Washington, Jan. 9. - The naval tug Sonoma, which left Hampton Roads with the repair ship Panther for Guantanamo, Jan. 3, arrived at the latter port at 1 o'clock this morning. No word has been received from the Panther, but the navy department officials insist that there is still no reason to fear for her safety, as the tug and her convoy were doubtless separated by the bad weather, and each was obliged to make way into port alone. It is expected that something will be heard from the Panther during the course of the day.

Inspector Joseph Sanders, of the Charities Organization, investigated a case of the most pitiful destitution in the south end of the city this morning, where he discovered a widow, with her six young children, practically without food or fuel. There had been no fire in the place for a considerable time, and with the temperature hovering close to the zero mark the case was particularly pathetic.

The mother had worked at different places about the city, but of late had been unable to find employment. None of the children are old enough to earn anything, and have been absolutely dependent upon the mother's resources.

The Charities Organization has provided for the seven members of the family for the present

Inspector Sanders has commented upon the fact that there is little actual poverty in London this year, and there is plenty of work all who seriously care to obtain employment. Only three men, all strangers in the city, have applied to him for help in securing work this winter, and these were readily accommodated.

The majority of those who have applied for assistance have reduced to their unfortunate positions because of illness, but even such applications are fewer than in former years.

had passed a bad night caused much apprehension in the city, and the newsapers were besleged by inquiries. A rumor was started that the duchess was to be operated on this afternoon, but no confirmation of this statement could be secured anywhere.

The doctors and those in attendance on the duchess absolutely decline to give out information except in the form of official bulletins. The quarters in the Royal Victoria Hospital where the duchess' room is situated, is most rigidly guarded so as to prevent her attendants from being interrogated by the newspapermen and sympathizers who visited the hospital his morning. It was learned from Arthur Sladen, the secretary to the Duke of Connaught, that her royal highness slept most of the morning. It is understood that another consultation of doctors was held this afternoon, and the bulletin, which it is expected will give the result of the conference, is awaited with the utmost

Drop Food Tax Platforms

London, Thursday, Jan. 9.—Tariff reform, so far as it involves the taxing of food, is on the eve of final disappearance as a plank in the Unionist policy, according to a statement published in this morning's Chronicle.

A representative meeting of Unionists was held in the House of Commons yesterday, with the object of healing, if possible, the dissensions in the Unionist party created by the recent proposal to impose taxes on food imported into the British Isles, and restoring the unity of the party.

A memorial was drafted, it is stated, and addressed to Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, advocating the policy of abandoning the food taxes at the next general elections.

According to the authority quoted the memorial was signed a majority of the Unionist members. The Unionist newspapers make no mention of the meeting in this morning's issue.

SCORES NAVY BILL AT ROUSING RALLY

Hugh Guthrie Says the Borden Government Should Dissolve and Go to the Polls.

POLICY OF ACTION

Is Urged by Liberals and Conforms With Parish Naval Authorities' Needs.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Elora, Jan. 8. - At a rousing rally here this evening Mr. Hugh Guthrie dealt at length with the navy bill. He declared it was not the Liberal policy to obstruct. He thought it was the duty of the present Government to dissolve and go to the polls.

Had the newspapers of either party or the speakers on any political plat-form during the last election campaign ever discussed the naval policy? He knew they had not. He quoted Mr. Churchill, Lord Charles Beresford, Lord Milner and Sir Charles Tupper, as all opposed to the idea of giving a cash contribution to the British Government. Mr. Foster had said himself on the floor of the House that a cash contribution smacked too much like giving tribute. Mr. Foster had also said they must make a beginning, however small, when referring to forming a Canadian navy. Mr. Borden himself had declared in favor of a Canadian navy, and had contin-ued to adhere to this solution of the problem until the fall of 1909, when Mr. Monk delivered a speech in Quebec against any naval policy at all. Mr. Guthrie, continuing, quoted from Mr. Borden's speech at a banquet in London, where he was reported have said that without representation in the councils of the empire. Britain would not get a man or a dollar from Canada.

The Liberal policy was a policy of life. He wears wigs and laces and action, it was the policy which con-manners with becoming grace. His formed to the suggestions of the Britriage of Convenience," at the Grand pretty manners and courtly conven developed in the colonies, the spirit of self-government developed in the colonies of the spirit of self-government developed in the colonies of the spirit of self-government developed in the colonies of the spirit of self-government developed in t of loyalty also increased? It would be as sensible plan to ask the British Government to manage our postoffice department as to manage our navy or our army.

