THE FAIR IMPOSTOR.

CHAPTER VIII. TO THE MANNER BORN.

Hard at it as they were, there is a distinctly marked hush, followed by a hum of expectancy, as the Woodleighs cross the velvet lawn; but all wait quietly as the duke, a tall, white-haired, old gentleman, who looks like Henry the Eighth grown elderly, comes forward and takes Lillian's hand. It is the signal for a greeting, that approaches as near the enthusiastic as we allow ourselves nowadays. Each party is anxious that she shall become one of the players, but with a smile she seats herself among the lookers-on, and Harold, though he lingers beside her for a minute or two is compelled to leave her.

Lillian looks round; it is a gathering of the most exclusive kind. Lord and Ladies are dotted about the lawn as thick as 'leaves in Vallombrosa,' and there is even a dean in his velvet hat and apron, affably eating an ice among the laurels. Close beside her sits the Duchess of Montjoy, smiling pleasantly at the tennis players. A prince of the blood could scarcely add lustre to the brilliant scene. And this, all this has been arranged as a part of the general welcome to her.

As her eyelids droop, a faint flush comes over the pale face; it may be the blush of pride, of triumph, or it may be the faint sign of remorse, who shall say?

The duchess arouses her from her silence with a gentle, pleasant pressure of her grace's plump hand.

'Are you not going to play--or is it too hot?'

'No,' says Lillian, smiling; 'but they seem to have made up the numbers, and I like to look on.'

'Plenty of time for that my dear,' says her grace; 'after the next twenty years to come. How well they play! Who made that hit they are making, such a fuss over?' and she raised her eyelids.

'My cousin, I think,' said Lillian.

'Ah, Harold,' remarked her grace, approvingly. 'He does everything of this sort well. Wasn't he the champion racket player at his college?'

'I don't know,' said Lillian, coldly.

'At any rate,' resumed her grace; 'he was stroke in the university eight and the best stroke they had had for years. Harold is a favorite of mine, my dear,' she added, looking at the downcast face curiously. 'He is very handsome, don't you think?'

Lillian looked up with the calm, set expression which her noble face seemed able to assume at will.

'Is he?' she said.

The duchess laughed.

'Don't you know, my dear? There isn't a girl on the lawn who wouldn't have answered 'yes', with alacrity.'

As she spoke there came from among the players, a young girl, dressed simply in plain muslin, which made her small figure appear almost fairy-like. Though short, she was exquisitely made and extremely pretty, with soft, blue eyes and yellow hair, that just came short of being pure golden.

CHAPTER IX. THE LION AND THE MOUSE.

With her tennis bat in her hand she made her way through the small crowd that, satellite-like, hovered about the duchess and Lillian, the personage of the evening, throwing a word or a smile to either side of her, and at last bent and kissed Lillian herself.

It was Laura Warner.

'And are you quite rested?' she said, in a clear, musical voice, with that peculiar timbre which generally belongs to small women with yellow hair. 'We shall be so glad of your help; Mr. Woodleigh is far too much for us.'

Lillian shook her head with a faint smile.

'I am sorry, but I do not know how to play.'

There was a little half-glance of curiosity from the crowd of satellites; Laura opened her blue eyes with surprise.

Once more Lillian looked at her, and this time the red lips tightened slightly. Was the ordeal never to be concluded? As she asked herself the question, the answer came with a sudden chill. She had deceived two men, one emphatically and peculiarly a man of the world--but the women? Instinctively a feeling, not of fear, but of the need for extreme caution and prudence took possession of her. Danger was not in the direction of Sir Talbot or Harold, but in just such a small, sweet, little creature as this by her side. She could face the lions in her path, but in this tiny, little asp lay one of the perils of her way. But not a sign of this swift reflection showed itself upon her face, or in the smile with which she took her bat and her place.

