125TH BATT. MAY BE MOVED FROM BORDEN TO A POINT EAST AND THENCE OVERSEAS

Warning Has Been Issued and all Farming Furloughs Curtailed and in Some Cases Cancelled—Rev. Mr. Lavell Receives Official Appointment as Chaplain

Camp Borden, July 20.—The number of men reported absent without leave from their units yesterday was 235 less than that given on Tuesday. The parole status for yesterday morning showed that there were 1,266 absentees of this class. It should be remembered, however, that the list of such men includes all men who for any reason have not reappeared at the time specified in the past, and that it is a constantly changing one. For instance, the commanding officer of a Western Ontario battalion pointed out that according to the latest report on Tuesday, five of his men were illegally absent. Yesterday morning only one of these men was still away and that one had been granted sick leave. He had been forced by illness to overstay his leave.

The strength of the camp yesterday morning was 32,149, with 2,430 away on passes.

To Be Sent East.
Ten of the overseas battalions which have been raised in Military Divisional Area No. 2, and at Niagara-on-the-Lake, have been warned to be prepared for departure at no very distant date for the east and thence overseas.

They are the 119th Manitoulin unit under Lt.-Col. T. P. Rowland; the 120th Hamilton Battalion, Lt.-Col. G. D. Fearnham; 123rd, of Toronto, commanded by Lt.-Col. W. B. Kingsmill; the 124th, of Toronto, commanded by Lt.-Col. Vaux Chadwick; 125th, of Toronto, commanded by Lt.-Col. M. E. B. Cuffie; 126th, of Toronto, commanded by Lt.-Col. F. J. Hamilton; 127th, of Toronto, commanded by Lt.-Col. W. E. S. Knowles; 134th, of Toronto, commanded by Lt.-Col. Duncan Donald; 135th, of Toronto, commanded by Lt.-Col. B. Robson. The 119th, 120th and 123rd are at Niagara and the others at Camp Borden.

Officers will probably be compelled to curtail harvesting furloughs which have been granted, and in some cases refuse further applications for such furloughs. They will, however, see that the men of their units leave before they go to the seaboard. The battalions will of course not move simultaneously. The men have simply been notified to be ready to leave between certain specified dates. It will be necessary, as the units go, to reconstitute the brigades to which they were attached. Several of the commanding officers whose units have received orders are acting as brigadiers at Camp Borden—as, for instance, Lt.-Col. Vaux Chadwick, Lt.-Col. Duncan Donald and Lt.-Col. Robson.

Brigade organizations are daily working more smoothly. The battalions of the 3rd Brigade, commanded by Col. Wigle, who headed the 18th Battalion at the front, are in turn being tested as to their proficiency in squad, company, and battalion drill. The 8th Brigade, under Lieut.-Col. T. A. Howard, undertake a route march or a tactical scheme to Alliston to-day, and be absent from camp all day. This will be the first of the brigade manoeuvres.

Lieut.-Col. T. E. Delamere, of the 110th Perth Battalion, rejoined his unit yesterday and Lieut. C. C. Osborne, of the 8th Brigade, He will act as orderly officer to the brigadier, Col. Howard. The men of the 3rd Brigade have provided themselves with a swimming pool in one of the streams here in which they will be able to hold water sports.

Several battalions have been ordered to contribute toward a fund of $1,800 to pay for goods damaged or taken from the railway station during a disturbance last week. It is said that they will appeal against the order.

Appointments Announced.
The following appointments are announced: Rev. N. A. MacEachern to be chaplain of the 134th Battalion; Rev. A. E. Lavell to be chaplain of the 125th Battalion; Red A. B. McNair to be lieutenant in No. 1 Construction Battalion. Temporary Capt. E. Trump, who has been for some time employed as chief clerk in the office of the Adjutant-General for the division, has been taken on the permanent staff with the rank of captain. The following have been promoted: Captains T. P. Grubbe and Philip E. Boyd, 134th Battalion, to be majors; Capt. William A. Cockshutt, 125th Battalion, to be major; Lieut. John B. Heron, 2nd Field Company, Canadian Engineers, to be a captain in No. 1 Construction Battalion.

NOTHING DONE YET TO MEET HOTEL PROBLEM

Simcoe Temperance People Have Taken No Steps to Prepare for Prohibition.

HOTELS WILL NOT CLOSE.

Considered Likely All Will Continue to Maintain Hotel Business.

Simcoe, July 19.—Up to the present time there has been no movement on the part of either the Committee of One Hundred or the Citizens League, to organize for the purpose of adjusting matters after Sept. 15th. An inspector from the Department called on the hotelkeepers a few days ago and explained the modus operandi. By paying a nominal license fee and keeping the public house up to a required standard hotels will be given an approved status.

In all probability none of the four hotels will close doors. A new auto garage, without the usual repair shop, has been built as an adjunct to the Queen's with a view to accommodate long-trip motor parties. Sutton's liquor store has developed a large trade in soft drinks, and the firm may handle groceries wholesale, along with tobacco and cigars. The inflated rentals of the leased hotels will no doubt be slashed severely, but up to the present there has been no coming together of the opposing interests, to work out a solution of the problem.

The most important conference in many months in Germany was held recently in Berlin. For over five hours Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg was in secret conference with the leaders of all parties.

Contracts recently let by the United States army call for 500,000 pairs of russet marching and trench shoes at price from $2.03 to $4.03 per pair.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

AUSTRIANS ARE "LAYING DOWN"

Tired of Conflict, and Surrender to Russians Rather Than Fight.

ADVANCE TO THE LIPA.

Russians Swept Enemy from Their Path and Took 13,000 Men.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
London, July 20.—In a despatch dated Southwest Front, July 15, a correspondent sends a description of the London Times of the latest Russian victory in which Sakharoff's army captured 13,000 prisoners and advanced seven miles to the River Lipa. He says: "I reached the headquarters of a certain Siberian corps about midnight on July 15, to find artillery preparation in full blast. By midnight ten batteries were made in the barbed wire, each approximately 20 paces broad, and the attacks were ordered for 3 o'clock in the morning.

Enemy Driven Out.
"Rising at 5 a.m., I accompanied the commander of the corps to his observation point on the ridge. The attacks had already swept away the resistance of the enemy's first line. "Thousands of prisoners were in our hands, and the enemy was already retreating rapidly. We moved forward, and we began to meet from the battlefield first, the lightly wounded, then the Austrian prisoners, helping our heavily wounded.

At quite an early hour, the entire country was alive. Every department of the army was beginning to move forward. All roads were choked with ammunition, batteries and transports, following up our advancing troops, while the stream of returning caissons, wounded and prisoners equalled in volume the tide of the advance column. The commander took up his position on the ridge which but a few hours before had been our advanced line. Thence the country could be observed for miles. Each road was black with moving troops, pushing forward on the heels of the enemy, whose field gun shells were bursting on the ridges.

Headless of Danger.
"Just beyond here I met the commander of the division and his staff. Evidently the size of our group was discernible, from some distant enemy observation point, for within five minutes came the howl of an approaching projectile, and a 6-inch shell burst with a terrific crash in a neighboring field. Its arrival, which was followed at regular intervals by others, ranging from 4-inch upward, was unnoticed by the general, whose interest was entirely occupied with pressing his advantage.

Waded Across Stream.
"Before and beneath us lay the abandoned line of the Austrian trenches, separated from ours by a small stream, where since daylight the heroic engineers were laboring under heavy shell fire to construct a bridge to enable our cavalry and guns to pass in pursuit. Our troops had forced the line here at 3 a.m., wading under machine gun and rifle fire in water and marsh above their waists, often to their armpits.

