The Broken Circle!

CHAPTER XXIII.

Those happy weeks bound the heart of Leah so completely to her lover, made her life so entirely one with his, that nothing but death could have taken her from him.

When Christmas came, the snow was lying on the ground.

As Leah was one day watching the whirl of the soft snowflakes, her mind went back to the little house in Manchester, where she and Hettie had been so long together. Suddenly she went in search of her uncle, whom she found in the library.

He wondered at the emotion on her face.

"Uncle," she said, "give me permission to speak to you. I would not ask but I am ill with suspense."

"Say what you will, my dear," responded Sir Arthur, drawing the beautiful face to him and kissing it.

"You have forbidden me to speak on the subject," she said. "I hardly like to presume upon the permission you now give me, but I had a terrible dream last night, and it has troubled me so much."

"Surely you do not believe in dreams, Leah?" laughed the general.

"I do not," she replied; "but this has haunted me all day. I dreamed that, although I was going to marry Basil, something always parted us; that I never could see him, though I could hear his voice; and then, when I followed it, I could not find him. If I was in his presence, there was always a thick veil of crape between us, which I could not tear away. I cannot tell you how nervous it has made me. It seems like a foreboding that we are to part."

"Nonsense, Leah!" laughed the general. "There must be many partings in this world, but rest assured that while you both live there will never be one between Sir Basil and you."

Indoor Life

Spending more time indoors makes women far more subject to constipation than men.

The liver becomes sluggish and torpid, the bowels constipated and the system poisoned by impurities.

If you would get away from the myriads of ills which result from constipation, it is only necessary to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The benefits from their use are as lasting as they are prompt and certain.

Mrs. John Barry, 18 St. Amable Street, Quebec, Que., writes:

"This is to certify that I was troubled for years with constipation and tried all kinds of medicines without relief. At last my husband suggested that I try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and must say that they have given me more relief than all the medicine I have taken during the last fifteen years. I may also add that I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles with excellent results."

She looked a little relieved, but the cloud still rested on the fair face.

"I thought you would perhaps laugh, uncle, but you must listen to something else that I have to say. I have been trying to think if there is anything on earth which could part us, and I have come to the conclusion that the only thing to fear is the announcement of the fact that I am Martin Ray's daughter. He must know that."

"Certainly, I shall tell him myself," said the general. "I have always intended to do so, but not yet—not yet, Leah. Believe me that will make no ferret man, uncle, if such were not on political matters, and his opinions are not one-half so strong as mine are. You need not have the least fear on that score, Leah, I assure you. I shall tell him of your parentage, and he will be surprised; but you are the child of my sister as well as of Martin Ray. Do not forget that. There has been no deceit. The simple fact is that in adopting you, I have given you my name, because I did not care to have your prospects in life spoiled by associating yours with Martin Ray. Any one would understand that. I know Sir Basil thoroughly. He will not mind. There are some men who might object, but he is not one of them."

"I shall be glad when you have told him," she said, quietly. "I do not like even the shadow of a secret between us. But you have taken all fear from me. I never remember to have been nervous before. I wonder of what it is the sign?"

Sir Arthur smiled as he raised the beautiful face and kissed it.

"I can tell you, Leah," he replied, "it is a sign that you love Sir Basil with all your heart, and that the faintest fear of ever being parted from him is to you like the overshadowing of a great calamity."

"Yes," she assented, with a happy smile. "But is it not better to love too much than not to love at all?"

"I cannot say," replied the general; "of the love you speak about, that fills your heart, I know nothing."

"Perhaps you would be quite a different man, uncle, if such were not the case," she said laughing in her charming fashion.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Christmas passed by; the reign of King Winter was ended. Spring was come; the odor of violets filled the air, the birds began to build, and the hedges clothed themselves with green.

After sundry flying visits to the metropolis, Sir Arthur decided to take up his residence in London at the end of April.

"You will not mind that, Leah?" he asked.

"No, though, if it were possible, I would rather stay at Brentwood than go to London at all."

"It would cause a revolution," said Sir Arthur. "I dare not think of such a thing."

"One thing is certain," remarked Leah—"every one will know of my engagement, and I shall have more time to myself. I wonder when Basil will go?"

"I think he spoke of going next week; he will not remain at his country seat alone. He will be compelled however, to leave town every now and then, and spend a few hours at Glen, to see how the work progresses."

"I shall be glad when the season is over, and we are here in peace again," said Leah.

"Are you beginning to tire of gravities, Leah?" asked Sir Arthur.

"I don't think it is that, uncle," she said, gently; "it is that my heart is more at rest here."

Sir Basil was spending a few days at Brentwood before the general and his niece started for London. He asked Leah one morning, when she giving orders about the packing, if she could spare him five minutes; he had something very particular to say to her. She smiled to herself at the request. Now cheerfully and gladly she would have given him every moment of her time, if he had wanted it!

"You look very serious, Basil," she said.

"I want to speak to you on a grave subject," he replied.

They were standing in the deep recess of a large bay-window; the odor of violets filled the room. Sir Basil took from his pocket a small morocco ring-case.

"I do not know," he said, "whether our family custom will please you, Leah. I have heard that some of the Ladies Carlton did not like the fashions; and, if it does not find favor in your eyes, I will lay the old custom aside."

"Anything will please me," she told him, "that pleases you."

"Every family has I suppose, its own traditions and customs," said Sir Basil. "I can tell you the origin of this custom. One of our ancestors saved his sovereign's life. He was out hunting with his royal master, who was wont to brag of his prowess, yet at heart was a coward. The details would not interest you, but our ancestor covered an act of arrant cowardice of the king's, and at the same time saved his life. The incident happened a few days before the wedding-day of Hugh Carlton, and the king insisted upon presenting the wedding-ring. It was a magnificent circlet of thick pale gold, with the royal arms engraved within. The then Lady Carlton wore it with vast satisfaction, and was proud of it. When she lay dead in her coffin it was taken from her hand. Hugh Carlton did not care to bury the gift of a king; he took the ring from her finger and kept it by him. In the course of a few years he married again, and he used the same wedding-ring. During all the succeeding generations the same thing has been done; all the heads of the house of Carlton have married their wives with this ring. Two hundred years it was a thick gold circlet with superb diamonds; now the diamonds are all gone, and the ring has grown thin by constant wear. I am not quite sure; but I think it was melted down since, and more gold added to it, and then re-made. My grandmother, Lady Dorothea Carlton, wore it; my dear mother wore it; and now I offer it to you, my love. It shall be just as you like, Leah; if you would prefer a new one, I will get one—I would like to wear the same that so many Ladies Carlton have worn then keep it."

