THE CITY OF BIRMINGHAM SINKS IN BOSTON HARBOR

Big Steamer Now Lies in Ten Fathoms of Water. Bound for Savannah, She Struck Ledge in Harbor and Backed Off Into Deep Water--Crew Escaped and Rowed Back to Dock.

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—The steamer City of Birmingham of the Ocean Steamship Co. struck a ledge in the harbor early today while bound out to Savannah, and sank in ten fathoms of water about two miles below her dock. The crew escaped. The steamer, having made a special trip north with a cargo of cotton, started about 1:30 a. m. for the south. At a slight wind, where the channel enters what is known as the Middle Ground, the Birmingham hit an obstruction. She backed off into deep water, but before the full character of her damage was known, her room was flooded and fifteen minutes after striking, she sank.

WELLS-THOMAS ASSAULT CASE

Thomas Fined $20 in the Police Court This Morning--Other Cases Heard.

The Wells-Thomas assault case, in which Mrs. Wells of 135 Sheriff street, charged Arthur Ernest Thomas with assaulting her in her home on Saturday morning last, was finally disposed of this morning when Judge Ritchie decided against the defendant, fining him $20 or two months in jail. Both plaintiff and defendant were called to the stand and Mrs. Wells wanted to withdraw the charge, but his honor informed her that this would be impossible. Thomas denied the charge, saying that he went to the plaintiff's home to get a pair of boots and found Mrs. Wells in a very bad mood. He spoke to her she threw up her arms and struck him in the face, her ring causing a slight cut. She asked him at the time how he dared strike her, but he tried to convince her that he had not. He had been home only a short time when Patrolman Finley appeared with a warrant for his arrest.

DOCTORS PRONOUNCE COLLINS SANE THOUGH A MORAL DEGENERATE

Drs. Murray, Lewis, Randall and Marvin Say Mary Ann Macaulay's Murderer Is Thoroughly Responsible For His Actions.

The mental condition of Thomas F. Collins, who is sentenced to death for the murder of Mary Ann Macaulay has been the subject of considerable discussion since the Evening Times on Saturday published the exclusive story that Collins had been examined by physicians as to his sanity. Sheriff Lynds, in a conversation with a representative of a morning paper, denies some of the statements made in the Times article, notably the suggestion from Dr. Murray that Dr. Anglin should be engaged as an expert alienist to examine Collins. Sheriff Lynds says this suggestion was not made in his hearing.

A Times correspondent has interviewed Dr. Murray of Albert, and Dr. Marvin, Randall and John T. Lewis, of Hillsboro, the physicians who made the examination, and obtained from them statements of what just did happen, and of their opinion as to the prisoner's case. Dr. Murray said that on October 30 he received a letter from Sheriff Lynds asking him to go to Hopewell Cape and make an examination of Collins. This Dr. Murray did, going to see the prisoner on Oct. 31. He had a long talk with Collins, who told him the story of his life. Dr. Murray says Collins showed a remarkable memory and seemed to be in good health and spirits. He spoke but little of his impending doom, and seemed to avoid the subject. Collins impressed Dr. Murray as a person who regarded crime very lightly, and did not realize the consequences. He told the doctor that until he had been instructed by Rev. Mr. Worden, Baptist clergyman, he did not know it was wrong to frequent houses of ill fame or to tell falsehoods.

After interviewing Collins Dr. Murray saw Sheriff Lynds, and to the sheriff made the following statements: 1. "Collins does not appear to have a proper conception of the enormity of his crime." 2. "I would style him a moral degenerate." Sheriff Lynds then said: "Then, Doctor, from what you have spoken you must conclude Collins is not responsible for his actions." Dr. Murray replied: "I will not say Collins is not responsible." Sheriff Lynds asked the doctor if he would recommend a commutation of the death sentence, and the doctor replied: "No I will not." He said, however, that he was not an expert alienist and recommended that Dr. Anglin, of St. John, be called. Sheriff Lynds replied: "Doctor, I am paying for this examination myself." Dr. Murray said also that he found Collins was a victim of certain habits which would affect his mentality. Such people, when angry, are dangerous, but not irresponsible.

BANK OF ENGLAND TAKES STEPS TO PROTECT ITSELF AGAINST GOLD DEMANDS

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The persistent demands from America for gold, in spite of the recently increased rate of the Bank of England, caused the Bank of England this morning to raise its rate from 4 1/2 to 6 per cent. Although an increase to 6 per cent had a hard time to get through the market, the announcement of the rate today occasioned somewhat of a flurry locally. It is considered, however, in financial circles as the natural outcome of the unfavorable New York bank statement. When the Bank of England's rate was raised to 4 1/2 per cent on October 31, it was thought that the position in the United States was clearing satisfactorily, but the continued enagements of gold at a rate of 2 to 3 per cent on the exchange rates, caused a recrudescence of nervousness in the discount market, and rates were put up to 5 1/2 per cent in endeavor to assist the bank to protect its reserve, but the futility of the efforts is shown by the fact that since Thursday the United States has drawn from the bank substantial sums aggregating $5,000,000.

Financial circles here now incline to the belief that the six per cent rate will suffice, and that no further advance will be necessary, particularly if the Bank of France renders its promised aid. All depends however on the absence of demands of alarming proportions from America. The rise in the Bank of England's rate of discount, coupled with the unsatisfactory position in New York, as revealed by the New York bank statement, caused a depression all round on the stock exchange today. Consols decreased 3/8 and American stocks were down between 1 and 2 points. The market settled almost immediately and became quiet.