Ambulances Busy.
"The Austrian end of the bridge was a horrible place, as it was congested with dead, dying and horribly wounded men, who, as the ambulances were on the other side of the river could not be removed. A number of German ambulance men were working furiously over their own and the Austrian wounded, many of whom I think must have been wounded by their own guns in an attempt to prevent the bridging of the stream. A more bloody scene I have not witnessed.

Did Not Believe Western News.
"I encountered about fifty captured Germans and talked with about a dozen of them. Certainly none of them showed the smallest lack of morale or even depression. All seemed to feel as if their personal lot on this day had been unfortunate and that the war would be won by the Germans shortly. When told of British successes, not a single one was in the least moved. All laughed, stating they did not believe it.

What Germans Are Taught to Believe.
"One officer said: "Possibly the British have taken a single mile of line, but if they have we shall drive them back to-morrow, while the French are utterly beaten now, and we expect to take Verdun in a few days."

All of these men were attached to the Twenty-second reserve corps and came from Verdun two or three weeks ago. They describe the battle there as terrible, especially the French artillery fire.

My own impression is that the Austrians simply are refusing to fight now after the initial resistance and surrender in blocks rather than being cut to pieces in retreat by the cavalry, which is rendering extraordinary service in all these movements. The fact that we captured two commanders of regiments with one entire regimental staff, indicates that officers are hardly more enthusiastic for war than the soldiers. One commander only took command of his regiment at noon and was taken prisoner at daylight the following morning."

THE GIANT AND THE MOON

By Leona Dalrymple

Once there was a wicked giant who wanted everything he saw and he lived in a giant cave so dark that once he was in it he had to go to sleep. Yes, sir, had to. It was much too dark to do anything else.

Now the giant slept so much that never once had he seen the moon. Never once he'd seen the sun and because it was bright enough to dazzle his eyes, he was a little afraid of it. But when the day began to wane he always settled for his cave, fearing it might grow so dark that he couldn't find it. And he feared to sleep in the open lest some unknown enemy kill him.

So matters stood when one night a huge rock tumbled out of the cave wall and let a moonbeam in. It woke the giant and, frightened, he tiptoed across the cave and put his huge eye to the opening. It wasn't dark outside; The world was full of silver—mild and beautiful silver. Why, dear me, it was most as light as day—only cooler.

Now the giant was wicked. I've told you that. But he was also very stupid. "Oh," he cried, "The world outside is nothing but a cave like mine. I've always said that. Likely a giant lives in it and that's his night lamp hanging up there by invisible chains. A beautiful lamp, silver and bright. Ho! Ho! I'll steal it for my cave. Then I need never be afraid of the dark and I won't have to sleep so much."

So the wicked giant stepped upon a mountain and stole the moon to light his cave. Ah! He was a stupid fellow, for as soon as he had hung the moon up in his cave and everything was bright as day he began to get sleepy. Sleeper and sleeper he grew and then as he couldn't sleep in the light he never had and never could!—the great, clumsy, foolish robber had to go outside to sleep where the world was dark.

Dark? Pitchy dark it was. No sun. No moon. And the giant, scared to death, fell over a precipice and broke his neck. And you know as well as I do if he hadn't stolen the moon it could never have happened. As for the moon hanging in the giant's cave—well, you yourself know how the moon soars and climbs and sails along among the clouds. So now it soars and climbs, carrying its invisible silver chains with it and sailed right through the opening in the cave wall back to the place in the sky where it belonged.

SIR WM. ROBERTSON PRAISES THE WOUNDED MEN—Pays Special Attention to the Wounded

Britain is Satisfied with the Wounded Men—Pays Special Attention to the Wounded

London, July 20.—"No, we really are not worried by the course of the war," said General Sir William Robertson, chief of the Imperial staff at army headquarters, in an interview to-day with the Associated Press.

"As to the new offensive, a glance at the map will tell the story of progress. And the happy expression of our wounded soldiers from the front reflects the spirit of the message. Do you notice that all published photographs show them smiling and laughing.

The general himself smiled gently as he spoke; nevertheless his manner subtly conveyed his realization of the fact that he was breaking to silence he had maintained so rigidly since the beginning of the war.

He received the correspondent seated at a table in the War Office within a few feet of the wire which permits him, with the aid of his staff and the constantly arriving messages to direct the moves in the conflict.

The room is in keeping with the character of the man. It is furnished with such Spartan simplicity that table, chairs and map-rack are the only articles of furniture. Broad shoulders and sturdy of build well befit each of arm that might well be envied of any prize-fighter. Sir William's personality tells of tremendous vigor that seems to belie his 56 years and such such mental perceptiveness that one expects him to anticipate the trend of one's thought. Slightly above medium height, he has a fine with a dubious proposition," he said. "None is wise in this. Referring to the complimentary references by military experts to the work of the big British guns and the use of calvary in the offensive, Sir William remarked: Training Gunners

"The work of the guns interests us not only because of the organization required to produce them, but on account of the careful training which is necessary before the gunners are proficient. Scientifically accurate gunnery is required in this war probably never before. The necessity of firing over the heads of advancing infantry of one's own side makes it so, and it's necessary that troops thus advanced have perfect confidence in the gunners as they gradually raise the Niagara of shells as the infantry advances—a problem requiring greater skill as the infantry's distance increases.

Canadian Western Provinces

(Continued from Page One.) The new bonds are being made payable both in London and New York at the 4.88. This will give a wider market, more especially after the war, as it is thought by some that for the purpose of helping to finance these securities may be back in London again. While there will be a reduction of approximately 15 per cent. in the price of the mobilization, yet this is not the primary consideration. The big objective is to furnish funds in New York for the British treasury for the purpose of helping to maintain at high levels the price on that market of the pound sterling. The terms negotiated by the Canadian buyers are satisfactory. Other provinces, possibly, may enter this scheme. Employees Back to Work By Special Wire to the Courier. Niagara Falls, July 20.—Seven hundred employees of the Carborundum Company, who have been on strike since July 13, returned to work to-day. Fifty per cent. of the increase in wages asked for was granted. The company also agrees to look after men injured in strike riots. The coroner has begun an inquiry into the fatal shooting of James Kokowski last Thursday night.

THE SITUATION

One of the cardinal principles of the Hun is to strike fear into the hearts of opponents, no matter by what means. That idea was manifestly at the bottom of the frenzied ravishment of Belgium, and it also dictated the use of liquid fire, tear shells, poison gas, the Zeppelin assaults upon England and other devilities too numerous to specify.

It is announced that the Russians are in command of two of the big Carpathian passes, and that some troops of the Czar have actually penetrated a day's march into Hungary. In the Caucasus, Grand Duke Nicholas continues to take prisoners and to advance in satisfactory fashion.

General Smuts has reported further gains in German East Africa. In telling the House of Commons yesterday that another vote of credit would be asked next week, Premier Asquith announced that the war up to date had cost Great Britain $12,410,000,000. Pretty hard pull that, but John Bull is still able to slap his pocket with the remark, "There's more where that came from."

HYDRO ELECTRIC This scheme, which a great many people declared could not prove a success and would most certainly wreck the Ontario Government, has had such a demand placed upon it that recently there was a stoppage for a few minutes because of the peak load.

Premier Hearst now makes the announcement that satisfactory negotiations have been concluded to avoid any possible trouble in the future. He adds, "The people's system must be amply taken care of and no steps will be omitted to see that this is done."

In connection with the flutter which has taken place it has been vastly amusing to witness the free advice which has been tendered from certain quarters. Newspapers which would have been greatly tickled had the scheme collapsed, are now deeply concerned over adequate meeting of the public demand for the service.

