Why You Should Join Us!

WHY? Because the road repairing which we instigated is saving every car owner at least a Hundred Dollars a year in tire bills.

Seen the road out to Bally Haly? Its possible to drive over it this year? Been across the "Cow-Path" (Seal Cove to Holy-wood)? A boulevard where it used to be a bog? Remember how good the Topsail Road was last season and how much better it is now than it ever used to be previous to last season? (Oh, yes, we'll admit its beginning to get a bit cut up now. That's because we've run short of funds to advance for further repairs.) ALL THE ROAD REPAIRING MENTIONED ABOVE IS ENTIRELY DUE TO THE "GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT" ORIGINALLY INSTIGATED BY THE NEWFOUNDLAND MOTOR ASSOCIATION. Seventy-five per cent. of the funds we have collected in membership fees during the past five years has been advanced to do that road repairing and the work has been done under the personal superintendence of one of our members who has given his time and experience free.

Bread Cove, Portugal Cove and Torbay Roads are to receive our attention next season subject entirely to our membership increasing sufficiently to advance "the needful" for further road repair work.

Did we hear you ask how you can help? Yes! Why, by joining the Association. Ten Dollars if you are a car owner; Five Dollars if you ride a motor-bike entitles you to all the privileges of membership including that of driving over good roads instead of river-beds. Simply mail the amount to the Secretary (P.O. Box 1111), leave it at The Royal Stationery, 180 Water Street, hand it to our authorized collector or drop us a postcard and we'll call for it. BUT, ABOVE ALL THINGS, DO IT NOW! Then you'll sleep peacefully at night in the calm assurance that you've done your duty. WE THANK YOU!

CITY OF ST. JOHN'S

St. John's Municipal Council.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

WHEREAS, under and by virtue of the St. John's Municipal Act, 1921, Section 63, the Council is empowered to make rules for the regulation and management of Parks, the following Rules for the Regulation of Bowring Park were adopted at a Regular Meeting of the St. John's Municipal Council on the 26th day of July, 1923.

1. The Park shall be open to the public at 7 o'clock a.m., and shall be closed at 10 p.m. from the 15th of May to the 31st day of October.

2. A bell shall be rung by the Superintendent fifteen minutes before the closing hour; no person shall be permitted to remain in the Park after 10 p.m., except on the occasion of entertainments held with the permission of the Superintendent.

3. No horse, cow, pig, dog or other animal shall be allowed at large in the Park. Any such found there may be impounded.

4. No person shall walk on any portions of the Park except such as are allotted to the public; and any person violating this rule or refusing to remove from portions reserved for plants, shrubs, flowers, or other such purposes, when requested by the Superintendent, shall be liable to the penalty hereinafter imposed.

5. Any person using obscene or profane language, or any person drunk or disorderly, or behaving in a manner calculated to give annoyance to the frequenters or visitors of the Park shall be liable to the penalties hereinafter imposed, and may be immediately ejected by the Superintendent or by any Peace Officer.

6. Any person resisting or refusing to obey the lawful orders of the Superintendent or his Assistants, shall be liable to the penalties hereinafter imposed.

7. Any person injuring the trees, shrubs, flowers, plants, grass plots, seats, bridges, or any other property of the Park, shall be liable to fine or imprisonment, as hereinafter mentioned, and in addition, shall be liable for the cost of property injured or destroyed.

8. Any person giving information leading to the conviction of any offender for violations of any of these regulations shall receive half the amount of the fine; the other half shall go towards the maintenance of the Park.

9. No person shall enter or leave the Park excepting by the gateways, and any person found climbing over or upon the railings or fences shall be liable to the penalty hereinafter imposed.

PENALTY.

Any person violating any of the foregoing Rules shall be liable to a fine not exceeding Fifty Dollars, or, in default of payment, imprisonment not exceeding sixty days.

By order,

An Indispensable Favorite OR Wealth and Beauty at Stake!

CHAPTER VIII.

"I mean that, having asked you to be my wife, I would have fulfilled my engagement with you at any cost," he answers, and tries to steel himself to say it in a cool and businesslike fashion...

"Thank you," she says, huskily. "It was not acting, dishonorably then, to take all and give nothing."

"Nothing?" he asks, haughtily. "Nothing—nothing!" she repeats, wildly. "And I have given you everything!"

"Really," Dallas Glynn says, with frigid displeasure, "beyond giving me a very disagreeable specimen of your temper, I am not aware of receiving anything unusual from you."

"I loved you," the poor girl says, slowly, gazing at his cold, handsome face and symmetrical figure—"I loved you, Captain Glynn," she repeats, with wide-open eyes, staring, as if half blind with misery.

"Oh, nonsense!" cries Dallas Glynn, tritely, affected by the heart-broken face, the heart-broken tones.

"You are a romantic girl and expect absurdities. How could you imagine for a moment that I had never met a woman I liked before I saw you? But, having met you and asked you to be my wife," he continues in a more assured tone, resuming his cold composed manner, "I determined to be faithful and kind to you, to be a good husband to you, and make you happy; and, but for that gossiping chatterbox of a woman and your own silly jealousy, you would have been happy enough."

The Critical Age of growth

From babyhood to adolescence is the time of growth—the time when the body is being built. The food must be such as will build muscle, nerve tissue and bone.

Viroil is a food specially designed by Medical and Food Experts to meet the needs of growth. It is used regularly in 3,000 Infant Clinics, and prescribed by many thousands of Medical Men, because it builds the tissues and increases the defensive powers of the body against disease.

The remarkable power of Viroil is seen at once in the improved condition of those who take it.

ousy, you would have been happy enough.

"Yes, for a while," Yolande says slowly, gazing at him still in pitiful wonderment that there is no mercy in him for her anguish. "I should have gone on believing—I am so silly and absurd, as you say—that you wouldn't have married me unless you loved me. I should have gone on believing that for ever so long, perhaps. I am glad I found it out so soon. The longer I believed and trusted you, and loved you, and lived with you, the worse it would have been for me. I have been saved from that, I am glad to say!"

"Glad of what?" Dallas demands, sharply. "I wish you wouldn't make a scene over discovering a private affair of mine which you have nothing whatever to do. I was deeply attached to Miss Murray, it is quite true; but, as I had no money and she had no money, she decided on marrying a man who could give her wealth, and I thought I could not do better than follow her example! and, as I could not possibly support a wife on my means, I determined to marry a girl who had some money of her own to supplement mine. Those are the 'ins and outs' of the whole story," he adds, impatiently.

"Did she love you," Yolande asks, passing by all he had said beside—"Miss Joyce Murray? Did she?"

"Yes; but she loved herself better," Dallas answers, sharply and angrily. "I wish you would drop the subject, Yolande. It is not a pleasant one to me. We have taken each other for better, for worse, and we must try to make each other comfortable and not miserable. If you will be dutiful and affectionate, I will be faithful and affectionate. I can not say more."

"Oh, no," cries Yolande, looking at him with incredulous horror—"never! We could never endure each other now. Can't you—can't we ever get free from each other any more?"

"No—never!" Dallas answers grimly. "We're bound and tied and chained and locked to each other for life. There is no use in repenting now, madam," he says, with a rather mocking smile. "You must put up with me, and I must put up with you. Come, Yolande," he adds, smiling vexedly—"we had better stop playing a scene from a Porte-St.-Martin drama. Nothing is in worse taste in real life than a disagreement between a bride and her bridegroom; come here to me, and let us kiss and be friends." And he crosses the hearth-rug to her as he speaks, and holds out his arms.

But Yolande rushes back from him to the other side of the room, with hands thrust out in repulsion. "No—no—never! You shall never insult me with your false kisses again!" she cries, with dry, hoarse sobs, her tearless eyes blazing defiance at him. "I told you I would kill myself first! You can have my money—all of it—to do what you please with—Give me only what I always had—a hundred a year; I shall not want a shilling more. Do—do take all the rest, and go away out of my sight!"

"Does this piece of melodramatic nonsense mean that you want, with your whims and tempers, to make me ridiculous in the eyes of the world?" Captain Glynn demands fiercely, the defiance and rage and aversion visible in his young wife's face and attitude nearly maddening him.

"He follows her, though she shrinks from him and repels him still, and, catching her arm, forcibly draws her into the center of the room, beneath the light of the gaselier.

"You are my wife, Yolande, in the eye of the law—you belong to me—you are my property, and I am your owner and master," he hisses furiously through his clinched teeth, "and I shall not allow you to make me ridiculous—to make a scandal out of my name! Do you hear? I won't allow you!" he repeats, bruising her arm with the grip of his sinewy fingers in the vehemence of his passion.

"You can kill me," she cries, with a short wild laugh; "but you can't prevent from hating and despising you! You can't prevent me from loathing your false, treacherous kisses—bought every one of them—on the very touch of your hand!"

He tightens his grasp of her arm at this fresh taunt. He is so taken by surprise, so hurt and enraged and disappointed, that a murderous passion takes possession of him. He has a struggle with the demon within him not to strike her to the ground, not to beat the life out of her—the pale slender girl who is in his power, and yet taunts and defies him.