Hamburg Bankers Suspend Payments Today. The market in short, regards the advance of the bank rate as being a purely protective measure against American gold demands from the New York City six per cent bonds from being placed here. NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Opening prices of stocks here from the Canadian market fell an extreme 3-1/4. Union Pacific 3 1/2, on a range of simultaneous quotations 1 1/2 points apart and the Hill stocks, Southern Pacific, Reading, Amcons, and American Smelting 2 to 2 1/2. Most of the prominent railroad and industrial stocks were down between 1 and 2 points. The market settled almost immediately and became quiet.

PROBATE COURT Judgment Given This Morning in the Estate of the Late Francis G. Jordan.

In the probate court this morning Judge Trueman gave his decision in the estate of the late Francis G. Jordan. His honor allowed that the sewer built on the property was to be treated as a permanent repair and be charged to the sum of $4,000 deposited in the Savings Bank to be given to Mary Shea, a servant, would bear its own expense, as no provision had been made relative to securing the interest intact. The sum of $12,000, also in the Savings Bank, was to be given to James Jordan, son of the deceased, it having been deposited in two separate lots, viz., $7,000 and $5,000. Under the provisions of the will, at the expiration of ten years the real estate was to be sold and distributed made as follows: $250 to the Protestant Orphan Asylum, and the balance to be divided among the nieces and nephews of the deceased in their equal proportions. As the estate of the late Mr. Jordan is a vested estate, the portion belonging to each of the heirs is to become the property of their heirs at their death. It was also allowed that after the lands belonging to the estate were sold, James Jordan was to receive two shares, and James Jordan eight heirs, he comes in for two tenths. His honor treated the document as a will, and in the bequest of $500 to James Jordan, who had been away for ten years, allowed him the interest, dating one year after his father's death. The $4,000 in the Savings Bank was to bear its own cost, and a commission of five per cent was to be allowed on the $4,000 deposited in the Savings Bank for Mary Shea, and charged to the residuary of the estate if there was not sufficient money in the fund to bear its own expenses.

CASH BALANCE IS APPARENTLY $11,000 SHORT

A Committee Appointed to Deal With the Muddle at City Hall--Ald. Bullock Is Acting Chamberlain.

The alleged irregularities in the chamberlain's accounts, to which reference is made on another page of this issue, was the principal topic of conversation on the streets today. That the affair is considered of grave importance is indicated by the fact that a special committee was appointed to investigate the matter. The committee, consisting of Chairman Bullock, Ald. Frink, and Recorder Skinner. Ald. Bullock, speaking after this morning's meeting, said that he had decided to have a special audit of the chamberlain's books taken in view of some remarks included in the auditor's statement indicating that the amount of cash kept on hand was larger than was necessary, and some items being not as satisfactory as they should be. An auditor was therefore put on the accounts Friday morning and his report was considered at the meeting of the treasury board that afternoon. The books showed that there should be a balance in cash on hand of about $12,000, instead of which there was only something over $1,000. The $11,000 shortage was accounted for by items of about $5,000 and $2,000, which were charged to the recorder to be used by him in settling the Sneath-Quinlan and Gordon awards on the west side, something over $3,000 which was charged up to the chamberlain himself and between $500 and $800, which were inasmuch as they were paid without authorization, are not, however, a serious factor in the case. The amounts paid over to the recorder were paid back to the chamberlain's office, as the recorder can show by receipts, but they appear to have been lost. The $2,000 which the chamberlain charged to himself, he says he used for private purposes, treating it as an advance on his salary. The matter will be thoroughly investigated by the committee and the city's interests properly safeguarded. What action the guarantee company will take is not known but they have been communicated with. In the meantime Ald. Bullock is acting as city chamberlain, with David Willett as chief clerk as in the past. R. A. MacIntyre, the auditor, who has been summoned from Halifax, is expected here tomorrow morning and will start at once upon his work. It is the general hope that the present distressing state of affairs will be satisfactorily explained after an investigation has been made.

"MOST PREACHERS ARE FAT HEADS"

FORT WILLIAM, Nov. 4.—(Special)—The Doukhoron pilgrims are the centre of interest in the city. The older members held a meeting on Main street at noon and one of their number addressed the large crowd of citizens in English for over two hours. The speaker's views were largely of the socialistic variety, although he made several striking statements, among them being the following: "Jails should be abolished; work should not be made a hobby; animals should not be killed nor used as beasts of burden; all forms of government should be done away with and the most of the preachers are fat heads." The pilgrims will remain here for the winter and will start out for Montreal in the spring.

By GORDON HOLMES

"Well, I'm—" began the porter, in a staccato whisper, this unwholesome entry being a sacrifice to him.

But David said in his ear: "Let him alone; we have him bottled."

Nevertheless, seeing that Violet had undoubtedly stated her intent for it seemed like that) to visit the flat that night, he began to consider what he should do if she put in an appearance. What would happen if she unexpectedly encountered Van Hupfeldt within? That must be provided for. The unforeseen difficulty was an instance of the poverty of the man's judgment where the future was concerned. In keeping his implied promise to Violet, he would expose her to grave peril; for, in David's view, Van Hupfeldt had done her sister to death in that same place, and there was no knowing what the crime a man in desperate straits would commit. David was sure now that, actuated by widely different motives, both Van Hupfeldt and Violet were bent on searching for the photograph and letter reposing securely in his pocket. He smiled grimly as he thought of that which Van Hupfeldt would find, but, obviously, he ought to warn Violet beforehand. Or would it suffice if he followed quickly after her, thus giving her the opportunity of seeing Van Hupfeldt into the right mood to confess everything?

There was a slight risk in that; but it seemed to offer the best solution of a difficulty, and it would avoid the semblance of collusion between them, which Van Hupfeldt was adroit enough to take advantage of. So, when Violet ran lightly up the stairs, though his heart beat with joy at the sight of her, he restrained himself until she had opened the door. She applied her key without hesitation.