Pre-Stock Inventory Sale of Corsets Friday, 75c to $2.50 Corsets, Sale Price 29c, 79c and 98c

TOCK listing turns out the odds and ends, and this is about the only opportunity we have in the year to give our customers a bargain in this department in clearing all the broken ranges and odd lines which have accumulated during the regular season's selling. All such have been grouped into three lots, as mentioned above, and will be cleared Friday. At each price you will find almost every size in some make or another. If ranges were complete, prices would not be broken. All will be grouped on three tables, one price on each, and we would advise coming early Friday morning for the best lines.

The popular sizes will be picked up quickly. Come early. Second Floor.

LONDON, THURSDAY, JAN. 9. PROSPEROUS LONDON.

London is at the threshold of a new era of growth and development.

All the conditions and portents are favorable. There will be an unexampled burst of building activity in the spring. The cost of the public institutions, factories, colleges, and churches to be erected this year, or in the very near future, is estimated at $2,000,000. In addition there will be probably more house building than for years, following in the train of the air than for a long time. It looks as though London is suddenly making up the arrears of a period of comparative quiet. The business community places a high value on the steam road connections afforded by the L. and P. S. R., and views with grave anxiety the prospect that these will be destroyed or impaired.

So here is London entering on a period of expansion, feeling the thrill of a new life; and all she needs and wants is an assurance that the conditions under which these things have been brought about shall not be wrecked by costly, headlong and illconsidered adventures.

THE REVOLT AGAINST SIR JAMES

There is a noise in the Ontario Conservative camp. Some of the tribes are growing restive under the rods and scorpions of the chief in Queen's Park When Sulla grew old at Rome, the Roman Conservatives looked round to sun. His date was out. Is something similar to happen to Sir James?

Is there likely to be an upheaval something like that in the American Republican party last year? Progressive Conservatives like Mr. Southam are nearing the limit of endurance. But as to test the country's feeling on the the Progressive platform in this navy question, the Opposition in the province has been already occupied by Mr. Rowell. Those Conservatives who it to the Senate to throw out the bill. want reform need only rally to him. If The Advertiser also believes that if Sir James does not yield in some matters. Mr. Rowell may benefit by the resulting ferment in the dominant party.

meantime that the Ottawa Citizen has courage in standing by its convictions. It is a Conservative paper, with strong party traditions. It has power in Ottawa at least. When a general election comes, there will be a delicate situation in that city. At the last general election the Ottawa Conservative candidates pledged themselves to tax reform and like the Ottawa Citizen have stood by it. What about the next election in case Sir James stands pat? The action of the Ottawa Conservative executive may be found to conflict with the sentiment of the majority of the party in that region much as the steam roller machinery of the Republicans last July ran against an ugly snag. The action of a mere office-seeking clique will not likely be indorsed by the rank

of the strike which the British Medi- right. cal Association tried to organize against it. The association, which embraces about half the members of the profession in the Kingdom, stood unitedly in the early stages of the negotiations, and succeeded in wringing large concessions from the Chancellor of the Exchequer. The controlling spirits of the association, whether from partisan feeling or not, spurned these generous overtures, but they could not whip the rank and file of the profession into ine. In the final referendum 11,309 docors voted to refuse the Chancellor's erms, and 2,422 in favor of acceptance, but over 16,000 doctors declined to mark their ballots. The association bosses choosing to regard this minority vote as a mandate to make war on the Government the association resigned as a protest, and five of them threw in their lot with the National Insurance Practitioners' Association, an organization of doctors pledged to work the act. Many will rise to call the editors blessed, for they will be saved time and labor. The volume which offers to our quick gaze the essence of Samuel Richardson will bring to the notice of hustling readers a novelist whom they could not possibly take time to read. The world has rushed past Richardson and his leisurely style has been voted by the majority of those who have lingered to nibble at him a profound bore. But Richardson was a great man in his day. He began life as a poor boy, served as an apprentice to a printer for years, married his master's daughter, came into the business, and built up a fortune. He published his first novel at the age of fifty, and instantly leaped into fame. "Pamela" will always be famous, because it was the first English novel to be written in

