Demands of C. P. R. Employees Met With Exception of Standardization of West and East Rates.

Toronto, June 22 .- The final report of the board of conciliation in respect to the demands of the railway trainmen on the Grand Trunk and C. P. railways was submitted to the Minister of Labor yesterday and was later handed out by him. In respect to the G. T. R., a general increase of 25 per cent, dating from May 1, is to obtain, it being recommended that the further increases demanded be considered at a subsequent period. Mr. Nesbitt presented a minority report in which he held that the increases on the G T. R. at present should not exceed 15 per cent. In regard to the C. P. R. Mr. O'Donoghue issued a minority re-port in which all the demands of the men are practically pressed for, that being the standarization of the western rates with the eastern rates.
In the finding of the board, rates, with the exception of the yard service, are placed on a hundred-mile basis. The difference in the rates east and west of Cartier has been replaced by a flat rate which was among the changes pressed for by the C. P. R. trainmen. The position of the Grand Trunk Railway is unique among the roads on this continent. The present rates are for specified service, the men being paid by the month without regard to mileage. In the matter of through freights, however, the men on the Grand Trunk have been working on a mileage basis. At present the through freight rate upon the Grand Trunk is $2 90 per hundred miles for conductors, and $1 90 for brakesmen. The new rate recommended increases these figures to $3 35 for conductors and $2 29 for brakesmen. The board, which has since May 25, was composed of Hon. Wallace Nesbitt, K.C.; Mr. J. C. O'Donoghue and Mr. J. E. Atkinson, chairman. The employees were represented by Mr. S. N. Berry, Toronto, vice-president of the Order of Railway Conductors, and Mr. James Murdock, about 30 less than last year, when 422 thank'ee He knows me said Scrooge hood of Railroad Trainmen, and the and about 200 from the county. general chairman.

HAMILTON POLICEMEN WANT INCREASE IN PAY

Ambitious City Constables Ask for 25 Cents a Day More.

Hamilton, June 22-The police comquestions to deal with at their meeting today. One is the appointment of a deputy chief, and the other the request of the policemen for an increase in pay. They will also have to look over a number of men who are applying for positions on the force, and to consider several resignations. While resignations have been rather common of late, the men say that the commissioners will be deluged with them if their request for an increase in pay of 25 cents a day is not grant-ed. For some time the men have been discontented with their pay, and the discontent is becoming more acute all the time. Said one policeman in speaking of their pay:

"If it were not for the fact that we work on Sundays and holidays we would not draw as much as the laborers on the street. In all other classes of work men are paid higher than we are, and it is time that we got an increase. The firemen get more than we do. We do not begrudge them what they are getting, but think we should get as much. Hamilton is the only city in Ontario where the firemen get nore pay than the policemen. start at $675 a year, as third-class men; second-class pay $802, and after working for six years we receive $840 as first-class pay. Some of the old men are better fixed, as they get pay on good conduct badges, but men who have joined in the last six years have to take the straight pay. A number of men have quit because they could get better pay elsewhere, and a good many more will quit unless something

The men believe they have the sympathy of the chief in their reuest. The chief has several times informed the commissioners that he is having greater difficulty all the time in securing men, and that owing to the low pay the greater part of the men who do offer themselves are men who cannot take responsible positions

With regard to the appointment of deputy chief it is believed that a local man will get the position. The men are in favor of this, and will resent the importation of a man to fill this vacancy. They contend that if outsiders are brought in to fill the head positions on the force there will be nothing for them to look forward to, and that it will be poor encouragement for them to put their best foot forward. While the commissioners are saying little about the man they have in sight, Detective Bleakley's name has been mentioned.

It will take about $4,600 or $4,700 a year to finance the request of the men and they consider that as their de-mand is reasonable it should be

A Clearing of Lace Curtains One, Two and Three Pair Lots--- 90 Pairs Tomorrow

Thursday morning these will be laid out at prices that will make a quick riddance of every odd lot. They are cut down regardless of cost or value, our object being to sell the lot in one day. This sale means great savings, and it will pay you to look ahead and anticipate your wants for fall if you do not need new curtains now.