"She trusts in me fully, then!" thought David, with a pain of regret that he was compelled now to disobey her. He gripped the porter's arm as she stepped noiselessly out on the landing above, and thus lost sight of Violet. The man followed, and David, leaving over the stairwell, saw the door of his flat close. He had never before realized how quietly that door might be closed if due care was taken. Even his keen ears heard no sound whatever.

And then he heard that which sent the blood in a furious race to his brain again. For there came from within cry as from some beast in pain, and, quickly following, the shriek of a woman in mortal fear.

David waited for no key-turning. He dashed in the lock with his foot and entered. The first thing greeted his senses was the odor of violets which came to him, fresh and pungent, with an early reminiscence of the night he thought he saw the spectral embodiment of Gwendolene.

CHAPTER XXII

Violet's first act on entering the hall, had been to turn on the light. She did this without giving a thought to the possibility of disturbing some prior occupant. The day's events demonstrated how completely David was worthy of faith; she was assured that he would obey the behest in her letter. How much better would it have been had she trusted intuition in the first instance.

But it chanced that David had written a little note to her, on an open sheet of paper, which he pinned to the table-cloth in the dining-room in such a position that she could not fail to see it when there was a light. And this note, headed "To Violet," contained the fatal message:

"I have found the photograph of Strauss, or Van Hupfeldt, and with it the letter in which he announced to your sister that he was already married to another woman."

DAVID.

Van Hupfeldt, of course, had seen this throbbing document, and, according to what proved not only that he and his secret were in David's power, but that David had expected Violet to visit his dwelling. He was sitting at the table in a stupor of rage and terror, when he fancied he heard a rustling in the outer passage. Beside himself with anger at the threatened downfall of his cardboard castle, strung to a state of high nervous

AFTERNOON COSTUMES ARE OF THIS TYPE.

The overcoat type of dress, that is, skirt and skeleton waist of one color, with a guimpe of some light, gauzy fabric still holds its own among the new models of the day. Numerous costumes of this type are scheduled to appear at the Horse Show this Fall, and what is seen at the Horse Show is absolutely the best style that can be had. This model is made of a chiffon English mohair in the soft new shade known as eggplant. The skirt is a circular mode, long and very full at the bottom where it is finished with a deep width extends from the top of the semi-princess skirt toward the back of the skirt. Several inches below the hip line is another band which takes somewhat the outlines of a cutaway coat. Over a tight fitting bodice which silk lining is a guimpe of cream colored mouseline, simply trimmed with bands of gold lace, and over this is slipped the skeleton waist of taffeta, centered on the top of the arm with a pleated rosette like that which trims the front of the girle. A touch of contrasting color is introduced in the bodice with pale blue satin ribbon, coming from beneath the silk skeleton and tied in a bow just under the bust.

A COUGH COLD IS DANGEROUS.

There are different kinds of coughs, and various ways in which they affect different people. Some constitutions will throw off a light cold, while to others it will stick tenaciously. These are one kind—the kind accompanied by a cough, the kind that leads to bronchitis, the kind that ends in consumption—that should never be neglected.

Many a life history would read differently, if on the first appearance of a cough, it had been remedied with

IS JAMES McLEOD ALIVE OR DEAD?

One Story That the St. John Man Was Seen Alive After He Was Reported Dead.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 3.—After James S. McLeod, mate of the schooner Abbie & Eva Hooper, was supposed to be dead, he was seen drinking a glass of beer in the saloon of John F. Dunlap, at 984 Beach street, in this city.

This is the latest and strangest development that has attended the inquiry now being made to determine whether or not it was McLeod who was drowned here in August, as found by the coroner's jury.

When relatives began to suspect that something was wrong and that McLeod might have been murdered, the body was exhumed from the cemetery at St. Martin's (N. B.), and a second effort was made to recognize the corpse as that of the missing McLeod.

Now comes this latest phase of the matter, which seems to make it reasonably clear that McLeod certainly did not die at the time the skipper of the schooner, Captain George Mallett, said that he had rolled overboard and was drowned.

It was the night of Thursday, Aug. 1, according to Captain Mallett's testimony, that he saw McLeod asleep on the top of the cabin, this being the last time the captain saw him alive.

J. F. Dougray, an undertaker, said: "At the time the article about the drowning of McLeod first appeared in the papers, I noticed that some mistake was made in the date of the death. I had myself seen the man alive in Dunlap's saloon the morning after the night he was supposed to have been drowned."

"It seemed so strange to me that I went to Murphy, the bartender in Dunlap's, at

From grass blades tiny trumpeters are shrilling forth their glee, And overhead the sky is blue, and corn shocks all around Would seem to be grim sentinels, as far as eye can see, To guard the golden pumpkins that are scattered o'er the ground.

And flanking in the outer fields are forests of hay; Swift couriers of honking geese are spreading overland; In dress parade the birches would outvie the maple gay, And show the world that yellow is the ranking hue of red.

Across the fields are signalings 'tween wary, piping quail, The bobolinks are flocking and deploying to the south, And vigilant as skirmishers on tree a zigzag rail The crows, suspicious, scrutinize for den weapon's mouth.

HORRIBLE DEATH OF MONTREAL BOY

Montreal, Nov. 3.—By taking a freight elevator to save himself the trouble of walking up one flight of stairs with a message, George Peugellan, a thirteen year old messenger boy at Dupas Erere's store here met instant death on Saturday afternoon. The lad started off with a message, and pulled the cable to bring the hoist up slowly, and as it passed he jumped on. As it neared the next floor he pulled the cable to slow it, but got the wrong one and started it at full speed. In his excitement he leaned over, and his head was caught between the elevator and the floor, being nearly squeezed off. His body rolled over and dropped fifty feet to the bottom of the shaft.

RESPONSIBILITY

Clean politics is not a condition to be created instantly, at the flourish of a leader's wand. There is too much humbug in current discussion of this question. Corruption will not be prevented by the declaration of a few public men, any more than drunkenness is prevented by the Scott Act.