How many books of today could likes or dislikes quite different, hope to have such a lachrymal way from his man- and to those with levely ledy readwith lovely lady readers as "Clarissa Harlowe"? The wife of a Lancashire baronet wrote a letter to Richardson in which she said: "I verily believe I have shed a pint of tears, my heart is still bursting though they cease to flow at this moment, nor will I fear for some time. . . . Had you seen me I surely would have moved your pity. When alone in agonies would I lay down the book, take it up again, walk about the room, let fall a flood of tears, wipe my eyes, read again, perhaps not three lines, throw away the book, crying out: 'Excuse me, good Mr. Richardson: I cannot go on: it is your fault: you have done more than I can bear'; threw myself upon my couch to compose; again I read, again man, who was at that time laboring through the sixth volume with a heart capable of impressions equal to my own - tho' the effects shown in a more justifiable manner-which I believe may be compared to what Mr. Belfort felt when he found the beauteous sufferer in her prison-room. not what, which made me guggle as it were for speech." This, gentle reader, you will say, must have been a bundle of emotions, but Clarissa had just the same effect upon ladies of sterner stuff. Take Lady Mary Wortley Montague-what a name is that!-for example. Lady Mary was the new woman of her day; worldly, blase, witty, wise. She despised Richardson because he was a plebeian and she made fun of his descriptions of high life. And yet the little printer of Fleet street turned on the tears for Lady Mary. "This Richardson," she writes, "is a strange fellow. I heartily despise him and equally read him, nay, sob over his works in a most scandalous manner." It was certainly a great feat to make this witty Amazon sob!

But the men were as much touched by this protracted story as the women. They also steeped the pages in tears. One sober John Bull declared in a long letter to the pleased author that he intended to read all his works at least once a year - and this was no little thing to do for there were nine teen volumes in all - and he also opened his heart. "I have been this day," he says, "weeping over the seventh volume of Clarissa as if I had attended her dying bed and assisted at her funeral procession. Oh, may my latter end be like hers." . This was very good for England, but where John Bull shed a pint, the bewhiskered readers of France and Germany shed gallons over this novel. Napoleon spoke of Richardson in a voice aged 63 years, only son of Robert and full of emotion; Rousseau was in-Elizabeth Barrett Browning, left estate spired by Clarissa to write his "Nouvelle Heloise," which had much to do with the French Revolution; a whole I leave and bequeath to Carolino Betto generation of German sentimentalists the sum of fifteen thousand lire to be agonized over the great English masterpiece. The sentimental has always been at a premium on the continent, and this is the reason why Sterne ecutor and made no general disposition and Richardson and Byron have had more influence abroad than any other Germany, and his cousin, and one of English writers. But for all that, the next-of-kin being now resident in and in spite of the oceans of tears Jamaica, letters of administration have which have been poured upon Clarissa, I cannot and will not follow her through the seven volumes or even one volume in which she clamors for homage. To me, Clarissa is horribly silly and tiresome. And this is a confession to which a whole army of

EXCELLENT RECITAL OF THE MUSIC CLUB

Members Listen to Some Good Music-Mrs. Beck

Sings.

The excellence of the recital given by the Woman's Music Club was again at to by a large number of members who were present at the afternoon. Mrs. Dockstader arranged the program for the afternoon, and to her great credit is due, for each selection was, in itself, a musical treat. Mrs. Beck's German songs were most exquisitely rendered, and she was obliged to respond with an encore. The violin solo by Miss Eggleston was also an especially pleasing number. Considerable disappointment was felt at the omission of the third selection, which was to have been a concerto in C. minor by Mr. Harry Wismer, of Petrolea, and Mr. Thomas Martin, of this city. Owing to a delayed train. Mr. Wismer could not make connections with London, Following is the program given:

- 1. Piano Quartette. Symphony No. 1..... Beethoven
- (1) Audante
- (2) Menuett (3) Allegro Vivace
- Mrs. Jerdon, Miss Irene Burns, Miss A. Burwell, Miss M. Raymond. 3. Violin Solo-Minuett...... Beethoven Miss Florence Eggleston.
- 8. Songs-(a) Die Lotosblume (b) Du Bist Wie eine Blume (c) Widmung Schumann Mrs. Beck,
- 1 Piano Solos-(a) Novelette in E major
- (b) The Prophetic Bird (c) Novelette in D major. Schumann
 - Miss Jessie Strong. Power vs. Bulk.

of granulated sugar and one cup of warm into water and stir for two minutes. Put 21/2 ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold instantly, and will usually stop the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, throat tickle, sore lungs and asthma, and an unequaled remedy for whooping cough and croup.

judge reserved judgment. Judgment Reserved.

