MISS GIBERSON WINS THE AUTO

Miss Sipprell Content With the Piano—Result a Big Surprise

The Observer voting contest is over. With a whirl of excitement comparable only to a Carleton county political election the enterprise finished its course last Monday afternoon. And like many an election the result was a great surprise to many "dopesters" who essayed to foretell the winners of the first prize. In racing parlance, Miss Giberson, the fortunate winner of the Ford touring car, was the "dark horse" in the race. Throughout the county it was generally regarded as a race virtually between Miss Laura Burpee of Centreville, and Miss Elsie Sipprell, with odds at even on those two ladies, and to most people the success of the Bristol young lady was most unexpected.

Miss Giberson deserves credit for her victory. Many a contestant, facing the discouragements which she experienced, would have dropped out of the competition weeks before contest ended. Miss Giberson, in fact, was urged by some of her friends to give up a month ago, but with some commendable pluck she persevered in her efforts, and by her persistence, determination and courage convinced many of her friends of her deserts, and inspired sufficient confidence to enable her to secure a tremendous number of votes as the contest neared its close.

Miss Elsie Sipprell, of Hartland, finished the contest a close second, and received as a reward for her work a beautiful "Lonsdale" piano, which was delivered to her Monday evening, and with which, as she has stated in her letter to the public, she is delighted. Among Miss Sipprell's friends there is widespread regret that she failed to capture the Ford Car. While Miss Sipprell, herself does not share this feeling to great extent it is easy to understand that the result could not be accepted with perfect equanimity. The removal of a few little "ifs" would have given Miss Sipprell the victory. If she had had another few hours in which to secure subscriptions at the rate she was securing them Monday morning she would have won. If her enthusiasm had not waned for a few days several weeks ago she would probably have won. If some of her friends "had only known" she needed a little more help, she would have won. If the contest had closed at 12.30 o'clock, instead of 12 o'clock, she would have been the winner, as enough subscriptions had been secured for her a few minutes after the contest had been declared closed, to have given her first prize. Miss Sipprell, however, is not crying over spilled milk, nor wasting time and energy worrying about what might have been. She has accepted the result cheerfully, and with a sense of realization of the real value of the reward she won, as well as of the value of the experience she gained in the contest. She also has the satisfaction of knowing that she made an earnest effort, for which her friends will give her due credit, and that her canvas for votes was always fair and kindly towards her competitors.

What is said of Miss Sipprell, applies very fittingly to Miss Burpee, as well. The Centreville representative, while finishing third in the contest, was in fact not very far behind the winner, and had she and her friends "only known", there can be no doubt that Miss Burpee could easily have secured enough additional business to enable her to win the Ford Car. Miss Burpee did highly creditable work in the campaign, and considering the fact that she was handicapped to a great extent in not having as much time as she would have liked, to devote to the contest, she made a remarkable good record. The votes that she could easily have obtained in another two or three day's work would have undoubtedly have made her the winner of the first prize. In the service she performed she exhibited energy, pluck and marked ability, and except for the natural regret at not winning the Ford Car or the Lonsdale piano, she has every reason to feel a high degree of satisfaction over the results she achieved during the contest. Nothing unfair, nor inconsiderate towards other contestants marked Miss Burpee's efforts to obtain votes, and nothing but goodwill and the best of feelings towards her are entertained by her late competitors.

Judges.

Hartland Feb. 26.

The Manager of The Observer:
Will you kindly grant me space in the columns of your paper to express my feelings and thoughts in regard to The Observer Voting Contest which closed last Monday?

While I would have liked to have won the Ford Car, and worked hard towards that end, I have no regret of the outcome of the Contest. The Lonsdale piano which I have received as second prize is a splendid instrument with a beautiful tone and I am delighted to possess it.

I am perfectly satisfied with the Judges decision and with the conduct of the Contest which was absolutely fair. I am sure, to every one who took part in it.