But the case is not hopeless. Strong declarations by leaders are useful, if they are sincere as well as strong. The voices of the independent press, the pulpit, the university, and the thoughtful man on the street, all add to the influence tending to the formation of a strong body of public opinion, opposed to corrupt methods.

What the Canadian people need to realize to a greater extent is the far-reaching effect and great value of individual precept and example in relation to public affairs not less than private conduct. To the patriotic citizen, who takes his citizenship and its responsibilities seriously, there is nothing more depressing than the cynical attitude of so many clever men with reference to the result of an appeal to the average voter on the merits of a candidate or a policy.

The remedy for political corruption, therefore, must be applied at the root of the disease. Public sentiment must be aroused to such an extent that it will no longer be possible to handle bribery funds on Saturday and pass the plate on Sunday.

We are never weary of saying that we have a great country, of boundless resources, destined to play a great part in the world's future. How great that part may be depends not upon what some politician or other leader is somewhere saying, but what the people down in the constituencies are thinking about honesty and decency in private and public life.

The country is filling up with people of many races, differing in language, traditions, social customs and political ideals. They are ready to listen to the voice of this western civilization, and to be moulded into it. There is, therefore, upon the existing Canadian electorate a stupendous responsibility, to so fix the standards and formulate the ideals of the commonwealth that the new material absorbed from year to year will be impressed and encouraged to try to measure up to those standards and adopt those ideals.

The man who works in a factory in St. John, or the man who tills the soil in a distant settlement, may not think very much about it, or see that his influence may be of much value in relation to national affairs, but it is the aggregate of the men in the factories and on the farms and in other pursuits that makes up the body of public opinion, which formulates policies and determines the trend of national life and character.

To apply the argument to the matter of clean politics, the movement to overthrow corruption must begin with the people. Parliaments and governments are as the people choose to make them.

WILL REMEMBER IT

When next Mr. Mulholland, the defeated Liberal candidate in East Northumberland appeals to the people he will doubtless remember the comments of the press on the efforts made to bribe that constituency with public works. The Conservative and Independent papers have freed their minds with great frankness. Thus the Ottawa Journal (Independent) on the eve of the election said: "The Mulholland campaign, of course, has been plainly vicious. Such a cold, frank appeal to the venality of a constituency probably has not been heard for many years, in Ontario at least, and the question as to whether or not there are in East Northumberland enough decent voters to condemn the practice of bribery by committees must remain for a few hours a matter for curious speculation. Mr. Mulholland has shown that he is willing and eager to buy his way into parliament by the expenditure of money that is not his. For it should be unnecessary to point out that the public treasury is not the private property of the ministry at Ottawa and that Mr. Mulholland has no right to promise on behalf of the ministry that the spending of public money in Northumberland is dependent upon his return to parliament."

The clergyman who stated in a sermon in this city yesterday that men of both parties high up in the church buy votes at elections may be censured by some for having meddled with politics instead of confining himself to the task of expounding the Scriptures, but if the religious teachers of the people are to be silent on such matters there is little hope of reform. From every pulpit throughout the land should be thundered stern denunciation of the man who buys and the man who sells a vote. In Montreal yesterday Rev. Dr. Barclay, it is said, caused a sensation by his outspoken denunciation of political corruption. Let us have more sensations of the same sort. They will benefit the country.

Mr. Borden, with an insistence which must make life more cheerful for Dr. Pugsley, returns to the charges made by the latter relative to the campaign funds in the last federal elections, and declares that there should be a full investigation of the funds of both parties in that campaign. If both parties could be made to realize the enormity of the offense of bribery a movement for cleaner politics might be started with some hope of good results.

Speaking of parties in politics, the state of Massachusetts today affords a remarkable illustration of disunion. There are seven parties in the state elections, each with a candidate for the governor. They are republican, democratic, independent, anti-merger, prohibition, socialist and socialist labor. The most prominent figures in the contest are Guild (Republican), and Whitney (Democrat). Reciprocity with Canada is a plank in the platform of both the great parties.

This is election day in Bellefleur. Whether Turgeon or Bourassa will win it is apparently not safe to predict. The friends of each are said to be confident of success. If Mr. Bourassa wins, or if he makes a close fight it will be very significant. Mr. Turgeon was elected by acclamation in 1904 and in 1900, and had a majority of 434 in 1897.

One result of the present situation at city hall must be the appointment of a permanent auditor. The city accounts are of sufficient importance to warrant this course, and those aldermen who have in the past opposed such a course will doubtless now admit that such an official is needed.

It is worthy of note that while United States bank clearings have shown a decline there have been continued gains in Canada. Montreal clearings for ten months show an increase of $41,031,000 over the corresponding period last year, the clearings for the ten months amounting to $1,288,745,000.

The Socialists were thoroughly beaten in the municipal elections in England and Wales last week. The great mass of the people are prepared to enlarge somewhat the scope of public ownership, but not to go the length of accepting the ill-defined doctrine of Socialism.

WILL GO TO CHIPMAN

The mission of Chipman, Queens county, has been erected into a parish and Rev. Wm. Hannigan, curate to Rev. F. L. Carney in Fredericton, has been appointed pastor. He will take charge on Sunday next. There are attached to the new parish St. Patrick's church, Cambridge, Queens county; St. Bridget's church, Northfield, Sunbury county; St. James' church, Springfield, Kings county. There are about 150 families in the new parish. A Fredericton despatch says Father Hannigan's place in Fredericton will be taken by Rev. M. O'Brien, now at the cathedral.

AUTUMN

In yonder field the stubble gleams, the sun's flaming red— A rook belated, lily ways mid weeds and drops its head.

The orchard trees are low with spoil, the moon rises ghostly white, And louder chirps the crickets in the early autumn night.