She had never had a bat in her hand before, but there was no embarrassment, no shamefaced shyness; modestly, but with exquisite self-possession, she followed the directions of her self-appointed tutress, who, with inward disappointment, though outward delight, discovered that her pupil was only too likely to prove too apt.

Round their tennis court the usual little group which was always in attendance, had gathered to watch the progress of the new beauty, and at

'Go, my child,' said her grace; you could not have a better tutress; Lillian rose; three men sprang forward to take her fan, and side by side she and Laura crossed the lawn, Lillian's tall, lithe figure looking taller than ever beside the fairy-like grace of her companion.

'What a beautiful day!' murmured Laura, looking up at the calm face above her. 'We are fortunate. Are you fond of flowers? Mamma has a passion for them. Dahlias are her fancy--are they not fine?'

Lillian looked about with calm inquiry, although the broad dahlia bed lay straight before her. Laura's white eyelids drooped.

'She cannot play lawn tennis and doesn't know a dahlia when she sees it,' she thought, and her acute brain went to work rapidly.

'You are not familiar yet with our English flowers, dear?' she said, softly.

Lillian looked down with a sudden swoop, as it were, of her dark eyes, but the blue ones raised to hers were as clear and as candid as a child's.

'No, not yet,' she said, quietly. 'These are dahlias? Yes, they are beautiful.'

'No doubt they are poor compared with some of the magnificent flowers of America,' murmured Laura, shading her eyes with her hand. 'One

"Had Colds in the Head for Years."

CURED BY DR BOVEL'S MENTHOL INHALER.

Dr. Bovel's Menthol Inhaler gives instant relief in cases of inflammation of the mucous lining of the nose, throat, eye or intestines--in less than a minute after the first application the air passages are freed, and the breath becomes natural and easy--the most acute attacks of cold in the head are cured in a few hours--cures intractable catarrh in a few days--and will permanently cure most chronic cases in from one to three months--it allays pain--counteracts all foulness of the breath--heals the ulcers--and in an incredibly short while absorbs and dries up all discharge.

St. Polycarpe Jet, Que.

Dear Sir:--

I had been suffering from severe colds in the head for years, had tried all kinds of remedies, but could not get relief. Your menthol inhaler was recommended to me, and after using it freely for a short time I found great relief and now am perfectly cured.

I will recommend it to my friends, as I am convinced it will not fail to cure whoever will use it.

Your truly,
ALICE CLEMENT.

who has spent all one's life in America must find everything English so small and tiny.'

Lillian looked down again.

'But I have not spent all my life in America,' she said, in the same composed, measured serenity.

'No!' said Laura, with flutelike surprise. 'I thought--I understood that it was so. And have you travelled a great deal?'

'A great deal,' said Lillian, her exquisite lips curling faintly at the too palpable curiosity.

'Ah!' sighed Laura. 'How I envy you! You must promise to tell me all about the places you have seen, dear! I am so fond of travel.'

'A guide to Italy, Germany, some parts of France and America, as you say, would tell you more about the places I have seen than I could do, said Lillian with the most complete composure.

'Ah, but the romance!' murmured Laura, with upraised eyes.

'There has been little romance in my life,' said Lillian.

'No?' murmured Laura, and there was surprise, incredulity and almost irony in the delicately toned monosyllable.

Once more Lillian looked at her, and this time the red lips tightened slightly. Was the ordeal never to be concluded? As she asked herself the question, the answer came with a sudden chill. She had deceived two men, one emphatically and peculiarly a man of the world--but the women? Instinctively a feeling, not of fear, but of the need for extreme caution and prudence took possession of her. Danger was not in the direction of Sir Talbot or Harold, but in just such a small, sweet, little creature as this by her side. She could face the lions in her path, but in this tiny, little asp lay one of the perils of her way. But not a sign of this swift reflection showed itself upon her face, or in the smile with which she took her bat and her place.

She had never had a bat in her hand before, but there was no embarrassment, no shamefaced shyness; modestly, but with exquisite self-possession, she followed the directions of her self-appointed tutress, who, with inward disappointment, though outward delight, discovered that her pupil was only too likely to prove too apt.

every strike there was, of course, a buzz of admiration and approval.

