Crisis Prolonged Till Thursday Evening.

(Special by telegraph from our own representative.) Ottawa, July 10.-Today Mr. Laurier asked Mr. Foster for information as to the resignations of three prominent Ministers. Mr. Foster said that he would have to ask Mr. Laurier to cultivate the virtue of patience. He would make a positive statement tomorrow.

Mr. Laurier-I have asked so often that I think I have it in perfection now, and to prove it I will wait until tomorrow.

LORD ABERDEEN'S ACTION. The political situation tonight is one of uncertainty and contradiction. That Lord Aberdeen is using his office to heal existing differences and dissensions has found confirmation in the fact that after a conference with the Premier this morning he sent for the three striking French Ministers, with whom he held a lengthy interview. Whether this interview is to be productive of good results or not may only be speculated upon, although the announcement of this conference was shortly followed by the report that a reconciliation was in sight.

CONFLICTING REPORTS. One of the leading French Tories said tonight that Taylor, the Tory whip, who has been opposed to remedial legislation in any form, has been busy this afternoon canvassing the Englishspeaking Tories to be moderate in their demands and concede a point or two rather than break up the party. As a result of this, it is stated by some of the French members that the Government will agree to bring down a remedial bill this session.

On the other hand it is held that if there is to be any backing down it must come from the kicking French Tories, and that the Government will ge no further with its pledges than those to which it has committed itself by the declaration made by Mr. Foster in the House of Commons and Sir Mackenzie in the Senate on Monday.

From another quarter it is learned that the French Ministers are prepared to return to the fold if the Premier will explain to their satisfaction what interpretation he placed on that clause of his declaration to Parliament on Monday, when he said the Government would be prepared next session to afford an adequate measure of relief to the Catholic minority. It is contended by the French Ministers that what their English-speaking colleagues might consider adequate relief might not har monize with their views as to what would prove "adequate relief." the definition of this point it is believed that much depends, and that it is likely to have a material bearing upon the

At midnight the probabilities were that by noon tomorrow the French Ministers will be mollified and in their seats when the House opens. Sir Hector Langevin thinks he sees a chance to get reinstated in the Cabinet, and sent word this morning to Sir Mackenzie Bowell that if he could not get the French Ministers to come back there were others he might apply to. This hint may be useful to Premier Bowell if he is reduced to the dire necessity of taking Sir Hector Langevin into the Cabinet. THE SMASH DELAYED.

(Brantford Expositor.) Ottawa, July 10.-4 p.m.-The Cabinet at its meeting this morning decided to resign. The French Conservatives held a caucus this morning, and concluded to not bolt today. After the Cabinet council, Bowell sent for Caron, Ouimet and Angers, and held a lengthy conference. Ouimet, in pursuance of caucus decision, proposed that the Cabinet give a delay of 34 hours before resigning. This was agreed to, and the smash which is inevitable is shoved over today. Ontario Conservatives talk of immediate dissolution and elections within 30 days, with Foster as Premier. They are disgusted with Bowell, whom they accuse of wrecking the party.

OBJECT TO BEING FOOLED. The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto World (Conservative), telegraphing late on Tuesday night, says: the conditions on which the French Conservatives have insisted are not complied with, they will say that their withdrawal has been dictated by a lack of confidence in the statements of their colleagues. They claim in effect that they have been given pledge after pledge in the most solemn manner, only to be broken, and that after experience of this session they will be deceived no longer. They were promised, they claim, in the most explicit terms remedial legislation this session. Now they are asked to have it postponed. They say that if they do not have the most exlicit statement now a shuffle or some thing else will occur, and they will be dumped again. Mr. Angers is the most insistent of them all, and to save themselves Caron and Ouimet must go his

Disastrous Finale of the Elks' Festivities,

One Thousand People Precipitated Through a Falling Floor-Many Badly Injured.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 10. - A frightful accident terminated the Elk festivities at the Inlet Casano tonight, in which a large number of persons sus-tained terrible injuries, from which some will die. It was 9:30 o'clock when Grand Exalted Ruler of the body in Buffalo, M. D. Detweiler, of Harrisburg, had finished his address at the opening of the social session of the Elks, and was about to introduce J. J. Armstrong, when a crackling sound was heard. A moment later the floor upon which were almost 1,000 people slowly opened, and the mass of humanity was precipitated to the first floor, a distance of 25 feet. Men, women and children were plunged into the hole and upon one another. The cries, shrieks and groans were deafening, and the direct, confusion reigned. An alarm of fire was instantly sent out, and all the physicians in town responded. The work of extrication of the injured proceeded rapidly, and by 12 o'clock they had all been re moved to the hospitals or to their

While the work of rescue was going on the lights on the first floor became extinguished and plunged the place in darkness. Men ran to a near-by barn and obtained a number of headlights from the cars, and with these were able to proceed with the work of rescue. M. A. Rogers, ex-president of the Senate of New Jersey, was seated by the side of his wife in the section that fell. Mrs. Rogers was precipitated to the ground, but Senator Rogers had both hands caught between two beams and hung suspended until released. More than 50 persons from all parts of the country were injured.

One of the most deliberate suicides recorded in the city for a long time occurred at Wolseley Barracks at 9:30 this morning, Private Francis O'Brien, a British pensioner, was the man who took his own life.

At the time mentioned the report of a rifle rang out upon the air, and it had a very startling effect upon the men, for no rifle practice was being indulged in in the vicinity. The sound came from the north end of the east wing, over the sergeants' canteen, and Corporal John Cockburn, who was near the entrance, began to investigate. On entering the building he detected the smell of burned powder. No sign of fire could be seen on the ground floor, and he went upstairs. The fumes of powder were still stronger there. The library and an adjoining room were open, and in the former Private Travers was sitting reading a newspaper. He had heard the report, and informed Cockburn that he thought it was in the next room, but he had not endeavored to find out. Cockburn tried the lecture room door, and, finding it unlocked, but securely fastened, and smoke issuing through the keyhole, he informed Col. Smith. The door was forced open, and a fearful sight met the gaze of the men. On a bench on the north side of the room was Private O'Brien, with a large wound in his mouth. A rifle, with the barrel pointed towards his head, rested in O'Brien's arms. His boots and stockings were on the floor a short distance away, while about four feet over his head was a large dent in the plaster, and in the ceiling a hole about the size of a silver dollar. On the blackboard was the following in O'Brien's handwriting:

"Getting to be an old man; "Do not think life is worth living." A pool of blood about three feet square was on the floor, making the sight a very sickly one. Col. Smith was at once convinced that it was a case of suicide, most deliberately planned. O'Brien was seen around the square about 6:30 o'clock, and appeared in his usual mood. After that, however, he kept in seclusion, and was not heard of or seen again until found in the library. Some of the men are puzzled as to how he could possibly have repaired to the lecture room with his rifle without being detected, but it was simple enough. Breakfast was served at 8 o'clock, and while the men were in the dining room O'Brien is supposed to have made the journey from his quarters, which was very short. After reaching the room he placed two heavy nails in the door latch, making it He next sat down, took off his boots and stockings, took his rifle and, placing the barrel in his mouth, pulled the triggger with his toe. He scarcely moved afterwards. The rifle ball, which was of 32-caliber, was of a very hard material, and did not flatten as the lead ones do. It knocked O'Brien's front teeth out, went through the roof of the mouth, and came out at the back of the head. It next struck the wall about four feet above, and then went through the ceiling.

notified the The officials at once proper authorities, and Dr. Flock decided to hold an inquest. Col. Smith and theofficers of the barracks formed a court of inquiry, and will report the circumstances to the Militia Department at Ottawa.

