EXPERT OPINION POINTS TO A LONG WINTER CONFLICT ON THE PRESENT BATTLE FIELDS

German System is Still Unbroken, Has Accomplished Wonders.

Huge Strength of Allies Has Not Driven Them Out

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Reviewing the war situation in Europe the military expert of the New York Times to-day says:

The energy with which the Germans are pressing their attacks the Yser River in the western most corner of Belgium, shows that that it is not a demonstration to obtain some military object. The operations in this district confirm to some extent the rumor reported from Danish sources that the Kaiser has issued orders for the capture of Dunkirk and Calais at and east.

The country in which this fighting is taking place, is especially disadvantageous for the assailant. The low-lying ground is converted into bogs by the rains, and the creeks have soft, muddy bottoms, making them dangerous to ford. The flat stretches enable the defenders to make use of their rifles and artillery fire at full effective range, while the assailants have difficulty in finding natural features to conceal their movements. The accounts indicate that the night attacks without delay to gain superiority in artillery are. The costs in killed and wounded of the German army are enormous.

The positions must have been tenacious, but the effort of the Germans to break through the Belgian defensive line seems to have been stopped for the time being, due to the arrival of French reinforcements.

Both sides claim the advantage in the fighting east of Ypres and between Lille and Arras. No definite progress, however, is given in the despatches of either side. In this fighting the forces of the allies seem to have become intermingled to a large extent. British and Belgians retreated along the coast. French and Belgians are fighting at Douchy, French and Hindars are fighting east of Ypres. The British have been mentioned at Armentieres, the French at Lille, the French at Lens, and the British again at Arras.

From this point south to the Aisne the line is held by the French alone. For forty miles, opposite Soissons and Craonne, the first British army holds the line. The original German troops have been augmented and to a large extent replaced by the stream of reinforcements that has been forwarded to this part of the line. From Craonne to Switzerland the French again hold back the German armies.

The plea of the British commander in the Belgian field of pretence calls attention to the serious difficulty that any allied force must have in co-ordinating its operations. Not only are the languages different, causing misunderstanding among subordinates, but the whole system of control of operations differs among the three nations. Both field guns and rifles are of different calibres, complicating the ammunition supply. Each detached unit can use only its own cartridges. If its supply gives out in the fighting, as frequently occurs, it cannot have recourse to borrowing from its neighbors. For these reasons an allied force can never be handled as promptly as an army of common language and military methods. A very appreciable advantage in numbers and artillery can thus be easily offset by the natural failures in co-operation.

Our news comes so largely from Paris and London, where it is largely colored by the efforts to encourage the local population, that we are likely to overlook the remarkable accomplishments of the German military system. In 1912 Germany spent, in round numbers, $170,000,000 per annum; France the same year spent $180,000,000; Great Britain, $150,000,000 and Russia $225,000,000. With an annual expenditure less than one-third that of her three opponents, Germany has been able to make a showing nearly as good as all of them put together. The addition of the Austrian strength has enabled the Germans to gain the advantage in the east as well as in the west and everywhere to force the fighting into the opponents' territories.

MINES DROPPED BY TRAWLERS WHICH FLY NEUTRAL FLAG

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—5.15 a.m.—The Times, in an editorial suggesting that the mines off the coast of Northern Ireland have been dropped by North Sea trawlers flying a neutral flag, says:

"The Germans have so flagrantly violated the precepts of international law that the only safe precaution seems to be to close the North Sea to all neutral maritime traffic in order to prevent any further dangerous abuse of neutral flags.

"We do not at present advocate this extreme measure, but it is for the authorities and, above all, for the Admiralty to say whether such a development is practicable and desirable."

South Africa Crime Subject of Comment In the British Press

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—All the English newspapers regard the South African rebellion as serious, though it is the general opinion that while Generals Botha and Smuts and Mr. Steyn, formerly president, side with Great Britain it will be speedily crushed.

The Daily Express says: "If there are any Boers who believe that if Germany has its way it will leave them a vestige of independence, they must be consummate fools."

The Daily Telegraph says: "The worst feature in such treachery as that of Beyers and De Wet is that it appeals to all of the most ignorant and prejudiced members of the community and flatters the deep-lying hopes and aspirations of disoriented retrograde minds."

The Morning Post says: "The German agents cunningly appealed to the old separatist sentiment and promised the rebels an independent South Africa. It is notorious that German policy always has been directed to secure a German Africa."

The Times says: "The rebels may start with some successes, but they cannot have many resources or much staying power. If they are relying on German aid they will be rudely disillusioned."

The Daily Chronicle says: "The German colonial governor may promise Maritz or any other Boer leader a Boer republic, but the statesmen of Belgium could tell them in their mother tongue what the promise would be worth."

The Daily News says: "Seldom have men with fine qualities provoked so needless and so futile a tragedy as that for which De Wet and Beyers have made themselves responsible."

WAR SUMMARY

From the west and from the east, German reverses are reported. Germany acknowledges a check in Russian Poland, but concerning the great battle in Flanders, she preserves her silence. The only official word received by mid-day to-day was from the French, who again made indefinite claims to further progress. Not since the struggle along the North Sea began a fortnight ago has Germany made a statement upon which may be based judgment as to the course of events. The best information available indicates that notwithstanding their dauntless attacks and heavy sacrifices of life, the Germans are further from the coast than when the battle began. The one great factor upon which their hopes are building is that of an eventual triumph, apparently is beginning to teeter; it is the almost inexhaustible supply of men that may be drawn from the vast reaches of the Austro-Hungarian empire, which are relied upon in time to crush the Germans by overwhelming numerical superiority. In the east this influence seemingly is already being felt, and to it is ascribed German reverses in Russian Poland. The great Russian victory, writes a British correspondent at Petrograd, lies in the vastness of the Russian Empire army, which he estimates at 3,000,000 men. This enabled the Russians to keep an immense reserve army, changing regiments frequently and never leaving the same men on the firing line long enough to become stale.

Meanwhile the British, who describe their forces now on the continent as merely an advance guard, are training at home an army of 1,500,000 men, of whom 60,000 are from her colonies. To-day's French statement, while again optimistic in tone, gave little specific information. On the extreme western end of the battle line, where the fighting has been fiercest, there is "nothing new." London ascribes the lull of the last few days to the fact that the opposing armies have been utterly exhausted by incessant fighting by day and night, and perhaps relaxed their efforts. There is no indication, however, that Germany intends to abandon the fight for possession of the North Sea coast. Unofficial reports have it that reinforcements are being poured in from every part along the battle line where they can be spared. In the opinion of military critics, the outcome of this battle, the severest open fighting of the war, may determine whether it is possible for exposed columns of infantry to stand up against modern instruments of war such as the machine gun. To the south and east along the battle line across France successes are reported by the French to the south of Arras, between the Aisne and the Argonne and in the forest of Apremont. None of the German attacks, it is said, has been successful. The German cruiser Emden is reported to have performed a most daring feat. Disguised with

GERMAN ACTIVITY IS EVERYWHERE NOTED ON COAST

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—7.40 a.m.—Telegraphing from Copenhagen, the correspondent of the Times says:

"It is learned in Berlin that from all parts of the east and west battle fronts soldiers are being rushed to Belgium in response to the order of Emperor William to take Calais at all costs. It is semi-officially announced that the Germans will be able to control the southern part of the North Sea as soon as they possess Calais.