A debt of gratitude which I can never repay is due to the hundred of people who so willingly gave me subscriptions and enabled me to secure such a large number of votes. I desire to heartily thank everyone who assisted me.

C.S.E.T. BOYS IN CONFERENCE

Nearly 50 Young Boys Held Interesting Convention at Hartland

"In the world's broad field of battle,
In the ranks of life,
Be not like dumb, driven cattle!
Be a hero in the strife!"

Thus did Rev. L. A. Buckley eloquently harangue the citizens of Hartland during Saturday and Sunday last, earnestly entreating them to live Christian lives, to be heroes, always remembering that some one younger in years and experience is copying from them, has taken them as their hero, as their ideal.

Mr. Buckley is associated with the work of the Y.M.C.A. but pays special attention to that phase of the work known all over Canada as the Canadian Standard Efficiency Tests. His coming to Hartland was for the purpose of attending a conference of Carleton and Victoria county boys engaged in C.S.E.T. work. These boys, about 45 in number, assembled here from Woodstock, Grand Falls, Rookland, Bath, Florenceville, Greenfield and from this vicinity.

Sessions of the conference were chiefly in the United Baptist church and proved a great benefit to all. It was clearly shown to all who took an interest in the boys and came to the meetings that the C.S.E.T. program exemplifying the four-fold life, viz: Intellectual, Physical, Devotional and Service, far outstripped any other with similar purposes; that a boy could not serve his God and fellowmen, with his full talents rendered unto him by God, unless he had good development on all four standards; that the C.S.E.T. aim was to increase and develop on all four standards, until perfect efficiency was accomplished, taking for a motto Luke II, 52: "Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man."

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Buckley opened the first session of the conference. The following officers were elected: President, Hedley Colpitts, Woodstock; Vice-President, Raymond Esley, Grand Falls; Secretary, Drummond McCunn, Woodstock. At that meeting Mr. Buckley explained to the boys, through their own answers, that the church needed boys and that the boys needed the church, thus bringing from themselves no alternative but that they should join the church. In the evening meeting addressed largely to the citizens, he showed how the C.S.E.T. program was run, how that each boy was a hero worshipper and that the hero set before each boy, for him to copy, was Jesus, who said, "I am the way."

Services on Sunday were held by Mr. Buckley in the Methodist church at 7.30 with an afternoon session at 3.45 for boys and men. At all these meetings Mr. Buckley brought it forcibly before the congregations that the boys were to be the men of tomorrow and therefore all should stand behind the boys to protect and counsel them. "As a twig is bent so the tree is inclined," therefore all true Christians should make it their duty to see that the boys are started straight. The C.S.E.T. is the most efficient instrument for this purpose, therefore be loyal to the C.S.E.T. and help do something for the generations to come.

The Sunday evening meeting was closed with reports from the boys of the different localities and remarks from representatives of each denomination present. The closing hymn was "Blest be the tie that binds" after which the president of the conference.

"THE CONTEST"

The Observer's management, while not sorry its voting contest has closed, has really enjoyed the keen interest displayed by the public, and watched with pleasure the manifestation of energy and pluck with which the contestants strove for the big prizes. The only regret is that there were not quite enough prizes to go all around among those whose earnest endeavour seemed to entitle them to more than they received. There are, however, no "kickers," and all concerned—including the judges who audited every detail of the contest—have declared their belief that from the start to the finish a spirit of fairness to every contestant was manifest.

The Observer's object in putting on the contest was, of course, to increase its paid circulation. And this has been the happy result. While at the moment the new mailing lists are not completed it is certain that this paper has now more than 2000 paid subscribers in Carleton and Victoria—probably a greater number than any two of its local contemporaries, and by all odds a greater circulation in its particular field than any other paper published. It is in this that The Observer is to profit from what looked to many to be a fool-hardy venture. But The Observer was not "venturing," it was working on a few well-proven facts and tested principles.