"I don't want to kiss or touch you, I assure you," he says, in a suppressed tone, with all the icy contempt he can express. "I would as soon kiss a baboon! But I mean to insist on your obeying me as far as the letter of the law goes. You can keep to yourself as much as you please. I want none of your charming society, except in public. Will you promise to behave yourself according to the duties of your position as my wife before the eyes of the world, and not disgrace me among the gentlemen of my acquaintance to whom I must introduce you? Answer me!"

"Oh, yes!" Yolande replies very quietly, the pallor of her tortured face spreading to her lips. "I think I can safely promise to behave myself as well as the ladies of your acquaintance, and not to disgrace you. Will you let my arm go, please?"

He sees plainly the mark where his fingers have crushed the velvet of her sleeve, he sees her totter as he releases her, and a throb of compunction and passionate pity for her and her youth and helplessness and misery thrills him through.

"I had better ring for your maid and say good-night to you," he says, trying to keep up his frigid tone. "We are both too upset to carry on this discussion any longer. But we understand each other. That is the main point. Will you say 'Good-night,' or is it to be unwell 'war'?"

"Good-night," she responds faintly, hurrying out of the room with unsteady steps; and Captain Glynn, left all alone on the evening of his wedding day, looks about the deserted room, and thinks of all that has passed since Hector was a pup; and each new memory has its charm; I seek the summit of my farm to watch the sun come up. Each morning when I leave my coop I give a loud exultant whoop, and speak the name of Heck: I wave my hat and cry 'Hur-roo,' and dance around among the dew, so glad I'm still on deck. This world is not a vale of tears, it is the choicest of the spheres, it's in a class alone; and I've but little use for gents who far the welkin with lamentations, who hand out sigh and groan. Each morning when I leave my shack, I say, 'There's nothing out of whack, the world is fine and fair; it never seems to me a wreck, though I have boils upon my neck, and falling of the hair. If any man is prone to think that this bright world is on the blink he ought to emigrate; he ought to chase himself to Mars or try to find some tinhorn stars that will come such a skate. I sit in my embroidered robe, and I endorse this good old globe on which I've lived so long; its folks are worth their weight in gold, and hearts are warm though feet be cold, and life's a grand sweet song."

sed, and slowly and emphatically ejaculates—"By Jove!"

A fortnight later, in Paris, the English post is brought in one sunny April morning by the snowy-aproned garcon, and laid on the breakfast table at which Captain Glynn and his wife are seated.

"Madam"—such a slender, pale girl—"madam!"—is pouring out her husband's coffee, and adding hot milk to the exact degree which she has learned suits his taste, while he helps her to omelette, and butters the petits pains. Briefly, they are practising all the amenities of a tete-a-tete breakfast of a "respectable" married pair. They are not sitting side by side, but vis-a-vis, as "respectable" married folks do—though it is only fifteen mornings since they sat at their wedding breakfast. There is but the width of the oval table between them apparently—in reality there is the width of the world.

LIFE IS GOOD.

Each morning when I leave my shack, I say, 'There's nothing out of whack, the world is fine and fair; it never seems to me a wreck, though I have boils upon my neck, and falling of the hair. If any man is prone to think that this bright world is on the blink he ought to emigrate; he ought to chase himself to Mars or try to find some tinhorn stars that will come such a skate. What Do You Think of a Fluid

That will draw roaches and ants out of every hole, crack, or crevice before killing them and not poison food?

That will kill bugs instantly and not leave an unpleasant odor?

That will knock flies off the wall and not harm paint or paper?

That will keep the bedroom, kitchen, or verandah clear of flies, mosquitoes, etc., for several hours after a few sprays?

That will take fleas off a dog and not harm the dog?

That will destroy chicken lice without any injury to your stock?

That applied in small quantities to the exposed parts of the body will insure you from Mosquito bites?

That as a general disinfectant is stronger than the ordinary carbolic solution.

THAT FLUID IS SAN-O-SPRAY.

No insect can live where San-O-Spray is used. Yet San-O-Spray is non-poisonous to human beings and can be used with perfect safety in pantry, kitchen, dining room, and cellars, moreover San-O-Spray has an agreeable and delightful odor, removing all fetid or unpleasant odors. In addition San-O-Spray is a disinfectant and germicide. Keeps the home sanitary and free from infectious diseases.

Rhine Cities Stagnate.

With French in Ruhr. Strasbourg, Germany, Aug. 1.—Strasbourg, capital city of Alsace-Lorraine, and Mannheim, the inland Rhine port which is the chief commercial centre of Baden, both are suffering greatly to-day as a result of the continued French occupation of the Ruhr. Freight on the river are virtually at a standstill, and the tourist traffic of other days is no more. Hence docks are deserted and hotels empty.

French Soldiers Injured by German Bomb

Collision Between Train and Automobile Causes 8 Deaths—Canadian Soldiers Plunge into the Sea Over 75 Foot Cliff.

GRENADE THROWN AMONG TROOPS.
DUSSELDORF, Aug. 5. A hand grenade was thrown into the midst of a detachment of French soldiers, led by a squad of trumpeters, yesterday afternoon, as it was passing through the Platz, one of the busiest squares, wounding two soldiers and a German woman and child. The soldiers broke ranks and arrested a man whom they chased. They found they found a number of grenade throwers in his pockets.

GERMANS CONDEMN BOMB EPISODE.
DUSSELDORF, Aug. 5. The Germans are as outspoken as the French in condemning the throwing of the hand grenade yesterday at the main square. The penalties imposed last night by the French authorities will be continued until further notice, and additional restrictions are imposed as soon as investigation of the crime is completed. Restaurants, cafes, theatres and picture houses must close at 10 o'clock at night and all circulation in the streets after eleven o'clock is prohibited. The German student Pabst who was arrested near some of the crime, will be court-martialed with possible penalty of death. Pabst denies the bombing.

LAUSANNE TREATY A DEPRESSING DOCUMENT.
BOSTON, Aug. 5. The experiment of restoring the map of Europe is doomed to failure, Edward Griggs, former Secretary of the League of Nations, said in a lecture last night before the Institute of Politics at Williams College. He criticized the Lausanne Treaty as "depressing and almost despairing," declaring that the only thing to be said in its favor is that it is a peace treaty, but those who must be optimistic indeed have any belief that it will end. The speaker expressed the opinion that the most tragic part of the settlement was the lot of the Armenians and other Christians in Asia.

FATALITIES WHEN TRAIN STRIKES AUTO.
BUFFALO, New York, Aug. 5. Eight persons were instantly killed and two fatally injured late this afternoon when a train crashed into an auto truck carrying picnic party. The party included Mrs. Camillo Capriotti, her five little children, and her husband and a baby. The driver of the dead woman and another man were fatally hurt.

SOLDIERS HAVE THRILLING EXPERIENCE.
SYDNEY, Aug. 5. Lance Corporal W. MacLeod and Private James Watt of the Royal Canadian Regiment, both of Halifax, were on duty over seventy-five miles off into the Atlantic Ocean, when their horses and sustaining their personal injuries. Then, in their crippled condition, they were forced to spend a bitterly cold night perched on the top of a small rock some distance from the shore. MacLeod has a badly crushed leg and is likely to lose the limb; he owes his life to the courage and devotion of Watt who received painful injuries to his spine. The soldiers are members of the occupation force in Sydney during the strike and were returning from New Waterford when they took the road and drove over the cliff at ten-thirty o'clock. Watt did not feel any serious effects at the time, and he took the Lance Corporal and waded and swam with him for more than a quarter of a mile, until they reached the small rock where they remained drenched for the night. Watt swam ashore at daylight and got aid from the fishermen.

SOCIALISTS TURN DOWN RESOLUTION AGAINST COOLIDGE.
NEW YORK, N.Y., Aug. 5. The Convention of the Socialist Party of New York, nearly broke up in a riot today when a resolution, denouncing President Calvin Coolidge, as a reactionary and foe to Labour, was read by William Karlson of the Resolutions Committee. All over the convention hall, delegates leaped to their feet with violent protests against the spirit of the resolution, and the terms in which it was couched. So great was the uproar that order was restored with difficulty, but not until the chairman had ordered the resolution back to committee for revision. It was not presented again.

DISARMAMENT COMMITTEE MAKES PROGRESS.
PARIS, Aug. 5. The temporary disarmament committee of the League of Nations, today adopted two more articles to the proposed guarantees, and for peace, discussed how separate alliances and agreements could be harmonized, or incorporated in a treaty. The committee made considerable progress today, but the work before it will require several more days.

BIG SNOW FALL AMONG THE FOOTHILLS.
BANFF, Aug. 5. Turning the camp into a veritable fairland, spruce and larch trees are covered by snow ten inches deep. The snow fall halted activities indefinitely at the annual camp of the Alpine Club, at Larch Villeau. Two feet of snow on the mountains will stop all climbing for the present.

LADY RACHAEL CAVENTISH MARRIED.
LONDON, Aug. 5. Lady Rachael Cavendish, fourth daughter of the Duke of Devonshire, Colonial Secretary and former Governor General of Canada, was married Saturday to Hon. James Stuart, third son of the Earl of Moray. Lady Rachael is twenty-one years of age.

BRUSSELS OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY.
BRUSSELS, Aug. 6. The ninth anniversary of the German invasion of Belgium, August 4, 1914, was observed at 3.30 Saturday morning. All traffic stopped and the people stood still in the streets, while bells rang, sirens sounded, and guns were fired.