Had the Liberal Government remained in power at Toronto there would have been no Hydro Electric. That outfit was all for private monopoly interests; one of the reasons, no doubt, why they let go of the nickle mines.

Hydro is perfectly safe in the hands of its sponsors.

AN UNDER SECRETARY. During the absence in the Old Land of Sir Sam Hughes, the Premier will become acting Minister of Militia, but a parliamentary secretary for the department has in addition been selected in the person of Mr. F. B. McCurdy, M.P., one of the Nova Scotia members. He will be in active charge, and has a business career back of him which should constitute a guarantee of excellent work.

At fourteen years of age he entered business life, and has been very successful, having built up large interests. He is a director of the Nova Scotia car works, the Eastern Trust Company and the Halifax Tramway Company, and is stated to have executive abilities of a high order.

It will be remembered that Sir Sam returned from his former trip to England, in order to meet the exploded Kite charges, which sought to impugn his personal reputation, and his return trip, it is understood is quite likely to involve a lengthy stay. In connection with the notable getting together of over 350,000 soldiers, he has stood an amount of work little short of marvellous, and his dynamic force has been one of the big factors in the achievement.

OMAR SISTERS, GYMNASTS.

Coop and Lent's Circus, July 25th.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The police have been rounding up some Doukhobors out west, for going without clothes. As for most of us in this neck of the woods, we are leaving off all that the law allows.

The Toronto Globe boasts that the Liberal confab at Ottawa is issuing "Progressive" notes. That's the main trouble with the Grit party. Always issuing notes and never meeting them. While on the subject, they had better discuss Sir Wilfrid's pet liability, the Grand Trunk Pacific.

No use talking but there is the juice to pay these days.

It is announced that Italy and Germany are likely to be at war very soon. The backing each country has hitherto been giving the others' foes, has simply been a little friendly interest.

Hon. George Graham says he knows that it is Canadian nickel on that German submarine. George also knew that the Liberals were certain to win the last Dominion election. As a knower, he even exceeds the gentleman of biblical writ.

Deutschland Not Yet Gone

At Dawn To-day Departure Seemed to be Many Hours Away, at Least.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Baltimore, July 20.—At dawn to-day the screen of tugs and barges was drawn about the submarine merchantman Deutschland, indicating that she would not leave here for several hours at least. To all appearances she was ready to start on her return voyage to Germany last night. This morning, just before she was hidden from view, it was observed that she was submerged to about the same depth as when she came into the port with a full cargo.

Hurting Repairs. Yesterday a force of mechanics was sent aboard the submarine to help the crew's mechanical gear overhaul several engine parts, one of which was later dismounted and hurried in an automobile to a local shop for refitting. It is thought probable that further testing of the machinery will be necessary before the vessel takes her departure.

All through the night the tug Timmins played its searchlight ceaselessly over land and water, practically covering all approaches to the pier where the Deutschland is berthed.

Kept Everybody Away Towards midnight the vigilance of the German guards about the pier lightened. Several launches were found hovering about the waters near the submarine, and while the Timmins threw its searchlight beams upon the strange craft, the night superintendent of the Eastern Forwarding Company, local agents of the submarine owners, jumped into a motor boat and made a long tour of the waters about the pier, to inspect the mysterious visitors.

London, July 20.—(New York World cable)—The Germans will commence the manufacture of synthetic rubber on a large scale early next month, according to information obtained from authoritative neutral sources. The process of manufacture has been simplified so it can be produced for between $1.25 and $1.50 a pound.

Severe Storm Hits Town in Quebec Prov.

Several Buildings in Shawinigan Falls Struck by Lightning. By Special Wire to the Courier. Shawinigan Falls, Que., July 20.—Much damage was done by a severe electrical storm, which centralized here yesterday afternoon. Several buildings were struck by lightning, the most serious case being that of the northern Ammunition Company. One of its two power houses which are situated near the plant of the Shawinigan Power Company, was struck and several generators were put out of business.

The dwelling of former Mayor Frigot was also struck and set on fire, but was not destroyed. Several barns and outbuildings were also reported to have been struck.

The Temps, of Paris, publishes a Madrid despatch to the effect that Prince de Ratther, German Ambassador to Spain, had a long conference with Premier Remenesse. It says official circles are preserving absolute silence in regard to the interview.

SOCIALISTS, ONCE ENEMIES, NOW FRIENDS

Von Bethman Hollweg Meets Opposition from Conservatives.

MUCH DIFFERENCE OVER TAXATION.

Levies on People to Conduct War Mounting Higher and Higher.

Berlin, July 20.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—The Reichstag session just closed was marked by interesting developments in the relations between the Government and the various political parties. One result was to bring out more sharply than hitherto the opposition of the Conservatives to Chancellor Bethmann Hollweg.

Old Aristocrats The Conservatives represent the old aristocratic traditions of Prussia, and their social and political influence is so great that they usually succeeded under previous chancellors in shaping the course of the Government. They have ever taken the lead in opposing all socialist and democratic tendencies in the states, and before the war one of their chief lines of policy was war upon the Socialists as an element dangerous to the monarchy and the present order.

Chancellor Plays to Socialists The loyalty with which the Socialists have stood by the Government and helped to fight the country's battles has been more than once recognized by Bethman Hollweg in his speeches in the Reichstag, and he has clearly admitted this fact must lead to some political readjustments after the war is over. This has never pleased the Conservatives. But the Chancellor has gone on his way making friends of the Socialists and inviting their support for Government measures. The Conservatives looked on coldly at all this, for they saw that their best argument for keeping the Government rigidly conservative was being wrested from their hands.

Hate Direct Taxation Besides this, the Conservatives have taken offense at the Government's taxation policy. They are fully committed to the view that the Empire must collect its revenue taxes through indirect taxation, like customs duties, and internal revenue taxes of various kinds. Especially do they urgently insist that direct taxes—income, general property, and inheritance taxes—should be reserved for the federal states. The huge problem, however, of raising revenues to pay interest on the war debt, to pay pensions, and meet other expenses growing out of the war, cannot be solved without resorting to direct taxation—there are not enough indirect taxes in reach to meet the requirements of the situation. Hence along with the various indirect taxes proposed this spring by the Government was a direct tax on war profits. In working out the details of collecting this tax, however, it was found by the Budget Committee that it was practically impossible to distinguish between profits due to the war and profits not due to it. Hence an all-round property tax of one mill on the dollar was proposed by the committee and accepted by the Government. Some of the Conservatives finally voted for the tax; but their own leaders, Count Wosarp and Von Heydebrand, voted against it to the bitter end. In this, curiously enough, they found themselves along with a small group of Socialists, and the main body of the Socialists last March.

Chancellor Muzzled the Press In the debates on these tax measures and on the press censorship the Conservatives were very severe in their criticisms of the Government and of the Chancellor. They resent it in particular that the newspapers were not permitted to say what they pleased about the United States in the height of the submarine controversy between Washington and Berlin; neither can they forgive the Chancellor for having yielded in modifying the form of submarine warfare.

Former Opposition Now His Friends Several days ago the Chancellor spoke with unusual passion in exposing the false statements put forth in attack on him, a pamphlet evidently emanating from Conservative quarters; and he also had some sharp things to say in replying to another pamphlet by Herr Kapp, an influential conservative politician. These pamphlets made the impression upon the conservative Conservatives of beginning a systematic campaign for the overthrow of Bethmann-Hollweg. Some of the National Liberals and are known to sympathize with these attacks upon him. In proportion, however, as the ultra-national elements surge away from the Chancellor he is finding all the warmer support from the other parties in the Reichstag, including the old Socialist party. It was a curious contrast, during the session, to see the Chancellor, during the Chancellor's speech of June 6, to see the Conservatives listening with mute dissent, along with the seceding Socialists, while all the other parties in the house applauded him to the echo.