"What would you like me to do?" she asked. "The tradition is of your house, not of mine. Is there any legend about the wedding-ring?"

"Yes, this—that whoever wears it lives long and happily. If you ask me what I should like you best to do, I say most certainly let it be your wedding-ring. Let me see, Leah, if it will fit you."

He took it from the little case, and she looked at it with some reverence. So this was the king's gift, and this was the famous Carlton wedding-ring! On how many slender girlish hands had it been placed? From how many dead white fingers had it been taken? There was something almost weird and uncanny about it.

She looked a little relieved, but the cloud still rested on the fair face.

"I thought you would perhaps laugh, uncle, but you must listen to something else that I have to say. I have been trying to think if there is anything on earth which could part us, and I have come to the conclusion that the only thing to fear is the announcement of the fact that I am Martin Ray's daughter. "Perhaps you would be quite a different man, uncle, if such were not the case," she said laughing in her charming fashion.

HOPE FOR EUROPE.
GENOA, April 21. The Economic Conference with the participation of the Russo-German Treaty and the controversy and Soviet acceptance of the Allied conditions concerning foreign debts and the property of foreigners, professes the hope that something for the reconstruction of Europe, including Russia, will be accomplished. The demands of the powers have been accepted include the recognition of Russia of her counter claims based on military intervention, recognition of war debts to governments with the understanding that they will be scaled down, the recognition of debts and financial obligations with return of confiscated property or compensation. The attitude of the Soviet Government indicates a desire for arrangements permitting Russia to enter the family of nations.

Obituary.
One of the saddest events to happen here in recent years occurred on Wednesday last April 12th, when Michael Tobin was drowned while in quest of seals. He, in company with his brother John and Gideon Sellars was endeavoring to reach some pans of ice from the land when a heavy sea washed him from the rock on which he was standing, and without any cry he sank amid the slob ice and was seen no more by his companions. On Friday as the sea had become smooth an effort was made to find the body, and although the search was conducted with very little hope of success, the body was found a little way from where the drowning took place. On Sunday evening his remains were laid to rest in the R. C. Cemetery, Rev. Father O'Brien conducting the funeral ceremony.

B.L.C. PETITION CHURCHILL.
LONDON, April 21. The British Government has a serious problem with several thousand disbanded Royal Irish Constabulary. A large number yesterday presented a petition to Winston Spencer Churchill saying that all had been ordered out of Ireland and asking for employment in houses or barracks in England as well as protection from places of disembarkment in Ireland until they are aboard steamers leaving that country. Placards said petitions had been presented that all Royal Irish Constabulary who return will be shot on sight. Petition said many had already been murdered, some turned out of houses without warning, houses had been burned and numbers dragged off steamers on which they were about to embark for England. Nearly all the Constabulary have families, and while Government has granted pensions, they must leave Ireland for England where there is little chance to find homes or employment, most of them have not sufficient money to emigrate although they would make splendid settlers.

THE ART OF CHEWING.
Your whole system depends for its health and strength on the stomach. The stomach, in turn, depends on the teeth. The very foundation of health is therefore laid at the first step in food conversion—the act of chewing. Food improperly chewed enters the stomach in a wrong condition, and it brings about a wrong fermentation which causes first, indigestion, then kindred ailments. The proper chewing of the food will prevent these things. Chew your food plentifully.

MRS. ALYAH H. McCREARY, of Philadelphia, who says nothing she could say for Tanlac would be half good enough after the way this remarkable medicine has brought back her health.

"It is just glorious to have my health back, and in my opinion there is nothing I can say about Tanlac would be half good enough," said Mrs. Alyah H. McCreary, 1531 Locust St. Philadelphia, Pa.
 "For two years I had all the miserable and agonizing symptoms that go with a bad case of stomach trouble. Although I lived on the strictest kind of diet, I suffered torture from indigestion and finally my whole system seemed to give way.
 "I certainly know how to appreciate the wonderful blessing of good health and I have such confidence in Tanlac that I wish it was in my power to put a bottle of it into the hands of every sick man, woman and child so that they might take it and get well and strong, as I have done."
 Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Fortune Teller in the Toils.

The exploits of the Crown and Anchor operator who "walloped 'er up" by Quidi Vidi Lake a couple of years ago are still fresh in the public mind, and we have had our fill more recently of hikers, strikers and pickers of divers kinds, but one of the queerest fish the net of the law ever enmeshed was taken to the police station this morning and lodged behind prison bars. He told the officer that he had arrived by the "Rosalind" and admitted having been in jail at Halifax for fortune-telling, which seems to be his profession. When laughingly challenged to display his powers by forecasting some local occurrence he willingly complied and taking a greasy pack of cards out of his pocket, shuffled them hurriedly and dealt them out in little heaps on the Sergeant's desk. After studying them a moment he said: "A big event will happen on Monday night. It will take place in the Methodist College Hall. It will be a concert by the St. John's Octette for the War Memorial Fund. Don't miss it." Needless to say he was bailed out immediately by Padre Nangle.

Obituary.

MRS. A. CRAWLEY.
 There passed peacefully away at her home, Holyrood, on April 10th, Alice, beloved wife of Alphonse Crawley, B. N. Co. Mrs. Crawley had been ailing for some time past and contracted a severe cold a short time ago which caused her sudden demise. It was little thought that the end was so near and her death will be keenly felt at home. Mrs. Crawley was born in Moreton's Harbour and was in her 23rd year. She leaves to mourn their sad loss a husband, and baby girl 2 years old, a father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Osmond, three sisters, Gladys, Blanche and Mabel; four brothers, Stewart, Arthur, Baxter and Clarence, all now residing at Tizard's Harbour and many relations.—R. At the House.

SHORT SESSION FOR DISCUSSION OF ESTIMATES.

The short session of the House commenced yesterday afternoon with a brief recess for tea, until 2 o'clock. There were several questions asked and the Order Paper of more or less interest.