The cattails in the marsh are dry—at night there comes a blit Of frost the leaves are taking on a red and golden tint.

The river mirrors purple flags, now wilted, and the thrush Makes sweeter music—slowly curls the smoke from burning brush.

The summer sun has browned the hills; the garden's rank with weeds; With in the stagnant pool stand dry and lifeless, broken reeds.

The night is chill; the hearth fire leaps and sheds a cherry glow— The country roads are dull where once bright blossoms used to grow. —Milwaukee Sentinel.

IN LIGHTER VEIN PROOF OF DISTINCTION.

Mrs. A.—"And that nephew of yours who—ran away, don't you know, and joined the army, how is he getting on?" Mrs. B. (proudly)—"Oh, very well, indeed. He's just been made private secretary to the lance-corporal of his regiment." —Punch.

BOTH DISAPPOINTED.

"You said the house was only five minutes' walk from the station," complained the victim; "to say the least, I'm disappointed in you." "And I'm disappointed in you," replied the agent. "I thought you were a very rapid walker." —Philadelphia Press.

COURTING DAYS.

Jack—"Was yours a long courtship, old fellow?" Will—"Gracious, no. My wife had nine little brothers and sisters!" "Really? But what difference did that make?" "What difference? Well, if you had a bride a crowd like that to keep out of the drawing-room every time you went to see your girl, you'd soon want to cut short the expense." —Tatler.

THEY AGREED.

A fat woman, bearing a number of bundles, entered a crowded tram car. The only semblance of a seat she could find was a small space on the floor. To her agreeable youth. Into this space, sufficient only for one individual of ordinary size, the fat woman squeezed herself, and much to the annoyance of the youth. After a moment or so the woman produced a cheese sandwich, which she proceeded to devour with every evidence of relish. At this the youth gave her a look of ineffable disgust, and drew the skirts of his frock coat closer to him.

"I suppose, me lad," good-naturedly said the woman, "that ye'd pryer to have a gentleman sittin' next to ye?" "I certainly would!" snapped the youngster. "So would I," calmly responded the fat person. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

Editor Times— Sir—I thought the doctors would wait a few weeks for their fee for attendance when we had the mumps. I expected to market a few loads of turnips and potatoes, then pay them. But no, they sent threatening letters.

Hannah said—"Make a long story short—sell two of the cows to me. I'll drive in to bring you home. Tie a rope around the horns of each cow and lead. I'll drive behind. We'll sell them to one of the dairies up town."

At Haymarket Square a man told us it is unwise to take cattle through the streets. We did not meet any laws on Brussels street. We turned into Union street. Everything seemed mixed here—all mixed—broken up. We got in, but couldn't get out. The cows got bewildered, and pulled me out of the wagon. Hannah fell off the seat. I held on the ropes—but one cow ran away the other pulled opposite. I felt I was coming apart, so I let go, after being hauled over several streets and over a tender of a moving street car. I went back to Hannah. She said to put the horse up, and we'd look for the cows. Our search for the cows was hopeless. One man told us it served us right for our folly—no one in their senses would think of taking cows through the streets with milk and butter in the sky. C. P. R. HEADING FOR SEATTLE

Declared to Have Purchased Franchises of Railway in the Western States.

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 3.—Announcement, declared to be semi-official, is made here that the right-of-way, property and franchises of the North Coast Railway, projected from Spokane to Seattle, of which Robert R. Strahorn, of Spokane, is president, have been acquired by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, executive officers of which recently visited this part of the country, and it is given out, by the press of eastern and western Washington, that the invasion by the C. P. R. of the so-called Hill territory is to be pushed with vigor, regardless of circumstances. This line when completed, it is reported, together with a road to be built along the boundary at Sunam and Puget Sound, will give the Canadian company a belt, tapping the wheat district in eastern Washington and the principal forests west of the Cascade mountains.

While Mr. Strahorn admitted the possibility of the deal, by which the C. P. R. will absorb his company, the only information obtained at the headquarters of the North Coast Railway was that the company is going ahead with preliminary work necessary to the construction of a railroad, and is in no particular hurry. Mr. Strahorn displays the confidence of sufficient backing and is proceeding systematically with the work.

Purchases of more than $500,000 worth of property in Front avenue between Howard and Wall streets, in the heart of the business district of Spokane, have been credited to local North Coast representatives, and it is deduced that having secured terminal grounds in Spokane and Seattle, the Canadian Pacific is now about ready to make formal announcement of its plans through G. M. Bosworth of Montreal, fourth vice-president of the C. P. R., said in an interview here a few days ago that the company has no plans to build a line to Portland. He added: "Under our trading arrangements with the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company (Harriman property), we are in a position to handle the through business over the Spokane International to the Pacific coast as well as is required. No efforts, however, will be spared in the development of the traffic over the Spokane International. President Corbin has already made of the line as good a piece of road as there can be found in this part of the country, which is a great showing, considering the short time it has been in operation. We are pleased with the growth of the traffic over the new line and we anticipate more."

The North Coast road was incorporated several years ago as part of a transcontinental system, and has done considerable surveying and construction work on its projected line from Spokane to Walla Walla. A construction contract for the work 10 miles out on Hangman's Creek. This information is contained in telegraphic advices from Seattle to newspapers in Spokane.

"All of the negotiations have been concluded and the final surveys are now being made preliminary to the actual construction between this city and the boundary line near Sumas."

"Property was purchased for terminal purposes in North Yakima and Seattle, and right-of-way for practically the entire line between Seattle and the boundary line between Seattle and the Cascades has been completed."

"The first block that was placed in the way of the North Coast road was the refusal of the Seattle city council to grant a franchise to the company until the transcontinental conditions were fully decided. Since that time no further effort has been made to secure a grant in this city, but the construction and survey work has been continued in the Yakima valley."