John S. Booth, of Toronto, known to every Canadian newspaper publisher as little less than a wizard in circulation building, had entire charge of the contest, and he performed his work in such manner that every estimate was exceeded, and therefore an entire success was made of the enterprise.

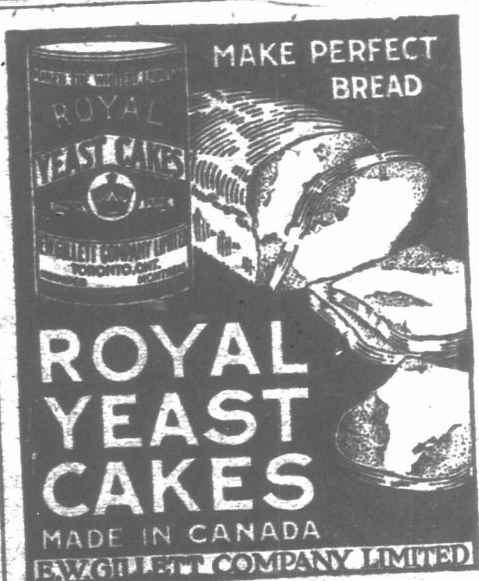

The editor feels that now new duties devolve upon him. It is his to serve a wider circle of readers, and to give them in full measure—unbiased and faithfully—what they have paid their money for: the "local" news of Carleton and Victoria. To purvey such is the whole mission of The Observer, and it shall essay to fulfil it, not only as well, but better than its competitors.

A Senate Vacancy

The death of Senator Gilmour of Charlotte is recorded with sorrow. His demise leaves a vacancy in the Upper House that will likely be filled before parliament meets again. In this regard the attention of Hon. F. B. Carvell, who will recommend a new senator, is called to two pertinent facts in the minds of Carleton county people: That it is Carleton county's turn to contribute a member to the Senate, and that according to the interpretation of "Union" government Senator Gilmour, having been a Liberal, will be succeeded by a Liberal appointee.

National STOCK FOOD

Of the many Stock Foods on the market many are good, some are not so good. But in NATIONAL Stock Food are combined nutritive and tonic elements to a higher degree than any other. The results quickly show the difference between NATIONAL and all other stock foods. The tonic properties of NATIONAL operate upon the animal system, not only creating an appetite for them to eat more, but what is more important improves digestion and assists the assimilation of all the nutrition in the fodder.

For Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, and especially for breeding animals no tonic-food is so good as NATIONAL. It may cost more than some, but it is better than any.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Conquered Dyspepsia and Restored His Health.

MR. ROBERT NEWTON.

Little Mrs. D'O. C. B. "I was a terrible sufferer from Dyspepsia and Constipation for years. I had pain after eating, belching gas, constant headaches, and did not sleep well at night. I lost so much weight—going from 185 pounds to 145 pounds—that I became alarmed and saw several doctors who, however, did me no good. Finally, a friend told me to try 'Fruit-a-tives'.

In a week, there was improvement. The constipation was corrected; and soon I was free of pain, headaches, and that miserable feeling that accompanies Dyspepsia. I continued to take this splendid fruit medicine and now I am well, strong and vigorous".

MARKETING WOOL

An Opportunity for New Brunswick Sheep Men

Marketing wool co-operatively is the one way in which sheep men can secure the full value for their product. The New Brunswick Department of Agriculture, realizing that the wool producers of this Province have suffered financially due to the method of marketing that has prevailed in the past, and wishing to remedy this condition, and at the same time to give every encouragement to the sheep industry possible, has prepared a plan that will enable every wool producer to market his product in the very best advantage, i. e., direct to the manufacturer. In this way the middle man is completely eliminated. Under the old method of marketing the wool was sold to the country buyer. This was because the buyer had to have a profit—usually a good big one—for his trouble.

Co-operative marketing of wool is the method that obtains in every other Province of Canada, except New Brunswick. In 1917 over 2,000,000 pounds of wool was marketed in Canada co-operatively. Each year the amount marketed and the price received has increased showing conclusively that this method of marketing is proving popular with the sheep men wherever it has been tried.

