MAY GO TO THE HAGUE.

Colony's Contentions Is Admitted to be Sound on the Fisheries Dispute, and a Permanent Agreement is Now Being Sought

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The approach of the 1st of August, marking the beginning of the new herring fishing season at the coast of Newfoundland is a matter of great concern to the state department, for it finds the fisheries controversy between America and Great Britain in a most confused and unsatisfactory shape. The modus vivendi entered into last year by the terms of which, and greatly against the wishes of the Newfoundlanders, American fishermen were permitted to ply their vocation unmolested off the shores of that island, expired with the close of the fishing season. It was the objection of both the American and British governments that before the opening of the season some permanent arrangement could be reached that would remove all future friction on this score. The Newfoundlanders, however, were insistent upon their right to legislate locally for the fisheries as long as they did not in terms discriminate against Americans, claiming that in so doing they were not infringing on the treaty rights of the Americans. The British government has apparently been driven finally to concede the soundness of this contention, or at least, it has been negotiating through Ambassador Reid on that basis.

KOREA IS IN A BAD FIX;
JAPAN BUTTING IN

SEOUL, via Tokyo, July 17.—The crisis in Korean affairs and the consequent panic in court circles is gaining impetus since it has been learned that Viscount Hayashi, foreign minister of Japan, has come to Seoul to untangle the knot caused by the sending of a deputation to the Hague to protest against Japan's attitude against Korea. The latest intrigue, following a year's hostile obstruction to the work of Marquis Ito, the Japanese resident general, has weakened the Korean throne more than anything that has occurred since the murder of the Queen.

EIGHT KILLED IN

A Terrible Accident in London, Ontario

LONDON, Ont., July 17.—Eight killed and twenty seriously injured is the tale of the awful disaster, caused by the collapse yesterday of a big store and warehouse at 197 Dundas street, immediately east of the Advertiser building. The stores were owned by those of the Reid Company, which had been leased to Mr. Peter Smiles, a Greek-American, for a period of years. The store of Hamilton, Long & Co., which formed part of the Reid building, the store east of the alleyway which was occupied by Mr. Brewster, as a five and ten cent store, and the photograph gallery of McCallum & Westlake over the last named store. It was from the stores of Hamilton, Long & Co. and Brewsters that death took its terrible toll, but great as has been the loss of life, it is small compared to what might have happened later, when Mr. Brewster opened his store. The firm of Hamilton, Long & Co. was wiped out, both partners being killed in the wreck.

MISS MOLLE LINGEY WINS
THE TRUEMAN MEDAL.

Is the Leader Among Those Entering High School—Thirty Six Competitors Failed to Pass—Where the New Students Will be Placed

The results of the examinations for entrance to High School have been announced and show that out of the 339 who went up for the examinations 254 succeeded in passing. There were five students also who started the examinations but were unable to conclude, as an epidemic of measles was prevalent during the examinations, and these students were afflicted. Papers will be set for them in the fall, and also for another candidate who was prevented from concluding the exams owing to a death in the family.

MEDICAL ASSOCIATION
IN ANNUAL SESSION
Visiting Doctors Will be Given a Sall up River This Afternoon.

The sixteenth annual meeting of the Maritime Medical Association was opened in the Orange hall, Greenmount street, this morning, a large number of members from other parts of the maritime provinces being present, besides the majority of the local physicians. Dr. A. B. Atherton, of Fredericton, president of the association was in the chair.

SIR HARRY McLEAN
IN THE HANDS OF TIME AND GOD

Two Wise Old Fakirs Advised That He Should Not be Handed Over to the Sultan.

TANGIER, July 17.—Alarmed at the news of the elaborate military preparations of the Moroccan officials, the Eltkmes tribesmen were on the point of handing over to the Imperial authorities the brigand Sir Harry McLean, whom he is holding in bondage, when they finally decided to refer the case to the two Sulamas, renowned for their wisdom. The two sages happened to be friends of Raisuli and pointed out that the brigand and only in the interests of the tribes in the capturing of Sir Harry McLean. They advised the tribesmen to do nothing but leave the matter in the hands of "time and God," which the tribesmen decided to do.

FOR SEPARATION

COPENHAGEN, July 17.—King Frederick, of Denmark, is soon to make a notable trip to Iceland for the purpose of trying to improve the relations between Iceland and the mother country. The home government recognizes that for a long time there has been a strong movement among Icelanders for a separation. It is expected that the King will be cordially received on the island, but the inhabitants will take advantage of this opportunity to display their political views. One of the points on which the separatists insist is a special Icelandic flag, and the members of this party propose to raise the flag on public buildings during the royal visit. King Frederick will leave Copenhagen on July 24. The whole trip will last a month.

IMMIGRATION RECORDS
ALL BROKEN LAST YEAR

No Less Than 1,285,349 Aliens Landed in the United States; 5,962 Barred Out in Six Months.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—All immigrant records in the history of the United States were broken by the aggregate returns for the fiscal year of 1907 which ended on June 30 last. The total number of alien immigrants landed in America during the year was 1,285,349 as against 1,160,735 for 1906. The great majority of the immigrants reached this country during the last six months, the exact number of that period being 743,252. Of this number 132,385 came from Russia, a total of 5,962 were barred from admission to the country during the last six months.