"All the entrances to Cuxhaven, by land and by sea, have been closed by imperial command. No civilians are allowed in the vicinity of the harbor, which is crowded with floating batteries, Zeppelins and submarines."

LONDON WAR CRITICS OFFER THREE REASONS FOR LULL IN BATTLE

An Armistice to Bury Dead, Arrival of Re-inforcements and Ammunition and Destructive Fire of British Warships Are all Adduced.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—10 a.m.—

The fourteenth day of the Battle of West Flanders, found the allies holding their ground to the west of the Yser and the Germans apparently bringing up more reinforcements to repeat their furious attempts to break through and retake the coast of France.

All despatches seem to agree that there was a temporary lull yesterday in the fighting between Nieupoort and Ypres, but the reports are far from unanimous as to whether this was due to an armistice to bury the dead and remove the wounded, which must thickly cover the field, or whether it was caused by the exhaustion of the contending forces or the lack of German ammunition.

The London press hazards all three guesses, and concludes at any rate that the position of the allies is satisfactory. The public is warned however, that the struggle in this quarter is not yet over, for the Germans, if they find their northern route to Dunkirk and Calais impassable, may shift to the south with Boulogne as an objective.

It was at Boulogne that Napoleon waited in vain for his troops to embark for England and the taking of this city by the Germans would stir the German people as nothing else could.

Berlin claims that there has been no recent progress in the struggle in Flanders, and, as if explaining this, says sixteen British warships are operating on the coast. This number never has been definitely reported. Unofficial reports that a battleship equipped with twelve-inch guns has gone to the assistance of the British monitors which have been shelling the Germans on shore, other reports speak of heavy firing in the North Sea, as if a big naval engagement had taken place, but the admiralty here is silent. Taken as a whole the English interpretation of the news this morning was cheerful. From South Africa came a statement that General Botha had inflicted sharp defeat upon Gen. Beyers, the latest recruit to the revolutionary movement in the Union of South Africa, while in the East African arena of the war in Europe the Russians would appear to have driven in the German right wing, as a fortnight ago they shattered the left before Ypres. A confirmation of this is the German official admission that their troops, together with the Austrians had retreated in Poland.

Beginning to-day the British court goes into mourning for three weeks for Prince Maurice of Battenberg. He held a commission in the King's Royal Rifle Corps and died of wounds received in battle. Royal condolences already have been sent to his sister, the Queen of Spain, who but a few days ago gave birth to a son. The London papers to-day devote considerable space to the death of Prince Maurice, saying that although a mere boy, he was a valiant sportsman.

There are recurring reports that the Germans are constructing sheds on the Belgian coast for the housing of Zeppelin airships. A local newspaper is offering free insurance against Zeppelins to its subscribers; there is no official confirmation of the report in the German invasion of Portuguese West Africa; Holland is still on edge as regards a possible violation of her neutrality, and the first boatload of food for Belgium under American supervision left London to-day.

SEE YOUR STORY IS TOLD BUT IT HELPS LITTLE TO SOLVE THE MYSTERY

Let You has at last begun to talk freely to the police. He has told the Chief as much as he knows and his statements have as yet thrown little light upon the mystery. In answer to police questions he stated that Lee Duck went down to Hamilton on Saturday and returned on the last radial car at about 11.30. He got up in the store and no angry words passed between them. All was well. Shortly afterwards they undressed and went to bed together. He had been asleep for some time when he was suddenly awakened by a heavy blow across the face. He put up his hand and more blows descended upon his head. Then he did not know what occurred after that for some time as he lost consciousness. Some time later he came back to life and looked around to see that he was lying in a pool of blood. In great pain he rose to a sitting posture and saw that Lee Duck was lying upon the other bed in a great mass of bloodstained blankets and upon a mattress all stained with blood. He spoke to Lee Duck, but he was dazed and could only give a grunt and a vague slight shake of the head, indicating that he did not know what had happened. Lee Duck then noticed that one of his hands was stiff and clotted with blood, so he struggled to his feet and hobbled to the sink where he washed his hands. Coming from the sink he sat down upon a chair in the front shop and he was there when Lee Woon knocked at the door and entered. He had the right to sit down when Lee Woon came in after he got over his surprise. Woon secured a doctor and the police arrived, and the rest is known. Let You impressed the Chief Clerk with his sincerity. He readily answered any question that was put to him and appeared to have realised that the police were out to help him as much as possible. Recognized the Key When shown the key that was found outside by a youth, he instantly recognized it and said it opened the shop. He declared it was one of four which did so, to his knowledge. He did not know who had the key, but was surprised to learn that it was found outside. He kept his keys upon him and the bunch found by the Chief in the shop were his. As far as he could remember, the keys were in the door, but he was not sure upon this point.

ROLL OF HONOR IS ANNOUNCED TO-DAY FOR THE CONTINGENT

Shackleton's Last Message

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Sir Ernest Shackleton cables to the Daily Chronicle this farewell message from Buenos Ayres:

"I send you my last cable as we start for the Antarctic. We are leaving now to carry on our white warfare. Our farewell message is, 'We will do our best to make good.'

"Though we shall be shut off from the outer world for many months, our thoughts and prayers will be with our brothers fighting at the front. We hope, in our small way, to add victories in science and discovery to that certain victory our nation will achieve in the cause of honor and liberty."

OFFICIAL FRENCH NOTICE

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The French official announcement given out in Paris this afternoon, says that yesterday the French troops made progress at several points on the line, but particularly around Ypres and to the south of Arras.

The text of the communication follows: "During the day of yesterday we made progress at several points along the line of battle, but particularly around Ypres and to the south of Arras.

"There is nothing new on the front between Nieupoort and Dixmude. "Between the Aisne and the Argonne we took possession of some trenches occupied by the enemy, and not one of the partial attacks undertaken by the Germans resulted successfully. "We advanced also in the forest of Apremont."

