DOMINION SURPLUS SMALLER, SAYS MR. FIELDING'S BUDGET

Dumping Clause Likely To Be Extended to Head Off U. S. Goods---Preference for Australia.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, July 6.—In his budget speech this afternoon, Hon. W. S. Fielding will not announce many tariff changes, but it will be an interesting financial statement for all that. The Finance Minister in all probability will extend the dumping clause to our goods, that is to a certain class of free goods. At present there are complaints that free goods from the United States are being slaughtered in Canada. The dumping clause will be extended to such when found to be selling in Canada below the market price in the country of origin. While the change will apply to all countries alike, the United States will be the only country affected. It is also probably that the preference may be extended to Australia.

There will be two or three tariff changes, but none of the main industries will be dealt with. These will be left until the work of the tariff commission is over. The surplus will not be so large as last year, and therefore there will be no reduction of the public debt, though there will be a surplus of revenue over ordinary expenditure. The lumber duties will not be interfered with.

LATE DR. JOHNSTON LAID TO REST

West Lambton and Sarnia Pay Final Tributes to Beloved Member.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sarnia, July 6.—Sarnia is in mourning today over the loss of her beloved and respected son, the late Dr. Thomas G. Johnston, M. P. for West Lambton. The funeral took place this afternoon, and was the largest ever seen in the tunnel town. The ceremonies were conducted under Masonic auspices, and were in charge of the officers and members of Tuscan Lodge, A., F. and A. M., of which lodge deceased was a charter member. Other Masonic bodies represented to which deceased belonged were as follows: Wawanosh Chapter, R. A. M.; St. Simon of Cyrene Preceptory of Knights Templar, and London Lodge of Perfection, A. and A. Scottish Rite. Nearly 300 members of the craft marched in the funeral procession. Service at the residence and at Lakeview Cemetery, where interment took place, was conducted by R. W. Bro. Judge MacWatt and Bro. Rev. Canon Davis, of St. George's Church.

Hundreds of citizens and residents of the country turned out to pay the last tribute of respect to the departed. The business places and industries of the town and Point Edward were closed down during the afternoon to allow employes to attend the funeral. Flags are floating at half-mast from all public buildings and an air of sadness pervades the whole community. The attendance of citizens from town and county was very large, while many representative men were present from outside places, among them being members of the Dominion House of Commons and members of the Ontario Legislature. The floral contributions were the most magnificent ever seen in Sarnia, and almost filled the parlor of the residence where the remains lay. Conspicuous among them were beautiful tokens of sympathy from the Sarnia Masonic bodies, London Lodge of Perfection A. and A. Scottish Rite, Sarnia Lodge of Elks, West Lambton Reform Association, Sarnia Town Association, Point Edward and Sarnia Young Liberal Club, Liberal members of the House of Commons, West Lambton Conservative Association, George M. Reid, Alex Smith, Ottawa, and others.

FRENCH SUBMARINE GOES TO BOTTOM

Foundered Off Coast of Algeria With Thirteen Men Aboard.

Ferryville, Tunis, July 6.—A French submarine boat with a crew of thirteen on board foundered here today.

The Fire Record.

Metcalfe, July 6.—The main building in the county of Russell agricultural grounds was destroyed by fire yesterday. The fire, it is supposed, was due to boys smoking. Loss, $1,500; insured in the London Mutual Fire Insurance Company for $700.

BUMPTIOUS BUMP AND UNION JACK

Ordered It Hauled Down From British Schooner On July 4.

New York, July .6—A Rochester dispatch to the Tribune says: A protest has been filed with the Canadian Minister of Marine by Capt. Simmons, of the Canadian schooner Acacia, because the port collector compelled him to lower the British flag on his visit in the harbor at Charlotte on July 4. Collector Bump was informed that the Acacia had floated the Union Jack on the morning of the Fourth of July, and ordered Capt. Simmons to haul it down, saying it was an insult to the national holiday. Simmons refused, and threatened to shoot the collector if he boarded his vessel. Finally Simmons lowered the flag when threatened with refusal of his clearance papers.

Ottawa, July 6.—The Minister of Marine and Fisheries has not received any report from Capt. Simmons, of the schooner Acacia against his being ordered to haul down the Union Jack in the port of Charlotte, July 4. Mr. Prefontaine says that no one had any right to do this. It is understood that the flying of the national flag by the captain was the proper thing for him to do in honor of the celebration.

TWELVE STATES IN REVOLT

Will Join in Petition for the Royal Arcanum Convention.

New York, July 6. — Assurances of co-operation have been received by the committee of nine appointed by the united councils of the Royal Arcanum in Brooklyn and Long Island from several grand jurisdictions, as required by the laws of the order, to request a special meeting of the supreme council.

These seven states or jurisdictions are New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Maryland and Michigan. With New York they will make eight, and the committee have not taken into account Illinois and Indiana, which have not been heard from, but which are in perfect sympathy with the revolt.

The committeemen are confident that they will have at least 12 states behind their petition for a special convention of the supreme council when it is presented to the supreme regent.

CARRIED AWAY IN FREIGHT CAR

Little Windsor Lad Locked by Comrades in a C. P. R. Box Car.

Windsor, July 6.—While several boys were playing about the C. P. R. freight yards on Monday afternoon, Percy Deneau climbed inside a box car. His companions locked the door and left him there. The car was taken out on the road on Tuesday. The boys are able to identify the car in which Deneau was locked. Inquiries have been wired east and west for the lost boy. His parents are frantic.

The Tariff Commission Starts in the Early Fall

Every Province in the Confederation To Be Visited by Commission.

Ottawa, July 6. — The tariff commission, which, according to report, will consist of Messrs. Fielding, Paterson and Brodeur, will not begin its sittings immediately after Parliament prorogues. On the contrary, the ministers will remain for a while in Ottawa to clear the slate of unfinished business, after which they will disperse for a vacation. The latter part of September or the beginning of October will witness the commencement of the inquiry.

A start will be made in Ontario and Quebec, after which a tour will be made of the lower provinces. A visit of the commission to the west will follow, and, contrary to procedure in 1892, when Winnipeg was the western limit, the personal investigation will be extended to British Columbia, where there is a great field of inquiry, by reason of the recent great commercial development.

The task before the commissioners will be more complex than in 1897, when the question was merely one of revising the tariff so as to be more in consonance with the needs of the consumer. Canada will have a maximum and a minimum tariff, the former to be applied doubtless to those countries whose tariffs are hostile to use, and the latter to meet the case of countries which believe in reciprocity. Then there will be a British preferential tariff. Rumor has it that there will not be any slavish adherence to the principle of British preference of 33 1-3 per cent., but rather in tariff treatment of British goods in each class, all to be considered on their own merits, so that in some cases it may be less and in others more than one-third of the existing duty. The advantage of this system will be in its elasticity.

Tom Lawson Is Optimistic; Sure He'll Beat System

Man of Frenzied Finance Fame Talks of the Fight in Which He Is Engaged.

Tom Lawson, of frenzied finance fame, passed through the city this morning, and generously gave an interview to a representative of The Advertiser. This is one of Tom's favorite pastimes, and he certainly is an adept at the game. He is a large man, just a trifle inclined to corpulency, with black hair and mustache and a good, big, clear eye. His jaw is the most striking feature. It is square, a trifle inclined to be thrust out, and comes together with a snap. He does not look "the quitter." On the contrary he appears to be able to hold out to the limit. His manner is easy, his voice soft and pleasant. He addresses you as if he were taking you into his confidence.

But he does know stocks. His knowledge of the subject is vast and he knows how to use that knowledge to the very best advantage. His confidence in his ability to beat the "system" is unbounded. There is nothing surer, to his mind, than that the "system" is doomed, and that he will be the instrument divine who shall bring about the death of the Standard Oil octopus, and financially liberate the people of this continent.

Lawson is on his way to Kansas to enlighten the people on the workings of Standard Oil, and assist them in working out a modus operandi in the coming fight. There seems to be some sort of a stampede there; the people are beginning to fear that Gov. Hoch and others behind him, who are interested in oil properties, may also have their eye out for the main chance, and the people will be between the nether and the upper millstone.

Mr. Lawson will deliver several lectures in Kansas, and will assist in bringing order out of the chaos that at present exists there.

Sure He'll Beat the System.

Mr. Lawson greeted the newspaper man today with a cheery good-morning, and when asked, "How goes the battle?" answered: "It is only beginning, and there can only be one outcome, and that is, that we will beat the 'system' just as sure as the sun rose this morning."

He just touched upon the insurance problem, and said he was informed that $300,000,000 of insurance in the Equitable Assurance Company was held by Canadians. This was an astonishing statement, and, if true, the Canadians are vitally interested in the campaign he is waging. Everybody knew why they had to pay so much for an insurance policy when it was understood what was being done with their money. What was true of the Equitable was largely true of every other scheme in which the "system" was interested. Rockefeller had put the people through the mill, and all they had to do was to put him through, bring him back to the original dollar, and the $500,000,000 that he now possessed would return to the people to whom it belonged. They could and would bowl him over.

Mr. Lawson next touched on a question that was of deep interest to people in this part of the country—and that was about Dominion Coal. He said the Dominion Coal property was an ordinary coal property. He had often sold short at $16 and $18 a share, and had made a profit. The "system" took the stock, and put it on the Canadian market at $100 a share, and it was boosted to $146. Then came the crash. Millions of Canadian money went into the pockets of the "system's" votaries. Ames was among those who were caught in the crash. When asked why they had boosted the stock, they said they expected to become attached to a steel corporation, and then the stock would be worth the money.

Another Squeeze Coming.

"What is the steel corporation?" Mr. Lawson asked, and then he explained that properties worth from $200,000,000 to $350,000,000 were combined, and bonds of the new company were issued for a billion and a half. The people paid $800,000,000 for them and they were squeezed down to $360,000,000. The people sold, and now they are listed at $760,000,000, and another $400,000,000 squeeze is about ready. It was an indirect tax of that amount on the people.

"Something is wrong," said Mr. Lawson. "You don't have to be a stock broker or financier to know that something is wrong. How did Rockefeller get his money, his half-billion? Not by law, nor any process of law. He got it from the people, and it belongs to them."

When asked about the situation in Kansas, he explained that while there was some little difficulty at present, there was not a particle of doubt but that the Kansans were equal to the task and would beat the "system." It was merely the details of working out the methods to be adopted. They could and would do it.

Just as the train was pulling out he touched on insurance again, and asked us if we would not be interested if he showed us how we could get a $19 policy for $10. Of course we would, and that was what he intended to do.

No man is more in the public eye today than Tom Lawson. He is in a class with P. T. Barnum as an advertiser. His motives have been questioned by some, but there is one thing certain, and that is, it will be a glorious fight. The stakes are big, and the "system" is powerful. He and his party left at noon for the west in his private car.

HON. ELIHU ROOT TO SUCCEED HAY

Has Been Offered and Has Accepted the Secretaryship of the United States.

New York, July 6.—It can be definitely stated that President Roosevelt has offered the position of Secretary of State to Elihu Root, and that Mr. Root has accepted.

Mr. Root will be recalled to mind by

HON. ELIHU ROOT.

A dispatch from Washington says he has been offered and has accepted the secretaryship of the United States.

DEATH IN THE TORNADO

Great Storm Sweeps Plains of Texas Doing Immense Damage.

Nocana, Texas, July 6. — A tornado and thunderstorm pased a few miles west and south of here yesterday, killing fourteen persons and injuring many others and destroying a number of houses.

Many farm houses were swept entirely away. The school house, three miles west of here, was damaged. Reports of the work of the tornado are still coming in. The number of killed and injured will probably reach sixty.

Montagu, Texas, July 5—Ten persons are dead as the result of a tornado which passed over Montagu this afternoon. They are. A. P. Earl, Miss Sadie Earl, daughter of A. P. Earl; Burke Earl, his son; baby of Lawrence Pillow, Tomlinson family, consisting of husband, wife and four children. Many houses were demolished, including fifteen dwellings. The tornado lasted perhaps 30 minutes. Hundreds of head of stock were killed.

SOUTH AFRICA WANTS PROTECTION

Manufacturers Say That British and Foreign Competition Is Injuring Them.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, July 6. — Mr. Kettson, commercial agent, South Africa, writes to the department that the feeling is growing among the manufacturers against competition of British and foreign goods. The South African manufacturer want more protection for his goods. Some time ago it was announced that a committee of the Legislature had recommended an increase on the duties on wheat and flour. In addition to this the committee recommends an increase on furniture from 7½ to 25 per cent, on leather from 7½ to 20 per cent, specially on boots and shoes. More protection is also asked for carriages and biscuits.

Miss Sutton Wins Again.

London, July 6.—Miss Mae Sutton, of Pasadena, Cal., won the final in the all-comers ladies' championship at Wimbledon today, defeating Miss Wilson, the champion of Kent, 6—3, 8—6. Miss Sutton will now meet Miss Douglas for the championship.

A Millionaire Suicide.

Winsted, Conn., July 6. — The body of Winthrope Turney, a millionaire and owner of a mine in Sonoro, Mexico, was found today in a pasture in the town of Colebrook. There was a bullet-wound in his head, and his hand clasped a revolver. It is supposed that despondency due to poor health led him to commit suicide. He was 40 years old and a graduate of Yale.

COMMONS PASSES AUTONOMY BILLS

Long Parliamentary Struggle Terminated.

AN ELECTION ACT AMENDMENT

Premier Says a Remedy Must be Found in Matter of C. P. R. Exemption in Far West.

Ottawa, July 5.—After months of discussion covering the widest range and involving much bitterness and racial and religious feeling, both here and in the country, the House of Commons tonight passed the Alberta and Saskatchewan autonomy bills. This result was not achieved without evident signs of relief and of happiness that the end had come to a troublesome debate. The last day was marked chiefly by the formality of presenting some dozen amendments, the mere reading of which generally sufficed to bring them before the House. There was a short general talk on clause 16, but Mr. Borden's amendment eventually was defeated by a majority of 68. The budget speech will be delivered tomorrow by Hon. Mr. Fielding, and the report tonight is that Hon. Mr. Foster will be the only Conservative to reply.

Election Act Amendment.

Mr. R. L. Bordon introduced a bill to amend the Dominion elections act by adding a couple of sub-sections. One provides a penalty of $200 on any person who circulates a false statement of the withdrawal of a candidate, and the other requires all bills, posters and circulars issued in promotion of a candidate's interest to bear the name and address of the printer and publisher thereof. The later, Mr. Borden explained, was taken from the English election act.

On motion for the third reading of the Alberta autonomy bill being made there was some hesitation as to who should rise to propose the amendment.

Mr. Walter Scott resumed the controversy. He again moved an amendment to add to clause 23, containing the C. P. R. exemption, which he had moved in committee, as follows: "Provided that the foregoing shall not prejudice the right of the Parliament of Canada to obtain by, expropriation or otherwise, relinquishment by the said company of the company's right under section 16 of the contract aforesaid." Mr. Scott roused Opposition ire by saying he would have got more support from them had they been more sincere on the autonomy issue. Mr. Scott regretted the Government had not supported him more generously, and quoted copiously from the debate on the C. P. R. contract in 1881 to show the opposition of the Liberal party to the terms of the contract. He warned the Opposition that by raising school question dust they could not hide from the people of the Northwest the fact that they were responsible for the tax burden imposed on them in the C. P. R. contract.

The Premier's Reply.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that he regretted the necessity under which the Government had found itself to introduce the section to which Mr. Scott took exception. The Liberal party had done all it could do to prevent granting that exemption, but Parliament had seen fit to act differently, and that being the case, Parliament had to abide loyally by the contract made. The contract could not be broken except by mutual agreement or by the exercise by Parliament of its power of eminent domain and expropriating the C. P. R. privileges and property. The amendment, he said, amounted to a declaration and nothing else. It would have no worse effect than to pass it in silence, and the people for whom Mr. Scott was acting would not be benefited at all. The Dominion were partners with the new provinces in this matter, and would have to protect themselves as well as the new provinces. The present situation could not be continued forever, and the time must come when the Parliament of Canada must address itself to remedy the grievance.

Mr. W. A. Galliher opposed the amendment, which was declared lost.

BRIDE DIVES TO RESCUE

Heroic Efforts Are Futile and Her Life Nearly Lost.

Egg Harbor, N. J., July 6.—Florian Revault, of this place, was drowned in the Mullica River this morning, despite the heroic efforts of his wife, a bride of only a few weeks, to rescue him. The young man, who was a son of L. N. Revault, went fishing, accompanied by his wife and his brother.

Seized with heart disease he fell from the boat and sank. His wife jumped into the water and swam about waiting for him to come to the surface, but the body did not reappear.

Mrs. Revault was taken into the boat by her brother-in-law. She was utterly exhausted and her escape from death was very narrow.

TO FIGHT WHITE PLAGUE

Joint Committee of Senate and the Commons Move in Matter.

Ottawa, July 6. — The joint committee of the Senate and the House of Commons to devise means of preventing the spread of tuberculosis met this morning, Senator Edwards presiding. There was a consensus of opinion that the Government should be asked for a substantial grant towards the establishment of a sanatorium in every county or group of counties. A subcommittee was appointed to formulate a plan to be laid before the larger committee. Those upon it are Senator Edwards, Beique, Fisett, McMillan, Godbout, Wilson and Messrs. Black, Schuffler, Daniel Miller and Perley.

GOVERNMENT WON'T ACT

Refusal of License to Chatham Hote Matter for Commission.