O'Brien had been connected with the school for nearly six years, and during the early portion of his service had advanced himself and became a noncommissioned officer. But he became of very unsteady habits, and one by one his stripes were removed until he was reduced to a private. He came from England, where he was enlisted in the Gloucestershire Regiment, and had seen active service. Every quarter he received a pension from the British Government, but this generally over the bar. went second day of the month O'Brien drew his pension, and nothing was seen or heard of him until Wednesday, when he returned. He was brought before the D. A. G. and given 28 days' confinement to barracks. Lately he had appeared worried and despondent. O'Brien was a Roman Catholic, 46 years of age, nd had no wife or family.

WHAT DO WE WEIGH?

A French doctor has pointed out that several fallacies are common with regard to the weight of the human body. The man who congratulates himself on his gain of several pounds in weight over a given period may have no cause for rejoicing, for he may be under a delusion. Very few people, says this French investigator, have any correct idea of their own weight. As a rule, the correctness of his scale may be doubted, the weight of his clothing not taken into account, the time which has elapsed since eating, etc.

As a matter of fact the weight of the body is continuously changing, owing to innumerable influences. On a warm day after breakfast a man will lose more than a third of a pound per hour. Seventy per cent of the body consists of water, and thus its weight must vary with the transpiration of moisture Therefore the inferences drawn from the loss or gain of a pound or two may be mistrusted. Fluctuations of a few ounces per day are a sign that the body is in a healthy state.—Chambers' Jour-

He is really a curiosity he is so ugly, and when she saw him he was looking worse than ever, for he had a boil on his nose. She couldn't say he was looking well. She couldn't say he had a sweet voice, for he notoricusly hasn't. It looked for a moment as if she were bowled out, but she wasn't. She rallied gallantly. With her sweetest smile, she grasped that ugly man's hand. "Oh, Mr. Blank," said she; "how do you do. You-you

THE GREAT CONVENTION.

Remarkable Development of Christian Endeavorers.

Tell-Tale Returns Submitted at Boston

Boston, July 11.—The annual report of John Willis Baer was read at 11:30 this morning before the Christian Endeavor Convention. The report was read simultaneously by Secretary Baer in Mechanics' building, by Rev. John Barstow, Medford, Mass., in tent Williston, and by Mr. J. E. Cheseman, Cleveland, Ohio, in tent Endeavor. The report opens as follows: Every useful wheel must have its hub. Every hub, to be useful, should have its wheel. Figuratively speaking, Christian Endeavor is a useful wheel; certainly Boston is the hub. As we are in the hub, let us turn the wheel upon its axis, and from the hub view its revolutions. Its cir-cumference equals that of the globe, and its spokes number thousands upon thousands. Each year the circumference of the Christian Endeavor wheel widens; each year thousands of spokes are added. Last year our wheel was strengthened by 7,750 new societies (or "spokes," if you please). This is the largest increase for any one year since "wheel" commenced revolving, fourteen years ago. "Spoke" after "spoke" passes our vision rapidly in this whirl of inspection; in all, 41,229. Of these 4,712 are from other lands, the United Kingdom heading the list with 2,645, which figure includes 180 from Wales, 112 from Scotland and 53 from Australia now has not less than 1,599; Africa, 30; China, 32; France, 64; India, 117; Japan, 59; Madagascar, 93; Mexico, 25; Turkey, 39; West India Islands, 63; and so on, till every country is represented, save five, Italy, Russia, Iceland, Sweden and Greece. And now the "spokes" from the DOMINION OF CANADA come into view. Ontario, with her remarkable growth of last year, leads, with 1,995; Nova Scotia, 388; Quebec, New Brunswick, 152; Manitoba, 156; Prince Edward Island, 62; Assiniboia, 53; British Columbia, 30; Alberta, 15; Saskatchewan, 5; in all, counting 5 in Newfoundland, 3,105, an increase of 1,223 during the past year. The report then refers to the number of junior societies, of which there are said to be 8,859 in the United States, 339 in Canada, and 224 from other lands, making in all 9,122 junior societies, with a membership of 340,000. Pennsylvania still leads the juniors with 1,023; New York not very far behind, with 920; Illinois next, with 746; Ohio, 623; Indiana, 470; California, 414. The report continues: And now we have counted the "spokes" as they have swept by our vision. A total of 41,229 societies, with an individual membership from every climate and every nation, with skins of varying color, of which 480 are red, 2,300 are yellow, 109,-490 are black, and 2,343,560 are white; in all a great interracial brotherhood

COMES TO THE NORTHWEST.

The banner for the greatest proportionate increase in the total number of societies during the year that was given to Oklahoma, then to Manitoba, then to New Mexico, and which has been in the custody of West Virginia during the last year, will now pass across the imaginary line for the coming year into the hands of our comrades in Assiniboia. Pennsylvania first captured the "badge banner," which is awarded each year for the greatest absolute gain. Ontario took it the next year, and then returned it to the Keystone State. Pennsylvania last year was obliged to give it up to England, where it has been displayed this year. It is in Boston today, and our honored guest who brought it from England's shores can proudly return with the banner, for none of the States have been able to equal the excellent record of the mother country. Ontario and Pennsylvania, in the order named, were not so very far behind, however. For the second time this banner crosses the briny deep. Guard it well: we intend to capture it for this side another year.

There are other banners, however, to be awarded—the junior badge ban-ners. Pennsylvania carried two junior banners from our last convention-one for the largest total number of junior societies, the other for the largest gain in one year. Pennsylvania is again entitled to both of these banners. The junior banner for the largest proportionate gain in number of societies was delivered last year by the District of Columbia to Delaware. Delaware this year must pass her banner to Assiniboia, for that Province has surpassed the record of all others. Shall Assiniboia hold two banners another year? When we gather next year we shall

THE CHURCHES EMBRACED. The denominational representation in the society in Canada is given as follows: The Methodists lead with 1,057 young people's societies and 122 junior societies, most of the societies known as Epworth Leagues of Christian Endeavor; Canadian Presbyterians are next, with 979 young people's societies and 108 junior societies; Baptists next, with 160 young people's societies and 26 junior societies; Congregationalists next, with 122 young people's so-cieties and 36 junior societies. The report also states that after careful gathering of statistics and information, and from advice received from the representatives of missionary boards, home and foreign, we find that the societies in the United States and Canada have contributed not less than $425,000 for missions at home and abroad.

HUMOROUS REPORTING.

Mr. Swift MacNeill once quoted in the House the judicial declaration of the late Baron Dowse of the Irish bench the "the resident magistrates could no more state a case than they could write a Greek ode," and it was deliciosly rendered by a reporter as "the resident magistrates could no more state a case than they could ride a Greek goat." Baron Dowes must have immensely enjoyed this rendering. He stated, in the course of a judgment in an action for libel against a newspaper, arising out of an incorrect report, that once in a speech in the House of Commons he had quoted Tennyson's line:

"Better fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay," and read next day that he had edified his audience with the following declara-

Better fifty years of true love than a circus in Bombay."

Foolhardy Boating Results in the Drowning of Four Persons.

A Woman Hangs Herself and Her Two Children - Two Fatal Eailway Accidents.

New rork, July 11.-Two men and two women were drowned in the East River last night as a result of recklessness. Two of the women and one of the men were laughing, joking and struggling on one side of the piers. Suddenly, no one knows just how it happened, they were precipitated into the water. Their names are unknown. The fourth person drowned was a young man who heroically tried to rescue them. His name is given as Michael O'Neill, a young steel engraver, of this city.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 11.—Mrs. Lena
Rotzner hanged herself to a closet door late yesterday afternoon after she had hanged two of her children in another room. She had been sick for a long time, and it is supposed she was insane. She sent her eidest daughter, aged 9, to visit a relative. Then she hanged her daughter Ella, aged 3 years, to the bed post, and tied a towel about the neck of her baby and hung it up on the post of its crib. After that she hanged herself. When discovered all were dead except the baby, and it was chewing the towel with which it was tied.