THE EMBDEN FIGHTS AND THEN IT RUNS AWAY

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

TOKIO, Oct. 29.—The British embassy hears that the German cruiser Emden, flying the Japanese flag, and disguised by the addition of a fourth smokestack, entered Penang, a British possession in the Straits Settlements, and fired torpedoes which sunk the Russian cruiser Jemtchug and a French destroyer.

The Russian cruiser Jemtchug was a boat of about 3,100 tons and was laid down in 1902. Her main battery consisted of six 4.7 inch guns, and she had a speed of 24 knots. She carried a crew of 334 men. After the battle of the Sea of Japan, during the Russo-Japanese war in 1905, the Jemtchug was interned at Manila. The German cruiser Emden, after her exploits in the Indian Ocean, around India, where she sank a score or more of British steamers, has apparently shifted her scene of operations more to the eastward to the vicinity of the Straits Settlements. On Tuesday she was reported as having sunk a Japanese passenger steamer bound for Singapore.

The Emden's entrance into the waters of Penang was audacious. She came in under the guns of the fort, and after sinking the cruiser and the destroyer, escaped through the straits of Malacca. The fate of the crew on board the Jemtchug is not yet known here. Merchant vessels belonging to belligerent nations are taking refuge at Colombo, Ceylon.

TO EXCHANGE FORCES

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A Petrograd despatch to the Times states that the British and Russian governments have agreed to a mutually advantageous exchange of combatant and technical forces, the details of which will be announced later.

Patrick Welch of Chicago, was found guilty of having stolen money in his possession and of forgery.

List of Brantford Officers and Men Who Leave For the Front.

Number of Canadians Enrolled is One Noteworthy Feature.

The lists are now completed and the men of the second active service company 38th D.R.C. sworn in. It is a remarkable quota—men of every industrial occupation in which Brantford has been foremost and while the loss of such skilled artisans is a regret nothing can lessen the fact that in the honor roll below the city has reason to be proud of her sons and citizens.

Each city in Ontario has in the past done nobly none have exceeded the splendid turnout made on the parade of the first company under Capt. M. A. Colquhoun or the one now training under Capt. E. H. Newman. Both units are splendid and the material they are made up of, diversified as it is, Ontarians, Englishmen, Irishmen and Scotsmen, is a welding of blood and bone which in a fighting line is indomitable.

The men, who this time are first to respond are, if anything, a little less accustomed to military life, yet are showing a keenness and a commendable thoroughness in their work. The following is a list of how well the 38th has answered the call is the fact that 6 of the 8 regimental color sergeants have volunteered. Their names are: Col. Serpts. Grouch, Filley, Prior, Mack, Speechley, Davis.

The officers commanding have every reason to be gratified with the rally and the regiment has acted in a spirit of the tradition. "The 38th is always ready."

Joseph Battersby, 32, married, 300 Colborne street; tailor; 6 years King's Royal Rifles; three months Dufferin Rifles. Leonard Harrington, 7, married, 34 Colborne street; laborer, Ham and Notts; 1 year Duffs. William Williams, 20, single, 81 Brock street; laborer; no former service.

Vernon Scott O'Neill, 27, single, 48 Colborne street, brother of Percy O'Neill, formerly of Woodstock, a foreman of Harvey Knitting Co. Robert Farquhar, 19, single, Vanessa, a farmer, 1 year R. V. C. Scottish Territorials.

James Oles, 33, married, 145 Northumberland street, an insurance agent, formerly of Galt. Arthur Bailey, 36, married, 11 Rose avenue, blacksmith, 10 years in Suffolk regiment. George Smith, 21, single, St. George, Ont., blacksmith; 3 years with 25th Brant Dragoons. Albert Ellsworth Warrington, 23, single, St. George, laborer, 25th Brant Dragoons.

LIEUT. DICKSON

Receives Presents From Fellow Teachers and From Pupils.

As a token of their appreciation of their master, the children of King Edward school yesterday morning presented him, Lieut. Frank Dickson, with a splendid sweater coat. He was well liked by the scholars, and more than one eye was filled with tears as he took his leave of former pupils.

Master Bisset, son of a Duffin soldier, read an address from the children, complimenting their principal upon the excellent spirit he had shown, and while wishing him the best of success, they also hoped for his speedy and safe return to his duties as their head.

Quite touching was the feeling response of the Lieutenant. Later in the day, the teachers of the city met at the Central school where Inspector E. C. Kilmer presented the late principal with a wrist watch as a token of appreciation from the teachers institute.

INDIAN COMPANY

Was Organized for the Front at Ohsweken Council House Last Night.

At a meeting of the Six Nations Indians, held in the council house at Ohsweken, last night, it was decided to organize an entirely Indian company for the overseas contingent.

WILL CAPTURE RESERVISTS.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The Morning Post announces that the government after having consulted its allies and neutral powers, has decided to disregard the declaration of London of 1909, this means the cancellation of permission for reservists of belligerent nations to travel unmolested in neutral ships.

POINCARÉ AT FRONT.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—A Bordeaux despatch to the Havas Agency says that President Poincaré has left for Paris where he will join Minister of War Millerand for a visit to the front. It is also expected that he will go to Havre to pay his respects to the Belgian government.

Prince Maurice of Battenberg, a cousin of King George, was killed in action.

A Concert at St. James By the Guild

The Girls' Chancel Guild of St. James' church Terrace Hill, gave an excellent tea and concert in the parish hall last evening, which was attended by a large assemblage which thoroughly enjoyed the hospitality of the night.

The chair was taken by Lieut. Col Muir, K.C., and the programme of music was splendid and was heartily appreciated by all. An address by Mr. Feiden, B.A., was cordially applauded, and no less so were the addresses of the Rev. Pater-Smyth and Mr. Simmons. The choir was on hand with a number of superb choruses. The songsters of the evening were in fine voice, and they met with due approval.

The gathering dispersed, but with one opinion of the evening program. They were pleased and did not forget to show their appreciation of the evening's artists.

T. F. Best Gave Fine Address

Excellent indeed was the rally of Dormitory men of the Y. M. C. A. when T. F. Best gave them, an interesting address upon the cultivation of the right spirit among themselves.

In the years to come, he said, they would look back upon the happy time spent together and this fellow and that fellow would be recalled for his particular characteristics, but the fellow who would make the deepest and most lasting impression would be the one who had lent a helping hand in the uplifting of a soul. There was no greater bond. It was one never forgotten by giver and receiver. Financial help was in cases a good thing but it often resulted in the loss of a friend and a five spot. This was never so in the case of spiritual aid.

George L. Goodwin spoke briefly upon the work commenced and Harry Fleming also had a few words to say re the arranging of future meetings. The evening closed with a fine vocal solo by Harry Hancock.

It was denied that the Prince of Wales would be honorary sponsor for a refugees' benefit ball in New York.