Toronto, July 6. — The Government, it is understood, will not take any action in the case of the refusal of the West Kent license commissioners to renew the license of the Rankin House at Chatham. The Government maintains that the commissioners alone can deal with the case.

Folk of Theodosia Fly; Fear Guns by Mutineers

Only Troops Left to Meet Revolutionists On the Potemkine---Many of Georgi Mutineers To Be Executed.

Theodosia, Crimea, July 6. — The inhabitants are leaving the town in compliance with the orders of the authorities, who fear that the mutineers of the Kniaz Potemkine will carry out their threat to open fire on Theodosia this evening, only troops and officials remaining here.

Theodosia, Crimea, July 6. — Summoned by the Kniaz Potemkine, representatives of the town council went on board the battleship and were received in the admiral's cabin by the committee commanding her.

The committee demanded the delivery of 500 tons of coal and provisions of various kinds within 24 hours, and threatened that in the event of non-compliance after due warning to the inhabitants, the town would be bombarded.

The committee also proposed that the mayor should transmit to the population a proclamation demanding the termination of the war, a convocation of zemstvos, etc.

Learning of these demands many inhabitants fled from the town. The workmen insisted that the demands be granted.

A special meeting of the municipal council was called and the council consented to deliver the provisions, but refused to comply with the demand for coal for the reason that the town had none.

Sink Her, Says Wirenius

St. Petersburg, July 6, 11:20 a.m. — Inquiry at the admiralty this morning failed to confirm the report current late last night that the Kniaz Potemkine had already left Theodosia. Admiral Wirenius, chief of the naval staff informed the Associated Press that according to the latest advices the battleship is still at Theodosia.

"What will be done?" asked the correspondent.

"We cannot tell you," was the reply.

"The whole affair is in the hands of Vice-Admiral Chouknin, and he has not communicated his plans to us. Admiral Kruger's ships were due to leave Odessa yesterday afternoon. They should now be arriving at Sebastopol."

"Do you think that upon their arrival Vice-Admiral Chouknin will dispatch the squadron to try to capture the Kniaz Potemkine?"

"We do not know what he will do. In my opinion, the easiest and promptest solution would be to send a torpedo boat to sink her, and I have advocated that course. The situation is grave. The ship is not in the hands of her crew, but in the hands of the revolutionary committee, which went on board at Odessa. They have issued a high-sounding manifesto to the powers. They want to be considered insurgents. I presume their next step will be to ask for recognition as belligerents. They know their heads are forfeited, and will stop at nothing. In the eyes of the law they are outlaws and pirates. The first thing necessary is to make an example of the crew and restore discipline in the Black Sea fleet.

Admiral Wirenius said there was no truth in the report from Vienna that 400 Russian sailors had destroyed a cruiser and sought refuge on board a British steamer bound for Constantinople.

Execution for Mutineers.

Odessa, July 5.—Sixty-seven of the mutineers from the Georgi Pobiedonosetz, including the ringleaders, were imprisoned today. It is expected that all of them will be shot.

Mutiny in the Army.

Berlin, July 6.—A correspondent at Kattowitz, Silesia, says he learns from an altogether reliable source that sixteen men who were designated in each company of the Lithuanian life guard regiment in Warsaw to go to Manchuria June 28, refused to go and their comrades decline to make them do so. Their colonel sent to another life guard regiment for help, but these men also refused to obey orders. Upon a similar refusal of a third life guard regiment, the colonel of the Lithuania regiment applied to the military commander of Warsaw, who sent a detachment of Cossacks to the Mokotow camp. Some of the mutineers fired on the Cossacks, who returned the fire, fourteen altogether being killed before those who resisted were arrested.

THE NEW JAP LOAN

$150,000,000 at Ninety With Interest of Four and a-Half Per Cent.

London, July 6.—The negotiations for the Japanese loan of $150,000,000 with the tobacco monopoly as security were practically completed today, and the terms will be signed this evening. The issue price will be 90, the interest 4½ per cent, and the loan, which will be equally divided between New York, London and Germany, will run for twenty years. The issuing houses in New York will be Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the National City Bank, and the National Bank of Commerce; in London, the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, the Yokohama Specie Bank and Parr's Bank, and in Germany, thirteen houses in different cities will issue the bonds. The prospectus will be out July 11.

MR. ROSS FOR GOVERNOR?

Ottawa Paper Has Him Slated for New Province.

Ottawa, July 6. — The Ottawa Free Press gives currency to the report that Hon. George W. Ross is to be appointed governor of one of the new provinces. There is good reason to believe, however, that such a proposition has never been broached in official circles. It is doubtful whether the offer, even if it were made, would be entertained by Mr. Ross. In spite of his physical handicap, Mr. Ross' friends would doubtless like to see him remain for a while longer in active politics, and his own inclination probably points in the same direction. When the time comes for Mr. Ross to retire the general opinion is that the best the country could offer would be none too good for him.

EVERYTHING IN GOOD SHAPE AT THE LAKESIDE RESORT

All Possible Done to Restore Confidence of Londoners In Port Stanley---Citizens Now Visiting the Port.

WRIT ORDERED TO BE ISSUED AGAINST DR. ENGLISH

Port Stanley, despite the stories of typhoid-polluted water, is a very popular resort now. The people of London do not appear to believe that the water supply is as dangerous as has been made to appear, and they continue to flock in large numbers daily to the lakeside. With the Pere Marquette running six trains each way every day, it is a favorite pastime of the business man to leave his office early in the afternoon and run down to the lakeside. The trip takes but 50 minutes, and the change from the heat of the city is strengthening and enlivening. An hour at the lakeside, with the breezes blowing cool and strong from Old Erie, makes one forget that such a thing as business exists in the world.

Yesterday an Advertiser reporter took an afternoon train for the port, and arrived there about 3:30. There was no great crowd present, but there were nevertheless enough people from London to show that the residents of the city still have confidence in the summer resort, which has been so long their own. On the hill and through the woods were scattered picnic parties, while down on the beach hundreds of children waded in the waves, which rolled on the sands. On Kettle Creek boating was also in favor, though owing to the roughness of the lake but few cared to venture out upon it.

The Water Supply.

While at the lakeside the reporter investigated for several hours the condition of the water supply. From a bacteriological standpoint the newspaper man could ascertain nothing, but from the manner in which the water is collected, in which it is stored, and the places from which it is secured, he could learn a great deal. And to the lay mind of the press man, it seemed that all that it is possible for the people of Port Stanley to do, outside of establishing a waterworks system, of which there is some talk, has been done to restore the confidence which the people of London have always reposed in Port Stanley as a summer resort.

In the first place, the well on the Fraser House grounds, about which so much talk has been heard was visited. This well is sunk in the face of a steep bank, which forms one side of a ravine. It has been thoroughly cleansed, and a six-inch curb of cement now prevents its pollution by surface water. The well is fed by a spring which runs through a bar of clay, and the water must be of the purest.

Back of the dancing-shed is located the well which supplies the picnickers on the grounds. This well consists of a cement tank, 8x5 feet, and the water for it is secured from a well sunk on the beach 200 feet from the lake, the water being pumped up the hill by an engine. Everything about this well is spotlessly clean, the cement tank on the hill being completely inclosed so as to prevent any pollution from the surface. These are the only sources of supply on the hill.

No Typhoid at Port.

All summer the people of the Port, as well as the numerous picnickers from this city, have drank this water, as have also the hundreds of summer boarders and visitors, and yet not a single case of typhoid fever has made its appearance at the Port. In fact, it is pointed out that Port Stanley has only had two cases of typhoid fever in 27 years.

The people of the village cannot understand why it is that the London Board of Health should have been so harsh in its treatment of the village, and they feel especially hurt because of the alleged statement of Dr. English, that the village has done nothing to purify the water supply since last summer.

But things appear to be booming at the lakeside. Already the summer cottages are filling up, and rooms and board are becoming scarce. Port Stanley is too nice a place to give it up easily, and London, where all the typhoid fever talk originated, is daily increasing its quota of visitors, summer boarders and cottagers.

Dr. Mothersill, the medical health officer of the village, is most emphatic in his statements that the water supply is all right, and that it will continue to be so. To The Advertiser man he said:

Dr. Mothersill's Assurance.

"I can assure you, and also the people of London, through your paper, that the water suply of the Port is as

BRITISH ARMY STORES SCANDAL

By Sales and Refunds the British Taxpayers Lost Millions.

London, July 6.—The report of Gen. Butler's committee of investigation into the South African stores department is a scathing condemnation of war office methods, or lack of them, in dealing with contractors. In the summing up the committee says: "Some clumsy pantaloon in putties, even some agile harlequin in a helmet," may occasionally be caught, but the oldest member of the committee has informed his colleagues that in the course of many years' experience he can only call to mind one case where the civil practitioner in a military scandal has been brought to justice.

The minutes of evidence hold many proofs that the signing away of thousands of pounds, the granting of rebates or refunds, and the acceptance of a contractor's representation without query or comment, were regarded as ordinary occurrences in every-day administration, worthy of less attention than would have been bestowed upon a few pounds or shillings in a similar situation at home.

The report explains that in June, 1902, when the was was being wound up, there was accumulated by the military authorities food sufficient to feed 300,000 men and 200,000 horses for four months; and as it became necessary to sell all surplus stores, Lord Kitchener suggested on June 18 the creation of a special department, under Col. Morgan and the Army Service Corps. The money involved, he suggested, would probably reach some £6,000,000 or £7,000,000.

Those millions were never realized, however, for not only surplus but needful stocks were sold at "absurdly low prices." In some cases they did not cover the customs charges.

A dual system of sales was set up—"a system under which the army would concurrently sell with one hand and buy with the other the same article or a similar description of the same article * * * and these concurrent dealings were to be worked by the Army Service Corps, under Col. Morgan as director of sales, as well as director of supplies."

Meyer & Co. stood almost alone in the field of tender.

Col. Hipwell, who succeeded Col. Morgan and Capt. Limond, are also censured.

There can be little doubt that an extensive loss or destruction of documents has taken place; and in the evidence given by the officers and non-commissioned officers who were connected with the director of supplies' office in Pretoria, that defective memories are more the rule than the exception whenever the salient or critical points of any question are reached.

The committee is of opinion that a grave error was made in not sending a specially trained officer of high rank, and a small but very capable staff of civil and military officials to South Africa after the war to take in hand the entire business of winding up the war, and replace the haphazard and always wasteful ways of war by the regular methods of peace administration.

FOUND PIRATE TREASURE

$1,000 of Capt. Kidd's Gold Dug Up On Long Island.

New York, July 5.—An iron box filled with Spanish gold has been dug out of the ground at Riverhead, L. I., and the story at once grew that it was buried there by Captain Kidd, the pirate. It is certain the money was buried more than a century ago. It was found by men engaged in tearing down the old Ostrander mansion that is more than 100 years old. A passageway was discovered leading from the cellar straight to the box. The entrance was hidden by a large stone.

The coins were carried to the First National Bank, where they were declared to be worth about $1,000. The Ostrander property was recently sold to Sheriff H. H. Preston and G. Frank Howell. The box was buried close to the line dividing the property of the two owners. The prize will probably be divided between them.

ENDING OF WAR NOW UP TO JAPS

Czar Has Bowed to Inevitable and Awaits Move On Mikado's Part.

St. Petersburg, July 5, 6 p.m. — The situation regarding the armistice is as follows:

Russia has formally signified to President Roosevelt her desire for a lasting peace, not only by the appointment of plenipotentiaries, who will be accompanied by experts fully empowered to conclude a treaty, subject only to the ratification of the respective governments, but as a final step has indicated her readiness to suspend hostilities. She has avoided formally asking for an armistice as a matter of pride, but under the circumstances Russia could hardly go further than she has. Japan, so far as known, has not yet indicated her attitude, or, if she has, Russia has not been so informed.

In diplomatic circles the most earnest hope is expressed that Japan will consent, both for the sake of avoiding further bloodshep in Manchuria, and perhaps in order to prevent a catastrophe in Russia, which may shake the Romanoff's throne and appal the world by its horrors. An ambassador of a great European power said to the Associated Press:

"If Japan declines, it may prove to be a misfortune for the whole world. The Emperor, crushed by the defeats in the far east, and with almost civil war at home, has bowed his head to the inevitable. He wants peace, and Japan has the proofs in her possession. Japan has vindicated her power before the world, and has won the admiration of the world. Nothing becomes a victor so much as a broad spirits of magnanimity.

"If Japan still insists in humbling the Emperor's head into the dust and forcing a useless battle, which will result in the loss of tens of thousands of lives, she may produce a cataclysm of anarchy greater than that of the French revolution, which will leave Russia no government to negotiate with, besides threatening the peace of Europe.

"The usual precedents for the conclusion of a war are reversed in this case. An armistice generally precedes an agreement on the time and place for a meeting of the negotiators. Now that the stress which usually follows a suspension of hostilities have been arranged, why should Japan, simply because she enjoys the advantage of the military situation, inflict another defeat with its accompanying slaughter? Nothing would be gained by it, and much might be lost."

The Bourse Gazette considers that the war is over, and that a battle after what has been accomplished by President Roosevelt would be an anomaly.

Japan has another proof that Russia has decided on peace in the abandonment of further mobilization in the St. Petersburg and other districts, where, in spite of the deplorable international situation, such a step would not have been taken if the Government seriously contemplated a continuation of the war.

LIKE THE ASTOR TRAMP

Negro Who Broke Into House Took Nothing But a Sleep.

Stamford, Conn., July 6.—According to his statement to the police, Marion Terrell, a negro tramp, was moved by motives similar to those which possessed the famous Astor tramp when he forced an entrance to the residence of Thomas K. Milliken, of Henry street, a wealthy manufacturer of linens in New York. Mr. Milliken and his family are touring in Europe, and the place is in charge of a caretaker. Terrell explored the house and finally reached Mrs. Milliken's boudoir. Its magnificence made him sleepy, he told the police. He disrobed and went to sleep on the downy canopied couch.

Next night he returned and was proceeding to take another sleep, when a special officer watching for him appeared. Terrell fled, but was recognized, and was afterward captured by Policeman Hefferman. The Milliken tramp escaped from police headquarters by leaping from a window thirty feet from the ground, but was recaptured subsequently in Sound Beach. Then he made a confession. He had stolen no article of value, but was charged with statutory burglary and was bound over to the superior court for trial.

MINING DISASTER

Nine Men Die by Gas Explosion in Virginian Mine.

Roanoke, Va., July 5.—A disastrous explosion occurred in Vivian, W. Va., coal mines, at Vivian, W. Va., today, causing the instant death of nine men and the injuries of fourscore others. The details are very meager, but it is known that in addition to the nine dead, fifteen have been rescued in a dying condition. There are 30 more men in the mines, and it is almost certain that they have perished. A special Norfolk and Western train is being rushed to the mine to take the wounded to the company's hospital at Welch, W. Va. The cause of the explosion is not known, but the impression prevails that it was due to an accumulation of gas. This is one of the worst explosions in the history of the West Virginia coal fields.

In his book, "Uganda and Its Peoples," J. F. Cunningham tells of a curious manner of treating the sick among a certain native African tribe: "When a person fell ill the village prophet was called in. He said at once whether the sick person would recover or not. If he was doomed to die he was allowed to fulfill the prophecy; if he was to live, there was no need of medical aid." Another strange custom is explained in the words of the native who, when asked by the author why women were not allowed to eat the flesh of goats, replied: "There is no why; it is the custom."

Out of every 10,000 work people about seven are killed in the year by industrial accidents. In the case of seamen the number killed per 10,000 is about 62. So says the London Labor Gazette.

EUROPE TO IGNORE RUSSIA AS POWER

Weakness of Russia Will Cause New Alliances.

END OF DREAM OF THE SLAV

Hope of Absorbing Many Small States and Thus Reaching Outlet On Mediterranean Is Gone.

Washington, D. C., July 5. — While the war with Japan has ruined Russia's prestige in the far east, the revolutionary outbreak in the Black Sea fleet and the disturbed conditions throughout the Slav Empire have destroyed the influence of the Czar in European councils.

A new adjustment of international relations in the old world is impending—in fact, has already begun—and the stable powers, including the United States, are considering policies they must adopt to meet the changed conditions.

Diplomats who discussed today the effect of the disturbances in Russia did not let it be understood that their governments are making preparations in anticipation of the overthrow of the autocracy

If such an event were to occur—and it is regarded today more probable than seemed likely only ten days ago—successive developments will shape to a very large extent the course each nation will follow. What has received international recognition at this moment is the passing of Russia as a factor in the Mediterranean and Balkan questions, particularly, and the prospect is that she soon will be counted out in connection with other problems which ultimately have concerned Europe in the past.

Confession of Impotence.

The appearance of the Russian battleship Kniaz Potemkine in the hands of revolutionists at the Roumanian port of Kustenji and the inability of the St. Petersburg Government to capture it—confessed by the dismantlement of the remaining vessels of the Black Sea fleet—mark the end of Russian domination of the Balkan situation.

It has been the dream of the Pan-Slavists that Russia would some day extend her sway over Roumania, Bulgaria, Servia, part of Austria, and the Straits of Bosphorus and the Dardanelles. An outlet from the Mediterranean was the ultimate ambition, and to insure its accomplishment Russian intrigue was constantly at work to maintain a condition of affairs which at any moment might be turned to advantage.

It was pointed out today that just before the Japanese warships fired torpedoes at the Russian fleet at Port Arthur there was grave danger of war between Bulgaria and Turkey over Macedonia Since the war began, neither Bulgaria nor Turkey has given any excuse to the other for hostilities The peace of Europe lay in the lap of the Balkans and to maintain it the powers gave a mandate to Russia, and to Austria, in 1897, under which they were to take such action as might be necessary to prevent strife.