Some of the single pairs are slightly soiled from handling, but most of them can be used without doing up. They are grouped in four lots, prices ranging from $1.00 to $4.50 to be sold at 73¢, $1.25, $1.95 and $2.75

Bamboo Porch Shades

Keep out the sun, but let in the air and enjoy your verandah during the hot summer days. We are showing what we consider the best Bamboo Shades made. They are in dark green, a cool-looking and restful color, and having the wide slats are much more sun-proof than the old-style narrow slats. Well made and complete, with cord and pulleys and hooks, ready to put up, and which are easily taken down. In these widths and prices:

We call your special attention today to two lines that you may not have seen elsewhere.

ROUND SCALLOPED TABLECLOTHS

FOR ROUND TABLES.

These we have in a variety of choice designs, which are being admired and rapidly picked up, owing to the pleasing effect when in use compared with the square cloths, which sometimes almost touch the floor at the corners, while between they scarcely hang deep enough. These cloths are shown in 2, 21/4 and 21/2 yard sizes, with napkins to match. At from, per

The Waldo Porch Shade

If you want the best, the most artistic and most durable porch shade, buy the "Waldo" Woodweb Shade. These are made of straight, even slats, closely woven together, making a shade that will add to the beauty and appearance of your home; in plain and mixed colors, rolls easily and neatly; a perfect screen, allowing splendid ventilation; colors now in stock-olive and green and crimson mixed, in 4, 6, 8 and 10 feet widths.

Ask to see the Waldo Shade.

Huckaback Towel Lengths 25 by 47 Inches

These originated here some time ago, but the demand has been very great, and quantities quickly diminished. We have just received a new shipment, which embraces a variety of very choice designs that will soon find their way into the hands of those who prefer to make their own towels. They come in the piece (just the same as table napkins), with borders woven on the ends, or sides and ends in some cases; some have space in border for initialing, making an altogether more effective towel when finished than those made from figured hucks, which are very often cut through the design. Our many out-of-town customers should avail themselves of the opportunity to buy some

ROSS SAYS HE SHOT

Statement by Slayer of Percy Parkinson On the Eve of His Execution.

North Bay, June 21. - Walter Ross, who was executed here today for the murder of Percy Parkinson, sitting in his narrow cell, with the shadow of death hovering over him, and with the full knowledge that he had only a brief time to live, gave the following interview to a press representative: "I am thirty-three years of age; 'I

You cannot put it why an Ad in The Advertiser can be too strongly that Parkinson was shot in self-defence. I had been in the Cobalt country about three years, and Parkinson and I were partners. The quarrel leading up to the tragedy was spread over a period of three or four days, and arose over a dispute about the division of interests on some mining claims we held. Parkinson seemed to get in a frenzy when bad tem-estimate of news. What is one man's those who are concerned about the Johnson-Jeffries fight or the baseball centre at the present time, but for a long period the serious interest of the people of this country in outside affairs has been claimed by the political conflict in Great Britain.

A lecturer recently in the city declared that there was more real news in China today than in any other country on earth. Perhaps there is, and perhaps we shall realize it before long. As a rule, it takes a war, a massacre, or some awful convulsion of nature to project our interest beyond the English-speaking world. Toward the brown and vellow races of the Orient our attitude has been like that of Aunt Sally's toward the darkies "befo' le wah." Huckleberry Finn was describing a mythical steamboat calamity to cover up some of his escapades, and explained that the vessel "blowed out a cylinder head."

"Good gracious," said Aunt Sally. 'Anybody hurt?" "No'm, Killed a nigger."

"Well, it's lucky; 'cause some-times people do get hurt." There is a germ of truth in the Herald's assertion, on the principle that of events. People are more concerned place. about the doings next-door than about Americans are our neighbors: many Canadians live in the United States, and most Canadians have been there: Canadians read American magazines and newspapers: they read about American public men and American politics; the two countries are working out the same problems; and in a hundred ways their interests are interlaced. But Canada has strong and lasting ties also with Great Britain. As a nation of the British Empire, we Westminster more closely than those directly affected by them; and just now British politics is much more attractive from a news standpoint than ities and principles involved in the party conflict there have overshadowed contemporary happenings in the United States. Some years ago tariff legislation and the free silver agitation made American politics more dramatic for us than British politics, but at present there seems to be no issue honestly dividing the Republicans and the Democrats, and no meaning to their strife. It is possible, and even probable, that the centre of interest will shift to the United States again in the making of history, but old country affairs have the call for the time being. Great should be qualified accordingly. STREET NAMES AND HOUSE NUMBERS.

