Editorial Topics.

THE NEW BOARD OF EDITORS.

THE REVIEW is now starting on a new era of its existence. The whole of the old board of editors has resigned, and THE REVIEW is now under the management of three greenhorns and one who has had some experience, having edited a newspaper in the wild and woolly west. It is with considerable fear and trembling that we enter upon our arduous task, and this task is made all the harder by the high standard that the late board of editors has set us. For the last two years this paper has been managed and edited in a most excellent and painstaking manner by Mr. Carter Troop and Mr. H. C. Osborne, assisted by Mr. Gwyn and Mr. Seager. In Mr. Troop we have lost one who has been identified with Trinity and THE REVIEW for many years, and who deserves every credit and commendation for the efficient way in which he has done his work. In Mr. Osborne we have lost a man who has laboured hard and faithfully for his two year's term, and who has by careful and assiduous work done yeoman's service in bringing THE REVIEW up to its present flourishing condition. Under his guidance this paper has fulfilled its office in our college life, it has been swift to commend all those actions which are for the good of old Trinity, it has been equally swift in its censor of those which are detrimental, its editorials have been able and interesting and its chronicle of College thought and doings has been truly and faithfully kept. Mr. Osborne's conferees have also worked hard and well, and if we, the present board of editors, can follow the lead which they have given us, we know that our efforts will bear fruit, and good fruit too.

THE CHANGE OF GOVERNMENT

Well, the change of government has come, whether for the better or the worse only time can tell. THE REVIEW is not a pronounced supporter of either party, but we think that if the feelings of the undergraduate body at Trinity were consulted we would find that the large majority were in favour of the present Opposition. What Mr. Laurier's policy is we don't know any more than we did before the election, but if that policy when it is made known only acts in a beneficial manner for the country, and serves as a stimulus to at present lagging trade, and above all if those who hold the strings of the country's purse only open that purse for the good of the land and not for their own financial bettering, we shall feel more than satisfied with the present government, and we shall be confident that this change is for the best.

THE CHEAP DOLLAR

About now the Western United States farmer will be coming to the conclusion that W. J. Bryan, the Boy Orator of the Platte is, as far as he is concerned, attempting to blow hot and cold. No Argonauts ever pursued a golden fleece with greater eagerness than the American farmer is now pursuing this silver myth. And why? For precisely the same reason that any debtor is tempted to settle at fifty cents on the dollar. To dangle a fifty-two cent dollar in the face of the most mortgaged class in the community is a dangerous pastime. Bryan has told them truly that he will provide cheap money; and the mass of United States mortgagors is just on the qui vive for his election. It is not a very honourable principle on which to cast one's vote; but it will be a very general one in this Presidential contest. On the other hand, however, Mr. Bryan comes fast into the sound-money fold of New York, and explains that he is not going to debase the coinage. By an abstruse mathematical calculation he demonstrates that there is so much of the world's silver used in the arts and so much used in other silver countries that the residue is not so great but the United States mints could utilize it all as fast as it is presented. The world provides the supply, the United States creates the demand. The demand will be approximately equal to the supply, with the result that the value put upon silver by the United States Government must be accepted by other countries if they wish any quantity of silver for any purpose whatever. Thus the parity of the metals is to be maintained. After all this the farmer's cheap dollar looks very shadowy indeed. It will continue to fade into the dim distance till on election day, when William Jennings Bryan is snowed under, it disappears from view. Should the silverites carry the day, however, we very much fear that the farmer's cheap dollar is a more lively possibility than is the maintenance of the parity of the metals.

IT is gratifying to every Canadian to reflect upon the singular successes that have attended CANADA TO THE FORE upon the singular successes that have attended ed Canada's efforts this year in competition with other countries in matters military and athletic. Our team covered themselves with glory at Bisle, winning the blue ribbon of team shooting, the Kolapore Cup. Our artillery team has won the Queen's prize at Shoeburyness, defeating the best that England's volunteers could produce. The Royal Canadian Yacht Club's boat "Canada," handled in a masterly manner by Rear Commodore Æmilius Jarvis and his crew, has beaten the Yankee representative "Vencedor" in two races, winning the first by twenty-three minutes and the second by twenty-six seconds. The Winnipeg four won the amateur championship of America at Saratoga, defeating their opponents with ease, and last but not least, the little boat "Glencairn" upheld Canada's prowess by easily showing her supremacy over her opponent at New York. Well may we be proud of what our country's sons have done this year, for although these friendly contests are not the most serious pursuits in life, still it shows that Canadians have the vein and ambition to endeavour to gain the top rung of the ladder in the struggle for supremacy. Apparently Canada needs a little advertising, too, in the mother country, judging by a very amusing incident which occurred during the trip of the artillery team to England. One of the members of the team happened to be walking among the crowd which had assembled to watch the competition, when he was astonished by a woman stopping him, and with her arms akimbo surveying him from head to foot. After looking at him for some time, she remarked in a surprised tone, "Well, I declare if you ain't like any one of us." Evidently the good woman expected to see an Indian in full war paint.