MENTIONED IN DISPATCHES

A Tireless Worker.

The Right Hon. Thomas McKinnon Wood, who becomes Financial Secretary to the Treasury as well as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, will have his hands full with his dual duties. However, Mr. Wood is a tireless worker and will not mind a few extra tasks. He was born in London in 1855 and has been a member for Parliament for Glasgow for the past ten years, and held the position of Secretary for Scotland for some years, as well as Under Secretary. In addition to his Parliamentary duties, he has found time to write articles in the Encyclopedia Britannica, and various other reviews. He is regarded as a particularly efficient, hard-working member of Parliament.

No Peace Till Enemy Beaten. Arthur Ponsobly, M.P. for Stirling, who has asked the government to announce its peace terms, is apt to get himself thoroughly disliked. Great Britain and her Allies are not going to make peace when Germany sees that the game is up. The Allies are going to exert their whole strength before they will consider peace proposals, and rightly so. Ponsobly was born in England in 1871, and after being educated at Oxford entered the diplomatic service, serving at Constantinople and at Copenhagen. Later he was private secretary to Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman. He has written several books, the best known of them being, "The Camel and the Needle's Eye," and "The Decline of Aristocracy."

Jewish Financial Secretary E. S. Montagu, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, has succeeded Mr. Lloyd George as Minister of Munitions. Montagu is of Jewish ancestry and is a relative of Herbert Samuel, another member of the Coalition Cabinet. His real patronymic is not Montagu, but Samuel, the family having been founded in England by the minister's grandfather, a watchmaker, who established a small shop on Liverpool. The son moved to London, married a wealthy Jewish lady, founded a banking house and some twenty odd years ago when created a baronet, changed his name to Montagu. A few years ago he was raised to the peerage as Lord Swaythling. His younger brother, however, refused to change his name. His two sons are Herbert, Cabinet Minister, and Sir Stewart Samuel, the head of the famous banking house in Lombard street. Edwin Montagu, the new minister, was married a short time ago to the Hon. Beatrice Stanley, who became a convert to Judaism in order to save her fiancé from disinheritance.

Harry Blanchard, 7 Years of Age.
Lost His Life To-day in the Grand River.

After being in the water for the better part of an hour, the body of seven-year-old Harry Blanchard was recovered this afternoon by the fire department, five minutes after they arrived on the scene in answer to a call sent in by a trainman who had seen the boy near the lower railway bridge. Life was extinct in the body when it was found, although the pulmotor was conveyed to the scene immediately. Owing to the uneven nature of the ground surrounding the spot where the body lay, considerable difficulty was experienced by the firemen in reaching the scene. It was presumed that the little fellow was wading across the river, but was carried out of his depth. At the spot where his body was recovered the depth was 15 feet. His parents reside at 54 Oxford Street, his father being at present overseas with the 54th Battalion.

"OPEN COURT" ONCE A MONTH

Executive of Patriotic Fund wish to Meet any Dissatisfied Beneficiaries.

The following communication from Mr. H. T. Watt, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Patriotic fund, Brantford branch, tells of action taken by the local executive to meet criticisms or complaints which any beneficiary of the fund may have regarding the disposition of moneys. The letter follows:

Brantford, July 19, 1916.
To the Editor of the Courier,
Dear Sir—As you are perhaps aware, our committee are from time to time advised of rumors and criticisms in connection with the allowances which are being made to certain soldiers' wives and families.

You will understand that the committee are endeavoring to the best of their ability, to at all times do justice to each and every case upon the information available, but there may be mistakes made. The committee that it is unfair for persons interested, or otherwise, to circulate such rumors or criticisms. The proper course to follow, would be for all who have any complaints regarding the administration of the fund, to refer them direct to the committee. In order to meet this situation, the committee at its meeting last night, passed a resolution whereby on a certain day in each month, an "Open Court" will be held, to which will be invited any and all who wish information regarding the fund or who have any questions or cases which should, in their opinion, receive attention. The first of such meetings will likely be held sometime in September, and we shall appreciate it very much if you will give us the necessary publicity through the columns of your paper.

BUTCHERS' AND GROCERS' OUTING MUCH ENJOYED

Big Crowd journeyed to the Falls and Had Splendid Time.

BABY SHOW BIG FEATURE.

The Falls, American Side, Lunches and Sports made Varied Programme.

Under the most ideal of weather auspices, it was that the 15th annual grocers' and butchers' excursion took place yesterday to Niagara Falls, attended by larger numbers than probably ever before on any similar occasion. The party from Brantford would probably not be overestimated at 1500, while from Hamilton came an even larger number of that class of persons once designated by the illustrious Mrs. Partington as "execrations." No execrations were uttered yesterday by any one, however, the entire affair being a thorough success in every way.

Everything went smoothly. With the splendor and natural beauty of the Falls for a fitting background, with ideal weather prevailing, despite a menace of rain in the early hours of the morning, the event passed off with unqualified smoothness and regularity, the result being a day spent by some 4000 excursionists almost as pleasantly as could be done in this world of imperfections.

Train Made Fast Time.
At 8.25, city time, yesterday morning the special excursion train, with its freight of holiday-makers, pulled out of the station en route to the Falls, there being not an empty seat in the entire conveyance. The journey was made in remarkably good time, the party reaching Ravine Park just two hours after the departure from the city, and without the presence of any untoward occurrences, and the park was soon filled with the holiday-makers, eager for a glimpse at close range of the famous Falls, which were amply admired by all during the day.

Commencing shortly before noon, the sports program was proceeded with, the first number being a soft ball game, wherein Hamilton defeated the locals by a score of 11-4. The class of Brantford and Hamilton rinks in lawn bowling resulted in a win for Brantford.

Baby Show Winners.
The remainder of the programme was carried out immediately after the dinner hour, the baby show being one of the first and most important matters disposed of by the Judges, Controllers Morris and Robinson of Hamilton and Ald. Mellen of this city. To the tact and discrimination shown by the officials in the judging of the 29 babies placed on view, there is no doubt that 13 mothers will bear enthusiastic testimony, as to their offspring were awarded the palms of victory. The names of mothers of winning infants are:—
Mrs. Lillian, 226 King St., west.

Consolations—Mrs. Hayhurst, Hamilton; Mrs. Jarvis, Hamilton; Mrs. Lattimore, Hamilton; Mrs. Wallace, Hamilton; Mrs. Langley, Hamilton; Mrs. Ritchie, Brantford; Mrs. Manson, Hamilton; Mrs. Jackson, Brantford.

To Mrs. H. A. Clarke, of Dundas, aged—ahem; no matter—went the prize for the oldest lady on the grounds, while Mr. A. D. Barber of this city carried off the gentlemen's longevity tribute. The results of the races were rather more gratifying to Hamilton than to Brantford, but then the Ambitious City had three times the number of people at the Park. All sorts of contests were run off and the enjoyment taken by both runners and spectators was uproarious.

Good Prizes.
As in the past, the prizes offered in the various contests were almost entirely of merchandise donated by various merchants and manufacturers for that purpose. Also in accordance with the custom in the past, free supplies of tea and coffee were furnished by the committee in charge to all taking part in the excursion, while refreshments were also provided on the train. To the excellent system of treatment so scrupulously followed out by the members of the association, may in fact, be attributed in large measure to the thorough success achieved once more by the event, which has grown to be a memorable one for all. The committees in charge were as follows:—
Brantford—John Kew, F. S. Hartley, F. C. Hart, Geo. Bickell, W. J. Mellen, F. S. Blain, Secretary.
Hamilton—John Know, Chairman; J. Venator, Secretary; J. L. Brown, J. M. Semmens, R. Gardner, W. Smith.