A farmer writes The Advertiser urging the city authorities to have the names of the city streets placed where they may be readily seen, and asking citizens to have their houses numbered plainly. He says that farmers delivering produce ordered from the market are often put to great inconvenience in locating both streets and houses, especially in the winter, when the snow covers the street names stamped on the sidewalks. Storm doors also hide the house numbers. Much valuable time would be saved and there would be fewer complaints regarding the non-delivery of goods ordered on the market if these defects were rem-

The city council should attend to the et names at once and householders indicated.

A LOCAL "KNOCKER."

The city of London for a number of years was handicapped by a shortage of water, which became acute in the summer months. It was an inconvenience to all citizens, and a serious weakness to the city as an industrial and distributing centre. Manufacturers and wholesalers in particular demand a sufficiency of water for firefighting. Some of them were threatening to leave London, and London was not in a strong position eo induce others to locate here. This drag on the city's progress was removed by the lucky plenty of good well water. It was a solution of the problem much less costly and more satisfactory in every way than any of the alternative plans, the first governor-general of the new London can once more boast of its pure and plentiful water supply. It is the part of civic patriotism to boast of such an advantage, but unfortunately London has its "knockers" like other communities. One of its newspapers, which should feel it a duty to cry London's attractions from the house tops, has been for over a year seeking to convey the impression that the city is still confronted by a water crisis. The persistent circulation of this falsehood is not helping London for the miserable chicken broth we had.

in its quest for new industries. As a matter of fact the auxiliary well system has done all and more than was claimed for it. There has been no diminution of the flow from the wells. It will be adequate for all purposes for many years.

The conduct of the Free Press has been a crime against the city. We inferred from a paragraph in that journal yesterday that it had begun to repent of this treason to the municipality but today it returns to its attack upon the well scheme. As one of the most effective methods of "boosting" London will be the suppression of the "knockers," the sorehead in the Free Press office requires attention of

AS TO WOMEN'S VOTE

Mrs. Humphrey Ward Says Suffrage Would Be Grave Menace.

London, June 21.—Deputations from the National Union for Weman's Suffrage and the National Anti-Suffrage League waited upon Prime Minister Asquith today.

The former requested that the Government grant facilities for the second reading of the women's suffrage conciliation bill, introduced by David James Shackleton, Labor member for Lancashire, who is in favor of universal suffrage.

that the prospects of the bill passing Parliament were exceedingly remote but he had listened most sympathetically to their arguments, and would have great pleasure in submitting the matter to his colleagues in the cabinet, whose decision, he hoped, would not be unduly delayed.

The conciliation bill provides that every woman possessed of a household qualification or of a £10 occupation qualification, shall be entitled to be registered to vote for the county or borough in which the qualifying premises are situated. A woman shall not be disqualified by marriage from being registered as a voter, provided that a husband and wife shall not both be qualified in respect of the same propualified in respect of the same prop-rty.

The speakers for the anti-suffrage eputation, which included the Duchdeputation, which included the Duchess of Montrose and Mrs. Humphrey Ward, the novelist, said they thought it would be a great misfortune if Mr. Shackleton's bill became a law. They said that they could not but regard with terror the thought of the clerical interests and the questions of peace and war might pass into the hands of a majority of women. They also appealed to the Prime Minister in behalf of the race, which, they declared, it was their first duty to rear.

To this the Premier replied that, speaking individually, but not for the Government, he need hardly tell the ladies that they were preaching to a man who had not been converted to woman suffrage. Furthermore, he was not sure that the proceedings of the past two years had not strengthened his views on this subject.

Never was there a time when one ould dress a child prettily and smartly with less expenditure and labor and yet never was there a time when one could spend more upon a child's clothes without offending the laws of good taste. Elaboration on child's frocks takes dainty, childish forms. Fussiness and pretentiousness are avoided

Exquisitely fine materials of a sort suitable to the age of the child, fine and delicate hand embroideries or bold simple embroidery effects of a quaint kind, narrow real laces, tiny hand tucks, these are the elements entering into the expensive little frock nowadays, and the most beautifully dressed children at a children's party give absolutely no impression of being overdressed. They are only exquisitely dainty; and if their simplicity is of a most expensive kind, at least it has the merit of not being unchildish.