A NEW CRYPTOGRAM.

AN INTERESTING DISCOVERY IN REFERENCE TO THE WELL-KNOWN POEM "GREY'S ELEGY."

Introductory Note.—Having become deeply interested in the marvellous discoveries of that celebrated literateur, Ignatius Donnelly, I have been led recently to undertake some experiments with a view to ascertaining whether the principle of the cryptogram may not enter into many other writings besides those of the Bard of Avon. My researches led me to investigate "Grey's Elegy" among other poems. The suspicion that some "struggling pangs of conscious truth" lay hidden beneath the text was strengthened day by day as my eye seemed irresistibly drawn to the word "Hamlet," in the fourth stanza. Guesses soon ripened into conviction till at length the truth flashed upon me like an inspiration.

From the first this poem seemed to have a very distinct flavour of Donnelly about it, and I may as well say at once that Donnelly himself is the author of it, as will presently appear most conclusively. Donnelly's Shakespearean researches led him to adopt towards Grey the tactics of the pseudo-Shakespeare. We are therefore quite prepared for the discovery that the key-word of the cryptogram is the title of Shakespeare's greatest creation, "Hamlet."

The critics have long been agreed that the "Elegy" is the only contribution to letters in Grey's volume that is worthy the name of poetry. The reason is now clear—Grey had nothing to do with the "Elegy"—Donnelly sunk his great individuality beneath the name of the lesser author, and gave to the world what Grey had not the genius to conceive.

I am not yet prepared to give away the key to the cypher, engaged as I am upon other researches with its aid. But to encourage independent investigation I will now reveal this much of my discovery. Remembering the key-word "Hamlet" turn to the title, "Grey's Elegy, written in a Country Church-yard." Here you will find the name of the buried poem, as well as that of its author. By a simple experiment you may so transpose the letters (some of them will have to be reduplicated) that they will read "Rustic Revels—Grey never wrote it—Crede Ignatius Donnelly." This hint is sufficient to supply the clue by which to select and arrange the cryptographic verses. Though somewhat involved the cypher will readily yield itself to one familiar with the mysteries of the differential calculus, and once found a child can operate it. I may add that the patient investigator ought to scan—I use the word advisedly—the line next but one to the "Epitaph:"

"Approach and read (for thou canst read) the lay" and let him not forget the key-word.

I subjoin the cryptographic poem with some annotation necessary for its elucidation. It may be known that other stanzas remain yet to be added—I have by no means exhausted the possibilities of the cypher. It will be seen that the cryptogram is a temperance ode, Mr. Donnelly being an ardent teetotaler and prohibitionist.

RUSTIC REVELS.

Far from the maddening crowd's ignoble strife,
The rustic moralist of dauntless breast,
With uncouth rhyme, and tribute of a sigh,
And many a holy text his muse addressed.

"The rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep:
Some 'pious drops'* their closing eyes assayed,
Their listless length at noontide they have stretched
Beneath these rugged elms, that yew-tree's shade.

"Perhaps in this neglected spot they'll lie,
Till breezy call of incense-breathing moon
Shall wake to ecstasy each living liar,[†]
Of noble rage and glowing virtue shoon.

"Where rests his head upon the lap of earth,
Haply some hoary-headed swain may say,
Muttering his wayward fancies, drink-inspired—
'I've kept the noiseless tenor of my way.'[‡]

"How jocund was their animated bust! †
Their sober wishes never learned to stay,
To quench the blushes of each echoing horn §
The curfew tolls the knell of parting day.

"Now drooping, woeful, wan, like one forlorn,
Each, listless, homeward plods his weary way;
No children run to lisp their sire's return,
But melancholy marks him for her prey."