Mr. Michael Cashin was told by the Minister that the trucks, which were used on the notorious mine at South Branch had cost $1,000. These are now stored at the mine and are being used for their labours as the Government is unable to sell them. They are to be used for joyriding on the highway. This road, by the way, has not yet come before the Government for consideration, nor is it to be considered.

DO NOT SEE AUDITORS.

The Minister of Finance informed the House that the firm of auditors had sent representatives down to St. John's at the request of the Government. Had the Minister heard of any scandals that wanted clearing up, Sir Michael, Mr. Brown, and Mr. Higgins caused some mild amusement by reading the grocery list of the firm of auditors to the House. Surprised was expressed by the Minister that he had not sampled the list and was provided with such in such as had asked for them.

The Minister's lengthy excursion of his route during a recent visit to Canada and the United States, Mr. Moore to express surprise that the trip could be done so cheaply. Honour the Speaker's famous Norway was also the subject of discussion. This had been answered.

OBJECTS TO SITE.

The House went into Committee on Supply. Mr. Higgins very rightly objected to the erection of the proposed Normal School on the Parade. This, he contended, would be a violation of rights of citizenship of St. John's and he would object to the utmost limit of his power. The Municipal Charter passed stated definitely that the Parade was to be used for no other purpose. In any case, as Mr. Higgins pointed out, the location was not suitable for such a purpose as a Normal School. The Minister of Education, said Mr. Higgins designated "the wise of the Government party." Surely last gone mad too.

DEPARTMENT UNNECESSARY.

The Department itself is not needed, the member for St. John's said. He would not deny that if we afford it, a Department of Education might be valuable. Unfortunately, it should be done away with. If there were no other way, the Hon. Dr. Barnes had been a candidate at the polls in the general election. It was not the man being given the job, but of the portfolio being given to the man. He said that had not been a school in the Island had benefited through the influence of an Education Department. Information had been given him by experienced teachers.

WORDS OF LEARNED LENGTH.

The Minister of Education replied to Mr. Higgins in a manner reminiscent of Goldsmith's Village School-teacher from whose lips issued "words of length and thundering." His defence of his policy was to mind a little verse which appeared in the Telegram last Fall, in the building that is known as the Education Minister allots services and to other men, unworthily to go to school again.

Delivered into ancient history with business which was proof of the fact that he realized that no other man knew sufficient concerning the facts of his dates. It must be noted, however, that certain statements were sound common sense and were this country much wealthier than it is ever likely to be. Ideas might work out in practice. His faith in the value of the school could not be shaken, he said, if the schools were to be closed, the country would be a better training beyond progress could be made. The Minister was quite correct in his statement to the effect that a large proportion of teachers throughout the Island were unqualified to perform their duties through lack of education. The children of this country, Mr. Barnes, are its greatest asset. They should have their minds developed in a manner that will cause them to be useful citizens. He declared that it was untrue that the Department of Education had been established in this institution.

THE MISSING MINISTER.

The Educational vote had been discussed in the Marine and Fisheries Department came before the House. As was only expected, the Minister was unequal to the task of explaining any details in connection with this department, as he could not have done more than enquire into the surface of its workings. Sir Michael Cashin very naturally asked who was going to supply the House with information about the Marine department when the Minister was absent. Mr. Walsh took occasion to pass a few remarks in connection with the state of affairs, which have existed in the Department for some time. After severely criticizing the conduct of the department, Mr. Walsh passed on to the matter of fishery supplies and laid emphasis on the necessity of an immediate enquiry into this scandal. The Port Union Council of the P. U. had passed resolutions condemning the Board of Trade and lauding the Government, despite the fact that their President was responsible for the present depression. Mr. Walsh concluded with a strong appeal for reduced taxation.

A DISGRACEFUL SITUATION.

MR. BENNETT also voiced his regret at the absence of Hon. Mr. Cooker, and the fact that there was no one in the House qualified to explain the vote for the Marine and Fisheries Department. It was a disgraceful situation and should be brought to the notice of the Government. The Minister of Marine and Fisheries should be the principal adviser of the Prime Minister at the coming Conference between the Government and the Board of Trade. He was pleased to see the vote for the Game and Inland Fisheries Board had been restored. Referring to Dr. Curtis' letter in last night's Telegram sent the Parade Ground, Mr. Bennett said he would oppose the erection of the Normal School there, and would favor its use as a recreation only.

Mr. Moore asked what attitude the Government were taking in the matter of fishing supplies and reduced taxation. The Prime Minister said he was not in a position to make a pronouncement on this matter until after the meeting between the Government and the Board of Trade which takes place to-day, and at which there will probably be more wool pulled over the eyes of the Committee. Several other speeches were made during the night session but pressure on space prevents a report on them to-day. The House adjourned at 2:45 a.m., until 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Panel Your Rooms With Beaver Board

AND DO AWAY WITH HOUSE-CLEANING TROUBLES.

Beaver Board may be had in widths of 32 inches or 48 inches and in lengths of 7, 8, 9, 10 and 12 feet. About $8.00 worth of Beaver Board will cover the ceiling of your dining room or parlor. Beaver Board whilst being artistic enough for your parlor is cheap enough for your kitchen. A Beaver Board ceiling won't crack like plaster and won't show ugly seams like V jointed or pitch pine ceilings.

Beaver Board can be painted or kalsomined and is easier to wash than either plaster or wood ceilings. A carpenter can put up a Beaver Board ceiling in half a day, thus saving time, labor and money.

To put up a Beaver Board ceiling you require only 3 or 4 Beaver Boards, a hammer, a saw and a pocketful of nails. Take care to get genuine Beaver Board. The back of every Beaver Board is branded.

About $21.00 worth of Beaver Board will panel your dining room, kitchen or parlor. Once done it will last as long as your house. We guarantee Beaver Board to last as long as your house.

Every Beaver Board is sized back and front ready for painting, thus the cost of a priming coat of paint is saved. This saving may easily amount to $5.00 or even more.

When your room is celled and panelled with Beaver Board you won't have any more bother with wall paper, no more tacking on of calico, no more paste to make, no more messing up your room, no more troublesome house cleaning.

