they had left the ruined chapel a long way behind, and were nearing Tenby. At this point Mr. Thaxton pulled up, and desired Leicester to step out of the cart, as he wished to say a word to him.

Leicester alighted, nodding to Job, warningly.

"Do not attempt to escape," he said, "I warn you."

"You leave him to me, sir," said Stumpy, cheerfully and significantly, and Leicester followed Mr. Thaxton.

"It has just occurred to me, or rather I have been thinking of it all the way—that you are under a warrant still, Mr. Dodson! Any moment you are liable to arrest. There is a hundred pounds reward, remember, and so large an amount makes men keen. In Tenby there are many men and boys who know you—or at least must have seen you often; you may be detected."

"Not through this disguise," said Leicester.

"Not through that disguise; but by your voice; you cannot disguise that sufficiently. I should have known you by it. Better stay out of the way quietly a while until Job's deposition is taken."

"Very well," said Leicester, "I follow your advice to the letter. All I want is to be near those I love and protect them until that villain is under lock and key. Then it does not matter what becomes of me," he added, sadly.

"Hem!" said Mr. Thaxton, "I think I know what is the matter. I have heard of Miss Mildmay's engagement, but that may be put right."

LONDON, Feb. 25. The Governor, Newfoundland: The French Government gives further particulars of the success of their operations near Les Eparges. Over six hundred German dead were found on a small section of a line carried by the French. The prisoners state that two regiments driven off by the French attack lost over a thousand men.

The Russian Government reports two regiments of the Twenty-ninth Division, which were surrounded in East Prussia, have broken through the enemy's lines and rejoined the main forces. Fighting in Northern Poland is extending and becoming extremely severe.

Various successes are reported on the Carpathians, where a precipitous height was carried, the German defenders being killed or captured.

GERMANY'S SUBMARINES.

LONDON, Feb. 25.

Germany's submarine war against British shipping has entered on a new phase. It is reported that Germany is sending a flotilla of trawlers into the North Sea to plant mines off and down the British coast. If the Germans undertake mining operations along the edge of the war zone, they will probably be carried on at night, owing to the vigilance of the air-sea fleets patrolling the coast waters. German activity is increasing, and the British Isles seem to be fringed with German submarines. The Germans are displaying a skill in handling submarines which is astonishing in naval circles. Crews of many ships that have been torpedoed, report seeing no hostile craft, and extra precautions are being taken to guard ports, following the torpedoing of a vessel close to her pier at Folkestone.

LONDON, Feb. 25.

Sir Edward Grey announced in the Commons to-day that Great Britain was in entire accord with Russia's desire for access to the sea. In response to a question from Frederick Jowett, whether England knew of the approved statement of Russian Foreign Minister Sazonoff, that Russia intended to permanently occupy Constantinople, Grey said that he was sure that Sazonoff had made such a statement, but he added that the statement he had seen was that Sazonoff had said that events on the Russian-Turkish frontier would bring Russia nearer the realization of her political economic problem bound up with Russia's access to the sea. With these aspirations, he continued, England is in sympathy, and their realization will no doubt be settled in the terms of peace. The announcement of Grey marks one of the important developments in the European situation since the beginning of the war. Russia's desire for a war winter port, and an unrestricted outlet from the Black Sea has long been one of her most cherished national aspirations. The attitude of Britain in the event that

HAS NO OBJECTIONS.

LONDON, Feb. 25.

Sir Edward Grey announced in the Commons to-day that Great Britain was in entire accord with Russia's desire for access to the sea. In response to a question from Frederick Jowett, whether England knew of the approval of Russian Foreign Minister Savanoff, that Russia intended to permanently occupy Constantinople, Grey said that he was unaware that Savanoff had made such a statement, but he added that the statement he had seen was that Savanoff had said that events on the Russian-Turkish frontier would bring Russia nearer the realization of her political and economic problem, bound up with Russia's access to the sea. With these aspirations, he continued, England is in sympathy, and their realization will no doubt be settled in the terms of peace. The announcement of Grey marks one of the important developments in the European situation since the beginning of the war. Russia's desire for a war winter port and an unrestricted outlet from the Black Sea has long been one of her most cherished national aspirations. The attitude of Britain in the event that the fortunes of war should favor Russia in her struggle with Turkey, has been open to question.

HUNS RUSHING TO THE WEST.

PARIS, Feb. 25.

