The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. OCCASIONAL PAPER, ETC.

THE Committee have the satisfaction of presenting further Reports of the progress of the Mission.

Since the publication of the last Occasional Paper, two additions have been made to the agency employed, viz., Mr. Hurst, transferred from Newfoundland, and appointed lay missionary, and Miss Williams, a teacher of superior qualifications, from the Home and Colonial Institution.

Such has been the progress of the Schools, that the original buildings, kindly lent by the Rev. Dr. Cronyn, the Rector of London (Canada West), were speedily found inadequate, and arrangements have been made for entering on larger premises. The necessity of this step will be seen from the fact, that, during the first six months 304 were refused admission simply from want of room. *

It is most gratifying to find that the efforts of Mr. Dillon and his coadjutors have elicited a very cordial response from Christians in the Colony. Thus the Rev. H. Grasett, Examining Chaplain to the Bishop, writes to Mr. Dillon :—

“I am very happy indeed to hear so favorable a report of your progress, and that your schools are in so flourishing a condition. This will, doubtless, be cheering to our friends in the old country who take such a lively interest in the Mission, and encourage them to persevere in a work which promises to be productive of blessings both to the blacks and whites. I have heard from several quarters of Mr. Ballantine's great aptitude for his department of the work, and the zeal and energy with which he fulfils it.”

There has, moreover, been no lack of voluntary fellow laborers in the Sunday schools, and in other departments of usefulness, and much liberality has been manifested in contributions towards the heavy expenses on buildings, fittings up, &c. While, however, much has been done towards meeting local changes at the centre of operations, the responsibility of sustaining the Mission, as a whole, devolves with even increased urgency on British Christians. The work has been commenced with evident tokens of the Divine blessing, and it must not only be sustained, but developed. Branches must be thrown out in the different Canadian towns at which fugitives congregate; schools must be opened, Bibles, books, and school supplies sent out, and additional agents appointed, as new openings arise. Never had the Mission to the Free Colored Population greater claims on the sympathy of the friends of Negro Evangelization, and the Committee earnestly trust that this appeal will call forth increased support from the Christian public.

* See Rev. M. M. Dillon's Report.

With these remarks they proceed to submit the various Reports of the agents employed:—

REPORT OF THE REV. M. M. DILLON,
SUPERINTENDENT OF THE MISSION.

London, Canada West, July 12, 1855.

The encouraging prospects which under the Divine blessing shone so brightly upon our Mission with the commencement of the present year, have not in the least grown dim; until from little beginnings we have now gained a firm footing in the affections of the people both white and colored. It is true, many a dark cloud may at times have appeared upon our horizon, but thanks be to God, they all burst in mercy over our heads. We may have had many discouragements, but truly it becomes us to be thankful; many an Ebenezer of gratitude have we reason to set up, and well may we exclaim "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us."

In referring to all my former communications, you will perceive that I stated from the very commencement of our labors, that in order to benefit the colored people, and under God, effect the main object of our mission, the Society had to be worked on its more general objects, and not with reference to any one class in particular. We have, therefore, gone among these poor people plainly and boldly proclaiming, "We come to you not as a separate class to whom we have a peculiar and special mission, but we come to you in common with your white brethren, desiring to set aside all distinctions, and proclaim to you both on the equal necessity of your souls' wants, the free and full salvation extended to the chief of sinners through the atoning merits of a Saviour's blood. Desiring your religious, intellectual, and moral improvement, and knowing how much an enlightened, liberal, and truly Scriptural education will conduce, by God's grace, to this glorious end; we affectionately invite you into our schools on equal terms with your white brethren."

Twenty years' experience of these people fully assured me, humanly speaking, that this was the only course to pursue, in humble faith, in order to ensure success, and gain an entrance into their hearts. I have not been disappointed, for the results even within six months have exceeded my fondest expectations.