Austria has internal weaknesses which everyone predicts will develop into revolution when the aged emperor. Franz Josef, dies. Turkey has been the "sick man" for more than half a century.

According to what was said today Germany was the first to profit by Russia's deplorable state. Appreciating the inability of the Czar to come to the aid of France, Kaiser Wilhelm reopened the Moroccan question, which France and Great Britain had settled to their mutual satisfaction, and in view of the latest developments in the Slav Empire, it is believed here that he will continue to insist that his views for a conference shall be adopted.

Baron von Sternburg, the German ambassador, will see the President tomorrow at Oyster Bay and is expected to assure him that a peaceful adjustment of the Moroccan question will take place.

M. Jusserand, the French ambassador, who had expected to sail on the 13th for France, may not go, and the hesitation which marks the execution of his plans has aroused comment in diplomatic circles.

Germany has been circumspect in dealing with the Balkan question, but has been strengthening carefully her relations with Turkey. She has extended her activities in recent years to Persia, to the manifest dissatisfaction of Russia, which had hoped to dominate the land of the Shah, and of Great Britain, which would not want her road to India menaced by either Russia or Germany. Turkey would like nothing better than a free hand in connection with Bulgaria, promising to make short work of that principality, provided other powers did not interfere.

Attitude of England and France.

Great Britain and France are the two powers in Europe, it is said here, which would not benefit from a disturbance of the status quo. Great Britain views with aprehension the policy of Germany, because she regards it as a policy of aggrandizement. Any increase in German strength is accepted as a menace to British interests.

While the London authorities want Russia weakened, broken up into many small states, perhaps, because the safety of India would then be assured, no diplomat in Washington believes they would like the development of a condition which would enable German expansion at Russian expense.

France, on her part, would object seriously to the overthrow of the present Government of Russia or any grave weakening of its power for political and financial reasons. The French people have regarded Russia as a greater safeguard against German aggression than England, because England could aid France only upon the sea, while Russia could throw into Germany a force greater than that country could raise. Moreover, the French are large holders of Russia's public debt and would suffer enormously in case of a successful revolution in the empire of their ally.

It is this changed European situation which is responsible for the prospective success of the latest negotiations for an armistice instituted by the president. Russia now recognizes that she cannot stand another serious defeat in Manchuria. France, as well as the United States, has been urging her to accept the inevitable and reach an agreement with the Japanese for the suspension of hostilities pending negotiations of a treaty of peace.

Great Britain is circumspect in discussing Russia with Japan, but the latter does not wish Germany, according to what is known here, to attain greater power, even though Russia be the sufferer. Therefore, Japan has displayed more willingness to lend an ear to the idea of an armistice, which at first was repugnant to her.

Japan knows that Russia must sign a treaty of peace, whatever the terms, but it is said that in spite of the woeful weakness of her adversary she will not take advantage of it. It was reiterated today that her terms will be moderate, but Russia will not be allowed to haggle over them. European pressure, if it be required, will be exerted to induce acceptance

The Government at St. Petersburg, diplomats say, must understand by this time that it must disentangle itself for foreign complications, at whatever cost, in order to devote all its efforts to the restoration of internal peace

Intervention Is Discussed.

The interest the powers are displaying in Russia's internal situation leads their representatives here to gossip at considerable length about the possibility of intervention. One of these diplomats pointed out today that, intervened herself in other countries to preserve order, it might be that the Slav empire would suffer the same humiliation. By the treaty of London, dated 1827, Russia joined France and Great Britain to put an end to "the sanguinary contest, which, by delivering up the Greek provinces and the isles of the archipelago to all the disorders of anarchy, produces daily fresh impediments to the commerce of the European states and gives occasion to piracies, which not only expose the subjects of the contracting parties to considerable losses, but besides render necessary burdensome measures of protection and repression."

No power has yet adopted any measures for the protection of its interests in Russia, but it is easily conceivable to diplomats here that the necessity for them, especially in the Black Sea, which the Russian Government has heretofore dominated, is near. The Kniaz Potemkine has not up to this time injured a neutral ship, but the moment this shall occur that moment the power whose flag the ship flies will demand either that Russia give protection or that it be permitted to do so without such action being considered in an unfriendly light.

Germany, diplomats here believe, would like nothing better than to be charged with the duty of preserving order in the Black Sea. Russia alone could not give her such authority, however, as by the treaty of Paris of 1856 the Black Sea is neutralized and open to the commerce of the world, but closed against vessels of war, except a limited force for Russia and Turkey for coast service. In 1870 the Russian Government took advantage of the Franco-Prussian war to escape from the obligations of the treaty and issued a circular to the powers, declaring that it did not consider itself longer bound by it.

The revolution which has begun in Russia, therefore, not only has fatal consequences for the autocracy, but has created and will create complications of the gravest character, affecting the well being and future of the stable nations of Europe.

AFRICAN INSECT PESTS

Prof. Kock Says the Deadly Tzetz Fly Can Be Made Harmless.

Berlin, July 5. — The Cologne Gazette prints extracts from private letters written by Professor Robert Koch, who went to German East Africa at the end of 1904 for the further investigation of certain tropical diseases, showing that he had already made important discoveries about the Tzetz fly. The professor found the breeding ground of the fly, and he says that the insect can be rendered harmless through simple means.

Professor Koch made the still more important discovery that trypanosomata microbes, which are present in sloping drops, exist in the Tzetz fly. He further discovered in April last that the relapsing fever is transferred to men through a small sand tick.

These discoveries are regarded here as of great scientific importance. The professor visited the Ohehe table land, which he found to be temperate and salubrious and highly suited to European settlement.

BOLT ENTERS MINE

Lightning Plunges to Lower Levels and Shocks the Miners.

Vancouver, B. C., July 5. — That coast rarity, a thunderstorm, which visited Vancouver the other day, was mild as compared with the one that Rossland experienced. There lightning penetrated to the 500-foot level of the Josie mine and severely shocked a miner who was working in a drift 2,000 feet from the shaft. The man almost lost consciousness, so strong was the current of electricity that went through him. He was so far beneath the ground that he could not hear the rumbling of the thunder, but the lightning made its zigzag way to him. The electricity went 400 feet deeper to the 900-foot level in the same mine, where a car man was knocked insensible. Three other miners, each in different parts of the Josie, felt shocks. It is supposed by some that after striking the headworks, the lightning passed down the iron air line which branches off at the various levels. Another theory is that damp air acted as a conductor of the electricity into the bowels of the earth.

ASKS LAW AGAINST FAITH HEALERS

Toronto, July 5.—Before the Council of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario closes its annual meeting here, a report on amendments to the medical act will be received from a special committee, appointed this morning.

It was deemed wise to refrain from comment until the committee should complete its labors, but it would seem that the Legislature may be asked to expedite the prosecution of Christian Scientists and other faith healers, who are not particularly vulnerable under the existing act.

The impression is borne out by the report of the official prosecutor, Mr. Charles Rose.

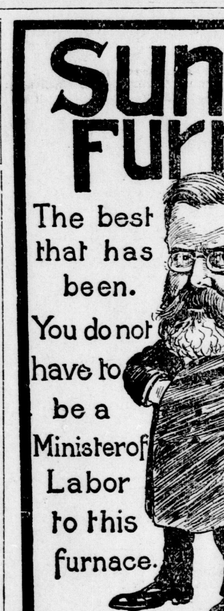

"Year after year," says Mr. Rose, "I have drawn your attention to the need of a small amendment to the penal clause of the medical act, as from the decisions rendered by judges of our higher courts it is impossible to secure a conviction as the act now stands, against many persons, who, I consider, practice medicine, but from the fact that they do not prescribe drugs, the higher court judges have decided that it is not practicing medicine.

"Many of those who do not give medicine, although practicing the art of healing, are more dangerous to the public than he who prescribes medicine, I think it is time for the Ontario Medical Council to lay the facts before the Attorney-General, and I feel sure that if this was done, he would see to it that such an amendment was passed, not in the interest of the medical profession, but to protect the public from this class of healing."

Mr. Rose refers to the Goodfellow Christian Science case in Toronto, and gives Sir John Boyd's remarks on the subject. Then he adds:

"During the past year, we have had a number of such cases cropping up in our police courts in different parts of the Province, and in every instance the judge before whom the case was brought spoke strongly against this class of practitioner. There are many other kinds of sick healers of the same nature throughout the Province, who give no medicine, but undertake to cure diseases in a somewhat similar manner to the Christian Scientists, and it is to such as these that the Government's attention should be directed in any amendment made."

Mr. Rose has another complaint, charging that a number of licensed practitioners throughout the Province employ unqualified men, and that in many cases the unqualified man is left in charge of the physician's practice. If an example of some of them were made by the discipline committee investigating their conduct, Mr. Rose thinks it might put a stop to this kind of "unprofessional work."

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

The ORIGINAL remedy that "kills the Dandruff Germ."

DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED

Most young and middle-aged men never know that their scalps are loaded with microbic growths until the hair has "gone off." Nature sends her warnings of dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair, but the discovery of the dandruff germ is too recent for the public to realize the danger of neglect. Newbro's Herpicide positively destroys the dandruff microbe; stops falling hair and protects the scalp against reinfection. A delightful hair dressing. Stops itching instantly. Its immense popularity proves its goodness. Save your hair while you have hair to save.

NURSE FINDS SWEETHEART

Lost Him During Boer War and Meets Him in New York.

New York, July 5. — With the wedding of Miss Nellie Van Dake, the hospital nurse now attached to the Boer War Spectacle at Brighton Beach, to Sergeant John Vaye, of the Boer war contingent, a romance that began in South Africa five years ago will be rounded off.

Miss Van Dake lived in Bloemfontein, where Vaye was a young business man. She was sixteen years old when her fiance was called away to serve in the Boer war. On the eve of her lover's departure Nellie gave him a locket containing a lock of her hair. After months of silence Miss Van Dake received a brief message from the front that Lieut. John Vaye had died for the "cause at the battle of Spion Kopje." Her father was also killed, her mother died and the girl came to this country, and hearing of the War Spectacle, joined as nurse to look after the many men who were injured in the mimic battle.

It was following one of these accidents that the young woman was called to the side of the operating table in the Brighton Beach Field Hospital where lay a Boer soldier, who had been kicked by an unruly horse during the reproduction of the battle of Colenso.

As she opened his waistcoat she saw a locket and then she knew who the wounded man was and that she had found her lost sweetheart, who had been sent as a wounded prisoner to St. Helena.

Gen. Cronje, who is an elder of the South African Dutch Reformed Church, will ceremonize the wedding, the date for which will be set in a few days.

BABES ALL BOYS IN FLATBUSH

Big Crop of Male Infants Follow Upon Long Peanut Spree.

New York, July 5. — When the peanut party became popular in Flatbush society last summer and fall Director Smith of the Central Park Zoo had not yet made his revolutionary discovery as to the effect of hydrocarbons in determining sex. Else it might have been different.

Although there is a difference of opinion on this point of history, it is the general opinion that the Mothers' Club appropriately started it. Last year, along in June, just when Flatbush society was getting active with its summer campaign, the Mothers gave a peanut lawn party. Peanut ice cream was served in papier mache imitations of peanut shells. The Japanese paper napkins had a peanut design. There were peanut waffles and peanuts glace, peanut bonbons and peanut butter sandwiches. It was one of the most brilliant social functions ever held in Flatbush, and netted $23 79 for the purposes of the Mothers' Club.

You just can't stop a thing of that kind when it gets to going. The idea was so nifty and novel that it supplanted crokinole and progressive authors and mum socials as a form of diversion for church and educational functions. It lasted away into the fall and winter.

The Epworth League's peanut party for the missionary fund eclipsed in interest even the autumn croquet championships. The piece de resistance on their bill of fare was peanut fudge; a popular elocutionist recited "Uncle Rastus and the Peanuts" and gave a shriekingly amusing impersonation of an Italian peanut man; the members of the club were seen in a very pretty and instructive series of tableaux representing the course of a peanut from its planting to its sale from a pushcart.

Next the Shakespeare Club gave a peanut afternoon, with papers on the growth and cultivation of peanuts. There was a debate on the question, "Are peanuts indigestible?" The brides' cooking class devoted two weeks to the study of peanut dainties.

The public mind was on the subject and the consumption of peanuts grew apace. The number of pushcart men handling the prize product of Georgia doubled and trebled. Children cried for them. Housewives served peanut desserts at luncheon and dinner. The autumn and spring stoop parties on the front porches of Flatbush gossiped and sparked over sacks of peanuts, until the sidewalks in the morning looked like Coney Island after a hard Sunday.

Director Smith had not yet spoken; Flatbush was impregnating its system with hydrocarbonates in utter ignorance of a great, but as yet unrevealed, scientific truth.

Well, spring broke, and the population of Flatbush went right on increasing. Yet as early as March, doctors, clergymen, neighborhood gossips and others who notice such things began to mark a strange fact. They were all boys.

In one week of early March five citizens of Flatbush, popular in church and women's club circles, paced their parlor floors and wrung their hands; and to them appeared five nurses, who said: "Doing nicely, sir, and it's a fine little boy."

About the same thing happened along further Flatbush avenue. In two or three days the doctors took to stopping their barouches as they passed one another, and talking across their wheels in low, excited tones.

"Certainly beats all!" they would say before they drove on.

March 4 came; it was the day of President Roosevelt's inauguration, and the doctors and gossips and people who believed in signs said that Flatbush ought to make a boy record for itself that day. Two babies were reported to the gossips on that day—both girls. They were named Theodora. And everybody said that it was just an accident about those boys; things happen that way sometimes.

Next day the score jumped back and since then it has seemed to rain boys in Flatbush. Hod carrier and merchant prince, bartender and clergyman, judge and cop—it was all boys for theirs. Now and then a little girl came by way of variety. In every single case it was found that the parents of the girl babies, crop of the spring of 1905, were recluses from church and women's club society. Even before the great discovery of Director Smith, the district gossips noticed that fact and commented on it.

Then, on May Day, Director Smith announced his discovery. The Central Park Zoo had been scoring only male calves and fawns, and especially baby monkeys. And Director Smith found that it was due to a diet of hydrocarbons, which the same are peanuts. A wave of self-revelation swept over Flatbush. In certain houses there came a frantic call for peanuts; from before certain others, Italian hot peanut men were driven with clubs and reproaches.

Alderman John Hann, who represents Flatbush in the city council, was wiping off the rubber plant on his stoop in Park Place last Monday evening, when he was told that a delegation of ladies wanted to see him. He showed them into his study and turned up the student lamp. He recognized the president of the Shakespeare Club, and members of the executive councils of the Mothers' Club, and the Brides' Cooking Class, together with prominent church workers.

"It's about the boy babies we've come," said the president of the Shakespeare Club, who acted as spokesman.

"Oh, yes! The little boy babies! Well, I'm sure the mothers of Flatbush must be glad to have so many fine sons," said the alderman, taking the wrong tack.

The president of the Shakespeare Club cut in abruptly:

"It is not a question of personal gratification, Mr. Hann. It is a question of principle"—all the other delegates nodded at this—"is our sex to be extinguished in Flatbush? Are we, after creating an atmosphere of feminine refinement and culture, to have it destroyed in the next generation because there are none but alien women for our sons to marry?"

"Besides, girl babies are so cute," said the delegate from the Brides' Cooking Class.

The president of the Shakespeare Club crushed her with one look.

"And so," she went on, "our clubs have met and made up a law, which we want you to get passed at the very next meeting of the aldermen. Our legal committee has drawn it up. I am certain that its form is perfect."

Alderman Hann took the document which she thrust into his hands.

It was headed:

"An ordinance prohibitnig the sale, purchase or gift of peanuts, goobers or any products of the said peanuts or goobers in that section of the Borough of Brooklyn commonly known as Flatbush."

A LEOPARD LOOSE

Fierce Animal Escaped From Zoo—Captured After a Night in Woods.

New York, July 6. — After holding the keepers and special police of the New York Zoological Park at bay all night, and scaring most of the deer and smaller animals nearly into nervous prostration, China, the big snow leopard, was cornered and captured after a desperate fight at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

China is the mate of the snow leopard which escaped a year ago and was shot because no one dared to tackle her bare-handed. He is the biggest and most ferocious leopard in captivity, and has for months been watching his chance to escape.

At 5 o'clock Tuesday night a policeman pacing about the lion house in the park heard a commotion among the robins in the trees above the house, and looking up saw the big, ugly head of China, the snow leopard, looking down at him from over the edge of the roof.

All women and children were sent out of the park. Then the roof of the lion house was climbed with ladders. China had climbed out through the skylight in his cage. He had forced a window that was supposed to be proof against his strength.

When the men, armed with pitchforks, clubs, sticks, shovels and anything that they could get hold of, appeared on the roof the leopard retreated to the center, gnashing his teeth and growling. He suddenly leaped off and made for the forest in the east side of the park, where he hid among the bushes and howled. All night long men with lanterns tried to drive the leopard into one of the buildings.

Director Hornaday did not want to injure the animal, and no one dared to approach him unarmed.

At 5 o'clock in the morning he was seen sneaking into the cellar of the lion house, and the door was slammed.

PRINCES BUSY WITH BOOKS

Portugal's Royal Boys Study Hard and Go Early to Bed.

London, July 6.—A highly interesting event took place at Necessidades Palace when the Duque de Beja, the King and Queen of Portugal's youngest son, was examined by his professors on the different subjects he has been studying of late. The king and queen, and Crown Prince Luiz Filippe, were present throughout the examination, as also Condessa de Seisal, in waiting on Queen Amelia; Conde de Sabugosa, Conde d'Arnoso and Conde da Ribeira.