German troops released by the German victory over the Russians in East Prussia, are pouring back into Belgium to strengthen the German lines in the western theatre of war. It is reported from Amsterdam that many troop trains passed through Belgium toward Liege and Brussels during the night for West Flanders. The French have begun a new series of attacks against the Germans in the Champagne district. The scene of hard fighting in that region is moving westward from the vicinity of Perthes Les Meuse and Beaumont toward the Suippe River. It is evident the French are trying to dislodge the Germans from some of their positions east of Rheims to prevent further bombardments of the city from the heights. Artillery engagements are reported from West Flanders and the Meuse Valley. In the Vosges the Germans opened a cannonade against Sulzern, Upper Alsace, which was recently taken by the French.

WILL FIGHT TO THE LAST.

LONDON, Feb. 25.

Premier Asquith took occasion in the Commons to-day, in replying to a question, to endorse the opinion recently expressed by the First Lord of the Admiralty, Winston Churchill, in a newspaper interview, that Britain would continue to fight to the bitter end, even should France and Russia withdraw from the war. The Premier pointed out that Churchill had declared with especial emphasis that he could not conceive of such a contingency as this. "But," added the Premier, "I am in complete agreement with him. I see no reason to differ from the views he expressed."

TURKISH PORTS REDUCED.

LONDON, Feb. 25.

The Admiralty officially reported to-night that the forts at the entrance of the Dardanelles had been reduced.

EMBARGO ON FOOD EXPORTS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.

A despatch from Washington says, it is reported that a suggestion has been made in some quarters that the United States put an embargo on food exports should her war zone proposals be rejected, but this has not been confirmed in any way.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

LONDON, Feb. 25.

The Daily Telegraph's Copenhagen correspondent writes: "I learn from a source, intimately connected with the German General Staff, that Germany intends to start peace negotiations in about two months."

BRITISH AVIATORS.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 25.

Thirty German soldiers are reported to have been killed and fifty wounded in the bombardment of Knocke, Belgium, by British aviators, according to information from Zebrugge. The aviators dropped many bombs upon Knocke, some of which wrecked tramway lines. The airman escaped.

SMALL STEAMER MINED.

LONDON, Feb. 25.

A small British coasting steamer on the Western coast, has been sunk by mine or torpedo in the English Channel, at a point off Beachy Head. The crew landed at Portsmouth to-day.

Bowring's Agree to Demands

OF FIREMEN'S UNION.

Mr. J. S. Munn, of Bowring Bros. Ltd., and Messrs. Woods and Wheatlan, the latter representing the Firemen's Union, amicably settled the dispute between Union and non-Union firemen so far as Bowring's steaming steamers are concerned. The matter was discussed yesterday. The delegates asked that none but union men be employed. To this Mr. Munn was satisfied and was informed by the delegates that the non-union men engaged on the steamers would be admitted into the union at to-night's meeting. The Union delegates thanked Mr. Munn for receiving them so kindly and for his decision in the question under dispute.

Give the Miller His Due, Mrs. Housewife

If he selects his wheat—
Washes, brushes and scours it—
Grinds it 20 times, so the granules are all alike—
Sifts it 10 times through silk, so you get only utterly perfect flour—
Then bakes a batch from every lot before it leaves the mill—
He deserves Recognition.

That's why we tell you of Gold Medal Flour.
We do it to better your baking—to give you more for your money—and to win a bigger place.
And, because we have done it, more homes use Gold Medal than any other flour in existence.

This world-wide Association has still its representatives in this city, and George Boyd Lodge still holds the fort in the West End. Since the beginning of the year substantial progress has been made both as regards finances and membership.

At the regular meeting on Tuesday evening last, notwithstanding the many other attractions, there was a fair attendance, and the sacred songs and solos, interspersed with appropriate and patriotic readings offered for the good of the Order, were much appreciated.

A timely suggestion was thrown out by Financial Secretary, Goober, and was spoken to by Lodge Deputy Pike who in a practical and common sense address supported Bro. Goober's suggestion; the result being the appointment of a committee to carry the ideas into effect. No doubt the outcome of which will be a splendid temperance rally early in March, month. All the old members are earnestly invited to attend the weekly gatherings, and intending candidates will receive a hearty welcome.—Com.

WORKLESS ARMY TO BE MOBILIZED ALL OVER FRANCE.

Paris, Feb. 25.—Mobilization of the unemployed under the direct orders of the Minister of Public Works is the latest plan for the economic defence of the nation. Parliament has been asked to confer the needed authority. The part that will be played by this industrial army, officials say, will be equal to that played by the military in the defence of the country.