Our work has been greatly assisted by the kind manner in which the rector, churchwardens, and congregation of St. Paul's have aided us in breaking down existing prejudices against the colored people, by admitting them into all parts of the church; and opening to them every pew during the afternoon service. I cannot express with what deep feelings of gratitude I have lifted my heart in prayer to Almighty God, when seeing those who have joined our Church, and who unite in commemorating a Saviour's dying love, no longer, as in former days, holding back until all their white brethren had communicated, but freely coming forward without let or hindrance, and all meeting together around the table of their common Lord, partaking together of the sacred emblems of His love and mercy, as we trust, through faith in Jesus, they shall hereafter sit together at the "marriage supper of the Lamb." ✕

The best criterion of the value in which our schools are held in the public estimation is simply to state, that since their opening on the 8th January, we have had five hundred and seventy applications for admission, and have been obliged to exclude three hundred and four children, owing to the utter impossibility of admitting another child into our present overcrowded buildings. I may safely say, that three-fourths of the colored children here are in daily attendance, and a large increase will take place the moment we have increased accommodation. However cheering the numbers in attendance may be, it is not of this I would merely speak, but of the astonishing success which, under God, has attended Mr. Ballantine's unwearied and unceasing efforts. To this may be attributed the high position which the schools hold at this moment in the estimation of the public. The children have made great progress, not only in secular knowledge, but above all in the higher acquirement of those things which relate to their everlasting peace. Mr. Ballantine's mode of Scriptural and moral training has indeed worked wonders. A simple circumstance or two will illustrate this:—

A mother called upon me a short time since and abruptly commenced her conversation by saying, "Sir, what have you done to my boys?" I pleaded ignorance of her meaning, when she added, "The boys, Sir, were the plague of my life, but now they are a real blessing to me, I never could get them to attend school before, but now the school is their delight."

Another parent of great respectability, when applying for admission for her sons into the school said, "My reason for applying is simply this—I see the children of my friends and neighbours who attend your school are so well behaved, they are so improved in their manner and conduct, of nothing are they so afraid as doing anything that would cause their removal from the school?"

CASES OF FUGITIVES.—I speak in general of the children, as it would be an injustice to say the colored children were not equally improved, and as well conducted as their white schoolfellows. The circumstances connected with the history of many of these poor children, must render them an object of interest to every Christian heart. I may mention two or three cases:—

A brother and sister named H——. Their father, a Virginian planter, treated them and their mother, a fair, interesting young woman, with great kindness for many years; suddenly he took it into his head to start for California, and with the other slaves on his property, actually offered the mother, and his own children, for sale. She telegraphed to her father; then at a distance of 500 miles. Poor C—— had himself been a slave, and had purchased his freedom for 2000 dols. He arrived at the moment when his daughter and her children were exposed by the unnatural monster on the block for sale. Having by honest industry saved 700 dols., he became the purchaser of his daughter at that price. Free herself, she fled that night with her two interesting children to Canada, and settled in London.

A family of seventeen persons of the name of B——,—a mother, daughters, and grandchildren, succeeded in making their escape and reaching this place in the early part of last spring. The grandmother and daughters, being the children of white fathers, are exceedingly fair and good looking. Their sad history is, alas! one too common among persons of their class, held in the cruel bonds of slavery. Their personal attractions proved to them a curse. In their own words, they fled from the double bondage of soul and body; two of them succeeded in bringing their children with them. Young, fair, blue eyed, interesting little ones, who regularly attend the Day and Sunday school, with three of their aunts.

Four S——'s, three sisters and a brother. The case of the father of these poor children exhibits, in language beyond expression, the awful results and cruel curse of slavery. A pious, inoffensive, and industrious man, he declared he would rather have worked to purchase his freedom, if permitted; but, goaded to madness from the cruelty of the treatment to which he was subjected, he succeeded under God's mercy, with his family, in making his escape to Canada. It is not too much to say that every muscle of his legs, arms, and back, are contracted from the cruel tortures to which this poor man has been subjected under the application of the lash; large pieces have been literally cut from the body, and there are periods when the whole frame becomes fearfully convulsed. Mr. Ballantine was the first to find them out. Upon his entering the house, the mother exclaimed, "You are the first white man that has ever crossed my threshold except for evil or cruel purposes,—God bless and prosper you for your Christian love."