In the case of Thomas W. and Clara Cameron ,against Francis Hull, judgment was also reserved. The plaintiffs claim that in November, 1911, they sold a farm in Dorchester Township to the defendant for $3,000, of which $200 was paid. Since that time the defendant has refused to make any pay ments on the purchase price, alleging that the title was not clear, The plaintiffs asked that the court award them the remainder of the purchase money, and also give a declaration that the title is corerct. The defendant, on the other hand, entered a counter-claim for the $200 that he had paid on the Mr. William Gray has received a farm. Fifty-Seventh Annual Meeting Held at Toronto Yesterday.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, Jan. 8 .- The fifty-seventh annual meeting of the Bank of Toronto was held today. The report of the directors, of which the figures have already been published, was read and adopted. The paid-up capital of the bank now stands at $5,000,000, and the reserve at $6,000,000. Three new branches were opened during the year Ontario, one in Montreal, and welve in the prairie provinces, the total number of branches now being 116. In the course of his address, the president, Mr. Dunean Coulson, said: "In the Bank Act submitted to Par-liament it is provided that the stockholders of a bank at its annual meeting must elect an auditor of auditors to verify the figures presented to the stockholders in the annual statement. The proposal made by the minister of finance is in accordance with the practice in Great Britain and has been found to be satisfactory there. "Another feature in the proposed Bank Act relates to loans to farmers, and a clause has been added to the act permitting banks to make advances to them on the security of grain and cattle in their own posses sion, enabling a pledge or assignment to be taken as security. It is but right that farmers should have privileges enjoyed by others, but too much importance should not be attached to the enefits this clause of the act may aford. Such advances even though accompanied by security under the act nust rest largely upon the responsibility of the individual borrower. The grain given as security remains in his custody and therefore the personal element must be largely considered. At resent advances are made to farmers vithout this security as freely probable as they will be made with cases should be few in which responsible farmers do not receive the accommodation to which they are en-

HUSSARS, A. M. C., ORIENTS WINNERS IN CITY LEAGUE

Three Fast Games at Simcoe Rink Last Evening Witnessed by Large Crowd-London City Hockey League Gets Off to a Good Start.

hThe London City Hockey League got away to an auspicious start last eyening before a large crowd of local fans at the Simcoe street rink. First Hussars, Army Medical Corps, and Orient Club teams were the winners, while Hymans, Meds, and Seventh Regiment teams were defeated. All the games were well played and keenly contested. The crowd was given plenty of opportunity to cheer, and each team had a number of rooters present. The ice was in splendid condition, and the brand of hockey dished up was unusually rlean. "Crow" Carrothers, former member of the London Intermediates, handled all three games, and his work was good at all times. He handed out numerous penalties for minor offences, and gave the players to understand were to play hockey, and all attempts at rough work were to be severely dealt with.

seven up, and the game continued with seven men on each side.

Hussars Speedy.

The Hussars showed superior speed and better team play than the Hyman than. The forward line played together will and was given splendid backing up to the defence. The Hyman team had only been on the ice once before the game and this accounts in a measure for their defeat. When they have had a little more practice together they will form a winning combination, and the rest of the teams in the league will have to travel to beat them.

Pattern in good and Parking the for the Stars.

For the Seventh, Samborne, Nelles and Riggins played a star game, while the Groshow hoys put up a good defence game. Roy Groshow in goal has the making of a clever net minder, and he is a hard man to beat. Henry and Bryant lacked condition, but showed they had hockey ability, and they will be heard from later on.

The following players were responsible for the scoring: Hagerman 5, Legg 2, Callahan 2, Nelles 2, Sanborne 1.

The two McPhillips, Wells and Bilbrough played a nice game for the Hussars, while Campbell, in goal, also gave a nice exhibition, "Pete' McLean has been ill for some time, but he demonstrated in the second half that he has not lost any of his former ability, and he will likely become a fixture at centre for the Hussars.

A. M. C. 15, Meds 2.

The Army Medical Corps team outclassed the Meds in every department in the second game and won easily by the score of 15 to 2. The half-time score was 6—2. This is surprising when it is considered that the Meds had Harry Lecky, of last year's Intermediates, Beattle Martin, Acheson and McQueen, on their line-up. The A. M. C. team is practically the junior team of last year. Buchanan Bryce and Watts are the only exceptions, but both Bryce and Watts have played O. H. A. for a couple of years, while Buchanan is one of the fastest youngsters available for this year's Junior O. H. A. team, The A. M. C. outskated, outchecked and outplayed their heavier rivals at all stages of the game. They showed better condition and played better combination. They carried the puck down the ice with dazzling speed, and ran in on the nets like angry hornets. Bill Callahan, in goal for the Meds, had one awful busy night, and if his defence players had been a little more solid the score might have been reduced to half what it was.