'Capital,' replied Laura, with flushed face and tightened lips, as Lillian caught a difficult ball. 'Really capital! Are you quite sure you have never played before?'

'Quite,' said Lillian, with a little laugh, and the game ended, she handed the bat to one of the on-lookers and took her fan in exchange.

To her the whole affair, about which so much fuss was made, did not seem very difficult. She, who in the old days, had often to learn half a dozen new attitudes necessary to the performance of one character, found no great difficulty in lawn tennis.

'It is very pretty,' she said. 'Thanks very much for tolerating me. I am afraid I have spoiled your game,' she added, to Lord Bronghton, who had been one of her opponents, and who was enthusiastic in complimenting her.

'No, no,' he said, eagerly. 'Won't you go on? Play do!'

Outdoor Canada Changes Hands.

The well known sporting magazine, Outdoor Canada, has changed ownership and management. Hereafter it will be published and controlled by W. J. Taylor, Limited, of Woodstock, well known as the publisher of Canada's leading sportsman's magazine, Rod and Gun, as well as several other periodicals devoted exclusively to outdoor sports and amusements, including the Motor Magazine of Canada and the Curl and Bowler Magazine.

The present demand for a periodical devoted entirely to athletics in general has prompted the management to change the character of the magazine. No periodical in Canada has ever confined itself to field athletics and field games. The first issue speaks well for the calibre of the paper, which is filled with breezy gossip from the first page to the last.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

This started out to be a very forward spring. I commented most bromidically the other day, "but look how it has wound up. It seems to me as if it were always that way about the spring. Sometimes it starts off like summer instead of spring, and in March and April things are way ahead of the schedule, and then somewhere in May or June we get the cold weather all in a lump, and by the end of June things have gotten back to normal."

"Then other times it starts out cold and people say everything will be terribly behind, and along in May or June comes a long hot spell and even things up."

"Seems to me, on the whole, that for all the to-do they make about early and late spring, that things progress just about the same every year."

The philosopher happened to be present during that long speech. "Now isn't it possible that it's the same way about lives?" he suggested thoughtfully. "We are always saying what a perfectly happy life some one seems to have, and what a contrast it is to somebody else who has every sort of sorrow and trouble, but in the long run don't things even up pretty thoroughly? Isn't it possible that before the season is over, the pleasant and unpleasant days have balanced pretty well?"

I wonder if he is right. Of course the Matter-of-fact Person was present, and promptly refuted the philosopher with an example of a woman whom she knew who was over eighty and never had a mite of real trouble in her life, and would have to crowd a lot into the last few years of her life if she were to make up the arrears of stormy weather due her.

"How do you know she never had any trouble, Madame?" inquired the philosopher.

"Know?" indignantly protested the Matter-of-fact Person. "Haven't I lived next door to her all my life and didn't my mother before me, and doesn't everybody know it, anyway?"

"But trouble, Madame, sometimes lies deeper than even next-door neighbours can see," protested the philosopher.

The Matter-of-fact Person sniffed, at philosophers, and the philosopher addressed the rest of his remarks to me.

"I know a man who was mean and low down, and selfish as they make them," he said, "and yet everything he touched prospered, and what most of us call trouble never came to him. But I never had any doubts that he suffered some kind of a punishment inside of himself, even if it was simply his own inability to be decent."

I have an idea that many of the people we think are so perfectly happy are shut out by continual freedom from trouble from an ability of appreciating happiness—and isn't that something of a deprivation?"

I wonder if it isn't even true that although we can always see it from the outside, the account of pleasant and unpleasant days is evened up for most of us before the season is over.

I wonder if some of the lives that seem to us so entirely and uninterceptably sunny are not often bleak and dreary inside.