S—— A——. This child's father presents a case of as stern integrity as is to be found in the history of our race: his wife and child having effected their escape to Canada, from Louisville, he attempted on two occasions to follow them; each time he was captured, cruelly beaten and resold. The last time he fell into the hands of a merciful owner, who gave him permission to labour with the option of purchasing his freedom. So faithfully did he serve this last master that, at his urgent request and with no security but his own word, he granted him permission to visit his wife and children in Canada. He has been twice in London (Canada), and, although liberty is sweet, he resisted all the entreaties of his wife and friends to remain, saying, he could not break his promise to his master, that he would rather die in slavery than do so, that he would never leave him until he had worked out the sum agreed upon for his freedom. It has pleased the Lord to prosper his honest efforts, he has been enabled to pay the last instalment, and with the possession of a conscious integrity he has returned last week to live in the enjoyment of a happy freedom with his wife and child.

EXPRESSION OF A POOR FUGITIVE ON GAINING FREEDOM.— I cannot refrain from mentioning an expression made use of lately by a poor fugitive who had succeeded in reaching Canada after great sufferings. "Sir," said he, stamping his foot, "when I put my foot on the free British soil, the oil of gladness entered my heel, and flowed all over my soul and body."

These few interesting cases exhibit in their general features the histories of the greater portion of the fugitives and their children in London, or that are attending our schools. When we arrived here last November, there were but eight hundred colored persons in London, they now number more than two thousand, and are daily on the increase. Between three and four hundred of this number are now under our immediate instruction, either in the day, night, or Sunday schools, or Cottage Lectures delivered by Mr. Hurst or myself. I feel often melted to tears at the conversation that generally takes place after the cottage lectures. The poor fugitive will tell of his cruel sufferings, his hairbreadth escapes in reaching Canada. While they give glory to God for His goodness towards themselves, the sufferings of those they have left behind seem to be more embittered from God's mercy towards them. Then our white brethren, especially the English portion of them, love to speak of the ministry they sat under in England, how they now appreciate those blessings which in the old country they lightly esteemed. What a glorious testimony to the evangelical preaching of God's word. The seed sown has not been in vain, but is now bringing forth fruit to the praise and glory of God. I have a precious instance of this in W. W.— and his wife, who were members of good Mr. Hambleton's congregation. It may be pleasing to him to know that his ministry has been blessed to their souls, but they have proved a blessing to me also, in the aid which they afford in the Sunday school, and in their labours from house to house among their countrymen.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS.—Colonel Tulloch, Military Superintendent in Upper Canada, has just arrived in London. I waited upon him, and asked for the use of the late Artillery Barracks, now abandoned. In the kindest manner he granted my request, with many earnest wishes for our success. Here, it is true, we had ample buildings at our command, capable of containing 450 children, with extensive play-grounds; but then from what source were the funds to come for fitting it up for school purposes—as I felt I could not again draw upon the Society? You may easily imagine my difficulty, but you may judge also of my delight, when going down to town the next morning I met Mr. A——, one of the Local Committee—and to whom we are deeply indebted—who said: “I have collected 127*l.* for you this morning, and will make it 200*l.* if required, in order to enable you to fit up the Barracks. I have had no difficulty. The efforts of the Society are deeply appreciated in London, and we are determined to support you. All classes—even a Jew has subscribed, and one Roman Catholic, whose children attend your school, gave me ten dollars, saying, ‘the establishment of your schools was the best day London ever saw!’”

At a meeting of the Local Committee on the 28th of May, I stated my case, when the greatest sympathy was expressed, a guarantee for 200*l.* placed in my hands, and a promise from three of the Committee, at any time to put down 100*l.* each, towards building a school-house; others also promised largely their support, especially the good and excellent Mr. Montserrat, the Colonial Secretary—a devoted servant of Christ, and a true friend to your Society. In all this I recognize the hand of God. I at once accepted Colonel Tulloch’s kind offer, and the Artillery Barracks are now fitted up for the reception of 450 children.

DEATH OF A YOUNG FEMALE.—The case of the young colored girl, W——, is a truly interesting one, and is another glorious instance of the good which, by God’s grace, I have seen lately effected by Mr. Ryle’s excellent Tracts. The circumstances are these:—The young girl in question was one of our Sunday-school girls. Her teacher, a most devoted Christian, informed me of her dangerous illness, and begged that I would see her. I visited her house frequently, and gave her books to read. Her teacher never passed a week without reading and praying with her. Still we could see no evidence of a saving interest in a crucified Redeemer, nor could she be brought to think of death. I requested Mr. Hurst to visit her. In my last visit, a few days before her death, I placed Ryle’s tract, “Are you forgiven?” in her hand, and requested her to read it without delay. It was made the instrument, under God, of bringing the poor sinner to the foot of the cross. Her aunt entered her room, and, for the first time, found her upon her knees. The light of the knowledge of the glory of God, as seen in Jesus, had found an entrance into her soul. Hence her peaceful end as described by Mr. Hurst.