The fine real Irish lace insertions are much used upon the handsome little frocks, with real Cluny for second choice among the heavy laces and with Valenciennes as popular as always. Valenciennes and narrow Irish are very often combined; and on some smart little models tiny Irish motifs are used with Valenciennes insertion and edging.

Even on sheerest of handkerchief finen, batiste or mull the Irish insertion is more or less lavishly used, and this season there is a great vogue for frocks of linen or French pique trimmed in baby Irish. One effective model in white linen was cut on one piece lines with a wide belt and was trimmed in vertical lines of baby Irish in-sertion and a little fine soutache em-

It is difficult to realize that any reasonable influences have entered into the designs of the dress that women wearing at present, yet neither the wide-brimmed hats nor the tightbottomed skirts belong to the class of feminine modes created by accident. There is nothing more in demand howadays than the silk ribbon for the hair, although this becoming device ceipt of 10 cents in stamps or was unknown until the beautiful Princess de Lamballe accidentally gave it day, so runs this legend of feminine smartness, the lovely princess went hurriedly on a hunting party, and in the excitement of the chase her hat, with its long, drooping plume, fell off, and it was not possible to stop to re-cover it where the accident happened. When the party did come to a halt the hat was far behind, and there was no means of getting it in time for the princess to arrange her flowing hair and go on with the hunt. So she took off her pale blue garter of silken ribon, and with that tied back her re-

The Queen Mother of England was responsible for the popularity of several fashions in earlier days. It is perhaps not true that a scar on her neck led her to wear he jewelled dog collars which she so much affected, although it is true that they were never so much worn until she appeared in them. One style always associated with her was the pory bang, which femininity of all countries and even men in some of them wore in the beginning of the seventies. One of her maids of honor, who, like the rest of the world at that time, was devoted to crimps, was deprived

The too hot crimping iron has done the business so effectively that this young woman could not do more than brush her hair down straight over her brow until it stopped just above her eyebrows or brush it straight back, which in those days was accounted a style of hopeless old maidishness. When Queen Alexandra, who was then only Princess of Wales, saw the plight or her friend she immediately said that she would follow the same coiffure. So she had her bang cut straight off, brushed it down over her eyes, and the fashion travelled from one end

Europe to the other. It was also by an unintentional act of the then Princess of Wales that the jersey, which all English women, and some of other nations, were in the late seventies, came into existence. One day, while in the country, she was seized with the desire to go fishing in one of the mountain streams near the estate in Scotland, where she was staying. It happened that her wardrobe provided nothing appropriate, and one of her maids of honor went to the nearest town to procure something for the excursion. There was nothing there that was in the least appropriate except a garment that happened to be

The maid of honor bought it, however, had it carried back to the castle in which the princess was stopping, and it was worn. It was a knit jacket of the kind that frankly revealed the figure, and was later known as the jersey. THE MESSAGE

BY LOUIS TRACY, Author of "The Wings of the Morning," "The Wheels of Fortune."

He knew nothing of the agony of suspense, the poison of doubt, the self-humiliation and passionate despair of those dreary weeks, nor did he appreciate her position in the Baumgartner house-her position in the Baumgartner house-hold. But he was hurt, and his manner proved it. Men who are called on at times to face death in their country's service like to believe that their womenfolk are eager for news of them. So Mortimer was disappointed in Evelyn.

"I fear I shall be regarded as an intruder by some of the young gentlemen I see pirouetting inside," he said. "But truder by some of the young gentlemen I see pirouetting inside," he said. "But I shall not detain you long. I promised to let you know if any further news was forthcoming as to Captain Warden's whereabouts. When we met at Funchal I feared the worst. Now I have good reason to believe he is alive."

She leaped to her feet. Her cheeks blanched, but those blue eyes of hers blazed with sudden fire.

"You have heard of him? You know where he is?" she gasped, all a coulver "You have heard of him? You know where he is?" she gasped, all a-quiver SUPPLY AFFECTS with excitement. The sailor was mystified. Nevertheless "You are asking too much," he said with a little laugh. "Africa does not with a little laugh. "Africa does not with a little laugh."

