Chinese in the Transvaal

Premier Balfour Defeats Vote of Censure by a Small Majority.

Major Seely Withdraws Support from Government and Resigns.

The Bishop of Hereford Roundly Censures South African High Commissioner.

At London, March 21.—In the House of Commons this afternoon, Premier Balfour, leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, moved a vote of censure, passed March 16, to the effect that the House disapproves the conduct of His Majesty's government in the Transvaal.

Mr. Balfour said nothing of the government's policy in the Transvaal, but the people of this country as its sanction of the introduction of Chinese labor into South Africa. It was his conviction that a greater departure from the principles of the British Empire had made her way in the world than this.

The Liberal leader thought nothing but averting a possible catastrophe could justify the Chinese labor ordinance. He declared it was a disgrace to the government of white labor, but the British workmen who had been banished out by the Chinese. It was the largest scheme for human dumping since the "Middle Passage" was abolished.

Colonial Secretary Lyttelton replying indignantly repelled the allegation that the government was favoring slavery. The government of the Transvaal, he said, had adopted the only alternative to bridge the transition period until the demand for unskilled labor. The government was well aware that the policy would be unpopular with the Chinese.

Mr. Lyttelton read a letter from the Bishop of Hereford, in which he said that the Chinese were in no way inferior to the white man, and that the difference was not a matter of race, but of education.

Major John Edward Seely, who held the office of High Commissioner of the Transvaal, was present and supported the government's policy. He said that the Chinese labor ordinance was a necessary measure to bridge the transition period until the demand for unskilled labor.

Mr. Balfour, who followed Major Seely, was understood to be in a minority. He said that the Chinese labor ordinance was a disgrace to the government of white labor, but the British workmen who had been banished out by the Chinese.

Mr. Balfour, in opposing the resolution, said it was a question whether the government was favoring slavery. He said that the Chinese labor ordinance was a necessary measure to bridge the transition period until the demand for unskilled labor.

GEN. STOESEL REPORTS A NAVAL ENGAGEMENT

Port Arthur was Attacked Tuesday Night and Yesterday Morning—The Russian Fleet Sailed Out to Engage the Japanese Battleships.

St. Petersburg, March 22.—The Emperor has received the following telegram from Alexeff: "Lieutenant-General Stoessel reports that at midnight of March 21st the Japanese torpedo boats were discovered by our search lights. Our guardships and fort batteries opened fire upon them, the firing lasting for twenty minutes. At 4 o'clock in the morning the attack was renewed. At 6:30 in the morning four of the enemy's ships appeared from the south, followed by the whole squadron of eleven ships and eight torpedo boats. Our squadron left the roadstead to meet the enemy."

London, March 22.—A despatch to Reuters' Telegram Company from St. Petersburg says: "Japanese torpedo boats appeared off Port Arthur at midnight of the night of March 21-22, and the shore batteries and guardships opened fire for twenty minutes. The Japanese retreated, but reappeared four hours later, when they met with the same reception, when they retreated again."

At 6 a.m. a Japanese squadron of two divisions, composed of four battleships and eleven cruisers, and accompanied by eight torpedo boats, appeared off Port Arthur. The Russian squadron pulled out to meet them.

At 9 a.m., the Japanese battleships, having fired several shots at Liao Tshin, and scattered behind the promontory, commenced another bombardment of Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, March 23.—General Stoessel's report continues as follows: "At 9 o'clock the enemy's battleships opened fire on Liao Tshin, after which they took up a position behind (the rocky eminence of Liao Tshin, and bombarded Port Arthur.

At 12:30 the Japanese battleships, having fired several shots at Liao Tshin, and scattered behind the promontory, commenced another bombardment of Port Arthur.