Since the military establishment of last August the same economic and industrial conditions have existed in France that have come to be considered inevitable when devastating war comes. While Paris and all of the large centres are feeding thousands of the unemployed, industry and commerce are practically dead everywhere. For instance, the congestion on the docks at Havre is so great that many vessels lie outside, unable to be unloaded.

The plan now proposed to Parliament is to order the immediate mobilization of all "out of works" everywhere. They will be combined into one great industrial army, and the Minister of Public Works will direct their activities. And whether they are working or not, they will be fed and cared for by the Government. Wherever there is ground to plow, seeds to sow, mines to be worked, ships to be unloaded, villages to be rebuilt, factories to be re-opened, the "industrial army" will essay it.

Five Minute Cure If Stomach is Bad

When "Pape's Diapepsin" reaches stomach all Indigestion, Gas and Sourness disappears.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eruptions of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

FIVE MILLION MUST LEAVE GERMANY.

Copenhagen, Feb. 17.—The report is in circulation that, owing to the necessity to restrict food consumption, the German Government intends ordering 5,000,000 Germans who possess independent incomes, and are ineligible for military service, to leave Germany for neutral countries, and remain there until the war is over.

It is planned, according to the report, that 3,000,000 of these persons shall go to Scandinavian countries; 1,000,000 to Holland and 1,000,000 to Switzerland.

POOR OLD MEXICO.

Through Mexico grim death goes skating, in spite of all our watchful waiting. Where once the farmer did his haying, where once the mechanic were busy slaying, where once the citizen's so foolish, wrong-headed, stubborn, vain and mulish, as to indulge in useful labors, they slice his person with their sabres. No merchants now do advertising, and from the mills no smoke is rising, the mines where once they dug for riches are empty and deserted ditches; and everywhere, in all directions, the brigands make their foul collections, and if the victim cannot pay 'em, they deal in arson and in mayhem. Cheap statesmen rise, and say they'll nourish the law again—a day they flourish; and in three shakes we see them headed for deep demerit, double-headed. A villain is still immersed in slaughter, crime is his handmaid and his daughter, and Colonel This, or Captain Tother, is pushing bayonets through his brother. Carranza still is hanging botching—oh, blest results of Waitful Watching!

LUCKY MUNSTER PRIVATE.

When her Christmas gifts for the men at the front were being packed Princess Mary went to the warehouse at Bedford to watch the packing and placed a slip of paper in one of the brass boxes. On the slip were these words:

This box was packed by Her Royal Highness the Princess Mary. The recipient should acknowledge its receipt to her Royal Highness the Princess Mary, Buckingham Palace.

There was naturally great interest in seeing who would be the happy recipient of the royal message. On Thursday the slip was returned to Buckingham Palace. On it was written:

Thank you. Received by me—9780, Private Fitzgerald, B Company, Royal Munster Fusiliers.

A note added by the quarter-master sergeant said that the boxes were handed to Private Fitzgerald and his comrades on Christmas night when the rations were being sent up to the trenches.

No more useful gift for a man than a Safety Razor. We sell the Giant Junior Safety at 50 cents. A perfect shaver and the wonder of all men. CHESELEY WOODS, 140 Water Street, Manufacturer's Agent.—Feb 14

Candor.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Sluash."

Candor is the art of telling a dis- agreeable truth in an unpleasant way, without getting punched in the eye for it.

Very few people are candid. In the first place, most of those who try it do not know enough about the man- ly art of self-defense to protect them- selves; and in the second place, after a candid man has operated upon the public for a few years, he cannot cor- ner a friend long enough to say any- thing worth while to him.

Most of the candid people are women. This is only natural, be- cause it is not polite to hit a woman, or even to run away from her.

Candor is very useful in this world. We need people of inflexible resolu- tion and courage who will take a pleasure in going through society with hobnailed shoes, telling men how funny they look while dancing, and admitting to women that they do not look a day over forty, now that they have painted out fifteen years.

This sort of thing keeps man and womankind humble and thoughtful, and excessively mad. One does not have to watch a candid person at work. We can trace them by the trail of lacerated tempers and reckless de- spair, which they leave behind.

However, most of our candor is misplaced. We should harness the arts, and put it to work in the in- terests of humanity. A little candor, applied at the right time, will prevent many a young woman from applying $7,000 worth of singing lessons to a voice which needs emery powder, in- stead; and a certain amount of can- dor applied with a bow, if necessary, will cause many a young man to won- der if he looks as noble and daring as he thinks he does, while being hauled home at night in a taxicab, with his feet out of the window.