Good Music Heard.
Under the leadership of Bandmaster E. D. J. Stares, a delightful program of music was rendered during the day by the band of the 91st Highlanders' regiment of Hamilton, the repertoire including selections of all natures, which were listened to by all with deep appreciation. Despite the multifarious attractions offered at the park itself, other fields of pleasure were sought during the day by large numbers of the holiday-makers, who journeyed to the American side of the Falls, some going on as far as Buffalo for a few hours. Wherever and however spent, there remains nevertheless not the least reminiscence as to the all-round and wholehearted success achieved by the excursion.

SERGEANTS' MESS OF 215TH HELD FIRST SESSION

Very Pleasant Time Spent Last Night and Excellent Program Provided.

CORP. BURKHOLDER HURT AT CAMP.

Thorough and unqualified success was the opening meeting of the sergeants' mess of the 215th Battalion, held last evening in the armories, with a large and enthusiastic attendance, including some ten officers of the Battalion. Expression of regret at being unable to attend was received from Lt.-Col. Cockshutt. An informal program was rendered by various members of the mess, the numbers including vocal solos by Sgt.-Major Salvaneschi, Sgt. Oldham, C.Q.M. Sgt. Matthews, C.S. M. Eccles, and a reading by C.Q.M.S. Taylor. The toast list comprised the usual toast to the King, and also to the officer commanding, and officers of the 125th, which was fittingly responded to by Major Snider; a toast to the mess, proposed by Major Snider, and replied to by Capt. Sweet, Capt. the Rev. S. E. McKegney also spoke briefly upon the subject of the sergeants' mess. The event proved a thorough success.

Corporal Burkholder, of the Paris Company of the 215th Battalion, who was one of the class who went this week to Camp Borden to attend a course in bayonet fighting and physical training, has met with injury, such as to incapacitate him from continuing the course. Such was the substance of a telegram received this morning from Lt. Watt, who is in charge of the party. No particulars concerning the injuries were given, but another non-commissioned officer will be sent to replace Corp. Burkholder.

Making a Flat World Round

When Columbus set out to reach India by sailing westward, he met with opposition and ridicule. He believed the earth to be round.

Wise men held that it was flat—that Columbus was man—and that he'd fall off somewhere if he departed from established beliefs.

The Business World is flat to some Men. Their profit-bearing shores of Opportunity stretch only so far as their grandfathers trod. Custom, superstition and apathy have belted the confines which they may not pass. For instance they believe the business year is a flat one—not an all-year round of trade, with East joining West, with Spring merging into Autumn—but just two distinct seasons, with sawed-off Edges gaping into space.

They confine their activities to a Spring trade and to a Fall trade. To them there is no intervening continent with stores of waiting wealth. Their world is flat. They have not explored the mid-year months of Summer trade, June, July and August are never-never land. Surely this conception of Summer as a "dull" season is as fallacious as the delusion that the earth was flat. People have just as much money in the hot weather and spend quite as freely as in Spring and Fall. Granted that they are not buying skates and snow shovels, they have an eye yet they are buying staple articles. Furthermore they have an eye on luxuries and comforts they are counting upon purchasing in the Fall.

The modern Columbus has discovered this Summer trade—this golden West lying between the known continents of old beliefs. Departing from established habit, many have made their energies and their Advertisements an all-year-round proposition.

Keeping up Advertising during the Summer months not only links your Spring and Fall, but produces rich harvests from the Summer months themselves.

TORONTO LOST SECOND GAME.

Near Riot As a Consequence—Other International Contests.

The motion picture men overlooked a golden opportunity at the Island Stadium yesterday when the Leafs and Newark Indians divided a double-header. A near mob scene was staged during the eighth inning of the second game, which Toronto lost by 6 to 0. Shocker registered his thirteenth victory in fifteen starts in the first half of the bill, and he had to fight for it, too. Smallwood battled him inch by inch in a pitching duel.

Enright, who was knocked out of the box earlier in the series, did a come back in the second game, and outpitched Fred Herbert. The Newark twirler held the Leafs to two hits up to the eighth inning, and after allowing one in that round he lost control and was derided. Enright was shaky from end to end of his game, and the wonder is that he didn't explode before he did.

The Leafs were beaten 4 to 0 when the local half of the eighth was commenced. McGuire batted for Herbert and singled. Truesdale drew a walk, and it appeared that Enright was finally on the skids. Smith put down a sickly little roller and Enright tried to get Truesdale at second base. There wasn't a chance for the play and the bases were full with nobody out. Healey was sent to the box for Enright. Murray stepped to bat and with the count "three and two," he cut a wicked liner along the left field foul line. Two runs scored and Smith reached third, Murray going to second. Umpire Handboe, who was behind the plate, ruled that the drive was foul.

When Handboe ruled that the ball was foul there was a near riot. Birmingham and Murray rushed at him and so did most of the other members of the Toronto team. The manager and Murray were ordered to the clubhouse.

Manning was sent to bat for Murray with the sacks loaded and "three and two" on him. The first pitch by Healey was called a strike. Krichell fled to left and Thompson was out at first to retire the side. Russell pitched the ninth for Toronto. Score by innings: First game—Newark . . . 000000000—0 Toronto . . . 20000000x—2 Second game—Toronto . . . 00000000—0 Newark . . . 130000202—6

MANY HISTORIC BATTLE CLASHES IN PICARDY

British Won Two Great Victories Near Scene of Present Fighting.

AGINCOURT AND ALSO CRECY.

Ancient French Province Produced Many Noted Names of Chivalry.

If historical associations inspire to brave deeds, the British forces in their offensive against the Germans along the Somme River should be hearkened to extraordinary acts of valor by the thought that they are fighting in Picardy, says a geo-graphic bulletin of the National Geographic Society.

This ancient province of France, now divided into four departments—the Somme, Oise, Pas-de-Calais, and Aisne—has two battlefields, whose very names quicken the pulse of Englishmen, for it was at Crecy that the Black Prince won his spurs, and Agincourt that Henry V. command-ing his yeomen with their cloth-yard bows, utterly overthrew the flower of French chivalry.

Picardy is a treasured name in ro-mantic literature and in French his-tory. It had a literature of its own in the twelfth century and its sol-diers were among the most valiant in France, being known as the Gascons of the North.

The province was a natural battle-ground for the French and English during the Hundred Years' War, for its shores extend along the North Sea and the English Channel, from the River Aa, above Calais, to a point below Dieppe, Picardy, north of Abbeville, one of the prin-cipal cities of Picardy, is Crecy, where, until late in the nineteenth century, there still stood the old windmill from which Edward III. of England in 1346 watched his be-lieged son, the first Prince of Wales, at that time only 16 years of age, triumph over Philip the Valois. On this occasion the English were out-numbered four to one, and they wrought terrible havoc among the enemy, the losses of the vanquished being variously estimated at from 10,000 to 30,000. One of those who fell in this fight was the chivalrous John, King of Bohemia, who, al-though blind, led a heroic charge for his French ally. Some historians trace the Prince of Wales' crest of three ostrich feathers and the motto "Dieu et mon droit" to the battle of the Black Prince adopting them from the fallen John in memory of the event.