TRACTS AND BIBLES.—This was my last of Ryle’s tracts. May the Lord open the hearts of some to send a fresh supply. I have given “Home Truths” all away. It is not here alone my supply has been exhausted. Bibles, Prayer-books, all are gone. I have purchased so far as I could afford. Souls are perishing! Every day I am asked for Bibles, from the urgent need of the poor fugitives.

Pray, lay our case before the Bible and Christian Knowledge Societies, for from no quarter can the appeal be more urgent and pressing.

Notwithstanding the eighty-six Bibles of which you speak, as being on the way here, our cry must still be, "Bibles! Bibles!" I have had to supply Bibles and Prayer-books to persons living thirty and a hundred miles from this place, who have literally craved them for their perishing brethren. Then all the fugitives, with few exceptions, require them, while we want twenty dozen for the use of the schools alone.

CLOTHING.—The clothing supplied by our dear Christian friends at Highbury is quite expended. Our chief want will be worsted stockings and socks, flannel and some clothing of the better description. I would be a universal beggar. Furs, shawls, blankets, in fact, anything, given for God's sake and through mercy, for these poor friendless ones.

CONCLUDING REMARKS.—My Sunday service and Wednesday evening lectures continue to be well attended, thanks be to God, to whom be all the praise; nor have I been left, through God's mercy, without strong evidence that my humble and unworthy ministrations have been blessed to many souls. I need your prayers, I need the prayers of all, that, for Jesus' sake, my feeble efforts may be sustained, to the honour and praise of His holy name.

Of Mr. Ballantine, Mr. Hurst, Miss Williams, and the two Titres, I cannot speak in too strong terms. I can truly say they seem zealous only for the glory of God and the salvation of the souls committed to their care. Mr. Hurst's labors I have known to be blessed to many souls. The extension of our labors every day, and the great increase of our schools, render it impossible for me to spare this valuable agent at this moment.

It is difficult to close without calling attention to the fact that we have a claim not only upon the English public at large, but especially upon the friends of the African race, no matter of what denomination. In fact, our Mission affords the only true test to the sincerity of their professions,—as to whether their feelings are to evaporate in mere sentimentality, or whether they will aid in supporting a Mission which, even by the confession of the colored people themselves, is the best and most powerful instrumentality, under God, yet devised for the benefit of their race, upon the continent of America.

M. M. DILLON.

REPORT OF MR. R. M. BALLANTINE, ON THE SCHOOLS.

| | | | Total 261 | | | | | | |

In addition to the above branches taught in classes, the whole school receives instruction in grammar, geography, mental arithmetic, natural history, natural philosophy, music, &c., &c.; and, since the arrival of Miss Williams, the older girls are taught plain needle-work.

It is gratifying to the agents of the Society, to be able to report that during the quarter the Schools have progressed in a most satisfactory manner. The arrival of a female teacher enabled us to admit a number of girls, whose names we had on our list as applicants for admission, and the above statistical table will show that the females are the majority at present.

The present Report shows an increase on the last of twenty-seven, of which number, ten boys and eight girls are the children of fugitives from the States. Nothing, however, but the prospect of a speedy removal to larger premises, could have induced us to increase the number on last Report, as the school is far too overcrowded, but two weeks more will, we expect, find us in new quarters, where we shall be able to accommodate upwards of two hundred more,—say 450.

Your agents feel truly grateful to be able to report that the progress of the children in mental acquirements has been highly satisfactory; but what more than all gives cause for thankfulness is the improvement in conduct and behaviour of the children, induced by the course of moral and religious training established in the schools; frequently are we encouraged by the warm-hearted expressions of the gratitude of parents for the amended behaviour and obedience of their children. Indeed we hesitate not to say that the conduct of our children, both in and out of school, contrasts favourably with those of other public schools, a fact so palpable that applications have been made by several of the most respectable people of the city for admission for their children.