J. B. BAKER M.P.

British Member of Parliament Was in the City Yesterday.

Mr. J. B. Baker, M.P., for Tisbury, in the Imperial Parliament, was in town yesterday, on his way to Winnipeg, visiting his cousin, Mr. J. E. Baker, Nelson street. Mr. Baker, who is a very prominent British manufacturer, states that trade conditions are improving in Great Britain. His own firm are booking a number of large orders. Mr. Baker, who is a leading member of the Peace party in England, admits that the present war will have to be fought to a finish. When in Washington recently, he had the pleasure of an interview with President Wilson. He thinks that when the time is ripe, the President will offer his services to the warring nations in an intermediary way.

WOMEN PATROLLING

To Keep Soldiers No More Than Courteous to Women.

Chicago's Gain

Three Millions in Gold Are Being Spent There For War Supplies.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—To date, it is said that foreign orders for clothing, trunks, harness, tinned meats and like in the Chicago and neighboring markets amount to between seven and eight million dollars. Purchasing agents of the British and French governments are in the field and the former has $3,000,000 gold in a local bank to be used against purchases. The meat packers are said to have enough European orders on hand to keep them running full time for a year.

Berlin's Wireless

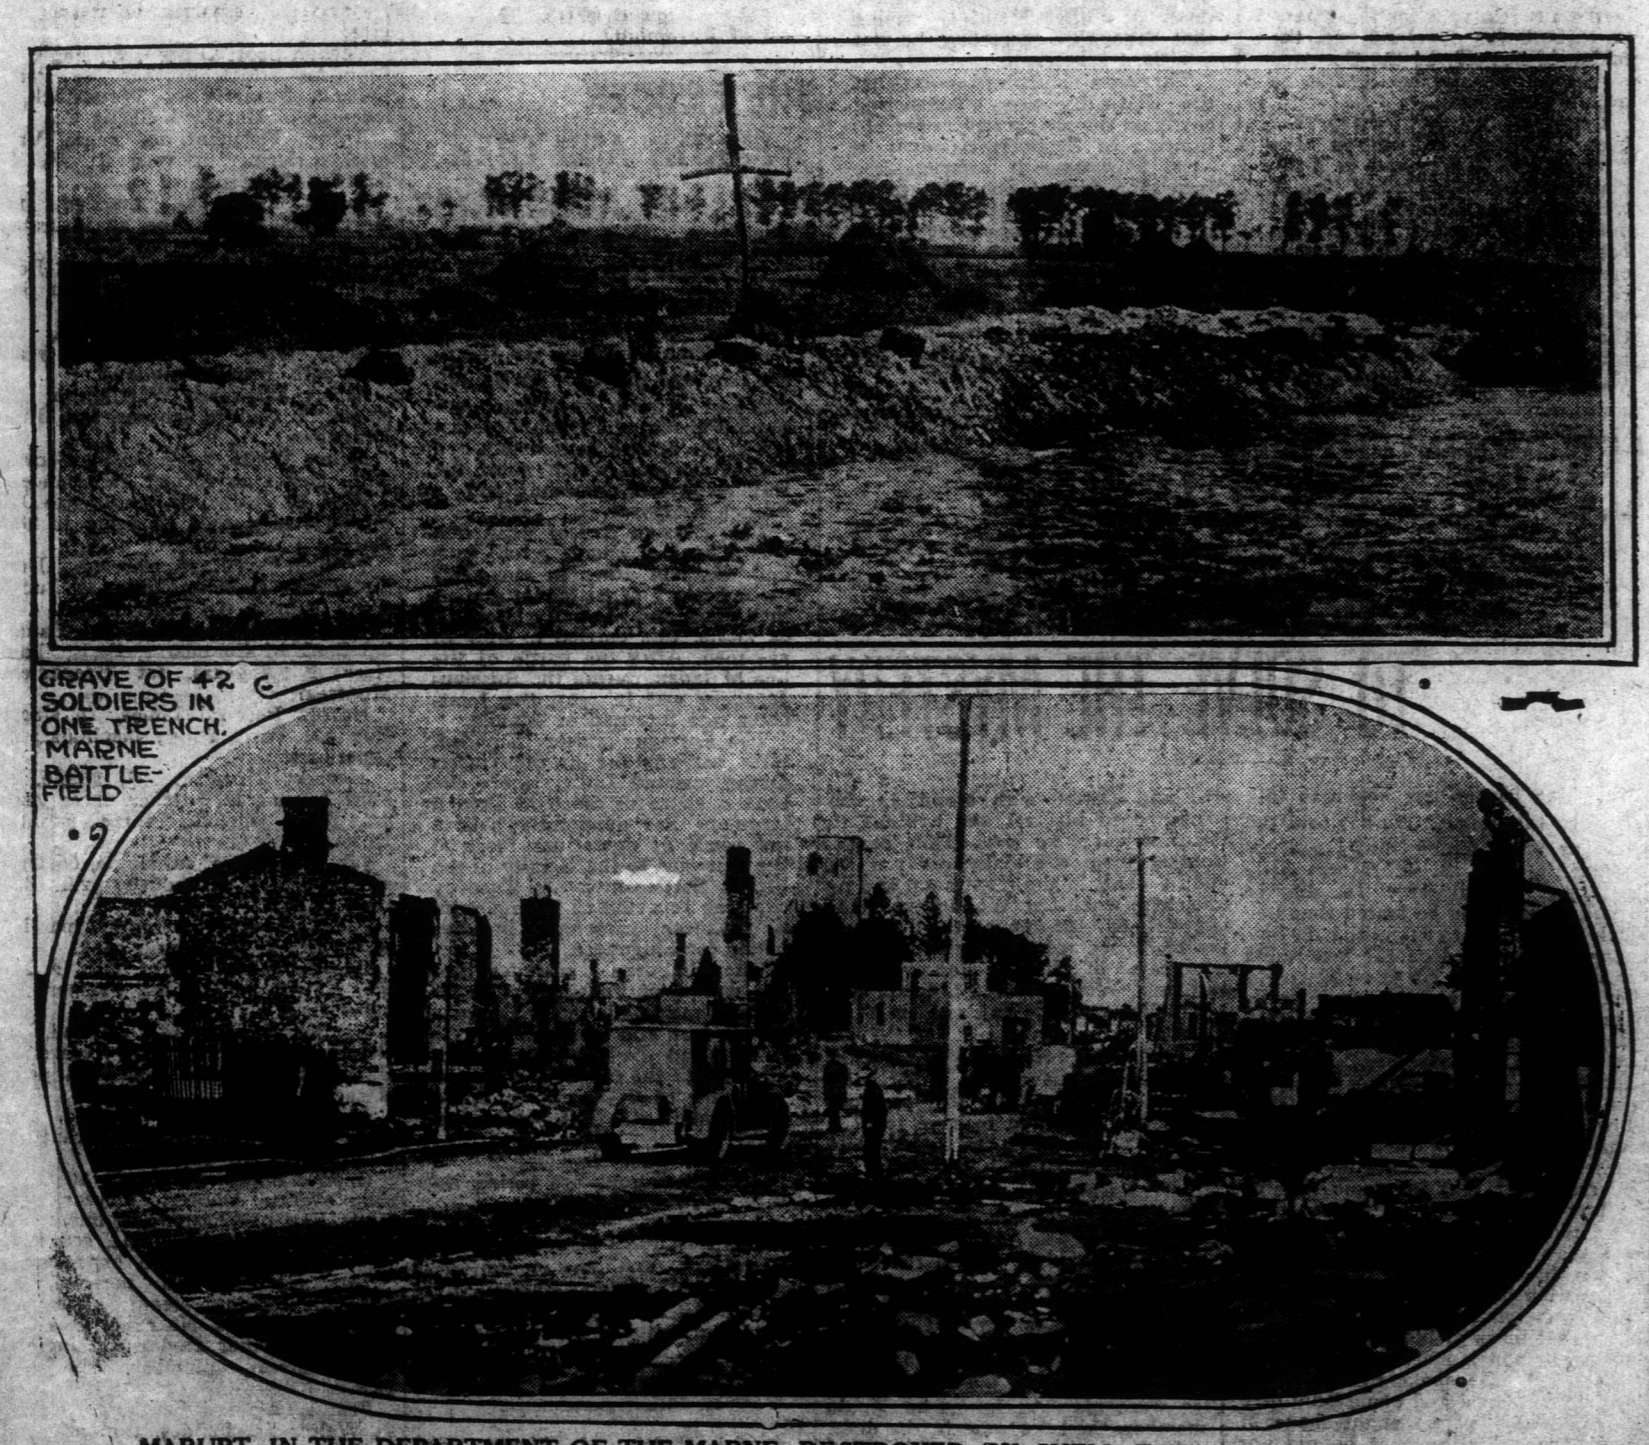

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—To-day's official wireless from Berlin to the German embassy, supplements last night's official announcement of the retirement of the German-Austrian troops before new Russian forces and says the Belgians have been reinforced in the fighting between Neuport and Dismude, which continued on the 28th.

THE SITUATION.

It is very evident that the crest of the onrushing German wave, as regards both Belgium and France, has been broken in the dash against the rock front of the Allies.

As for the Russians, they are still advancing in Poland, and the cold weather there from now on, to which they are used, will further handicap the foe.

The massing of German troops on the border of Holland has made the residents uneasy, and the further fact of the discovery of cement nine feet thick under a tennis court owned by a German near Arnhem, although a small incident in its way, adds to the significance of like incidents elsewhere.

Whatever Teutonic "Moses" wrote the Ten Commercial Commandments of Germany, he surely knew the German people. The people of Germany are commanded to buy goods made in Germany.

As possible. The Empire, and therefore Canada is engaged in a struggle that tests out the national character of every country under the British flag.

Through the prompt action of the Government, Canada enjoyed the distinction of being the first of the overseas dominions to come forward with food supplies for the Mother Land.

The London Morning Post, one of the most influential papers in the United Kingdom, says: "The patriotism of the Dominions in placing their food supplies at our disposal at a time of crisis suggests a policy of mutual trade benefit in the future.

The Manchester Guardian, dealing with Canada's aid, says: "The cry against emigration in this country must be forever silenced, now that we have seen our own emigrants standing by the Old Country when their help is needed; how they shower gifts upon the home government, the army and the navy; how they rally eagerly as any home-staying citizens, and comparatively in far larger numbers."