Marketing co-operatively means that the wool is assembled at central grading stations where it is graded and then sold direct to the woolen mills according to grade. The advantage of this method are quite apparent and might be summed up as follows—

1. A large quantity of graded wool assembled at one point attracts the best buyers from all parts of Canada and the United States, consequently the best price obtainable is secured.
2. The wool grower with clean dry wool receives a premium for his trouble. The flat rate of so much per pound is displaced.
3. Marketing wool co-operatively leads to a greater interest in the sheep industry and also to better wool being produced.
4. Co-operatively marketing of wool is a beginning and will lead to co-operation along other lines.

This is an opportunity that the progressive sheep men of this Province will be quick to grasp. Detailed information will be supplied upon request. Write in for pamphlets and literature on the subject, to Department of Agriculture, Fredericton, N. B.

GIVE "SYRUP OF FIGS" TO CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" can't harm tender little stomachs, Liver and Bowels.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, has sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of his little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

Plenty of Liquor in State of Maine

About 800 packages containing intoxicating liquors shipped by express have been received by the citizens in one Aroostook county town since July 1, 1917, and it is also understood that all of the persons who received these packages and who neglected to fortify themselves with physicians' certificates stating that the same were for medicinal purposes are liable to be brought before the United States district court at this season in Bangor next June.

It is not enough to clear from prosecution people who order whiskey, brandy, beer, wine, etc., from other States or from New Brunswick to simply affirm that these liquors are for medicinal purposes. To avoid being hauled before the United States courts they must be fortified with a proper certificate that these liquors were for medicinal or scientific purposes.

It is also well understood that Gov. Milliken and his supporters, who with him advocate the bone dry law, have favored collecting names of parties who have had intoxicating liquors shipped to them by express from other States.

Aroostook county has been foremost in voting for prohibition. It is Gov. Milliken's own county, and it is rather surprising to find that 800 packages containing liquor have been shipped to the citizens of one town there since July 1, 1917.

"CASCARETS" WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

For Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Sluggish Liver, and Bowels—Take Cascarets tonight.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headache come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a cill barrel. That's it! First step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your congested bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months.

Children Must Be Protected

The children must be safeguarded, for if they do survive the frequent coughs and colds, it is often with the lungs so weakened that they become chronic sufferers from bronchitis or consumption. Being composed of simple ingredients of undoubted value, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is admirably suited as a treatment for children. It is pleasant to the taste. So much so that children delight to take it on this account, as well as because of the quick relief it affords them.

An Amateur Detective

A Young Woman's Efforts to Find a Missing Girl.

By RUTH GRAHAM

"Another schoolgirl disappeared," said Grace Bartow, laying down the morning paper. "Helen Bowers left home to go to the high school one morning nearly three weeks ago and has never been heard from since. Why is it that we have so many detective stories unraveling imaginary mysteries and yet no one ever solves real ones?"

"Why don't you try your hand at this case, Grace?" asked her sister, Amelia. "Take it up independently of the police and investigate it yourself. You complain of having nothing to interest you. By endeavoring to find out what has become of this missing girl you will be relieved of ennui and may do a great deal of good."

Miss Bartow, a young woman twenty-three years old, possessing an income sufficient for her support, well educated, intensely practical, was set to thinking by her sister's words. She was not a person who would enter upon a work to abandon it at the first discouragement. Consequently she connected over in her mind the rebuffs she would be obliged to encounter. One of the police, who are not disposed to brook any amateur trespassing on their legitimate domain. On the other hand, the family of the missing girl might be thankful for her effort. It required two whole days for Miss Bartow to weigh these considerations, at the end of which she decided to begin work on the case of the missing girl and never cease her efforts so long as there was a clew to follow.