We should have an official dispenser of candor, to tell ministers how hard it is to think nice thoughts during the last part of a long sermon; to explain to cross station agents, just how much they afflict the world, by remaining in it, and to go softly to the perpetual candidate, who relies on his personal friends for support, and tell him that the town is ready to back him, unanimously, for the office of pound master in Kamchatka.

Thus harnessed, candor would be a national boon. But the office of official candor would have to be filled by a very large and agile man.

Is Pride a Fault?

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

Is Pride a Fault? "Pride increases our enemies but puts off our friends to flight." "Pride is the sworn enemy of content." "The nobler the blood, the less the pride." These are just a few of the bad things the proverb makers have said about pride. Evidently they think it is a fault to be most sedulously avoided. But is it always? I asked myself that question when I went to call on a friend of mine who was married about two years ago. A Dinner That Took a Long While to Cook. She had been a stenographer before her marriage and she knew little about housekeeping. She told me the other day with the reminiscence of yesterday that the first dinner she cooked took her from ten in the morning until six at night. Housekeeping came hard to her. She learned slowly, she told me, and each little task took her longer than it should have. But she was simply determined that her home should look as well as her friends' homes and her meals be as well cooked. In other words she was too proud to give in and admit herself an inferior housekeeper. For her pride's sake she had to be first class in that as she was in her stenography, and today she is. The neatness and attractiveness of her home is a byword and her cooking is as perfect as her typing used to be.

Now I happen to know another young married woman who also knew nothing about the art of housekeeping before her marriage and who also found it extremely difficult. She was not so proud as the other girl and she finally decided that it was easier to admit that she wasn't a first class housekeeper than to try to be one. So she lets her house go at sixes and sevens, does as little cooking as possible, and confesses freely and frankly that she "hates housekeeping and simply cannot do it decently." Now which has worked the better results in these cases, pride or the lack of it? Pride of the kind is a splendid spur. If we cannot bear the thought of being inferior to others that sensitivity will lead us on to conquer the inferiority. Some people have a strange idea that to admit a fault is to cancel it. "Yes, I know I'm selfish," says a girl I know, with a complacent air, as if her lack of pride, her willingness to admit that she has the most happiness-destroying of all the faults entirely freed her from blame. Her lack of pride is a very weak point in her character. The Right and the Wrong Kind of Pride. The proverb maker is certainly right. Pride is, indeed, an enemy of content, but some kinds of content need an enemy. Some people have too much pride and some have the wrong kind. The pride that is inanity, sure of its own superiority, or the pride that exalts over the wrong things, are certainly faults. But the pride that is disatisfied with anything short of the best

New York, Feb. 15.—More than 110,000 tons of food had been sent to Belgium up to January 20 by the commission for relief in Belgium, according to its twelfth weekly report issued today. During the week ending January 20, 22,227 tons were shipped, more than twice the amount shipped the week before. Of this shipment, 20,255 tons were wheat and 2,340 tons flour, the remaining 531 tons being composed of rice, peas, beans, salt and potatoes. Of the 111,713 tons shipped up to the close of the report 625 tons were of medical stores. The commission announces that the need for food in Belgium is increasing.

For the Right.

The builders of cities, of worlds, are we. The unknown scribes of unknown worth; For we are kinsmen of Progress, and he The one prince we honor the whole wide earth. Nor gold nor glory, nor name we claim— We ask but the right, unfettered to fight. To name a wrong by its shameful name. To slay the wrong for the sake of the right! The sentries of cities, of worlds are we. Each standing alone on his high watch-tower; We are looking away to the land, to the sea; We have only a lamp in the midnight hour. Then leave us the right to fight, or to fall. As God may will, in the front of the fight. Unchallenged, unquestioned, for the good of all. For the truth that lives, for the love of the right! The givers of glory to nations are we. The builders of shafts and monuments To soldiers and daring great men of the sea; But we are the homeless, strange dwellers in tents. With never a tablet or high-built stone! Yet what care we who go down in the fight. Though we live unnamed, though we die unknown. If only we live and die for the right. There are brighter things in this world than gold— There are nobler things in this world than name: To silently do with your deeds un-told. To silently die, unnoticed to fame. Then forth to fight, unnamed and alone! Let us lead the world to its destined height. Enough to now, if but this be known, We live and we die for the right! —Joachim Miller.