As we said, Heligoland came as the first rude shock to this characteristic self-complacency. Other French ports considered here to be only momentary.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

COUNTY COUNCIL

A meeting of the county council has been called for Saturday afternoon at the court house.

ANNUAL MEETING

The Brantford Horticultural Society holds its annual meeting on Nov. 3rd, 1914, in the council chamber of the city hall.

WAR RELIEF FUND

A general meeting of the subscribers to the fund will be held on Saturday afternoon at two-thirty in the Y. M. C. A. hall. All subscribers are requested to be present.

FROM THE BOYS.

Lieut. Hilton Wilkes, writing home, states that he has seen his brother Ran, who is with the King Edward Imperial Light Horse Guards, in London. Of the Brantford boys, he says they are all well.

WAS RESTAINED.

In the trespass charge preferred by Mr. Michael Mulaney, in a case at the police court yesterday, the defendant was ordered to vacate the premises and also to pay court costs. Mr. Mulaney says that this decision sustaining his rights was satisfactory.

BACK TO OLD ENGLAND.

Mrs. Starling and Mrs. Williams, wives of first-class reservists, who are now fighting at the front, will leave for England on the Megantic which sails on November 3rd. They had been anxious to return to the Old Land in order to be near their friends and relatives, should anything happen and as this suited the plans of the Township, inasmuch as it was less expensive than keeping the families here arrangements were made for the sending of the wives and their children.

SPLENDID WORK

There was a large number of ladies at the Children's Shelter yesterday afternoon, when a pound party was held to secure supplies for the much-distressed Belgians. A large quantity of clothing and other goods were secured, and the pound party will again be held on Saturday afternoon to allow those from the country to contribute their mite. Yesterday money to the amount of $30 was secured, and it is expected that a substantial bale of necessities will be gotten together. Tea was served yesterday and will again be served on Saturday. The ladies of the house committee of the Children's Shelter were among the first to launch patriotic work, and their every effort thus far has been attended with great success.

TO, SHORTEN HOURS.

In view of what is conceded will be a hard winter, with the prospect of much unemployment and suffering it is announced that the Provincial Government is considering the advisability of following the example set by the Government in Britain and curtailing the hours for selling liquor. The matter has been brought to the attention of the Provincial authorities in many ways, and while there is no authority that will permit the Executive Council to interfere with the present hours of sale in shops and hotels, it is likely that advantage will be taken of the present occasion to vest this power in the Cabinet. That will mean, were circumstances warrant, that the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may on proclamation, having regard to extreme and emergent conditions, curtail the hours of sale of intoxicating liquors, or even suspend, for the time being, the retail sale.

Big Order is Placed Here

Mr. C. E. Kitchen, manager of the Kitchen Overall and Shirt Company of this city, reached Brantford this morning from Montreal, where he and others in the same line of business saw the British agent with reference to the request for 1 million shirts by the British war department. He obtained an order for 30,000 or 500 a day, for two months. This will mean full capacity for the plant and an increase in the staff. The agent stated that he expected other orders will come along.