A youth to fortune and to fame unknown,
Doth in these lines an artful tale relate,
The struggling pangs of conscious truth here hid
Some kindred spirit shall disclose, though late. ||

Pious drops.* Cf. Guttulæ beatrum (Prudentius). We may see perhaps a reference to the Hibernicism "A drop of St. Patrick's Eye-water."

†Each living liar. The cypher demands this slight elucidation, compare the strange capus in Mrs. Heman's well-known line "a deep-toned lyre hung." The correct reading would be "a high-toned lyre hanged." One author seems to have forgotten the aphorism in seris veritas.

‡Animated bust. This seems to be an imitation of Lucretius 5.991. vivo busto—lively spree. See next note.

§To quench the blushes of each echoing horn. This and the expression last noted above are very old but spirited colloquisms; they greatly puzzled the commentators upon the original poem, in which they seemed very much out of place. Echoing horn, a reference to an ancient drinking custom. One toper invites another of the company to "take a horn." (epi. keras agci) Poly 6: passim. The echoing horn would thus be the return invitation, or rather the response to it. Blushes, either wine suffused or shame-begotten, would be the inevitable result of these echoes, if too oft repeated. These, however, the curfew would effectually quench by bringing the drinking bout to a timely end.

||Some kindred spirit, etc. The present commentator trusts that this prophecy has now, in a measure at least, been fulfilled

A. J.

CONVOCATION DAY.

The annual Convocation ceremonies took place on Saturday afternoon in the Convocation Hall. The usual large gathering of friends of the University filled the Hall to the doors. The gallery was of course taken possession of by the men. This year, we take credit to ourselves in saying the gallery did their share of the proceedings in the proper way, some of the remarks and topical songs having some semblance of wit about them, and not mere "howls and noises" as in some former years.

The Chancellor in his address made fitting allusions to the excellent choice made by his Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of Durham in selecting the Rev. Mr. Welch as the new Provost. The Chancellor also expressed his pleasure at the good results of the recent examinations and of the high marks and percentages taken. He also made mention of the progress made by S. Hilda's College and the good work done there during the past year. He then closed his address with the following excellent advice:—"To those who have been enrolled to-day among the students of the College, as well as to the under-graduates of older standing who are still pursuing their studies here, I would say, remember that men will judge us by our fruits, and the higher the standard maintained by our students, both in point of scholarship and in all that constitutes the educated Christian gentleman, the higher rank will Trinity take among the educational institutions of the land, and the more extended and powerful will be the influence she will wield." The Chancellor then conferred the degrees and presented the prizes won by the various men.

President Loudon was then introduced by the Chancellor and favoured us with an exceedingly interesting speech. He congratulated the students for their painstaking efforts not to let the proceedings lag or get dull and uninteresting.

He pointed out a bond of union between Trinity and Toronto Universities, in that they were both connected in the past with Bishop Strachan. He hoped that Trinity would give her valuable assistance in maintaining the high standard of the Ph.D. degree which Toronto University intended soon to establish. President Loudon concluded by congratulating Trinity on the fine showing made in the recent International Inter-Collegiate Cricket Match.

Mr. G. W. Ross made a neat speech and said that although he was not officially connected with the University, still in many of the undergraduates he saw before him the finished product of the schools over which he had the honour to preside, and that he could pay a high tribute to the work done in the public schools by Trinity men who had entered their service. Mr. Ross closed his speech amidst much applause.

After being loudly called for the Rev. H. Aubeck of New York delivered a very interesting address. He was followed by the Provost who was enthusiastically cheered. He thanked the Corporation, the Faculty and the men for their support during his first year at Trinity. His brief speech brought forth continued cheers from the gallery, which gave ample evidence of his great popularity.

The proceedings were brought to a close by Prof. Clark expressing a few words of thankfulness at seeing the Chancellor looking so well, and the hope that he might be spared to us for many years to come.

INTERNATIONAL INTER-COLLEGIATE CRICKET MATCH.

I think it may safely be said that this year's International Inter-Collegiate cricket match was a success in every sense of the word. Some few weeks before the 24th and 25th of July even the most sanguine scarcely dared hope that it would be brought off. Seemingly insurmountable difficulties presented themselves.