THE AFTERMATH OF THE SLOUCH Even while the debutante slouch was the epitome of popular pose and carriage, I warned my fair readers not to take it too seriously lest they regret the results later. But alas! Flesh is weak, and shoulders are weaker to succumb to a passing fancy. Now while the military effect in wearing apparel is having its vogue, sloping shoulders and sagging body lines are not truly consistent with the trend of the times. Let us forget the devastating effect of the slouch and remedy it as soon as possible by standing erect once more. Practice faithfully every day until you learn over again how to stand and walk erect without effort the following exercise. It carries with it the recommendation of a leading surgeon as the best form of exercise for correcting rounded shoulders. Stand erect, weight on the ball of your foot, hands on your chest, fingers pointing horizontally toward each other, with elbows on a level with your shoulders. With your eyes raised toward the ceiling slowly bend your body forward at the hips, keeping your eyes fixed on the point you have chosen. Don't let your elbows sag. You will feel the pull on your muscles down to your heels. So critical are the judges of beauty concerning beautiful shoulders that it is absolutely impossible for a woman to win recognition for her beauty if her shoulders are not lovely. It is a proof of the accepted beauty of shoulders that fashion demands that they be bare. Shoulders that are too stout are no less unattractive than shoulders that are scrawny. The exercises given here will remedy either of these unhappy conditions. The habit of raising the shoulders in a swaggering pose is not attractive. Shoulders should give a reposeful effect. They are dimpled in outline and form and if kept nicely rounded in repose much life and charm are added to the face. Drooping shoulders distort at least one-half of the body. The shoulder blades fall out of place, the abdomen and waist line are affected to a noticeable degree. It is hardly necessary to name the evil effects of rounded shoulders. They are so obvious. GERMANY'S PAPER "BLOCKADE."

(From the New York Times.) The declaration of the German Admiralty that a "war zone" around Great Britain and Ireland is to be established from and after February 18th will be acquiesced in by no neutral nation on earth. In its form and implications it is something new in war, quite unknown to international law. To be binding a blockade must be effective. A blockading force must be constantly maintained sufficient actually to prevent access to the enemy's ports or to make passage to or from them too dangerous to be risked. The declaration of a "war zone," which in its very nature cannot everywhere and at all times be effectively maintained as a barrier to commerce, will be respected, or that the destruction of a neutral ship within the zone would be passed over as an unavoidable and excusable hazard in naval warfare.

Mr. George French, of Mr. Warren's carriage factory, returned from St. John's last week, after spending a couple of months very pleasantly with friends there. The Rev. Mr. Sutherland, of St. John's, will likely occupy the pulpit of St. Andrew's Church here on Sunday next. Mr. Arthur B. Peach of Carbonear passed away yesterday, much regretted by all his acquaintances. Funeral on Friday. People are again crossing to and from the South Side on the ice. Dr. Parsons had a narrow escape from drowning on Tuesday night when returning home after visiting some patients in the upper part of the district. While crossing a pond at Tilton the ice gave way and he with his horse and wagon were plunged in the water. Some time elapsed before the Dr. could make his predicament known to the people living near. At last assistance came and the horse was soon taken from the water, and the doctor was looked after by the neighbors. He was able to get off on his rounds early next morning, very little the worse of his mishap. The tea given in the British Hall for charitable purposes under the management of the Conception Bay British Society was a success beyond anticipation. From early morning the citizens could be seen bringing their donations of cakes, etc. to the hall, and shortly after three o'clock the wives of the officers and others began to be busy supplying tea to the patrons, and they were kept busy until near midnight. The British Band added greatly to the success of the afternoon by playing some very pretty selections during the evening. The total amount received, including two money donations amounted to the handsome sum of $101.00. Great praise is due the ladies for their untiring efforts. Let us all hope that the money thus made will find its way into the most deserving hands. After all had been supplied the balance of the goods on hand was sold by auction, in some cases the buyers after paying for the goods requested that they be sold again. This completed, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded the ladies for their work, and the singing of the National Anthem brought this pleasant gathering to a close. The greatest praise is due the public for their liberality in sending the goods necessary for the tea, and thus giving in two ways. CORRESPONDENT. Hr. Grace, Feb. 25th, 1915.

Have You an Itchy Spot? Somewhere on your body? If so, attend to it at once. Things Seldom Just "Happen." There are sound reasons if you look for them. Homestead Tea is as distinctive in cup quality as it is in name. This didn't just "happen." The reason is that in Homestead we use a proportion of the rich, strong teas of Northern India—teas grown in the district of Assam, where the tea bush is said to have had its origin. These teas when blended with the finer sorts of Ceylon teas give that rich strength and pleasing flavour possessed by Homestead.