TORONTO, Aug. 5. Rev. F. W. McConnell, Minister of Leamington Presbyterian Church, Chatham, has been appointed to the post of Dominion Organizer of the Presbyterian Church Association for the continuation of that church.

MCQUIRE WINS NATIONAL SINGLE SCULL CHAMPIONSHIP.
BALTIMORE, Aug. 6. Edward Mcquire, Buffalo Police, won the National Single Scull Championship at the fifty-first annual Regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen on Patuxent River here yesterday. Time, eight minutes, forty-eight seconds. Hilton Belyea of St. John, was second, two lengths behind. Paul Castello Phila, last year's winner, was in the third place, eight lengths behind Mcquire.

To-Night's Big Musical Attraction.

GREAT WEEK-OPENING BILL AT THE NICKEL.
A real musical treat is in store for those who attend the Nickel Theatre to-night, as Miss Eleanor Mews, the gifted mezzo-soprano soloist, will again be heard in selected numbers. Miss Mews' reputation as a singer has already been established and her renditions to-night are of such a nature that appeals to the musical ear. The feature film for this program is Louis Gasnier's super-photoplay "Good Women." The story presents a vital, compelling drama in which the eternal clash of men and women against the rules of convention laid down by an inexorable social system, forms the central theme. We have among the characters the woman whose conduct places her in the good woman class and the other who, declaring that her life is her own to live as she sees fit, sneers at convention and becomes a social outcast. The production is made real and sincere through the earnest effort of the powerful cast chosen to portray the various characters.

Punishment is Only Cure for Bank Robberies.

THUGS MUST BE DISCOURAGED FROM IDEA THEY CAN PROFIT.

With a callous disregard for human life, a gang of heavily-armed bank robbers attacked the messengers of several banks on their return trip from the clearing house at Toronto recently and, after seriously wounding three messengers and an unarmed citizen, got away with three money bags belonging to the Nova Scotia and Sterling Banks said to contain at least $83,000. The loss is covered by insurance so far as the banks are concerned, but the event will have the effect of creating a certain amount of public uneasiness. It is from the standpoint of the bank staffs, however, that the robbery has its most serious aspect. These thugs, armed with deadly weapons and evidently expert in their handling employed murder as their attack. They showed an utter disregard for human life in the gaining of their booty. The fact that their methods were successful to the extent that they got clear away and at writing are free and perhaps out of the country, constitutes a serious menace to human life in the financial community.

Many are the suggestions for locking the stable door now that the stock has been stolen. Within a few minutes salesmen were using the telephone in an endeavor to secure more business from the banks. The fact that some of the banks use motor cars with small safes therein to contain the money and were not considered in the plans of these robbers is being urged in favor of the general adoption of vehicles of this kind. An armored car, to be used by several banks, is also suggested, not to mention sawed-off guns for the guards, siren signals, control of main thoroughfares, bullet-proof uniforms, etc., etc. Most of these ideas are the children of excited minds which will be orphaned after cool thought. It may be taken for granted, however, that more effective methods will be adopted by the banks and the insurance companies to protect bank messengers, not only in Toronto, but throughout the country. What these steps will be is not a matter to be divulged to the public if they are to be effective.

Punishment the Cure.
So long as desperate thugs armed with modern weapons and willing to take human life, seek to rob financial institutions it is going to be difficult indeed to prevent losses. They have the element of surprise in their favor and that is a great deal. The confusion which prevailed during and since the robbery in Toronto is an indication of what usually happens in such cases.

The most effective preventive measures are, after all, those of punishment. Deceit does not make a man fear the consequences of their acts either at the time or in the immediate future. Quick arrests, immediate trials and severe sentences—hanging in such cases as Toronto—promptly imposed would do more to check the careers of this type of criminal than anything else. But when they can get freely away from a large city, when left delivery is a comparatively easy matter seemingly, and when there are long-strung-out trials with all sorts of interference by prisoner welfare and other societies run by tender-hearted busybodies, then the robber menace must be contended with by the most effective methods available.

New Process Increases Yield of Motor Fuel.

DETROIT, Aug. 4 (A.P.)—Process to increase fivefold the amount of motor fuel produced from each ton of coal will be put into effect shortly at the River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company here. This announcement is made by Wallace Campbell, vice-president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada in connection with the starting of work on a similar plant for distilling benzol from coal, to be located at Ford, Ontario. Under the new plan low temperature distillation will replace the present high temperature process. Present methods give 2.5 gallons of benzol, 7,000 feet of gas, 8 gallons of tar and 20 compounds of sulphate amounting from each ton of coal, leaving a residue of 1.140 pounds of coke.

ROLLED OATS and OATMEAL

A new shipment just to hand.

Harvey & Co., Ltd.

Under the new process, as explained by Mr. Campbell, Ford engineers will obtain 10 gallons of benzol, 4,000 feet of gas, 20 gallons of tar, 3 gallons of creosote and there will be a residue of 1,800 pounds of coke. Creosote is not obtained under the present method of distillation. It is estimated that the low temperature distillation of coal, as planned, will increase the value of the product of each ton of coal by $2.00. The River Rouge plant will be able to distill 4,000 tons of coal a day, or an increased productivity of $5,000, while the Canadian distillery will handle 400 tons a day.

THE EVENING TELEGRAM, LIMITED, PROPRIETORS. All communications should be addressed to The Evening Telegram, Ltd., and not to individuals.

St. John's, Newfoundland, Monday, August 6, 1923.

The British Empire Exhibition. OUR OPPORTUNITY.

Next year the British Empire Exhibition will be held in Wembley Park and already sites have been allotted to Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Burma, Malay, East and West Africa, the West Indies, Bermuda and Hong Kong.

We are aware that there are a few individuals who are inclined to consider expenditure on a matter such as this as little short of extravagance, or that it is simply giving some individual an opportunity to have a holiday at the expense of the country.

Perhaps the greatest effect of the war, so far as we are concerned has been a fuller realization by Britain and also by her various dependencies of the wonderful possibilities of the Empire, and of the necessity for a closer relationship.

There seems to be a tendency on the part of British statesmen to lessen the ties which have united them to foreign powers, without of course neglecting their obligations, and to encourage a closer relationship with the members of her grown-up family.

Closely associated with this idea is the Imperial Economic Conference which is to be held on October 1st of this year. Elsewhere in this issue will be found information indicating how great has been the development of Imperial trade recently, and also an outline of the subjects which will be discussed by the Empire representatives at that Conference.

The Exhibition at Wembley will be a natural sequence to the Imperial Conference. The products and manufactures of the various dependencies will be on view side by side with those of the Mother Country.

Annual Outing To-Day.

The annual outing of the T. A. and B. Society, Juvenile Branch, takes place at Donovan's to-day. The boys of the Branch numbering some 300 strong met at the Society rooms at 10.30 a.m., and marched to the railway station where they boarded a special train at 11 o'clock, and proceeded to the grounds. At 7.30 this evening a special train will take out the adult members and their friends when an informal dance will be held.

CHIMNEY ON FIRE.—At 11 p.m. Saturday the Fire Companies were called to the residence of Wm. Hennesbury King's Bridge Road, where some 300 ft. in the chimney had ignited.

In Passing.

"A Government that is corporation-controlled obviously cannot serve the best interests of the people."

From a recent issue of the Halifax Herald the foregoing is clipped, and for the same reasons as the Nova Scotians have for complaint we here in Newfoundland likewise can view existing conditions with disgust.

We have unmistakable attempts on the part of corporations to control the Government and it may not be news to our Canadian contemporaries to learn that a few Canadians are the big guns in the corporation.

When business men who have big financial interests in local corporations try to interfere in the appointments to executive seats and of departmental heads we must admit that such shuffling if anything only tends to demoralize conditions and place our position politically and otherwise in a far more degrading state than it was heretofore.

We must have a Progressive Government independent of all corporations or financial trusts in power if the future is to be marked by prosperity.

"Playgrounds Cut Crime" is the contention of the editor of the New York Times, a statement which we cordially endorse so much so that we commend the wisdom of the Mayor and Municipal authorities for the active support they have given to the undertaking of providing suitable playgrounds for the children of the city.

One must only visit the principal cities in Canada, United States, United Kingdom and elsewhere to fully realize the value of open spaces as recreation centres for children and grown-ups as well, which from every aspect one might view them are essential to the best interests of their communities.

They are a great educating force and a great influence for healthy moral development of young persons, and it is an established fact that due to same, child crime and delinquency are being reduced in all the cities where such reforms are receiving the best attention of those whose duty it is to deal with same.

Some members of the Regatta Committee are very indignant with the treatment accorded them by one or more of the executive on Regatta Day, and at the next meeting will in all probability tender their resignations unless a proper explanation or apology is forthcoming. It seems that when the tickets for the official luncheon were being distributed they were, as they claim, conveniently ignored.

An explanation will be probably forthcoming at the meeting which will be held this week for the purpose of finalizing this year's accounts.