The young prince was examined in French by M. Boeye, in German by Herr Kerausch, in English by Mr. Alfred King, in Portuguese by Rev. Mr. Fladeiro, and finally in mathematics (the youthful scholar's favorite subject, and one for which he shows astonishing ability) by Senor M. Leitao.

By the way, the following time table, showing how the King and Queen of Portugal's two sons pass their days, may prove interesting: They rise at 6, and sit down to their books until 8:30. Then follows half an hour's interruption, after which studies are resumed at 9. At midday they have breakfast; lessons fill up the rest of the afternoon until 4:30, when books are laid aside for the day. Their highnesses then either drive or ride out, go for a spin in an automobile, or play tennis. At 7 they dine, and at 9:30 go to bed, except on rare occasions, when they go to a theater. Thursdays are half-holidays.

Just What Everyone Should Do.

Mr. J. T. Barber, of Irwinville, Ga., always keeps a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy at hand ready for instant use. Attacks of colic, cholera morbus and diarrhea come on so suddenly that there is no time to hunt a doctor or go to the store for medicine. Mr. Barbar says: "I have tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy which is one of the best medicines I ever saw. I keep a bottle of it in my room, as I have had several attacks of colic and it has proved to be the best medicine I ever used." Sold by all druggists.

According to the best data at hand Andrew Carnegie is, up to date, a greater giver than Rockefeller. Carnegie has already given $100,000,000 to his pet philanthropy, the libraries. Of this sum the United States received [illegible] $17,713,750, Holland $1,750,000, England $1,354,500, Canada [illegible] $315,000 and Cuba $252,000. Rockefeller and Carnegie give more than any other two men in the new or the old world.

The oldest fortress in the United States is Fort Marion on the Matanzas, in Florida. It has seen many bloody frays in the opening up of what is now the paradise of the south. The land around this ancient place has been watered by the blood of men who have fallen in conflict, but today it is a peaceful, picturesque spot, full of charm and serenity.

The Autonomy Bills Passed.

The autonomy bills passed the House of Commons yesterday after a fusillade of amendments from the Quebec irreconcilables. Mr. Bergeron proposed to allow Catholic or Protestant ratepayers in the new provinces to conduct their schools as they saw fit. Mr. Leonard proposed to give the minority all the rights they had before the Northwest Legislature took over the control of the school system. Mr. Monk pleaded again for the official recognition of the French language. Mr. Bourassa moved for the restoration of the original school clauses of the autonomy bill. None of these amendments mustered more than seven supporters, but all the Conservative candidates in Quebec at the next general election can proclaim that the French-Canadian Conservative contingent in the House of Commons voted solidly against "the Fielding-Sifton compromise," which Monk & Co. denounce as a betrayal of the rights of their co-religionists. In Ontario the Sproules and the Hugheses will have another story. The Opposition will serve up a fine blend of Orange bitters and Roman punch.

The western members made an effort to eliminate the C. P. R. tax exemption clauses, but Parliament is bound by every principle of public honor to keep faith with the company. Under the contract made between the C. P. R. syndicate and the Government of Sir John Macdonald, 25 years ago, the company was exempted from taxation forever upon its roadbed, rolling stock and similar property, and upon its lands for 20 years. Whether this period of 20 years dates from the completion of the road, or from the time at which the patents for each parcel of land were issued to the company is a question before the courts. These exemptions laid a heavy burden upon western development and were opposed by the Liberal party, but there is now no escape from the improvidence of the Government of that day. The contract can be annulled in the interest of the new provinces only by granting compensation to the company. This would involve the payment of an enormous sum of money and the Federal Government is not prepared to take the step at this moment, though Sir Wilfrid Laurier admits that Parliament must some day address itself to the grievance. The Government, however, recognized the handicap upon the new provinces in respect of these exemptions, and granted them exceedingly liberal financial terms.

Back to the Land.

Mr. Rider Haggard, the English novelist, who is making a study of the social problem, has submitted to the British Government a draft of a national land settlement scheme, based upon his recent investigations of the Salvation Army colonies in the United States. Mr. Haggard says that as time goes by his conviction is strengthened that there is but one cure for certain of the evils of civilization—to get behind them and dam them at their source.

"The wretchedness of our overcrowded cities, indeed, may be beyond any complete remedy, but it can, at least, be palliated by bringing numbers of their poor inhabitants into contact with the healthful plenty of the land. Some say, however, that even such palliation is impossible, for the reason that the dwellers in cities, or those who purpose to dwell in them, desire to have nothing to do with the land, and refuse to live thereon. This has never been my experience; in fact, every year considerable numbers of persons write to me individually asking me to help them to convey themselves and their families back from the towns to the country. I believe that in a majority of cases village-born folk go to cities, and in many instances remain in them, because they can find no opportunity or prospect upon the land and, subsequently, because they have not the means to escape with their wives and children from the web of town life, in which they have entangeled themselves. Given that prospect and opportunity, and given those means, such folk will avail themselves of them with eagerness."

Mr. Haggard gives on the whole a favorable report of the land settlements of the Salvation Army in the United States. The slight failure of finance, he believes, can easily be avoided in future enterprises. The object of his scheme, in his own language, is "to advantage the Empire by the introduction on to its unoccupied spaces of large numbers of persons whose existence otherwise would have been wasted or worse, who also, whatever the troubles into which circumstances may have brought them, are of British blood, and the parents of children that will hand down to the future the traditions, characteristics, and virtues of our race, which children in new countries will find many opportunities of rising to positions different indeed from their parents' humble state." He proposes that the money for these settlements shall be borrowed on the strength of a guarantee of the interest on the loan by the Imperial Government, or, when a British colony is willing to co-operate, by the Imperial and Colonial Governments jointly. The poor law authorities in the large cities of Great Britain should be asked to make a per capita contribution for every indigent family taken off their hands. The Salvation Army, or any other well-approved organization should be deputed to carry out the work of selecting, distributing, and organizing the settlers on land colonies anywhere in the Empire, and the administration of the funds should be vested in a permanent officer, who should be responsible to the Government, and should periodically inspect all settlements. No title to land should be given to any colonist until he had discharged all liabilities upon the farm he occupied, paying interest at 5 per cent.

Mr. Haggard while in Canada had various interviews with the Governor-General and the members of the Dominion Government, and made a request for a free grant of 240,000 acres upon which 1,500 families could be located. The Government replied that it was willing to grant this land at any time, but would not pledge itself in the matter of a financial guarantee.

New Zealand Politics.

A general election is pending in New Zealand, in which the radical tendencies of the Seddon Administration will be challenged by the conservative influences which are being crystallized in an opposition party. Other countries are watching the bold experiments of New Zealand, and wondering how far the principle of state interference will be carried, and with what results. Is there an irresistible trend toward state socialism, or will a reaction set in before existing conditions are undermined? The Trades and Labor Councils of New Zealand have passed resolutions urging upon the Government the establishment of state ironworks, woolen and flour mills, and clothing and boot factories. They also asked for municipal coal depots, the early closing of shops, increase of wages to Government casual laborers, land nationalization, state legal bureaus, the bringing of state employes under the compulsory arbitration act, increase in the land and income tax, a progressive income and absentee tax, prohibition of the manufacture of white lead, compulsory preference to trade unionists, issue of state notes for the completion of railways, and the cessation of Government borrowing. This is a frankly socialistic programme, much more radical than the labor organizations of Great Britain, the United States, or Canada would be inclined to advocate. If the state is to grind flour, make clothing and boots, and sell coal where is the line to be drawn?

Are you going to the picnic Saturday? If not you'll be lonesome.

The Lese Majesty of Brer Smiff.

[Bobcaygeon Independent.]

Batty William seriously believes that he possesses a divine right to rule Germany according to his own sweet will, and has an insane hankering to be a sort of combined Caesar, Napoleon and Thomas Lipton, with a six-foot halo, and a mustache growing upside-down. His present attitude in regard to Morocco might possibly provoke a war that would entangle all Europe, though it is hoped that the character of the man being well known to the statesmen and diplomats some means will be found of soothing his exalted mind and bringing him to a normal condition. The marvel is that a people blessed with such a good share of common sense as are the Germans should permit their own lives and the welfare of the whole world to be mere toys in the hands of an irresponsible, semi-demented human being.

Why the Ape Shed Tears.

Two dudes visited the Zoo in Boston. With cigarettes in their mouths they stopped at the cage of a mother anthropoid ape with her young ones. Pointing to the family of anthropoids, one dude said to the other: "That is what you came from." And they laughed heartily. The mother ape called her children aside, and, pointing to the dudes, said: "My children, that is what you are coming to." And she wept bitterly.

The C. E. Convention.

Baltimore, Md., July 5. — Incoming trains today brought thousands of additional delegates and visitors to the 22nd international convention of the Christian Endeavor Society. Every state in the union, Canada and many foreign countries are represented here. Preceding the formal opening of the convention late in the afternoon there was held a business meeting of the United Society of Christian Endeavor Corporation, at which officers and trustee for the ensuing year were elected and annual reports of the officers were presented. All the officers were re-elected. President Clark was not present, owing to ill-health. Rev. Dr. Smith Baker, of Portland, Me., will preside at the sessions of the convention. George B. Graff, manager of the publishing department, reported the total receipts for the year as $66,515, and the expenditures, $64,767, leaving a cash balance of $1,748. Including the expenditures is $8,586 contributed by the publishing department to the United Society to carry on its work of organization and extension.

AN ENDEAVORER FUND

May Raise $2,000,000 to Erect a Memorial Building.

Baltimore, July 5.—Incoming trains today brought thousands of additional delegates and visitors to the twenty-second international convention of the Christian Endeavor Society. Every state in the Union, Canada and many foreign countries are represented here. Preceding the formal opening of the convention late in the afternoon, there was held a business meeting of the United Society of Christian En-deavor (corporation), at which all the old officers were re-elected. President Clark is not present owing to ill-health. Rev. Dr. Smith Baker, of Portland Me., will preside at the sessions of the convention.

Nearly 20,000 people gathered in Armory Hall tonight to attend the international festival of praise, rendered under the direction of Rev. Carey Bonner, of London. While almost entirely musical, it was in every sense a meeting for worship. The convention chorus of 2,400 voices, reinforced by 400 of the junior chorus, made a grand total of 2,800 voices.

A proposal originating outside the officers of the United Society has been made looking to the establishment of a memorial fund especially in honor of Dr. Francis E. Clarke, the founder of this world movement for the religious training of the young.

The suggestion is that the fund be known as the quarter-century memorial fund, and that it be made up of contributions to average 25 cents, one cent for each year of the life of the society, reckoning from next year, from each member of the organization. As the membership is in the neighborhood of 8,000,000, a fund of about $2,000,000 would be realized. It is suggested that the best plan for the investment of such a fund would be the erection of a building, part of which would be rented for the purpose of supplying income, and part used as international Christian Endeavor headquarters.

At the meeting of trustees today this plan was by vote heartily approved, and the executive committee was requested to appoint an international committee to take charge.

CIRCUS MEN ON TRIAL

Two of Negroes Given Short Terms for Carrying Firearms.

Quebec, July 6.—The trial of the four Lemon Bros.' circus employes arrested at Grand Mere nine days ago in connection with the abduction and alleged assault on a young girl, shooting of an Indian guide at Roberval, where the circus was performing, and subsequent shooting of a young girl of Chambord Junction is still in progress at Roberval. The two colored prisoners, Jordin and Austin, have been found guilty of carrying firearms contrary to law and sentenced to jail for short terms, and the pending investigation into the more serious charges of assaulting the girl preferred against the white prisoners is in progress.

KODAKING THE BIRDS

Why New York Boys and Men Have Taken Up the Pastime.

New York, July 6.—The east side of Central Park is infested by a large army of anxious, eager-eyed youths, each bearing a camera, a look of strained intelligence and a commonplace book on which is printed in glaring letter the words "Bird Notes."

The inquirer after truth learned that this youthful enthusiasm for ornithology has not been caused by the study of nature books, but by the thrilling experience of one boy, who goes to the same school as the others. The original boy, who is really interested in birds, found Central Park a good place to study their habits. With his notebook and camera he was to be seen there, early and late, and one day a man, who had watched him some time, asked him a few questions about the bird on which his camera was at that moment focused. The boy replied with information which showed him to be a careful observer.

"Do you know much about birds?" asked the man.

The boy replied that he had studied those in the park, as well as many others.

The man continued his questioning; said he liked to learn all he could about such matters; went around with the boy while he took photographs; asked his name, and finally said that he lived near the park and would like to have the boy come to his house. As they parted he gave the boy his card, but the youngster was too shy to look at it until the man had gone. The name it bore was "Andrew Carnegie."

National Council Officers.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., July 5. — The meeting of the National Council of Women closed yesterday afternoon. The election of officers resulted as follows:

A "Square Deal." - -

One of President Roosevelt's favorite mottos is "A SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERYBODY." We believe this principle should be lived up to in business as well as in politics, and we always endeavor to do our part. But if you want the squarest kind of a "square deal," here is your opportunity. We offer this week fourteen choice Square Pianos at real BARGAIN PRICES and on terms to suit purchaser—A "Square" proposition all around.

Here are the "Squares" and the Bargain Prices. Please note that each instrument has been put in best possible condition at our Piano Factory and is GUARANTEED exactly as represented.

3 STEINWAY & SONS' PIANOS—Standard of the world, cost when new $600 to $700. Sale prices $100, $150, $200

2 WEBER PIANOS—Unusually good square pianos. Sale prices only $89, $125

EMERSON PIANO—Square Grand, 7⅓ octaves, good clear tone, very desirable, for only $110

D. L. FRY & CO. PIANO—One of the old reliable makers, an astounding bargain $85

EVANS BROS. PIANO—Square Grand, very sweet, sympathetic tone, original excellence still retained, only $95

NITSCHKE PIANO—A beautiful instrument, cost $500, now only $100

CHICKERING PIANO—Full 7 octaves, splendid practice piano ...$60
Other Pianos at $29, $39, $49

This is undoubtedly the very best lot of square Pianos we have ever seen, and we are sincere in our belief that equal bargains were never before offered. If you have room for a square, by all means secure one of these beautiful-toned instruments. Uprights at double the money would not be better in tone, action, or service. In fact, these squares are so good that we have no hesitancy in making this proposition—within a year from date of purchase we will exchange for new Upright, and allow full price paid. Is not this a "Square Deal?"

The above bargains will be sold on easy terms anywhere in Ontario. Call or write for full particulars and "do it today," before some one else gets the Piano you wish.

Neglect the Liver and You Will Suffer

Scarcely an Organ in the Body But Feels the Effects of a Disordered Liver.

When the liver gets torpid and inactive, bile is left in the blood—causing jaundice.

Indigestion results, because the liver is an important organ of digestion.

Constipation arises, because bile from the liver is nature's own cathartic.

A torpid liver means a poisoned system—pain, suffering, chronic disease.

By their extraordinary influence on the liver Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills positively remove the cause of such disorders.

Biliousness, dyspepsia, constipation—headaches, backaches and bodily pains disappear when the digestive, filtering and excretory systems are set right by the use of this great medicine.

EDWARDS—BARR

Pretty Wedding in Which Former Londoner Was One of Principals.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of the bride's father, Dr. R. Barr, 1596 Queen street west, Toronto, when his second daughter, Florence, was united to Mr. Frederick Barry Edwards, formerly of London.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a white liberty silk dress with point lace, tulle veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Scott, of Montreal, wore white organdie, with a white hat, and carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Mr. Harry Johnson, of the Bank of British North America, Toronto Junction, was best man.

The spacious house was prettily decorated with palms and daisies.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards left by the 4 o'clock train for the west. The bride's going-away suit was of blue voile, with Persian trimming, and white hat.

The wedding presents were numerous and beautiful. About 60 relatives and guests were present, some from a distance.

GUESTS FOR REUNION

City Council's Committee Will Entertain Parliamentary Dignitaries.

The semi-centennial committee of the city council met last night and agreed that only M. P.s, ex-M. P.s, mayors of cities, towns and villages, and ex-mayors, will be invited to be the city's guests during the Old Boys' reunion.

A communication from Rev. Mr. Wallwin, of the London Ministerial Association, requesting the committee to see that during the reunion the Sabbath will be properly observed, was filed for reference, it having been favorably received by the committee.

Action on several matters was postponed.

GOAT WITH TAIL AFLAME

Leaps From Cliff in Terror, But Later Has His Revenge.

New York, July 6. — William Goat, Esq., was enjoying a quiet doze on the top of a high cliff near his home, at the corner of One Hundred and Forty-ninth street and Eagle avenue, yesterday afternoon, when a band of boys tied a pack of large and noisy crackers to what may be called the tail of his hairy coat.

Then one boy, bolder than the rest, struck a match and touched the fuse of the largest cracker, and then crept away a short distance to be out of reach of trouble.

Without the slightest warning to Mr Goat there came a succession of rapid explosions, and poor Bill awoke with a start but, being utterly in the dark as to what was happening, rolled over again and attempted to sleep. But with the crashing of the large and merciless torpedo he was at last brought to an appreciation of the fact that he was part of the celebration.

With a short bleat, showing only too plainly how he felt his humiliation, he rose, and giving one glance around him made a break for the nearest place that he thought would offer him protection. This was the side of the steep cliff, opposite to where the boys had ascended and directly over a large excavation made by the contractor of the unfinished railroad tunnel at this corner. Before he could stop himself Mr. Goat tumbled over into the large and dark hole, which was very boggy because of the hard rain of the day before, and he sank quite deep into this mushy slime.