The Meds' weakness seemed to centre in their inability to get the combination working. There was absolutely no team play, and their style of play was mostly confined to individual work. They also lacked condition and practice, and their defence was painfully weak.

A. M. C. Look Strong.

On the showing last evening, the A. M. C. team looks the strongest aggregation in the league, but it is hard to judge so early in the season. Against a stronger defence much of their play would be broken up, and their weaknesses. might show up.

Orients Beat Seventh.

The Orient Club proved the victors in the final struggle of the evening. The Seventh Regiment was the opposing team, and the score was 9 to 3, with the Orient Club laeding at half time by the score of 5 to 1. This game was also replete with fast plays, and both teams showed a surprising amount of speed, considering the little practice each team has had.

had.

The Seventh Regiment team was a much lighter one than their opponents, but it is composed of some hard-working youngsters, who will be heard from later

The First Game.

The First Game.

The First Hussars and the Hyman team met in the first game, the former winning out in the most closely contested struggle of the evening by the scire of 5 to 3. The half-time score was 3 to 1 in favor of the Hussars.

The first half of the game was played with the Hussars a man short and as a consequence a fine of one dollar was imposed on the team. Lee Walden was the player who falled to turn up, but it transpired later that he had given his ankle a twist and was unable to play. He is somewhat lame as a result today, but it is believed he will be all right for Friday night's game. In the second half, the Hussars put "Pete" McLean on to even up, and the game continued with seven men on each side.

THE GUARDIAN

CHAPTER XII.
The Unfathomable.

Nat lived the rest of that day in a stupor. In the late afternoon he saw Deacon Miller drive out of his yard with Julie beside him, and with her little leather trunk in behind. He watched anxiously to see if she would turn up to the house to say good-bye, but without even so much as a look behind she disappeared down the road toward St. Croix. That night Nat did all the chores without knowing very much what he was about. He went to bed immediately afterwards, but he didn't sleep. Not only was he tortured by the memory of those last few minutes, when with hate in her eves me had struggled to get the common of his sandy head to the tips of his big feet. He had something of a fever and coughed a good deal. In the morning a dull ache in his chest had developed into a stabbing cut which made it difficult for him to breathe.

In spite of this, he rose at his usual.

his chest had developed into a stabbing cut which made it difficult for him to breathe.

In spite of this, he rose at his usual hour and limped around the barn until he had fed the stock and finished milling. Then without eating breakfast he shut himself up in his room again. He went over the whole trip, from the climb to her queer actions on the summit. Then the night in the cave. This made him almost forget his aches. She had beet, very good to him there. She had smiled at him and had trusted him and seemed glad that ho was there. But some change had taken place while he had gone to the spring for water the next morning. He reviewed everything he had said or done, but this did not account for it. It must have been some clumsy thing he did unconsciously. Yesterday his thoughts had been so centred on the one necessity of getting her back that he had not questioned her about this. At the time the cause of her attitude didn't matter. She was only a tired child, and his duty day solely in getting her home. Now it mattered a great deal. When he saw her drive away, it had seemed to him that his whole future was at stake. He must know what it was that he had done, and make her see that he meant no harm. Harm to Julie! Why, the smallest finger on her little hand was dearer to him than his whole life. He paced his room in a frenzy of eager love for her. After that night when he had had the merest taste of what it meant to care for her, to guard and toil for her, he knew that so far as frenzy of eager love for her. After that night when he had had the merest taste of what it meant to care for her, to guard and toil for her, he knew that so far as his own life went, it must always be towards this goal. All his hopes and ambitions centred in her. There was nothing else, and could be nothing else, but Julie. So for an hour the big fellow tried to fathom the unfathomable; sof or an hour he pitted his simple, direct mind against that most complex of all mysteries—the whimsical passions of a very young woman. It might have been comedy had he not been so loyal and earnest. He was like some sober philosopher trying to range into laws the wayward moods of an Acut day. He was in a still more ab-Agnu day. He was in a still more absurd position because, in his case, there was a second mystery of which he did not even suspect. He flung himself prone upon his bed. He heard his father's

"Hain't ye goin' t' harrer that south field terday?"

