President Wilson's Story.

Here is a yarn the American President is fond of spinning:
"A friend of mine was in Canada with a fishing party, and one member of the party was imprudent enough to sample some whiskey that was called 'Squirrel' whiskey, because it came from a tree. This gentleman inhaled too much of the dangerous liquid, and the consequence was that when he went to the station with the rest of the company he took a train bound south instead of a train bound north. Wishing to recover him, his companions telegraphed the conductor of the south-bound train.
"Send short man Johnson back for the north-bound train. He is intoxicated."
Presently they got a reply from the conductor.
"Further particulars needed. There are thirteen men on the train who don't know either their name or their destination!"

Is Your Home Safe?

The fire record for 1915 shows that of 1,545 fires reported, 676 were in the homes of our people. The great majority of these damaging house fires occur at night, when the lives of the occupants are endangered.
From the 676 homes the greater portion of the families were turned out at night, in wintry weather. In these fires 141 lives were lost.
The chief causes of these home fires are: Carelessness in allowing defective chimneys to exist; carelessness in the overheating of stoves and furnaces; carelessness in many other ways.
Before winter weather sets in, the householder should see that the heating equipment is fire safe; that there are no cracks in the chimney to allow sparks to enter the attic; that furnace pipes are thoroughly clean and at safe distance from woodwork; that stove ranges and stoves are in safe condition and all surrounding woodwork protected, and that lamps and lanterns are in good condition.
Carelessness with matches caused 69 fires last year; over heated stoves and furnaces, 51; defective and over heated chimneys, pipes, etc., 62; electrical defects, 55. These causes are all easily avoided and should be guarded against in future.
Homes should be made reasonably fire-safe by taking the simplest precautions. Safety first is essential in the homes as at work.

Changed Words.

The English language presents a large number of words that have been completely changed in their significance since they first came into use. In some cases their meaning has been exactly reversed. A conspicuous example of this is the word 'let,' which Shakespeare uses several times with the meaning 'to hinder.' Hamlet exclaimed, 'I'll make a ghost of him that lets me,' of course 'him that stops me.'
The word is used in the same sense in the Bible, as in II Thessalonians II—'He who now lets will let until he be taken out of the way.'
'Ravel' and 'unravel' mean exactly the same thing, although at one time to unravel probably meant to reduce confusion to order. Compare the words 'valuable' and 'invaluable' and 'loose' and 'unloose.'
As used frequently in the Bible 'prevent' instead of meaning 'to hinder' means 'to precede' or 'to go before,' which is, of course, its etymological meaning.
In the 'see small hours' a man was found by a policeman under a water-spout, the water pouring down his neck. When partly lifted up out of his uncomfortable position he said: 'Don't try to save me, cops!—I can swim—I'll save the women and the children—hic.'

Our Modern Schools.

Observer stood on a street corner for a moment's conversation with a business man when two school children passed along. One of them carried a load of books quite out of proportion to her size.

"Look here," said the business man, "I want to show you something. From his pocket he drew a letter and handed it to Observer. Just read it carefully," he said. "Note the spelling particularly." Observer did so. The letter was typewritten and was a marvel of spelling. Some ordinary simple words were not spelled correctly.

"That letter," said the business man, "was typed by a youth in my office. His education is completed. He is now at Yale to induce profanity in the commercial world. He is a product of our schools. His name is legion. That little girl's load of books reminded me of him. Do you know what I think? Our school system is at fault. It crowds too many studies into the grades for children up to 12 or 14 years and the pupils are not well enough grounded in the essentials when they leave school. Our whole theory is wrong. We ought to turn out our young people who can read, spell, write correctly, and who have a good knowledge of geography and such history as is of practical use in every day life.

They tell us that we need secondary schools of practical character to give vocational training and I don't dispute it; but what we need most today is a more thorough study in the essentials for the great majority of children who will never take a course in college, or who, if they did, need a preceding thoroughness in essential subjects just the same. Every boy and man is growing and the inefficiency of the young people who come to him. We have carried the idea of a broad training too far and tried it on the children when they were too young. If you make a boy master of the language he is to speak and write, and give him enough of other essential subjects to ensure accuracy, when he comes to apply them he is in a position to get all else he needs at night school or through a course of study such as an apprentice has to take. I'll bet there isn't a merchant of your acquaintance who won't say Amen."