"Preliminary to the purchase of the holdings of the North Coast exposition, the Canadian Pacific employed a firm of engineers in this city to supervise the location of the line to be constructed from Seattle to Seattle. All of the preliminary surveys were completed and the route practically decided before the negotiations for the West Coast holdings were closed."

"A large tract of Lake Union waterfront property has been quietly purchased by the representatives of the Canadian Pacific, and practically all of the details of location of terminals and the route to be followed in building the connecting link of the Canadian Pacific, that will give the road access to Seattle, have been completed."

"Within the next few weeks it is expected the application of the North Coast railroad for a franchise to enter this city will be renewed and the connection with the Canadian road officially announced."

"It is the intention of the Canadian Pacific to have the line from Spokane to Seattle completed and in operation in time to participate in the direct business to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition. With considerable less mileage to build than either the Milwaukee or the Union Pacific to connect Seattle with the main line, the Canadian Pacific will make an effort to be the first of the new lines to enter this city, with its completed road."

BORDEN TALKS OF PUGSLEY'S CHARGES

He Is Anxious to Have the Whole Matter Sifted to the Bottom, and Suggests Committee of Three to Do It.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—R. L. Borden, leader of the opposition, returned here yesterday, after a political tour of the dominion, which began on August 12. Mr. Borden, although feeling a little tired from so much travel, is in excellent health. Since leaving Ottawa he spoke in eight provinces and addressed sixty meetings.

In an interview he said he was much gratified with the reception which he had received at all points, especially in the west, and with the interest manifested by the people in public questions. In Western Canada some of them traveled long distances to attend his meetings.

The Conservatives were everywhere in good spirits and carrying on organization work in a progressive way. A great deal of interest was taken in the Asiatic immigration problem. His views on that subject were expressed at Vancouver and Winnipeg, and he had nothing to add to what he had then said. The subject would, no doubt, be further discussed when parliament met.

In regard to the charges made by Dr. Pugsley respecting the Conservative campaign fund at the last general election, he suggested that a commission of three be appointed to have the same investigated, one member to be appointed by the government, one by the opposition, and the third to be selected by the other two.

The writs for the bye-elections for the dominion houses will be issued at once. An election will be made to have them over by the time parliament meets. It is just quite probable that they may be pulled off on Thursday, and the 26th inst., the day of the meeting of the house.

WOODSTOCK DEATHS

Charles Appleby Died Yesterday—Death of Mrs. C. E. Manzer.

Woodstock, Nov. 3.—The many friends of Charles Appleby, editor and proprietor of the Woodstock Dispatch, all over the maritime provinces will be sorry to hear of his death, which took place this morning at 10 o'clock, after a long illness of health for some years, but had been attending to his regular business almost up to the time of his death.

Mr. Appleby was only thirty-eight years and nine months old. The cause of death was tuberculosis. He was born here, in Woodstock, on the 15th of June, 1869. He was educated in the local grammar school, after which he studied law with his father for a time. He took his M. A. at the U. N. B., and graduated from the Albany Law School. Returning here in 1894, he started the practice of law, and in the same year he, in company with C. T. L. Ketchum, commenced the publication of an independent newspaper, the Woodstock Dispatch. Upon the death of Mr. Ketchum he became the sole editor and proprietor. He was a Liberal in politics and on the staff of the Woodstock Dispatch, F. & A. M. and Woodstock Preceptory, Royal Arch Chapter.

As a newspaper man, he was a polished writer and was admitted to be one of the best in the province. He was unmarried, and is survived by his mother and four sisters. They are Mrs. Watson, of Watkinson Settlement; Misses Kate, Ruth and Alice, at home. The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, with interment in Florenceville cemetery.

Mrs. C. E. Manzer died last night at 11.10. Deceased had been ill for the last three or four months with heart trouble. She was a woman of beautiful character, and was held in the highest respect by all who knew her. She was born in St. John Baptist Church, and was married in 1871, and was married in Houlton to C. E. Manzer, of this place. She is survived by two sons, Dr. G. B. Manzer and E. B. Manzer, of Woodstock. W. B. Belyea, ex-mayor, is a brother, and there are other relatives in St. John Baptist.

The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in the Methodist cemetery.

FREDERICTON NEWS

Fredericton, N. B., Nov. 3.—The local Orangemen celebrated the 102nd anniversary of the "gunpowder plot" today by attending divine service at George street Baptist church to the number of about seventy-five. Rev. Mr. Rideout was the preacher and delivered an able and eloquent discourse from Psalm 46:8: "Come behold the works of the Lord."

A special meeting of the McAdamite Metal Company was held here yesterday afternoon. Those present included E. G. Evans, R. L. Johnston, F. A. Jones, St. John; Colonel Chipman, St. Stephen; Jas. Robinson, Millerton; John Palmer, A. J. Gregory, Fredericton. One of the directors, when sent afterwards, said that no business of importance was transacted. The company, he said, disposed of its American rights several months ago to a syndicate, who have since established extensive works at Brooklyn. He seemed to be very hopeful in regard to the future prospects of the company.

Thursday the British schooner G. H. Perry, with a cargo of 1,000 shingles from St. John for the Berlin Mills Company, arrived at Portland (Me.). The crew report a very long and rough passage since leaving St. John Oct. 19 and being forced to make many harbors on the way by the storms.

SOCIALISTS DEFEATED

The Liberals and Conservatives Combined Against Them in English and Welsh Municipal Elections.

London, Nov. 2.—In the municipal elections held in England and Wales this week the Liberals and Conservatives entered on a strenuous campaign against what they termed the danger of socialist propaganda.

This has resulted in the overwhelming defeat of the socialists throughout the country. Under the act passed at the last session of parliament there were a number of women candidates for election to the municipal councils, but very few of them were returned.