He roused himself. This was Monday. He had forgotten the regular routine of his life. His daily work seemed a very tuivial matter. He staggered to his feet, trivial matter. He staggered to his feet, weak and dizzy.

"All right," he answered.
For three hours he followed his horse over the field, but his arms were as weak as a child's. He did nothing but stumble behind the well-trained team. It was as much as he could do to handle his feet.
Every now and then he was seized by a chill which shook his whole frame. This was usually followed by a fever. The reins hung loose from his hands at these moments, and he stumbled over clods no larger than an apple.

he might even stop and ask how she was. His brain was just giddy enough to make him act impulsively mother protested and his father called him a blamed fool, when they saw his condition, but he didn't hear much of what they said. He held his mind to the one idea. He must see Julie again. The what they said. He held his hind to the one idea. He must see Julie again. The more he dwelt upon this, the more urgent the necessity seemed. He harnessed the colt with feverish hasie. His father of-fered to go with him, but he refused to

'I'm all right," he said over and over His mother made him drink some ho tea and helped him into a heavy overcoat with her eyes brimming tears. Then he hended the horse towards St. Croix.

He didn't have a very clear idea of what hapened durin on the next three hours. The horse took his own gait, and Nat was aware of nothing but an interminable yellow road which unrolled be-neath his hot eyes. He didn't come to himself until he saw the Moulton house a neat white-painted structure a mile this side of St. Croix. He drove into the yard, and in some way manoeuvred his weak legs to the ground. He stumbled to the front door and knocked. In a few sec-onds he found himself facing Mrs. Moul-ton, who looked more like Julie's sister ton, who looked more like Julie's sister than her mother. Resting his hand on the door-frame, he moistened his lips.

"I want to see Julie," he announced. "Why, Nat," exclaimed Mrs. Moulton at the sight of his fever-laden eyes, "what's the matter with you?"

She hesitated a moment, and then added quickly. "Come into the sitting-room." room."
The followed her and sank into the first chair he saw. "Now, what's the trouble?" demanded Mrs. Moulton with motherly concern. "I want to see Julie," he repeated dully. She studied him a moment and hurried out. From where he sat Nat could hear the ticking of the kitchen clock. It ticked ten thousand times before Mrs Moulton returned. She was plainly disturbed.

"Julie says she can't come down," she informed him with evident reluctance.
He lifted his head.

Gene Proposes.

The kitchen of the Elite Cafe was located in the basement. It did not differ much from the orthodox conception of infernal regions, except that in place of sulphur fumes the air was recking with the greasy sweat of ham and eggs. Yet the lady who prepared this specialty for which the restaurant had in a way become locally famous, apparently thrived in the atmosphere. She was portly to the point of waddling. She looked as though, if she remained a second overlong by the stove, she, too, might sizzle off into a smudge of thick blue smoke. It may have been to save herself from this danger that from time to time she raised to her thick lips a can of foamy, amber-colored liquid and drank deep and long. Whatever the contents did to cool her body, they served only to add fire to her temper. 'Gene, who in a dirty white apron stood beneath a dim gas jet at the farther end of the room bending over a sink full of dishes, kept, one eye upon her. Mrs. Hanrihan was in the habit of first calling attention to her wishes by hurling the most convenient object she bad at hand. Therefore he found it wise to anticipate her needs as far as possible.

Mrs. Hanrihan grasped the handle of a frying-pan, deftly tossed the contents into the air with a motion that caused the eggs to do a somersault and return battom side up, then once again she uptilted the can to her lips. 'Gene watched the process to do a somersault and return bettom side up, then once again she uptilted the can to her lips. 'Gene watched the process with an experienced eye. As the can approached the perpendicular, he hastilly wiped his hands on his apron and edged nearer. She lowered the can with a bleery glare towards the sink and mechanically reached for a large spoon. Her hand paused in mid-air as she saw 'Gene waiting by her side.

"Phot do you want?" she demanded.

"Nothin'."

She faced him pugnaciously. On the

"Nothin'."

She faced him pugnaciously. On the whole she didn't care to have him anticipate her wants. She not only preferred to do things in her own way, but she had a vague notion that in taking for granted her unquenchable thirst, 'Gene was reflecting upon her reputation for sobriety which she never allowed any-one to question. She had sustained this eputation by never being altogether sober in fifteen years, and so affording no basis or comparison. Her erratic actions and for comparison. Her erratic actions and hot temper thus passed as mere eccentricities of disposition.