Chief among the difficulties was, of course, the question of how to raise the necessary finances. It was proposed to start a subscription in the college, and this subscription, thanks to the liberality of the Dons and the men, made it possible for the Athletic Committee to go on with the arrangements for the match. On the night of the 23rd the visiting team arrived, and here the only hitch of the whole affair occurred. Through some mistake on the part of Mr. Goodman, the captain of the American team, some of our visitors were not aware of the fact that we expected them to be our guests at the college during their stay. They had unfortunately already engaged rooms at the Queen's hotel, consequently we were deprived of the pleasure of their company in the college until the second night of their visit. The three representatives of Harvard, however, having arrived on an earlier train came immediately out to the college. On Wednesday morning, the first day of the game, a fairly good attendance of spectators was present on the campus, but in the afternoon the largest crowd assembled that has ever graced a Trinity cricket match. On Thursday afternoon the Dons gave an extremely pleasant "afternoon tea" to our guests. On Thursday night a complimentary dinner was tendered the visiting team by the Athletic Association. This was a great success and was a fitting wind-up to two of the most enjoyable days old Trinity has ever seen. The dinner, by kind permission of the Faculty, was held in Convocation Hall. Mr. Wadsworth, the captain of the Canadian team, was in the chair. After the inner man had been fully satisfied, the chairman proposed "The Queen" and afterwards "The President of the United States," both toasts being drunk with the greatest enthusiasm. Mr. Wadsworth then proposed "Our Guests," which proposal, needless to say, was met with great applause. Mr. Goodman replied in most felicitous terms. Mr. Osborne then proposed "Cricket," and spoke as only Trinity's silver-tongued orator can speak. The Dean replied in his usual happy way. By the by this is the last chance our Dean had of speaking out before joining the ranks of the Benedicts. The fun was kept up into the "wee sma' hours" by songs, etc., and was brought to a close by the whole company singing "Auld lang Syne," in the college hall and giving the college yells of Yale, Princeton, Harvard, University of Pennsylvania, Trinity and Varsity. Our guests left next day, and may the time be not far distant when we shall meet again, for a finer, jollier set of fellows we have never known.

The following is a detailed account of the game. Wadsworth won the toss and decided to go to bat. C. W. Bell (Trinity) and J. L. Counsell (Toronto University) opening the inning for the Canadians. Both men played steadily for a few overs when Bell was bowled out by Clark for nothing. Cooper filled the vacancy and batted in splendid form for 34, being eventually bowled by Clark. Wadsworth was the next batsman and on going to bat immediately began to hit out. Counsell's was the next wicket to fall. He was bowled out by Morrice after compiling 10 very carefully. Southam took his place and Wadsworth shortly after was bowled by Clark for 13. Southam was joined by Rogers who went out his second ball from Clark. Southam all this time was playing faultless cricket and was punishing the bowling severely. Senkler took Rogers' place, but was disposed of the first ball he received. Laing came next to bat and formed a productive partnership with Southam, both batsmen playing with great confidence, the latter being at last caught and bowled by Clark. White, Mockridge and Campbell were the next batsmen, all being disposed of quickly for 1, 0 and 2 respectively, Laing being not out 16. The innings closed for 120. After about fifteen minutes intermission Biddle and W. M. Morrice went to bat. The latter in the first two balls he received from Laing put one over the fence for six and the other to the boundary for four, and things looked ominous for us, but Laing had his revenge, shattering the batsman's wicket with his third ball. P. H. Clark, the captain of the Harvard team took Morrice's place and after playing carefully for a few overs was retired by a beautiful ball from Wadsworth. Biddle was the next to go, being bowled by Laing. Then followed a procession to and from the wicket. Wadsworth was simply invincible and the Americans could do nothing with his bowling. Winsor (U. of P.), Fraley (U. of P.) each got 2, and the remainder, Goodman (U. of P.), J. H. Morrice (U. of P.), Baird (Princeton), Blanchard (Harvard), Barclay (U. of P.) and Nichol (Harvard) were all retired with "duck's eggs" opposite their names. The American's first innings only netted them 33, thus necessitating a "follow on."