For Baby's Tender Skin.

A child's skin is tender as well as beautiful and eczema may be caused by chafing of clothing, the use of poor soap, exposure to cold or sudden change of temperature. Probably no treatment for eczema has ever proven so successful as Dr. Chase's Ointment, and this applies particularly to baby eczema. This ointment is delightfully soothing, stops the itching and consequently prevents scratching. Gradually the sores are healed and the skin becomes soft and velvety.

Marriages in Peculiar Situations.

Not long ago a French pion pion was wedded to the lady of his choice on the battle-field. The affair caused something of a sensation, but many marriages have been solemnized in equally queer places in the past.

The idea of being wedded among lions would not appeal to most brides and bridegrooms, but not long ago the proprietor of a wild beast show in New York offered a prize of $500 to any young couple who consented to be wedded in a lion's cage.

The offer was accepted by a plucky young girl and her lover, and the ceremony passed off without any mishap, although the lions were much excited at the unwonted intrusion of strangers into their den and emitted fearful roars during the terrible ordeal.

A few years ago Prof. Earnest G. Brailford, the aeronaut, suggested to his wife that they should have their nuptials tied in a balloon. The bride proving agreeable, a balloon was prepared and they were married in a cage while their friends stood around. Then the cord which held the balloon captive was cut and, amid showers of rice, the happy pair descended into the air and started on their unique honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Westover, of Manchester, Eng., who have climbed more difficult mountains than any other married couple in the world, were actually married 'in the clouds.'

Having obtained the consent of her parents, the bride set out with her bridegroom, a cleagymn and a few mountaineering friends to climb Mount Blancy. When they had ascended several thousand feet, amidst the solemn grandeur, they were made husband and wife.

Wintering Idle Horses.

Below are given some results obtained at the Experimental Station, Cap Rouge, Que., in the cheap wintering of idle horses. The methods followed and the feed used were such as to make the plan applicable to all parts of the Dominion.

More horses are required—Help is scarce, high priced, and oftentimes unreliable, so that larger implements and more working stock have to be employed. It is not always possible to employ them at a reasonable price. The spring while it is often hard to let a recent figure for the same animals in the autumn. It would thus seem advisable when the good freezes lay on, a winter, for the winter, all horses which are not absolutely required to feed them as cheaply as possible without impairing their future usefulness.

A cheap winter ration.—To gather data upon this subject, an experiment was started at the Cap Rouge Station in 1911 and has been continued during the consecutive winters, with minor and geldings, some nervous, others quiet, aged five to eighteen years. It has been found that they fed well on a easily ration of one pound carrots or swedes for each one hundred pounds of their weight. Not only did they gain an average of twenty pounds during the five months of the test, but they showed the following season that they had lost no vitality or energy.

Changes must be gradual.—The rule generally followed was to gradually cut down the feed from November 1 until November 15 when the animals under test were placed in box stalls. They never went out during the winter, with the exception of an occasional drive of a mile or so. On April 15th, each jib were given to them and a small quantity of concentrates was allowed until May 1st they could be put under harness ten hours a day and were on full feed. These are important points not to be forgotten: to lower and raise the ration little by little, and to leave the horse practically idle.

Details essential to success.—If horses, due to a hard season's work are in low condition, they should be brought to the stable gradually. Some being ready for the winter, and being exercised should be allowed during that period to prevent stock. Another good thing to give a purgative so as to clean out the system before the long rest. One should also remember that some animals are more restless than others and a dissipate more energy, which means that more food will be required, so that the above mentioned quantities should be increased or decreased slightly according to circumstances.

Notes on different roughages.—Mixed hay for this purpose can be of any grain or weed which horses will eat, must not be muddy or musty and should not be worth more than half of timothy. Roots may be carrots, mangels or swedes, though the first are always liked, and the two latter are always refused at first, which requires skill on the part of the feeder to have enough eaten. If roots are not given, bran should form part of the ration, as animals at rest will soon get constive and will not thrive very well on dry roughages alone. Out straw should be used, as it is more palatable than other sorts.

How to feed.—It would probably be well to chaff at least half the hay and straw but as the idea is to lower expenses, there seems no doubt that the cost of cutting these roughages would be greater than that of the extra feed necessary to supply the extra hay used in masticating them. The hay used in most of the time for the experiments, and it seems better to give them thus, though it is not absolutely necessary, as long as they are not of such sizes as to be swallowed whole, when there may be danger of choking.