But your agents have other causes for thankfulness besides those already adverted to, viz., the breaking down of the prejudices that existed in the minds of the colored classes against the school. Several of our most bitter opponents have voluntarily acknowledged themselves to have been deceived, and the consequence of this change of feeling is that while we have during the quarter admitted eighteen colored children, we have applications for twenty-one more, so soon as we remove to our new quarters.

Two weeks ago, the school was visited by a gentleman from the States travelling on behalf of the Anti-Slavery Society, collecting information respecting the state and condition of the fugitives in Canada. He visited all the public schools in the city, and finding only nineteen colored children in the whole, was astonished to find that we had seventy-five on our lists, and an actual attendance of sixty-four. Next day he returned at the play hour, and was much pleased to see the freedom with which the white and colored children played together.

But the labours of your agents among this race, are not confined to the children of the Day School. In our Sunday School, which has increased from sixty to three hundred since we took it over in January last, we have fourteen colored scholars, chiefly adults, who attend no other school, and your Catechist has a Sunday-school attended by colored people alone—adults—numbering about sixty, so that your agents are giving a scriptural education to, in round numbers, one hundred and thirty of a race who, without the interference of your Society, would be left totally destitute. If to this number be added those who attend the cottage lectures of your agents, it will be seen that we have a mighty engine at work which, if properly directed and liberally supported, must be productive of incalculable blessings, not only to the fugitives, but to their fellow bondsmen. Our success here, will in time open to us doors in other places, and fresh inducements will be held out to the toil-worn slave to seek the real blessings of freedom.

This city is likely to become the head-quarters of the fugitives, who are crowding in so rapidly that it is supposed their number has increased lately by 50 per cent.

The system of instruction pursued in your Schools is raising up friends to that, and to your Society in this place, and it is not too much to expect that the godless system adopted in the public schools of the country will in time be abandoned for a more enlightened religious one.

Your agents cannot conclude this Report without expressing thankfulness that although having many difficulties to contend with, they have also much encouragement both from the success that has attended their Mission, and the sympathy and support of many kind friends; and humbly would they pray that Divine grace may enable them faithfully and zealously to perform their important duties, that Christ may be glorified in them and by them.

R. M. EALANTINE.

REPORTS OF MR. HURST, LAY MISSIONARY.

London, Canada West, April 7, 1855.

My labors continue the same as when I sent the last Report. I attend school every morning for a short time, to teach singing, and two afternoons in the week to teach music. The rest of my time is spent in visiting from house to house, in the Sunday-school, and with evening Meetings.

The Sunday-school in the Colored Chapel has increased considerably. Forty-five persons have been admitted, all adults, except ten. I give an explanation of the lesson or an address to them every Sunday, that even those who cannot read may have the same instruction as the rest. It is pleasing to see the intelligence with which a number of middle-aged and young persons answer questions together. This school has been a valuable key to me, in becoming acquainted with the negro character, and introducing myself amongst them.

Of all the obstacles in our way, prejudice of different kinds is about the greatest: persons unacquainted with the circumstances cannot form a correct idea of the difficulty of breaking it down. Most white men refuse to lease a house to a colored man; and I heard an instance last week of a white man declaring he would leave his house, because a man with a black skin happened to be coming next door. One morning I went to seek a colored family, and a house was pointed out to me as the one in which they lived. I knocked at the door, and a respectable white woman answered it. "Is there a colored family living in this house?" "No, Sir; sure the master o' this house would not let a colored man come through the gate!" They are generally served the same way in hotels, when travelling; and the landlord says: "If I admit colored people, whites will not come." The cause of this is sometimes color, sometimes condition, and some are merely guided by the example of others. One day this week a woman said to me, "I am very glad you come to see me; I like to hear you read and speak. I formerly attended your church." "Why did you not continue to go?" "I'll tell you plainly. I tried to go decent, and to behave myself as well as other people; but I was snarled at, so I said it is because of my dark skin,—and I joined the Episcopal Methodists."

The effects of slavery on the mind are very depressing. A man who has been a slave during the best part of his life cannot remove all features of it from himself. The word "slave-hunter" would frighten some even in a land of freedom. A woman the other day told me how she would like to be revenged on the slaveholders who now have her relations in bondage. I reminded her of Heb. x. 30: "Vengeance belongeth unto me, I will recompense, saith the Lord." But the worst effect is extreme selfishness. They have seen it in their masters, for it is the essence of slavery, and cannot understand how we can labor amongst them without a similar motive.