Beaver Board is intended only for inside use, but we have 2 panels outside our office which have been exposed to the rain and sun and snow storms of 10 years and are still in good condition. Beaver Board is guaranteed to last as long as your house. Get genuine Beaver Board. Look for the brand on the back of every board.

Forty-Three Years in the Public Service--The Evening Telegram

St. George, Patron Saint of England.

Loud in exultation,
England's sons to-day
Pain to England's patron
Would high honour pay
Praising him they render
Homage to his Lord
Whence alone all virtues
On his Saints is poured.

Sing we of his courage!
When his Master's name
Evil men were loading
With contempt and shame
He, the Royal edict
Dumless hung aside
Fearless e'en of dying
Since his Lord had died.

Sing we how believing
At Apollo's shrine
He, his Lord confessing
Made the holy Sign
"Demon, Dare a Christian
Place in thee his trust?"
Cried he and the idol,
Groaning fell to dust.

Sing we his endurance!
Firm he bore his pain
Glad by Martyr's torment
Martyr's crown to gain
Thankful that his Captain
Gave to him a draught
Of that cup of sorrows
He himself had quaffed.

Wide his fame resounded:
Him—the lordliest Knight
Him—the lowliest soldier,
Called on in the fight.
"Good St. George for England"
Was our battle cry
"Good St. George for England"
Brought us victory.

'Neath the red cross banner
Of the soldier Saint,
Who can fall or falter,
And what heart can faint?
While it floats o'er England
Chains be her repose
Only be she faithful
God shall quell her foes. Amen.
By the late Rev. Dr. Neale.

A Present for Padre Nangle.

A few days ago Padre Nangle, whose splendid work in connection with the campaign to raise funds for the War Memorial is the admiration of all, was agreeably surprised when a number of well wishers called upon him and begged his acceptance of the present of an octette. This strange composite animal has sixteen legs, six-teen arms and eight voices, all different but most melodious. A public exhibition of this most unusual creature has been arranged for Monday night in the Methodist College Hall where all who attend will see and hear it for themselves and incidentally help along the cause.—Adv.

Does Your Roof Leak?

Don't expect your roof to remain rain proof for ever. A $5.00 bill spent on your roof now may be "the stitch" in time which saves nine." Apply Special Coating Tar and keep your roof in good condition.

There are dozens of men down to the Millitia Building day after day looking for work, give one of them a job, fix your roof before the really warm weather comes, you may not be able to get a man then.

If your roof is in very bad condition, very leaky, it will require a carpenter to make a good job of it, but if it only leaks in spots or only after heavy rain, you can have it easily fixed.

1st—Have all cracks and seams filled with Elastigum, everybody knows about Lasty-Gum, you use it like putty; a five pound pail costs $1.50 and it positively stops leaks.

2nd—Then coat the entire roof surface with Special Coating Tar, this coating may be put on with a tar brush say at 10 o'clock when your roof has been warmed by the sun. Special Coating Tar costs $3.50 for a five gallon can.

If the felt on your roof is worn out in spots, patch these spots with pieces of felt coated on the underside with Lasty-Gum, then coat the entire roof with Special Coating Tar and your roof will be good for several years.

Cut out this advertisement and pin it up in your kitchen. When you hire a man to fix your roof, read this for him and see that he does the job right.

When you hire a man to fix your roof tell him to wear rubbers (lend him an old pair if he hasn't any), this will prevent him from putting nail holes in the weak spots on your roof.

Get your roof fixed before you start housecleaning. If your roof hasn't been coated for 3 or 4 years do it now. Don't wait until it leaks, you will save money by doing it now. If you coat your roof every 3 or 4 years it will last as long as your house. You need not use sand with Special Coating Tar.

If your roof requires a new COVERING, we can sell you Vulcanite Roofing at $5.00 per roll, complete with nails and cement ready to lay on your roof. Vulcanite is the best of its kind. Price was $7.00 last year.

We have a few rolls of slightly damaged felt to sell at $2.50 and $3.50 per roll. Come down and take your choice.

Boy Scouts Association
DOMINION COUNCIL.

The final meeting for the organization of a Dominion Council for the supervision of the work of the Boy Scouts in Newfoundland was held at Government House on Tuesday afternoon of this week. This meeting completed the work of two previous meetings held earlier in the winter for the same purpose. There were present:—Rev. Dr. Flynn, representing the Archbishop of St. John's; His Lordship, the Bishop of Newfoundland; Rev. L. Curtis; Rev. E. W. Forbes; Dr. W. W. Blackall; Dr. V. P. Burke; Commander F. M. Kerr; Mr. W. H. Peters, General Treasurer; Mr. James Murdoch, Assistant Commissioner; Mr. J. J. O'Grady, District Commissioner; Mr. C. P. Ayre; Hon. Tasker Cook, M. L. C., and Mr. R. S. Furlong, General Secretary.

H. E. the Governor, Chief Scout and President of the Council occupied the Chair. The following gentlemen were co-opted to membership in the Council:—The Archbishop of St. John's; The Lord Bishop of Newfoundland; President of the Methodist Conference; Rev. B. T. Holden, Pastor of the Congregational Church; Dr. W. W. Blackall; Dr. L. Curtis; Dr. V. P. Burke; Mr. W. H. Peters; Commander F. M. Kerr; Mr. C. P. Ayre; Hon. Tasker Cook; Mr. Harold Macpherson. The following officers were elected:—Vice-President Dr. W. W. Blackall; Treasurer, Mr. W. H. Peters; Secretary, Mr. R. S. Furlong; Executive Committee:—H. E. the Governor, President of the Council; Dr. W. W. Blackall; Mr. W. H. Peters; Mr. R. S. Furlong; Rev. E. W. Forbes, Chief Commissioner; Mr. James Murdoch, Assistant Commissioner, and Dr. V. P. Burke. Three other places on the Executive will be filled at a later date.

A formal vote of thanks was extended to the following gentlemen for their work on behalf of the movement in the country:—Drs. Blackall, Curtis, and Burke; Mr. James Murdoch; Rev. E. W. Forbes; the late Lieut. Commander Fenn, R. N., and Commander Kerr, R. N., O. B. E. The Treasurer in consultation with the officers was authorized to prepare a budget to be presented at the next meeting of the Executive Committee. A Committee was appointed to confer with the publishers of the "Fleur-de-Lis," regarding its adoption as the official organ of the Council.