When to feed.—It was noticed at Cap Rouge that the legs of horses kept in box stalls and fed as previously described, did not stock up. If there is no box stall, it is advisable to turn the animals out every day, when the weather permits, so that they may take some exercise. In this case, it is probable that some more feed will be needed to make up for the lost energy and heat. As to the number of times to feed, it seems that twice a day is sufficient and that about the same quantity can be given both morning and evening.

The Winnipeg Telegram describes the experience of the first skater of the season in the neighborhood, who enjoyed himself on the Assiniboine River a whole afternoon the other day. The skater circled round and round the cracking ice, which was so thin in places that the water spouted over his rapidly moving feet. The incident is an indication that the drowning season for venturesome skaters is about to begin. Every winter it claims its victims early.

'I'm in favor of peace at any price.' 'Yes,' replied the pessimist; 'but suppose you wake up some morning and find you haven't got the price?'

Road Testing.

Testing a road before it is laid seems to be rather a British than a scientific, and yet the difficulty has been solved in the Road Board Laboratory. The material to be tested is laid down on a concrete foundation and over it a concrete road machine consisting of a frame with eight wheels each 39 in. in diameter and having a 3 in. tyre width. Each is driven by its own motor and is usually loaded up to 4900 per inch of tyre width. The tested surface can be either wet or dry, and can be kept at any desired temperature. The results show the maximum of wear and tear, for materials which have passed the test invariably stand up and last better than the laboratory figures would indicate.

The Whitehaven coal mine, in which a terrible disaster occurred six years ago, runs out under the Irish Sea for close upon three miles, and Workington, a near neighbor of Whitehaven, used to have submarine galleries, but one day the sea broke through and drowned all the unfortunate miners who were in the workings.

Why not our own Body Machine?

We study and admire the machinery invented by man, and too often overlook and neglect that most marvellous machine—the human body.

To understand and take care of the heart, lungs and liver; the arteries and veins, the skin, the teeth, the eyes and all the intricate machinery of the body, is no small task.

But, unlike any other machine, the body replaces its own wear and waste, and, consequently, the most attention required is that which has to do with the organs of digestion and excretion.

So long as proper food is supplied for nourishment and the liver, kidneys and bowels are regular in their work of eliminating poisonous waste matter from the system, the great majority of human ills are avoided.

In this connection Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are appreciated on account of their promptness and efficiency in arousing the action of these filtering and excretory organs, and thereby removing such disorders as liver complaint, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, kidney disease and backache. With these organs in healthful action there is no such thing as Bright's disease, hardening of the arteries and rheumatism.

Editorial Brevities.

A Lynx, Mass. Judge ordered a ten-year-old boy who had the stone-throwing habit taken to a secluded gravel pit and made throw one thousand stones. This mild punishment for misconduct which deprived one man of the sight of an eye, caused a bad scalp wound on a little girl's head and worried and annoyed many other persons, is expected to produce a cure. An old-time judge might have stood the lad in the gravel pit and ordered a thousand boys to throw stones at him.

An eighty-four days' journey from Dordrecht, Holland, to Tampico, Mexico, in a 60-foot tug taught the nine men who made it that the only food procurable, shark, was at least life-sustaining. But for catches of this hated and despised fish, they must have perished of starvation. Does not the experience of these men contain a suggestion for hotel proprietors and boarding house keepers at seaside resorts? It would be far wiser to have the bachelors eat the sharks than the sharks eat the bachelors.

Canada's new Minister of Militia, Hon. A. E. Kemp, M. P. for Toronto-East, a manufacturer, a past president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, an active worker in many organizations and societies, in industrial, social and philanthropic, is one of Canada's successful business men, as well as one of the prominent members of the House of Commons. His promotion from the forecastle position is a reward alike for his services as chairman of the War Purchasing Commission and for his party work. The Militia department management of Mr. Kemp will not be as spectacular as that of Sir Sam Hughes but his business standing and his success in many enterprises justify confidence that it will be efficient. Mr. Kemp's acceptance of office will make necessary a by-election in East Toronto, but his majority of 4,801 in 1911 indicates a pretty safe constituency even if the opposition decides to contest the seat.