Yet through all this the crackers still clung to his hairy coat tail, and every few seconds could be heard the short and snappy crack of an explosive as one of them was ignited by a remaining spark. The loud cries of Mr. Goat, as well as those of the members of the family with whom he boarded, attracted a large crowd. The braver of these secured a rope and attempted to pull Mr. Goat from his place of confinement. After several had tried and succeeded only in slipping in themselves, to be hastily pulled out bespattered with mud, Billie took matters in his own hands and climbed out. With a longing only for revenge he made a lunge for the nearest boy, the ringleader, and when the boy was brought back to his senses about a half hour later he was lying snugly wrapped in a blanket which his companions had borrowed from the neighbors and were about to utilize as an ambulance.

FIGHTING PARSON ON TOP

To the Music of the Church Bells He Beats the Village Bully.

Gloversville, N. Y., July 6. — The Rev. Charles T. Lewis, who during the last six months has won the name of the Fighting Parson of Ephratah, had a desperate fight yesterday as the church bells were ringing. As he was going to his church Albert Baird, a 200-pound young man, and one of three that attacked the dominie two months ago, insulted, and then struck the parson. Mr. Lewis, who is over 50 years old, pounced upon the heavy Baird. Fast flew the fists of the dominie. In a few moments Baird was flat on the village green and Mr. Lewis was on top of him. When bystanders separated them, Baird had two black eyes and a broken nose.

The Rev. Mr. Lewis has several lawsuits on against young men of Ephratah, who have attacked him and injured him severely when he had no chance to defend himself.

JAP SEALERS EXECUTED

Were Caught by Russians Raiding Kamchatkan Rookeries.

San Francisco, Cal., July 6. — The steamer Montara, arriving from the Siberian Coast, brings the story of the capture and the execution of 40 Japanese sealers, who attempted to raid the rookeries on the Kamchatkan Coast. The Russians, armed with rifles, were on the lookout, and when the Japanese vessel anchored off one of the favorite resorts of seals, and its crew put out in small boats, the Russians descended and captured 40. The Japs were rounded up on the mainland, and after a brief examination were shot. The few Japanese left in their schooner put off to some Japanese port. The Montara had an interesting experience at Petropavlovski, a remote Russian town on the Kamchatkan Peninsula. When the Montara appeared the residents were aroused with cries, "To the hills, to the hills."

Although the Russians knew that their country was at war they had been unmolested, and the appearance of the Montara inspired them with the fear that a Japanese man-o'-war was coming. When the people saw the

MANY MONKEYS USED AS SERVANTS

In Siam They Take in the Cash and Can Tell Bad Money From the Good.

London, July 5. — The cleverness and imitative faculty of the monkey has been utilized by mankind in many ways during late years, and today this hairy animal acts as clerk servant, laborer and tea packer in various parts of the world.

A female chimpanzee once went out to service at Loango, and made the beds, swept the house and assisted in the kitchen by peeling the potatoes, and turning the spit.

These feats are equaled, if not surpassed, by a young monkey, the property of a sailor on one of Britain's iron-clads. This animal can turn the capstan and furl the sails as well as anyone. He also assists the cook in preparing dinner and is adept at boiling eggs. Luckily, the culinary arrangements on board a ship are not quite as exacting as those in a London hotel, or the monkey assistant might find himself in somewhat of a quandary.

Chinese monkeys for years past have assisted the natives in tea packing. Their labor is cheap, for they are more than contented with payment in the shape of sundry luscious morsels.

During the rush to the gold fields of Yukon, an enterprising miner carried five Chinese monkeys to help him in gold washing. The monkeys had been used to severe cold and extremes of a vigorous climate, and the gold searcher found his animal workmen most useful.

Some years ago a number of British engineers employed monkeys to assist the workmen in carrying material to a railway extension in Cape Colony.

It appears that a score of monkeys came regularly every morning to the line to watch the laborers at work, and the engineers in charge, rightly believing that the imitative faculties of the creatures would render them useful in railway work, had them captured. They were immediately put in training, and soon proved themselves invaluable as carriers.

In Siam apes are now employed as cashiers. A year or two ago much base coin was circulated by a clique of coiners, and the tradesmen found that it was a very difficult matter to discriminate between good and bad money.

One large store kept a pet monkey, and one morning he was seen to take a coin from the cashier's desk and put it between his teeth. After biting it for some moments he threw it on the floor with a solemn grimace of dissatisfaction.

The proprietor of the store then handed the monkey another coin, and after testing it with great deliberation he laid it on the cashier's desk. Apparently the creature could tell a counterfeit coin from a good one, and in order to ascertain whether other monkeys had the same extraordinary gift, a couple of apes belonging to a zoo were given the test, with satisfactory results.

From that day the majority of the business houses in Siam have kept monkeys as cashiers, and the gifted creatures have developed the faculty of discrimination between good and bad coin to such perfection that no human being can compete with them.

A little while ago a monkey employed by a firm of clothiers died, and his coffin, which was of polished oak, and conveyed to the cemetery in an open hearse, was followed by all the cashier monkeys in Siam.

In Batignolles, a suburb of Paris, a monkey used to sell papers in the streets, while another was employed as a window cleaner and shoeblack in a hotel on Broadway, New York.

An exciting scene occurred on the main deck of an Ohio steamer during the transprotation of "Robinson's Exposition of Animals."

A huge elephant and a monster rhinoceros managed to escape from their quarters, and, meeting on deck, they started fighting fiercely.

Horses were knocked down and trampled to death under the feet of the infuriated monsters. Cages were smashed into fragments, and the terrible shrieks of the dying and wounded animals filled the air as the battle raged fiercely.

Presently, a huge ape came upon the scene, and, picking up a grappling bar, rushed toward the combatants and attempted to part them, but without avail. He had, however shown his bravery.

The elephant and rhinoceros were finally parted by being deluged with steam and hot water from the boiler pipes.

There have been many other instances of monkeys being employed to do the work of human beings, and if only one could trust them a little more than their mischievous nature warrants, they might prove an excellent solution to the modern domestic servant problem.

The only difficulty would be to know what to do with a Simian "general" if you desired to give her notice.

You would either have to poison her or put up with her vagaries.

WEST LAMBTON VACANCY

Two New Men Likely to Contest the Bye-Election.

Sarnia, July 5. — The Government will approach the bye-election in West Lambton with the advantage of a majority of 447 and the prestige of office in its favor. The majority is heavy. There are 8,694 electors on the list. Of these 6,421 cast their votes, or 73.8 per cent. Making allowance for 70 spoiled or rejected ballots, 3,399 voted for Dr. Johnston and 2,952 for his opponent. Thus last November 53.5 per cent of the effective vote was Liberal and 46.5 per cent was Conservative, a preponderance of 7 per cent. The personal element may be set aside. Dr. Johnston was unquestionably popular, but as a set-off must be mentioned the fact that his opponent was Mr. James Clancy, who was in a sense an adventurer in the riding, having been forced into it by the disappearance of his old seat of Bothwell. Both candidates at the bye-election may be new men.

When they found out that the British steamship Brinkburne, at San Francisco, was loading a contraband cargo for Vladivostock all her officers, the captain excepted, resigned. The Chinese crew also attempted to get ashore, but the customs officers had something to say as to that.

SLEEPLESSNESS.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that that subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

DEPUTY GRAND MASTER

A Masonic Contest On at the Hamilton Meeting.

Toronto, July 5. — A spirited contest among candidates for the deputy grandmastership is promised at the annual meeting of the Masonic Grand Lodge, which opens in Hamilton on the 19th inst. The present grand master, M. W. Bro. Benjamin Allen Toronto, finds it necessary, on account of the pressure of business, to decline the customary honor of a second year in office by acclamation, and will therefore, retire. His successor will probably be the present deputy grand master, R. F. Bro. James H. Burritt K.C., Pembroke.

Among others whose names have been mentioned for the office of deputy grand master are R. W. Bro. Aubrey White, Toronto, chairman of the standing committee on the condition of Masonry; R. W. Bro. Wm. Roaf K.C., Toronto, chairman of the special committee on credentials; R. W Bro. A. T. Freed, Hamilton, a member of the board of general purposes; R. W. Bro. Judge Macwatt, Sarnia chairman of the committee on warrants, and R. W. Bro. A. Shaw, Kingston. All these brethren are well and favorably known in Masonic circles.

R. W. Bro. E. J. B. Duncan, who has been the district deputy grand master of Masonic district, No. 11 (Toronto West), for the past year, will probably be succeeded by W. Bro. E M. Carleton, P. M., St. John's Lodge Toronto, or W. Bro. H. B. Howson P. M., Ashlar Lodge, R. W. Bro. J. J Thompson, D D. G. M. for District 11 A (Toronto East), will very likely be followed by R. W. Bro. F. W. Harcourt.

The approaching meeting of the Grand Lodge will be the celebration of the semi-centennial of its formation, which took place at Hamilton in 1855. A special medal will be struck in commemoration of the occasion though the permanent observation of the event will take the form of a semi-centennial benevolent fund of $100,000, for the relief of poor and indigent Masons and their families. It is understood that a large part of this fund has already been subscribed.

The Masonic constitution has been carefully recast since the last meeting, and in its amended form will come before the grand lodge for adoption. R. W. Bro. W. George Eakins, as chairman of the special committee on bylaws, has devoted great care and attention to producing a first-class set of bylaws. Other brethren associated with him in this work were M. W. Bro. J. Ross Robertson, Toronto; R. W. Bro. W. D McPherson, Toronto; R. W. Bro. J. H. Burritt, K.C., Pembroke; M. W. Bro R. T. Walker, K.C., Kingston; R W Bro. Henry Robertson, Collingwood R. W. Bro. Judge Macwatt, Sarnia and R. W. Bro. E. T. Malone, Toronto.

It is expected that the historian of the grand lodge, M. W. Bro. J. Ross Robertson, will deliver an historical oration at the meeting.

GORKY AND RUSSIA

Novelist Calls Far East War Blessing in Disguise.

St. Petersburg, July 5.—Maxim Gorky, the novelist, who is living at Kokola, a small village on the coast of Finland, has refused a flattering offer to go on a lecture tour in the United States, preferring to remain at the hour of aiding the work of emancipating Russia.

Gorky is one of the recognized leaders of the constituents, and is visited daily by persons from all parts of Russia. He has a large income, but gives the major portion of it to the cause which he has at heart.

Gorky is a great admirer of the United States and of President Roosevelt, but while he gives unstinted praise to the President's efforts to bring the war to an end, he says he thinks that, from a Russian standpoint, peace would be a misfortune.

"In spite of the cost of the war and the great loss of life, the struggle with Japan has proved to be an unmitigated blessing to Russia," said the novelist in an interview today.

"It has opened the eyes of the country to the impossibility of the present regime, and has already produced changes which were hardly dreamed of two years ago. If peace should come now, the Government would be able to turn its attention to the interior, and possibly to check the tide of reform."

Maxim Gorky's health has much improved. His attorneys are making extensive plans for his defense on the charge of precipitating the revolutionary riots, which they hope to convert into a political demonstration, and are subpoenaing ministers of state and other high personages.

MILK ADULTERATION

Milk of the Province May Be Investigated by Health Board.

Toronto, July 5.—Is the adulteration of milk by the dealers general throughout the Province?

This is the question that was placed before Dr. Hodgetts, secretary of the provincial board of health, today, and a question which, owing to the serious consequences possible, he will lose no time in endeavoring to answer.

The query was advanced by Dr. Pearson, medical health officer of Brantford, and City Solicitor Henderson, of the same city, who have had some recent experience in the milk adulteration business.

On analysis of Brantford milk, Dr. Pearson found much of it adulterated, and a number of dealers, on being charged with the offense, freely confessed. They said they secured a preparation at the hardware stores, which was supposed to preserve the milk, and this they had used.

Their prosecutions are pending.

Today Dr. Pearson and Mr. Henderson suggested to Dr. Hodgetts that from what they had learned in Brantford, the practice may be a general one, and ask the medical health officers everywhere to make an investigation, and at the same time he will ask the co-operation of the Dominion authorities who have charge of the enforcement of the pure foods act.

DEVOTEES AT HOLY SEPULCHRE

Discription of Scenes at the Devotional Spots in Jerusalem.

London, July 6.—Hoping, almost against hope, that at all events the tomb of Christ may not be desecrated by falsehood, I thread my way towards the sepulchre, through a throng of watchers and idlers, of pilgrims and devotees, writes Col. Henry Knollys in Blackwood's. On this particular occasion they may have numbered some 400 or 500 individuals, mostly Russians and Greeks, not an Englishman among them except myself. Their aspect was exceedingly filthy, rather ragged, and a little hang-dog, but their demeanor was of a decorum which claimed respect. The Russian pilgrims, especially, appeared in a trance of highly-wrough emotion, which, however, sadly differs from devotion.

As this paper does not aim at any of the features of a guide book, I pass over, without further description, the rotunda, the anterooms and the passages, all replete with fanciful stories and which environ the sepulchre, and speak at once of the vestibule, called the Chapel of the Angels. In the middle of a space equaling that of a small saloon railway carriage lies a stone—the very stone, it is boldly asserted, which the angel rolled away from the mouth of the tomb, and whereon the women saw him sitting. The area of the Angels' Chapel is so small that there is not standing room for more than eight or ten persons at a time. Herein a constant stream is passing from the outside throng, who in due course filter themselves still further by twos and threes into the inner tomb itself. These few minutes of waiting for our turn constitute a few minutes of deeply impressive watching. We seem to be not so much in a chapel as in a dug-out cavity—low, small and cramped. Through the darkness faintly flicker different colored lamps, attributes of hostile sects of Christianity, and causing to flash fitfully from the walls the tawdry spangles of decoration. The silence of the crowd is so unbroken as to produce a feeling of awe. Whether or not investigation compels us to the conviction that the localization of the events is a chimera unsupported by a thread of evidence; whether or not we believe like those untutored pilgrims, that the body of our Saviour lay here from a Friday until Saturday, good feeling and good taste should awaken in everyone sensations of the deepest reverence. All the pilgrims bow their heads, some sink down on their knees, and the only sound interrupting the otherwise deathly silence is the whispering of broken prayers.

Inside the Tomb.

My turn comes, and with a single pilgrim I crawl on hands and knees under the narrow, low arch into the tomb. It is 6½ feet long and 6 feet wide, and, owing to the large marble slab, only admits, without crowding, the entrance of two persons. The roof is higher than that of the Angels' Chapel, but in other respects the general aspect differs little; the gloomy colored lights hang in even thicker clusters, and every inch of the walls is bedizened, chiefly with jewels, which I am assured are of great value, but which have been dabbed down in tasteless ugliness. My companion is moaning, prone in the very dust; the Englishman stands sorrowful—but sorrowful for the disillusionment of a lifetime; sorrowful for the vanishing away of the ideal scene which is represented by Axel Endal's beautious "Easter Morning," in Norwegion Moldau.

Smothered by Legends.

There is little compensation for this disenchantment in other parts of the city. Jerusalem is, in fact, smothered with legends. In numerous places a flaw or hollow in a stone is attributed to our Saviour's footstep. Caiaphas' house, the spot where Peter denied Christ, and a dirty, cramped little courtyard where the cock crew, are all shown; but the erring voice of tradition as to sites has fluctuated incessantly between A. D. 400 and A. D. 1400. So with the present pool of Bethesda, about 66 feet below the plane of site, and hemmed in with masonry like a spring at Tunbridge Wells.

Most Oriental cities are redolent with filth. They are also attractive with eastern picturesqueness, color, quaintness and that which may be called "Arabian Nights" romance. Thus with Jaffa, Beyrout, Smyrna and Damascus—but not thus with Jerusalem. The town is surrounded by a wall about 35 feet high; the buildings are semi-ruinous, and look squalid and mean; some of the streets are vaulted over; others are narrow and crooked; all are somber, muddy in damp weather, and in fine weather choked with pungent dust, and stifling with the aroma of dead dogs. The shops are for the most part mere rubbish, and there is an undue preponderance of blackguard-looking wine shops. The population amounts to about 60,000, and never during my wanderings in Europe, Asia, Africa and America have I seen so large a collection of despicable, scoundrelly scum. Turks, Jews, Syrians, Arabs and mongrel Levantines have each contributed their quota to a community which Houndsditch or the Seven Dials would blush to own; thievish and hangdog, on the lookout to rob and stab whenever they can do so without peril to their dastardly selves.

Solomon's Temple.

The exact position of Solomon's original Temple, and of the two later edifices—of the latter "the veil was rent in twain"—is established beyond all doubt. The orientation indicated by the Bible, its situation relatively to the brook Kedron and the valley or Hinnom, an uninterrupted series of historical record, and, more conclusive than all, its remaining traces of architecture, both above ground and subterranean, leave no room for any reasonable divergences of opinion. The locality is now occupied by a mosque of great sanctity, and the surrounding quarter is the habitat of exceptionally fanatical Moslems. So that, notwithstanding the Kawass and the Turkish soldier detailed for my protection by the very friendly and much respected English consul, Mr. Dickson, I was the object of many a curse, howl and scowl, betokening a longing to bring a knife into juxtaposition with my infidel ribs. The mosque architecture is of extreme beauty in its Byzantine detail, and in this respect almost rivals St. Sophia at Constantinople. The dome of Kubbet-es-Sakhra covers a rock, measuring about 20 yards by 15 yards, and rising about 6 feet from the pavement. It was a central point in Solomon's Temple; it probably formed an altar for burnt sacrifices in Solomon's time, and possibly was the apex of Mount Moriah. My dragoman, who had been chattering legendary lies without faltering for several consecutive hours, here made his single concession to my skepticism. "This hollow in the rock," he remarked, "was caused by the restraining hand of the Angel Gabriel, when the stone was desirous of flying after Mohammed to heaven—at least, so they say: but for my part, I don't believe a word of it."