The rumor was generally circulated yesterday that the commission which was to investigate the alleged scandals of the late administration had been appointed and that an announcement to this effect would be made in the Assembly by the Prime Minister this afternoon. We learn that there is no foundation for this rumor. Up to time of going to press no commissioners have been as yet selected, and furthermore will not be being reduced in all the cities where such reforms are receiving the best attention of those whose duty it is to deal with same.

The Condition of Our Highroad.

LeMarchant Road last year was a credit to the City Council and a delight to the many frequenting it. Unfortunately, however, the old proverb that a "stitch in time saves nine" has not here been illustrated and to-day its surface is full of "pot holes" that endanger every car which passes that way, and are a menace to the pedestrian at night. If measures were taken to fill up immediately the breaks in the surface when they first appear considerable expenditure would be saved. The city fathers will earn the gratitude of the citizens by having the necessary repairs effected.

Yesterday's Army Activities.

Colonel and Mrs. Cloud held a series of meetings at No. III Corps of Salvation Army yesterday in the city, assisted by Staff-Capt. Tilley. The Colonel was at his best last night and preached a very impressive sermon on St. Paul. At the close several persons signified their intention of leading better lives, and the day ended with good results.

Trap Fishing Over.

According to a report from Sub-Collector Josiah Gese the trap fishery in Harbor Grace District from Spaulding's Bay to Upper Island Cove is now over. He says the traps have all been taken up and the fishery was never so bad this many years. During the past few days quid has put in an appearance and hook and line men are getting from 2 to 5 qts. cod fish daily.

City Folk Visit Country.

The excursion train to Kelligrews was well patronized yesterday afternoon when some 425 people went out of town. In addition to this number 80 people went at 1 o'clock on the express. The great majority of these people went to Mansels, where the annual Garden Party was held and it was very successful. Most of the excursionists returned by the train at 10 o'clock last night.

No Fall Lobster Pack.

Lobster packers are being advised that fall packing which has been allowed during the past two seasons will not be permitted this year. The quality of the fall pack is considerably below that of the spring and in addition it has been found that the fishery is considerably injured by an extended season.

Magistrate's Court.

A 21-year-old laborer given in charge by Adjt. French, S.A. Depot, for acting in a loose and disorderly manner on the premises while under the influence of liquor was given a warning, and allowed to go.

A 60-year-old cooper arrested at the instance of his landlady for assault on the sum on $100.

A drunk and disorderly for acting in an unbecoming manner in his home was settled out of court.

A farmer of Freshwater summoned into court a returned soldier for assault on the eve of the Regatta. The altercation arose over some trouble between the parties while attending the horse races at the Kilbride Garden Party, the week previous. The defendant eyed the plaintiff entering a shop on New Gower Street, and after he had returned to the street, struck him two stunning blows while he was in the act of boarding his vehicle. Judging by the evidence submitted the attack was unprovoked. The defendant was ordered to pay costs and sign a personal bond of $100.00 for 12 months to keep away from plaintiff.

Mr. J. McCarthy, J.P., occupied the bench in the absence of Judge Morris, who is now spending his annual vacation.

No Consideration.

The different settlements along the shore of Conception Bay are at present crowded with summer visitors, and in consequence the main roads and lanes are crowded with pedestrians making the most of their holiday. But the "spoil sport" is in evidence, in the terrifying form of the consciousness driver whose only pleasure seems to be to drive along, regardless of anyone and anything, at a greater speed than those who have some consideration for others. It is quite time that these reckless few were taught a lesson. Saturday evening certain of these gentlemen—save the mark—were particularly in evidence. It would appear that the only effective method of checking this growing evil would be for all motor drivers who resent such conduct to unite for the purpose of hunting down and exposing the wild men.

Abolition of Death Penalty.

BRINGS INCREASE IN CRIME. BUENOS AIRES.—(A.P.)—Argentina abolished the death penalty from the penal code about a year ago, and since then there has been a noticeable increase in crimes of violence in this city. The question of restoring the death penalty has arisen, and a bill to this end has been introduced in Congress. Large numbers of emigrants from Europe, many of them belonging to the criminal classes, have come to Argentina recently, and the present crime wave is attributed to this undesirable element.

GUARDS SPORTS.

Wednesday noon. Can't come too soon. And the hours are fitting.

Summer sky. You and I. In the grandstand sitting.

If he can. The weather man. Will give us satisfaction.

So sunshine fair. And balmy air. Will greet the boys in action.

Be for once. An ardent fan. Weather Man! Weather Man!

Secretary Stan Lumsden of the A.A. had a busy week-end re-arranging entries for their annual track meet which takes place on Wednesday afternoon at the Ayre Athletic Grounds.

Nothing has been left un-attended by the energetic committee to make it the most successful sports-ting of the season. It will be under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Alexander. The Guards Band will be in attendance and the usual side shows will be in evidence.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will serve the delicious teas which they are so justly famous for. Undoubtedly those who attend the grounds on Wednesday will have a delightful afternoon. The grounds have been measured and verified by Mr. Wm. Noel on behalf of the Newfoundland A.A.A., so that any re-ports made in the following events will be duly recognized as such:—

100 Yards Dash. Putting the Shriv. Hammer Throw. Quarter Mile. Half Mile. 200 Yards. One Mile.

These straight and novelty events will be the Inter-Comrades Tug of War, 100 Yards and 2-in-1 races, Mer-rett Field Regatta, Hop-Step-and-Jump, and the usual Football Fives. The very interesting events will be Thread-the-Needle Race, between the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, and Relay Race between the benedictine Band and the Old Comrades Club. Entries will close on the 10th.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME. The Guards and C.E.I. will finalize the League schedule to-night. The postponed games to be played. The clash is of more than ordinary interest, however, as the latter will win in order to have a better chance of preventing the loss of the championship.

The latter have now a two-point lead on them, and should they be able to vanquish the Feildians when they meet they will have to step into a run and find room for themselves on the same perch with the latter, making a play-off necessary for the new silverware. Both are presenting their strongest line-ups. There is no doubt about it but that it will be a hard fought battle. Evidence has been very slack at recent game days, no doubt, to the attention of the Lakeside, with its loud concerts and the excitement and interest, incidental to the Regatta, as well as the fact that the past few weeks have been of small calibre, lacking in importance as regards results. From now on however, attendance should be up. The present standings of the various teams is:—

make one that the others will have to go some to beat. And then there is a brand new crew in the Mary consisting of the boys of the Commercial Cable Company, who, it will be remembered, applied for permission to enter the Mercantile Race, but were refused.

At 3 p.m. the District Race will be rowed. Joe Hussey has a husky crew from the Southside for the Guard. Harold (Pad) Burt is assembling the East End representatives for the Cadet. The Mary will be rowed by the Central crack crew with "Dempsey" Picco on the stroke. The Nellie R. has been secured by Mike Walsh for the West Enders where all the good oarsmen reside. This will be possibly the most interesting race for the day as the selection of crews is confined to certain residential boundaries and the man that can confidently pick the favorite must be gifted with second sight.

And now at 3.30 will come the most popular item for the day, the Fishermen's race. There is something about the dash and style of the sons of the sea that make an instant appeal to the "bank." Their style of rowing is entirely different to that of those who pursue other vocations. The oars are but feathers in their brassy grip and they actually seem to lift the shells from the water with the force of their stroke. Can you remember nineteen years ago when the sturdy Blackhead crew rowed the old Togo in the wonderful time of 9.21? Well, they are still alive, hale and hearty; and now disappointed with the times made in the Fishermen's Race in recent years, are coming back—and coming back strong—to show present day oarsmen how a race should be rowed. They will be in the Guard.

This year's champions—Outer Cove—are facing them in the Cadet and they give the assurance that they will take back-water from no crew on the Lake. Strong favourites are the Portugal Cove boys in the Nellie R., with Phil Brown handling the tiller ropes for them. It wouldn't be a Fisherman's race at all without Torbay being represented, and they are sending out their best in the Mary. And just as we go to press we learn there is every likelihood of a Flatrock crew entering also.

The surprise in last Wednesday's Derby was the positions obtained by the various boats in the intermediate race, and the dope was all-upset. This is scheduled for 4 o'clock. The St. Bon's will again be in the Cadet, the Scouting in the Guard, Mont Cashel in the Nellie R., the Star crew in the Mary, while an application has been made for the Red Lion to carry a crew assembled by Jerry Halley and Jim Hanlon.

The Old Comrades will come to grips at 4.30 and this time the spirit of bygone days will be once more in evidence with the old Brigade Race favourites will man the Nellie R., Guard, and Cadet, on behalf of the Guards, C.L.B., and C.C.C. Ern Spry and Plus Parsons are working hard on a Highlander crew, and all sincerely hope it will materialize.

An innovation is the Dory Race, which will be rowed from the buoys to the stakes at the head of the Pond. There will likely be six pairs in this event. Jack Dunphy and John Howlett will be dory mates, while Fred Burt and Driscoll from the Battery have also entered. Portugal Cove, Torbay, Flatrock, and Log Bay, are also sending out their best, so an exciting event is assured. It's a work of art for two men, rowing cross-handed to keep a dory's nose straight and it can only be accomplished by the experienced ones.

Then comes the interval for tea, when the lady helpers challenge all both near and far to make them cry quits in providing for the inner man. Bountiful supplies of good things are there in abundance and may be had for the asking. Young and old will be made welcome and everybody made to feel perfectly at home.