LEE YOU'S STORY

Lee You has a son who is employed at a laundry on Dalhousie street, run by his uncle—or Lee You's brother. On Saturday night, according to the son, his father visited the laundry and left there about 11 o'clock p. m. He did not arrive home late at night. He then went straight home to the grocery store. This coincides with You's story and the police are satisfied that he has told the truth so far as he is able. According to him, the attack was made in the dark, for when he was first struck he does not remember seeing any light.

He could not think of anyone who had any animosity towards him and can give no idea whom the perpetrator of the attack was.

The Chief Constable was accompanied by Detective Chapman and they held that the interview was very satisfactory. Chief Sleiman, however, has no theories to give out yet.

Laid at Rest

Late Fred Hammond. The funeral of the late Fred Hammond of Canisville, who was found dead on Tuesday afternoon beside the Workman brickyard, will take place this afternoon to Mount Hope Cemetery.

Campaign on to Raise Amount of Pensions

[By Special Wire to the Courier] LONDON, Oct. 29.—A campaign to raise British pensions and separation allowances has been started by G. N. Barnes, M. P., who proposes a minimum of one pound sterling a week for the widow of every soldier and sailor killed, for the wife of every soldier and sailor now in the fighting line and also for every soldier and sailor permanently maimed by fighting.

Such an increase would mean a fourfold raise in most instances, from $125 a week the widow's pension would be raised to $500. Mothers dependent for support on men who in active service are now unprovided for. The wives of men at the front at present get only $1.85 a week, while the minimum weekly pension allowed to disabled soldiers is 85 cents. Mr. Barnes also proposes to double the present allowance of 28 cents a week for each dependent child.

It is pointed out that the nation has to support these dependents in any case, and to throw the main burden on private charity does not relieve the country of the cost. An adequate separation allowance and pension would relieve the men who are offering their lives for their country from the stigma of being objects of charity.

But as the proposed increase is likely to take the form of a super tax on incomes, it is not popular with the wealthy classes.

BRITISH OR ENGLISH

Mr. Hogge (R., Edinburgh, E.) asked the Under Secretary for War in the House of Commons, whether his attention had been called to the use of the word English in describing the British army in the reply of the Secretary of State for War to General Joffret, and whether, in view of the part played in our army by other than English troops, he would undertake that in future no such partial description of our forces shall be permitted.

Mr. Tennant said his attention had not previously been drawn to this matter. The published telegram was a translation.

Mr. Hogge: Is my right hon. friend aware that General Joffret used the word "British," and that the Secretary of State for War used the word "English"?

Mr. Tennant: I was not aware of it.

SUMMARY OF ALL THE WAR NEWS

a fourth smokestack, presumably taken from some captured vessel, and flying the Japanese flag, the Emden is said to have boldly sailed into the waters of Penang, a British possession in the Straits Settlements and to have sunk a Russian cruiser and a French destroyer. The Emden was reported to have sent to the bottom a small Japanese passenger vessel.

The long list of losses on the sea continues to grow. Another steamer is reported to have been sunk off the north coast of Ireland. Off Cuxhaven a Swedish steamer was destroyed by a mine with the loss of five men.

No further word was received from South Africa, although England's anxiety was relieved by the official statement last night that General Louis Botha, commander-in-chief of the Union of South Africa forces, met promptly and effectively the emergency presented by the new rebellion. He was said to have put to rout the forces under General Christian Beyers. No word has yet been

FRENCH MAKE GAINS AT VERDUN, DEFEATING GERMANS SOUTH OF THIAUCOURT

French official reports announce gains south of Thiaucourt, where the Germans were defeated. Other despatches state that the Germans requested an armistice, which was refused. The French commander immediately renewed the attack and obtained the advance which the Germans designed to gain. A French force is said to have arrived at Bantant-sur-Meuse, near Consonvoye, at the heights of Montfaucourt, where the Crown Prince is entrenched. Another French force, it is officially stated, commands the roads leading from Varennes to the valley of the Aisne.

ALLIES CLAIM THE VICTORY

BOTHA ROUTS BEYERS COMMANDO

In Headlong Flight for a Whole Day—Many Prisoners Taken.
LONDON, Oct. 29.—The official statement was issued last night regarding the rebellion in the Union of South Africa. General Botha reports that he left Rustenberg (district in the west part of the Transvaal colony) on Tuesday morning and proceeded in direction in which General Christian Beyers, with his commando, was supposed to be. He came in touch with General Beyers' men in the forenoon and drove them in headlong rout the whole of the day and captured 25 of them fully equipped.

DRAGON KILLS THIRTY IN FIVE MINUTES

NORTHERN FRANCE, Oct. 28.—At a town near Lille, a Dragon marksman was stationed at a swing bridge with two comrades to load for him. It was important that the enemy should be held back without the bridge being blown up. The marksman hid behind a fence sixty yards from the bridge. When two Lanciers appeared he shot them; then three and he shot them, also five. They came up together. He brought down everyone. Altogether he killed thirty Germans in less than five minutes and retired with his comrades. A great pile of the dead men and horses on the narrow roadway on the opposite side of the bridge protected it from the approach of the enemy during the day almost as well as a mitrailleuse would have done. In the evening the colonel embraced this wonderful marksman before all his comrades, kissing him on both cheeks.

RUSSIA HAS MILLIONS OF HARDY PEASANTS TO HELP

It is a noteworthy fact that the future existence of the Russian Empire depends largely on the peasants. The Russian army is recruited principally from the peasant class and various nomadic races inhabiting the eastern provinces. It is estimated that in all there are about 120 million peasants in the Russian Empire, and probably no body of men in existence is so hardy as this. Their physique is very fine as compared with that of other European races. They are, however, somewhat ignorant and superstitious, and too frequently the victims of terrible famines. In most Russian villages there are no doctors or trained nurses, and the death rate is appalling. When a peasant is taken ill only two remedies are available as a rule—a hot bath, and the "Feldshar," who is generally an old soldier with a little rudimentary knowledge of surgery picked up when on military service. He is in fact a kind of rural Dr. Sarrador, and if blood-letting and the "banjar" (vapor-bath) do not help then the patient must die—for "such is the will of God."

Some villages have the questionable advantage of a "znarcharka," or wise woman, who firmly believes in herbs, drugs, an incantation. A few of these women are undoubtedly very skilful, but the majority of them are joss charlatans, who kill more people than they cure.

NOT KNOWN IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Oct. 29, via London.—It was announced officially in Berlin today that nothing was known concerning the report that German troops had entered Angola, the Portuguese colony in West Africa. The statement was given out by the Wolff Bureau. The despatches relating that German troops had forcibly invaded Angola came by way of London, Madrid and Paris, through a French agency and were received here October 27. The same message said that preparations were being made at Lisbon for the immediate despatch of warships and troops from Portugal to Angola.