SAID HE'D BE A FISH

Rather Than Remain on Boat With Swarm of Skeeters.

New York, July 5.—Antoine Mantino Brito swam with all his clothes on, from the schooner Dudley, anchored off Robin's reef, to Staten Island, this afternoon, to escape a swarm of mosquitoes.

Brito was asleep in his bunk when he suddenly awoke with a blood-curdling yell and beat the air wildly as things flew about him. He washed down the rail and jumped overboard.

"Take 'em away," yelled Brito. "I'll be a fish."

A boat was lowered, but no trace of Brito was seen. Early this evening another yell was heard and Brito was seen swimming off the boat, anxious to be taken aboard. Another boat was lowered and he was taken on. He swam to Staten Island, where he had escaped the mosquitoes, and went back to his boat when he thought it was free from the pesky insects.

HE WEIGHS 20 POUNDS

Is 22 Years Old, 34 Inches High, and Eats Like a Big Man.

London, July 5.—Smaun Sin Hpoo, the smallest athlete in the world, made his first appearance before the London public at the Lyceum last night.

He is 22 years of age, His height is 34 inches, his chest measurement 22½ inches, his hip measurement also 22½ inches, and his fighting weight 20 pounds.

Sing Hpoo, like the ordinary dwarf, is exceedingly well developed and symmetrically built. He wore an immaculate frock coat, some 15 inches in length; a pair of daintily-cut trousers, a fancy vest, perfectly correct collar and tie and a shiny silk hat of 1905 shape, just large enough to fit over the fist of an ordinary man.

Sing Hpoo's accomplishments are not, however, confined to acrobatic tricks. He is a good linguist, for he speaks English well, German fluently and French slightly, not to mention his native Burmese.

Perhaps the most amazing thing about Sing Hpoo is the fact that his appetite is not at all in proportion to his size. He is accustomed to sit down with ordinary mortals and eat as much as anyone at the table.

For breakfast he likes three or four eggs, and as a pick-me-up he is accustomed to swallowing a couple of dozen oysters at a sitting. He eats a large quantity of meat, but is not fond of potatoes and other vegetables.

Among his treasured possessions is a gold bracelet, slightly larger than a wedding ring, which he wears round his little brown wrist. It was given to him by Miss Loie Fuller, whom he met during one of his tours.

The citizens of the southern part of Nye County, Nevada, are threatening to organize a vigilance committee, with a view of stamping out the liquor

FAMOUS ROBBER AT LARGE

Eddie Guerin, Life Convict, Eludes the French Authorities.

Detroit, July 5. — "Do I know Eddie Guerin? Why, I had the pleasure of arresting him in 1884, when he was much younger than he is now," commented Lieut. Lally yesterday afternoon.

The "Eddie" Guerin referred to is a crook known on both sides of the Atlantic, and who recently escaped from the French penal colony on Devil's Island where he was serving a life sentence for robbery. Guerin robbed the Bank of Lyons, France, of $50,000, in the year 1891. He was convicted and served ten years. After his release he came to America, but shortly after returned to France and robbed the American Express Company of $6,000. For this offense he was sent to Devil's Island for life, the extreme penalty being inflicted because of his previous record.

In 1904 Guerin became ill and was transferred to the mainland in French Guiana, and later, with twenty other prisoners, he made a break for liberty. All of the men except Guerin were recaptured, but he, after being robbed by Indians, and after suffering untold hardships, was found half-dead by two Americans on the outskirts of Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana. These two Americans took him to Georgetown, clothed and fed him, and left him $25 with which to cable to New York for assistance. He reached the latter city about May 1.

"I was told of Guerin's escape about three weeks ago," said Lieut. Lally, yesterday, "and of the circumstances surrounding it, but was in honor bound at the time not to say anything about it. He traveled with a gang of crooks and made his headquarters in Windsor for a time. On Aug. 25, 1884, he and a crowd of his friends got in a row coming to Detroit on the ferryboat, and when they reached this side they were still at it. I was on duty at the foot of Woodward avenue and singled out Guerin, who was about the worst of the lot. The next morning, under the name of Edward Reeves, he was fined $25 in the police court. He was then 23 years old."

Guerin and some of his friends at one time rented a house in Windsor, and deposited there several trunks full of valuable silk stolen from Toledo. A raid was planned, but the "gang" was put wise, and all the Toledo officers found were empty trunks. Guerin made for Europe at once.

LOCAL MARKET.

London, Thursday, July 6.

The market for this day of the week was very well attended. Considerable business was transacted in the smaller lines of produce, which comprised the majority of the offerings. Sales were moderately brisk and prices as a rule were firm.

Quite a number of the farmers have cut their clover hay. The weather has been unfavorable for harvesting it. A portion of the crop will not be much good, owing to heavy rains that have fallen since the cutting was commenced. Next week will see nearly all of the farmers engaged in cutting their timothy hay, which promises to be a large crop if it can only be placed in the barn in good shape.

Hay and Straw—There was just 9 loads of hay offered today. Sales were fairly brisk, considering the quality of the hay; $7 to $7 50 was the prevailing price. No straw was offered.

Butter and Eggs—Butter sold well at 15½c to 16½c for choice crocks; pound rolls sold at 16½c to 17c, wholesale.

Vegetables and Roots—A couple of large loads of old patatoes were snapped up by the dealers at 75c per bag. New potatoes sold at $1 50 and $1 60 per bushel, or 5c to 6c by the quart. Green peas were lower in price at 10c to 12c per quart. New cabbages, 50c to 60c per dozen. Cauliflower, 3 for 25c, or 75c per dozen; the quality was not very good. Other vegetables very plentiful as per quotations.

Fruits—Strawberries were in larger supply than was expected; sales were quite brisk, at 7c to 9c per box; gooseberries were plentiful, at 5c per quart; red raspberries went at 12c per box, and not many offered; black currants, 12c per box; cherries, 8c to 9c per box.

Poultry—Only a small amount offered; spring chickens sold at 50c to 75c per pair dressed, and 50c to 65c alive; old hens sold at 60c to 75c per pair alive, or 70c to 90c dressed.

Dressed Hogs—From 15 to 20 carcases were offered; sales were made at lower prices—$8 to $8 50 per cwt.

Butchers' Meats—There was about enough offered to supply the demand; prices were unchanged.

STOCK MARKETS.

New York and Chicago markets are closed today, this being a national holiday in the United States.

New York, July 6. — Noon. — Notwithstanding the somewhat higher level prices at the opening, the market reflected a continuation of yesterday's profit-taking movement. Several of the coalers, notably Reading and Erie exhibited marked strength, advancing sharply on what was called good buying. Reading advance, however, still falls under the suspicion of being largely the result of manipulation. The Steel stocks and U. P. showed satisfactory rallying power, but on all advances it was met with sales. At no time since the upward movement was inaugurated has the market displayed such decided evidence of being two-sided. The tendency, however, is toward dullness on all reactions. Sales to noon 435,700.

A GREAT CANCER FIGHTER

Prof. Czerny Can Cure Dread Disease in Its First Stages.

Paris, July 6. — The activity of Dr. Doyen of Paris, in cancerous disease, is equaled, if not excelled, by that of Prof. Vincenz Czerny, of Heidelberg, Germany. Accompany the announcement that he will erect a cancer hospital in Heidelberg, a much-needed institution, comes the news of his illness. Should he succumb the world will lose one of its greatest benefactors.

Like Dr. Doyen, Prof. Czerny does not claim that the cancer bacillus has been discovered, but neither has that of smallpox, yet the bovine virus inoculations form a preventive. So Prof. Czerny claims that little can be done with patients in the last stages of cancer, but that the disease can be killed in the bud with recently discovered virus from animals. For that purpose is his hospital plan, and sufferers all over the world were inspired with hope by this projected benefaction.

He and his tutor, Prof. Billroth, served as surgeons in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 with great distinction. The professor is in his 63rd year and the author of a voluminous medical library.

The fact that the epidemic of spotted fever in Germany still shows no signs of abatement is apparently making the authorities anxious.

Instructions have been given that in all places—barracks, hospitals, etc.—where large numbers of persons congregate, scrupulous cleanliness of persons, clothes and buildings is to be observed, and that disinfectants are to be used liberally.

The public are recommended to brush their wearing apparel daily, to keep their skin as clean as possible, and to admit an abundance of air and light into their living and sleeping-rooms.

Over 2,000 cases are reported, half of which have terminated fatally.

The wedding cake at the marriage of Prince Gustaf of Sweden with Princess Margaret of Connaught weighed 200 pounds.

The botom tier, representing England, was decorated with representations of the British lion, St. George and the arms of England and the Garter, and photographs of the bride and bridegroom.

The second tier symbolized Sweden, and one a viking ship and the monograms of the bride and bridegroom, together with the arms of Sweden. Pinewood and cones were worked into the decoration as symbols of the chief industry of the bridegroom's fatherland.

The third tier was supported on pillars over the viking ship, and represented Scotland, Ireland and Wales, and the fourth formed a base for a handsome vase filled with white roses and trails of smilax and orange blossoms, which hung from this to the base of the cake.

The Baltimore Flood.

Baltimore, July 6.—The flood last night, which was caused by the overflow of Jones Falls, a stream which runs through the central part of Baltimore, and which resulted from a cloudburst at Timonium in Baltimore County, has completely subsided, the water in the falls having fallen almost as quickly as it rose.

In the city no lives were lost, and the damage will be confined to the streets in the vicinity of the stream, where the loss is roughly estimated at

STABBED A BOY; WILL SERVE YEAR

Young Man to Go to Central—Jim Barrett Will Accompany Him.

A north end young man who was found guilty last week of stabbing a boy named Walsh with a knife, was sentenced at the police court this morning to one year in the Central Prison. The magistrate commented on the rarity of the offense of stabbing in this country, and declared it must be severely dealt with, as being far more serious than stealing. The prisoner, who claimed the stabbing was accidental, was married only a few days prior to his assault on Walsh.

James Barrett was very drunk when arrested, and he tried to work a strangle hold on the officer. He was subjected to rather severe treatment at the hands of the police in return, and finally landed in the cells. He pleaded guilty to being drunk and was found guilty of an assault on the officer. The police magistrate said that if he had inflicted any injury on the bluecoat he would have been sent to Kingston. Barrett will spend three months in the Central for the assault, and 21 days on the banks of the Thames for being drunk.

A visitor from the country found the city pace a trifle giddy for him, and lost his bearings. He was allowed to do.

Joseph Lacey paid $3 for the privilege of sleeping off his jag in the cells.

John Worthington was riotously rummed up, and when arrested used some real racy language. He pleaded guilty to being drunk, and was shown to be guilty on the other charge. Twenty dollars or 21 days was his portion, and he was told that the Central Prison would be his, if he persisted in this sort of thing. He will be a guest at the jail for three weeks.

A bunch of dog cases was disposed of.

1905 MAY NOT SEE NEW BREAKWATER

Some Weeks Will Yet Elapse Before All Land Can Be Secured.

City Solicitor Meredith has informed the city council that it will require at least four weeks for him to secure the deeds for the properties in West London, needed for the breakwater. Mr. Meredith adds that it may be that they will not all be secured then.

Thus it would appear as though the chances for a breakwater this year have entirely vanished. The best the people of West London can hope for now is that the breakwater will be repaired in the low places so as to do away with any dangers from floods next spring.

WORK WILL BE PUSHED

No Time To Be Lost on Talbot Street Pavement.

Tomorrow the city engineer will call for tenders for the vitrified brick pavement on Talbot street, between King and Fullarton. It is Mr. Graydon's intention to push this pavement with all possible speed.

TO REPAIR ASPHALT

Street Railway Company Gets Notice From City Engineer Graydon.

City Engineer Graydon today notified Manager Carr, of the London street railway, to make all necessary repairs to the asphalt on the company's sections on Dundas and Richmond streets.

Mr. Carr has also been asked to put in the switch on South street—or, more properly speaking, Ottway avenue—so as to improve the service on the little belt cars. The switch is to be located between Colborne and Maitland streets near to Colborne.

LEAGUERS AT BYRON

Many Expected to Attend Summer School Next Week.

A large crowd of Epworth Leaguers is expected to meet at Byron next week for the summer school of the London district, to be held from July 10 to 16.

Among those who will take part are Revs. A. Moorehouse, of Putnam; H. S. Dougall, M.A., Ph.D., of Walkerton; C. P. Wells, M.A., B.D., of Gorrie, and Oliver Darwin, of Winnipeg.

The district representative, Miss Ella Manning, returned missionary from China, will also be present.

Rev. W. G. McAlister, M.A., of the Centennial Methodist Church, and Rev. J. W. Graham, B.A., of the First Methodist Church, will also deliver addresses.

FRASER—DOWELL

Interesting Wedding This Afternoon in Memorial Church.

An exquisite church wedding was celebrated this afternoon at Memorial Church, when Mr. William Fraser, of the Fraser House, was united in marriage to Miss Lyla Dowell, daughter of Mr. Arthur Dowell, 563 Adelaide street. The church was beautifully decorated with marguerites and palms. Rev. Dyson Hague, M.A., restor of Memorial Church, performed the ceremony. The bride looked radiant in a magnificent white silk costume, as she moved up the aisle, leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away. She wore the conventional veil caught with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. She was attended by Miss Bessie Dowell and Miss Mary Fraser.

The groomsmen were Mr. Donald Fraser and Wentworth Dowell. Little Marjory Hunter made a very pretty flower girl. The ushers were Mr. Walter Taylor, Mr. Alfred Fraser Mr. J. R. McPetrie and Dr. C. H. Reason. After the ceremony the guests went to the bride's home, where a splendid wedding dejeuner was served. The young couple left on the 6:30 train for Toronto, Montreal and points

NOTHING IN IT, SAYS ENGINEER

Doctor Mothersill's Statement About River Water Is Flatly Denied.

Pumping Engineer Simmie, of the waterworks, gave a most emphatic denial today to the statement made by Dr. Mothersill, medical health officer of Port Stanley, that river water was pumped into the mains last year for drinking purposes.

"There is absolutely no truth whatever in what Dr. Mothersill said," Mr. Simmie replied, to a question put by The Advertiser. "Years ago an intake from the river was constructed to wash out the hydraulic well at the pumphouse, but this has not been used for many years now, as we have another method of cleaning out the well."

"Was any river water pumped into the mains last year?" was asked.

"No, none whatever. The valve on the intake from the river has not been turned for ten years at least. I don't understand how Dr. Mothersill could have been informed to the contrary."

Dr. Hutchinson indignantly denies that he was refused a harbor for his yacht, the Nancy, at Port Bruce, because of the ill-feeling against him entertained by the people of Port Stanley. He declares that the people have no cause for grievance against him or against the London Board of Health, and he says he will visit the Port as often as he pleases.

"I fear no one, and I have given no one cause to do me harm. Any who interfere with me will be sorry for it."

Yesterday, Dr. Mothersill, of Port Stanley, told The Advertiser that he had information in his possession which will yet cause the provincial board of health to close up Springbank Park as a public resort for the people of the city.

"I have it on the very best authority," Dr. Mothersill said, "that the provincial board now has this matter under consideration."

DRAWS THE LINE AT BEAUTY SHOWS

Chief Clark Not Fascinated With Idea of Firemen Being in Old Boys' Parade.

The suggestion of Secretary McCann, of the Old Boys, that the mayor issue a proclamation calling upon all citizens to decorate their places of business and their homes during Old Boys' week, met with favor at the hands of the semi-centennial committee of the city council last night, and the mayor will be asked to issue the proclamation.

The mayor and aldermen will also take part in the procession, which will be held on Monday night, Aug. 7.

It is expected, too, that No. 3 committee will order the fire department to take part in the demonstration, though it is barely possible that Fire Chief Clark may kill the proposal. The chief cannot see that a fire department is of any use from a decorative standpoint. He wants everything up-to-date, and discipline he will have at all costs, but he draws the line at beauty shows. However, he may be persuaded to give his assent to the men and equipment taking part in the procession.

A matter which is bothering the semi-centennial committee is the fact that that body only has about $500 with which to look after its guests. Consequently, if the committee is at all liberal with its invitations, it may be that so many people will put in an appearance that there will be no money to provide for them. It is said that after current and necessary expenses have been paid, it will be found that anly about $300 of the original $500 will be left to carry the committee through the week of the reunion.

LEAVES C. P. R. AND LONDON

Mr. James McNiff Accepts Position With Canada Northern.

It is announced that Mr. James McNiff, of this city, who for two years has been connected with the C. P. R. freight office here, has severed his connection with the Canadian Pacific, and will leave on Friday for Port Arthur, where he will enter the employ of the Canadian Northern Railway as clerk in the freight offices.

For some time past Mr. McNiff has been outwards freight clerk for the C. P. R. here, and he has proven that he has plenty of capacity and business ability. He is well known to the business public as a young man of exemplary habits, and his continued success in the west will be expected by all who know him.

MORE SUCCESSFUL ONES

Londoners Pass Exams at Ontario Normal College, Hamilton.

The names of several Londoners appear in the list of those who passed the exams recently held at the Ontario Normal College, Hamilton.