I wonder if Omar, in his reckoning, is right when he says:

I sent my soul through the invisible. Some letter of that After-life to spell;

And by and by my soul returned to me. And answered, "I myself am Heaven and Hell."

Shannahan on Old Bachelors.

Thursday evening I strolled up to take in the St. Bonaventure's sports, and as I climbed the hill some queer old thoughts came rushing through my brain. I looked back on my life. Here I was sixty-three years old come the 19th October. I had lived a kind of "put off from day to day" life, thinking 'twas time enough to settle down, till one fine morning I got to find I was bald and as ugly as sin. Men as a rule think when they are young that they can get a girl to marry them any time they wish, but that is a mistake; for life is shorter than you imagine, and you are as old as Buckley's goat and as ugly as old Nick before you realize it. It's only when a fellow like me goes to a place like the sports and finds his neighbor's children grown up nearly to manhood that it dawns on him how lonely he is. You actually envy the man with three or four children. You pretend you don't, but you do just the same. There's a cheap feeling about the old bachelor's life that makes you feel as if everyone hated you, either that or an idea that all hands are out trying to "soak" you good and hard. Single life is all right while you are young and gay, but when the time comes round when you find gray hairs appearing, a lonesomeness sets in which nearly drives you mad. Young men, take heed! Don't waste your time preaching to yourself that you'll be all right bye and bye. Take time by the forelock and fall into line with the thousands of happy beneficiaries whose delight is to witness their children take part in college sports while the old bachelor puts in his evening puffing a cheap pipe and taking off his hat to girls who despise him. TIM SHANNAHAN.

Pigeons, a Half-Penny Each.

Castle Wemyss, situated on the "irth of Clyde, where Lord and Lady Inverclyde have been spending a few weeks, is a handsome and imposing house, which was built by the late Sir John Burns. Lord Inverclyde is one of the best-known sportsmen of the North, and besides being a good shot, is an expert at hockey and curling. With one whose fortunes are bound up with the sea, it is but natural that he should include yachting in his list of recreations. His ordship tells many good stories, one of his best being connected with a "pigeon-shooting" match. A party of "mateur pigeon-shooters" some time ago arranged for a match, and ordered thirty pigeons from a dealer in a neighbouring town. The shooting, as of a really wonderful character, but the actual performances need not be described in detail. The net results will be gathered readily from the following note, which was subsequently received from the dealer. It ran: "Gentlemen,—I beg sincerely to thank you for your order, and to intimate that I shall be only too happy to supply you with any number of birds on future occasions of this sort. The whole of the thirty birds, for which you paid me at the rate of eightpence per head, returned home in safety, and, moreover, brought with them a stray pigeon. My price to your party henceforth will be sixpence a dozen."

A BROKEN-DOWN SYSTEM.

This is a condition (or disease) to which doctors give many names, but which few of them understand. It is simply weakness—a break-down, a waver of the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be its causes (for they are almost numberless), its symptoms are much the same: the more prominent being sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weariness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what alone is absolutely essential in all such cases is increased vitality—vigour—

This wonderful medicine is purely vegetable and innocuous, is agreeable to the taste—suitable for all constitutions and conditions, in either sex; and it is difficult to imagine a case of disease or debility, whose main features are those of debility, that will not be speedily and permanently benefited by this never-failing recuperative essence, which is destined to cast into oblivion everything that had preceded it for this life-time and subsequent ones.

ers, a power she even preserved throughout the voyage, which the prisoners made in a specially constructed iron cage, built amidships. The other prisoners on receiving their rations immediately handed them to Co-Ba for distribution, and she laid down iron regulations for the prisoners' life on board. Her word was always scrupulously respected. ## Stomach Blood and Liver Troubles

Much sickness starts with weak stomach, and consequent poor impoverished blood. Nervous and pale-people lack good, rich, red blood. Their stomachs need invigorating for, after all, a man can be no stronger than his stomach. A remedy that makes the stomach strong and the liver active, makes rich red blood and overcomes and drives out disease-producing bacteria and cures a whole multitude of diseases.