The Americans batted in the same order in their second innings as in their first. W. M. Morrice and Biddle made 6 and 5 respectively. Clark played extremely well for 29, playing all our bowlers with ease. He is a pretty bat and has a splendid forward stroke and is a coming international man. Goodman met his fate at Counsell's hands being caught and bowled for 4. Winsor and Baird both hit freely for 15 each, the former being bowled by Senkler and the latter cleverly stumped by White. Blanchard and Fraley were both bowled by Cooper as also was Barclay. Nichols not out 9 completed our visitor's innings which totalled 97 leaving us 10 runs to get to win. This was done for the loss of two wickets, Laing getting 20 before being bowled by Morrice. Rogers was caught off Clark for 0 and Counsell carried out his bat for 11, leaving us victorious by 8 wickets and 24 runs.

This ended a match which will go down into the annals of Canadian College Cricket as one of the most enjoyable ever played. Mr. Wadsworth the captain of the Canadian team deserves every credit for the excellent judgment he showed in managing his team, and we Trinity men also take a little credit to ourselves when we think that we were the promoters of the affair. It is our great hope now that the match may become an annual affair as nothing will act in so beneficial a manner upon College cricket on both sides of the line as a yearly international inter-collegiate cricket match.

POOR DEAN!

Just why the Gallery made these two words the burden of its song on Convocation Day we fail to understand. Certainly it was not from any lack of good-will toward the Dean himself or of appreciation of the gracious lady who is now his wife. There was but one feeling of gladness over the approaching event, and Trinity men and women heartily congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Rigby on their marriage and wish them long life, happiness, and prosperity.

Very early on the morning of Tuesday, June 30th, many ladies were seen wending their way to the little Church of Saint Mary Magdalene, and some of them, arriving too early for the sexton, had to pace up and down the sidewalk for half an hour or more. At length the doors were opened and the best seats quickly taken up. A few minutes after eight o'clock the Dean and his best man, the Reverend H. H. Bedford-Jones, appeared and, after the choristers had been marshalled to the choir, they were joined by the bride and her sister, Miss Eva Patteson, who acted as bridesmaid. The Chancellor of Trinity University, the Honorable G. W. Allan, gave the bride away, and many Trinity people (dons, graduates, undergraduates male and female, and servants) showed by their presence their kindly interest in the contracting parties, as did also large numbers of the parishioners of the church, in which the Dean has for three or four years taken a very practical and active interest.

It had been noised abroad that the Dean and his bride were not coming back into the Church from the vestry, so those who were in the secret led the way to the vestry door and raised a cheer for them as they entered their carriage, and some provident person threw the traditional rice. And the whole ceremony was over by the hour originally set, half-past eight.

After a breakfast at S. Hilda's, at which there were only a few present, including the officiating clergy, the Reverend Charles Darling and the Reverend Canon Murphy of Innisfail, the newly married couple left for Muskoka without any demonstration of any kind at the station, and spent a very pleasant fortnight at Maplehurst. Thus S. Hilda's and Trinity have been more closely identified than ever before and we hope that the experiment that this year is to see tried will result in our keeping our Dean and in S. Hilda's keeping its Lady Principal. And withal we may add, Happy Dean!

'96 YEAR DINNER.

Following the example of '95 the out-going class of '96 resolved to hold a dinner as a wind up to their three years of jolly good-fellowship within the walls of old Trinity. But there is one thing in connection with this dinner in that '96 intend to show an example to '95. That is, they intend to make it an annual event that all the members of the class may once a year unite around the festive board, to serve as a reminder to them that they are still Trinity men and members of the class of '96.

"Father" Seaborne was in the chair on this auspicious occasion and right well he did his duty. The table was loaded with the best of everything, the speeches were of the best, and the songs of the best.

Lorne Becher was in his happiest vein and kept everybody in roars of laughter by his stump speeches, Latin quotations, etc.

The other years were represented by Mr. Senkler, '97, Mr. Marling, '98 and Mr. Cooper (who by the way is also a '96 man) the Divinity class.

All of the above made very neat speeches in replying to the toasts of their respective years.

Mr. Campbell replied to the toast of '96.

The evening was brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" in the hall, and a serenade to St. Hilda's College, which was much appreciated by the young ladies, but of course they could not fail to be entranced by the silvery voices of Messrs. Warren, Martin, Bell et al.

COLLEGE CUTS.