The Temperance Alliance Meets.

The attendance at the meeting of the Kings County Temperance Alliance, which was held at Berwick on Nov. 24th, was small, owing to the rush of work following the frosty weather, but, in point of interest, the session proved to be one of the best ever held.

The report of the secretary showed that a considerable amount of work of various kinds had been done. The receipts, including collections at public meetings, donations, subscriptions and pulpit supplies, amounted to $491.51, and the expenditures for literature, travelling expenses, including also $38 collected for Rev. H. R. Grant's allowance, were $174.14.

The discussion of the report revealed a deep interest among the members in temperance and moral reform, and substantial evidence was given of their determination to support the special work.

The following recommendations of the Executive, which were unanimously adopted, will indicate the scope and purpose of the concluding deliberations:

1. That a representative be appointed for each district to oversee the canvassing for subscriptions to Alliance work.
2. That the churches of the various denominations be requested to hold at least one union meeting quarterly, for the consideration of the application of the principles of Christianity to social problems.
3. That a letter of sympathy be sent to Mrs. K. M. Beckwith, in view of the continued illness of her husband. F. H. BRALIS, Secy.

The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

W. M. BLACK, Clerk and Treasurer, Wolfville, Nov. 27th, 1916.

One Dollar.

One dollar is one hundred cents, but the purchasing power of one dollar determines its real market value. For instance, suppose a man purchased a bushel of wheat before the war. He would pay a dollar. If he purchased a similar quantity of wheat today, however, he would pay just twice as much. That is to say, his dollar will buy only half as much today as it would before the war; or in other words, the dollar which was worth one hundred cents in 1914 is worth only fifty cents now. The high prices today do not mean that the merchants are getting twice as much for their goods as they did before, but that they are getting exactly the same remuneration in dollars which are worth only half as much as they were a few years ago.

Leaving aside complicated questions of international exchange and market manipulations, this deterioration of money value is directly traceable to exorbitant demand and shortage of supply in some lines. Steel and coal, foodstuffs and the finished product, munitions, are in demand by the warring nations, and because they must have these things when needed without delay, these nations are willing to pay almost any price. On the other hand, while this increased demand is coming in, the producers of these articles find themselves with fewer laborers than ever before. As a natural consequence the cost of labor in some lines increases and the value of the dollar goes down.

The unfortunate part of this is that the dollar value tends to seek a common level. If the dollar will purchase less coal than before, it will also purchase less perfume, even though perfume may not be directly affected by the increased demand mentioned above. The result is that the man whose income came down to only a fraction of its former value. If he can bring up his income to somewhere near its former size by increasing the price of his product, he will do so and no one can blame him.

So the country comes face to face with the high cost of living. The immense prices which pertain to practically all commodities on the market tend to produce a false idea of the situation altogether. We are bound to think of money as still retaining its pre-war value. If we pay a producer $12 for coal, we are inclined to figure that he is getting four or five dollars more than we used to pay, whereas that $12, in reality, is worth no more to him than the seven or eight he got formerly. The exports of Canada may be much greater on paper this year than two years ago, but considering the depreciated value of the dollar, this increase does not look so large. The United States may congratulate itself upon having an immense trade, but in terms of money value of 1914 that tradeshrinks appreciably. Whether the dollar will come down to its former standard again after the war is a question, but just at present its small purchasing power is a continual source of worry to the ordinary man. Yet no one can be blamed for this condition of affairs. It is a natural result of the world's events of our day.

Back to the Maritimes.

The Boston Monitor, in an interesting article on the development of Nova Scotia, has the following:

The industrial possibilities, as well as the tourist attractions of Nova Scotia, in recent years, or since the tide of immigration toward western Canada set in. Some very informing and entertaining books have appeared dealing with Nova Scotian possibilities. Visitors to whom the Nova Scotian landscape has been a revelation, and the Nova Scotian highway a disappointment, have contributed their share to the general discussion. All appear to be in general agreement on one principal point, namely, that the Nova Scotians do not realize what they have to offer the rest of the world, or if they do, are short of understanding as to how to offer it. One very clever book with a London imprint points out that Nova Scotia is a "passed by" province, which is literally true. It has been "passed by" for years. The immigrant looking for a home, or the capitalist looking for investment, on arriving at Halifax has usually boarded a train for Quebec or Ontario or Manitoba or Saskatchewan or Alberta or British Columbia, without taking the time or making the effort to look about him in one of the garden spots of the world, Nova Scotia.