Get rid of your Stomach Weakness and Liver Laziness by taking a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—the great Stomach Restorative, Liver Invigorator and Blood Cleanser.

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of known composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, same being attested as correct under oath. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Fads and Fashions.

Large lace collars are worn. Ribbon embroidered is revived. Plain colored parasols are most liked. Paris insistently holds for the touch of black. The durable pongees are more popular than ever. The newest material for underwear is cross bar dimity. Underwear of cotton crepe is a new fad that will be popular. All-white gloves are worn less than they have been for some time. Scarfs with Persian centres have deep borders in solid colors. Its durability makes percale one of the favorite fabrics for the summer. The newest tailored shirtwaists are made with the yoke in the back. Skirt hems are wider this summer than they were last by a good two inches. The one-seam small Bishop sleeve is the favorite for the tailored waist. Pumps and slippers owe much of their effect to the bows, buckles or rosettes. Cotton voiles are among the most useful materials for simple afternoon frocks. The most popular white footwear this summer will be a high boot or canvas or kid. The Paisley tie is a pretty touch which will add richness to the mid-summer shirtwaist. For evening wear the favourite slipper adornment is a large rhinestone or cut steel buckle. There is a surging revival of the vogue for coin and water-spotted foulard. There is a general inclination toward patterned fabrics as against self-colored materials. Facings of hats may be of velvet or of silk, and while black is most used colors may be used also. Snowy white skirts will dominate every summer resort when the hot weather comes in full force. The big hat of the day and the collarless gown demand that the veil be worn loose and flowing.

A Pirate Queen.

Among a party of thirty-four Anamite pirates and malefactors just brought to Marseilles was one of the wives of the pirate De Tham, who has given the French so much trouble in Indo-China. Co-Ba, as the woman pirate is called, exercised a dominating influence over the pirate king and his followers, a power she even preserved throughout the voyage, which the prisoners made in a specially constructed iron cage, built amidships. The other prisoners on receiving their rations immediately handed them to Co-Ba for distribution, and she laid down iron regulations for the prisoners' life on board. Her word was always scrupulously respected. When the prisoners landed it was Co-Ba who marched proudly at their head, taking not the slightest notice of the crowds who watched the embarkation of the prisoners on their way to the Isle de Re, in the Bay of Biscay. ### Congratulations.

We congratulate the members of the Unions of the city on the success of their Labour Day. They were favoured by excellent weather and backed by good organizations, and a desire to spend the day in a sensible manner, the holiday proved a most enjoyable one. One of the best features of the day was the fine motto of the address which President Barnes delivered to His Excellency the Governor. It showed an independent spirit, imbued with a desire to do right to capital in the interest of Labour and Capital alike. This is a most wholesome attitude for a Trade Union leader to maintain.

Bankmen Adrift.

The two men of the schr. Stella, of Harbor Breton, Alf Bearn and Thos. Snook, who were brought into Carbonear Monday by the schr. Harry Lewis, arrived here yesterday and joined the Stella on her arrival today. They got adrift in their dory on the Banks Thursday morning and were two days and nights in the boat drifting about in the fog. It was intensely cold and the men rowed the whole time to keep warm. The Lewis picked them up 30 miles off Cape Spear and they were drifting rapidly to sea. They would have been lost but that the vessel hove in sight. Both men were greatly fatigued. The Stella has 1,000 qts. of fish ashore for 8 dories and has 250 qts. on board. She arrived here at 1 p.m.