GO INTO ACTION FEW MILES APART

The two travelers had dinner at the monk's hospium, Nigel at the high table and Aylward among the commonalty. Then again they roamed the high street on business-intent. Nigel bought lappets for hangings, wax, preserves, fruit, dappak table linen and many other articles of need. At last he halted before the armorer's shop at the saddle-yard, starting at the fine suits of plate, the engraved gorgets, the plumed helmets, the cunningly jointed gorgets, as a child at a sweet-shop.

"Well, Squire Loring," said Wat the armorer, looking aside from the furnace where he was tempering a sword-blade, "what can I sell you this morning? I swear to you by Pubal Cain, that you might go from end to end of Chesapeake and never see a better suit than that which hangs from yonder hook."

"And the price, armorer?"
"To anyone else, two hundred and fifty rye nobles. To you two hundred."

"And why cheaper to me, good fellow?"
"Because I fitted your father also for the wars, and a finer suit never went out of my shop. I was proud that it turned many an arrow before he laid it aside. We worked in mail in those days, and I had as soon have a well-made thick-meshed mail as any plates; but a young knight will be in the fashion like any dame of the court, and so it must be plate now, even though the price be trebled."

"Your rye is it that the mail is as good?"
"I am well sure of it."
"Hearken then, armorer! I cannot at this moment buy a suit of plate, and yet I sorely need steel harness on account of a small deed which it is in my mind to do. Now I have at my home at Tilford that very suit of mail of which you speak, with all my father's dress robes. Could you not so alter it that it should guard my limbs also?"

"The armorer looked at Nigel's small, apright figure and burst out laughing. "You jest, Squire Loring! The suit was made for one who was far above the common stature of man."
"Nay, I jest not, if it will but carry me through one sharp sticking it will have served its purpose."
The armorer leaned back on his anvil and pondered while Nigel stared anxiously at his sooty face.

"Right gladly would I lend you a suit of plate for this one venture, Squire Loring, but I know well that if you should be overthrown your harness becomes poorer. I am a pious man with many children, and I dare not risk the loss of it. But as to what you say of the old suit of mail, is it indeed in good condition?"
"Most excellent, save only that the neck, which is much frayed."
"To shorten the limbs is easy. It is but to cut out a length of the mail and then to loop up the links. But to shorten the body—nay, that is beyond the armorer's art."
"It was my last hope, Nay, good armorer, if you have indeed served and loved my grandfather, who begged you by his memory that you will help me now."

"The armorer threw down his heavy hammer with a crash upon the floor. "It is not only at the outline of the armor, Squire Loring, but it is that I have seen you, half armed as you were, ride against the best of them at the Castle Sully-yard. Last Martinmas my heart bled for you, when I saw how sorry you were for your harness, and yet you held your own against the stout Sir Oliver with his Milan suit. When do you go to Tilford?"
"Even now."
"Heli, Jenkin, fetch out the cob!" cried the worthy Wat. "May my right hand lose it cunning if I do not send you into battle in my father's armor. To-morrow I must be back in my booth, but to-day I give to you without fee and for the sake of the good-will which I bear to your house, I will ride with you to Tilford and before night you shall see what Wat can do."

So it came about that there was a busy evening at the well-known Manor-house, where the Lady Eryntrude planned and cut and hung the curtains for the hall, and stocked her cupboards with the good things which Nigel had brought from Guisard. Meanwhile the Squire and the armorer sat with their heads touching and the old suit of mail with its gorget of overlapping plates laid out across their knees. The Squire in old Wat shrugged his shoulders, as one who has been asked to do more than can be demanded from mortal man. At last, at a suggestion from the Squire, he leaned back in his chair and laughed long and loudly in his bushy beard, while the Lady Eryntrude glared her black displeasure at such plebeian merriment. Then taking his fine chisel and his hammer from his pouch of tools, the armorer, still chuckling at his own thoughts, began to drive a hole through the centre of the steel limb.

FORT WILLIAM QUOTA

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 29.—Col. J. A. Little, commanding the 96th regiment announced yesterday that Major E. R. Wayland has been chosen to command the Fort William and Fort Arthur detachments, numbering 240 men and seven officers, of the second contingent. The other officers are Captains Dow and King and Lieut. McGovern. Milne and Oliver of Fort Arthur. The 234 men were picked from almost a thousand volunteers. Man have seen active service and all have been drilling hard since the departure of the first contingent.

James J. Rowens, a Russian Jew, is charged with helping Austrians to leave Canada.

CHAPTER VIII.

The King and his attendants had shaken off the crowd who had followed them from Guisard along the Pilgrims' Way and now, the mounted archers having beaten off the more persistent of the spectators, they rode at their ease in a long, straggling, glittering train over the dark undulating plain of heath.

In the van was the King himself, for his hawk's were with him and he had some hope of sport. Edward at that time was a well-grown, vigorous man in the very prime of his manhood, a keen sportsman, an ardent and gallant and a chivalrous soldier. He was a scholar too, speaking Latin, French, German, Spanish, and even a little English.

So much had long been patent to the world, but only of recent years had he shown other and more formidable characteristics, a restless ambition which coveted his neighbor's throne, and a wise foresight in matters of commerce, which enabled him

TORTURED BY CONSTIPATION

"Fruit-a-lives" Cured Paralyzed Bowels and Digestion

St. DONIFERIE SHAWINGIAN, QUEBEC, Feb. 3rd, 1914.

"It is a pleasure to me to inform you that after suffering from Chronic Constipation for 2½ years, I have been cured by 'Fruit-a-lives.' While I was a student at Berthier College, I became so ill I was forced to leave the college. Severe pains across the intestines continually tortured me and it came to a point when I could not step down at all and my digestion became paralyzed. Some one advised me to take 'Fruit-a-lives' and at once I felt a great improvement. After I had taken four or five boxes, I realized that it was completely cured and what made me glad, also, was that they were acting gently, causing no pain whatever to the bowels. All those who suffer with Chronic Constipation should follow my example and take 'Fruit-a-lives' for they are the medicine that cures."

With his high and noble bearing, his simple yet rich attire and his splendid mount, he looked every inch a knight. His own color was black also, for his active, sinewy figure was set off by close-fitting velvet of that hue, broken only by a belt of gold, and by a golden border of open pods of the broom-plum.

"And the price, armorer?"
"To anyone else, two hundred and fifty rye nobles. To you two hundred."