Feeling refreshed the numerous aquatic devotees and enthusiasts may then get ready to make their bets at 6.30 when the clarion notes of the bugle call the Football crews to the stakes. Tom Noseworthy's hand is rapidly improving and he will be in the field to regain the honors wrested from his C.E.I. crew on Thursday when he was handicapped by having to row with an infected hand. The Cadets will again row their own boat, with the Star in the Nellie, and the plucky C.L.B. boys in the Mary. The B.I.S. have also entered and will row the Red Lion. The difference in the boats they claim will be more than made up by the strength and vigour of their oarsmen.

The championship race will be rowed at 7 o'clock. Only the crews making the fastest time in each boat are eligible for this. It will undoubtedly be the thriller of the day. The cadets never get a chance to take in the regular Regatta as they have to be at the public's beck and call that day in particular to convey us to and from the pond. This year they are taking in St. Joseph's Regatta and at their own request are entering three crews—one from the East, one from the West, and one from the Central coastwards. Only regular cadets are qualified to row. If they so desire, a room will be found on the programme for a challenge race between the Portugal Cove Intermediates and Outer Cove. It will be remembered that on last Thursday this was the most exciting race for the day when Portugal Cove won by half a stroke.

A meeting of St. Joseph's Regatta Committee was held on Saturday night last, when the following were appointed as a Committee:—Rev. J. F. Walsh, Vice-President, J. T. Ryan, Treasurer, J. M. Tobin, Secretary, F. Nangle, E. J. Brophy, G. Brownrigg, W. Cullen, E. J. Skiffington, J. Murphy, Jr., P. Walsh, D. Bentley, J. P. Warren, J. Reardigan, J. Hand. Honorary members: A. Hiscock, Esq., Pres. Regatta Committee, W. J. Higgins, M.H.A., Vice-President Regatta Committee, C. J. Ellis Esq., Secretary Regatta Committee, R. W. Jeana, Treasurer Regatta Committee, Comptroller Dowden, Assistant Secretary Regatta Committee, His Honor Mayor Cook, His Honor Judge Morris, Hon. W. J. Ellis, Judges—Sir J. C. Crosbie, His Honor Judge Morris, Lt.-Col. Conroy, Lt.-Col. Rendell, H. Russell, Esq., Dr. Scully, Capt. E. English, W. J. Higgins, Esq., F. Nangle, Esq., E. J. Brophy, Esq., W. J. Martin, J.P., E. Chafe, Esq., F. Pippy, J. T. Walsh, Esq.; Timekeepers—C. J. Fox, Esq., C. E. Hunt, Esq., A. McNamara, Esq., Signal Men—J. P. Croty, Esq., N. J. Vincombe Esq.

We are asked to state that there will be no preliminary heats. In these races where five boats have entered an additional stake is being put down as in the old days. While this increases the responsibility of the various coxswains, it also calls for greater skill and ingenuity in making the turn and avoiding "dead water."

The officials and members of the public Regatta Committee are voluntarily giving their experienced services to conduct the programme with the machine like precision for which they are famous. Therefore all is needed is that Boreas not snore during his sleet Wednesday, thus ensuring calm water, and that old Sol (of whom we've seen and felt so little all summer) will come forth in all his glory and give us a regular scorcher.

C. L. B. in Camp. Yesterday was thoroughly enjoyed by all ranks and visitors to Topseal Camp. The day began with Holy Communion service at 8 a.m. at which the clergymen present were Rev. A. Pittman, Camp Chaplain, Rev. Stirling, Topseal and Rev. Arthur Stirling, Company Chaplain and the Rector of St. Mary's, Major Williams, Capt. Morris, Snow, Lieut. Reeves and many others came in during the morning with a detachment from J. Co. Bell Island under Major W. Lindsay and Lieut. Cluett including their Brass Band, Major Green, Capt. Murphy and Lieut. Gunn of the Catholic Cadets of Bell Island. Scoutmaster Furlongs of the Nfld. Highlanders, His Lordship Mayor Cook and Mr. Alex Rooney of the Methodist Church.

At 11 a.m. the Battalion paraded to Topseal Church and the building was filled to capacity. The Rev. A. Stirling read the lessons and the Camp Chaplain preached a very practical sermon, full of sound logic and made a stirring appeal to the lads to always quit themselves as men. The text shall I come before the presence of God. The lesson was read by Rev. A. Stirling. The hymns were most appropriate and the service concluded with the National Anthem played by the battalion brass band. Some 239 all ranks were in camp, with the following officers on duty:—Lt.-Col. Walter Rendell, C.B.E., Major R. H. Tait, M.C. Camp Commandant, William Lindsay, O.C. Bell Island; Geo. R. Falls, Phil B. Rendell, Jas. Snow, James J. Miller, A. S. Lewis, Canteen Officer, Alex. Morris, Bandmaster; Lieut. R. G. Ash, A. B. Perlin, Fred Reid, Moty, Mercer of Bay Roberts, M. Job Taylor, Harold Hayward, Orderly Officer E. Cluett, S. Easley of Grand Falls. The drum head service was held at 3 p.m. the same Chaplain officiating assisted by the Rev. Hugh Facey B.A., of Kelligrews. The preacher was the Rev. Arthur Stirling who in fine voice addressed the gathering on (1) Symmetry (2) Erectness, (3) Light—illustrating his address by the use of two candles one perfect in shape and the other bent and out of condition by the heat or "tested and found wanting." He appealed to all to be manly and to play the game. Some slight showers occurred at this moment but the clergy "carried on" and the rain was only light. Afternoon tea was served by Mrs. Walter Rendell and Mrs. Tasker Cook assisted by Mrs. A. Pittman, Miss Perlin, Mrs. Menzies, Mrs. Claude Noonan and others. Amongst the visitors were Mr. R. B. Job, Dr. Arthur Carnell, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reid, Sir Patrick McGrath, Lieut. Jack McGrath formerly of the Dublin Fusiliers, James Ayre, J. R. Bennett, Hon. R. Watson, Andrew G. Haly on Saturday afternoon, when the following cards were handed in: P. C. Mars, 85; A. C. N. Gosling, 55; Arthur Williams 85; Hon. W. R. Warren, D. McLeod, J. F. Meenan, B. C. Gardner, L. E. Emerson, 87. The five 87s are to play off this afternoon to decide which three are to play in the final round which will probably be played on Saturday afternoon.

The Atlantic Cable. (H. F. SHORTIS.) Some two or three years ago I published through the columns of the Evening Telegram an extended account of the successful laying of the Atlantic cable from Valentia in Ireland to Heart's Content, Newfoundland. It was completed on the 27th July, 1866, and was the means of establishing communication between the Old World and the New. I also published the congratulatory messages between Her Majesty Queen Victoria and the President of the United States, but in this instance I am enabled to copy the original messages exchanged between the Queen and the President, giving full particulars as to the time the messages were sent, when received, and when delivered. The messages were received on board the "Great Eastern" and are a beautiful exhibition of penmanship. My young friend, Mr. Roddy Tobin, operator at Heart's Content, found them amongst the congratulatory messages between Her Majesty Queen Victoria and the President of the United States, but in this instance I am enabled to copy the original messages exchanged between the Queen and the President, giving full particulars as to the time the messages were sent, when received, and when delivered. Fashionable Weddings.

Marriage of the Son of the Late Governor of Newfoundland.

(Yorkshire Evening Post, July 24.) A wedding of considerable interest to Leeds and the West Riding took place at St. Saviour's, Walton Street, London, on July 24th.

The bride was the Hon. Thelma Ethene Kitson, daughter of Lord and Lady Alredale, of 8, Cadogan Square, and granddaughter of the first Lord Alredale, formerly Sir James Kitson, and the bridegroom, Dr. Noel Gordon Harris, son of Sir Alexander and Lady Harris, of Victoria Street.

The officiating clergy were the Rev. H. E. Trask, vicar of St. Saviour's, and Canon R. Jones, of John's, Newfoundland.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a dress of white satin beaute with a wide panel of silver lace down the centre, and an insertion of silver lace around the boat-shaped neck. Her train was of chiffon and silver lace.

She wore the family veil of old Honiton lace, lent by her aunt, the Hon. Emily Kitson, and this was held in place by a narrow wreath of orange blossom, with tiny bunches over the ears. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

The bridesmaid was the Hon. Angela Kitson (sister), who was dressed in parrache blue georgette, trimmed with silver, with a blue and silver hat to match with silver shoes and stockings. Her bouquet was of shaded blue sweet peas.

The bride's train was carried by Miss Julie Lydecker and Miss Pamela Wharton, both of whom wore dresses of white crepe de chine, inset with medallions of lace, and wreaths, of tiny pink and blue flowers.

The best man was Mr. Stanley Shute Harris, the bridegroom's brother.

After the wedding a reception was held in the garden at 8, Cadogan Square.

The honeymoon will be spent motoring.

The bride's going-away dress was a straight frock of hyacinth blue crepe romaine, with narrow frills of white lace at the neck and short sleeves. She wore a black tregal picture hat, the only trimming being a hyacinth-blue feather over one shoulder.