Mr. Hutchings, Deputy Minister of Justice, had particulars by the s.s. Portia of the drowning of the man Drake of the schooner Hispaniola a few days ago at Caplin Bay. The man was on board the banker Italyia and had several glasses of liquor from his nephew, Samuel Skinner. He became intoxicated and jumping on board the dory to return to his vessel he clasped his dory mate, W. Keating, round the body, and both falling on the side of the boat overturned it. Drake immediately sank but the other man clung to the bottom of the boat until rescued. Drake's body has not been recovered. ### The Atlantic Route.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—In his letter published in the Telegram on Saturday in reference to the Hudson Bay railway, Judge Prowse says:—
"The distance between Churchill and Liverpool is 2,946 miles, and from Montreal via Cape Race, 3,937. From New York, 3,097."
The Judge is not correct as regards the distance between Montreal and Liverpool. From Montreal to Liverpool via Cape Race is 2,940 miles, and via Straits 2,780 miles. New York to Liverpool is 3,166, via Cape Race. Therefore the difference is in favor of the Canadian port via both routes, compared with New York, Montreal is nearer Liverpool by 226 miles via Cape Race, and 386 via Straits of Belle Isle, an advantage of considerable importance to Canadian transportation companies, and which they take great pains to make widely known in their competition for east bound traffic with the fast freight lines via U. S. ports, and they will feel aggrieved to see it stated by Newfoundland's well known historian that the port of Montreal is nearly a thousand miles farther from Liverpool than New York is.

St. John's, July 1, '10. J. T. M.

THE BIG BATTLE

The fight between Jim Jeffries, the ex-champion, and Jack Johnson, the negro, for the title of champion of the world, was pulled off at Reno, Nevada, on Monday afternoon, in the presence of 18,000 spectators.

As the men stepped into the arena and entered the ring they were heartily applauded. Jeffries it could easily be seen was the favourite, and the fight, commenced at 8.15.

Johnson in the first round sent a left to Jeff's face, and Jeff returned with a left hook to the negro's neck, when both clinched, and the break-away Johnson got in several stingers.

In the second round Johnson led with a left to the face, and after Jeff sent a right punch to the ribs, there was a mix-up and the gong sounded without either gaining any material advantage.

In the third round Johnson missed a fierce swing to Jeff's face, then sent the left twice to his face, after which they clinched and Jeff almost drove the negro to the ropes with a hard punch in the ribs.

In round fourth Jeff scored first blood with a vicious right to Johnson's face, and then sent him to the ropes with a succession of body blows.

In the fifth round Johnson rushed matters, but Jeff defended himself well. Jeff had his lip split with a right from Johnson, who immediately after was staggered by a hard body punch from Jeff. The men now clinched and in breaking away after receiving a right to the head Jeff retaliated with a straight right to the ribs which so affected the negro that his backers uttered a cry of dismay and thought he was put out of commission.

The sixth round opened with the men fighting in close quarters and manoeuvring for a knock-out. It was a fierce round. A smash in the left eye badly damaged that organ for Jeff who soon made and missed a left swing which caused the negro to show his white teeth in a grin. Jeff tried to rush the game again but Johnson blocked him, and again staggered him with another blow in the left eye which by this time was almost closed. Towards the close of the round the negro tried hard to put Jeff out, and it was easily his round.

Jeff came from his corner in the 7th round with a closed eye, clarets coming from his nose and a woe-begone expression on his countenance but was still game. No effective blows were struck in this, both men sparring for a final stroke, but it was seen that the fight would be Johnson's, who, just before the gong sounded, with a straight right to the big fellows nose again started the clarets in streams, and when the gong sounded Jeff looked pretty well used up.

Johnson landed a hard left on the chin in the 8th round visibly weakening the already overtaxed Jeff who got several more punches, and saved himself from a knock-out, by clinching when the 9th round closed.

Johnson now had the battle well in hand. With both his eyes blackened and swollen and blood pouring from his mouth and nose Jeff faced his opponent in the 9th round. Pulling himself together he made a desperate effort to rush the fight, but Johnson deftly dodged repeated blows and as the close had matters his own way.

In the tenth round Johnson landed viciously on Jeff's damaged left eye and Johnson had Jeff in a tight corner as the gong sounded.