Fostoria, O., July 11.—Nathan Good-rich, head clerk at the Toledo and Ohio Central freight office, was out riding with his wife and son. When about a mile and a half south of the city the carriage was struck by an en-gine, and they were thrown under the wheels. Mrs. Goodrich and the little boy were killed, both being horribly mangled. Mr. Goodrich was seriously hurt, and his recovery is doubtful. Buenos Ayres, July 11.-In a collision which occurred between two immigrant trains at San Pablo, Province

Revival of Trade.

Reports from the United States support the view that grade interests have vastly improved recently and that the business outlook for the future is encouraging. This will be welcome news to the people of Canada, since our own trade interest will be stimulated and improved. In nothing has this improvement been shown in a more marked way than in the increased sales of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Times being dull, every-thing not absolutely needed became a luxury, and its sale became stationary. Now it is different. Sales have increased vastly, doubtless as it has proven the only safe, sure and painless remedy for corns, and wise people will use no other.

GENERAL ELECTIONS IN BRITAIN. The cable companies have been crowding their wires with news about the Cornell and Toronto boating crews, and their contests with British oarsmen, and they have had little to say about the great electoral battle now in progress in Great Britain. Nevertheless the fight in the constituencies, which will decide the fate of the two great political parties, is at fever heat, and will be well over before another ten days have elapsed. There has been a disposition in some quarters to take it for granted that because the Rosebery Government resigned, on a snap majority secured by the Conservatives in the House of Commons, the Liberals gave up all hope of success in the contest which they knew their retirement would force. The appearances now are that the resignation was a clever ruse, brought about to put Lord Salisbury on the defensive, and, strange though it may appear, it was jointly worked for by Liberals and by Mr. Chamberlain and his following in the House of

To throw the temporary responsibilities of office upon Lord Salisbury, and to compel him to formulate an electoral platform on the eve of an election was but the repetition of a clever expedient raeli and other astute leaders had successfully indulged. In Opposition, Lord Salisbury did not require to show his hand-at least to any extent-but the moment he was compelled to take office, to avoid a confession of his inability to assume the management of public affairs, the burden of criticism, of party jealousy, of discontent at his selections for offices of honor and emolument began. To compel Lord Salisbury and his associates to take office, and to suddenly face all this, was certainly to put them in a much less advantageous position to go to the country than if the Rosebery Government had voluntarily counselled dissolution, while leaving the Opposition chiefs to wield their deadly darts of irresponsible criticism.

The wisdom of the Liberal course, from the point of view of that party, has been amply vindicated by Lord Salisbury's arrogant attack on Mr. Campbell-Bannerman, the retiring War Minister, an indignity for which the Conservative leader was compelled to apologize. It was further sustained by the recent speech of Lord Salisbury, when, apparently counting on a large majority in the next Parliament, he spoke of the powers of the House of Lords in defiant tones. The compulsory assumption of office has been helpful to the Liberals in another way. It has compelled Mr. Chamberlain and his more ardent followers to go over body and bones to the Conservatives. Mr. Chamberlain can no longer pose as a "Dissident Liberal," gaining votes for his candidates that would never be given them if Liberal electors did not believe in their independence. That class of campaign was adopted at the last general election, and a number of seats were lost by the Liberals as a consequence. But the acceptance of office in the Sailsbury Government by Mr. Chamberlain and several of his relatives has effectively exploded the independence idea, and makes the atmosphere in the constituencies so much the clearer.

It has been said Mr. Chamberlain's ambition really led to the forcing of the vote of want of confidence, though Lord Salisbury was altogether opposed to forcing a dissolution at the present time. The reasons given are plausible. If the dissolution had taken place, with the Liberals in power, Lord Salisbury could have avoided making terms with the Chamberlainites. By forcing a dissolution, and compelling Lord Salisbury to take office at the eleventh hour. Mr. Chamberlain was able to secure the coveted offices in advance, whereas the actute Birmingham politician feared that if the distribution of offices did not take place prior to an election, and if Salisbury returned with a majority large enough to dispense with the Chamberlains, he would make terms to suit himself. As it is, the Chamberlain dissidents have received offices out of all proportion to their numbers, and the old-time Tories who have been given the go-by to make room for the recruits | and country. have their ardor chilled.

It is rash to speculate on the outcome of these elections, there are so many uncertain quantities in the fight. But it is well to bear in mind that the constituencies most favorable to Lord Salisbury will first be heard from, The cver the Twelfth of July, strongly Liberal constituencies vote on the closing days. For days in 1892 almost everyone in Canada believed that Gladstone was hopelessly beaten, but by the aid of the ridings which voted last he pulled through with a majority.

POINTS. London is the musical capital of Western Ontario.

The Ottawa mismanagers seem to be floundering in one inharmonious hole.

A correspondent wonders whether the several London musical societies might not profitably combine and make one strong organization.

The Bleus have no faith in Bowell's I. O. U.s. They demand cash down in place of paper at six months, which in the whirligig of politics may not be worth one centime at six days.

The sage editor of the Toronto Mail and Empire never saw the crisis at Ottawa until his nose was rubbed in-London will some day have its Music Hall, with a big organ. Meantime, it is satisfactory that the acoustic qualities of the Princess Rink are so admirable. The softest passages in Tuesday evening's programme were heard distinctly at the most distant end of the

From the way in which the Toronto World is speaking out on the remedial order, it is plain that the member for East York was one of the 39.

If an extra session of the Dominion Parliament is held, because of the bungling policy of the men in power, it will cost the country nearly $400,000. The era of extravagance and misrule cannot too soon be ended.

Lord Aberdeen returned to Ottawa this week, not on his own volition, but on an earnest petition from Premier Bowell, taken personally to Quebec by Mr. J. L. Payne, private secretary to the Government leader. So important did the Premier consider the message that he did not trust its delivery by mail or telegraph.

Though the London City Council has resolved to lay asphalt pavements on think that it would be well, at an early day, to put down a block or two of vitrified brick. Thus, as time passed, the wearing qualities of both pavements could be tested. Such a competition would put the makers of both pavements on their mettle, and prove a powerful object lesson.

The pledge of Clark Wallace to resign if his Government undertook to put the remedial order in force might as well be redeemed now. The Premier's I. O. U. has been given, and as far as that has any worth the deed

To many minds Ottawa cannot go further than to exempt separate school supporters from the necessity of paying public school rates.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Why did the men in power at Ottawa not stop to think of that when they issued their foolish remedial order on the Province of Manitoba?

Meddlesome United States newspapers are already naming President Cleveland's new baby for him. The concensus of opinion is that the third daughter will have a Bible name, like her sisters Ruth and Esther. In that case it should be Naomi, for we are told that "Naomi gathered sheaves

Some Conservative M. Ps. at Ottawa are kicking because the French-Conservative Ministers did not give the other members of the Government a respite

The Hamilton Spectator adopts the role of a candid friend towards its political leaders at Ottawa. Of the latest blundering and floundering of the men in power, it says:

"The situation is precisely what it was before, except that the Government has changed the imperious atti-tude it adopted towards Manitoba in the remedial order for the humiliating attitude of supplication, and now on bended knees asks Manitoba to do what a few months ago it was foolish enough to order that Province to do. Oddly enough, the Government follows its petition to Manitoba with a threat: | ods takes place.

That is more like the petition of a sturdy tramp at a kitchen door than the utterance of a dignified Govern ment."

According to the Spectator, the postponement, under such a pledge, does not better the situation. It makes it worse. The Hamilton Conservative organ is right; there can be no improvement till a change in men and in meth-

Grave Charges Against the Controller of Customs, and Mr. Wallace Challenged to Dis prove Them-Fraud and Perjury Condoned by the Department.

(Specially telegraphed by our own Representative.)

met this afternoon the bill removing the charter of the Lake Manitoba Failway Company was recommended to the railway committee, on motion of Mr.