VENEZUELA REFUSES TO PAY HER JUST DEBTS

BRUSSELS, July 17.—Venezuela has intimated that it will refuse to pay the $2,000,000 debt to its Belgian creditors. This decision is contrary to the finding of the Hague Tribunal, and the Belgian Government, realizing that persistence in this refusal would inflict the most serious injury to the cause of arbitration, is doing its utmost to induce Venezuela to carry out the Hague verdict.

POLICE COURT.

Among the police court business this morning Frank Theal, a ferry gate-man, had Daniel Fullerton, a huckman, before the court on the charge of using threatening language. Both gave lengthy orations and the case was set over until tomorrow when the magistrate and jury will be in session. The case against Louis Green, charged with selling liquor after hours, was brought up. E. S. Ritchie represented Mr. Green who pleaded not guilty. The case was set for tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock but was allowed out on bail of $500 each and two sureties of $200 each.

NEARLY SUFFOCATED.

Mrs. H. R. Spalding, of Pittfield, Me., who is visiting her brother, F. L. Hackett, at the Lansdowne Hotel, had a narrow escape from death by asphyxiation early this morning. On retiring last night she turned out the gas in her room as usual, but must have twisted the jet half way round again, because her room was soon filled with gas escaping from the jet. The small awakened others who rushed to assist her. The fact that the window of her room was slightly opened proved to be her salvation, and she succeeded in restoring Mrs. Spalding to consciousness.

MEDICAL MEN MEETING HERE

Dr. Deacon the New Provincial President

Recommendation That Fee for Insurance Examination be Raised to $5.00

The Programme

The twenty-seventh annual meeting of the New Brunswick Medical Society was held last evening.

The financial statement of the treasurer, Dr. Thomas Walker, showed a balance of $1,283.27 in February, 1934, and receipts from registrars, $200, making a total of $1,483.27.

The financial statement of the registrar showed that $97 had been received for fees, which amount had been handed to the treasurer.

Dr. Stewart Skinner reported the following gentlemen to be entitled to registration: Hugh A. Harris, White's Cove; J. A. Graham, Campbellton; Roy D. Grimmer, St. Andrew; Gilbert B. Peat, Andover; Thomas B. Fraser, Liverpool; N. S. Robert G. Girvan, Ilexton; Melville A. Oulton, Gloucester; H. LeBaron Peters, St. John; Zeno O. Taylor, Hillsboro; George Bailey, Fredericton.

Dr. Skinner, in his capacity of registrar of the Council of Physicians and Surgeons of New Brunswick, reported that the past year had been uneventful in matters medical. With one or two exceptions everything had passed along smoothly and with little or no friction.

"On the receipt of such letter the registrar invariably writes a warning letter to the delinquent informing them of the offence and the penalty incurred. In many cases this has the desired effect. It might be well to consider whether it would not be better to employ a proper person to obtain the necessary information for conviction as is done in Ontario. The council are doing all in their power to free the province of all illegal practitioners which, for various reasons is by no means an easy task.

He referred also to the fact that the question of inter-provincial reciprocity had not advanced, some of the provinces in the west having taken a backward step, if anything.

Dr. Deacon reported on the matter that after October 1st, 1937, the fee for medical examination for insurance be raised to $5.

It was decided that the annual meeting for 1938 be held in St. Stephen. The date will be the same as usual, July 10th.

REAL THRILLER. Ganner (entering circus)—What in the deuce is all that dis? Are we in the animal tent?

Guyer—No, we are about to see the great thriller for 1937.

Ganner—Indeed! Is it the leaping automobile or the falling airplane?

Guyer—Neither! They are tame in comparison. Over in that big white pit which is constructed to represent a courtroom you will soon see seventeen wild and untamed insanely experts wrangling with each other over a 'brain storm'—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

YELLOW JOURNALS KEPT OUT OF CANADA

Recent Change in Postal Rates Has Had the Desired Effect.

OTTAWA, July 16.—The post office department has received reports which go to show that the change regarding second class mail matter had the effect which was desired of excluding the offensive American (fake) publications which formerly gave the post office so much trouble.

Mr. Geo. Ross, chief inspector, has been making a tour of Western Canada, where the difficulty has been particularly felt, and in a series of reports he states that in large offices such as Calgary and Edmonton, not a single one of the United States publications aimed at could be found in the general delivery pigeonholes which formerly were congested with them.

Mr. Ross notes that the American publications of the better sort, which still come in, continue to use the post office for the long haul the postage evidently being less than the express rates. Even here, there is a considerable gain to the revenue in Edmonton, he noticed three packages which had paid $8.08 in postage, whereas under the new regulations, they would have paid only $3 cents, a gain of $4.15 on the three.

SAY DOCTOR WAS BURGLAR BY NIGHT

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde Existence of Dr. Holbrook Said to be Revealed by Arrest.

COATESVILLE, Pa., July 16.—Hearing for more than a year ago, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde existence, revealed by night and practicing as an occultist by day, Dr. Benjamin Holbrook, of West Brandywine township, has committed many small burglaries and is now in Westchester jail.

As the occultist is well connected and seems to be truly penitent, and as he has made a clean breast of his misdoings, the Pennsylvania Railroad detectives who succeeded in driving the mask from the man have decided to ask for a light sentence. The doctor will appear before the next quarter sessions.