Johnson rained blows on Jeff with both fists in the 11th round, but Jeff who now could only see from one eye sent several severe rights to the negro's body. Jeff's face was ruddy from gore, he breathed laboriously and it looked to spectators as if his finish was in sight.

The Portia Arrives.

The S. S. Portia, Capt. T. Fitzpatrick, arrived here at 11 a.m. yesterday. Leaving here on Friday, July 24th, the ship had good weather to Burin, and was at Port aux Basques at 11 a.m. Monday. Though it was stormy here they had only a moderate S. E. wind there, though it was very dark at night. She left there at midnight Monday and was at Bay of Islands at 2 p.m. Tuesday, and arrived at Bonne Bay at 9 that night. She left there at 2 a.m. Wednesday, and arrived at Sydney at 5 a.m. Thursday, taking bunker coal, and left at 7 p.m. for Basque. Though densely foggy the ship made a good run back and was again at Port aux Basques at 4 a.m. Friday. Coming down the shore she lay at Ramea all Friday night in dense fog. After that until leaving St. Mary's, Monday morning, the ship had it very foggy, this lasting until 4 a.m. yesterday. Owing to fog and heavy rain with a S. E. gale she lay at Fermeuse all Monday night. Her passengers were:—Messrs. W. Vey, S. Robertson, Larner, Dawe, C. S. Wonnain, Capt. Devereaux, Const. W. Dawe, Const. Lynch, Rev. Walsh; Master Roe; Messdames J. Simmonds, P. Rose, Royle, Collins, Hayse, Kennedy, Giovannetti, Hart; Misses Haliburton, J. Harvey, S. Miller, E. Boland, Edgar, E. Gard, M. Royle, N. Murphy, M. Randall, Murphy, Mahoney and 18 second class.

Farewell Performance

On Monday and Tuesday nights the Dairy Farm was staged at the People's Theatre. It is a pastoral play, depicting the heart story centered around a squire, who likes his own way, who is happy when he gets it, and irascible and unforgiving when he does not. There is plenty of action and some good settings. The characters are many and are broadly drawn and deeply cut as if pictured by the pen of a Dickens. From start to finish there is a grip and go in the play; nobility in the hero, goodness in the heroine, uncharitable in the miser, shrewdness in the politician, littleness in the Deacon, homeliness in the matron of the dairy. Perhaps the two best drawn characters are the judding politician and the rich old maid, who has been to New York and perpetrates English of a fearful nature. The homely country scenes were most attractive.

To-night's performance of "The Little Gray Lady" at the T. A. Hall will conclude the Chicago Stock Company's engagement in this city. During the four weeks of its stay in St. John's the organization has attained great popularity. The productions offered have all been of an exceptionally high standard of merit and an artistic record has been reached that was never before attained by any theatrical stock company which has visited Newfoundland. The pleasure-loving public will extend its sincere good wishes to Manager Rosekam and his players and trust that the "au revoir" of to-day does not mean "good bye."

Natural History Society

A meeting to form a Natural History Society at which Governor Williams presided took place in the Board of Trade Rooms Monday evening. After His Excellency had delivered a short introductory address alluding to the benefits of such a Society, Mr. A. J. McNelly made a speech explaining in detail the objects of the fauna and flora of Newfoundland. After he had read the constitution and bye laws it was moved by Mr. Burke and seconded by Mr. Harrington that this be adopted. Mr. Garlock and Bray on being invited by the Governor to speak did so. At the conclusion of the business Rev. Dr. Curtis moved that a vote of thanks be accorded to His Excellency for presiding. This was done and the meeting adjourned.

B. score was 274; N. H. 264; C. C. C. 246. Yesterday was a great day with the riflemen. Mr. L. C. Mews won the H. D. Reid Challenge Medal in the morning with a score of 89, and Mr. N. Rice bore off the Parsons Junior Prize with a score of 78. The distances were 200, 500 and 600 yards. In the afternoon Mr. J. F. Murphy added to his laurels by taking away the Rendell Challenge Medal with a score of 86 points. Mr. N. Rice was also again victorious and won the Smallwood Junior Prize with a score of 83 points. The wind was a little too strong for good shooting.