It is pleasant to read that "development of the province of Nova Scotia, agriculturally, industrially, socially, and as a stockraising country is an aim of Canadian government officials." It surely should be, and promise of a successful outcome of the movement is made brighter than it would otherwise be by the plan to have the development schemes carried on in a co-operation with the provincial authorities. The general manager of the province's excellent railway system simply reiterates what has often been put down in writing when he says that the resources of Nova Scotia have hardly been touched. He would be within conservative bounds were he to say that the resources of the peninsula have never been fully understood abroad or at home.

Everything claimed for the beauty, climate, fertility and opportunity for industry offered by Nova Scotia to the desirable immigrant will be admitted offhand by those who have seen the country. The one thing need-

Wolfville High School.

The annual public exercises of the Wolfville High School took place in the Opera House on Thursday evening, November 23rd. After 7:30 o'clock all seats were taken, so that many persons, anxious to enjoy the exercises, were compelled to stand.
The program for the evening was commenced by a chorus of sixty school pupils who sang 'O Canada' and a new patriotic song called 'Sons of Canada.' Next came a Flag Drill by twenty-four little girls all garbed in white. As the various movements culminated in some particularly pleasing evolution and figure, the audience manifested its delight by storms of applause. This drill was prepared by Miss West assisted by Miss Gallagher.
The famous 'We'ch war hymn 'Men of Harlech' was then sung by the chorus of sixty, after which Principal Ford reviewed the High School year's work, giving interesting statistics in regard to the school. He pointed out the gratifying record that eighty five per cent of the High School students received the certificates for which they wrote.
An 'honor roll' of the names of High School students who had enlisted was read. There were fourteen; of whom two had given in their lives, two had been wounded and one was at prisoner in Germany.
After commenting on the value of winning a certificate because it is a species of conquering, Principal Ford presented the certificates to the successful students, to whom he happily applied the epithet, 'Young Conquerors.'
After the presentation, Miss Margaret Murray very pleasingly rendered a vocal solo.
THE PRIZE LIST.
A prize of $5.00 to be awarded the pupil of the school who makes the highest standing at the Provincial examinations. This was won by Miss Margaret Letitia Ford, of grade IX. The donor was George Wallace, Esq.
Grade XI.
Acadia College scholarship, value $24.00, won by Miss Pauline Parry. Presented by Dr. J. F. Tufts in behalf of the college.
Grade X.
FIRST.—$5.00 for highest standing in the grade X. Donor, Dr. G. B. Cutten.
SECOND.—$2.00. Donor, A. V. Rand, Esq., Chairman of School Board. Won by Fred L. Johnson.
Grade IX.
SPECIAL.—$3.00 offered by Dr. Thomson, Prof. of Latin and Greek at Acadia College, for student making highest standing in Latin in the school. Won by Miss Margaret Letitia Ford.
SECOND.—$3.00. Donor, A. V. Rand, Esq. Won by Theodore Harding Rand.
SPECIAL.—$2.50 awarded Merle Mason, for high standing in English. Donor, Principal of Port Maitland school, Yarmouth Co., N. S.
Next came a chorus, 'The Heavy' after which an interesting, thoughtful and instructive address on 'The High School training in relation to College work and the relation of both to an individual's life work' was given by Professor Hannay.
Mayor Fitch, in a brief speech, commended the work of our school and expressed lively appreciation of the program which had been presented.
Rev. R. F. Dixon when asked to speak, neatly responded by congratulating Principal Ford on so successful a year and moving a vote of thanks for the evening's entertainment. Dr. Tufts seconded the motion and referred to the high character of Principal Ford's work when a student at Acadia University, and said that the thorough and excellent work for which Wolfville High School was noted, was only the natural consequence of the unflinching toil of a painstaking, conscientious teacher whose ideal for himself and his pupils was, 'Nothing but the best.'
The evening closed with the inspiring strains of Verdi's 'Battle Hymn' from 'Aida,' 'God Save the King' and 'God Save our Men,' sung by the chorus of sixty voices.
Pupils' Recital.
A most interesting programme will be presented this evening by the pupils of Acadia Conservatory in the department of piano, voice, elocution. There will be solos, duets and chorus numbers. The admission is free to all patrons and friends interested in the work of the Conservatory.
Those in charge of the Scout work in Wolfville wish to thank the people who contributed to make the entertainment of Monday evening the success that it proved to be. Particular mention should be made of Miss Stairs, who played the accompaniment, and the audience who not only helped by purchasing tickets, but by the interest and appreciation shown throughout, made the work of carrying out the program a pleasure. About 500 tickets were sold and the proceeds there, together with a welcome donation of $10.00 towards expenses from a friend of the Scouts, will net, after all expenses are paid, over $100.00. Having these funds in hand it will be possible to carry out a program of recreation and education that should be of benefit to the movement.