London, Nov. 3.—The complete returns from the municipal elections held in England and Wales last week, suggest the already enormous Conservative gains and emphasize the defeat of the Socialists. The returns from 145 boroughs show the following gains:

Conservatives, 125; Liberals, 21; Socialists, 4; and Independents, 4.

A CHAIR OF EDUCATION

Arrangements Being Made for Its Formal Institution at McGill.

(Montreal Gazette.)

It is expected that an announcement will shortly be made as to the arrangements for the formal institution of the chair of education, generally referred to as the chair of education, at McGill University by Sir William Macdonald some time ago. In spite of the most careful study for a qualified professor, it was not found possible to begin regular teaching in the season which has just opened, and so the full work of the chair will not commence until the session 1908-1909.

In the meantime, however, with a view to continuing the work, the university has arranged to be represented by the lectures on pedagogy given by Dr. Robins, while principal of the Normal School, the university has availed itself of the services of Professor Locke, head of the Teacher's Training Department of Macdonald College. Mr. Locke is to give the statutory course of lectures required for the diploma, and in spite of the engrossing character of his duties in preparing for the work of Macdonald College, he has found time to take up this lecture course with enthusiasm and success, the students in training at McGill for the work of our higher schools already numbering about a score.

Secondly, a further arrangement has been made by the university authorities, with the sanction of corporation and the board of governors, by which an interesting course of lectures will be provided, such as may well serve as a general introduction to the operations of the new chair of education. Mr. E. B. Sargent, who is well-known in Canada as having organized, partly with the help of Canadian teachers, the schools in South Africa, after the war, and who is still a member of the staff of the High Commissioner in South Africa, is now in Montreal, and has kindly undertaken, in response to the invitation of the university, to give a short course of lectures, some before and some after Christmas. A consideration of the titles will show that it is still a more than a mere professional interest, and in order to give the public an opportunity of attending it is proposed that they will be delivered in the evening. They will be on the co-operation of educational agencies within the British Empire, with special reference to the Dominion of Canada. Followed by the syllabus—

Lecture I.—The recent Federal Conference on Education.

Lecture II.—The federal problem in education, compared with the imperial problem.

Lecture III.—The national and provincial problems of education.

Lecture IV.—The co-operation of government departments of education.

Lecture V.—The co-operation of universities and colleges.

Lecture VI.—Co-operation in the professional training of teachers and of inspectors of schools.

The first lecture in this course will be given in the hall of the Royal Victoria College on the evening of Friday, November 29.

THE LATE HARVEY GRAHAM

His Funeral Was the Largest Ever Seen in New Glasgow.

New Glasgow, N. S., Nov. 2.—Seldom, if ever, has such a concourse of people been seen in New Glasgow as walked to his resting place in Riverside cemetery today. The funeral service was held in the home, and was conducted by Rev. Messrs. Forbes and Rogers, of New Glasgow, assisted by Rev. Mr. McCurdy, of Halifax. Many employees of the Nova Scotia Steel Works walked in the lead of the procession, accompanied by R. E. Harris and George Stairs, of the board of directors. A carriage followed, bearing from outside towns a number of citizens and representatives of province, town and county. In the number were Premier Murray, of Halifax; A. Johnson, M. P., and Alex. Dick, of Sydney.

CROUP IS DEADLY!

It must be stopped quickly. Nothing so sure as Nervine. Give it internally, and rub it on chest and throat—croup soon vanishes. No doctor can give a more efficient prescription than Polson's Nervine, which reaches the trouble and cures quickly. The marvellous power of Nervine will surprise you; it's the best household remedy for coughs, colds, sore chest, croup, and internal pain of every kind. Large bottles have been sold by all dealers for nearly fifty years at 25c. Don't forget Nervine when you go to the drugist's.

PEOPLE OF NOTE:

His Majesty King Chulalongkorn of Siam, who has so recently been interesting Europe with the splendor of his crown jewels and the extravagance with which he has been spending the royal income, was born on September 21st, 1853, and is the eldest son of the late King Maha Mongkut, whom he succeeded upon the throne on October 1st, 1888. King Chulalongkorn is a tall and fine looking specimen of an Oriental monarch. Recently he celebrated his birthday in Germany and to wine and good things to eat at his majesty's expense. He has a number of wives of whom, however, only one has the rank of Queen.

Invalid Ladies:

This is for you. There are thousands of females who suffer untold miseries common to their sex. This is largely due to the peculiar habits of life and fashion, and the improper training of girlhood. Then, too, the physical changes that mark the three seas of womanhood (the maiden, the wife, and the mother) have much to do with her sufferings, most of which are endured in silence, unknown by even the family physician and most intimate friends.

To all such whose hollow cheeks, pale faces, sunken eyes, an feeble footstep, indicate nervousness, palpitation of the heart, weak, faint and dizzy spells, we would earnestly recommend a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Jos. Sharp, Brighton, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with palpitation of the heart, weak spells and nervous trouble, and found no relief until advised to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I got one box and that helped me so much I sent and got five more. I am now cured and pleased."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. per box or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

RIDDLES AND ANSWERS. On yonder hill there is a mill, and in the mill there is a wheel; and now it goes and now it stands still. (Tongue in a man's head.)

It goes up the hill and down the hill, yet it never moves, but stands quite still. (A road.)

It opens like a barn door, it shuts like a trap; you may guess all day, but you can't guess that. (A corset.)

What is that which every one can divide, yet no one can see where it was divided? (Water.)

SERIOUS RUNAWAY

Mrs. Tilly Gaunce of Fairville and William Richards Injured on Saturday Evening.