Her first visit was to police headquarters. She found Inspector Blake, a middle-aged man, sitting behind a rosewood desk which was covered with papers.

"I have called," she said, "to ask if I can be of any assistance to the police in their efforts to discover the whereabouts of Helen Bowers, who disappeared recently and has never been seen or heard of since. I have decided to interest myself in the case. I shall work independently of the police, but before beginning I desire to know if you will give me such information as you may possess concerning the mystery."

"That we cannot do. We work upon our clews in our own way. They are known only to ourselves. Any advice away of them would be likely to defeat our success. A secret once parted with is henceforth no secret."

"You are perfectly right about it," said Miss Bartow. "I did not expect that you would treat me with such information you may possess. But I prefer that you should know that I am working on the case. I presume you have no objection."

"The law allows any one to work on the case, and you are perfectly free to do so. I can only say that the more amateur detective work that is injected into hunting for crime the less chance there is for us experienced investigators to succeed."

Having thus delivered himself, the inspector signified that the interview was ended and turned again to his papers. Miss Bartow withdrew.

She had kept the address of the family of the missing girl as given in the newspapers, and her next visit was there. She found the girl's mother bowed down with grief.

"Mrs. Bowers," said Grace, "I have determined to try to solve the mystery of your daughter's disappearance. I do so simply for the sake of doing good. Tell me about your daughter."

"The woman gave a description of the missing girl. She was fifteen years old, considered pretty and was of excellent character. She had no lover so far as the mother knew."

"Have you any suspicions as to what has become of her?" asked Grace.

"I know what has become of her up to a certain point. One of her schoolmates saw a woman speak to her on the street the morning she disappeared."

"Have you stated this to the police?"

"I have not only stated it to them, but have begged them to investigate this woman, who is known to us, since my daughter was seen to go with her into a candy shop she keeps."

"What have the police done about it?"

"They tell me that they have gone through the house containing the candy shop and interrogated the woman, who admits she took a girl answering Helen's description to her shop on the morning she disappeared to sell her some candy. She makes a peculiar kind which girls are very fond of and sells it very cheap. She sometimes solicits custom of children, and accosted Helen, who went with her to her shop and bought some candy. A young man followed them into the shop, bought some more candy, which he gave to Helen and they left the shop together."

"What do the police say about this?"

"They say that the woman in question bears an excellent reputation; that hundreds of young girls every year go off with young men willingly or under duress and are never heard of again. Their theory is that Helen went away with the young man who joined her in the store."

Grace Bartow pondered awhile on this statement, then asked:

"Are there any evidences of your daughter having left the candy store with a man except that of the candy seller?"

"No."

"Is there any other evidence of her having left the store at all?"

"No."

"That means for me that this part of the story is of no moment whatever. We must look for the girl's abductor, for I believe from what I already know that she has been abducted by the person with whom she was last seen. The story that this woman solicits customers for her candy on the street is not probable. If the police pretend to believe it they only pretend; my good woman, I think I see an outlet to the mystery. I shall do some investigating, and in the meanwhile say nothing of this visit. We can keep a secret as well as the police."

Miss Bartow suspected the police of collusion with the candy woman. What object they had in screening her she did not know. She had heard that the police of the city were notoriously corrupt, and it was her belief for persons that they were bribed for permitting houses to be used for gambling and other illegal purposes.

She reconnoitered the candy shop. It was a small place with a very poor stock. She asked a frowsy girl behind the counter for a certain kind of candy of which the proprietor made a specialty and was handed something of which she bought a small quantity. Meanwhile her eyes were open. She noticed that the shop was on the ground floor and there were three stories above it. There was no way to reach the upper stories except through the candy store.

Miss Bartow's mind was concentrated on what those upper stories were occupied for. How could she find out? If she called on the police for information, in case the missing girl were there and the police were protecting the candy woman the girl would be removed, after which quite likely the house would be openly investigated.