It is said that Holbrook, while ostensibly living a most respectable life as a struggling young practitioner, is known to have committed at least eight burglaries. It may be that he has been guilty of more offenses than this, but he says not, and has convinced the arresting officers that he tells the truth.

Holbrook kept his own horse and buggy in order to respond when called in eye cases. At night he drove long distances from home, tied his rig in the woods and then went forth as a burglar. The partner thieves that roved his undoing were at Wyebrook, on the Downingtown and New Holland Railroad, and at Backrun, a small station on the Pomeroy branch of the Pennsylvania.

In each of these small places Dr. Holbrook broke into the railroad station in the dead of night, stealing all the mileage and other railroad tickets, the change out of the cash drawer and even such heavier articles as a typewriter and a copying press.

Dr. Holbrook used one of the stolen mileage tickets for two months after it was missed by the railroad. It was not taken up, but finally when he tried to use a second mileage ticket from the stolen package it was "lifted" and sent into the railroad offices at Broad street station and investigation ended in his arrest.

ITALY'S DWINDLING POPULATION

Some strikingly curious population statistics are now being published in Rome. Some years ago the Italian population was one of the most prolific in Europe, and in one period of twenty years increased from 21,000,000 to 33,000,000. Now the tendency is strongly in the opposite direction, while, at the same time, emigration, which now reaches a million souls a year, is leaving whole rural districts depopulated.

The natural increase had declined from 7.38 per thousand in 1910 to 6.1 in 1926. In the flourishing industrial districts there is some progressive increase, but in the rural provinces, like Labrum, Apulia, Sicily, and the Campagna, it dwindles down as low as 1.1 per thousand.

TRAGEDIES.

EXETER, N. H., July 16.—Victor Jette, the nine year old son of J. Jette of this town, while bathing in Squamsac River today was seized with cramps and drowned. The body has not been recovered.

ROSTON, Mass., July 16.—As a result of a street car accident in which a dump car carried by Hugh Kelley accidentally backed into an electric car on Dorchester Avenue late today, when the horses balked, six people were seriously injured by being knocked off the running board.

LOWELL, Mass., July 16.—Mary McBride, aged 23, proprietor of a military establishment, in this city, was shot and critically wounded today while alone in her store. John C. Kelley, aged 27, was later arrested and locked up in the police station charged with the shooting. A bullet from a revolver entered Mrs. McBride's forehead just above the left eye and narrowly missing the brain lodged behind her right ear. She was removed to the St. Johns Hospital where she was reported in a critical condition. No reason is known for the shooting.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 16.—Alex. Anderson, 40 years old, jumped to his death from a fourth story window of the Perry House this afternoon while a crowd in Washington Square witnessed the insane act.

Anderson was a gardener. Lately he had been drinking heavily, and intoxication is said to have been responsible for his fatal rashness today.

A SONG OF THE SEA.

(From the Milwaukee Sentinel.) Give me a ship all stanch and trim, With scuppers wide and high, A plink smokestack and a windy track, And a captain high and dry...

Get out, you lubbers, you make me sick With your tales of the briny deep; Why, shiver my lambs, you're a gang of rascals...

Illustrations of the disadvantages of cultivating local vernacular and slang in one's language are sometimes brought sharply home to business men...

Since Mr. Frohman started a bus service to convey passengers between the suburbs and his theatre people are calling him Mr. To-and-Frohman.

SERMON BY MR. BIRRELL.

LONDON, July 16.—Having appeared prominently of late as a humorist, and having been widely discussed in that capacity, Mr. Birrell, secretary of state for Ireland, by way of a corrective, addressed yesterday a lay sermon full of common sense and Christianity to the annual meeting of the United Methodist Free Churches sitting at Newcastle...

Every steamer captain on the river should see that smoking below decks is absolutely prohibited and that no inflammable freight or other material should be placed where there is any danger of ignition.

Another passage from his speech reads: "Christianity is implying will be united, will be able to obey the same discipline and to hold the same great doctrines of Christian faith. John Wesley had two sublime qualities. One was the eternal hold of what he conceived to be the message he had to deliver from God. The other was his most amazing and untiring energy in delivering that message."

Speaking of actual questions Secretary Birrell said, "If you want to purify the world you must purify the man, you must purify the individual man. You cannot purify the people by co-operation."

MAGISTRATE SAYS CRAWFORD ACTED VERY CRUELLY.

In the police court this morning two drunks were fined $4 each. A peculiar thing about them was that they were both without stockings and were in their shoes with bare feet. They were sailors and don't wear stockings.

The court room was crowded with spectators interested in the case against Wm. White. The case was finished this morning. Magistrate Ritchie after receiving the evidence found the prisoner not guilty of resisting the police and that the policeman went beyond his powers in hitting the prisoner on the head. He allowed the prisoner to go on paying a fine of $3 for being drunk.

In brief the magistrate said that he had received the evidence. The act with reference to such offenses as resisting the police is strong and plain. If the person arrested resists he is liable to a heavy penalty. If a person strikes an officer in the discharge of his duty he is liable to a fine four times stronger than it would be for striking a person who is not an officer.