The state of religion amongst these people is by no means healthy: much of it is nothing more than excitement. A man is said to have "got religion," in the same careless way as if it were a child with a new toy, and to be laid aside as easily when it no longer suits his purpose, or when he cools down a little. Very few attend the same places of worship with the whites; and, perhaps, not more than three-sevenths go anywhere. People in England think the fugitives will rush around the missionary, but it is a delusion. The strongholds of Satan are as impregnable here as in a heathen land; they must be fetched out of the highways and hedges.

Both fugitives and people from the Free States are coming here weekly, now the winter is breaking up. I have known thirty arrivals the last three weeks, and many may have come that I have not seen. I seek to find all new comers, and take them by the hand immediately; for while strangers, their attention is most easily called to their spiritual interests. A colored man lately told me he knew a thousand families would find their way into Canada this year. But to see them come to be refused a house by their white brethren, and turned away from respectable lodgings, is very painful, and only shows how far man is gone from the image of love in which he was first created.

April 21, 1855.—I am in much better health now than when in Newfoundland. My walking exercise has, doubtless, produced it, under God's providence. Seven or eight miles a-day, along unmade streets, make me tired enough at night, but every week seems to lighten the labor.

I anticipated unkind treatment, and no welcome to people's houses, but find no such thing. The Lord opens my way constantly, and people throng around me, saying, "When will you call at my house?" Some who cannot read listen earnestly, while I read a tract for them. Monday last I was going to see a dying man, and passing by a cottage door, heard some one within speaking in an angry tone. I went in; there were a colored man, his wife, and a boy; all was quiet immediately. I asked, "Can any of you read?" "No, Sir." Sitting down, I showed the boy a tract, and asked him if he would like me to read it, and to let him hear what it said. I read page after page. The parents listened eagerly until I turned to the husband, and said, "What do you think of these things?" He said, he knew he had not been born again, and that he was not fit to die. They entreated me to call as often as possible.

May 5, 1855.—A gentleman who arrived here from the States this morning told me that 400 colored persons have come into Canada the last fortnight, and not less than forty have come around London, since my last Report was written. It is grievous, however, to discover the cold, dead state of their minds, and their utter indifference to instruction. When distressed with the sight of these things, I often take down the "Life of Henry Martyn," or that of "David Brainerd," and am sure to gain wisdom and courage by so doing. Yesterday I went out visiting; rather cast down, with a feeling of insufficiency for the work before me, but intending to find a newly arrived family about two miles from town, when the Lord was pleased to show me, in an unexpected manner, that He had some work for me to do. Seeing two log huts a little distance from the road, I turned aside to them, left a tract at the first, and proceeded to the second with another. When the mistress of the house saw me, she burst into tears, and said, "I don't know you, but you are some one the Lord has sent to comfort me in my distress. I prayed just now that He would send me some comfort, and He has heard my prayer." I found the woman, as far as man could judge, a decided Christian, and the cause of her trouble a drunken husband. I sat and conversed with her a long time, earnestly exhorting her, that, as she knew for herself the comfort of God's Word, so she would constantly call upon God for the conversion of her husband. After prayer I left her, fully persuaded that the Lord had directed my steps to her house.

July 11, 1855.—This week I have had an opportunity of speaking to 150 colored people in one of their own chapels, and when it was proposed that the place should be thrown open to me next Monday evening to address them at greater length, the whole body responded, "Aye." I shall, therefore (D.V.), be able to effect an entrance amongst them, which may lead to happy results. On the whole, the prospects of the Mission appear to be encouraging, and so long as we can labor in simple dependence on God, the Author and Giver of every good gift, we have the comforting assurance, contained in Isaiah lv. 11, that the word of the Lord shall not return unto Him void.