Another telegram from Vice-Admiral left to the Emperor gives Vice-Admiral Makarov's report, as follows: "At midnight of March 21st two of the enemy's torpedo boats approached the outer roadstead, but were discovered by the searchlights of the batteries and fired upon by the forts and by the gunboats Bolsh and Osvobod. They were obliged to retire. A second attack was made at 4 o'clock in the morning by three torpedo boats, which were also shot down. At daybreak three detachments of the enemy's fleet, consisting of six battleships, six armored cruisers, six second-class cruisers, six torpedo boats, and six destroyers, arrived about 9 o'clock in the morning. The fleet divided, the battleships and torpedo boats taking the position between Liao Tshin and Goh.

Accident Not a Serious One But Weather May Retain Her at Quatsino.

Vessel From Ladysmith For San Francisco Has a Rough Time.

Enquiry at the C. P. N. Co's office yesterday regarding the steamer Queen City showed that no further dispatches had been received from Quatsino since the vessel was last reported to have left the company's wharf at Victoria on the 17th inst. upon the weather whether the steamer will be brought to Victoria or paired at Quatsino. The job is not hauling the steamer out on the beach, Quatsino and replacing the broken shaft. It is a possibility, if the weather remains fine that the steamer Daube will be the Queen City to Victoria by way of the coast.

PEARL EXPERIENCES.

Ship Macey's Awful Voyage From Ladysmith to San Francisco. The San Francisco Club publishes the following graphic narrative of the voyage of the coal-laden ship William Macey from Ladysmith to San Francisco. The storm beaten ship William Macey came into port yesterday. Her appearance was that of a vessel which had a heavy list to starboard. She had a whole appearance showed the effects of the terrific weather. How she weathered the gale and lived through it is a story that she has on her beam end. At any rate, she has managed to get into port and a more battered looking vessel has rarely been seen in the harbor. She left this port on the 10th. On the bound north for Ladysmith she had a good run but on the 17th she was struck by a heavy gale. The vessel was blown down with a great commotion. The crew were all saved. JUSTICE AT LAST.

American Vessels are Deprived of a Great Unfair Privilege. One of the standing grievances of British Columbia shipping companies has been the privilege allowed by the Dominion government to American vessels of carrying goods of Canadian origin between Canadian ports, while the British vessels are not permitted to do so. This privilege has been steadily denied to Canadian shipping companies. Year after year an act in control has been passed at Ottawa extending the period of this unfair privilege, in spite of the protests of Canadian shipping companies that they had all the vessels necessary to do the work.

It is, of course, not known how it occurred or what caused it, but it is a possibility, if the weather remains fine that the steamer Daube will be the Queen City to Victoria by way of the coast.

SOME OPINIONS ON FISH TRAPS.

Argument that West Coast of Island Is Too Rough to Use Them.

Speaking to a News-Advertiser reporter at the packing director's office, the following is what was said in regard to the use of fish traps. The canner, of course, petitioned for traps. Mr. Wilson said, "but until the matter which the petition is concerned with is settled, it is impossible to say whether it will be possible to use the traps anywhere. What the canner is asking for is the right to use traps anywhere between the coast of British Columbia and Cape Scott, but it may be that the government will limit them only on the coast of British Columbia and Cape Scott. MOVEMENTS ON THE YALU RIVER

Japanese Still South of Stream and Russians Doubtful of New Change. We have purchased for $100,000 the American rights to Liquezone. We thus control the only way to kill germs in the liquid product. We want to pay for the body and end a germ disease. We want to give them to a million sick ones. Will you—if you need it—let us buy one for you? Mr. Olsen was a pioneer in the powder business, and his career was one of the most remarkable in the history of the province.

ACTS LIKE OXYGEN

Liquezone is the result of a process which men have spent over 20 years in perfecting. Its virtues are derived solely from gas, made in large part from the best oxygen producers. By a process requiring immense apparatus and days time, these gases are made part of the liquid product. The result is a product that does what oxygen does. Oxygen gas, as you know, is the very source of vitality. Liquezone is a vitalizing tonic with which no other known product can compare. But germs are vegetables; and Liquezone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable life. Mr. Olsen was a pioneer in the powder business, and his career was one of the most remarkable in the history of the province.