With regard to the districts over which Local Associations shall have jurisdiction it was agreed that they be defined for the present only provisionally and finally determined with the concurrence of the District Commissioners affected. Local Associations are now organized in the following places:—Bay Roberts; District Commissioner, Mr. C. E. Russell, Harbour Grace; Grand Falls. At the close of the meeting the following motion was carried unanimously:—"That this Council record its high appreciation of the services rendered the Association in Newfoundland by the present Chief Scout, H. E. the Governor. "The Governor, in thanking the Council for such expression of its appreciation also wished to have placed on record his recognition of the valuable work in former years by Mr. James Murdoch, who was the pioneer of the movement.

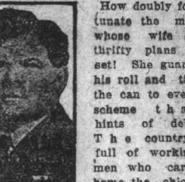

The meeting was united in its convictions as to the value of scouting for the training of the boys of the community. The greatest harmony and enthusiasm prevailed throughout, and such a gathering augurs well for the future of the Boy Scout Movement in Newfoundland. Following is the status of the work throughout the country at present:—St. John's, 3 scout troops; Gower St., St. Bona and Con-troops; Gower St., St. Bona and Con-troops; Gower St. and Bishop Spencer Col-lege. There are also Troops at Har-bour Grace, Bay Roberts, Grand Falls, Smith's Sound (Trinity Bay), Spring-date and Joe Batt's Arm. The gen-eral direction of the work is in the hands of the Dominion Council who authorize the appointment of all Scoutmasters and other responsible officers. Forms for the purposes of all organizations are furnished to any person desiring to organize a troop, and complying with conditions on ap-plication to the organizing secretary, Mr. James Murdoch, St. John's. The supervision of local troops is in the hands of local associations appointed in the territory in which these troops are located.

Piles

are usually due to straining when constipated. Nujol being a lubricant keeps the food waste soft and there-fore prevents straining. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it not only eases the suffering of piles but relieves the irritation, keeps comfort and helps to re-move them. Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—no constip-ation. Try it today.

THE CAREFUL WIFE.

How doubly fortunate the man whose wife on thrifty plans is set! She guards his roll and ties the can to every scheme. A hint of "God, T h e country's full of working men who carry home the chick-en-feed, and rain would blow in every yen for silly things they do not need. Too often wives encourage me to throw their kopecks to the cows; such females swarm, but now and then we see the other kind of crane. When Hiram brings his wacky pay, he says, "Mit-tilda Judith Jane, let's go and blow ourselves to-day; this saving graft gives me a pain. Oh, here be bucks that bravely shine, and here be bones that glow like tin; they are too fair to put in brine, so come with me and blow them in. We'll buy a silver, new and nice, and all that to your heart appeals, and if I cannot pay the price, my stand-off's good for many wheels." Then says the wife of Spar-tan mold, "J. Hiram Jinks, hand me your pay! I think I see you wasting gold that we will need when we are gray! Here is a nickel you may spend, take it along and paint the town, but let your foolish twaddle end—your wages will be salted down. And when we both are old and bald, we'll have our little bunch of kale, and neighbors will not see us hauling to yonder poorhouse in the rale."

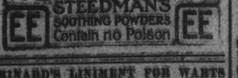

Vapo-Cresolene
A Vapor Treatment for Coughs and Colds: easy to use and effective. You just light the little lamp that warms the Cresolene and place it near the head at night. The soothing antiseptic vapor makes breathing easy, relieves the cough, eases the sore throat and congestion, and protects in pneumonia. Recommended by Dr. J. C. G. Gower, St. John's, and Dr. H. E. the Governor. Vapo-Cresolene has been used for the past 40 years. The benefit is most noticeable. Send for descriptive booklet. VAPOR-CRESOLINE CO., 1000 Broadway, New York, N.Y.

Just Folks
A GOOD OLD WORLD.
It's a fine old world when the sun is high.
It's a good old world when our days are bright.
But we're quick to frown when the roses bloom.
And the breeze is sweet with a faint perfume.
With health in the house and joy out-side.
We all forget that we've ever tried.
But let it rain on our picnic day
And our mouths droop down in a dis-mal way.
Let trouble come for a little while
And we lose our pluck and we lose our smile.
We are blind to beauty and deaf to song.
And we sit and sigh that the world's all wrong.
It's a fine old world when our hearts are light.
It's a good old world when our days are bright.
But we're quick to frown when the roses bloom.
And we're little faith for the darkened way.
We are all too weak when we should be strong.
And we sit and sigh that the world's all wrong.
There's never a door that care runs by
There's never a heart but must some time sigh.
The rain must fall and the winds must blow
And pleasures fade at the touch of woe.
And in spite of the way that our hopes are swilled,
We must keep our faith in this good old world.

REGARDING WINDOW DRAPERIES.

Have you of this generation better taste than people had a generation ago? Or does it just seem better taste because it is our taste?

There are many directions in which it seems to me that we, the people, as a whole, commit fewer offences against the laws of beauty and taste, but there is one matter in which I am sure we do better, and that is in our choice of window draperies.

Do you remember the heavy lace curtains that were the ideal of a generation ago? We didn't all have them in our parlors, to be sure, but the rich had them. The poor had cheap imitations, and the class between hoped to have the real thing someday when their ship came in.

And weren't they the most hideous, futile, dusty, unlovely things for which the heart of woman ever longed, or the labor of man was ever spent?

I am a great student of window draperies. By their curtains you shall know them is one of my firm tenets. I think there is nothing else about a house as seen from the outside that so surely indexes those who dwell within as the window draperies. And it is a great joy to me to see how the public taste is improving on this point.

To Be Plied, not Blamed.

Recently I walked down one of the finest streets in one of our big cities, taking special note of the window draperies. I saw but three samples of the heavy lace curtain, and two of these were in houses whose general appearance was one which indicated that the occupants were probably using the same curtains they had 20 years ago and were therefore more to be plied than blamed.

For the rest, there were many types of curtains, mostly of the sheer soft materials that fall in beautiful lines, do not shut out the sun, and give themselves readily to washing. A few had lace motifs in them but these were exceptions. Most of the upstairs curtains were muslin, many of them with the simple little ruffle edging.