When the House went into committee on the bill respecting the customs department, there was a lively debate and some serious charges against the Controller of Customs. The bill reconstructs the board of customs appraisers, but does not alter its character. Mr. McCarthy drew attention to the demand of the Montreal Board of Trade for the creation of a board of experts.

Mr. Lister denounced the administration of the customs department as tyrannical, and in the nature of a star chamber. He instanced the case of Boyd, Ryrie & Campbell, of Montreal, which was tried in the "little room on the hill." The firm secured Mr. Fullerton, of Toronto, as solicitor, and Mr. Fullerton was a close friend of the Controller of Customs. The firm of Boyd & Co. had defrauded, and in doing so had made false invoices and false affidavits, and yet had escaped, so far as the punishment of their crime was concerned. He challenged Mr. Wallace to ask for a committee, and charged that affidavits which would convict Mr. Boyd of perjury had been returned out of the department. Mr. Lister also referred to the case of Mr. Ogilvy, of Montreal, a miller, a friend of the Administration, and charged that he had defrauded the public revenue out of thousands of dollars by importing corn for export free of duty when it was not free. The affidavits in support of the entries were false. What did the Controller do, he asked, in the case of Mr. Ogilvy? Did he put him in jail, as ne did Mr. Mc-Greevy, or the poor fellow Watters, who was behind in his accounts $400 or $500? Did the Controller of Customs give back the affidavits approving the perjury in this case, and destory the evidence, or did ne prosecute? He appreciated the responsibilmore. ity of making these statements, and if Mr. Wallace thought proper to demand a committee, Mr. Lister undertook to produce the evidence in his possession establishing the statements he had made. The powers intrusted to one man were too great. The people should be all dealt with alike and in open court, and not in the private room of the Controller of Customs, Mr. Lister declared that there should be a radical

* * * * Mr. Wallace, in reply, said that Mr. Lister's statements, if true, would convict him as unfit to associate with honest men or to sit in Parliament. The evidence that Mr. Lister had was obtained from a convict. (This evidently referred to Mr. Watters, the ex-Commissioner of Customs, who is now in jail.) He denounced the statements as slanderous, so far as he was concerned. Respecting the case of Boyd, Ryrie & Campbell, frauds on the revenue were discovered extending over a series of years, perpetrated by means of false affidavits and fictitious invoices. The department was satisfied that the whole responsibility for the wrong rested on Boyd. In each step taken by him in the case he had been guided by the advice of Sir John Thompson. They had ascertained that the Government had been defrauded of

Mr. Lister-As far as you could find out. Mr. Wallace-As far as anybody could find out. And we imposed penalties to the amount of three times the unpaid duties, or $14,448, and every dollar was collected. It was true that Boyd made false involces and false affidavits. The fraudulent invoices were undoubtedly in the handwriting of Boyd. In January, 1894, Mr. Wallace wrote to Sir John Thompson, submitting the matter for the action of the Department of Justice, and enclosed the report of the acting Commis sioner of Customs, which showed that fraud and perjury had been committed.

In reply to questions from Mr. Mulock, Mr. Davies and Mr. Casey, Mr. Wallace stated that he did not knew that any action had been taken by the Department of Justice, nor had he received any reply to his letter. As to Mr. Fullerton, he had nothing to do with Boyd, but had been retained by Mr. Ryrie, who was a Toronto man and client of his. In the Ogilvy case, there were no affidavits required when corn was imported for export. The law was that when corn was manufactured into cornmeal for numan use a rebate of duty of 90 per cent was made. The affidavits had to state that this corn was used for human food. In Mr. Ogilvy's case the investigation was not concluded, and no decision has ever been given.

Mr. Lister asked what were the facts. but Mr. Wallace refused to give the facts, because the case was not closed. Nor would he say when the charge was made. He denied that the customs had power to appoint spies to enter business houses. Mr. Lister said was an extraordinary thing for the Controller to say that Boyd was alone guilty. Ryrie and Campbell profited by the transaction. They went scott free of criminal prosecution. He asked Mr. Wallace to say if the false affidavits had not been returned by someone in the department. "Are they in the department now?"

Mr. Wallace-Yes, they were yet. Mr. Lister added that his information was reasonably correct, and drew the attention of the House to the fact that no explanation had been attempted as to why men, who had committed fraud and perjury and forgery were never prosecuted. As to customs spies, in his own town of Sarnta they had gone into nearly every store and demanded invoices, and the same was true of Windsor; and moreover, they went to private houses and demanded

Ottawa, July 10 .- When the House I from the woman of the house large and small sums of money for alleged infraction of the customs law. As to Mr. Ogilvy's case, which Mr. Wallace said was under discussion, ne asked whether it had been that way for one, two or three years, and how far the investigation had gone? Had he satisfied himself that Mr. Ogilvy aid defraud the revenue, and that false affidavits were put into the department? In that case Mr. Wallace said that it was a case of an application for a refund of duty, and he presumed affidavits had been made. He has refused to pay the money which was in the hands of the receiver-general. Mr. Lister asked, "Are the affidavits on file still?" Mr. Wallace—Does my honorable friend say that they are a parcel of thieves in my department?

Mr. Foster said that the charge was that Mr. Ogilvy was guilty of fraud, and that he had stolen what he should not have got; but when Mr. Lister came to crawl out of the small end of the horn he now based his charge on a matter of rebate by Mr. Ogilvy, when the money had never been out of the hands of the receiver-general, and where it would remain till Mr. Ogilvy's claim was substantiated. He thought Mr. Lister answered himself.

Mr. Lister reiterated his position, and after further debate the committee reported the bill with an amendment by Mr. Tupper abolishing the office of assistant commissioner of customs.

On the third reading of the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo bill, a division took place on an amendment moved by Mr. MacLean, of York, providing a 2cent rate, which was defeated by 39 to 113. Messrs. Foster and Laurier both voted no.

A CHARACTERISTIC DEAL. At the public accounts committee Hon. John Costigan was examined this morning with reference to the Tobique Valley Railway. One very damaging fact was brought out. It was that Mr. Costigan, who was the Secretary of State, bought upon the 12th of May, 1890, some gypsum property of were two cases, but he had were two cases, but he had line of the Tobique Valley road, and that upon the 13th of May, the day following, the Government granted the road additional subsidies to the extent of $25,000. Mr. Lister said the Hansard showed that when the Government asked for this subsidy to be voted, Mr. Mulock asked who held the gypsum lands, and was informed by Mr. Costigan that they were held chiefly by the Provincial Government and one or two private parties. Mr. Costigan protested that his only motive for seeking subsidies for the railway was to discharge his duty to his constituency. In reply to further questions, he admitted that in 1893 he transferred his property to the Tobique Valley Gypsum Mining and Manufacturing Company, receiving therefor $20,000 worth of paid-up stock in the company. Further questioning tended to show that the property had been sold to Mr. Costigan at a sacrifice price by the former owner, Mr. Arbuckle, who was tired of waiting for the road to be built, and that as soon as he (Cost! gan) obtained an interest in the land a Government subsidy was forthcoming to complete the road, and his property was sold at a greatly increased

> NOTES. The railway committee again threw out the Lake Manitoba Railway Bill, which was referred back to the committee by the House. It was opposed by the Hudson Bay Railway interest. Mr. Gemmell, an Ottawa solicitor, appeared for the bill, and Mr. Hamel, Winnipeg, and Mr. Hugh Sutherland against it. Mr. Martin, of Winnipeg, said that the people in the Dauphin district-which was unsurpassed for its fertility-should have a railway. On a division the bill was thrown out by 33 to 34, a majority of 1. The last time it was rejected by 36 to 37. almost a party division, but Mr. Gibson (Liberal) voted against the bill, and consequently changed the result.

BASEBALL.