Henry Fifth's Great Battle Less than 20 miles north-east of Crecy is Agincourt, where English archers, nearly 70 years later, after letting fly their clouds of arrows against the heavily armored nobles, attacked them with hatchets as they floundered helplessly in mud. Five thousand Frenchmen of noble birth, including their commander, d'Albret, constable of France, fell in this battle, while the estimate of English losses was astonishingly low, some chroniclers giving only 13 men and 100 foot soldiers.

Several towns of Picardy—Amiens, Soissons, and Beauvais—owe their names to the ancient tribes which inhabited this section, known as Belgica Secunda, when the Ro-mans maintained armed camps along the valley of the Somme. In the third century Christianity was introduced, and St. Quentin, from whom the im-portant town 20 miles east of Peronne gets its name, was martyred at that time.

Picardy was the heart of Merovingian France in the fifth century for Clovis named Soissons as his capital, while Charlemagne designated Noyon as his principal city, and the lesser Castellans in turn similarly honored Laon.

By the treaty of Arras in 1435 the royal towns of the Somme Valley were ceded to Burgundy, but 42 years later, after the death of Charles the Bold, Louis XI regained them. Dur-ing his brief era of peace the province thrived as a centre of the wool-ens industry. Flemish immigrants having introduced the art.

HYDROGETS POWER, LINKS UP TO-DAY

Government Brings Canadian Niagara Power Co. to Terms.

WILL PROVIDE 50,000 H.P.

Further Supply Up to the Amount Now Exported is Assured, Says Premier.

Toronto, July 20.—The Hydro-Electric Power Commission will not run short of power again for some time to come. Last night Hon. W. H. Hearst announced that arrangements had been made whereby the com-mission would secure at once from the Canadian Niagara Power Com-pany a supply of 12,500 horse power at $12 per horsepower, with a fur-ther supply up to 50,000 horsepower available from time to time as the commission requires it. Nor will the commission have to stop when it reaches the 50,000 mark. The Prime Minister intimated that when that was exhausted the way would then be open for the commission to call for a further supply up to the amount now being exported from Ontario.

As a result of lengthy conferences between the Cabinet and Sir Adam Beck and others, with the representa-tives of the Canadian Niagara Com-pany, an agreement was reached yesterday morning. An official announce-ment of the terms of the agreement was not issued by the Prime Minister until shortly before 6 o'clock. It was as follows: "Negotiations are proceeding satisfactorily to provide an adequate supply of power to meet all demands upon the Hydro-Electric Power Com-mission, and I am assured there need be no cause for further anxiety upon the part of the customers of the commission."

"The price has been agreed upon, namely, $12 per horsepower."

"The commission will contract at once, probably to-morrow, with the lines of the Canadian Niagara Power Company, when a block of Later, Hon. Mr. Hearst stated that the agreement would permit the Hydro-Electric Commission to call for further amounts of power up to 50,000 horse-power within the present year at the same rate as that being taken now—$12.

"When that amount is exhausted after the end of the year, will a further supply be available?" the Prime Minister was asked.

"There will be a supply available up to the amount now being exported from the province," he stated.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, who was with the Prime Minister, intimated that a further supply was as-sured through action that the Fed-eral Government would take, if nec-essary, in connection with the is-suing of licenses to export.

"When this 50,000 is used up there will be more available," he said emphatically.

The agreement to supply power was made possible by the deter-mined stand taken by the Ontario Gov-ernment in demanding and securing the support of the Federal Government. The Canadian Niagara Company fac-ing certain prohibition of export, came quickly to terms. The agreement represents concessions by both sides. The company, as a result of the recent conference, was ready to supply 22,000 horse-power and ul-timately 50,000, or one-half of its development, at $15 a horse-power. Since the present power rates to municipalities in the Niagara district are based upon the purchase of power at Niagara at $9 a horse-supply at $15 might have meant a serious revision upward of the rates of all municipalities in the whole inside of six months, when the system was used up, it would have meant an increase of, roughly, $2 a horse-power all round.

As it is, the municipalities may escape any advance in their rates. It is hoped that the increased consump-tion of power will enable the com-mission to set extra profits against the larger amount that must be paid for power. For the present the com-mission's added expenditure will be $37,500, but the current surplus is easily sufficient to meet this.

The connecting up of the Hydro lines with those of the Canadian Niagara Co. will take only a few hours. As was pointed out yesterday the commission some time ago, in expectation of receiving a supply from the company, built its lines to a point where linking up with a

INTRODUCTION OF HOME RULE BILL DELAYED

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, July 20.—(Montreal Ga-zette)—The Daily Chronicle's par-liamentary correspondent says:

"The signs are that the new Home Rule bill will not be introduced until Thursday. In Nationalist and Liberal circles, the delay in its intro-duction is deplored. Rumors are current that it may deviate from the terms of settlement, to which John Redmond and Sir Edward Carson gave their adherence. If that should prove to be so the government is asking for trouble."

"It is said that the Unionists are pressing for the inclusion of the word 'permanent' in the bill as ap-plied to the exclusion of the six coun-ties from the sphere of the Home Rule parliament. The word is quite superfluous, for it is common ground that the excluded areas will not come within the ambit of the Irish parlia-ment except by their own consent. Moreover, no act of parliament can bind or mortgage their future in-clusion. This superfluous word 'per-manent' would, therefore, wear the appearance of a deliberate challenge to the Nationalist members."

"If the bill simply carries out the agreement arrived at, and is pushed through with alacrity, the situation may yet be saved, but the outlook is not promising. A sinister feature is the recrudescence of the old implac-able Unionist spirit in so large a sec-tion of the English Conservative party. The temper bodies ill for the future. Were the Irish settlement to be wrecked by the reactionaries, the effect on American opinion would be profound, and our difficulties at home would be greatly magnified and intensified."

Wonderful PENGUINS, the SWIMMING Birds, That Walk UPRIGHT and DRILL Like SOLDIERS

A STUDY of that mysterious creature, the penguin, by Dr. Dr. Mawson has added much to the study by his recent observations and by most illuminating photographs, showing that this curious inhabitant of the Antarctic region is capable of maintaining social customs after the human fashion. Two facts stand out particularly in Dr. Levick's observations which relate to the Adelle family of penguins, distinguished from others by having a feathered bill. He refers to the custom of forming "creches" for the chicks when they reach a cer-tain age.

When the chicks are young they are easily fed by one parent at a time, the father and mother alternating in caring for the nest and in going down to the sea to fill the crop with a sup-ple of crustaceans. But as chicks grow bigger they require more food and turnabout method of collecting will not do.

So parents "pool" their chicks, and form "creches" which are in charge of a few old birds inclined to ped-a-gogical. The young are educated and protected from the intrusive Skua, one they do, an admirable illustration of what is meant by 'adaptation to en-vironment.' As to their precise an-cstry we have no certain knowledge. There can be no room for doubt, how-ever, but that they are the descend-ants of birds which possessed the long, since passed from them, for the wing has become transformed into a pad-dle, to serve as an organ of propul-sion under water.

"The evidence of its earlier func-tion as an organ of flight is to be found partly in the skeleton and mus-culature of the adult, and partly in the study of the embryo. When work-ing out the later embryonic stages of the Adelle penguin, brought back by the later Discovery expedition, I was able to show that the wing at first agrees with that of the ordinary flying birds. The bones of this arm, forearm and hand have the same cylindrical shape; the thumb is quite distinct; there are separate wrist bones, and the hand could be flexed upon the forearm. But as develop-ment proceeds the whole skeleton be-comes curiously flattened; the thumb disappears, as also do the wrist bones, save only that at what we may call the back of the wrist, which becomes excessively developed. As a result of these changes the hand can no longer of the whole tribe affords instances among the mammals. "But the turtles and the penguins alone use these 'flippers,' or 'paddies,' as organs of propulsion. With the others they serve as balancing or-ans, or for steering and checking movements of the whole body. In this they resemble the fins of fishes, which, save in certain excep-tional species, are never used to prop-el the body, as is commonly sup-posed. This is done by rapid undu-lating movements of the whole body, and especially of the tail end."