White is an unfortunate who had little in his favor. He was found with three others intoxicated in the old burning ground, and one of the four gave evidence of drinking two bottles of liquor. "Where they got the liquor I would like to know, for illegal selling is very prevalent. A man starts from the Marsh bridge on a Sunday morning, he is sober and comes up town, but he returns home in the afternoon drunk, after visiting what is known as the best resorts in the city. A young man stopped me on the street a few days ago and said, 'Judge, my father is going to the devil with drink and I would like him to be put on the interdiction list. He leaves home Sunday morning and comes back drunk'."

The young fellow gave the names of the up-town resorts where his father gets drunk. The poor laborer leaves his work on Saturday afternoon at five o'clock and with his week's wages and his dinner can be seen at the bars closed at five o'clock instead of seven and the laboring man would then get drunk with his money. The police should look after the unfortunate drunk and see him home. They do it in London, maybe not in the States, but we don't want to imitate the States. It is to Crawford's credit that he gave White a chance to go home. Crawford testified that in the arrest of White anything he did with the baton was justifiable. Was there any more force used than necessary? He had a right to use force but he must be careful how he uses it. A man must defend himself but the law says he must not be the aggressor and an officer must not go too far. He may use the baton but must be careful in using it, and the indiscriminate use of the baton, not knowing where it is going to strike is dangerous. Crawford hit the man on the head and if in a certain spot might have broken the skull. If the man had died Crawford might have been up on the charge of murder. He could have used the baton on other places than the head. I am bound by humanity to say that persons may be charged with revolting crimes that cause people in the Southern States to take the law in their own hands and lynch the criminal, but we have good British law which says every man is considered innocent until proven guilty by the crown. He is not placed in the felon's cell until proven guilty. This injured man White, when was he looked after? Crawford was also injured but not half as bad as the prisoner. The prisoner has a right to be fairly treated. We are not in Russia. He should have been treated humanely no matter whether under arrest or not. The evidence shows that the man was bruised and bleeding from the time he was thrown down on Porter's corner until he was dragged while injured and placed in a cell. Crawford had a conference with the witness dressed. Some time afterwards when he returned it was decided to send for a doctor to fix up the patient. I consider that the prisoner received a severe pounding and was a mass of injury from ear to ear. The question is, did he get any more than he was entitled to? Crawford showed that he had been kicked, but witnesses who were to assist thought it was two civilians who were fighting. It would be much better that a call man go out

COMMERCIAL

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, July 17—Some hesitation was perceptible in the tone of the opening dealings in stocks due to the refusal of the London market to follow the late advance of yesterday here. First prices showed small gains and losses mixed. Dealings were large in Union Pacific, the Hill stocks, and U. S. Steel. Northern Pacific rose a point and U. S. Steel declined 7c. The market opened irregular.

ATMOSPHERIC TEMPERATURE.

The temperature of the atmosphere cools on an average about 1 degree for every 300 feet that we ascend or warm at the same rate as we descend. The mean temperature at the north pole is 0 and at the equator between 80 and 90 degrees. We can, therefore, get into a temperature 1 degree cooler for every seventy or eighty miles that we travel north and in a temperature 1 degree warmer for every seventy or eighty miles that we travel south.

STILL DRAGGING ALONG

BOISE, Idaho, July 17—Unless the plans of the prosecution are changed today there is little chance of seeing the close of the Haywood case and the commencement of argument before Saturday next at the earliest. J. H. Hawley, leading counsel for the state, has announced that he has eight or ten witnesses in reserve.

FEATS OF STRENGTH.

Thrilling Incidents Where Deeds of Bravery Have Been Accomplished Only by the Aid of Remarkable Endurance.

One of the most daring exploits among the members of the United States life saving service occurred when the schooner Minch sank in shoal water off Cleveland the night of October 2, 1882. When the life-savers appeared on the scene most of the members of the crew were clinging desperately to an iron-rod from rigging. By the aid of the breeches buoy all but two of the men were taken off; but it was impossible to get at the two who were in the mizen rigging. Huge breakers were pounding across the submerged deck, so that the mizen mast could not be reached. Nor was it possible to go aft by means of the stays, because of the absence of these from the mizenmast to the mainmast. But Surfman Hatch refused to abandon the men, who were evidently perishing from cold, and likely to drop off at any time from this cause added to excess of fright.

Going over the stays to the mainmast, Hatch discovered that the mainmast had been lowered, and that the main boom was being swung from side to side by the roll of the vessel after each big wave. With this knowledge came an inspiration and determination to accomplish an athletic feat of extraordinary daring under extraordinary conditions.

Slowly he worked his way out on the boom, battling with the wind and holding fast at each terrible lurch of the vessel. Arrived at the end, he waited for a moment of comparative calm, and rose up as the boom reached the end of its swing to leeward. Somewhere out there in the night was the mizen rigging. No time to wonder where; the next moment the way of the boom to the windward would take him farther away.

Hatch jumped. His questioning fingers caught the mizen rigging. The next instant he was supporting and encouraging two exhausted sailors who were at the point of falling overboard. All night he held them, and when daylight came, rescuer and rescued went ashore in the breeches buoy.