SWEET REVENGE. It was revenge of the sweetest kind that the London Alerts took out of the Galt ball tossers on Tecumseh Park Yesterday afternoon. Comparatively speaking, it was a worse walloping than the Alerts received in Galt on Saturday last, when the score stood 22 to 9. But it showed plainly that Billy Reid's collection can play baseball around any team in the league when they are in good condition.

Yesterday's game drew about 1,000 people to Tecumseh Park, and on the return they all sung the praises of Mike Carney, London's left-paw twirler. For Carney was in elegant trim, and not a run was made off his curves. Hiscott occupied the box for London for two innings, and as Lyons stepped to the plate and pounded out a two-bagger, every person looked serious—really serious. Cockman followed, and both he and Lyons scored and the side retired. In their second Galt repeated the dose with hits by Johnson, Lyons and Cockman, Lyons scoring one of the two runs on the slow return of the ball from right.

This finished the scoring as far as Galt was concerned, for Carney replaced Hiscott, and the farthest Galt ever saw afterwards was third base, and that on only two or three occasions. The fireworks began in the sixth. and on account of the appreciation dis played by the spectators they were repeated in the eighth. Player, Carney and Sheere reached the bags in the sixth, and with none out, Thorpe hit to second, sending Player in, but forcing Sheere out. Thorpe stole second, Hiscott landed in center, taking only one base himself, but sending Carney and Thorpe over the plate. Wood retired at first, Hiscott went to second on the hit, stole third while Burnett was sleeping, and was nipped at the plate while trying to tally on a bluff of Farnsworth to steal second. opening of the eighth looked rather cloudy, for Carney came to bat and went out easily. The sun began to shine when Sheere hit along the left line, and the bleachers screamed louder than the Americans on July 4 when Thorpe landed the leather between center and left. Caldwell and Spalding were both looking, but didn't move for the ball until it landed, and in the meantime Sheere was bolting for home. He reached there safely, the ball when thrown in striking Umpire Latham instead of Catcher Lyons. There was no end of kicking over this accident, but the umpire was running the show and his word went and Sheere's run count-Hiscott and Wood in turn made hits, Thorpe went to third and was forced in by Burnett giving Farnsworth a base on galls. Burnett became very wild, and on throwing to third. when Jones was absent from the bag, he allowed Hiscott and Wood to go home. He next allowed Farnsworth to score on another bad throw. Button and Tierney retired at first, and the side was out. Thus the Alerts made three in the sixth and five in the eighth, and with in the first five innings made their total il runs. This was increased one in the ninth by Carney.

And all the time this fun for London was going on, Galt players were kicking against the umpire, who happened to be Latham, a member of the Tecumsehs in Fred Goldsmith's time. Latham. however, was conversant with baseball rules and let Galt know it. He umpired the game very impartially, and the Alerts would make a good stroke to secure him on future occasions. Altogether the same was an exhibition of good fielding, only three errors be-

Henley-on-Thames, July 10.—Press and public are a unit in praise of the Argonaut crew, and rowing men are agreed that a better stroke or better steering crew was never witnessed at Henley. All the sporting papers, too, have more or less to say in commendation of the Canadians. The Sporting Life says: "Far and away the best race of the day was that of the London Rowing Club and the Argonauts, of Toronto. The manner in which the Canadians held on suggested the tenacity of a terrier. Their burst of speed was worth traveling 100 miles to see." And of "Bush" Thompson's effort it says: "The manner in which he went after Guiness was a caution, and his pluck gained many rounds of applause

Henley-on-Thames, July 11.—There was a larger crowd than usual assembled here today to witness the final heats on this the last day of the Henley regatta. When the Eaton College erew and the crew from St. John's College, Oxford, were sent away for the final heat for the ladies' challenge plate, at the third stroke Eton's No. 2 caught a crab and lay at the bottom of the boat for some moments unable to rise. The Oxford boat was a couple of lengths ahead, when the Oxford coxswain, H. C. Sells, cried "Ease all!" The Oxfords then returned to the point The Oxfords then returned to the point amid frantic applause, in which the umpire and others in his launch joined, while the Etons rattled the oars in the rowlocks in approval. "Bravo, Oxford!" was heard on all sides, and the cry "No more Cornell!" was heard from several hours. several boats.

The race was then started again, and the Eton crew won as they liked by DOCTORS DEFEATED. The notices "Back in ten minutes," or "In the country," which were displayed at a number of office doors yeslerday, indicated to the initiated that terday, indicated to the initiated that the first of the annual series of games of cricket between the doctors and lawyers was being played at the asylum. Today some of the legal notices are covered with a record of victory, but those on the medical doors have all been removed. Various things "did it."

The lawyers howled too well the doc-The lawyers bowled too well, the doctors batted without vim, the luncheon was too satisfactory, the band played during the second inning and surgeons cannot operate to music, Dr. Jones didn't play, Dr. Smith played better than was expected and made the others nervous, Dr. Robinson was sent for during the match and refused to go. These, "and more than these," account for the result, but the lawyers, who expected defeat, are as jubilant as reprieved criminals. Interest was added to the game by the presence of Dr. Beemer, who took his old place as captain and played with his accustomed spirit. The batting on neither side was what it has been, with the exception of Mr. H. C. Pope's 53, which was equal to the best performances in these matches. The medical eleven sustained a serious loss in Dr. Ross' removal from London, and yesterday they were further weakened by the unavoidable absence of their crack bat, Dr. Williams. The pleasures of the day were enhanced by the sweet playing of the asylum band, under Dr. Sippi's kind and capable leadership, and the teams were placed under an obligation by the umpiring of Rev. F. W. Terry and Rev. Mr. Dan, a visiting Irish cricketer of note, and by the scoring of Mr. George B. Sippi. We append

THE WEATHER TO-DAY. Fine; warmer.

To spend vacation, it is desirable as well as wise to take with you one or more warm dresses in case a spell of cold weather should be met. Those who have traveled much know what this means. They know that for the greater part of the time they are likely to require dresses of light, cool material, but experience has taught them the necessity of being fully equipped with warm dresses for cool and rainy weather emergencies. We only require to mention this. Our readers will catch the idea that it is uncomfortable as well as very much out of place to be un-seasonably attired. It won't cost much to get either kind of dresses from us. We have them for all kinds of weather. But today we want to speak about a line of Dress Goods you should see and purchase of before

ALDERMANIC BOODLING.

Serious Charges Against City Councilors in Chicago.

Chicago, July 11.-At the request of State Attorney Kern, Judge Tuthill has issued a call for a special grand jury which is to investigate charges of bood-ling in the council. The information was given to State Attorney Kern by H. H. Kohlsat, of this city, The evidence was secured through a hole in the ceiling of Ald. Finkler's office in the Chamber of Commerce building. The charge will be that certain aldermen attempted to procure bribes in connection with an ordinance introduced some time since into the council providing that the citizens of Chicago should be given pure ice. The terms of this ordinance were such that it would have driven a number of the ice companies of the city out of business, and they naturally used all possible efforts to defeat it. It was brought to the ears of the managers of the ice companies that a certain clique in the council will consent to smother the ordinance for a consideration of $50,-000. The ice companies seemingly fell into the trap, and while conducting negotiations arrangements were made to entrap the aldermen.

Large Crowds Attend the Festival Concerts Here.

Owen Sound and Exeter Carry Off the Honors

Without Opposition—The Presentation of Batons.

There must have been between 3,000 and 4,000 people on the grand stand's at Queen's Park yesterday to hear the open air concert of the United Choirs' Musical Festival. The concert stand was filled and the open one to the north was crowded within hearing distance. Within the race track seating accommodation had been provided for several hundred singers, the platform being arranged so that the bassos faced the tenors, the sopranos occupying the middle space, with the children. All the vocalists were on tiers of seats, the London Symphony Orchestra and the Waterloo Musical Society Band being stationed on the level platform in the center. Canvas had been stretched over the performers' stand to protect them from the sun, but the wind was too violent to permit it to remain. Umbrellas were plentiful, however, and the cool breeze tempered the heat to a pleasant degree, though sometimes the gusts would carry the melody away from the would carry the melody away from the spectators at a distance.