And all this on a street where the homes must cost from 20 to 50 thousand dollars!

Taste More Important Than Cost.

I spoke of the window drapery as indexing the character of the dwell-which red and blue were made the predominant colors.

Enduring Fashions.
Of all these curtains the only ones that were costly were the yellow silk with the green overhangings. The blue gingham cost 20 cents a yard. There are some old fashions that I cannot believe we shall ever accept back. One is the skirt that almost touches the ground and makes walking an effort and gathers to itself a rich harvest of dust and germs. The other is the heavy, ugly, light absorbing lace curtain.

Nurse Gives Her Life in Devotion to Duty.

MADELINE ST. JOHN, CARING FOR PNEUMONIA PATIENTS, IS FATALLY STRICKEN.

Funeral services were held to-day in the chapel of St. John's Hospital, Long Island City, for Miss Madeline St. John, a nurse of the Hospital. Requiem Mass was celebrated by Father Higgins, chaplain of the Hospital.

Miss St. John had been one of the most efficient nurses at the hospital and was in charge of patients suffering from pneumonia. She was very successful in caring for them, and the hospital physicians say the recovery of a number of desperate cases was due entirely to her devotion to them. A week ago she was stricken with pneumonia. From the first the surgeons and physicians were fearful of the outcome, owing to her condition, produced by her long and faithful vigilance with the patients under her care. The best and most expert attention at the disposition of the hospital, was given her, but she succumbed.

Before she died Miss St. John requested that she be buried from the hospital and that her body lie in state in the parlors of the hospital. The services to-day were attended by the Sisters of St. Joseph in charge of the hospital, nurses and members of the medical and surgical staff. Interment was at Calvary Cemetery.

Miss St. John was 24 years old. She was born in St. John's Newfoundland, and came to St. John's Hospital Training School a year and a half ago. Her mother, Mrs. Ellen St. John, accompanied her and lives at Forty-sixth street, Corona. She is survived by a sister in Manhattan and a brother in Chicago.—Brooklyn Standard.

The Father of the English Novel.

Henry Fielding, son of Lieutenant-General Edmund Fielding—called Sir Walter Scott, "The Father of the English Novel," was born at Shrapton Park, near Glastonbury, on April 22, 1707, and after an education at Eton—where Fox and Lytton were among his friends—he went to Leyden University, and remained there for two years, when his father's poverty compelled him to return to London. In his own words, he had to turn "either hackney writer or hackney coachman," so choosing the former alternative, he began to write comedies and farces; his first comedy,

GOOD FIRM FLESH, INCREASED WEIGHT, STRENGTH AND ENERGY—Amazing New Food Factor.

Thousands who have always been complaining about being weak, thin, emaciated and run-down may now find in Yeast-Vitamins when used in connection with Nuxated Iron the very thing which will often quickly help them to put on good firm flesh, round out faces and figures and increase their strength, energy and endurance, provided their blood contains a sufficient quantity of oxygenated iron to enable them to assimilate their food properly. Without organic iron both food and Vitamins are absolutely useless, as your body has the power to transform lifeless food into living cells, flesh, muscle and sinews, but your food must pass through your system before doing you any good.

Therefore appears that in preparing a medicine where Vitamins are necessary, iron is also necessary.

To prove to you the surprising results which should be quickly obtained by this valuable combination, arrangements have been made with druggists in this city to give you a LARGE DOLLAR PACKAGE OF YEAST-VITAMINE TABLETS and LUTELY FREE with your purchase of organic Nuxated Iron. Take your Tablets before meals and organic Nuxated Iron at 4 o'clock. Weigh yourself before you eat again after ten days and see how you have increased in weight, also how you feel stronger. If you are not satisfied with your weight increase, results obtained, the manufacturer will promptly refund your money. A booklet on cases you wish to know more about if you merely wish strength, more energy, and all-around vitality, would that you take Nuxated Iron today.

"St. George He Was for England."

April 23rd, the Day of England's Patron Saint.

"St. George he was for England. And before he killed the dragon He drank a pint of English ale Out of an English flag."

I am afraid that England has been sadly neglected of her patron saint. You will scarcely find an Irishman in any part of the world who does not know that March 17th is the Feast of St. Patrick. But how many Englishmen are there who could tell you off-hand that April 23rd is St. George's Day—and, by a glorious coincidence, Shakespeare's birthday to boot? Not many, I fear.

"THE ODDIOUS STRANGER."

Not is forgetfulness the worst injury that St. George has had to suffer at the hands of posterity. John Gairin, the prince of iconoclasts, denied his existence altogether, while the sceptical Gibbon identified him with a swindling Arrian army contractor—one George of Cappadocia. "The odious stranger," he wrote, "disguising every circumstance of time and place, assumed the mask of a martyr, a saint, and a Christian hero; and the infamous George of Cappadocia has been transformed into the renowned St. George of England, the patron of arms, of chivalry, and of the Garter."

The historian of the Roman Empire's decline and fall was, however, for once speaking without his book. As a matter of fact, George of Cappadocia laid down his inglorious life in the year 361, or about seventy years before the martyrdom of England's patron saint.

THE DRAGON EPISODE.

There is good reason to believe in the historicity of St. George, though I am afraid that in a rationalistic age like this we must be content to relegate the dragon episode to the limbo of legend; and even the "pint of English ale," on which Mr. G. K. Chesterton strongly insists, is of doubtful authenticity. He—St. George I mean—is said to have been born towards the close of the third century at Lydda, in Palestine, where his father was Governor of the city. His family came from Cappadocia, a circumstance which is, no doubt, accountable for Gibbon's strange error.

While still young he entered the army, was raised by the Emperor Diocletian to the rank of tribune, and probably served under Galerius in the Persian War, after which he appears to have removed to Beirut. There is a tradition—unhappily it is nothing more—that he was sent by Diocletian to Britain.

It was at Beirut (or, as it was then called, Berytus) however, that the famed encounter with the dragon took place, and, according to a modern writer on the subject, "the well is shown into which he cast the monster, and the spot where he washed the blood from his hands." His conversion to Christianity ultimately cost him his life. He refused to make sacrifices to the gods, and, after a week of tortures, was beheaded on a Good Friday.