"Phot do you want?" she repeated, shifting the emphasis from the personal pronoun to the noun.

"Nothin," he answered restlessly, as he waited for the can. Diplomacy justified the sacrifice of strict truth.

She eyed him from head to foot, but his face remained as impassive as his boots.
"Ye're after thinkin' I want more suds?
Huh?"

"Didn't know but what ye might like a drop just to moisten your throat," he

At noon he made up his mind to drive to St. Croix to see the doctor. This would give him an opportunity, to pass Julie's house. He might catch a glimpse of her men's hesitation he ordered a glass for men's hesitation he ordered a glass for so cool and refreshing that after a mo-men's hesitation he ordered a glass for himself. He drank this with such satis-factory results that he ordered a second. It not only washed away the taste of ham and eggs, but it stimulated in him a latent rebellion.

PEOPLE -- "CASCARETS"

What Glasses Are to Weak Eyes—Cascarets Are to Weak Bowels.

Mest old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets, One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. Advice to Expectant Mothers

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it a over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Folowing right upon this comes the neryous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children. and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes GAS once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

F. Pardee and Duncan Ross Were Given an Enthusiastic

Reception. [Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, Jan. 8. - There was a splendid turnout of Liberals from all over evening, and the gathering proved to be one of the largest ever held in Sarnia. The principal speakers, F. F. Pardee, of West Lambton, and Duncan Ross, of Strathroy, were given an enthusiastic reception, and their speeches dealt largely with the navy question, in which the keenest interest is being taken all through this district.

Mr. Pardee viewed the question from various standpoints, and lucidly demonstrated the absolute need of cohesion on the part of every member of the PLEASED WITH THE VOTE party, and told why every Liberal should stand behind Sir Wilfrid Laur-

Captain Greaterex thought of gall, aged 41, for some years on the turning the ship and running back staff of the Beacon, died at his home to the Irish coast to refit, but was here yesterday after a brief illness with advised not to try the experiment appendicitis. Besides his wife he leaves by Lieutenant Hall, a naval reserve one daughter, Hazel, two sons, Fraser officer from the Merchant Marine, who and William. David, of Calgary, is a had served in the Atlantic trade. He said it would be fatal to make the attempt in such a heavy beam sea. The speed of the Natal was reduced to seven knots instead of her usual cruising speed of sixteen knots. The seams of the quarterdeck were opened up by the strain, and the water leaked through so much that the officers had to sleep in oilskins. Necessary repairs were made, and Christmas Day brought some decent weather.
When the Natal arrived off the coast of Newfoundland on Monday Dec. 30, the captain wanted to enter the harbor of St. Johns and refit before coming on to New York, but it was too foggy, and he had to "carry on," as they say in the navy.

The Natal belongs to what is called in the British navy as the particular service squadron, ships of which are always detailed for services similar to the Natal's late errand. The Natal will probably escort King George when he pays his visit to Canada neyt year. The ship carries a crew of six hundred officers and men.

OLD HORSE DESTROYED TO END ITS MISERY

Police Are Now After the Man Who Turned It Adrift.

Assistant Inspector Adam McGuire, of the Charity Organization Society, was driven out the Sarnia road Wednesday afternoon by Mr. Irum Collins, of Piccadilly street, and the old horse, which had been turned out to die, was brought to this city and destroyed. The animal was scarcely able to walk to the bone factory, where its misery was ended.

A number of people of Hyde Park have given Mr. McGuire a description of a junk peddler from London, who had the old horse at the village and not be able to return to his office for tried to sell it for five dollars, later to die when he could not find a purchaser for it. The act was one of most brutal cruelty, and the police will likely have the miscreant who perpetrated it in the toils within a

LONDON GREEKS HOLD CHRISTMAS

Next Tuesday Will Be New Year's Day, When Gifts Will Be Exchanged.

London's Greek colony celebrated its Christmas on Tuesday. According to a custom of the Greek Church no gifts re exchanged on Christmas. Elaborate prayer services are held in all cities where there are churches, lasting from o'clock until noon, after which everybody goes out and calls on everybody else. At least, this is what several leading Greeks said. "Everybody calls." they said, "everybody," which did not explain how anybody could be at home to receive callers if "everybody" was out making them.