As a matter of fact, the news of the Nila Moullah's disastrous fight with the Evil One spread so rapidly that it reached the seaboard within a fortnight, whereas the prophet's journey in the reverse direction took three the cost items filtered through Atlas passes, and finally there came a man who was actually in Lektawa at the time of the dread combat. He it was who first gave definite assurance that Warden lived. When the new ruler of that disturbed city had slain every in-dividual overtly opposed to him, and the remaining inhabitants were meditating on the divine right of kings, it oc-curred to someone that the Nazarene and Beni Kalli were missing. A cara-van irom Bel Abbas reported that a European in Arab clothing, accompanied by a Hausa soldier and a negress, had ridden in there from the north, and was recruiting a kafila to go on to Taudeni and Timbuktu. The Frank had plenty of gold-dust in quills, both he and the Hausa were well armed, he spoke Arabic like a native, and claimed to be the special protege of the Blue Man of El Hamra, who had carried benevolence to the point of giving him his own particular wrap of blue cotton, which was exhibited to the faithful, not so much

The wages he did years ago."

Mr. Jenks stated that the wayship we now eat corned beef in "These names of people and places are so much Greek to me," she cried. "What is the outcome of it all? Is Captain Warden marching across Africa?"

Mortimer was prepared for that county with the markers attended the pankers attended the county with the markers attended the county with the county with the county with the markers attended the county with the count Mortimer was prepared for that question. He unfolded a map, and they pored over it together. Small as the type was in which many of the towns were shown, the bright moonlight would have permitted the names to be read. But that was unnecessary. The sailor knew exactly where to point while he explained matters.

"Here is Rabat," he said, "and here, "Here is Rabat," he said, "and here, beyond the mountain chain, Lektawa. Now, there appears to be little doubt that Captain Warden was the European encountered at Bel Abbas, and I am inclined to believe the north-bound caravan's account of his proceedings there. A long way south, at the very verge of a tremendous stretch of desert, we come to Timbuktu. The obvious inference is that he adopted the Scharz route. to Timbuktu. The obvious inference is that he adopted the Sahara route as safer than the journey across Morocco, and headed that way in order to reach Nigeria, the place where his duty lies." "Can he do it? Dare I even hope that he will pass unharmed through thousands of miles of wild country inhabited only by sayages?"

by savages?"

Her voice broke, and the sailor saw that her eyes were filled with tears. More perplexed than ever, he tried to dispel her foreboding, though none knew better than he the perils Warden would have to encounter. "Steady, Miss Dane," he said cheerily.

"He jumped the worst fence when he got away from Lektawa with money and supplies. The fact that he made Bel Abbas vouches for his ability to take the rest of the trip, and he will be on the Niger River long before he reaches the thousand-mile limit. Once there, he is practically in British territory. To put it plainly, two months ago I didn't think his chance of being alive amounted to a row of beang whereas today. ed to a row of beans, whereas today am confident he will pull through."

"No. On my honor, I have given you the whole budget."

"When will it be known whether or not—he has—arrived at Nigeria?"

"Ah, that depends on so many circumstances. It is six hundred miles from Bel Abbas to the Niger, and—there may be difficulties. May I ask you a personal question, Miss Dane? Are you Captain Warden's flancee?"

"I—I thought so," sobbed Evelyn.

"You thought so?" Didn't you know?"

There was a moment of tense silence. Then Evelyn swept the tears from her eyes with a splendid confidence. The moonbeams spread a silvery riband across the dark Atlantic toward the horizon. Beyond that magic path lay Africa, and her heart had bridged the void ere she answered.

"Yes," she said proudly "I know!"

her heart had bridged the void ere she answered.

"Yes," she said proudly. "I know! Never again shall doubt find room in my mind. Oh, Captain Mortimer, if only I might tell you what I have suffered during these horrible months, when never a word came from him, and another woman lost no opportunity of taunting me with the lie that she was his promised wife!"

"You are speaking of Mrs. Laing, I suppose?"

For an instant Evelyn did not appre-

For an instant Evelyn did not appreciate the significance of that marvelously accurate guess. Then she turned and looked at him in wonderment.

"Why do you mention her?" she cried, almost hysterically.

The sailor smiled, though his face showed some degree of confusion.