WRECK OF THE WEECOT. But the story of the sea, which introduces more than one hero whose muscular strength was equal to his desire to assist his fellows is certainly that of the wreck of the Weecot. The steamer was bound from San Francisco to Eureka, and had arrived off that port at four-thirty o'clock the afternoon of December 1, 1897, with seven passengers and a crew of seventeen men. When she reached the bar at the entrance of Humboldt Bay, a tremendous sea swept over her from astern. The huge comb smashed in the after end of the house, filled the cabin, made kindling wood of two lifeboats, carried away the port main rigging, flooded the engine room, and put out the fire. Steam from broken pipes drove the engineer on deck, and the engines were left working ahead at full speed.

Breached broadside to, with her head to the northward, the Weecot was carried by the current to the end of the south jetty, where she first struck. Then, as the sea rose, she was driven toward the north, and began to pound in a little nearer and yet nearer. The seas rushed over her, and, to make matters worse, darkness was descending.

To Captain Burtis, chatting at his helplessness and mocked by the sight of land an easy stone's throw distant, came Second Mate Charles Reiner. "Beg pardon, sir," he said, "but if you don't mind, I think I'll take a line and see if I can't establish communication."

"Take a line? What do you mean?" asked the captain. Reiner looked out at the wall of foam capped darkness. "I think I could swim it, sir," he said simply. "You are crazy!" commented the skipper, and turned on his heel. Reiner bit his lip, but answered not a word. Instead, he secured a strong line, one end of which he spliced to a coil of heavy rope. Dragging the other end behind him, he again approached the captain.

"Want permission, sir," he said. "Man," cried Burtis, "look at those waves! The strength of fifty would be in matter of course manner, the second mate walked to the side, climbed the rail and jumped far out into the turmoil of water.

For one minute they saw him, then he was lost to them. But in the trough the heavily laden man was struggling and fighting back at the monster. Then, to end it, the sea caught him up, tossed him to the crest of an enormous breaker, and threw him at the cruel rocks. Half stunned and bloody, he hung to the jagged spires, and had strength to retain his hold until the sea retired foaming and churning.

Then what was left of Charles Reiner pulled himself out of the water altogether, and sat down for a minute to recover his breath; then back to where the piling rises to support the trunks above, with his arms clinging from head and face. It was a little while before he found himself lying on his stomach, with the strain from the end of the jetty, almost exactly opposite the wreck.

"Aho, Weecot!" To Burtis it was a voice from the dead. "Burtis," he shouted, "All right, sir, only I have lost the line. With a little lead they can get another access to me here."

At the third attempt he caught it, and hauling on it soon had hold of the two-and-one-half-inch rope to which it was attached. A sling was made, and the work of getting the people ashore was begun when the life-saving crew came to render assistance.

A LIFE SAVER'S BURDEN. The ending of the story of Charles Reiner is the beginning of the record established that night by Surfman Hatch. One of the passengers, being brought to land in the slings had been washed out by an enormous wave, and had fallen on the rocks below just a minute or two before the arrival of the life savers. In the darkness it was impossible to locate him, but occasionally a moan and a weak cry could be heard. Keeper Henning and his little force arrived, to find that the accident had fouted the line when only half a dozen of those on board had been brought to safety. Incidentally they learned that the man who had been washed out of the sling was still alive, although badly hurt, on the rocks below. Erickson volunteered to go to his assistance.

The surfman finally discovered the unfortunate passenger not only badly hurt, but numbed by his inability to extricate himself from the pool of water between two rocks. Erickson was not a big man and the stranger was. But what there was of Erickson was mainly muscle and good nature. He lifted the half frozen man out of the pool and carried him to partial shelter behind another rock farther inland. Then he peeled off his own heavy woolen sweater and pulled it over his companion's head.

But it was evident that the man required something more than the rough attention that the surfman could render behind a rock on the storm-swept shore. About a mile away was the home of a watchman. The life-saver decided to carry his man there. And so, hoisting a back, now called an undershirt only, a following weighing at least half as much again as himself, he started off in the darkness, to thread his way between the rocks to the road beyond. Often he was waist deep in the big pools, and three times he fell before he cleared the rock strewn shore; but the water did not deter him, nor did the falls dishearten him. He managed to fall in such a manner as to save his falls as much as possible, and hoisted the stranger, now a dead weight of unconsciousness, back into position and exposed on the road back of the shore was anything but easy, as the storm had practically obliterated the track and had raised many hills of loose sand. Into these Erickson blundered in the darkness, and seeking a new way, a short cut, had to climb several fences with his burden.

It was well for Sloggett, a young Englishman who ascended the Matterhorn in 1860, that his guide, Augustus, was a man not only of remarkable pluck, but also, as the records of the Alpine Club bear witness, of extraordinary physical strength. The ascent had been made in safety, and the climber and his guides were half way down on their way back to the village, when they were overtaken by an avalanche in which stones and many small rocks were mingled with the snow. Sloggett, Augustus, and a second guide named Ferrer were swept from their feet, their axes were wrenched from their hands, and they were left absolutely helpless to check their descent. For nearly a thousand feet they slid, then were pitched head first into a small ravine filled with stones and sand. Ferrer never moved afterward; his neck was broken.

But Gentling, who through it all had kept his wits, twisted his body to one side as it plunged over his last side, although badly bruised, he was quickly on his feet and hastening to the assistance of his Englishman. Nor was assistance offered if moment too soon. Sloggett had been hurled head down in a sand heap. Months ago his ears were filled with the jab, broken, and half a dozen teeth were knocked out.