During the afternoon every Greek kept open house until late at night. It must have been like the old New Year's Day custom, according to the explanation of one Greek, except that it was an endurance contest in respect

New Year's Day will be next Tuesday, according to the Greek calendar, and it is on this holiday that gifts will

City Treasurer R. T. Coady, of To ronto, is very ill at his home, 94 Kendal avenue. He is suffering from bronchitis, and is attended by Dr. Temple. Although in poor health for some time, Mr. Coady continued to attend to his duties in the city hall until last Friday afternoon. While his condition yesterday was serious enough to cause his friends uneasiness, says the Globe, it is believed he will recover. He may some time, and it is probable the city turning the animal on to the roadside council will appoint Assistant Treasurer John Patterson acting city treasurer until Mr. Coady has fully recovered.

> Mr. Coady has been in the city's service since 1877, when he was appointed chief accountant and assistant treasurer, and he has been city treasurer since 1888, when he succeeded Mr. Samuel B. Harman in that office. Only two other city treasurers have preceded him—Mr. Matthew Wallon, 1834, and Mr. Andrew T. McCord, 1834-1874. Harman was treasurer from 1874 until 1888.

The young people of Cronyn Memorial Church presented a pleasing playlet en-titled "The Little Pilgrim," to a fairsized audience on Wednesday night. The claylet was written by Rev. R. W. Nor-wood, and it was under his direction and that of Miss Myrtle Tory that the drama was presented. Several of the young people showed ability, and their parts in the cast were creditably performed. Rev. R. Heakes rendered several musical umbers prior to the play.

CHARGE IS IN THE AIR

Members Are Alleged to Have Brought Out a Municipal Slate Without Authority.

At the meeting of the West London Progressives Wednesday evening the following officers were elected for the present year: President, James J Clark; vice-president, Edmund Pudney; secretary, E. Pococke; treasurer, T. Dexter; committee, R. A. Y. Stinchcombe, R. Hevey, sen., Godwin, William Nicholls, George hurchill and William Scarrow. After the election of officers ote of thanks was tendered to Mr William Nicholls, the retiring president, for the able manner in which he ad served the association. The president-elect, Mr. J. J. Clark, was then called upon to speak. His remarks were limited to outlining the platform the association would follow uring the coming year. He stated the principle planks would include the construction of Wharn-cliffe road bridge and the West London breakwater, especially the lat-

He also desired the fusion of new blood in the association. A motion to amend the constitution of the association was passed. In the future all intending memers must be voted, and have a majority of the members in his favor before he will be declared a chartered member of

A Charge May Be Made. A charge may be brought against Messrs. Alf. Murdock and R. Culbert, two members of the Progressives, for alleged misuse of the association's name in the appointment and indorsation of a municipal slate at the recent elections. A motion was passed to endeavor to secure the help of the aldermen elected on the labor ticket to the city council and to have these men forward the permanent breakwater scheme in the council. President Clark, Mr. Pococke and

Mr. Hevey all spoke in favor of this Now Feels Strong

The Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada

THE following are some outstanding features from the Directors' Report submitted at the Annual Meeting of the Company held on Wednesday, January 8th, 1913, and covering the operations of the Company in 1912:

	아이들이 그렇게 되었습니다. 그는 내가 하는 것이 되었습니다.
		1911	1912	Increase
	Assurances in Force	$34,518,000	$38,734,686	$4,216,686
	Assurances Issued and Revived	7,136,952	7,851,660	714,708
	Premium and Interest Income	1,545,527	1,795,378	249,851
	Policy and Annuity Reserves -	5,509,062	6,338,568	829,506

And Fit for Any Amount of Work WINTER ASSIZE COURT PROVED A RECORD ONE

Though Fourteen Cases Had Been Entered Only Three Were Tried.

The winter assizes of the high court which were concluded last evening, will go on record as one of the shortest courts in the history of this county. Of the fourteen cases entered for trial, only three were heard by the judge, the remaining eleven either being settled out of court or postponed until the next court, which will sit

Of the three cases heard judgment was only given in one, that of Mc-Denald against Ross and Munro when the plaintiff was awarded her claim in full. The judgments in the other two cases were reserved. Mr. T. G. Meredith acted as counsel either for the plaintiffs or defendants in all

Although the court opened on Tuesday afternoon no cases were heard disposed of outside the court was such that the solicitors in the remaining cases were not prepared to continue. All three cases that were tried were heard yesterday, and the ight and one-half hours.