I have visited from house to house in England, and seen much of the people both in agricultural and manufacturing districts; but never met with so much attention and civility as in this place. Notwithstanding my administering an occasional sharp reproof, I do not remember one instance of resentment:

I was invited, May 19, to see Mrs. S. She had a husband, and one child, was twenty-three years of age, and in a wretched condition. She was sitting up in bed, weeping bitterly. I perceived at once that consumption was carrying her to the grave. Despair seemed written on her countenance. I asked her if she ever expected to recover. She said, "No." "Have you any hope of everlasting life after death?" "No." I read some passages from the Gospels, exhorted her to apply to Jesus, through whom alone she could be happy, and after prayer, left her. I continued to visit her as often as time would permit; her mind gradually grew more calm, and hope dawned upon her soul, until at length she spoke with confidence of her safety in Christ. A few days before her death I found her suffering great pain. She spoke much of the love of Jesus to her soul, in a faint whisper, continually repeating, "He is so kind! He is so kind!" I asked if she wanted anything. She replied, "Jesus is too good to me; I cannot want anything." "Don't you need patience to wait his coming?"—"Yes, I feel impatient sometimes; I long to go." Presently the husband entered, and we knelt down together. On rising, I solemnly addressed the husband, whose big tears fell thick and fast when a few pointed questions had been put to him. The scene was enough to touch the stoutest heart; in the presence of his wife, dying with a good hope through grace, and with a consciousness of his own state, a more favorable opportunity could not have been found for working upon his feelings. I pray the Lord the Holy Spirit to fasten conviction on his heart. Mrs. S. died in peace a short time after.

Oscar Bullet, a fugitive from slavery, to whom I had explained the Word of God one Sunday afternoon, when I first came to London, was lately reported to be sick. I called at his lodgings, and found him in the last stage of consumption, and apparently not at all anxious about his soul. He trusted God would have mercy on him, but knew nothing of a Saviour, or the need of one. I read some portions of Scripture, and pointed out to him the lost condition of sinful man; looking to the Holy Spirit to teach a soul even so dark as his. He seemed to know the meaning of what was said, and cried out aloud, and with great earnestness, "Lord Jesus, have mercy on my soul." This he continued to repeat while I remained. Next day I found him much worse, uneasy in body and most anxious in his soul, but looking for mercy through Jesus. I administered such comfort to his body as the circumstances would afford, and again pointed him to the Saviour.

Visiting deathbeds is a solemn thing, and on no other occasion do I feel so much need of Divine instruction, that on the one hand, I may not "make God's people sad whom He hath not made sad," and on the other, that I may not "sew pillows to all armholes," and so delude souls into a false peace.

The colored Sunday-school continues in active operation, and is becoming still more interesting. About sixty persons have received religious instruction therein, and some who came at first unable to tell all their letters, can now read in the Bible. Nothing could be more interesting than to see men and their wives, fathers and children, little children and grey-headed old men, all striving together to read their Bibles.

JOHN HURST.

REPORT OF MISS WILLIAMS.

London, Canada West, July 12, 1855.

I rejoice in having been appointed to a place where such a wide field of usefulness is open. Feeling my great responsibility I am often ready to exclaim, who is sufficient for these things? A knowledge of the fact, that so many immortal beings are to be placed under my control, whose characters will be in a great measure assimilated to my own, makes me strive more earnestly to be conformed to the image and likeness of Christ. I have still a very interesting class connected with our own church, and also in the colored school, all of whom are adult females, some much older than myself. They are much attached to me, which materially assists me in teaching, but my object is not to draw them to myself, but to the Saviour.

September 1.—I commenced the school July 30, with 105 girls, have since increased the number to 130, and am now obliged to refuse taking more. The average attendance the last fortnight has been 110. The colored seem on very good terms with the white. My school is in good working order. Mr. Dillon gives three Scripture lessons, and Mr. Hurst three secular, to my senior division, in the week, so that I think we are now in a position to compete with the established schools, although they employ a much larger number of teachers. The people generally seem to prefer our school. We have a considerable number of Roman Catholics, and it is with singular emotion that I put the Bible into their hands; surely they will not read its sacred pages, and listen to its Divine truth in vain. I think this must be one of the most interesting missions which your Society has,—doubly interesting from the variety which it affords. I think few schools exhibit a greater variety of race and character, upon all of whom the influence of our clean apartments is seen, and they afford a pleasing contrast to the children of the other schools. God grant that the religious influence brought to bear upon them may make a still greater contrast. One poor child who was with us a week ago, is now laid at death's door. I have seen her once, but she was unable to talk. I have since heard that she has typhus fever, and is insensible. This circumstance has led me to search my own heart to see whether her blood shall be required at my hand; truly the teacher's office is not one of small importance, and I daily feel the need of Divine assistance.