The guide promptly prevented suffocation, then revived his employer with snow. Soon the two were discussing ways and means of extricating themselves from their imprisonment. With no axes, it appeared to be an impossibility for any man to get back up the slippery face of the bowl of ice, not to speak of the chance of one man climbing out bearing an injured companion on his back.

But Augustus had not lived all of his life on the slope of the Alps for nothing. With shoes slung over his shoulders by the laces, and one arm round the waist of the young Englishman, he began an upward crawl that was to occupy hours. It was rendered more difficult and more dangerous by the fact that he was directly in the path of the shower of stones that continued to be hurled down the mountain side into the ravine.

At last, worn and exhausted, the two found themselves at the top. A short rest, then Gentling picked his employer up bodily, and carried him to a sheltered spot beside the main track down the mountain. There, shortly afterward, the two were found by the members of another party descending from the top. The new friends administered restoratives and assisted Sloggett to the inn at which he was stopping, where he was forced to remain several weeks under the care of a doctor.

RECKLESS. Mamma—if you had two pennies, Willie, and I was to give you three more, how much would you have? Willie—Make it dollars, mamma. What's the use of being stingy with make believe money?

When the Creolesan was wrecked off Long Island at eleven o'clock the night of December 11, 1876, and only four persons out of thirty-two were saved. It was the moral strength of one of them and the combined physical strength of the four that brought them to safety. The first and second officers had secured somewhere on board a cylindrical piece of cork five feet long and eleven inches in diameter. This they hastily fitted with straps and buckets, and when the vessel was about to go down, they jumped with it into the sea. A few minutes later, they were able to pick up the ship's carpenter and a seaman.

Under the direction of the chief officer the four locked and interlocked legs. This quadruple inter-twining not only bound the men together, but served to steady the buoy. Under his orders, also, they saved their breath between big waves, to be ready for the next, and even at the last moment he warned them to prepare for the undertow and be ready for a final struggle to reach shore. This, however, was unnecessary, as the coast life savers rushed into the surf and dragged them out.

FOREMAN MEAGHER'S FEAT. Ladders raised from the stoop had proved to be short by several feet, and as the deputy chief peered through the occasional red fringed rents in the curtain of black that shrouded everything above the second story, he groaned, then swore with an expressive fluency, required only by the firemen who, in his day of impotency, is forced to bow down to wood and stone. Thirty years ago the apparatus of the New York Fire Department was not quite so perfect as it is now; but the men were very much the same—reckless of speech, but reckless also of their lives, and most profane when deprived of the opportunity to throw those lives into the scale against the lives of others trembling in the balance.

Hanging out of a window of the fourth story was a woman—an ordinary woman either, for the members of Hook and Ladder Company No. 2 were describing with much admiration the shrug of the shoulders and philosophic spreading of palms with which the fullness of the last attempt had been recognized from above. The foreman, Daniel J. Meagher, spoke crisply and emphatically:

"Raise it here, clear of the building! Not on the slant, you idiot, but straight! Quick, boys! Out with half a dozen of these Belgian blocks! Good! Now, best man, get your wife I take a run up to the top, and sent Jack Flood after me if I call! I'm going to see how I can find a way. So just hung on and waited.

In a minute Meagher was on the top rung, carefully he braced his knees against the two feet of extension on either side, then stood straight up, aiming the smoke clouds with his helmet. "Are you there, Mrs. Freeman?"

"I am, I see you. But what are you going to do?" came the calm answer. "When I cry 'Ready!' you will hold yourself as rigid as possible and drop into my arms."

"I understand." "Good!" shouted Dan. "Send Flood up!" For a second or two the ladder wobbled never so little, then the helmet of Freeman John P. Flood showed through the black curtain four rungs below.

"Just one more, then stop!" commanded Meagher. "Twine your legs around the frame, boy, for I will have to pass her to you on the rush!" He turned again to the window, there already the woman stood with feet on the sill, but body inside the room. "Ready!"

The head and shoulders wriggled out, and the figure stood erect, one hand gripping the blistered woodwork, the other stiff at the side. The second hand was held up, and instant Mrs. Freeman preceded at her side toward the ladder. It was a frightful two seconds, but Meagher, now a dead weight of unconsciousness, back into position and exposed on the road back of the shore was anything but easy, as the storm had practically obliterated the track and had raised many hills of loose sand. Into these Erickson blundered in the darkness, and seeking a new way, a short cut, had to climb several fences with his burden.

WOMAN PROSPECTOR DARES DEATH VALLEY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 16.—With her hair bleached white by desert heat and alkali and almost reduced to a wreck by suffering through lack of food and water, the most courageous woman prospector developed by the present mining excitement reached San Bernardino. She is Mrs. Helen C. Quigley and comes from Utah. Nearly three months ago she left Bullfrog, and has since been seeking treasure where few men have dared to go, making a hazardous trip from the head of Death Valley.

For six weeks she saw no living person, the only evidence of former prospectors who had braved the waste being found in occasional human skeletons. For two days she urged her horse and pack mule through the heat with half a cation of water to drink and little to eat, and one day she passed in a lonely cave, fearful to go on while the sun beat down. In the Funeral Range she was stricken with fever, found by miners in the nick of time and nursed through weeks of delirium.

Mrs. Quigley prospected thoroughly and located a ledge which she believes will make her fortune, bringing rich samples. Undaunted she will at once retrace her steps. Some of her ore shows fabulous values, and she believes the entire ledge will go $20 a ton.