The concert was a disappointment in one respect—the choir competition was without competition. Exeter provided the only mixed chorus, and Owen Sound the only male chorus. Five entries had been made, but for reasons unexplained none presented themselves in the competitive trial but the two mentioned. This was unexpected. The remainder of the programme was given in its entirety. It opened with the ov-erture, "Lancredi," by the Waterloo Musical Society Band, whose playing has been one of the finest features of the festival. "The Dominion Hymn," composed by Ald, G. W. Armstrong, of London, was rendered by the united choirs, the children, the band and the orchestra, conducted by the energetic secretary of the festival, Mr. C. Winter. The effect was excellent. Mr. Armstrong's selection has much merit, and may be classed among the enduring patriotic hymns of the Dominion.

In the absence of Sir John Carling, a brief address of welcome was delivered by Ald. Armstrong. The hymn, "Unchangeable, Almighty God," given by the combined company, led by Mr. Frank Ruse, of Exeter. The Exeter mixed choir opened the "competition" with four selections, "The Departure," "The Nightingale," "The Vale of Rest" and "The Singers." Mr. Ruse wielded the baton. Their execution was highly creditable, and evoked well-merited applause. "The Singers," a piece of their own choosing, was so well given that Mr. Winter asked them to repeat it at the evening concert.

The Owen Sound male chorus sang going to stay right here and "Home, Sweet Home." It proved a well-balanced and well-trained organispend your holidays here for zation. God Save the Queen. THE CONCLUDING CONCERT. The visitors must have been gratified at the hearty manner in which citizens supported the festival. The audience at the concluding concert in the Princess Rink last night numbered about 2,000, and was generous in its appreciation of a really excellent programme. Mayor Little presided, and made a capital chairman. In order that many of the visitors might catch their trains for home the performance was shortened by the omission of a number by the Waterloo Band and by the curtailment of encores. The overture, "Ruebezabl," and the valse, "Mein Schoerster Lag," revealed the superior work of this band, which is proficient in the highest class of music. The anthem "Gloria," the hymn "Abide With Me," and the choruses "Heavens Are Telling" and "Achieved Is the Glorious Work" were rendered by the London Choral Society and the Exeter mixed choir, accompanied by the Waterloo Band and London Symphony Orchestra. The society repeated the triumph of the previous evening. A pleasing feature, not announced on the programme, was the reappearance of Mr. Fred Jenkins, the celebrated tenor. Mr. Jenkins has established himself as a great favorite with London audiences, and he was warmly greeted last night. Both his selections were enthusiastically encored. He has a superb voice, remarkably clear and confident in the Higher

Prof. A. S. Vogt, the well-known Toronto musician, gave a brief and pointed address on "Choir Organization and Church Music." He made an able plea for a better class of church music. He instanced "Onward Christian Soldier" as an example of the righer order of hymns, and "Hold the Fert" as beneath the standard to which choirs should attain. The pleasant duty devolved upon

Prof. E. Fisher, of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, of announcing the decision of the judges in the afternoon competition and of making the awards. The possible number of points was 100. There were light qualities criticised balance and quality of tone, intonation, phrasing, enunciation, expression choice of tempo, attack and correctness The Exeter Mixed Choir were highest in enunciation and intonation, and the Owen Sound chorus in enunciation, expression, choice of tempo, phrasing and correctness. Prof. Fisher then handed the leaders of the two choruses—Dr. Cavanagh, of Owen Sound, and Mr. Ruse, of Exeter-handsome ivory and ebony batons, tipped with gold and silver respectively. They were valued at $75 each. Each member of both choirs also received a handsome badge, goldtrimmed.

Special to C. E. Turner, broker, Masonic Temple, from Kennett, Hopkins Company.

Chicago, July 10 .- The May report of the Government gave a condition of 82.9 for winter wheat. On the day it was issued May wheat closed at 62 7-8c and next day at 64 3-8c. The condition was then considered bullish. The cash price is now about where it was then. On a condition of 71.7 last month July wheat sold above 81c. If the condition should be still lower this month, as seems probable, what will the market do? We have had a 20c reaction from the top. Weak holders have been shaken out, and the market is in good condition to bull again, especially as a condition better than 71c. pecially as a condition better than 71c is expected. The spring wheat con-cition will undoubtedly be high. The damage has been slight since July. The market today has recovered a portion of yesterday's break on damage reports from the Northwest, which are oute serious. The effect of frost and hot winds is beginning to tell, and many think the crop will be no larger than last year.

Corn and Oats—Covering by shorts has lifted prices materially, and the market looks as if it might go still higher before it begins to sell off again. Provisions rather active within moderate range. Live Stock Markets.

Crisis Still On

An All-Morning Session of the Dominion Cabinet.

The Breach Wider Than the School Blundering.

Premier Bowell Ignored and Slighted by Colleagues.

Ottawa, July 11-2:30 p.m.-The best information available as to the sitution is that the deadlock is as bad' as ever. The Ministers are now assembled in council, endeavoring to find a solution before 3 o'clock. Later.-It is reported that Ouimet and Caron have come back, but that Angers remains out. 3 p.m.—The news is confirmed that Ouimet and Caron have gone back, but Angers remains out. It is stated that Sir Hector Langevin will take Angers' place, and Dupont, acting for Angers, will move a vote of want of confidence in the Commons. MR. HAGGART WANTS TO BE BOSS The question with Mr. Haggart is not one of schools. He has not any conscientious scruple about schools, either one way or the other, but he has a bitter antipathy to Premier Bowell and those who are supporting him, and the Minister of Railways sees a splendid opportunity of wrecking Sir Mackenzie's leadership. About that every-body who has closely watched political affairs here are of one opinion. Sir Mackenzie Bowell is in favor of remedial legislation. To force him out of the Cabinet Mr. Haggart first supported the measure, and afterwards opposed it, bringing with him nearly all the Ontario Conservatives. To hang on to power a few months longer the Government is willing to promise anything today and go back on their promise tomorrow. No one knows this better than Mr. Ouimet, and his bold statement at the present time that this is the character of his colleagues is one of the strongest condemnations that could be laid against the Government THE PREMIER SLIGHTED. Premier Bowell could, of course, secure three French Ministers from the Senate, and, indeed, the only way he can obtain a harmonious working Cabinet is to have every member of it in the Senate, as the following incident will show, revealing, as it does, the lack of unity in the Cabinet and the contempt felt by the Commoners for their nominal leaders, which occurred on the floor of the Senate Monday evening. Mr. Scott on the motion to adjourn asked if there was to be any further legislation respecting the Hudson Bay Railway. Premier Bowell replied that there would be none, and almost rebuked Mr. Scott by reminding him that the leader of the Government in the other House had stated the same thing; he could repeat this. The Senate then adjourned, and immediately Mr. Daly came up to the Premier and informed him that Mr. Haggart had some hours before giving notice of a bill respecting the Hudson Bay Company. The Premier's wrath knew no bounds. In fact he fell into a terrible rage before both Mr. Daly, Senator Power, a correspondent, and a number of others who were standing near. "Why," he exclaimed, "I have just told Senator Scott that no further legislation would be brought down." He used other and strong language, and undoubtedly felt his position keenly. The beautiful grounds abound in "shady nooks" and "babbling brooks," etc., and numerous trout ponds, where that delicious member of the finny tribe abounds. After the boys had explored the grounds and mysteries of the "step-ping stones" and climbed "the tree," etc., all returned to the house, which was very prettily decorated with Chinese lanterns, etc. Here the boys were entertained by a musical programme and a sumptuous repast of refresh-ments, all of which were well enjoyed, especially the latter. One of the most amusing events on the programme was the candle race, in which the contestants had to run a certain distance and return with lighted candles in their hands. It was run in heats, the final being won by Mr. Bert Thomas, and the ladies' candle race was won by Miss Tye. At the conclusion of the programme above. sion of the programme cheers were given for the ladies and mine host Ernie, who made a capital host, and was ably seconded by his charming sisters. The boys returned home by the light of the moon. All extend a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. White and family for the most enjoyable evening.