The Year Book, thanks to the untiring efforts of Mr. Young and Mr. Mackenzie, is now well under way, and it is expected that it will be ready for distribution about the 1st of November. It will be of especial interest to members of Trinity both past and present. It will contain the addresses of all graduates of the College, an account of the Athletic Association and the clubs under its jurisdiction and their records during the past season. It will also contain a short history of those two old College institutions, the "Literary" and "Episcopon," and a full account of Convocation and many other items of interest to all Trinity men. That it will be popular among the men goes without saying, and THE REVIEW recommends every graduate to be sure and obtain one.

We cannot help thinking that if College were to open a few days sooner, say the 1st of October, that it would be much to our advantage, certainly it would be as far as football is concerned. Under the existing state of affairs our football team is placed under very great disadvantage. Every other college opens at least ten days before ours, and have their team in good condition by the time the season opens. On the other hand we have but one or two practices to fit us for our first game; as a consequence when we have a team entered in the Ontario Rugby Football Union series we run up against opponents who are in good form and condition, result, Trinity beaten and the game at College given a bad set back. This year notices will be sent out to all football men beseeching them to present themselves by the 26th of September for practice. However, we are wandering from the subject. Could not the authorities have College opened sooner? We are certain that the men would not object, and if the Dons, after their hard work during the year, do not feel inclined to forego two weeks of their vacation, why could not Convocation Day be held somewhat sooner than it is now, and keep the vacation at its present length.

SPORTS.

It is with much sorrow that we announce the loss of the score book of last season's cricket matches. Mr. Becher, the scorer in the inter-collegiate cricket match, informed the Secretary that he had left it in his cupboard in his rooms. Upon search being made the score book was reported missing and further efforts to discover its whereabouts have proved unavailing. Mr. Becher has been written to, however, and no doubt will enlighten us as to where to find it. For the present THE REVIEW will have to supply its readers with an account of the season's cricket from the Secretary's memory. Seven matches in all were played, of which five were won and two lost. We opened the season by defeating Rosedale easily, they, however, had their revenge, beating us a week later by five runs. Parkdale fell before us, as did Upper Canada College by a score of 278 to 50 odd. Broughall distinguishing himself by making 86. We defeated Hamilton in a close and exciting game by 12 runs, following this up with a victory over T.C.S. by 7 wickets and 110 runs, Cooper getting 63 not out. Toronto whipped us on the 24th of May and our season was brought to a close by the International match, a full account of which will be found on another page.

We congratulate that sterling cricketer, Mr. W. H. Cooper, on getting a well deserved place on the Canadian Eleven. He is one of many others who have brought honour to Trinity for prowess on the cricket field.

Great efforts are being made to turn out a good football team this year. Post-cards have been sent out to all the medical students urging them to do their utmost, and asking everyone who can to turn out to practice. To all who intend to play football this year the captain of the team begs to announce that they will be expected to present themselves at College by the 26th of September. Now let us see what Trinity can do. Stir yourselves, boys, and come back and do a'l in your power for your Alma Mater. If something is not done now, nothing ever will be done. Three good men who have all played on a team that has won the championship of Canada are taking courses at the medical school this year and will be found in Trinity's ranks at the beginning of the season. Harry Southam will be on hand as will Senkler, Cooper, Gwyn, Curran, Bushell, Mr. White, Mr. Bedford-Jones, Campbell, Heaven, Macdougall, Chadwick, and it is to be hoped Parmenter of last year's U.C.C. team, Goldsmith, and we also hope many of the Meds. We will do our best to get a bye in the first round of the series so as to get in the best of condition before playing our first game.

In case we do get the bye we will even then have barely sufficient time to get into proper trim. A tackling-bag such as is used by our cousins across the line, has been presented to the Club by a football friend who has asked us not to disclose his name. A van has been arranged for to bring the Meds up to practice, at a very moderate rate. A reduction of rates will most probably be given to all those coming up for practice before term. The Finance Committee will decide on this knotty question on September 4th. Now, Trinity men, do your best, come back early, practice hard and place Trinity Football where it should be, somewhere near the top. The following is a copy of the post-card that has been sent to the Medical men:—

Dear Sir,—Every effort is being made this year to turn out a Football Team that will represent the whole strength of Trinity University, both Arts and Medical faculties. You are earnestly requested to do all in your power for the furtherance of this object, either by playing yourself or inducing others to play. Uniforms will be provided gratis to all those who play on either the first or second teams. A van will bring you, free of charge, out to the grounds, where practices will be held. Every convenience is available at the grounds, shower baths, etc.