A sensational runaway occurred Saturday when two people were injured and several others had narrow escapes. Mrs. Tilly Gaunce, of Raynes avenue, Fairville, wife of the horse, got her head cut and a rib broken; William Richards, a colored barber, who attempted to stop the horse was knocked unconscious, and Chief of Police Clark narrowly escaped injury as he made a plucky but unsuccessful attempt to curb the frightened horse. Mr. and Mrs. Gaunce drove up to the Two Barkers' grocery on Princess street on Saturday evening about 12:30 o'clock. Mrs. Gaunce remained in the carriage her husband attended to the shopping. The horse, which was tied to a post, managed to free itself from the headstall and taking fright ran away, after shaking off the bride.

Mrs. Gaunce screamed for help and her cries were heard by Wm. Richards, who at the corner of Princess and Sydney streets, made a dash to stop the frightened animal. The shafts struck him in the temple, and he was carried into Burpee Brown's drug store, where Dr. G. A. Hetherington attended him until 1 o'clock. From Princess street, along Carmarthen and to east King street the animal rushed madly, and Chief Clark made a nery attempt to stop the speed of the onrushing horse, but was unsuccessful.

As the horse turned Sydney street Mrs. Gaunce was thrown out and her head badly cut and one of her ribs broken. She was taken into E. Clinton Brown's drug store and later to the home of her sister, Mrs. Daniel Coombs, Brunswick street. Finally the horse was caught on Dock street and handed over to Detective Kilken, who placed it in Stack's stable Charlotte street.

Mr. Gaunce came to the city yesterday and took his horse home.

HE LIKES ST. JOHN STABLES

St. John, N. B. Nov. 3. Editor of Times: Sir.—In taking a walk through St. John the other day I was more than taken aback at seeing such fine stables in your city. I visited most of them and they are as fine as we have in the states. I would like to bring to your notice one I have seen, also your fine turn-outs and horses. I went to Manchester Robertson Allison's it is one of the many stables such as we have in the states and is kept in such fine order. I also visited George McAvity's, Mr. Watson's, and Mr. Clinch's. These are very fine and finely kept horses and rigs. I may also mention Dr. White's which took my eye for a private stable. I would do dozens of our lady friends good to see how things are kept. You could eat out of the floors, so neat are they and such fine horses and carriages. All speaks well of the men whose duty it is to look after them. St. John is just as far up to the mark in horse-flesh as we are. Thanking you for your valuable space I am yours, JOHN J. SEAMORE, New York City.

THE CIVIC ACCOUNTS

Some Discrepancies Lead to Temporary Suspension of Chamberlain Sandall Pending an Investigation - - - Book Keeping Errors May Be Cause of Whole Trouble.

Some alleged discrepancies in the books of the city chamberlain, as revealed by a snap audit taken on Friday last, have caused considerable excitement about city hall and pending an audit by an independent accountant, the chamberlain has been temporarily suspended and David Willett placed in charge. The action taken should not, however, be understood to mean that there has been any wrongdoing, as Chamberlain Sandall has always borne the highest reputation for honor and integrity. It is felt, however, that in the interests of all concerned the matter should be satisfactorily investigated and in this view the chamberlain heartily concurs.

It appears that at present those who have examined the accounts find that there are about $18,000 to $12,000 not clearly accounted for. This relates to current cash. It may be, and is stoutly maintained by many, that a more thorough examination of the various accounts which in many cases are long and necessarily complicated, will show that by duplication of items or similar error in bookkeeping the larger portion of the sum in question may be accounted for. But it is reported that the books show that several persons in the employ of the city have had advances on their salaries in various sums, mostly under $100, and that the list includes both members and officials of the city government.

Mr. Sandall is under bond in two amounts, $15,000 as chamberlain of the city, and $5,000 as receiver of taxes. It was decided in order to comply with the regulations of the guarantee company that they should be notified. It is not thought, however, that the city will have to fall back on the company.

The system of audit, which has been in operation for many years, involves considerable delay before the reports of the auditors are submitted to the council. The audit on the accounts for the year 1906 has only recently been completed, and no immediate and accurate check on the financial transactions of the current year is available. The board decided in the interest of all parties that an audit up to date was most desirable. R. A. Macfarlane, of Halifax, has since been communicated with and will arrive tomorrow to undertake the examination.

TEMPERANCE ADDRESSES AT THE EVERY DAY CLUB

J. S. Tait and Prof. John A. Nichols Were the Speakers at Yesterday's Meetings.

J. S. Tait delivered an interesting address on temperance in the Every Day Club hall yesterday afternoon. He combated the statement that men should drink in moderation without injury to themselves, by citing the record of an English insurance company for sixty years, which showed a much larger death rate among men classed as moderate drinkers than among total abstainers. Mr. Tait also pointed out that in this specialisation age a man cannot afford to drink, because if he does, he loses his place in competition with lean, alert, sober men.

The address was a setting forth, in clear terms, of reasons why the drinking habit should be abandoned, and Canada become an absolutely sober community from coast to coast.

H. Cochrane also delivered a brief address, and the chairman referred to the work of the club.

Last evening Prof. Nichols gave an address on temperance in the same hall, and a large audience listened with the deepest interest to his very eloquent and forcible plea on behalf of total abstinence, and the removal of the temptation to drink from the pathway of men. With clear-cut statement and apt illustration he presented his case, and his hearers were strongly influenced by the power of his appeal.

LIQUOR LAW A FAILURE

Prof. Nichols Says Liquor is Sent From St. John Into Scott Act Counties

Prof. John A. Nichols, of Massachusetts, speaking at a temperance meeting held in the Tabernacle Baptist church yesterday afternoon, declared that the liquor license law here was a failure. He stated that liquor was being sent from St. John to Scott Act counties and no effort was being made to enforce the law. He referred to the desirability of prohibition, then combated the argument that prohibition could not be enforced in St. John and named other cities with a larger population that had voted prohibition. The afternoon meetings in the Tabernacle will be continued throughout the winter. Rev. Neil McLaughlin will be the next speaker.