Such, as related by Eusebius, are the main facts in the life-history of George of Lydda, and though they are lacking of corroborative testimony, there seems no reason to doubt their substantial accuracy.

Certain it is that there was a cult of St. George from the very earliest times. A church in South Syria dedicated to his memory, is said to date from the year A. D. 346; while the Emperor Justinian built a magnificent church in his honour at Lydda. In the east, indeed, the memory of St. George has always been held in high honour.

He is venerated even by the Mohammedans, who believe that the soul of the prophet El-Khadr passed successively into Phineas, Elijah, and St. George.

So far as England is concerned, the cult of St. George appears to have taken its origin in the Crusades. Our absentee monarch, Richard Cœur de Lion, while in the Isle of Cyprus, became acquainted with the story of St. George, and immediately adopted him as patron of himself and of his army. Henceforward—for three hundred years at least—"God and St. George" was to become the English war-cry. His festival was ordered to be kept throughout England by a Council held at Oxford in 1222, churches, bearing his dedication springing up throughout the country, and late in the fifteenth century, Henry VII. chose him as his principal patron.

RECOVERING HIS POSITION.

Then came the Reformation, and with it the overthrow of so many of the ancient loyalties. St. George was among the first to suffer.

In the eighteenth century St. George again fell into dispute.

Happily, there is every indication that in our own day England's patron saint is once more recovering his position in the national regard. On April 23rd the Red Cross of St. George will fix from countless steeples, as a reminder of the fact that beneath that banner some of England's mightiest victories have been fought—and won.—T. MICHAEL POPE, in John O'London's Weekly.

Nickel Baritone Gets Big Recognition.

HENRY G. KELLY DELIGHTS HUGE AUDIENCES.

The popular Nickel Theatre was filled to overflowing last night to hear Mr. G. Kelly the noted baritone. Mr. Kelly was accorded a genuine Newfoundland welcome as he rendered two splendid selections, "Marguerite" and an Irish dialect number which fairly brought down the house. He sang with perfect ease and assurance that commands the strictest attention of his audience. His voice is of great range, being baritone of rich quality, and there is never the slightest deviation from the pitch. The diction is wonderful and his interpretations are exceptionally convincing. In enunciation, control, tone quality and in fact in every particular of his art, one finds the nearest approach to perfection of which the human voice is capable. To-night Mr. Kelly will repeat his numbers and without doubt will receive another such reception. A story of South Valley told region with all the sordidness left out is told by William Duncan in "Where Men are Men," the powerful drama which was screened at this theatre last evening. In this picture the star-director is supported by a cast of well known screen players. Edith Johnson is again cast opposite Duncan.

Betty Donn Scores Hit at Crescent.

At yesterday's performance at the Crescent Theatre patrons were treated to something out of the ordinary in the line of classical singing, by Miss Betty Donn of Vaudeville and Musical Comedy fame. As Miss Donn appeared on the stage, she was immediately accorded an outburst of applause. Her singing and enunciation left nothing lacking whilst she also presents an attractive appearance, which is of additional value to her well rendered selections. Miss Donn performs with a perfect ease and grace that is quite captivating. Judging from yesterday's enthusiastic reception a very successful engagement in St. John's is assured this talented artist. Yesterday's program will be repeated to-night, and on Monday Miss Donn will appear in a complete change of program with some delightful specialties. A well-balanced entertainment is promised all who attend this popular house of amusement. At the conclusion of her song last night Miss Donn was presented with a beautiful bouquet from an appreciative admirer.

BLACK FOX STORY.

It has been said that in the young man's fancies (or hearts) to love. In my case, the present spring thoughts are less sentimental and more north to seals and sealers on the "French Shore" some thirty-eight years ago. It was three years before I had that's nothing, for I had to read about, and write about, the men who lived and died years ago, as given in the Registers, that I some- how I knew them per- sonally. I got myself to believe that I was some truth in the words of a Physician—that as in- vaders are given the power to live in the far distant will let it go at that, and the fact, that at the date I was there or thereabouts a few years ago, several Newfoundland merchants were trading schooners on the "French Shore." Some of those mer- chants were T. Moore of Heart's Cove, James Field, Baxter Crocker, of Carbonear, John and Stephen of Harbour Grace, Ryan of Bonaville. Each had plans for carrying on the season had begun; but I suspect that all had in com- mon, every trader tried his very best to get his schooner on the "French Shore" first in the Spring.

It was wisdom in this, for the men in the Spring made the seals with the livers there, and hundreds of dollars worth of their winter catch and fur. There was not a business man among the men in the Spring, less than fifty before Jim Holloway had winter quarters, Ryan's business at King's Cove had fully equipped, and ready for the "French Shore." Michael the clerk was sent in the schooner as the financial representative of the firm, with special instructions to buy all the seals and fur between Cape John and Cape Norman; but in no case was he to pay any cash. Those were years of hard times along the "Treaty Coast," and the first trader was hailed with delight by the settlers, who were short of everything—especially to baco.

In due time Mr. Ryan's Trader reached Engles and in addition to the good business that Michael did there in seals and fur, he got inside information of the whereabouts and ownership of every seal's pelt; and the number and owner and colour of every fox skin along the Shore. From Engles they pushed on through the slack ice, and eventually reached St. Julien's; where, in exchange for goods, they secured every seal and every bit of fur in the place. At the entrance of St. Julien's is a cove known as Celot, where a family of Davises was living. John Davis and his four sons were good furriers, and usually had a good skin or two to tempt the Trader with. Michael learned at St. Julien's that this year they had several skins, and amongst them one beautiful Black Fox skin. Michael also knew from experience what a hard bargain the Davises could drive; with the Trader who betrayed his anxiety to possess their furs, and he acted accordingly. Michael knew that the Davises were watching him and expect- ing him to call on them. When, however, he had cleaned up every- thing at St. Julien's, Michael, who was a clever salesman, but with a limited knowledge of fur—said to the skipper of the schooner: "Holt away on the mainland." The seal was not half way up when, sure enough, four of the Davises were seen coming off in an old punt. Michael pretended that he was in no way interested in them, and he gave the order "Holt away on the mainland, skipper." As the windlass began to operate, old man Davis stood up in the old punt and shouted, and waved his arms like a windmill. "What do you fellows want?" "Oh," Davis said, "we got some fur." "Fur is not worth buying this year," said Michael, and without pretending to notice Davis, Michael sang out: "Heave away on the windlass, boys."