"And why cheaper to me, good fellow?"
"Because I fitted your father also for the wars, and a finer suit never went out of my shop. I was proud that it turned many an arrow before he laid it aside. The Bull Dogs, with Hold Fast, their leader, will be at full strength, and the challengers will find that it is dangerous to play with their dogs, as their bite is fatal and their bark is long, and after the battle they will sing the same song.

IRON WORK LAID DOWN
The iron framework foundations for the extension of the Lorne bridge were successfully laid upon the cement work yesterday. It is simply bolted together for the job and will in due course be rivetted. It is not yet placed in its eventual position, only being said in a hurry in order to accommodate the traffic over the bridge. The framework, when it has been built upon, will allow a good wide approach to the bridge proper. The supports of the extension are being rivetted together and are ready to be placed in position.

Famous Nelson Episode
"Leave of action!" exclaimed Nelson to his lieutenant, the stump of his leg jerking angrily to and fro, and the admiral leaping back in his chair, rubbing his hands convulsively, and exclaiming aloud, "Thank God, I have met him!"

"When at Balahelava, Lucan told Lord Cardigan to lead the Light Brigade on that mad charge down the 'valley of death.' Cardigan answered, 'Certainly, sir; but the Russians have a central reserve; in London and batteries on both flanks.' Lucan, with a shrug of his shoulders, said, 'We have no choice but to obey.' Whereupon Cardigan turned quickly to his men and said, 'Advance, my lads, as he rode off at its head, saying to himself, 'Here goes the last of the Brudenells.'"

CHARGES, like your Grenadiers and open the ball" were the words of Sir John Moore, who started the fighting at Corunna. When, towards the close of the battle, Moore was dying, his chest shattered by a cannon-ball, one of his staff tried to unblock his wound, but the dying soldier stopped him. "I had rather," he said, "I should go out of the field with me."

Turning to Colonel Anderson, he said, "Anderson, you know I have always wished to die in this way. I hope my country will do me just as."

Then, in a tone of apology, "I feel myself so strong, I fear I shall be long dying."

"Do you see those fellows on the hill, Pakenham?" Wellington said, just before striking his decisive blow at Salamanca. "Move on with your division and drive them to the devil."

"Yes," was the answer, "if you will give me a grasp of that all-conquering hand," and in a few minutes Pakenham's columns, advancing in the face of a legend of bullets, had swept away the enemy as with the blast of a whirlwind.

"Men of the Gordon Highlanders," said Colonel Dargal, "the General says that position must be taken at all costs. The Gordon Highlanders will take it. Almost before the words had left his lips the brave Scots were rushing into the ranks, steps in the face of a deluge of death, to drive the enemy from his lair like so many terror-stricken sheep."

WAR'S TOLL PROVES A TERRIBLE ONE IN MONEY AFFAIRS ALONE

PARIS, Oct. 10.-(Correspondence of the Associated Press)-The war bill which Europe is meeting daily is now figured up as follows: Russia, $14,000,000; Germany, $7,225,000; France, $7,000,000; England, $6,000,000; Austria, $4,000,000; Various, $3,000,000. Total, $52,225,000.
The French appropriation is from official figures as announced by M. Ribot, Minister of Finance; the English estimate by the London Statist; the German total from an authoritative source, in a Geneva paper; and the other sums from various conservative estimates.
Various represents the probable expense to which Serbia, Belgium and the neutral countries of Switzerland, Italy, Rumania, Greece, Holland, and Denmark have been put.
The vast total does not include the fighting in taking place, nor the destruction of property which is being done, nor the high night incalculable losses to Europe of 20,000,000 men under arms being taken from production. There are no indications in France that exhaustion has set in, but it is evident that the accumulated treasure of even the richest country on the continent is being poured out at a rate that adds $200,000,000 a month to the national debt.

SOLDIERS SPEECHES ON THE BATTLEFIELD

Stirring Words That Have Come Down Through History-Duty Done in Face of Death

In the grim hour of battle there is small time for words; it is the time for the strong arm and the stout heart; and such words as are spoken must be few and to the point.
No one knew better than that gallant Highlander, Sir Colin Campbell, how to say the words that fire courage or reward brave deeds. On that "day of heroes" at Balahelava, when his Highlanders were awaiting the shock of the Russian cavalry, he rode down the line, and in two calmly-spoken sentences nerved every man for the death that seemed inevitable. "Remember me to my mother, there is no retreat from here. You must die where you stand." And with one voice the killed heroes gave back the answer. "Aye, ay, Sir Colin, we'll die."

When Collingwood's ship was about to open the great drama of Trafalgar, the admiral, calmly munching an apple on the break of his poop, summoned his officers, and said to them: "Now, gentlemen, let us do something to-day of which the world may talk hereafter." Within a few moments five lines of battle ships were emptying their guns into the Royal Sovereign, and every man on board was "fighting like an angel."

"Leave of action!" exclaimed Nelson to his lieutenant, the stump of his leg jerking angrily to and fro, and the admiral leaping back in his chair, rubbing his hands convulsively, and exclaiming aloud, "Thank God, I have met him!"

"When at Balahelava, Lucan told Lord Cardigan to lead the Light Brigade on that mad charge down the 'valley of death.' WAR AND BUSINESS

Prosperity Stifled Because Fuel Feeds War Machines

Writing in the Monetary Times, Mr. R. D. Bell of Montreal says: "Why should a war in Europe affect business in Canada? The money that is used in warfare is not destroyed; it is spent; it remains in circulation. What has that to do with our business? From such a viewpoint it is generally considered that the banks are responsible for hard times, and that the bankers are deliberately withholding funds for their own profit. This attitude is so common that at the risk of covering well known ground, we will discuss a moment the facts."

Money, which means gold and credit built thereon, is the moving force, the fuel which drives the machinery of production. One can conceive of money as oil which is burned to generate power. This is stored in a reservoir system which includes all the money centres of the world and the central reservoir, in London. Paris, Berlin, New York, Montreal and other cities maintain their reservoirs connected, just as by a pipe, with the London reservoir. Turn the tap loose in Vienna and the Paris reservoir is drained. This drains, in turn, the London reservoir, and as the supply diminishes there, the fluid runs automatically from all the other reservoirs, just as water seeks its level."

Now there is just enough of this fuel available in the world to supply the machinery of production. If all the fuel and all the population are used to keep the machines going a capacity turning out food, clothes and the necessary amount of luxuries there will be just enough produced to supply all hands and maintain what we are pleased to call prosperity.

If the supply of fuel is diverted to supply the enormous demands of the war machines, the productive machinery of the world is starved. The supply of fuel available in the world to supply the machinery of production is used to keep the machines going a capacity turning out food, clothes and the necessary amount of luxuries there will be just enough produced to supply all hands and maintain what we are pleased to call prosperity.