NOVA SCOTIA PROPERTY SOLD BY AUCTION

HALIFAX, N. S., July 16.—The property and assets of the Mabou Coal Mining Company, Ltd., were offered for sale at the court house this morning by Deputy-Sheriff Archibald, under an order of foreclosure and sale obtained at the suit of the bondholders. The first lot of foreclosed and sale obtained at the suit of the bondholders. The first lot of foreclosed and sale obtained at the suit of the bondholders. The first lot of foreclosed and sale obtained at the suit of the bondholders.

Mr. Terrell at this stage, on behalf of parties interested, protested against the sale proceeding any further, on the ground that it had not been advertised according to the direction of the court. The court and Halifax people are largely in control of the property, which is now the subject of litigation between the bondholders and certain stockholders. The mine is located in Inverness county, and at the present time is closed down.

SESSION OF THE COUNTY COURT OF RESTIGOUCHE

DALHOUSIE, N. B., July 16.—The Restigouche county court met today, Judge MacLachy presiding. The barristers present were Hon. J. G. Barbetrie, John MacLester, W. A. Moit, Arthur and LeBlanc, James S. Harquail.

There were three criminal cases—Cook, charged with firing at a government steamer, Fitzgerald and McLean for theft. The grand jury found no bill against any, and the court adjourned sine die.

Senator Edwards, of Ontario, and several other wealthy capitalists, arriving here tonight to investigate the possibilities of establishing large mills in the Bay Chaleur county, and they are anxious to manufacture somewhere in close proximity to the L. C. R. Inducements have been offered at Dalhousie and Bathurst. New Mills is also mentioned as offering many advantages.

Nature has done a great deal to make Dalhousie an advantageous location for establishing manufactures of any kind, and the citizens would, no doubt, encourage any large enterprise. The party will take several days in looking over the different Quebec points and the sites mentioned above. They will be accompanied by Mayor Montgomery.

THE OWNER AND THE VISITOR

His house, the first he had ever owned, being nearly finished, the Flat-bush man went forth one afternoon to inspect it. As he entered the front door he observed a well dressed man standing within, apparently admiring the beauties of construction and decoration. In an instant the pride of the owner swelled within him. Here was a visitor who would make the visitor variant with envy and, incidentally, intercept a few bouquets for himself. Stepping up to the stranger, he remarked:

"It's a beautiful house, isn't it? It's worth every cent of the investment and a great deal more."

"You are right," replied the stranger. "You are, I suppose."

"Yes, I'm the owner," interrupted the other, "and just let me tell you that there are not many men round here who own as fine a house as this."

"I quite believe you," serenely answered the visitor. "I'm the man, you see, who holds the first mortgage on it."

A SIGHT

"What was it?"

TOO EARLY

Miss Clever—Here is an example for you, Willie: A boy skates two miles the first day, three miles the second day, four miles the third day—Willie—Shucks! I could beat that example without half trying.

LOCAL NEWS.

WANTED—At the Royal Hotel, two chambermaids.

The condition of Dr. A. E. Preston was improved slightly this morning, although no hopes are held out for his recovery.

Rapid progress is being made in double tracking Paradise Row and City Road. Two-thirds of the distance on City Road has been completed and the tracks are expected to be down on Paradise Row in a couple of weeks.

Private O'Brien, of the R. C. A. at Halifax, who was arrested here as a deserter, was taken back to the garrison city at noon today by an escort which arrived on this morning's early train.

The funeral of the late Timothy Murphy took place from his late home at Red Head at 2:30 this afternoon. Rev. Father O'Neill read the burial service in St. Joachim's church, and interment was in the new Catholic cemetery.

Tonight on the Victoria grounds the Marathons and Algonquins will play. Both teams are playing fast ball and a good game is expected. The Marathons battery will be Gilmour and J. Malcolm, while Farris and Seely will be between the points for the Algonquins. The game will start at 7 o'clock.

The Warwick salmon boat Lalloo, which sank near Westfield on Saturday, has not yet been recovered. George Warwick is confident that the boat will be found in time. He thinks that she remains in the place where she went down, as the boat contained too much ballast to be moved by the current. Parties are grappling for the boat each evening.

POTTINGER-REID

Marriage Will Take Place at Moncton This Evening.

MONCTON, N. B., July 17.—At Barbary Lodge, a beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Y. Smith, Highfield street, this evening at half-past seven o'clock will be performed the nuptials of Mr. David Pottinger, general manager of the government railway, and Mrs. Fred. P. Reid. The wedding, one of the most interesting provincial events of recent years, will be a very quiet affair, attended only by the friends of the bride and groom and Mrs. Reid. It will take place in the hall at Barbary Lodge, the room being tastefully decorated for the occasion. Rev. W. A. Sisson, rector of St. George's church, Moncton, will perform the ceremony, assisted by Rev. E. B. Hooper, former rector of St. George's church and now of St. John. The bride will wear a gown of pale blue chiffon, beaded with blue cut colored coat and hat. There will be no bridesmaid or groomsmen, the wedding arrangements throughout being characterized by the utmost simplicity. After the ceremony the wedding party will partake of supper. They will leave on the morning express tonight for a wedding trip north. A magnificent array of wedding gifts, costly and beautiful, have been received.