Among the relatives of the bride and bridegroom present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. McNaughton, Mr. and the Hon. Mrs. William Shiell, the Rev. F. J. Connor, the Hon. Edith Kitson, the Hon. Mrs. Edward Kitson, the Hon. Mrs. Roland Kitson, and the Hon. Hilda Kitson. The Hon. Mrs. H. L. Connor was prevented from being present owing to her recent severe illness.

Lord Alredale's daughter, whose marriage to Dr. Noel G. Harris, son of Sir Alexander and Lady Harris, took place at St. Saviour's Church, Walton Street, London, this afternoon, for the granddaughter of the first Lord Alredale, well known in Leeds as Sir James Kitson.

"This is the fifth wedding in our family in less than five years," said Lady Alredale, while showing the presents laid out in the drawing-room of her Cadogan Square house, in readiness for to-day, when her daughter, the Hon. Thelma Kitson, is to be married.

The bridegroom, Dr. Harris, has just been appointed to Springfield Hospital, Tooting.

"As he is a hard worker," Lady Alredale went on, "they will only have a week's honeymoon. But, because it is so short, they are sure to enjoy it all the more. They are going motoring in Devonshire, in a car they bought with cheques sent to them by Lord Alredale and other friends."

Marriage of the Daughter of the Late Sir Henry McCallum.

(The Times.)

The marriage took place on July 18, at St. Martin-in-the-Fields, of Commander H. S. M. Harrison-Wallace, R.N. (retired), son of the late Captain James Harrison-Wallace, of Newton Hall, Kenworthy, Fife, and Hordley, Jamaica, to Eileen Maud, daughter of Lady McCallum and the late Colonel Sir Henry McCallum.

The Duke of Atholl gave away the bride, who wore a gown of cream chamoisee, with a silver train lined with pale blue and draped with Brussels lace (lent by the Duchess of Atholl). The bride also wore a lace veil with a wreath of silver leaves and a diamond pendant, the gift of her mother, and she carried a bouquet of Hartwell lilies. Master Geoffrey Luttrell, in a man-of-war suit, was train-bearer, and there were six bridesmaids—Miss Iris McCallum, sister of the bride, the Countess of Seafield, Miss Eileen Nicholson, Miss Eileen Brenton, Miss Morley Fletcher, and Miss Stewart of Ardvorlich. They were dressed alike in blue georgette, the drapery caught with a large buckle studded with blue stones, and silver and blue wreaths with silver shells, without hairs. They carried bouquets of delphiniums, and the bridegroom's present to each was a blue moire wristband with the Royal Navy-crown in pearls. Captain Carpenter, V.C., R.N., was best man, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. R. L. Sheppard, rector of the Newspaper Reviews.

They gamble with hearts as well as gold at Monte Carlo.

The famous devil's playground, however, deals benignantly with Dorothy Dalton in her latest picture from the Paramount studios, "A Romantic Adventure," showing at the Star Theatre. Altogether, it is the brightest, most entertaining screen play Miss Dalton has offered us in many moons. Unlike her recent vehicles, it doesn't tax her emotional talents, but rather harks back to the pretty star's earlier mood—that of "Entanglement" and "Flare-up Salt." Monte Carlo vies with gay New Orleans, a college town and Broadway's white lights in providing the setting.

The story, adapted from Charles Belmont Davis' novel, "A Winter City Favorite," unfolds the romance of a dancing girl whose beauty and grace are exploited by a wayward mother in the money markets of New York.

When the dancer has achieved fame on Broadway, she is taken to Europe to marry a title, but Mr. Right steps in and true love secures one more victory. The gentleman in the case is Charles Meredith, a handsome, stalwart enough young man for any maiden. Harley Knoles directed the picture.

Scapa Flow Hulks.

TO BE SALVAGED AND SOLD.

LONDON.—The German fleet scuttled at Scapa Flow in June, 1919, is to be raised, cut up and sold for junk.

The Admiralty has signed a contract with a private company which has purchased part of the sunken ships, and will start operations at once to raise them.

The company is said already to have found a market for the hulks. If the operations are successful, a contract will be signed for the remaining section, which includes the largest of the ships.

The vessels sunk comprise ten battleships, five battle cruisers and 29 destroyers, their total tonnage being about 450,000. The contract already agreed to covers 20 destroyers and one of the battle cruisers.

The vessels were sunk by their crews opening all the sea-cocks and flooding the ships. This will, however, make the work of the salvagers much easier, as it is planned to shut the cocks and pump the water out of the holds.

The Bishop Visits Burgeo

THE BISHOP HAS RECEIVED THE FOLLOWING MESSAGE FROM BURGIO.

Special to Evening Telegram BURGIO, Aug. 4.

The Lord Bishop of Newfoundland arrived at Burgeo on Thursday, 3rd inst., on the Ramona mission boat St. John. Confirmation service was held in St. John's Evangelical Church on the evening of the 3rd, when one hundred and eight candidates received the Sacred Right. The Bishop was assisted by His Chaplain and the Rev. V. W. Cunningham, Rector of the Parish. The Church was filled and people and candidates listened to an able address by His Lordship. This morning the Bishop and Chaplain left by motor boat for LaPointe. We are very thankful for this Episcopal visit and understanding the difficulties and hardships the Bishop had to undergo, making voyage along this rough coast in small motor boats. We hope that means will soon be forthcoming to provide him with a suitable ship for the purpose.

Development Within the Empire.

European countries on the basis of mutual advantage, urges His Majesty's Government to take immediate steps to bring about the fullest possible extension of trade within the Empire and the development of the resources of the Empire in close cooperation with the authorities of the overseas portions of the Empire. The subject was of interest, he said, to many members, to the commercial and industrial community throughout the world, and to the people of the Empire as a whole. This subject of Imperial trade development is one of the utmost importance, and, in view of the Imperial Economic Conference, which is to assemble in London on October 1 this year, it is wise that the present Imperial trade position should be reviewed with the view of deciding what further steps may be taken by the Imperial Government in strengthening trading relations with the component parts of the Empire on the basis of the resolutions passed by the Imperial Conference of 1917 and 1918.

We are certainly up against a grave economic situation, unparalleled in the history of the world, resulting in trade depression and serious want and unemployment. The measures which have been adopted so far, sound though they may be, are inadequate to cope successfully with this immediate crisis. Something wider and more definite is required. Moreover, we have not the time to delay in coming to a decision of policy. Immediate action is necessary, or it will be too late. It is of vital importance, for this reason, that the Government should adopt a concrete policy on a scale sufficient to lead to the rapid development of the Empire and the resultant solution of many of the acute problems with which we are faced; that the Imperial Government should decide what can be immediately done, and that at this year's Conference, the Government and the representatives of the overseas portions of the Empire should mutually agree upon further schemes of organization which can be put in hand later.

Statistics show the immense value of these undeveloped resources and how, with proper organization, the Empire could be made entirely self-sufficient, both in foodstuffs and in raw material, and yet have enough of both these commodities left over to supply a large portion of the rest of the world. Viscount Ednam, to whose broad-minded views we have alluded, maintains that the reason of modern history is self-sufficiency. The war found the Empire unprepared in that respect, and we suffered in consequence, and it would be criminal if we did not ensure for future safety by taking every advantage of that lesson. Self-sufficiency as far as certain existing commodities produced within the Empire are concerned, is not so much a matter of stimulating the production of those commodities as of directing a portion of those commodities to British markets which at present are sent to foreign markets, and of ourselves importing from within the Empire those same commodities which at present we import from abroad. Another argument in favor of developing the resources and particularly the resources in raw materials of the Empire is that the more raw material we buy from the peoples of the overseas portions of the Empire, the more we shall increase the volume of our import trade from within the Empire, the more credits they will pile up in this country, and the more manufactured goods they will buy from us. With regard to Imperial Preference, these have already been given to the principle of preferential tariffs in each succeeding Budget since 1913. The effect of this may be seen in the increased volume of Empire trade since that year. This principle might well be extended on the basis of existing tariffs, as additional commodities are normally made subject to Customs duty, with beneficial results both to ourselves and to the overseas portion of the Empire. It would seem that the general feeling in the Dominions and the Colonies is that we do not reciprocate sufficiently from this country. For instance, Australia gives us preferences, which in the year 1921 were valued at £9,000,000. The total value of British preferences to Australia in the same year was only £257,000, of which £239,000 was on wines and only £18,000 on other products. Before the war it used to be argued that the protective benefit of the British Navy was an adequate compensating advantage for the lack of reciprocity in preferential tariffs. But in consideration of the magnificent part which the Dominions and Colonies played in finding assistance during the war, this argument is perhaps no longer as strong as formerly. With regard to administrative preferences, the Conference of 1918 reaffirmed the resolution of the Conference of 1902, that in all Government contracts, whether in the case of the Colonial or the Imperial Government, it is desirable that, as far as practicable, the products of the Empire should be preferred to those of foreign countries. The future success of inter-Empire trade will depend, in the main, upon the energy and enterprise of the private individuals and private concerns engaged in it, and also on the toughness and grit of future settlers. No one wishes that the autonomous powers of any portion of the Empire should be decreased. But it is for the Imperial Government, in the closest possible co-operation and agreement with the authorities of all portions of the Empire, to make a start, and point out the way in regard to trade development. It is their duty to organize and to frame schemes and give the widest possible scope to private enterprise.