Felldians the Undeatable Champions.

WON OVER TERRA NOVAS LAST EVENING BY A NARROW MARGIN.

Though the outcome would not interfere with their championship honours, the Felldians defeated the Terra Novas last evening at the Prince's rink by four goals to three, after five minutes of play over the limited period.

The game was, without doubt, the most exciting and closely contested for the season. Terra Nova backers were pretty sure of winning, whilst Felldian supporters were equally confident and the latter were not disappointed. The players were:

THE GAME.

When the teams faced off the Terra Novas assumed the aggressive and in the twinkling of an eye Mews lodged the puck in the meshes. Great enthusiasm followed and some hard and fast play was served out to the spectators. The Felldians pressed their opponents hard and before five minutes elapsed Payne scored the equalizer. This put new life into the game. Individual play was very much in evidence as both sides did their utmost to break up the combination of their opponents. White infringed and was penalized and when he came back Munn was sent to cool off. During the absence of the latter the Terra Novas attacked desperately and sent numerous shots to Strang who saved splendidly.

SECOND PERIOD.

Shortly after the opening of this period M. Stick got a "puck" in the eye and had to retire for repairs. Play was stopped for a few minutes and on resuming the Felldians scored their second goal through White. Encouraged by their lead the Felldians bombarded their opponents goal and Jerrett from mid-rink notched up the third goal. The Terra Novas were not the least discouraged, but on the contrary, played harder than ever and Trappnell registered two goals for his team in quick time. Play then became fast and furious. Tobin got a blow of a stick over the eye and got put out of commission for a while. No further scoring occurred when full time was announced.

EXTRA PLAY.

Both teams having three goals to their credit a play-off was necessary to decide the winners. After five minutes of fast play, Payne scored the winning goal for the Felldians. We congratulate the Felldians who have played their full series of games and never lost one. The officials were:

Referee—Mr. G. Herder.
Timekeepers—Messrs. Vinnicombe and Power.
Penalty—Mr. McCafferty.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

A shy child is apt to be very awkward, and as this sort of awkwardness is largely due to her mental state, she should be taught self-possession through being given certain little tasks to do.

Have you ever noticed how nervously some women talk over a telephone and how nearly impossible it is for them to take a phone message down correctly?

If the shy girl is taught to answer the telephone at every opportunity and to both give and take down or deliver messages coming over the phone, she will gain, subconsciously, a poise that many women old enough to be her grandmother lack.

To-Night's Great Bread Benefit.

At the Rossley Theatre to-night the bread benefit will take place under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency Governor Davidson and Lady Davidson, the programme is a splendid one, and a big house is expected. The string band from H. M. S. Calypso have kindly volunteered their services, also Mr. Collier and Mr. Lloyd, comic singers, Mr. A. Crocker and Mr. Jago, of the Rossley orchestra, have also very kindly offered their services free of charge, the clever young trap drummer, also the complete pantomime troupe, Joe Burkhardt, Miss Bonnie Rossley, Jack and Marie Rossley and other talent; every penny for the great bread charity; no expenses kept out, all goes for the good cause. Rossleys have always headed the theatrical entertainment for charity and are working very hard for this come along and help. Bread is the staff of life, and hungry little ones need it; besides a real show.

Last Night's Lecture

Rev. Dr. Kitchin lectured to a large gathering at the Star of the Sea Hall last night. The subject of the discourse was "Louvain in History and Remembrance," and after being introduced by Mr. J. J. Lacey, who presided, the reverend lecturer entertained his audience for nearly two hours, the references to his student days being most interesting. At the close a vote of thanks proposed by Secretary W. F. Graham and seconded by Leo C. Murphy, was accorded Rev. Dr. Kitchin for his interesting and instructive discourse.

Notes on the Patriotic Tour.

AT BURGO.

I. C. M.

CHAPTER XI.

The visit to Burgeo was entirely satisfactory, and from first to last the people seemed to realize the duties of the hour. Much good work had been done by the local committee before our arrival, and whatever little remained to be done towards the success of our meeting, was enthusiastically performed by Magistrate Small. Mr. Small has long been a tower of strength to Burgeo, and his energy and zeal in every good cause mark him as a man beloved.

The meeting was held in the school hall, and was a packed assembly, and the people of Burgeo made a grand rally to display their patriotism. The chair was occupied by the Magistrate, and the leading citizens of the place, amongst whom we noticed Rev. Mr. Fletcher, Messrs. Clement and Cunningham.