THE RING. Austin, Texas, July 11.—A delegation of the ministers of Austin have called on Governor Culbertson and earnestly appealed to him to prevent the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight at Dallas, saving that it was a burning shame. The governor gave them a respectful hearing and assured them that if the provisions of the law were adequate that officers would see to it that the fight would not come off. The ministers say they want the law made adequate so as to prevent the fight.

Julius Molesworth's face lighted up, a gleam flashed from that strange eye of his, and he looked almost handsome. "I could not make you understand, but—Did you ever have any great ambition?' he suddenly asked, with rather a doubtful look at the elderly and somewhat benevolent countenance before

Mr. Gryce smiled. 'You may talk to me as if I had," he

'Listen then. I am on the verge of attaining mine. I have a case, peculiar, striking in its complications, known to all the profession. It has hitherto baffled the skill of every man who has attempted to handle it; even 's interest was aroused, and he gave it his best attention, but to no avail, and now I, I know that I have found the requisite remedy, discovered the necessary course of treatment. You will find it all on that paper. And with this prospect before me, this certainty I may say, you ask me what I want of Dr. Cameron, the ablest man I know among the rising practitioners of the

"I think I understand," said Mr. Gryce; "but put it into words. I want to know just what ground I am standing on. "Well, then, if I must lose my liberty, this poor woman must not lose her life nor science the prospect of a valuable discovery. Though I should have preferred to make my own experiments, I shall be at comparative ease if I can get some one upon whose judgment I can thoroughly rely to make them for me. But where is the man I can trust? I can think of but one, Dr. Cameron. He has the ambition and he has the great qualities of mind necessary to arry out the test I propose, in the face of all the opposition he will receive. To him, then, I wish to consign this case and immediately. Have I made myself clear to you, and is there any hope of my wishes being complied with?"

Mr. Gryce closed the pen-knife, whose sharp blade he had been considering through this long speech, and silently raised his head. The doctor surveyed him anxiously. What were his thoughts? His oldest friend and most trusted colleague could not have dis-decided Mr. Gryce. Dr. Molesworth bowed his thanks, then made his final preparations for leaving. As they turned to quit the room he touched the detective on the

"Are you at liberty to tell me upon what evidence I have been arrested?" Mr. Gryce's mouth grew stern. That is the province of the district attorney. I am the arm of the law and not the mouth."

Dr. Molesworth said no more. A carriage was at the door, and they rede to police headquarters. What passed there it is not necessary to relate. Enough that in half an hour they emerged, and getting again into the carriage, told the driver to take them to Jersey City. As Mr. Gryce was buying the tickets, Dr. Molesworth whispered in his ear: "One other thing is requisite. We must surprise the doctor in his room. I am no favorite of his, and I doubt if he would listen to me if he had opportunity to escape my arguments. Promise me you will take him unawares—as you did me." The detective pocketed his change and turned; the prospect of traveling was evidently agreeable to him. He looked quite young.

"We will surprise him," he replied. "I have no wish to do anything else." Did he anticipate any discoveries in Washington?

CHAPTER XI.

There are dark pictures, and there are bright ones. From the doctor's dull office let us pass to a sunny room in Washington, where in the light of a declining sun, Dr. Cameron sits gazing with tender eyes upon his bride as she toys with a card of invitation which has just been handed in. 'You will have to answer it," she averred, closing the fingers of her right hand with a look of pain; "my rheumatism is no better.' "And what shall that answer be?"

he inquired; "yes or no?" For a moment she looked thoughtful; then she smiled.

"You enjoy those gayeties," she remarked; "let us make the most of "And do you not enjoy them too?"

She sighed, drew herself up proudly and replied: "I enjoy being with you anywhere, even in crowds.' He knew she did; he knew that contrary to all his expectations he had a loving wife, and his heart warmed "Genevieve," he remarked, "you are coming out under the shadow. You look almost brilliant today." "Do I?" her look seemed to say. And moved by that look as he never expected to be by that of any woman, he arose and drew her down by his side, where he could contemplate her beauty to his heart's content. For Genevieve Cameron was beautiful, far beyond what Genevieve Gretorex had ever promised to be. Even a stranger must acknowledge this fact, and how much more the husband to whose love and devotion this pleasing change was undoubtedly due. Not only was her glance brighter and her smile more winning, but a physical change had taken place in her which altered her whole expression. He was thinking of this change now as he watched her color come and go under his gaze. He was thinking of it and wondering at its cause, as he had often done since it was first revealed to him on the morning following his marriage. Though he showed no evidence of abstraction, but the state of the conversation with but continued his conversation with unabated animation, he was in reality living over the astonishment and perplexity of that extraordinary moment. Let me state what he recalled. The day was the one after his marriage, and the time noon. He had just come in from a short walk. He had left his bride asleep on the lounge, worn out with the fatigues of their night journey and some trouble which he had not been able to fathom. He thought her still resting, so dark was the room and so void of any sound of welcome. But just as he was about to approach on tiptoe to the lounge where he had left her, he heard a low and smothered ex-clamation at his side, and turning, saw the figure of his wife bending toward the mirror that hung between the windows. She was looking at herself, and the weird reflection of her countenance stared wildly out upon him as her voice rose almost to a shrick, crying: "Light, give me more light!"

Astonished and yet more troubled, for he had not forgotten the fainting fit with which she had sealed the varied experiences of the night before, he rushed to the windows and hastily raised the shades. A low cry from his wife drew him back to her side.

"Look at me!" she exclaimed, with her two hands clasped over her face and her fingers buried deep in her hair.
"What is it?" he asked, and then gave utterance to an exclamation himself, for the head thus bowed in seeming shame before him was white as snow, white as a woman of ninety, whereas on yesterday it had been a glorious brown. The exclamation made her drop her hands, and for a moment they stood looking wildly upon each other; then

"Genevieve, you have had a terrible sorrow or some terrible pain, to produce such an effect as this. Which of the two is it, my poor darling? Speak, for I long to comfort you, whether it is grief or sorrow, or some fearful, unknown complaint."

Her answer had been a moan of joy, followed by a sudden burst of tears.
"O, I have suffered," she cried, "suffered fearfully. I never thought to get through these last few hours alive, but—" Her hand which she had held over her heart, as if the pain was there, suddenly left it, and flashed with a swift gesture towards the New York which he held in his hand.

"The Herald!" she cried, "let me see it; the notice of our marriage should be there." And with a laugh that was almost hysterical, she carried the paper with her towards the window, saying, 'Anything to forget that pain. Frivolity, if frivolity can do it."

More and more troubled, for these actions were scarcely those of a sane woman, he watched her with darkness in his soul for a moment, and then seeing that her eye ran intelligently over the columns, he sank into a chair questioning within himself as to what was to be his fate. The sweetest of sounds aroused him. Genevieve was at his feet, looking up into his face with a calm, almost an eostatic, expression.

"Do I act wildly?" she murmured, her eyes gleaming with a natural light that yet looked very brilliant in contrast to the snowy locks which framed them on either side. "I think it is because my heart is so satisfied while my body is so racked with pain. But even that is better today; my hand is all that troubles me now." And she cast her eyes down when she again became conscious of her white locks." (To be Continued.)

UNION PICNICS.

Of Three South London Sunday Schools.

Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist-Races, Prize Winners, a Big Crowd and a Grand Time.

The Askin Street Methodist, Knox Presbyterian and the Baptist Sunday schools of South London, held a union picnic at Port Stanley yesterday, and the hundreds of children, teachers and parents who went down to the lake shore had a good time. The promoters of the picnic had many substantial reasons for outing on the one day, and the great success attending their efforts will be a guarantee for union picnics in the future. The L. E. and D. R. R. ran several first class trains, and on arriving at Port the picnickers engaged themselves in the usual ways until 1:30 o'clock, when a series of races were begun on the hill. THE WOODSTOCK HOSPITAL

Formally Opened in the Presence of a Great Crowd of Visitors.

Woodstock, July 10.—At the opening of the new hospital here yesterday by Lieutenant-Governor Kirkpatrick the attendance of visitors during the afternoon was larger than its accommo-dation provided for, and it was found necessary to conduct the exercises in the open space in front of the building. After inspecting the building, in company with Mr. T. C. Paterson, of the Lieutenant-Governor addressed the gathering from the steps in front of the main entrance, and declared the hospital open. He characterized the building as being one of the best-equipped in the Province, and congratulated the people of Woodstock and the county on the success of their efforts to secure an asylum for the invaild. Addressesc of welcome were delivered by Mayor Cole and by S. M. Douglas on behalf of the hospital trust; Dr. Strange, of Toronto; Dr. Russell, superintendent of the Hamilton asylum; Dr. O'Reilly, superintendent of the Toronto General Hospital, and a few local speakers, gave short addresses. Of the larger fruits early peaches will be very scarce, and the later varieties will not be plentiful. In some sections plums are plentiful, but on the whole the crop will be poor. Pears will also be scarce Fortunately, the staple of all fruits, apples, will be a good crop.

HENRY GEORGE'S PANACEA.

Warranted to Cure Tenement Evils Among Others.

Henry George, Tom L. Johnson, and the other single taxers had a great time the other night in Chickering Hall. Mr. George was to give his views on the report of the committee on tenement reform. Mr. Johnson arrived unannounced, and was discovered and brought to the platform amid cries of "There can't be too much Johnson," and the like. When Mr. George had exhausted his subject in a speech that lasted two hours, Mr. Johnson spoke for three minutes. Mr. Gilder, Dr. Rainsford, Dr. Adler, and Prof. Seligman were not there, although Mr. George, who had disagreed with them publicly in Cooper Union on Wednesday night, had invited them all. There was only one discordant element in the approval that met Mr. George's opinion, and he was summarily removed from the hall by two stout single taxers. Mr. Gilder was the only invited guest to acknowledge invitation. His letter of regret said:

"Mr. George did not know that the committee has invited your president to make a statement before it, which will be published in the record of the public hearing. As an editor I have also in the past given Mr. George himself, the platform of the Century Magazine. This would not seem to show an invincible prejudice [against him and his views on my part."

Important Strike of Carpet Weavers Inaugurated.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 9.—The threatened strike of power loom ingrain carpet weavers to secure an advance in wages of 7 1-2 cents was inaugurated here today, when the employes of a majority of the manufactories in the district embraced in the jurisdiction of the Power Low Weavers Protective the Power Loom Weavers' Protective Association left their looms. This action was taken after the employers had refused the advance. The strike is the result of a conference held on May 28 by delegates from 62 mills, when it was decided to demand the union schedule of wages or gon on strike. The district embraced in the strike is very large. A thousand employes who are dependent on the weavers are thrown PRESBYTERY OF LONDON.

All Kinds of Electric Work Done The New Missionary to Honan-In Re

St. Thomas, July 10.-London Presbytery met here yesterday morning in Knox Church, the moderator, Rev. Geo. Sutherland, of Fingal, presiding. The commissioners to the General Assembly reported. The Presbytery arranged for the ordination of Rev. James Menzies, M.D., of Westminster, as missionary to Honan. The ordination takes place on Aug. 20 at 8 o'clock, the moderator to preside, Rev. Mr. Little to preach, Rev. Mr. Sawers, the pastor, to address the missionary, and Rev. Mr. Currie the congregation. Rev. Mr. Dewar, who is moderator of the congregation of Williams, is to report to the next regular meeting of the Presbytery as to the condition of that congregation. Mr. M. Campbell, of Dutton, was recommended to Knox College as a student for the ministry. Mr. Bayne, of Wallacetown, applied for the status of a catechist that he might undertake mission work in Muskoka during the winter months. The Presbytery agreed to entertain his application, and appointed subjects for examination.

Rev. Mr. McNeil reported leave to mortgage the new church property in Dunwich to the amount of $2,000. The moderator was authorized to sign the application. There was some informal expression of opinion of the members of the Presbytery given in answer to a question raised by Rev. Mr. Leitch, of Delaware. The consensus of opinion was that an elder coming to a congregation from another by certificate can only be received as a member, and cannot serve as an elder till he has been elected by the congregation he has newly entered, even though he may have been an elder in that same congregation in former years. They had been at camp in London, having been attached to the Twenty-ninth Battalion, and on their return to New Hamburg they proceeded to load up with bad whisky. When the train came along one of the crowd mounted the steps of the coach where Conductor Mc-Bride stood, and, razor in hand, made a savage attack on him. The intruder and his pais were frightened by a revolver.

-A meeting of the Port Stanley Railway directors was held in Mayor Little's office yesterday afternoon, when tenders for the nasonry in connection with the new bridges at Mill and Kettle Creek were opened. Only a few tenders were received, and that of James A. McMahon, of St. Catharines, at $5,558 70, was accepted, being the lowest. close. A special committee, comprising Engineer DeGurse, of the L. E. and D. R. R., City Engineer Graydon, F. E. Leonard, and Wm. Bowman, will examine the contracts for the new bridges, and if they prove satisfactory Mayor Little will be recommended to sign them. Both communications were laid over pending a full meeting of the committee. Thomas A. Browne's application for use of city hose ACCIDENTALLY KILLED. The coroner's jury which last night investigated the cause of the death of little Edward Wharton, who was killed on the C. P. R., near Colborne street on Tuesday evening, found that death was purely accidental. The train hands were entirely exonerated from all blame, but the railway company were strongly urged to place watchmen at all the crossings between Adelaide street and the city station. The inquest was held at Stephenson's undertaking warerooms before Coroner J. R. Flock and the following jury: Fred Keene (foreman), Wm. Payne, Edward Levington, James Jupp, Thomas Trebilcock, Alfred Carter, Jacob Smith, Wm. Johnston, Wm. Morrison, Robert Thomas, John Thomson, John H. Barrens, Robert Stewart, David Tripp and John Fuller. The account of the accident as given in yesterday's "Advertiser" was fully corroborated by the witnesses. The deceased, with several other boys, had been playing on the railway property, and stepped aside when the way freight passed up from the west. Young Wharton, it was shown, was in the act of picking up a pebble to throw at the freight, and was in a steoping position when struck by the express. Engineer John Plaxton and Fireman Wm. Telford, of the passenger train, swore as to the usual signals being given and an endeavor being made to stop the train. This was impossible, but the train was going at such a slow rate that it was brought to a standstill before all the cars passed over the body. Mrs. Walls and Mrs. Morgan, whose children were playing with young Wharton, gave evidence complimentary to the train hands for general carefulness.

A WHEELMAN'S CLOSE CALL. Toronto, July 10.—Art G. Mason, head of the piano firm of Mason & Risch, had a narrow escape from death under the trolley on Wednesday night. He was riding a wheel, and turning onto Yonge street from Richmond was caught between two cars going in opposite directions. He was knocked over, and fell on the guard of one of the cars, and was carried along for a number of yards. He escaped with his life, but sustained a broken leg and a number of bruises. His bicycle curiously escaped injury.