"Other than penguins, there are only one or two types of birds which, having to seek their food under wa-ter, use the wings to propel the body. The extinct great auk, and its surviv-ing relations, the gullmots and raz-or-bill, adopt this method. The grebes and divers and the cormorants use the feet. So also did that giant diver, Hesperornis, which lived in cre-taceous times. Hesperornis, like the great auk and the penguins, was flightless. And it must have been so for countless ages before its ex-tinction, inasmuch as the wing had so far degenerated in the fossil re-mains which have been found that no more than the upper arm-bone re-mained. The legs as a consequence were enormously developed."

"That birds and reptiles are near-ly alike in their mode of locomotion in skin there can be no doubt. Modern birds display indubitable proofs of this. Hesperornis and the still older archaeopteryx displayed yet other proofs in the fact that the jaws bore teeth. So far not even vestiges of these have been met with in penguins. The statement that such vestiges have been found in parrots is not true."

Penguins, Which Differ from All Other Living Birds in Having "Wings" That Have Become Paddles to Serve Them in the Water.

of the most rapacious of marine birds, until they can look out for themselves. Another exhibition of sociality was that they will prove very start-ling in a sort of drilling for which the development of the early stages of penguins assembled in bands thou-sands strong, and went through re-markably orderly movements. Like sol-diers at drill, the reason for this pro-cedure has been discovered.

"From the evolutionist's point of view the penguins, of which there are now dragons, which we now dig up as fossils, and the modern turtles serve wonderful bird has not been confined mainly to species are a peculiarly inter-esting group of birds, affording, as

An Oddity in COLOURS

A NEW process of portraits in colors is now announced, which, it is claimed, gives remarkably perfect results, and is simple enough for practical commercial purposes, although not suited for amateur work. This process is stated to be a modification of the Ives three-color process, except that only two colors are used, red and green.

TREES as LIGHT

THE results of 15 years' experi-ence in forests, noting the ef-fect of lightning on different trees, lately published in the Revue des Eaux et Forêts, tends to confirm the popular tradition that all trees are likely conductors of lightning. While some trees are more liable to be struck than others, none can be re-garded as a safe retreat in a thun-der-storm.

How a MAN'S EYE and Now HELD SURGICAL

THE wounded soldier in the greatest of wars has the benefit of many wonderful inventions. Science has perfected an eye that not only can see the bullet or fragment in the body, but can also fix its exact location; which is an improvement on the formerly accepted X-ray revelation, marvellous as it was. And where this newly efficient eye cannot see the telephone comes into play. Think of a bullet telephoning its location to the inquiring surgeon! But that is just what is being done. A London surgeon recently made a quick and simple demonstration with a potato serving as a subject, and our illustration shows the method. In the old way an X-ray photo-graph would be taken of a foreign substance in a man's body, but, as in the case of a bullet or a fragment of shell, it was not sufficient to localize it. For surgical purposes, inasmuch as space has three dimensions, and a single shadow picture gives no cer-tain knowledge of the depth to which the foreign body has penetrated, or its position in relation to other struc-tures. How a MAGICAL EYE and EAR Are Now HELPING SURGICAL Science

THE wounded soldier in the greatest of wars has the benefit of many wonderful inventions. Science has perfected an eye that not only can see the bullet or fragment in the body, but can also fix its exact location; which is an improvement on the formerly accepted X-ray revelation, marvelous as it was.
And where this newly efficient eye cannot see the telephone comes into play. Think of a bullet telephoning its location to the inquiring surgeon! But that is just what is being done. A London surgeon recently made a quick and simple demonstration with a potato serving as a subject, and our illustration shows the method.
In the old way an X-ray photograph would be taken of a foreign substance in a man's body, but, as in the case of a bullet or a fragment of shell, it was not sufficient to localize it for surgical purposes, inasmuch as space has three dimensions, and a single shadow picture gives no certain knowledge of the depth to which the foreign body has penetrated, or its position in relation to other structures. But the new method meets all of these points.
When the patient is in the X-ray couch the negative is placed in position above the part to be radiographed, and on the negative is placed a small apparatus consisting of two metal cylinders and a steel rod, all of known length. A radiograph is then taken with the bulb from which the X-rays emanate slightly out of centre; then, without moving the patient or the negative, the bulb is shifted about ten centimetres in the opposite side, and another exposure is made on the same negative.
When the negative has been developed, all the bodies between the X-ray bulb and the plate have thrown double shadows. By drawing lines from the dark edges of the shadows of the cylinder until they intersect each other, two measuring points are set up.
The pieces of shrapnel in the limb have also cast double shadows, and by drawing lines from these to the measuring points an intersecting point will be obtained, and directly beneath this point the foreign body will be found. By a further calculation the exact depth can be ascertained. The illustration is indicated in the diagram given herewith, which shows also the process of operation of this wonderful contrivance.
It is Sir James Davidson, consulting surgeon of the Roentgen rays department of Charing Cross Hospital, who describes the telephone in surgery, which he has tried with the greatest success. His apparatus consists of a special instrument, with double receivers.

One end of the telephone wire is attached to a small piece of platinum, which is placed upon any part of the patient's skin near where the wound is supposed to be. This platinum is held in position by plaster or a bandage, the other end of the telephone wire being in the form of a distended thread of silver, which is used because it can be readily attached to any of the surgeon's instruments—a knife, a probe, needle or pair of forceps.
The only precaution necessary is that the attachment of the terminal wire of the instrument should be firm.
If the surgeon then attaches the telephone receiver to his ear and begins to use his instrument upon the tissues he will hear with great distinctness what is known as a microphone rattle, the instant the instrument touches any metal embedded in the patient's tissues.
The value of this apparatus to surgeons on the battlefield is obvious, but Sir James points out that for those who wish to test the efficacy of this latest scientific discovery, a is not necessary to have a man from the trenches with a bullet or shrapnel lodged in him.

The Carrier can be moved the whole length of the couch along rails at right angles to the short rails supporting the X-ray box.

To demonstrate the value of location of the patient in which the metal forelgn body is lodged, and a common nail, well embedded in the substance of the potato, may represent a fragment of shell or shrapnel.

The potato is placed upon a piece of platinum foil, moistened in the usual way, on a table. The telephone is then connected up in the manner which has been described, both to the platinum foil and also to the knife, which is steel throughout. The potato is incised with the knife, and the moment the blade touches the nail a grating sound is heard, and is repeated whenever the contact of the knife with the nail is repeated.
Talking of bullet wounds, Sir James refers to the popular fallacy that if a bullet, a piece of shrapnel or the smallest gun-shot is lodged in the human body, it is bound to do a great deal of harm to the constitution. In fact, he says, there seems to be an impression abroad among soldiers that their chance of employment is diminished if they are known to have a bullet embedded somewhere in their bodies.
After referring to the fact that the tendency of army surgeons today is to obtain as much as possible from those extensive surgical operations which, in former days, sometimes left a patient with a far larger and more serious wound than any modern bullet could produce, he says that experience has shown that the human body has a remarkable tolerance of foreign bodies, such as bullets, and that the sooner the popular fallacy referred to is removed the better.
In other words, a man with a bullet embedded in his flesh may be quite as strong and healthy as any other man.