COUNTY COUNCIL

At a meeting of the municipal council yesterday afternoon, the report of the committee on tenancy buildings was changed before adoption so that the dead house and coroner's office are not to be removed. Councillor Kelly objected to the proposal to demolish the building through the streets. Dr. Berryman's bill for views was ordered not to be paid. The Women's Council asked leave to send a delegation to the council, praying that a jail matron be appointed. The request was granted, provided the recommendation is supported by the sheriff.

The land on Sandy Point Road, purchased as a site for the isolation hospital, will be sold. Councillor Lewis resigned his position as manager of the chain gang. His annual report was received and a vote of thanks tendered.

MISS MARY STRAIN.

Miss Mary Strain, an aged and respected resident of this city, died at three o'clock this morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. Stephen Murphy, 123 Acadia street. Miss Strain was 73 years of age and was very well known. In her younger days she was a nurse and was engaged with many St. John families. She is survived by her sister, Mrs. Murphy. Heart trouble was the cause of death.

LOTS OF MONEY UP ON TODAY'S RACES

Lady Bingen and Northern Spy are the Favorites in Pool Selling—The Starters

Moosaph Park is in excellent condition for the races which take place this afternoon; and the promoters of the meet anticipate that a large crowd will be present. The races will commence as soon after two o'clock as possible, and trains will leave Union Depot at 2 and 2:30 o'clock. There were originally five entries in the 215 class, but Delfy Bingen, one of the number, has died. Four horses will start today, Lady Bingen, Ada Mac, Estill Boy and Dr. Band. In the 221 class there were eleven entries. Three of the horses have been drawn; they are Little Ezzly Joe Hat and Kromont. The eight starters today are Northern Spy, Alas Letha, Etta Mac, Regal Pandect, Nellie Bangs, Meniw Yale, Daisy Wilkes and Ruth Wilkes. A great deal of betting and pool selling has been going on in these races. In the 215, Lady Bingen is a strong favorite. Lady Bingen is a strong favorite in pool selling against the others. In the 221 class, Northern Spy, the winner in the Moncton races last week, is a strong favorite. Edwin Morse, of Boston, has been handling the pools, and it is estimated that last evening upwards of a third of a million dollars was placed. In the 215 the pools averaged about even, and the favorites being sold for about the same as the field.

ROBERT MCGILL HAS BEEN MISSING FOR TWO MONTHS

His Parents Have Given up the Search, and are Convinced That Their Son Must Be Dead.

Robert McGill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McGill, of Elliott Row, has been missing from his home since March, and no tidings of him have been heard. The parents of the young man have given up all hope of ever seeing their son again. The police after making a thorough search gave up the case, but Mr. McGill continued to search for his son until a few days ago when he, too, became discouraged and gave up. When asked if he thought his son had been victim of foul play, Mr. McGill said: "Although my boy's disappearance is mysterious, I hardly think that any one has harmed him. His name was never about town and carried but little money with him." Mr. McGill thinks that his son may possibly be living on a farm outside the city, but he puts little confidence in the hope and is convinced that his son is dead. The fact that the tidings have been received of the young man seems to bear out that theory. Mrs. McGill, who is well along in years, has fallen considerably since her son's disappearance and the anxiety has greatly told on her.

C. P. R. MESSENGER BOYS WENT ON STRIKE

Because an Outsider Was Given a Job—They Lost the Fight and Resumed Work at Noon.

This has been a memorable day for the C. P. R. Telegraph messenger boys. With what they term a grievance, the boys went on strike this morning and for several hours the telegraphers were obliged to act as messengers. The trouble arose over a young man named Vaughan having been employed in the local office as a checker. It is the custom to promote the messengers to checkers when they have been in the employ of the company for some time, and several of the lads were expecting advancement. Vaughan had never been a messenger and was looked upon as a "green hand" by the boys. When they went on duty this morning, the word passed along that an outsider had been taken in and a strike was declared. The local office employs nine messengers, and all but one expressed willingness to quit work.

The lad who refused was young Steed, and when the boys left the office they waited nearby for him. He had a couple of messages to deliver and he was followed by the strikers. Before he had reached the office on his return he had been persuaded to join in the strike, and the messenger service was then completely done up. Later in the morning some of the boys were surprised to find their fathers awaiting them. They were ordered to return to work, and entered the office and started again.

As soon as the parents were out of sight, however, the lads again handed in their books and renewed the strike. Shortly after noon, however, the boys returned and expressed themselves as being willing to go to work. The trouble was then at an end.

THIS EVENING.

MONTAGUE-McCARTHY.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's church, North End, at 7:30 o'clock this morning, when Miss Annie Gertrude, eldest daughter of Daniel McCarthy, of Harrison street, became the wife of John G. Montague, of this city. The bride was attended by Miss Teresa Canning, of Boston, while Mr. P. J. O'Rourke, supported the groom. The nuptial high mass was sung by Rev. Father Scully, C.S.S.R. The bride wore a white princess gown with veil of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid wore a gown of blue and green and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Montague will spend the summer at Green Head, St. John River, prior to taking up their residence in the city. Very many handsome presents were received testifying to the popularity of the young couple. The groom's present to the bride was a check and to the bridesmaid a handsome locket suitably engraved with their names.