Jessie I. Anderson, F. M. Hicks and W. H. Tuke passed the first year normal, and J. Tanton was granted an interim certificate, valid to teach in a public school for two years. A full certificate will be granted in this case on passing the final exam of the college.

Misses M. M. Angus, A. H. Legate (honors), N. Winsor and Ethel Johnston were granted certificates as directors of kindergartens.

HAS WON PROMOTION

Mr. Fred Higginbotham Transferred to G. T. R. Office in Toronto.

Mr. Fred Higginbotham, who for some years has been connected with the offices of the Grand Trunk here, and who has been in the ticket office of the depot for some time, has been transferred to a higher position in the uptown office of the company in Toronto.

Mr. Higginbotham is very popular in London, and his many friends, while glad to hear of his success, will be sorry to hear that he is to leave London shortly. He will be succeeded at the depot here by Mr. Harold Gillean, of the uptown office.

The Austrian eucalyptus tree is being grown in Southern Italy and Southern France, where it is found of great value because of its tendency to drain

ENTRIES COMING THICK AND FAST

Several Prizes To Be Added for Relay Races at Liberal Picnic On Saturday.

So many entries have come in for the relay race, both bicycle and running, at the Liberal picnic, that the sports committee have decided to add several more prizes to the list already published on the programme. This is done in order that it may be worth the while of the huge field of entries to take part in the contests. It may be said that nearly all will receive prizes.

The horse races will be of especial interest. In the trotting and pacing event, two of the finest horses on this continent will take part. They are Dr. Rouledge's Little Joe and Dr. Wood's Clipper. Both owners are well known to Londoners and as the horses have met before, their racing qualities are also well known in this city. But it is not likely that the two thoroughbreds will have the field to themselves. Several entries of other fine animals have been received, and if either Little Joe or Clipper wins, there will be some fast work done.

The running race has brought out a large field, and a first-class day of racing may be looked for.

The committee announce that on Saturday next luncheon will be served at 4:30 p.m. in the horticultural hall, the people passing through, according as they have been served, and leaving the building at the south end.

Ten thousand souvenir programmes have been issued by the committee, but the demand is so great that it is thought that another 10,000 will have to be printed. On the front cover is a very fine cut of Hon. Mr. Hyman.

CONDENSED LOCAL NEWS

—A horse belonging to a teamster fell and broke its leg on Dundas street, near William, yesterday afternoon. The animal was shortly afterward destroyed. It is said that it had only been purchased yesterday morning by the teamster.

—"The Prince of Liars" will be presented by the Stoddard Stock Company at Springbank tonight. This comedy had a long and successful run in the better class houses last season, and in the hands of this organization should prove a pleasant summer evening's entertainment. The specialties, which were so favorably received the first half of the week, will be continued until Saturday evening.

I. B. S. MEETING.

The Irish Benevolent Society is called to meet in the Duffield Hall this evening to consider matters pertaining to the annual picnic in August. The advisability of bringing the Irish Guards Band to London may also be discussed.

STILL MORE DOG CASES.

The dog cases are still causing the chief some uneasiness. Several people have alleged muzzles on their dogs, which are merely straps that do not prevent a dog from using his teeth. The muzzles must be effective or else a case will be made out against the owners.

DEATH OF MRS. CORTESE.

The death occurred this morning at the residence of her son, 131 Fullarton street, of Mrs. Ounatinia Cortese, a lady of 88 years. She had been in London a long time, but was born in Italy. She is survived by two sons, Tony and Frank, of this city, and also by two daughters. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning to St. Peter's Cathedral, where high mass will be celebrated. Interment will take place in St. Peter's Cemetery.

FLIM-FLAMMED NECKLACE

Chicago Woman Accused of Stealing $10,000 Ornament.

London, July 6. — "Annie Grant," of Chicago, claiming to be an actress, was committed today at a police court to stand trial at the Old Bailey on the charge of stealing a pearl necklace worth $10,000 from Christie's auction room. The woman, whose real name is thought to be Annie Gleason, according to the prosecuting counsel, visited Christie's, inspected the necklace and secured a duplicate of imitation pearls, which on a second visit she substituted for the genuine while the attendant's back was turned.

The prisoner obtained a continental passport at the American embassy six months ago in the name of Annie M. Grant, of Chicago, but nothing further is known of her.

A LOVELORN TROUT

Is Dying in Aquarium After Fight for Fair One's Fin.

New York, July 5.—In one of the big glass tanks in the aquarium, that sets under a window which floods it with soft, mellow light, a beautiful brook trout, clad gorgeously in brown and red and gold, is dying slowly of a broken heart.

The uniformed attendants refuse to believe this, but there came yesterday to the tank a young man who knows everything there is to know about a trout, and he indicated so many signs to prove it is a broken heart that ails the trout, and not a bad peanut, thrown by a visitor, as an attendant claimed, that only the most sceptical could fail to be convinced.

The trout lurks in a distant corner with his magnificent head poked down among the gravel, and there he remains, and has so remained for three days. He gives no motion of life save an occasional wag of his tail, and every time this occurs another trout hardby races through the water in joy.

The dorsal fin of the dying trout is lacerated, but so slightly that you have to look very closely to see the wound. The story is that the trout in the corner is a male and he loves the frisking female trout. The two were excellent friends until a fortnight ago, when the fickle lady trout transferred her affections to a rival. There was a fight; the rival won and the rejected one straightway began to mope.

Now he refuses to eat or to take any exercise and all day the female watches him and gloats over his misery.

"In a few days we will receive the annual supply of fresh fish," said one of the aquarium attendants yesterday. "All of them will come from Bermuda, and among them will be rock fish, angel fish, squirrel fish, cow fish, trunk fish, grunts, parrot and trigger fish. There is always a great mortality among these tropical fish, and, strange to say, the parrot fish, that is among the largest, is the most delicate. Today there were 12,000 visitors to the aquarium. Many of them were badly behaved. They shook their hats and poked their hands at the fish, which is bad for the nervous ones. It always gives them a shock, and those with growing families are frequently scared to death."

Paul Jones' Body.

Paris, July 6. — The ceremony of the delivery of the body of Admiral Paul Jones to the representatives of the United States was held at 3:30 this afternoon in the American Church on the Avenue de L'Alma, in the presence of a distinguished gathering of the highest official, military and naval dignitaries of France, the diplomatic representatives of many countries, and the special ambassadors and naval authorities sent from the United States to receive the body.

BY MEREDITH NICHOLSON.

[Copyrighted by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.]

"If you knew how funny you look, Uncle Rodney, I'm sure you'd laugh. And you seem a little ultra-serious, too, Mr. Leighton. Please, uncle, don't scold me!"

"Yes. Yes, to be sure," said Merriam, absent-mindedly, and Leighton and Zelda exchanged a smile.

"I want to speak to you about your property. There are some things connected with your affairs that you must know."

"But father attends to everything—you'll certainly waste your talents on me. Do let us talk of something cheerful."

But her uncle went on now, and she listened attentively.

"You know that your property, what your mother had and wished to give to you, was left in trust. Your father is the trustee."

"Yes, I know that."

She bent forward in her chair, her hands clasped in her lap. She was wholly composed and heedful.

"Your father's powers have been absolute. He is not required to give an accounting to any one—except, of course, to you, when he turns over the property on your birthday—that is, tomorrow."

"Yes, I believe tomorrow is the 1st of October. I understand perfectly that mother wished me to know that she trusted father—as she expected me to trust him. That is all very simple."

There was a little sting in this, as though she knew what was coming and wished to warm her uncle to desist. He shot a sharp glance at the girl from his black eyes and went on, patiently and kindly.

"That is all very well. Everything was left to you father's discretion, but there were a few minor requirements. In case he should sell real estate, he was to get the approval of the court; and he was to buy other real estate with whatever he realized."

"That's probably important, but not amusing. I really dropped in to ask what you were going to give me for my birthday. I'm almost sorry I came."

"Your father has sold some of the real estate—"

"Of course. You escape a lot of trouble by not having real estate, so father says—taxes and all that. But once more, pardon me!"

The color was dying out of her face, and she twisted her fingers together nervously. Her heart was beating fiercely. It had come at last—this hour in which she must face an attack upon her father. She had known that it would come, and she knew that she should meet it. It angered her that the terms her uncle used were unfamiliar. Law and business were unknown worlds to her. She again followed her uncle's recital closely; he was speaking with a sharp precision that he had never used before in talking to her.

"Your father has sold a great deal of your property," he repeated; "and it appears that through neglect,"—he hesitated—"or forgetfulness, the court's approval was not secured in at least one case. Of course, this can be corrected."

He waited, to study his ground a little, and he glanced at Leighton, as though to make sure that the young man had not deserted him.

"Father is a little forgetful sometimes," said Zelda. "He isn't a young man, you must remember." The sympathy with which she spoke made Merriam uncomfortable; and Leighton moved uneasily. It was not a pleasant task—that of telling a young woman that her father was a rascal.

"But while the order of court can be procured and injury to the purchaser prevented, there is another side of the matter that we must consider."

"Yes, uncle,"—and she smiled a little forlornly. She knew that she should meet the blow bravely when it fell; but it hurt her now to feel her uncle's kindness.

"It hurts me—Zelda, it hurts me more than I can tell you, to have to say that all is not quite clear about this transaction. Your father has sold at an extraordinary price. I fear that he is in difficulties. In this real estate matter you have your remedy. It is of this that I wish to speak particularly. It is only right that I should protect you if I can."

"You are very kind; you are always good to me, Uncle Rodney."

"The failure to get the court's approval of the sale of the real estate makes it possible for us to save it—this one piece, maybe, though nearly all the rest is gone—to get it back, perhaps. The situation is not agreeable. Your father received the money and I am afraid he has made—at least we are led to suspect—that he has made—ill use of it. But we may find it possible to set this sale aside, or get an additional sum from the purchaser—"

Merriam was looking intently at the floor as he spoke these sentences. He was aware suddenly that Zelda had risen and crossed the room until she stood before him, with flaming cheeks and flashing eyes. He unconsciously rose and drew away from her. It seemed to Leighton that the air in the room grew tense. The girl stood between the two men, her lips parted, one hand on the back of a chair.

"Uncle Rodney, I never thought that you would—insult me—in your own house—under the pretense of kindness! I should like to know what you gentlemen mean, and what you think I am—that I should listen to such things from you! To think that I should be willing to take advantage of the law to defraud some one, on the theory that my father was defrauding me—stealing from me, I suppose you mean!"

"Zee, one moment—"

"No, sir! I shall hear no more from you. I never want to see you again—either of you!" She had spoken brokenly, and the last three words came slowly, with a kind of hiss. "But before I go, I wish to say something to you, to ease your feelings of pity for me. It was by my request—and by my order—that father sold that property; and he gave me the money—do you undertand?—gave me the money for it—and I have spent it—all of it!"

She was gone so quickly that the front door slammed on her last word, as though to add to the contempt that it carried.

Merriam ran into the hall, calling her name, but when he opened the door the iron gate was swinging violently, and she was walking rapidly away. Leighton seized his coat and hat in the hall and sped after her.

"Bring her back!" the old man roared after him.

"Miss Dameron, I'm sorry; I am sure—"

"Will you kindly stop following me?" she said, wheeling upon Morris, and then she turned and continued her flight; but Morris followed. Zelda continued straight ahead and did not look back or speak to him again, though she knew that he was behind her.

She continued up High street to a cross-town thoroughfare that led to the old Merriam house. There was something wholly uncompromising in her walk; and her spirit, Morris declared to himself, was equally unyielding. Her assumption of responsibility for her father's acts had amazed him, and in the cool air of the autumn evening he debated with himself as to how much, if anything, she really knew of Ezra Dameron's affairs. It was a fine thing for her to have swept aside her uncle's charges, and her words repeated themselves over and over again in his mind with thrilling effect. If it was merely a blind defense, to give her time for thought or insuiry, she had managed it with amazing dash.

When she reached the old house, Zelda ran up the steps, and pulled the bell. She did not turn her head, but Leighton stood, feeling the least bit foolish, until the door opened and Zelda disappeared within.

WINGHAM FORGING AHEAD

Passes Bylaws That Will Assist Greatly in Town's Affairs.

Wingham, July 5.—Two important bylaws were voted on by the ratepayers of this town today, and both were carried by substantial majorities.

One is to raise $12,000 for the issue of debentures for the purpose of improving and extending the present waterworks system, and to make it more adequate for fire protection purposes. The vote on this was 289 for and 59 against.

The other bylaw is for the purpose of fixing the assessment of the Canada Furniture Manufacturers' property at $20,000 for a period of ten years, in consideration of which the company will erect a large addition to their union factory, and increase the number of hands at present employed.

The vote on this bylaw was 293 for and 50 against.

The company intends to proceed with the erection of the addition to their plant as soon as material can be obtained.

The waterworks extension will also be commenced in the near future.

BASEBALL.

LOST TO SARNIA.

The McClary City League team went to Sarnia yesterday and played the fastest game seen at the Tunnel Town this season. The fielding and batting of the teams were about equal. Sarn'a jumped onto Early in the first inning for three runs, but thereafter the London twirler had the home nine at his mercy. The score:

GREAT DAY FOR FANNING AIR; 24 STRIKE-OUTS IN ONE GAME

The Pitchers in Commercial League Match Do Some Good Work.

A large crowd of "rooters" watched the ball games in the Commercial League at Springbank Park yesterday afternoon. The results place all teams even in the league race, with two games won and two games lost.

The first game was between the Grocers and Diamond Hall. The Grocers have had the drag-net out, and landed a lot of new players. They played a good game, fielding fast, and hitting opportunely. Diamond Hall fielded badly, and Webb, their pitcher, was hit hard at times. The game was won in the third, when the Grocers hit Webb hard, and the Jewelers piled up a very nice collection of errors. Jeffries had the Jewelers pretty well served up. Gatecliffe caught well.

The Scandrett nine won the second game from the Druggists. Clark pitched part of the game for the Druggists, but he was wilder than the proverbial March hare. He was replaced by West, who did well. Scandretts hit better, fielded better, and F. Clark pitched better than the other fellows, and they deserved to win. The batting was very weird at times, no less than 24 men fanning the air. The catchers had the "busy day" sign out, for between them they had more than half the total number of put-outs in the game. The third basemen both had a bad day. The score:

CLASS "A" EVENT AGAIN WENT TO DR. FRED WOOD'S CLIPPER

First Two Heats, However, Were Divided Between Little Joe and Johnnie K.

That racing for pleasure, as conducted by the Amateur Road Drivers' Association is becoming very popular in London, was more than evidenced by the large attendance, especially of ladies, at the regular events of the club, yesterday afternoon, a crowd of over 500 being present.

Three of the races were very closely contested, class A taking four heats to decide, and C and D classes three each. Class B was somewhat one-sided owing to Belle Gray's unsteadiness.

Johnnie K. repeated the trick of a week ago, and, driven by Mr. Will Robinson, won the first heat in fast time.

Little Joe was on edge for the second. Then Clipper took a hand in and captured the next two—the third in a rattling drive with Little Joe up the stretch.

For C class, to the surprise of Dr. Wood, no doubt, Lady Black suddenly got good, and won the second and third heats, pacing clean all the way, although Jack Madden was right there all the time to take advantage, if the mare made any of her customary mistakes.

Joe Blossom should have been given the heats in D class, except the second, as he made but one break in the three heats, Blackbird being quite unsteady, but very handy. Dr. Jack has lots of speed, but does not seem to be at himself yet.

The summaries:

Class A—

Clipper, Dr. Fred Wood	3	2	1	1
Little Joe, Dr. Routledge	2	1	2	2
Johnnie K., G. G. McCormick.	1	3	3	3

Time—1:08½, 1:07½, 1:08, 1:07¼.

Class B—

All Oak, Dr. Routledge	1	1
Belle Grey, G. G. McCormick	2	2

Time—1:12, 1:12.

Class C—

Lady Black, Dr. Fred Wood	2	1	1
Jack Madden, Jas. McCartney	1	2	2
May B., G. G. McCormick	3	3	3

Time—1:15, 1:14, 1:14.

Class D—

Blackbird, Wm. Gray	2	1	1
Joe Blossom, B. S. Wilcox	1	2
Dr. Jack, Drs. Tennent and Barnes	3	3	2

Time—1:17, 1:16, 1:15.

The judges were Messrs. Trebilcock, Brooks and Hamilyn; starter, Mr. R. J. Wood.

Although Mr. George McCormick has left for a two weeks' holiday, his horses will be driven by Mr. Will Robinson in the matinees.

PARKER WON GOLD BUTTON, DAY TOOK THE TROPHY

The monthly shoot of the Springwood Gun Club was held on the club grounds yesterday, when two events were shot off.

In the match for the president's buttons, Parke was the winner of the gold, Day receiving the silver and Simcox the bronze.

Day was the winner of the La Fama trophy. The scores:

For the president's button: Day 21, Parker 21, J. Brown 20, Simcox 20, F. Brown 19, Anderson 18, Glover 18, Mahler 17, Fortner 16, Avey 16, Nicholson 13, Gurd 11.

For the La Fama trophy: Day 23, Glover 19, Parker 18, Anderson 20, Nicholson 19, J. Brown 15, Mahler 23, Fortner 18, Simcox 21, Gurd 25, Avey 19.

LEANDERS CAPTURE GRAND CHALLENGE

English Crew Defeats Belgians Without Difficulty in Finals at Henley.

Henley, July 6.—The Leanders, who yesterday defeated the Vespers, of Philadelphia, won the final heat today in the contest for the grand challenge cup, by defeating the Belgian crew 2½ lengths in the splendid time of 6 minutes 56 seconds.