Like other places Burgeo had sent its quota to the front, and when our meeting closed, six more young men were added to the list. As they came forward enthusiasm ran high, and while there was, with some present a possible tinge of sorrow, there was also that feeling of duty which is peculiar to Britons. Burgeo's meeting in every respect was a good one, and the people of the place had just cause to feel proud of their display of loyalty, and of their reception accorded the representatives of the Patriotic Association.

Burgeo has always impressed us as being a place of much enterprise and independence, and as far as our observations lead us, we still think the same. Among the principal business men of the place, the names of Small, Clement, and Moulton, have long stood foremost, the latter now being the principal concern. Among the ships loading for market we noticed the Duchess of Cornwall and the Annie Larder, the former we understand was ready to sail. These two ships are in command of Captains Kendrick and Kanea, respectively, both of whom are favourably known in our local marinas. Among several other things which attracted our attention at Burgeo we were interested in the Fort which commands a splendid range from the hillside. The Fort appears to be in good condition and is well kept, and is mounted by three bat-

The Dragoons and Artillery!

It will be admitted that the uniforms of the contesting armies overwhelm one with new ideas from a fashion point of view. There will be no monotony in the models of 1915. Canvas covered helmets and tunics are worn by the Dragoons, Guides, Hussars and Artillery Officers, hence canvas will be utilized in the fashioning of hats for summer wear, frogging will come into its own again for decorative purposes, inspired by the grey frogged tunics of the Hussars.

The war affects the styles, and the Dry Cleaning process reduces the cost of ladies' apparel.

Only a Myth.

INNOCENT BOY CAINES RELEASED FROM CUSTODY.

The mystery surrounding the discovery of dynamite made at the Highlanders' Armoury on Tuesday night last has been cleared up. It has been also proven that the story told by the little boy Caines, who said he picked up the explosive, was true and yesterday afternoon he was released from custody, having spent twenty hours locked up at the police station. The result of the investigation made by the police authorities showed that in the vicinity where the dynamite was found, a miner lives. The wife of the latter was house-cleaning recently and threw out the dynamite, not knowing what it was. Yesterday the miner heard the story going around and at once communicated with the police and identified the eleven sticks of dynamite as that which he put away in his home, safely as he thought, some few years ago, when he was last engaged at mining.

M. C. L. I. Debate.

The subject of the debate last evening was, "Is the occasional destruction of large numbers of people by war and disaster a benefit to the world?" A large audience was present and some very instructive and interesting speeches were made. The affirmative was led by Mr. S. P. Whiteway, supported by Messrs. W. Milley and Ches. Bowden, who contended that each war and disaster taught the world lessons which were used to the advantage and benefit of the world. The Titanic disaster showed the necessity for individual life belts, adequate lifeboats and life saving appliances, and that the world has grown better in spite of all wars and disasters.

The negative was led by Mr. I. C. Morris and supported by Messrs. A. Soper and H. Young, who argued that war meant the killing out of our best men, the disruption of trade and commerce and general stagnation for generations. That man was divine and that God meant that he should live his allotted three score years and ten. The time allotted for general discussion was fully occupied by the members. The vote went in favor of the affirmative. Mr. George Soper occupied the chair to the satisfaction of the Institute. Next week's debate is, "Has the War presented any justification for Britain adopting conscription?"

Salvia Hair Tonic Makes The Hair Beautiful.

That dandruff is caused by germs is accepted by every sensible person. Dandruff is the root of all hair evil.

SALVIA will kill the dandruff germs and remove dandruff in ten days, or money back.

It will stop itching scalp, falling hair, and make the hair thick and abundant. It prevents hair from turning gray; adds life and lustre.

SALVIA is a hair dressing that has become the favorite with women of taste and culture, who know the social value of beautiful hair. Only 50c. at leading druggists.

N. B. S. Installation.

The annual tea and installation of officers of the King Edward Branch of the Newfoundland British Society, took place at the British Hall last evening. A large number of members attended, and the officers recently elected were duly installed by Mr. J. Mauder. Addresses were given by Messrs. H. Cowan, W. H. Goodland, H. Hammond, G. Cook and J. Lawrence, following which was an enjoyable concert, the selections being contributed by Messrs. Hammond, Cook, Dowden, Goodland, G. Cook and W. Cowan. Prizes were distributed to the boys bringing the largest number of members into the ranks during the year. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Elaborate Show at Nickel Theatre.

SIX GOOD FILMS TO-DAY.