Before going further in her detective work she must learn what was in those upper stories. The matter seemed simple enough. Indeed, it was too simple to be used in a detective story. But it stumped Miss Bartow. She was obliged to call in a man to assist her.

Tom Armstrong was an intimate friend of Miss Bartow. Indeed, he would have liked to be more than a friend and might have been had he not been considered too much of a man about town. Grace knew very well that he was far more competent to ferret out anything in the way of gilded vice than she was. One of his sins was a disposition to gamble. He would likely know or be able to find out whether a certain house was used for gambling or, indeed, for any illegal purpose.

Grace wrote Tom an invitation to call upon her. He responded with alacrity, thinking that she had relented toward him. Grace told the story of her detective work and asked him

GIRLS! LEMON JUICE IS A SKIN WHITENER

How to make a creamy beauty lotion for a few cents.

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quart of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier as about the only one that will pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold cream. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, whitener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quart of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls! Try It! Hair gets soft, fluffy and beautiful—Get a small bottle of Dandruff.

If you care for heavy hair that glimmers with beauty and is radiant with life, has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Dandruff. Just one application doubles the amount of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff. You can not have nice heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a further loss of hair. The scalp the hair roots, follicles, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast. Surely get a small bottle of Knowlton's Dandruff from any drug store and just try it.

YES! MAGICALLY! CORNS LIFT OUT WITH FINGERS

You simply say to the drug store man, "Give me a quarter of an ounce of freestone." This will cost very little, but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn from one's feet.

A few drops of this new ether compound applied directly upon a tender, aching corn should relieve the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn, root and all, rises up and can be lifted out with the fingers.

This new way to rid one's feet of corns was introduced by a Cincinnati man, who says that, while freestone is sticky, it dries in a moment, and simply shrivels up the corn without irritating or even inflaming the surrounding tissue or skin.

Don't let father die of infection or lockjaw from whitening at his corns, out this out and make him try it.

Dandruff is a good thing and is seen at its best when it is applied to other people.

Every woman tells her age before she will consent to look it or acknowledge it.

"Granny" Chamberlain

"I don't think there is a more anxious time for parents than when their children have croup. Without them they are prepared with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy they must wait for the doctor and listen to the choking, metallic cough and watch their little one gasping for breath.

You know the great danger of croup is the formation of a false membrane in the larynx, and until this is expelled relief cannot be obtained, and the spasmodic choking continues. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in frequent doses. It will loosen this membrane and cause the child to expel it by vomiting.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an absolutely safe and certain remedy for croup, and if given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack."

To the Editor of The Observer:

Since this war began I have been searching the Bible to find the Kaiser. After searching some of the prophets I thought Daniel and in the last part of the eighth chapter I found him; and in the last times of their kingdom when transgressors are consumed to the full, a king of fierce countenance and understanding, dauntless sentences, shall stand up and his power shall be mighty but not by his own power, and he shall destroy wonderfully and shall prosper and practice and shall destroy the mighty and holy people; and through his policy also shall cause craft to prosper in his hand; and he shall magnify himself in his heart and by peace he shall destroy many, he shall also stand up against the prince of princes, but he shall be broken without hand. When Lord Roberts was elected the English to war of the Kaiser, they thought were the people said he was most respectable ruler in any country they said the old man was his doing, they see by this that he was in their dog's den.

iel says by peace he shall send many, they said he is related to the House of England. If want an enemy that will stick you as long as you will stick an enemy, you get a relative, especially if he is jealous of your party, that's the Kaiser. I feel says he magnified himself his heart, by craft they were the head of the world, and world sent the smartest of the young men and young women there to be finished off, and there had been that recommendation they needed and we magnified them and England magnified them. If England and Ireland and Scotland, instead of the breweries and distilleries, have taken the same capital invested in colleges, art science, it would it would been much better, and would be no need to send them to be Germanized. Now, sir, I been 25 years selling liquor to the Canadian Temperance Association, largely been English, and Scotch whiskey, and lately Scotch. We make out that the sun never sets on our high territory, the sun never on those liquors. A man who has traveled extensively said that he never was anywhere that he could not get Scotch whisky. The Kaiser says the Lord made him for this purpose, the Pharaoh for that purpose, and when that purpose was filled he drowned him and his host. I have felt for the last years that something was bound to happen, the pace the world was taking.