"I have done it now, so I may as well make a clean breast of it. But, mind you, I am revealing official secrets, so please forget what I am telling you. Mrs. Laing went to the foreign office, and claimed to be engaged to Warden. For some reason—perhaps someone there had seen you—she was not believed, and that is why I was sent to you at Funchal. At any rate, they seem to know all about you in Whitehel!" chal. At any rate, they seem to know all about you in Whitehall." "But only yesterday Mrs. Laing pre-tended that Arthur—that Captain Warden had written to her, saying he was engaged on a secret mission for the Government." You can take it from me he did nothing of the sort. Outside the department, no one knew where he had gone or what he was doing. He even passed under an allas on board the Water Witch. There—I didn't mean to tell you that. I am but a poor diplomatist, I fear. And that reminds me: I must hark back to my errand. Why has Mrs. Laing come here?"

Diet For Mental Work

Have you ever felt the necessity of it?

I am speaking to people who have a certain amount of brain work to do every day and are sometimes hampered in the exercise of thought by a heavy feeling after meals. This is well known.

Of course you ought to study your diet, eat moderately, and avoid all indigestible foods. The presence in the stomach of imperfectly digested nutriment impedes the function of the intellect, and it is advisable to have recourse to small and frequent supplies of easily digested food if you wish your mind to remain alert. During long business hours, when you feel exhausted, try a piece of TOBLER'S Pure Swiss Milk Chocolate, which contains the three Detroit. June 22.-The tables were turned on the St. Louis Browns, and the batting feast enjoyed by them alone on the opening day of the series was repeated. with the Tigers in the leading role. Bill Bailey, the St. Louis southpaw, who is credited with being the best man on their staff, had nothing on the Tigers whatever, while Eddie Killian had the visitors hit ting little pop flies and easy rollers unti the final score was Detroit 8, St. Louis 0 the final score was Detroit 8, St. Louis 0.

While the Tigers were pounding out an easy victory, aided by the errors of the Brownies, the Athletics took a double-header from the Highlanders, which put the Tigers back into second place, although they are still quite a way behind the leaders.

There was not a time when Killian was in any danger of being scored on. He had everything working better than at any time this year, and only once was a member of the cellar champions able to pick out an open spot in the field and drop the ball there for a bingle. Four were the total number of hits made off him; three of these were of the scratch order.

New York, June 21.-Philadelphia deback into the lead themselves. The scores of the contests were 7 to 4 and 7 to 1. In the early game Ford was batted hard for the first time this season, and was driven from the box in the sixth inning. Morgan was relieved by Atkins because of inability to command the ball. In the second game Plank held the Highlanders to three hits; Vaughn, New York's pitcher, was wild and was poorly supported. The same teams will play another double-header tomorrow. The

the residents out of first place, getting Undefeated White Champion Is Certainly in Splendid Condition But the Toronto Irishman Says Johnson Is a Wonder

-Some Gossip From the Fight Camps in the Southwest.

San Francisco, Cal., June 21.—The following is a sample of one of the many letters received daily at Jack Johnson's camp: San Francisco, June 14 1910.

I consider it my duty to inform you about a matter of great importance to you A friend of mine, who is a chemist by profession, was hired by someone connected with the Jeffries bunch to mix up some kind of a solution to dip Jeff's boxing gloves in—I mean the gloves used in the fight. This liquid stuff contains arsenic or some such poisonous substance, and when a blow is struck, causes the skin to become very sore, but the worst part about it is that if a person is hit in the eye the sight of that eye immediately becomes sort of paralyzed for quite a while after being hit.

They tried the dope out down at Jeff's training quarters on one of his one of his sparring partners, and it worked to perfection. In fact, ten minutes after they stopped boxing, the sparring partner's face was so sore that they had to call a doctor. Of course, the dope might not have the same effect on you, but at the same time. I advise you to be careful, and at the ringside insist on having Jeff fight with new gloves, then let your seconds watch his seconds to see that they don't

of the liquid on the gloves during the course of the fight, or switch back put any of the inquite on the garden to any old gloves.

Hoping this information will help you to lick the big grouch, I remain, Yours very truly,
(Signed) EDWARD K. LEE, Chicago.