In drug and department stores where toilet goods are sold you will find Three Flowers Toilet Powder and Vanishing Cream—the biggest sellers. Three Flowers toilet goods are recognized as being the finest in the world. The delicate tones of Three Flowers perfume immediately suggest refinement. Ask your druggist which toilet goods he considers the best. Invariably you will be told THREE FLOWERS, for these are the most popular and best selling toilet goods in most drug stores to-day.

DESIGN AERIAL RAMS TO DEMOLISH ENEMY PLANES. London. (A.P.)—Heavily-armed, steel-prowed battering rams, for use in the aviation airships now being designed, are being constructed secretly by British aircraft experts, says the Daily Chronicle's aeronautical correspondent. These new rams of the air will be launched at an immense height from the mother-airships and will rush down, guided by a solitary ram sitting protected within their hulls, ready to strike hostile airships or bombing planes. "Without guns or any weapon save a knife-like cutting bow," says the writer, "the pilot of the ram will seek as his quarry the big, slow-moving troop-planes or transports, or he will swoop in deadly attack toward a hostile battleship of the air. Before he strikes his blow he will have the power, by operating interior mechanism, of drawing in his telescopic metal wings. Then, with a fearful final plunge, like a giant projectile, he will pierce the hull of the craft he seeks to cripple, but at vulnerable wings or control surfaces. Through these he will cut and rip his way, and the great craft he has rammed, stricken and put out of control, will reel earthward to destruction."

Run Over by Street Car.

AGED MAN'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

Run over by a street car, Mr. John Hipditch, a 65-year-old resident of Williams Lane had a narrow escape from being killed Saturday evening last. The accident occurred at 3.30 p.m. near the foot of Theatre Hill. Mr. Hipditch, it appears crossing the street in front of No. 1 car as it was proceeding west was hit by the fender and thrown across the rails. The car driven by motorman Leary, fortunately going slowly was brought to a standstill in an instant. Eyewitnesses thought that the man had been killed as he was well in under the trucks with one of his legs across the rail. The street car had to be backed up several feet to get his coat from under the wheels. When extricated by Mr. Lawrence Tucker, the unfortunate man was in a bad state having received several injuries to his head and body. With the assistance of Constable Riddell, Mr. Hipditch was placed in Mr. Harry Worley's motor car and driven to hospital. He will be around again in a few days.

Motor Gliders

FORESHADOW NEW ERA IN AVIATION.

LONDON—A new era in air flying, that of cheap, safe, popular airplaning, is foreshadowed by the remarkable success attained by tiny British airplanes called motor gliders. One of these, a small monoplane fitted with a three horsepower engine, recently reached a speed of fifty-three miles an hour during tests near London. It climbed to 2,850 feet, and although in the air for an hour and twenty minutes, consumed less than a gallon of petrol. French aviation experts also are perfecting similar "pocket-planes" intended for use by amateur aviators and sporting enthusiasts. At a contest soon to be held near Paris thirty of these diminutive planes will take part. In England a small "car with wings," capable of carrying its own engine through the air at the speed of an express train with no more power than is required by a motorcycle, has reached such a practical stage that orders are being booked for it by the public. Rising out of small fields and being wonderfully controllable in the air, these cheaply-run winged cars are to be made to alight so slowly that the risk of a crash on landing, even under adverse circumstances, will be practically eliminated. Furthermore, such machines will be so handy on the ground, and their wings will fold so neatly, that it will be possible to house them in ordinary motor garages. It is expected that the owner of one of these machines will be able to make the trip from London to Paris and back, sweeping high over the Channel and escaping all the irritations and delays of earth transport, for about $5. A movement is now on foot to get motor-garage proprietors to set aside smooth-surfaced fields, marked clearly so that they can be seen from above. In this way the drivers of little "air cars," when well-end aerial rambles, can have points all over the country where they can descend and replenish their gasoline tanks, or make any necessary repairs or adjustments.

RECONSTRUCTED RIVER ADDS 6 MILES TO DETROIT DOCKS. DETROIT. — (A.P.) — The River Rouge, site of the great blast furnaces of the Ford Motor Company, has been initiated to deep draft vessels. For years a lay twisting stream, the river has been developed as an artery of the Detroit River at the behest of the Ford interests. To permit the great ore carriers of the lakes to bring their cargoes direct to the blast furnaces, the river has been reconstructed. Instead of the twisting stream of former years a new River Rouge has been created. From the mouth of the Detroit River to the Ford turning basin the stream is three miles long, almost two miles shorter than the old course. Its width at the mouth is 400 feet, and the average width along the dock lines is 200 feet, with a bottom width of 200 feet. A new canal, 3,000 feet long, was cut through the entire subdivision of property, avoiding the "S" turn where the river joins the basin. Some fifteen industries in addition to the Ford blast furnaces are operating along the banks of the Rouge, and with the improvement just completed six miles of docking facilities have been added to Detroit's waterfront. Heretofore the industries located at the Rouge have attracted an annual cargo tonnage of 2,000,000. The Ford plant alone expects to bring in 2,000,000 tons during 1923. The total cost of the new Rouge, including bridges, dredging, and right of way, is estimated at $10,000,000.

Octopus, Cuttle-fish or Squid?

(By OBSERVER, Bonavista.)

At first sight, on first thought does it not look a little strange to accuse ourselves of ignorance concerning the habits and peculiarities of our cuttlefish? Yet how much more ignorant are we in many matters so commonplace that we presume we must know all about until we come to ask ourselves a few questions?

No, we admit we know a trifle less than there is to be learned about our cuttlefish, but just how much have we ever learned, how much do we ever hope to know about the squid? It is amusing, to say the least, to hear ourselves talking of octopus, devil-fish, cuttle-fish and tentacles in sing-song style, while we call upon our eyes to play their part in the show of knowledge by manufacturing a superior twinkle or two, though as a matter of fact if we were really up for examination on octopus, cuttle-fish or squid history we should meet the ink substance long before the undisturbed squid had exuded it. Let us ask ourselves is our bait squid related to the cuttle-fish; if so in what way? That our bait squid, of the kind that comes to our shores in July and August) is a one year visitor only is self evident. They are fragile when they first reach us; but in an incredibly short space of time they grow their first size six or seven times over; when the next season comes we get the tiny little things again.

Before I go further, may I ask who knows if the cuttle-fish and octopus are the same. If not, are they both the progenitors of the "bait squid"? And again, if not, which of the two qualities has the eight tentacles and which has the ten?

If the octopus and cuttle-fish are one and the same fish, why do we find the "bait squid" having eight tentacles some years and other years ten? Now to go back to the amazing growth of the squid as simple proof that they never visit us again in numbers, let us ask where do they go? It would seem as if there ought to be large cuttle fish in countless thousands somewhere. As far as we can learn it is a very rare thing for one of the large kind to put in an appearance. I have seen but one in my whole lifetime.

By the way, I shall never forget the terrors of that experience. There was lots of fish at the Wadham Island and Cape Freels, and we had gone practically all around the bay in a 150 qt. boat looking for squid bait, but could find none. Sailing and searching we scarcely slept a wink for a whole week. We would rise by day and hunt the beaches when the water was low at night. This particular night, however, we were on our way to Cat Gut in Fresh Point. George Curtis stood to the tiller while I nodded over the windlass. The skipper and two of the crew were taking a short nap below. Between the nodes in the dead silence of that calm night, I fancied I heard the squishing of squid on a beach that lay on our port bow, and I walked aft and said to Curtis that I was going ashore as I was certain I heard the squid. "Better call the old man," said Curtis, but I cut him short by tumbling into the dory and pushing off. I went straight to land and pulled right into the bottom of a creek. I listened but couldn't hear any squids, and was about to wash out again and proceed farther along the coast when something of gigantic size glided into the creek and grounded on the beach close by the dory. Instantly it seemed as if tons of water were thrown into the air and the dory began to rock violently now this way and now that while successive columns of water shot upward and fell with a splattering sound on the otherwise placid waters of the creek. Then something happened on the beach—top, top, squish, sh, sh, squish, sh, sh, with alternate splatterings. I became frightened, terrorized. I lost my power of thought and screamed madly. I walked forward to get ashore but that winged devil on the beach drove me aft again. The next splattering of water almost drove me frantic and I believe I would have jumped overboard only I then heard the clip-clap of the little dingy's paddles in the row locks and knew she was coming to my assistance. I gained my nerve considerably and was able to direct my rescuers along the western side of the creek where they reached me safely. The darkness of the night made examination of the devil (for such we called it) difficult, in fact no one amongst us had nerve enough to stay there. Terror-stricken we made a speedy exit, but on our way back two days later, we went ashore and discovered a large octopus some 20 feet in length exclusive of tentacles, some of which we brought away as souvenirs.

Being then but a boy I had no curiosity to know particulars as now. That mass of fish in its entirety was all I wanted to see, though I will remember now that it was not the quality of squid known as the "bottle tail," its flukes were unattached from the body and allowed full freedom for that peculiar flopping referred to above. I do not know, however, just how many tentacles this particular squid carried; the one outstanding feature to my mind now was the large forbidding eyes, menacing even in death and the saucer-shaped vacuum discs on its tentacles large enough to be worn as rings on the very largest of fingers.