would be an investigation, sent out an S.O.S. for one of the two nurses, who were then in Palestine, to come and attend me. The notice was posted in the clubs and it happened to catch the eye of the Kaiser's financial agent. He immediately came to the consul and suggested that I be taken to the palace of the Kaiser, on the Mount of Olivets, where I at least would have a chance to fight for life. To the palace I was taken and there cared for. Near the palace there was a great tower, which contained chimes, which three times a day, rang out "Peace on earth, good will toward men." The palace had been erected and constructed to commemorate the Kaiser's pilgrimage to the Holy Land. On either side of the palace stood buildings used to accommodate the pilgrims from Germany, for the Kaiser had explained to the Sultan that two buildings were necessary in case the Protestant and Catholic pilgrims placed in common quarters would quarrel.

Were Weak and Inactive as Result of Nervous Prostration—Lost Twenty Pounds—Had to Take Sleeping Powders to Get Any Rest.

Many people never realize that the movement and action of every organ of the human body is dependent on the energy supplied by the nervous system.

When the nervous system gets run down there is weakness throughout the entire body. You feel tired and languid and your stomach and other digestive organs are similarly affected. Appetite fails, digestion is poor, you do not get the good of what you eat and gradually grow weaker and weaker.

This process can be of great benefit in such treatment as Dr. Geo. S. Nerve Food, which goes directly to create new nerve force and thereby to invigorate the whole human body.

Mrs. Geo. S. Milne, 48 Davis street, St. Catharines, Ontario, writes: "I was attacked by nervous prostration, and, although doctored for some time and tried different other medicines, he could give me no relief. He had to resort to opium powders given by the doctor to help me sleep. The greater part of the trouble seemed to be with the nerves of his stomach. He began to lose weight, and kept on going down until he had lost twenty pounds. I had some advertisements in the newspaper for Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and noticed that it seemed to be doing a lot of good for people taking it. He decided to try it. He found benefit almost from the start, and continued treatment until he had taken 50 boxes. The results were most satisfactory. He is now enjoying good health, and all the ailments he had lost. He also uses Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills occasionally. He thinks them very good. He says that he is now completely cured of his troubles, and is very glad of Dr. Chase's medicine, and cannot speak too highly of them."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cent bottles, all treatment of 5 boxes. It is sold at all dealers, or Edman Bros. & Co. Limited, New York. The following quotations only disapproval row of German eagles upon the top of each building disappeared and in their stead appeared machine guns. The great chimes that had rung out their message of peace were lowered and in their place were hoisted the most powerful war searchlights in the holy land, which would be able to play upon the advancing British forces. These buildings were erected fourteen years before the war, so we have a good deal to learn yet of the German method of preparation.

I don't wonder that Daniel fainted and was sick for days after that vision; if he saw the suffering of Belgium and France, the wreck of cities and towns, and the beautiful country, three of the worst characteristics of the devil are lying, hypocrisy and deception; and when the devil couldn't do lying enough, he got the towers and chimneys to lie for him three times a day and quote Scripture. The devil used to quote Scripture when he thought to deceive by so doing. Perhaps we shall find ourselves in prophecy, if we do we will let you know.

Now the standard Ford truck is available—a car that can withstand the drudgeries of commercial use, and yet lacks superfluous weight, and is easily handled.

The truck differs from Ford passenger cars in that it is specially designed throughout in proper pattern and strength for heavy-duty service. It has a final drive of the worm gear type, so that all gears are enclosed. Rear wheels are equipped with solid tires. Front tires are pneumatic. Standard Ford motor, transmission and

Ford Prices Advance

R. L. Phillips, Ford Dealer for this territory was in town this week. While here, we asked Mr. Phillips what he thought of the Automobile situation with particular reference to the advance of $100 in Fords.