From now on until the day before the big scrap, Jack Johnson will train for speed only, and to keep himself on edge. The champion announced this morning that he is perfectly satisfied with his condition; that he is down as low in weight as he desires, 212 pounds, and that from now on boxing would fill up the major part of his routine. Since beginning training Johnson has boxed on no specific days. He has donned the gloves when he felt like it, and refused to put them on when he did not feel like it. From now on all this will be changed. At least four days of boxing per week will be the schedule, and possibly six days will be indulged in by the black man.

CLOSING STAGES.

Johnson is beginning the last stages of the training spell. There will be no jumping over the ropes or joy-riding for Johnson. He will be made to realize that he has a man's job on his hands, and that the slightest slip may not only cost him the championship, but a fortune of wealth. The big dark racing car of Johnson's has been relegated to a paint shop, where it will be revarnished and fixed over for various speed stunts after the big row. It nearly broke Johnson's heart to part with the machine, and he moped for several hours after it had been taken away, but finally recovered his spirits, and he grinned broadly when he was told that he would have all the chance in the world to break speed records and his neck after the scrap.

and his neck after the scrap. COME EAST AT ONCE. "Might be some records busted, but dere ain't gwine ter be no necks twisted," he declared.

The big negro has made all arrangements for a special car to be hooked on The big negro has made all arrangements for a special car to be nooked on to the China and Japan fast mail the day after the scrap. He plans to leave San Francisco then for New York, where he opens a theatrical engagement the Monday following the big fight.

The following figures will give an idea of Johnson's condition at the present time, as was observed by me: Height 6 feet ¼ inch. Neck, 17¼ inches. Chest, normal, 39 inches Thigh, 23 inches. Calf, 15 inches.

Ankle, 9½ inches. Biceps, 16 inches. Forearm, 14 inches. Wrist, 10½ inches. Weight, 212 pounds. Reach, 75½ inches. Age, 32 years.

Calf, 15 inches.

NEW YORK CRITIC.

Bob Edgreen, the sporting editor of the New York Evening World, dropped into camp after spending a week with Jeff. Edgreen is one of Jeff's best friends. He was Corbett's sparring partner when he lost the championship to Fitzsimmons. He is also one of the best all-round athletes in the east, and one of the shrewdest judges of a man's condition in America. He got to our camp while Johnson was on the road, and this gave us a chance to have a long talk on the greatest of all battles.

JEFF'S MEN CERTAIN. "Well," said Edgreen, "I never saw a bunch of camp followers who are more certain of the fact that Jeffrles will defeat the colored champion than this Rowardennan outfit. So certain are they that the boilermaker will put the quietus on Johnson that many of them consider the match in the light of a joke. There is not one of them but thinks that nothing remains but the shouting."

"It is interesting to note what justification there is in this. There is no question that Joffrice is equipped into form and it would be idle to say that he is not

"It is interesting to note what justification there is in this. There is no question that Jeffries is rounding into form, and it would be idle to say that he is not in good condition. But, after all, it is merely a matter of comparative merit. Jeffries must be judged by Johnson so far as his condition is concerned."

Edgreen had occasion to state that the condition of the two men, as compared one with the other, would merely be the condition of the time being, and that the remaining days of training would be the most potent in the conditioning of the men. This has been borne out in the matter of Jeffries since his appearance here at Dreamland Rink. The big boilermaker has unquestionably made

I said, "Do they really think the fight a joke?" Bob smiled and said, "yes."

I gave him an invitation to wait over for the afternoon and see Johnson box and punch the bag. Edgreen was delighted to receive the invitation. Johnson put up a wonderful exhibition. He went fourteen rounds, and I never saw a man punch a bag like he did. After two hours of hard work, Johnson went to his dressing room, and I took Edgreen to his car. He had very little to say. I said, "Bob, tell Jeffries what you saw today." But old wise Bob only smiled.

BUYING TICKETS.

Mr. Steve Christensen, of the Palace Hotel, purchased $10,000 worth of tickets for his out-of-town guests before the fight was called off by Governor Gillett.

for his out-of-town guests before the fight was called off by Governor Gillett. Canada stood abreast in the number of tickets purchased of any state in the union, and when Canada beats the state of New York it shows that we have some sports in Canada. Winnipeg alone purchased $3,500 worth of tickets. A few Canadians are dropping in every day.