Kindly answer this at once and let me know if you will play. Trusting that you will do all in your power for your College, and awaiting an early reply, I am, yours sincerely, Duncan Campbell, Captain Football Club, Trinity College, Queen St. West, Toronto.

PERSONAL.

The "Nephew" has gone to England for his holidays on a visit to his grandparents.

Mr. Carlton, '93, who has done so well at Oxford, both in his work and in athletics, is at present in the city.

D. F. Campbell, '96, and C. S. Wilkie, '96, have been taking a course of instruction during the summer at Stanley Barracks.

J. J. Macdougall and F. T. Woolverton have taken a trip this summer to the old country. When last heard of they were having a splendid time.

Lorne Becher, '96, has gone to British Columbia seeking fame and fortune. May he find both, and prosper, is the earnest wish of THE REVIEW.

Many of the men are spending their vacation in Muskoka. Among others are Reggie Temple, Macdonald, H. C. Osborne, Jack McMurrich, Gordon Osler, and C. H. Mockridge.

The Rev. R. Seaborne, the genial "Father," has been spending his "vac." in College. There is a rumour that he intends keeping his rooms at Trinity for another year. May it come to pass.

E. G. Warren has also gone out to the wild and woolly west. A man who has taken so high a standing in science as he has, and shown such a remarkable aptitude for his work will certainly do well and be a credit to his Alma Mater.

His Lordship, the Bishop of Ottawa, has nominated as members of Corporation the Reverend D. Bogert, of Ottawa, Mr. J. Travers Lewis, Chancellor of the Diocese, Colonel Matheson, of Perth, one of our own graduates, and Mr. Whitney, the leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature.

The Venerable Dean Grisdale, an honorary D.C.L., of Trinity, has just been elected to the Bishopric of Qu' Appelle in succession to the late Bishop Burn, while it is reported that the Rectorship of St. James', Toronto, has been offered to his Lordship the Bishop of Algoma, one of the ex-officio members of Corporation.

The following Trinity men passed their law examinations successfully and have our congratulations:—First year—E. G. Osler and J. D. McMurrich. Second year—C. S.

MacInnes, G. C. Heward, M. S. McCarthy, H. B. Robertson, E. C. Cattnach, W. R. Wadsworth, H. M. Nelles, and C. A. S. Boddy. Mr. MacInnes also won a scholarship. Third year—G. L. Smith.

CONVOCATION NOTES.

LECTURES:—The list of lectures and lecturers for the present session is, as far as the Convener has been able to make it up, as follows:—

The Reverend the Provost—(1) John Bunyan; (2) George Eliot; (3) Laud; (4) English Translations of the Bible; (5) Religious Movements of the eighteenth and nineteenth Centuries.

The Reverend the Dean—Sheridan.

The Reverend Professor Clark—(1) The Water Babies; (2) Books and Reading; (3) Tennyson; (4) Dante; (5) Burns; (6) William the Silent.

The Reverend Professor Cayley—Matthew Arnold.

The Reverend Herbert Symonds—(1) Ancient Civilizations and Modern Civilization; (2) Modern Christian Socialism.

The Rev. H. H. Bedford-Jones—(1) Sir Walter Scott; (2) Hebrew Prophets.

The Rev. J. C. Farthing—Armenia and the Armenian Church.

His Honour Judge Macdonald—(1) The United Empire Loyalists; (2) From the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Professor Mackenzie—(1) Sir John Mandeville; (2) Rudyard Kipling.

Mr. Barlow Cumberland—(1) The Defence of York in 1813—How the Six Hundred fought from Dawn to Dark; (2) Layman's Share of Public Worship—The Prayer-book's Provision for the People.

Mr. Henry Montgomery—(1) *The Story of the Earth; (2) *The Black Hills of South Dakota.

Mr. J. G. Carter Troop—(1) Beaconsfield; (2) Under the Southern Cross.

Mr. W. H. White—Charles Dickens.

Mr. A. H. Young—(1) Les Misérables; (2) Faust.

N.B.—In the case of subjects marked with an asterisk, a guarantee of probably $10.00 will be required for the magic lantern used to illustrate the lectures.

TERMS FOR THE LECTURES.

The terms upon which the lecturers have agreed to lecture are:—

(1) At least two weeks' notice shall be given a lecturer of the date upon which his lecture will be required.

(2) The lecturer's expenses shall be paid.