Railway Extension.

Those who are badgering the government into completing the Hudson's Bay Railway should study the following figures bearing on railway facilities in the world's most important countries:

Country	Railway Mileage	Population Per 1,000
United States	284,373	2.50
Canada	38,858	4.42
Australia	23,589	3.54
Argentina	23,156	2.56
Sweden	9,858	1.50
Mexico	15,841	1.02
France	35,145	0.96
Belgium	6,893	0.96
Switzerland	3,321	0.86
Germany	36,181	0.60
Brazil	17,478	0.57
United Kingdom	24,396	0.53
Spain	9,536	0.48
Italy	12,501	0.31

"Incidentally," says the Farm and Ranch Review, "these statistics also explain why Canada is faced with a railway problem at the present time."

This Calgary view would seem to confirm the idea that there was more politics than good business behind the Western demands for railroad extensions and that the Senate did the country a service in suspending the program.

Women Make Excellent Electrical Engineers.

LONDON.—English women are turning their attention to professional vocations formerly confined exclusively to men. A number of them in London are engaged in Civil, Mechanical, and Electrical Engineering, and there are at least half a dozen firms of women constructors who have completed large building contracts.

Electric lighting is a branch of domestic engineering which seems to attract many women. They perform their work more from a housewife's point of view than do men. One firm of women electricians has successfully completed several contracts for lighting country houses with electricity. In Hertfordshire three women are lawyers, three are tinsmiths, two are dentists, four are doctors, twelve are moving picture or circus proprietors, one is a wireless operator, three are window-dressers, one is a saddler and one an undertaker.

MARKET REPORT

indicate that there is no plus of Anthracite Coal in the U.S. The shortage caused by the strike of Anthracite Miners last year has not been made up, and American hard coal will, in all probability, be hard to get and priced. Coke is an excellent substitute for hard coal, and we have on hand a stock same that will soon be disposed of, because a shortage of hard coal invariably creates an increased demand for our product. We advise our customers to book their requirements as soon as possible.

HOUSES.

A woman whom I felt drawn to but did not know very well was visiting me with a mutual friend at my home in the country.

Across the way from us a little house has just been built.

My new friend had not been with us a half hour before she said, "Is there a house in that house yet?"

"Then," said she, "if you don't mind I'm going to look in the windows." On the contrary I didn't mind. I saw that I had a kindred spirit.

Anyone who doesn't just as well turn to some other part of the paper for I am going to tell about the fascination of houses.

I am still as eager to climb the ladders and prout about over the new lumber and kegs of nails in a house that is being built as I was when I was a child and a new house in the neighbourhood was a rich source of adventure.

The Inside of Houses.

I am forever wishing that I might see the inside of some occupied house whose exterior intrigues me.

Once came up and asked if he could see the inside of our house for a reason, and I welcomed him with a delight that must have surprised him. I was so glad to find someone else had felt that way and the courage to say so.

Here the stories that houses tell, like the big Gothic house of 40 years ago with all the fancy work that the carver and the edge of the roof can do.

Can't you just imagine how the people were who built it? How fancy how people want to tell how much that fancy cost, and how the house was of the show places of the town.

At that time. And now the paint is peeling and the fancy wood work is broken in several places and it is rented to a family who only put up with it because they have seven children and can't squeeze into the modern apartment they covet.

If Houses Could Write.

If houses could only write their biographies we should have some reminiscences more worthwhile than many that are printed.

"I can never see a house with good lines and possibilities, but gone to seed and decayed into a tenement, without an actual pang. I wish I had the money to paint it and fix it up as it should be fixed. I see it in my mind's eye, gleaming with white paint, with window boxes at the windows and hollyhocks out in front and the ragged lawn trimmed to its old time glory.

I wonder if you ever read Joyce Kilmer's "The House with Nobody in It." To my mind it is one of the two best of his poems, (I know I needn't name the other).

The House With a Broken Heart.

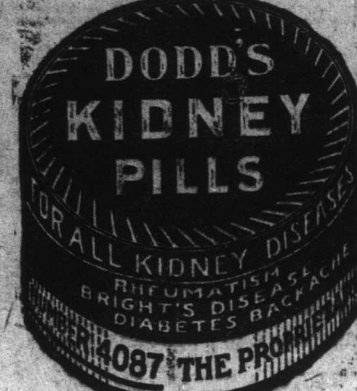

He had that same feeling about wanting to fix up the poor old house with nobody in it. The poem ends with these two fine verses that I know everyone who loves houses enough to bear with me this far, will enjoy:

"For a house that has done what a house should do, A house that has sheltered life, That has put its loving wooden arms around a man and his wife, A house that has echoed a baby's laugh and held up his stumbling feet

Is the saddest sight when it's left alone, that ever your eyes could meet.

So whenever I go to Suffern, along the Erie track, I never go by the empty house without stopping and looking back. Yet it thurts me to look at the crumbling roof and the shutters falling apart.

For I can't help thinking the poor old house is a house with a broken heart."

Investing in Our Forests.

A number of river drivers had their luncheon the other day on an island in northern Quebec. When they left the island, they left their fire burning. A few trees caught fire and while the men noticed the flames they thought nothing of it because the fire was on an island and they expected it to burn itself out. But a favorable wind enabled the fire to jump from the island to the mainland. It is still burning and to date has destroyed 350 square miles of pulpwood lands. At a minimum of $1,200 a square mile, the timber that has been destroyed has a value of well over $400,000.

Another fire in Quebec that was set by carelessness burned 2,000 acres of timber land that had a value of $2,000 an acre. The pulpwood on this area would have been sufficient to run the entire Laurentide plant at Grand Mere, Que., forever, allowing for natural growth. And the Laurentide Co. supports a town of 7,000 people, almost everyone of whom is dependent directly or indirectly on the company.

This is the economic side of forest fires; their deadening effect upon the paper industry. It may be less sensational than the effect of forest fires on the northern Ontario mining camps, but from the standpoint of Canada's future it is just as important.

Millions of dollars are invested in pulp and paper mills in Canada, in water powers and town sites. These millions are in danger unless there is proper protection against fire and an adequate policy of reforestation.

Some of the provinces receive as much as one-third of their revenue from these forests and yet they are spending hardly anything to insure the continuance of this revenue. It is largely to awaken public sentiment to such a degree that it will be possible for the men in charge of the governmental affairs to spend with public approval, that such companies as the Laurentide Co. are spending thousands of dollars a year on a policy of reforestation.

The Laurentide Co. by 1925 will be setting out five million new trees a year or approximately as many as it consumes. But as an economic and practical matter, reforestation is not profitable for the ordinary pulp and paper company. It is entirely up to the provincial government just as protection against forest fires is a question for provincial control.

Hon. Honore Mercier, minister of lands and forests of the province of Quebec, has been studying this question and undoubtedly the incoming ministry in Ontario will also make a careful study of the question of conserving our forestry resources.

But the governments cannot act without public support. Adequate forestry protection may involve the annual expenditure of a large part of the income now received from the forests. Business men must appreciate that when this expenditure is made that it is a proper and justifiable, in fact, necessary expenditure. They should indicate their approval of such investments in Canada's future.

Canada must look after its forests or pretty soon its most important industry and the chief source of its manufactured exports—the timber and paper industry—will disappear.

consist of a salad, bread and butter, a choice of coffee, tea or cocoa, with sugar and cream and a dessert. This will amount for 650 calories. The important meal of the day, or dinner, may consist of a soup, an average serving of meat, potato, two green vegetables, bread and butter and a dessert. If average portions are served, a total of about 1,200 calories will be included. This would make the total for the day approximately 2,500 calories.

"If more people checked their diet to the reasonable limits of their body requirements, there would be a great improvement in the general health of the nation."

THE FISHERMAN.

The man who loves to wade a stream Like ordinary men may seem, And seen upon a city street, He looks like all the men we meet. Yet there is much escapes the eye; Or get beneath the veils which hide A fellow being's gentler side.

We cannot read men's eyes and tell What thoughts behind their glances dwell; We cannot in the passing throng Know just what ears are tuned to song. What hearts will throb with joy to see The blossoms on a cherry tree, What man of all the many here Grows gentler when a child is near.

Yet when we pass upon a stream A fisherman, though rough he seem And clad in garments worn and old, The story of his soul is told. 'Tis plain he loves a willow tree, The laughter of the waters free, The glory of the golden sun, And every rock he treasurs on.

He finds the twitter of the birds A sweeter speech than common words You know, because you find him there. To him the distant hills are fair, In him the wild flowers have a friend, He loves the stream and every bend, The tangled banks, the sky's blue span— Or he'd not be a fisherman.

Full-Blooded Alaskan Natives Are Dying Out.

Anchorage, Alaska, July 10. (A.P.)—Within a few decades full-blooded natives along the southwestern coast of Alaska will be scarce, according to Charles Coach, who has spent much time in the lower Cook Inlet country. The squaws refuse to marry full-blooded men because the white men are better providers and offer better opportunities for social advancement, Mr. Coach explained. Only the educated native who has some regular mode of earning a living has a chance to win a young squaw.