He said that not only had the price advanced, but that owing to production of tractors for Government use, etc., the production of Fords at present was away below requirements. Since August 1, 1917, only 24 cars had been allotted to him in Carleton county. Of these all but 6 are already sold and delivered. At this season of the year, he usually has 50 or 60 cars on hand in this county and this year has 6.

Mr. Phillips says that owing to the scarcity of labour and materials he expects to see Fords raise another $100 before June, and that he will not have half enough to supply the demand.

Florenceville Women's Institute

The Florenceville Women's Institute held a very successful meeting at Mrs. John McLean's on Feb. 12. About 45 ladies were Several of the members present at the meeting, and also other people who have heard of it, have expressed a wish to get that paper to read for themselves again, which goes to show that the paper was good enough to repay more than one reading.

Mrs. Melville gave a short but interesting paper on "Prevention and Cure of Colds".

Mrs. E. S. Semple sang a solo, which was much appreciated.

It was a snowy night but everyone had a good time and did not regret turning out in the storm. A number of socks were handed in. Just here I would like to thank the friends of the Institute who, although not members, are doing knitting for the Institute, with yarn supplied by us.

C.S.E.T. Convention

After Mr. Buckley's address the conference president, Hedley Colpitts of Woodstock, took charge of the closing session of the conference. Minutes of earlier sessions were read by the secretary, Drummond McCunn of Woodstock, and favorably confirmed. A resolution was passed expressing heartfelt appreciation of Rev. L. A. Buckley's visit, which he was only able to carry out by a special effort. Also one of thanks to the Hartland people for their delightful hospitality, and also to those who took an active part in making the conference a success.

The "split front" which is a frequent feature of C.S.E.T. conferences, was then presented by representatives of the various churches, the Y.M.C.A. and the Sunday School Association: Rev. N. Franchette for Anglican church, E. C. Morgan for the Baptist, Rev. G. S. Helps for the Methodist, Clyde Ridgout for the S. S. Association and Rev. L. A. Buckley for the Y.M.C.A. Each representative gave a speech of a sentence or two. Then came reports of the various delegations, followed by statements by several of the boys of their object in coming to the conference. Especial interest attached to the remarks of Merritt Stokes, who walked eleven miles from Florenceville late Saturday evening to attend the Sunday sessions.

For the closing exercises, the usual form for C.S.E.T. conferences was used, the same as at the large provincial every fall. The boys and the leaders formed a square into the aisles and on the platform, joining hands. The hymn "Blest be the tie that binds" was sung with intervals for silent prayer after each verse—after the first verse, each boy prayed silently for his right hand neighbor, after the second for his left hand neighbor, after the third for the boys at the front, and after the fourth for their parents and homes. Before the singing of the last verse, hands were unloosed, signifying that each member must now go out from the conference to strive alone to carry out the resolutions made during the sessions.

The national anthem was then sung, and the benediction pronounced by Rev. G. S. Helps, and Hedley Colpitts, the president declared the conference closed.

On Saturday evening the boys were most pleasantly entertained in the vestry of the Baptist church by the young lady members of the co-operating churches. A splendid repast, reserved and there was an appropriate program of music.

Coldstream ROLLER MILL

is equipped with the newest, most up-to-date machinery that is put up for the manufacture of flour and meal. Housed in on the sturdiest and snugest buildings built for such purpose in the province. Driven by ample power, and operated by skilled millmen, the product turned out by us is not surpassed by any anywhere and is equalled by but few. Bring good wheat and you are certain of high-grade flour. Our roller process buckwheat mill produces more meal and bran than any other. We regrind the hulls and obtain a surprising amount of good bran that would otherwise go out with the waste. Come see our mill in operation. Bring a grist with you.