To-morrow.

Edgar A. Guest.
 He was going to be all that a mortal should be
 To-morrow:
 No one should be kinder or braver than he
 To-morrow.
 A friend who was troubled and weary he knew,
 Who'd be glad of lift and who needed it, too,
 On him he would call and see what he could do
 To-morrow.
 Each morning he stacked up the letters he'd write
 To-morrow.
 And thought of the folks he would fill with delight
 To-morrow.
 It was too bad, indeed, he was busy to-day
 And hadn't a minute to stop on his way;
 More time I will have to give others he'd say,
 To-morrow.
 The greatest of workers this man would have been
 To-morrow.
 The world would have known him, had he ever seen
 To-morrow.
 But the fact is he died and faded from view,
 And all that he left here when living was through
 Was a mountain of things he intended to do
 To-morrow.

Soup Food of Economy.

Every once in a while a row of figures is poked under our noses, and some investigator announces that the average salary of men in low-paid industries is $600 a year and even less. And yet, on this sum, they may raise a family of early healthy children. Those on another level gap and are inclined frankly to doubt the learned gentleman's figures. "Why, how can they live?—what do they have to eat? It's simply impossible to get a dinner for a little sum."
 But even though our standards and theirs may differ, one of the chief factors in the low-cost meal of humble people is SOUP. To those who think of soup as a dainty breakfast capital to precede a 6-course dinner, soup is just an appetizer. But in the category of foods of the humble class, soup takes the first place, and it is on soup that the French family lives. Yes, soup is the world wide international dish, and it is only we that scorn it.
 The modern housekeeper says that she has not the time; that it is cheaper bought by the can. All of these answers beg the question. If we truly wish to cut down living costs, to feed the family, especially children, at half price, we would do well to cultivate the vanishing art of soup making. Soup does not take as much time to prepare as a cake or a fancy dessert. The cheaper cuts of meat, if there are any, give fullest nourishment in soup. Shanks, brisket, plate, chuck, steaming pieces and all yield their precious proteins and extractives when cooked or simmered slowly. Then there are all the legumes, the beans, the peas, so often thought indigestible, which, made into a soup or puree, yield nutrition without indigestible hull. Besides, there is the great class of milk soups, the cream of this or that, carrot, tomato, etc. The soup which most readily builds up the growing child is the cream soup, with its fat and protein and starch all there,

Diphtheria Is Prevalent.

(ISSUED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH NOVA SCOTIA.)

While there is no season in which we are quite free from this disease, it is usually most common during the colder months. It would appear that our experience of former years, in this respect, is to be repeated this year. Recently cases of the disease are being reported from many parts of this Province, and several communities are facing limited epidemics.

As in the case of several other infectious diseases, diphtheria frequently is so mild in type that it escapes recognition, and those who suffer from unrecognized attacks, not being restricted in their movements, may distribute infection to many of those with whom they come in contact. Laboratory tests often prove to be the only means by which a diagnosis can be made. By passing a swab of abscess, cotton over the tonsils, some of the organisms which cause diphtheria are detached, and may be identified by the use of laboratory methods. It is very important that a swab should be taken from every sore throat and sent to the laboratory for examination, as otherwise the diagnosis will surly be missed in many cases, and "missed cases" are without doubt largely responsible for the spread of diphtheria.

Persons who have had the disease sometimes carry the germs in their throats for some time after recovery, and during this time they are capable of infecting others. No one should be released from quarantine for diphtheria until laboratory tests prove that the diphtheria germs no longer exist in the throat.