SOLDIERS ARE GRATIFIED

Thanked the Councillors for the Assistance Given the Middlesex Boys -Those Present.

The members of the county council ere the guests of honor at a banquet held in their honor by the officers of the Twenty-sixth Regiment at camp last night, and which proved to be a most enjoyable affair. Lieut.-Col. Bart Robson presided.

Squire E. B. Smith, of Ailsa Craig, spoke first, and favored the idea of the Government making more provision for training soldiers. He thought they should do everything to aid the cadets and should pay more attention to practical work, such as military training than to politics. This idea was also favored by Sheriff Cameron and Mr. M. Miller, of Ailsa Craig, who spoke subsequently. Sheriff Cameron thought that the Government should follow the example of the Government of Switzerland, which give the cadets uniforms and equipment.

Take More Interest. J. C. Elliott, M. P. P., of Glencoe, urged the people to take more interest in the camp and in military matters, and spoke particularly against those who run down the men who go to Canon Dann said there was nothing ike military training to teach obedience and reverence, two qualities that are very much needed at the present time everywhere. A soldier's training, he said, is an education in manli-

Captain T. E. Robson stated that he was the mover of the resolution petitioning the Government to give county councils power to make grants to bands and companies. Before that time, the councils had had no power to aid the military bodies in their districts.

AUTO MEN IN ROW

Detroit Concerns in Two Lamps Over the Haltenberger Matter.

Detroit, Mich., June 22.-Julius Haltenberger's arrest in Toronto on complaint of Charles B. King, of this city, appears to be an episode in an extensive scrap between automobile statement of the court of appeal and lost, was fined $200 or six months. The men were convicted last March, but sentences were deferred pending Barker's appeal. They all pleaded guilty. men. At least two distinct groups are involved, with Haltenberger the common object of attack.

John Atkinson, Mr. Haltenberger's attorney, says Haltenberger's trouble is the result of a plot between King and W. Campbell, of Toronto. Campbell about two weeks ago caused the arrest of Haltenberger, Atkinson, Chass Preston and A. J. Greenaway in Toronto, by accusing them of intent to defraud by spiriting away drawings that set for this week of Miss Dorothy Deacon, youngest daughter of the late E. A. Deacon, of New York, and Prince Albert Radziwill of Lithuania. and W. Campbell, of Toronto, Campdefraud by spiriting away drawings which he claimed belonged to him. The hearing in this case is still pending. This last arrest is simply a sequel to the first one. "The whole matter is one for the civil court and Children Gave a Treat. Yesterday the senior pupils of the separate schools of the city voluntarily presented their own annual treat of oranges, bananas and candies to the aged people and little orphans at Mount Hope. The school children de-clare that they had much more enjoyment in seeing the happiness of the inmates of the home than if they had kept their treat for themselves. At the home everyone was happy, from the little colored baby, whom the schoolboys assert asked for a slice of watermelon, to the blind and crippled old men and women in the infirmaries. A Real Treat. A philanthropic young lady of the city, who does not wish to have her name mentioned, made glad the hearts of some forty of London's poorer children yesterday afternoon by giving them a most enjoyable outing to Springbank Park. The children who

Off for France. Mr. Norman S. B. Gras, M. A., of Harvard, formerly of the Western University, leaves on July 16 for France to conduct investigations in England and France among old records with a view of expanding his thesis on "The English Grain Trade in the Tudor Period." Mr. Gras' thesis was such a splendid one and there was so much valuable information upon an important branch of economics as yet not much investigated, that the Harvard faculty are sending him to Europe at their expense so that he may get further facts.

NEW CHURCH FOR LOCAL PRESBYTERIANS

King Street Congregation Will Go Ahead at Once With New Edifice. At the adjourned meeting of the King Street Presbyterian Church on Monday night a motion was passed recommending the acquirement of the property on the southwest corner of Dundas and Lyle streets. Dr. Graham reported that the total taxes on the property would amount to $148 a year. An offer of a loan of money for the purchase of the property has been accepted at 5 per cent interest. Dr. Graham, who gave a report on the matter, figured an annual rental of $360 from stores and houses on the property.

The Rev. Mr. Rollins announced a subscription of $1,000 from a friend of the church. This was enthusiastically received by the congregation. This