This is five seconds better than yesterday, and is only five seconds outside the record.

LACROSSE.

A CHAMPIONSHIP GAME.

St. Marys, July 5.—A championship league game was played here today between the Beavers, of Seaforth, and the Alerts, of St. Marys, resulting in a victory for the home team by a score of 11 goals to 2.

LORNES LOSE AT STRATHROY.

Strathroy, July 5.—The Strathroy Garnet lacrosse team defeated the Lornes, of London, here this evening, by a score of 10 to 1.

THE RING.

SCHRECK SCORED KNOCKOUT.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 5.—Mike Schreck, of Cincinnati, knocked out Dave Barry, of San Francisco, in the twentieth round last night. Only twenty seconds remained to be fought when Schreck landed a hard smash which sent the coast boy down and out. It was one of the fiercest fights that have been seen in this city, and both men were badly punished. Schreck's awkwardly clever style of milling did not seem much of the puzzle to the San Francisco man in the early rounds, but after ten rounds had been fought, Schreck gradually wore his man down, and finally landed the blow that sent Barry down and out.

ORT WELLS WON THE BRIGHTON MILE

New York, July 5.—John Drake's Ort Wells won the Brighton mile, the feature of the opening of the Brighton Beach summer meeting today. The time, 1:38 1-5, is one-fifth of a second slower than the track record, made last year by Hermis. Beldame, the 4 to 5 favorite, was second, and Delhi, second choice, was third. To a good start, Beldame took the lead, rounding the first turn, with Ort Wells second and Delhi third. Beldame continued to show the way down the stretch and around the far turn. Coming in the stretch, Sparling sent Ort Wells up to Beldame, and the two ran head and head for a furlong, when the Drake colt began to draw away, winning in a drive by one length. Beldame was five lengths before Delhi. Woodford Clay's entry, Running Water, and Single Shot, ran first and second in the Distaff stakes. They were favorites at even money.

GLAD HICKMAN IS GONE; DETROIT WANTS LACHANCE

Detroit, July 5.—"Hickman would not have been with the Detroit team any longer than it took us to secure a man for his place, and the return of Barrett to the game would have marked his departure to a minor league," said Manager Armour, speaking of Hickman jumping the Tigers on Saturday.

"Hickman was primarily a baby, always complaining. Then he always had an excuse. He was not a winning ball player and did not have ability to become one. He is a slugger, and when he doesn't hit the ball to the fence his usefulness is gone. He has been treated with generosity by the Detroit club. If he says I had it in for him he tells what is not true. I did change him about in an endeavor to find a place he could fill. I also moved him in the batting order, thinking it would improve the chances of the team.

"Just as an illustration. If the play comes that it is the duty of the batter to put a man on first down to second, and Hickman goes up and makes a fizzle of bunting, his ever-ready excuse when he comes back to the bench is: 'I could have hit that one, Bill, if you had let me.' Detroit is well rid of him; that's all I have to say."

The club officials are very busy right now trying to land a man or two. Telegrams have been sent to Montreal in an endeavor to secure George Lachance, the greatest of first basemen. With him on the bag the Detroit infield would be 50 per cent stronger, as Coughlin, O'Leary and Schaefer would try for everything and shoot it at the baseman, knowing that he would catch the ball and make the play if it were a human possibility. The plan is to trade Hickman for him, and Hickman would certainly star in the Eastern League.

"Boston let Lachance go, and has never been in the first division since," said Secretary Navin. "That Grimshaw is a joke on first, and it has affected the fielding of the three men who formerly made such wonderful plays. Lachance would do for me, for Lachance, hitting .200, is a better man for any ball club than Hickman hitting .300.

BASEBALL.

BROWNIES NOT IN IT.

The Brownies and the Tigers met yesterday morning, the Tigers winning by 18 to 8. The batteries — Tigers, Wright, Holland and Chatto; Brownies, Love and Pocock.

GIANTS HEAVIEST HITTERS.

A comparison of the records of the two New York Clubs reveals the fact that the Nationals are the better hitting team, with four in the .300 class, while the Highlanders have only one—Keeler. The Giants also lead in extra base hits, with a total of 88 to 54 for Griffith's men. There is little to choose between the two teams in the matter of base running, although the Highlanders look a trifle the better when they have played the same number of games. Ames, of the Giants, has the strike-out record of 104 in 15 games, an average of 7 per game. Griffith gets the booby prize as a hitter, not having made a hit in 9 games.

GIBSON'S FIRST GAME.

The Pittsburg Dispatch contains the following about George Gibson's opening game as catcher for the Pirates:

Principal interest in the work of the Pirates was centered in the performance of the new catcher, Gibson. Considering the fact that he has a badly shattered hand he performed well. He seems to be strong in blocking off runners at the plate, two of the Reds making ineffectual efforts to slide by him to safe territory. His throwing the latter part of the game was good, but in the early innings his range finder seemed to be off. President Dreyfuss expressed himself as satisfied with the new man's work. "He's a little green," said Dreyfuss, "it being his second year as a professional, but he'll learn all right."

FOOTBALL TEAMS TO VISIT CANADA

Toronto, July 5.—C. H. Murray is in Toronto on business connected with the visit of the English and Scotch Association football teams to Canada next fall. The plan is to bring out two elevens to stir some interest in the association in the game and create international rivalry. The teams will sail in August.

The Scotch eleven will play a picked team from Eastern Canada on Sept. 9, and on the same day the English team will meet a team picked from the Ontario Association in Toronto. The winners of these two matches will play off either in Toronto or in Montreal for a gold cup, valued at 130 guineas, which has been presented by Sir Ernest Cecil Cochrane for the competition. The baronet will come out himself.

It is expected that while in Ontario the English team will meet the Royal Canadians, Galt, and other western towns. Mr. Murray while here will arrange about the return visit of an all-Canada team which would play throughout Great Britain.

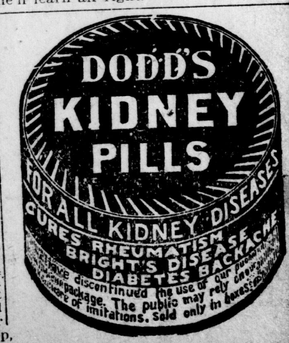

A REAL WARM TIME HAD THIS UMPIRE

Louisville, July 5. — Umpire W. J. Sullivan was brutally attacked by a howling mob at Eclipse Park, and but for the prompt interference of the police he would have been severely dealt with. As it was he received a number of blows from beer and pop bottles thrown by those who were attacking him, while others hit him in the face with quids of tobacco and still others spat upon him.

The mob followed the umpire from the ball park at Seventh and Kentucky streets up to the door of his hotel on Jefferson street, a distance of more than a mile, and in spite of the fact that half a dozen policemen surrounded him, members of the mob did their best to get to him throughout the trip, which was made in a trolley car. Sullivan was not seriously injured, and only two of the attacking party were arrested.

The trouble occurred in the ninth inning of yesterday's game, when, with the score 4 to 2 in favor of Columbus, Sullivan singled past third, and Clay, the next man up, hit a two-bagger down the left field foul line. The ball was fair by at least three feet, but the umpire called it foul. Clay and the other Louisville batsmen were quick'y retired, and then the mob went after the umpire.

A storm of beer bottles fell about him, but he made his way to the entrance, surrounded by the police. He was finally hustled into a car, which proceeded to the city. The mob boarded the car, but the police prevented serious harm being done.

FIREMEN WERE BUSY

Answer Three Calls in Twelve Hours —Barn Destroyed.

July appears to be the firemen's busy month. Shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday the brigades were called to a grass fire which had broken out near Lawrason's soap factory, corner of Nelson and Adelaide streets.

At 5:20 they again responded to an alarm telephoned in by the Michigan Central. While coming from St. Thomas car No. 27109 caught fire from a hot-box. An effort was made by the crew to extinguish the flames with buckets of water, when the car reached here, but the effort proved futile. The firemen, however, speedily overcame the blaze with the aid of a hand chemical.

At 3:44 this morning the brigades were again called to a rather serious fire which had broken out in an unoccupied barn belonging to the estate of the late B. G. Clampitt, corner of Colborne and Bathurst streets.

By the time the firemen reached the scene the chief saw that the barn could not be saved, but the flames were prevented from spreading to the adjoining houses. The loss will be not less than $300.

The blaze was of incendiary origin.

FATALLY BURNED

Former Londoner Dies From Injuries Received at Ithaca, N. Y.

News has been received in this city of the death of Mr. Arthur Davis, a former Londoner, in Ithaca, N. Y. The deceased at one time lived with his mother on King street, he being employed in Perrin's. Four years ago he left London for Ithaca, intending to take up studies in Cornell University, where his uncle was a professor on the staff. Latterly he had been working in a glass factory as an assistant to a glass-blower. Monday he and one of the other assistants attempted to perform the work of the professional blower, with the result that a quantity of molten glass fell on Davis' head. He died in the hospital yesterday. The deceased's mother now lives in Cheboygan, Mich.,

IN COLONEL'S TOWN
Things Happen.

From the home of the famous "Keyhnel Keeyartah, of Cartersville," away down south, comes an enthusiastic letter about Postum.

"I was in very delicate health, suffering from indigestion and a nervous trouble so severe that I could hardly sleep. The doctor ordered me to discontinue the use of the old kind of coffee, which was like poison to me, producing such extreme disturbance that I could not control myself. But such was my love for it that I could not get my own consent to give it up for some time, and continued to suffer, till my father one day brought home a package of Postum Food Coffee.

"I had the new food drink carefully prepared according to directions, and gave it a fair trial. It proved to have a rich flavor and made a healthy, wholesome and delightful drink. To my taste the addition of cream greatly improves it.

"My health began to improve as soon as the drug effect of the old coffee was removed and the Postum Coffee had time to make its influence felt. My nervous troubles were speedily relieved and the sleep which the old coffee drove from my pillow always came to soothe and strengthen me after I had drunk Postum—in a very short time I began to sleep better than I had for years before. I have now used Postum Coffee for several years and like it better and find it more beneficial than when I first began. It is an unspeakable joy to be relieved of the old distress and sickness." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each package.

EVERYTHING IN GOOD SHAPE

pure as it is possible to obtain anywhere. It is all right now, and it will continue to be found all right. As a professional man, and an officer of the village, I am quite ready to make this statement, and I am also ready to prove that everything that it is possible to do to purify the water supply, and to maintain its purity, has been done by the village of Port Stanley. Consequently, I have no hesitation in saying that there is not the slightest danger to anyone in the water supply here."

Dr. Mothersill then went on to say that as the ice which is now being used in London was cut on the north branch of the Thames—a source which has been declared to be impure—he has refused to allow the ice to be placed in the drinking water tanks at the Port, for fear it would contaminate the supply.

"I have stopped the Pere Marquette using the London ice," he said, "and I do not propose to allow it to be used this summer here."

A Thrust at London.

Then Dr. Mothersill launched into a new line of argument which is of the utmost importance to Londoners.

"Through the action of the chairman of the London Board of Health," he said, "it has devolved upon Port Stanley to prove its innocence regarding polluted water. We believe the people of London have been misled, and I think before long we will be able to prove that they have been misled regarding the outbreak of typhoid fever last summer.

"Certain information furnished me led me to make investigations regarding the use of river water in London. I found that there is an intake pipe from the reservoir or one of the collecting ponds, to the river, so that in case of emergency river water could be fallen back on to fill the reservoir. What would the people of London think if it were proven to them that they drank river water last summer when the water in the reservoir was low? We believe they did drink river water, and I have had eight photographs of the reservoir and its surroundings, including the collecting ponds and the intake pipe made, and these will be sent to the Provincial Board of Health at once.

Writ Against Dr. English.

"I have also instructed our solicitor, Mr. W. K. Cameron, of St. Thomas, to issue a writ against Dr. English, chairman of the London Board of Health, claiming unstated damages on the part of the corporation of the village of Port Stanley through a statement made by Dr. English, in which he said nothing had been done by the people of the village to improve the water supply since last summer.

"We asked Dr. English to retract this statement, but he refused," Dr. Mothersill continued, "and now we propose to make him take it back."

The doctor also pointed out that half a dozen wells in the village had been closed up, and that all the others had been thoroughly cleansed and refitted with new curbs and the like.

That the people of Port Stanley are greatly worked up over the aspersions which have been cast upon the water there, is evident everywhere. Yesterday Mr. H. M. Douglass, proprietor of the Fraser House, informed The Advertiser that he has instructed Messrs. McEvoy & Perrin, his solicitors in this city, to bring suit against the London Free Press for $10,000 damages. He claims that he had his place sold, but that certain articles which appeared in the Free Press, and which he declares were libelous, "queered" the sale, and the purchasers backed out, leaving their deposit in his hands.

It is said also that a vigilance committee is "laying" for Dr. English. At the Port the people declare that he will be "ducked" in Kettle Creek the minute he appears at Port, as he is blamed for the troubles of the people.

M. H. O. In Bad Odor.

Dr. Hutchinson is also in bad odor at the lakeside. It is said that the other day he took his yacht, the Nancy, up to Port Bruce, fearing that the people at Port might do the boat harm, but the Port Bruce residents refused to allow the yacht to be docked there, and the doctor found it necessary to take her all the way to Port Burwell.

Yesterday Messrs. William Skinner and Charles Taylor, of the local board of health, visited the lakeside, and they had a talk with Dr. Mothersill and other prominent men of the village. No ill-will appears to be borne these gentlemen, however, any more than that they are members of the London Board of Health.

The Government is spending nearly $100,000 at Port Stanley now, and the wharf and harbor are being very much improved. A big pile-driver is at work from 6 in the morning until 8 at night, driving piles 50 feet long for the new wharf. A little further down a huge steam dredge is at work dredging the harbor. While working the other day, the dredge came across an old schooner which had been sunk in Kettle Creek a hundred yards south of the bridge, about 25 years ago. The dredge is now tearing it up in pieces.

It is understood that the village intends to take action to prevent the city of St. Thomas dumping its sewage into Kettle Creek. Notices have been served on all the townships through which the creek runs to join hands with the village in stopping the pollution of the stream.

A boat for Cleveland leaves the Port three times a week, and it is said to be doing a good business. The boat for Montreal also calls twice a week.

The Pere Marquette is doing all in its power to restore confidence in the popular resort. A constable has been appointed, whose duty it will be to remain on the hill and maintain order.

District Passenger Agent Britton has also earned the good-will of all classes for the splendid train service he has been the means of inaugurating, and also for the manner in which he has pushed things in general for the good of the village, of the picnickers and of course, for the good of the Pere Marquette.

It is understood that Dr. Hodgetts, of the Provincial Health Department, has promised the Port Stanley board of health that a full report on the Port Stanley and London water supplies will be made public shortly.

THE RAID SCANDAL

Friends of Prisoners Trying to Save Them From Future Shame.

Philadelphia, July 6.—Pressure of the strongest kind is being brought to bear on the magistrates who committed the women caught in the great raid of Saturday night, and upon District Attorney John C. Bell, to whom the indictments will go.

There were women caught in the raid, and some of them are still in Moyamensing prison, who belong to the foremost families of Philadelphia. Their escorts were men of wealth and position. It is these men, who, through their affiliation, social and political, are bringing weight to bear upon the district attorney to cause the quashing of the indictments.

It is a new ruling in the conduct of raids that has caused the condition. Heretofore only the proprietors of the brothels have been held, the inmates escaping with slight fines. The houses of assignation were never touched. Before the raid of Saturday night each magistrate was instructed to hold every woman caught in bail for court.

Moyamensing prison, where a number of women still are through inability of escorts to secure bail secretly, is besieged by the same influences. A prizefighter today went bail for a woman he said was his sister. The woman has every mark of breeding. The prizefighter was simply a go-between.

Makes your new shoes comfortable by using

FOOT ELM.

A process has been invented by an Englishman for giving artificial age to wood. He replaces the sap of trees by beet sugar or saccharine. Newly felled wood is laid on a wagonette, which is rolled into a huge cylinder provided with pipes. The cylinder is supplied with sugar or saccharine. Hot water is then forced through the pipes. The heat boils the sugar, which penetrates the pores of the wood. The cooling is accompanied by cold water forced through the pipes. The cylinder is emptied and the wagonette, with its burden of wood is rolled into a special room, where it is dried by currents of hot air. After being cooled again the wood, properly seasoned by the sugar, is ready for use. It is said not to spring or gather dampness, and to be proof against destruction by insects.

CHOLERA and all summer complaints are so quick in their action that the cold hand of death is upon the victims before they are aware that danger is near. If attacked do not delay in getting the proper medicine. Try a dose of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, and you will get immediate relief. It acts with wonderful rapidity, and never fails to effect a cure.

The oldest lawsuit in North Carolina is now being finally settled. It is that of the eastern band of Cherokee Indians against W. H. Thomas and others, involving a great many thousand acres of land, and other interests. Thomas was for some years before the civil war the chief of the eastern band, and raised a legion of troops from among his Cherokees which was in the Confederate service, being one of the North Carolina regiments. The case began in 1867, and since that date over 90 attorneys have been employed.

NOTHING LOOKS more ugly than to see a person whose hands are covered over with warts. Why have these disfigurements on your person when a sure remover of all warts, corns, etc., can be found in Holloway's Corn Cure?

A select expedition of ten English sportsmen is to sail for the Arctic regions in July to shoot Polar bears, walruses and any other big game that may come within range. Each member of the party is to pay $1,275 to cover the expenses of the trip.