How Long Can a FLEA Live?

WHAT is the life span of a flea? It doesn't seem to be a question to worry about particularly. Most of us would die happy were it never answered. And yet there are scores of scientific men in every quarter of the world who are working day and night upon it.
These are the men who have discovered that this pestiferous little insect is one of the chief agents in spreading the bubonic plague. It derives the germs of the dreadful disease from rats, which it infests, and, when taking a meal out of a human being, imparts them to him.
It is pretty well established, in fact, that if there were no fleas there would soon be no bubonic plague, and thousands of deaths would thus be obviated every year.
As every effort to exterminate the flea has failed, the question as to how long it lives is one of the very first importance, from the sanitary and medical standpoint. Which explains the earnestness with which an answer is being sought.
Observations to this date have yielded rather unsatisfactory results. It is pretty well established that the British rat flea, the chief offender in the matter of bubonic plague, passes through its developmental cycle in from two to three weeks, although this period may be shortened to ten days by warm weather.
There are very many exceptions to this rule, however. Gauxier and Raynaud kept a flea alive on human blood for 90 days. They spent another year in an ice chamber without food, and were amazed to find that it lived 41 days.
Dr. Nicoll finds that a rat flea will live apart from its host about seven days on an average, although this period is lengthened by low temperature and light. If the environment of the flea is very moist, or very dry, it dies in less than a week.
It will be seen that the problem is further complicated by the fact that pupae and larvae cling very tenaciously to life. In infected material, such as grain and sawdust, they often live for an entire year.

The Startling Increase of SUICIDE

REMARKABLE statistics have been gathered as to the number of suicides in American cities and their relation to the number of business failures in the same period. During the last 25 years the number of suicides has increased in a steady ratio, no single year falling below the record of its previous year.
In 1891, for instance, in 100 American cities with a combined population of 25,000,000, there were 127 suicides, or a rate of 13.5 per hundred thousand of population. Ten years later, while the population had increased 50 per cent, the total number of suicides was 255, or a rate of 16.4 per hundred thousand.
Twenty years later, in 1911, there were 460 suicides in a population of about 23,000,000, indicating that the rate had increased to 12.5 per hundred thousand. Although the number of business failures correspond in a general way to the number of suicides, the relation is by no means direct.
A year in which there were a great many business failures usually finds the proportion of suicides to the population above the normal. In 1881 the rate of business failures in the United States for every thousand business concerns was 10.7, while the rate of suicides was 13.5. During the years 1896-7 the proportion of business failures increased to 12 per thousand, and the proportion of suicides jumped, in the same period, to 15.8.
The greatest number of business failures in the last 25 years occurred in 1908, when the proportion was 10.8, in which year the proportion of suicides per hundred thousand was 21.8, which was the highest in the same quarter of a century.

WHAT THE DEAR GOOD GUYS HAVE DONE FOR POLAND

Dr. Karl Helfferich Eulogizes German Rule There, Forgetting Belgium.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Berlin, July 20, via wireless to Sayville—Warm commendation of the work done in Russian Poland by the Germans during the period of occupation, was given by Dr. Karl Helfferich, the secretary of the Interior and imperial vice-chancellor, yesterday on his return from a visit to that country.

Dr. Helfferich, who recounted the impressions of his visit to a member of the Overseas News Agency staff, contrasted the condition of the country under Russian rule with the harvests. The Germans first built roads through the devastated territory and supplied cattle and seeds to the inhabitants, with the result that now one frequently can see herds of a hundred or more cattle, while fields of standing grain were on all sides. He cited an instance of aid given the inhabitants by the Germans, the farmers of one district left the horses of two regiments for field work on orders given by General Ludendorff.

Dr. Helfferich said he found schools everywhere, even at places where none were maintained when the Russians ruled the country. The University of Warsaw, where lectures were given in the Polish language to a large number of students. All nationalities, Dr. Helfferich said, were given equal recognition with the white Russians and Lithuanians. Terrible suffering existed among the Jews when the Germans arrived, the vice-chancellor declared, and in most towns they had been excluded from the schools by the Russians. The Germans, he added, introduced self-government in the country for the first time, and admitted Jewish representatives to the governmental bodies.

Dr. Helfferich pointed to what he characterized as absolute neglect of hygiene by the Russians, instancing the conditions at Lodz, where there were vermin, no sanitary conveniences, no sewerage system, and no water works, although the city was one of 500,000 inhabitants. The Germans, on the other hand, had improved the population instructions regarding the value of hygienic and sanitary measures, and with the assistance of the clergy, has established isolation barracks for contagious diseases, especially for cases of spotted typhoid, which disease was now decreasing in frequency of appearance.

German physicians, who had died as a result of these epidemics, did not lose their lives in vain, Dr. Helfferich declared. Another disease, cholera, has been completely stamped out. Other work done by the Germans consisted in the institution of self-governing counties and towns, the opening of town councils and the encouragement of the publication of a large number of newspapers in the Polish language, while the Russian government a short time before had suppressed the last remaining newspaper in that language.

"Thus I find everywhere in the distressed country," concluded Dr. Helfferich, "the fruits of German energy and administrative talent, and I am glad to see that the Germans did work equal to the successes of their armies by establishing order, safety and peace behind the front and by alleviating the miseries of war to the population."

MESSENGER OF CARRANZA PAYS VISIT TO HAVANA

German in Mexico Army Also There, and May go to Berlin.

Havana, July 20.—Antonio Madero, a high official in the Mexican finance department, arrived in Havana yesterday. He is declared to be acting as the emissary of General Carranza in a plan to effect an agreement between the Latin-American nations to compel foreign capitalists on investing their money in Latin-American country to renounce the protection of their home government and make declaration that they will submit to the laws of the country interested.

C. Heller, a German, who holds a commission in the Mexican army in Mexico, also arrived in Havana yesterday. He is said to be going as an emissary of Gen. Carranza to Berlin.

GERMAN OPINION OF THE IRISH

The Providence Journal, having pointed out how the German propaganda has failed as regards Ireland, reminds its readers of the true feelings of the Germans for the Irish and quotes the following extract from the Conversations-Lexikon of Meyer, the great German encyclopedia:

"The character of the genuine Irish is a singular mixture of opposite traits; many of them no doubt developed by their unfortunate history. The main feature of the Irish is inconsistency and thoughtlessness, though they possess such characters as are compatible with these vices. The Irishman lacks reasoning power, perseverance, and self-control. He possesses a poetical faculty and a taste for art, music and rhetoric. He is keen for knowledge, cunning, clever and witty, although for the sake of deception he often pretends to be stupid and naive. But with all his intellectual powers he lacks profundity. Superficial in his actions and thoughts, untrustworthy as a worker, lacking perseverance, and feeble, he is not equal to the part of any great task in life, and is incapable of attaining results commensurate with his spasmodic activity. Those who are not true Irishmen, but who are not true Irishmen, the proverb seems true that when an Irishman is stabbed, another Irishman is always found to drive the dagger in. Treason has always been a prominent feature in all Irish risings. Conscientiousness is conspicuously lacking in the Irishman, and he is not distinguished for his love of truth. He is as little as he is inclined to quarrels and violence, he is fond, too, of amusement. Hospitable and extravagant, he forgets to provide for the future. Though he can put up with death when necessary, and is quite contented if he only has enough potatoes to eke out his life."

It is respectfully suggested by the Journal that this literary gem from the Conversations-Lexikon be read in full at the next meeting of the professional German-Irish agitators, if such a foolish and superfluous gathering should unwisely be held.