Michael appeared to be in a great hurry to get away from St. Julien's, and Davis wanted to sell his fur. "Holt away the foresail, skipper," said Michael. "But," said Davis, "Mr. F—are you not going to buy my fur?" "What kind of fur have you got?" asked Michael. Davis replied "we have three yellow foxes and two black ones." "What do you want for them," asked Michael. "I will give you a barrel of flour for the lot." "Oh, no Mr. F,—I can't do that." "All right," said Michael, "Heave away on the windlass, skipper." "Oh, but Mr. F," said Davis, "look at this black fox, he is worth 500." "I don't want it," said Michael, "foxes are no good this year." "Well," said Davis, "give me a barrel of flour and a pound of haccy, and you can have them." "Avast heaving there boys," said Michael to the windlass man, "and give this man a barrel of flour; and here," he said to Davis, "here's your pound of haccy," and off went Davis. Michael was de- lighted, and so was Davis. Michael thought he had got the better of Davis, and Davis, (for reason that the reader will learn later) knew that he had got the better of Michael.

Michael was very proud of his "Black Fox Skin." He had made a good trading trip, and had got clear of a good deal of old stuff—to use Michael's own words "what they would not otherwise have done." So they bore up for home and got back to King's Cove the first week in June, and after taking on board some seals that had been bought by the agent there, they left for St. John's. Before leaving for St. John's Michael told the owners that he had done a black fox skin at a bargain price. Messrs. Shirran, Pippy, & Co. had always bought their furs, and were good judges of real value, so Michael took the stock to them for examination and to be valued. Mr. Shirran took the skins one by one, and made some careful mental notes. When he came to the black one, he looked at it, smiled and put it on one side. When Mr. Shirran had satisfied himself about the value of the furs, he made his best offer for the pile of reds and silver-grays. The offer was a good one and Michael was satisfied with it. His thoughts, however, were on the black fellow; and he said "All right, Mr. Shirran; and now for the black beauty. What will you give for it?" "Oh," said Mr. Shirran, "we don't want that one Mr. F.—" Michael could not understand this, nor would Mr. Shirran talk about it, other than to repeat what he had already said: "We don't want it Mr. F.—"

Michael admitted that he was young and did not know very much about the technical value of fur. He, how- ever, decided to try to sell it, and he took it to the representative of Messrs.

Ayre & Marshall. He, too, smiled but did not want it. Michael was becoming increasingly puzzled, and after a few more attempts to sell the skin, but with no better success, he took it back to the schooner, with his mind made up to take it back with him to King's Cove. Whilst they were waiting for a fair wind, one of the crew Michael to go on shore and try to sell the Fox Skin, at the same time giving him two and sixpence to get his grog. Some one to whom Patrick showed the skin (acting upon a first-of-April custom of sending the fool farther) told Patrick that the Bishop used to buy black fox skins. With this information Patrick fortified himself and called on the Bishop, produced the skin, and asked his Lordship if he would buy a fine black fox skin. The Bishop examined the skin, looked very cross, and asked Patrick who he was, where he had come from, and who had sent him. Patrick could not remember the name of the man on Water Street who had sent him to the Bishop. His Lordship gave Patrick a severe reprimand, and told him that if he was not had himself, he was the victim of a bad adviser—and Patrick well nigh swooned, when the Bishop told him that he could be prosecuted for trying to sell the skin of a black hound, and representing it (knowingly or unknowingly) as a fox-skin. Patrick was not long in getting back to the schooner, thoroughly ashamed of himself; and it was only when he told Michael what the Bishop had told him about the cat-skin, that Michael realized that old man Davis had intentionally fooled him.

Michael had the good sense to see that he had learned a valuable lesson in the school of experience, so he "took his medicine" like a man, and took the Cat-skin back with him to King's Cove. With the tact understand- ing that it was a fox-skin, he hung it up in the office, where at a distance it looked so fine, that those who saw it there took it for granted that it was a fox-skin all right. In the meantime Michael said nothing, but like "Mr. Micawber," he waited for something to turn up. Something did turn up, too, considerably to Michael's financial benefit—the details of which will be given in next week's items. (For shame, most worthy scribbler, breaking off like this.—Editor.)

April 22nd—To-morrow, Sunday, St. George's Day, a holy day to-morrow, and a holiday on Monday, St. George the patron Saint of England. "The Dragon shalt thou tread under thy feet."

St. George on horse-back killing the dragon. The old legend and picture so well-known to us years ago, and immortalized by Merrie England, by making it the reverse of the most beautiful gold coin of the Empire. Some years ago when the Bank failures had made people suspicious of Bank payments, a Bank in St. John's began to pay a crowd of sealers the money coming to them, in American gold. The men looked at the coins and refused to take them. They demanded that they be paid in the gold coins with "the galloping horse" on them. The men did not know every- thing; but they knew that meant British gold, and that was good enough.

The women who have been working during Lent for Queen's College, will hold a Sale of their work in the Parish Hall on Monday, April 24th.

The members of the Orange Lodge at Port Rexton, and the members of the United Fishermen of Port Rexton and Trinity East will unite in a Church Parade on St. George's Day, Canon Field taught the Fishermen years ago, to observe this day of attending a Church Service.

The members of the Blackledge Club, Port Rexton, after an intelligent discussion of the subject at one of their regular debates, decided by a fair majority, that Confederation with Canada would be advantageous to Newfoundland.

Answers to Correspondents. "Enquirer." The Cove at Trinity East to which you refer is Pease Cove. (not Pease Cove) It was called Pease Cove because of the abundance of the Pease plants that grew all around its shores in the early days. "Champney"—Yes, Fox Island was fortified by the English in 1711, and garrisoned by the male inhabitants of the place, under Capt. Craive, R. N. Some day I hope to write an article on this Island, and then I will give you more information. "E.G."—The Engineer on the S.S. Lion when she was lost, was Mr. Aspley. There is a mural tablet to his memory in the Mortuary Chapel, Trinity.

"Medical." There is no reference in the Church Books to the Doctor Gott who once lived in God's Cove. The reference that you have in mind is, I presume in the book of court proceed- ings, and as such they are officially private.