Antitoxin, if administered in sufficient quantity before the body is overwhelmed by the poisons produced by the germs, is a certain cure. It should be given very early in the course of the disease, so a prompt diagnosis is of the utmost importance. Given in a small dose to those who have been exposed to infection, it confers immunity for a short period, but seldom for more than three or four weeks.

Children are especially prone to be infected by the diphtheria germs, but a considerable percentage of children are immune to the disease. Probably not more than ten per cent. of adults are susceptible. A simple test enables us to determine whether or not anyone is immune to diphtheria. Should the disease make its appearance in a school or institution, this test should be used. Those who prove to be susceptible should then be kept under especially close supervision, and should be isolated on the first appearance of symptoms suggestive of diphtheria.

No matter how mild the attack from which one may suffer one who has diphtheria may infect others. And of those so infected, some may develop the disease in its most virulent form. It is therefore the duty of everyone who has a sore throat to make sure that he is not infective before he mixes with others.

The Department of the Public Health issues a leaflet setting out the preventive measures which should be adopted by those who have to care for patients suffering with this disease. This may be obtained free of charge upon application to the Provincial Health Officer, Halifax.

 Mrs. W. H. Walker, Calmar, Alta., writes:—I am pleased to say that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has done much good to myself, wife and children. My eldest girl, 7 years, had bronchitis and the doctor who attended her did not seem to do much good. We got Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for her and she soon got well. We always keep this medicine in the house now ready for use and find that it soon cures coughs and colds."

"BLUES" A DISGRACE TO HEALTHY PEOPLE

No Excuse for Being Miserable or Telling Others About It—Others Worse Off

To give way to the "blues" is worse than folly—it is the quintessence of selfishness; and instead of the sympathy meted out to a person in the doldrums, what he heartily deserves is a thorough good shaking and a real bad time. Truly troubled persons, people who've been through the mill, are the ones who grumble the least; they know when they're well off. The other, and major portion of the community, only think they're badly done by. You'll generally find a cripple or otherwise afflicted person quite cheery. Then think shame of yourself that you, a strong healthy individual, permit yourself to grizzle and growl, and be your own devil, driving yourself out of your Eden.

Liver or Selfishness
 "Blues" arise either from liver or selfishness. If the former, take a dose of medicine; if the latter, take yourself seriously to task. Look within; don't try to find out why you're not happy, but why you're miserable. Is it that you expect too much from life? The happiest man is he who is content with little from the present, and expects much from the future. Go out into the world, and instead of comparing your misfortunes with other people's successes, realize your own blessings in life as contrasted with some poor thing's downright bad luck.

Don't think so much about what you haven't got, as what you do possess. This is the way not to think. "Here am I, twenty-three—forty years of age. Not many men have worked as hard as I. I flatter myself I've got my fair share of brains, and I'm only earning a few dollars a week, while that absolute young idiot, Jones, who's never done a day's work in all his life, has more money than I. Well, what do you will?" Well, what if Jones is better off than you? There's nothing in that to make you unhappy! Instead, think how good God's been to give you your fair share of brain and your health!

Compare and Smile
 Now, this is really the best way to treat your "blues." Go for a stroll in any street in any city; go with your eyes very wide open and power of observation very alert. You will find you'll see a dozen poor unfortunate beings who are truly to be pitied—poor, deformed, poverty-stricken wretches who might say with truth they've never had a chance in life. They're "blues!" they're a disgrace to any healthy man or woman; and besides, a doubtful person becomes so wearisome. He may meet with a little superficial sympathy, but his acquaintances soon learn to avoid him. The "blues" you feel, the cheerier you should be.

BIRD PROTECTION
 Canadian Organization Doing Good Work in the Schools

The Canadian Society for the Protection of Birds, founded in 1915, is actively engaged in the promotion of bird protection throughout Canada. While national interest is naturally concentrated on patriotic endeavor along other lines, much has been done through lectures, addresses and social meetings to enlist public sympathy on behalf of the society's work. Thousands of copies of a very valuable report, "The Value of Birds to Man," by James Buckland, are distributed; also posters warning the public of the penalty attached to the destruction of insectivorous and other birds. A further important feature of the movement is the manufacture of nesting boxes. Through the efforts of Mr. J. A. Harvey, a well known Toronto architect, heretofore boxes of solid timber, hollowed out, which have been made for the society at a cost of fifty-five cents each.