By attending the Nickel Theatre to-day, patrons will see an elaborate show as well as helping swell the fund which all are anxious to make a large one. There are no less than six different pictures this evening and all are of the highest class, and by artists well known in England and America. The bill includes three pretty dramas, two side-splitting comedies and a Mutual Weekly. The show arranged for to-day is without doubt one of the best ever seen here. No one should miss it. No matter how you feel the Nickel to-day will put you in good humor. The children's matinee takes place to-morrow when extra pictures will be shown. The doors open at 2 o'clock; send the little ones early and let them enjoy themselves.

Household Notes

Always brush a carpet WITH the pile, not AGAINST it.
Never salt and pepper until it is at least half done.
Winter salads are a great help in these days of economizing.
The feverish patient enjoys cold water mixed with fruit juices.
A letter sealed with the white of an egg can never be steamed open.
Salt and water gently spat on the face will make the cuticle firm.
Put an apple in the tin box with the cake, it will keep the cake moist.
If soot falls on a carpet, sprinkle thickly with salt before sweeping up. Don't pick up broken glass, but lay a wet cloth over it and "pat" it up.
Never grease a pie tin. Pastry properly made will grease its own tin.
A thorough whitewashing should be given every cellar at least once a year.

Batters of all kinds require one scant quart of milk to one quart of flour.
Clean eggs with vinegar. Dip the cloth in the vinegar and rub the soil off the egg.
Sandwiches should always be made as short a time as possible before being used.

In using a high stepladder on a polished floor, put sandpaper under the ladder's feet.
Eggs are more easily digested when the whites and yolks are thoroughly mixed before cooking.

When filling pepper shakers, always pour the pepper in through a funnel made of clean card or stiff paper.

A paste of minced raisins and figs, with a dash of lemon juice, makes an excellent filling for sandwiches.

Geraniums should not be watered too often. Give them a soaking and then allow the soil to dry out completely.

Wet tea or coffee stains on table linen with sweet milk and then plunge them into the suds ready for washing.
A spoonful means that the flour, etc., should lie as much above the edge of the spoon as the bowl lies below it.

Left-over chicken is delicious chopped fine, creamed and enriched with two hard boiled eggs, chopped not too fine.

Flowers in the home are beautiful and they have more influence on the lives of growing children than is generally realized.

On ironing day when the top of the stove must not be spattered much of the cooking of the mid-day meal may be done in the oven.

Paste for pies should be rolled very thin. Always brush the under crust with water, and be sure to perforate the upper crust.

In serving fish for dinner, the light-meated kinds are preferred because they are more easily digested than those with dark meat.

Old broomhandles, sawn into six inch lengths, then padded and covered with odd bits of silk, etc., are excellent to wind ribbons on.

In baking most foods the gas fire can be turned off before the food is done, for the oven will retain sufficient heat to complete the cooking.

If brass candlesticks have much wax drippings upon them, put them in the even till it melts and then polish off with a woolen cloth.

All linen should be hung straight to dry, and all pieces will wear better if a third or half of the napkin or tablecloth is hung over the line.

Refuse and garbage can be wrapped in newspapers before putting it into the garbage can. In this way the inside of the can can be kept clean.

When the boys are obliged to wear rubber boots, a pair of bicycle clamps will keep the trousers from slipping up and being uncomfortable.

When your eyes smart over onions, get a deep basin of water and do your peeling under the water; this stops the smell from rising to your eyes.

When arranging pillows for an invalid, place the first pillow lengthwise with the person and the second one across the upper half of the first pillow.

Women who wish to keep hair and hands nice about their housework should not hesitate to wear gloves and cap as often as occasion demands.

To prevent stove pipes from rusting when put away, rub sweet oil on them with a cloth. Then wrap the pipes in paper and store them in a dry place.

Wash woolen gloves in a lather of soap and warm water, and rinse in tepid water. If you use very hot or very cold water for rinsing, the gloves will shrink.

Make our garden plantings smaller and plant more frequently—every week or ten days. This will produce young vegetables that are more tender.

To keep the water in a new cistern fresh, coat the inside of the cistern with "water glass," which can be bought at the drugstore and put on like paint.

MR. CUSTOMER,—

Probably you've economised by doing without your small suit and overcoat during Fall of 1914. Are you going to have that down-and-out look in Spring 1915? The Allies have millions of men on the firing line, each requiring thirteen pounds of wool every six or eight weeks. The British Government are keeping British Mills turning out army contracts. Spring quotations for woollens are sky high. We have on hand a particularly fine range of Serges, Tweed Suitings and Overcoatings. Order now as you will have to pay considerably higher in the Spring.