(3) The proceeds of the lectures over and above the expenses shall be absolutely at the disposal of the organization under whose auspices the lectures may be given, as the lecture scheme is not intended to make money for the University or for Convocation.

(4) Where the lectures are given under parochial auspices, or under those of any branch of Convocation, it shall be understood that the lecturer is to be allowed, at the close of his lecture, to set forth the objects of Trinity University, and to make an appeal on behalf of Convocation.

Correspondence about lectures is to be addressed to Mr. A. H. Young.

WHAT CONVOCATION IS.

The question is often asked, "What is Convocation?" and, again, "Why should I join it?" (1) Convocation is the degree-conferring body of the University, no degree being conferred by the Chancellor or the Vice-Chancellor

It is well for those suffering from small-pox at Gloucester, where there is an epidemic of that disease, that they did not live in the former part of the fourteenth century. A chronicle of that period contains the following record:—"In ye yeare 1313 ye king of France burned all his pocky folke as well men as women."—London Truth.

The latest news from Metabeleland is that a farmer left dynamite fuses in his homestead which killed 100 Metabeles, and that a store-keeper in the same fashion killed 200. Is it surprising that the Metabele should take revenge by slaughtering the Europeans wherever they have a chance?—London Truth.

CLIPPINGS.

When we got to the post office at the mining town of Strawberry Hill the mail bag had to be carried to and from Bluff City over the hills by a man on foot. The distance was nine miles, and was traversed twice a week. One Wednesday the carrier came in without the bag, and the four hundred men assembled around the shanty used as a post office at once demanded an explanation.

"I'll tell you how it was," began the man, who was bleeding from a dozen hurts. "Up thar, at the bend, I was tackled by a b'ar."

"And you killed him, of course," replied one of the crowd.

"No, I left my gun behind."

"Then you dodged him?"

"No. Tried to dodge him, but he was right thar."

"Then you ran away?"

"No chance to run. The critter was after me or that mail bag, and I heaved him the bag and got away. He clawed me a few times, but it's nothin' to hurt."

"Stephen Jackson," said Judge Watkins in solemn tones, as a murmur of indignation passed through the crowd, "do you mean to tell us that you give up that mail bag to that b'ar?"

"I had to."

"Didn't that b'ar seem to prefer you to the bag?"

"Reckon he did."

"And you felt that he did?"

"Yes, felt pretty strong that way."

"And yit, after sw'aring to uphold the sacred Constitution of the United States and defend that mail bag with your life, you calmly fed it to a b'ar?"

"Had to do it to git away."

"But who said anythin' about your gettin' away? It was your solemn dooty to perish right thar! It was your dooty, sir, as a patriot and a mail carrier and a Government offshul to hang that mail bag to a limb and let that b'ar go ahead on your carcass! You hev escaped the b'ar, but you hev to deal with the outraged feelin's of this yere camp. Stephen Jackson, how do you prefer to die?"

"By hangin'."

"Wall, we'll send two men up to the bend. If they git the bag you are saved; if the b'ar has devoured it, we'll hang you by the neck till you ar' dead!"

The men found the bag and the carrier's life was saved, although he lost his job. Singularly enough, the bag contained but one letter, and that was a missive for Judge Watkins from his wife in Ohio, saying he needn't come home, as she had applied for a divorce and expected to marry a better man.—Detroit Free Press.

At Marlborough it used to be the custom to assign to every boy on entrance a number, with which his books, clothes and other possessions were marked. A good mother, on whom this practice had made a deep impression, got it into her head that boys were known to the authorities only by their numbers, and, when calling on her son's housemaster, introduced herself as the mother of 26. "Thank heaven, ma'am," exclaimed M. Sellaby, the most innocent and outspoken of men, "I'm not the father of as many."—Argonaut.

A careful reading of the authorities and scrutiny of the works of the masters leads to the belief that when a picture looks to the ordinary observer like that which it is intended to represent, it is not art.—Life.

Mrs. Blank, of Ohio, gave a luncheon a week ago to some Ohio delegates to the Christian Endeavour Convention. There was ice cream for dessert, and the hostess noticed that one of her guests had eaten all her portion. "Dear Miss X.," said she, "do let me give you some more ice cream." "Well," replied Miss X., diffidently, "just a mouthful, if you please." "Mary," said the hostess to the maid, "fill Miss X.'s plate."—Washington Post.