Local branches of the association will be formed in any part of the Dominion, special attention being given to arousing the interest of school children.

Royalty on Town-planning
 I have seen several town-planning cities in England, and I have been greatly struck with the extraordinary common-sense manner in which those cities have been built. They have been built in a practical way, they have been built in an artistic way, and they are most comfortable to live in. There is a very healthy tone throughout the people who are living in those places.—H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught.

Women at the Docks
 Threatened trouble over the employment of women at Liverpool Docks has been averted for the time being by the total discontinuance of the experiment.

Wellington's Men.
 "People often say," says Mr. John Murray, the famous publisher, a somewhat amusing anecdote told by his aide-de-camp, Major Gordon, who brought over in recognition of the capture of Ciudad Rodrigo. As a party of officers were dining with Wellington on one of their visits he had just returned from a place where a party of British soldiers was stationed and a considerable number of them were with it. When the party broke up Wellington ordered his horse and set out for the spot, accompanied by Gordon.

He arrived at the post thirty miles off at midnight, and found a great number of sick lying in the open air. Wellington knocked up the commanding officer and asked why the men were left in such a condition. The commanding officer replied that there was no accommodation for them in the place. Wellington asked the officer to show him over the house, and then gave instructions that a number of the sick should be removed into it. Then he went to the next officer to rank and did the same way, carrying on the process until all the sick were accounted for.

He read the officers a lecture on the propriety of their conduct, and said that if any of them consulted his own vanity and a single man was deprived of his duty, he would make an example of the offender. Wellington returned to headquarters before day.

Seeing that his orders might be infringed he rode over again the following night, and found that the sick had been removed into the open air and that the officers had again taken to the life for which the soldiers were sent. He quickly roused them, ordered the sick to be instantly brought in, put the cupboards under arrest and searched them for disobedience. They were tried for disobedience and cashiered.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Honors for five Nova Scotians have been gazetted, four receiving the Military Cross, and the fifth getting a bar of the Distinguished Conduct Medal which had previously been awarded him. The Military Cross, which ranks next to the Distinguished Service Order, has been awarded to Lieut. George B. Murray, son of Premier G. H. Murray, Lieut. Dennis Stavis, son of the late George Stavis, of Halifax, Lieut. C. D. Lloyd, son of the Rev. Dr. D. W. Lloyd, and to Lieut. A. G. D. Young of Dartmouth. Lieut. G. B. Jones, whose deeds thrilled the whole Empire, and who not only won back his command, but also the Distinguished Conduct Medal, has been awarded a bar to be added to his medal.

THE A. B. C. OF RAILWAYS

WHAT IS A REFRIGERATOR CAR?

A REFRIGERATOR car is the diametrical opposite to a house refrigerator. The latter is expected to stay in one place—the refrigerator car is built specially for the purpose of moving quickly and as often as the railway companies are permitted to move it with loads of perishable products. Thus, a freight car is sometimes diverted from the life for which its pretense designed it, and remaining stationary filled with goods, performs the wrong purpose of a storage warehouse to the serious harm of other shippers and consignees who are clamoring for more cars to move freight and are blaming the railway companies instead of the public, but that happens almost every day to the serious detriment of the public.

The box car and trailer, as Kipling states, "that is another story." Its life history would differ in several essentials if the box car were always moved with the celerity with which C.P.R. refrigerator cars 284966 traveled and worked usefully for twelve days in August. The following notable performance of C.P.R. brine tank refrigerator car 284966, Toronto to St. John, N.B., loaded with fresh meat, St. John, N.B. to West Toronto, empty; is an illustration of quick handling:

- August 18—Order for car given by Quana Limited.
- 18—Car fully loaded, placed for loading.
- 19—10.00 A.M., loading commenced.
- 19—4.00 P.M., loading completed.
- 19—2.30 P.M., car left West Toronto on train No. 902.
- 20—In transit including usual periods occupied in being during transit.
- 21—Car, empty, arrived St. John, N.B.
- 22—4.25 P.M., arrived St. John, N.B.
- 23—Car unloaded.
- 23—Car, empty, left St. John.
- 30—Car, empty, arrived West Toronto.
- 3 Days transit—821 miles loaded.
- 6 Days transit—821 miles empty.