City Defeats Navy.

The return football match City vs. Cornwall, took place on St. George's Field, at 7 p.m. Monday, and was a very fine game. Our boys went to the field determined, if possible, to retrieve the defeat of Friday last. They did this in capital shape, and although the Navy men put up a good game, our boys played better football, showed more staying power, and in the last half had matters all their own way. They won by one goal which Quick scored, and but for the good saving qualities of Gordon in goal would have scored several more. Quick, Vinicombe, Power, Hartery, Rendell and Brophy distinguished themselves.

Labor Day Acclaimed

Mammoth Demonstration, Interesting Sports and Enjoyable Dance.

The motto, "United we stand, divided we fall," deservedly emblazoned in letters of gold on the banners of the Laborers' Union in the big parade of yesterday, epitomizes the aims and ideals not alone of labor but of capital as well in this progressive 20th century.

Combination of the two interests has been fully demonstrated makes for success in every department of social endeavor, and though this idea has only recently been recognized in the fullest sense in Terra Nova, evidence is not lacking to prove the utility and value of Union and the appreciation of our people for them and their determination to perpetuate the sentiment on a just and equitable basis.

Yesterday's demonstration evidenced the potency of organized labor in our midst, and right here we might say that though, from a spectacular standpoint, our labor parade does not compare with those of a similar character witnessed in the cities of Canada or the Great Republic, our men, laborers and mechanics alike, as far as physique goes, are as fine a class as are to be found in any association of trial centres of England or America.

As regards the parade, though the morning had a gloomy appearance and rain threatened for a while, the day was a fine one, and the men mustered on Star Square at 9:30 a.m. in large numbers. The members of the various Unions wore distinctive regalia and marched in good order through the streets.

The parade was headed by the principal streets the Unions marched, while from six bands the strains of popular music could be heard; beautiful banners gaily flew to the breeze from the procession, roofs of buildings were occupied by sight-seers, and windows of clubs and residences were thronged with onlookers, while the inevitable kodakers snapped incessantly pictures of the parade from every point of vantage.

The route taken by the big procession was down Henry to Duckworth and Job Streets by way of New Gower Street, up Water Street, across Mill Bridge, down South Side and over the Long Bridge, back to Water Street, where, going east, the Unions turned into Temperance Street and thence to Government House via Ordance Street and King's Bridge Road, returning by way of Military Road, Rawlins' Cross and Queen's Road to Star Square. At Government House the processionists were met by His Excellency Sir Ralph and Lady Williams, accompanied by Miss Dean and Private Secretary Fitzherbert. The officers of the amalgamated Unions having paid their respects to the viceregal party, and after responding cheers had been given to King George the Fifth, and His Excellency and Lady, accompanied by the National Anthem from the bands, President Levi Barnes, of the Trades and Labor Council, stepped forward and made the following address to the Governor, who stood opposite the main portion of the building:

This is our festive day, the day we celebrate as Labour Day, and in the course of our parade we have called upon Your Excellency to express through you to His Most Gracious Majesty King George the Fifth, our most profound and sincere sentiments of affection and loyalty. To His Majesty and his worthy Consort Queen Mary, we beg to extend our heartfelt congratulations upon their accession to the Throne. We wish them a long and peaceful reign. We feel assured that His Majesty King George the Fifth will follow in the footsteps of his illustrious and deeply lamented father, the late King Edward the Seventh, whose phenomenal success as a ruler might be attributed to his thorough appreciation and strict observance of the "New Commandment."

The desire for gain, becoming as it is, more and more intensified, and the disposition to get as much as you can for as little as you can, compel us as wage earners, to seek protection through the medium of trades and labour organizations, such as your Excellency sees in the gathering before you to-day. At the same time, speaking for this city, we are glad to be able to say that the relation between Capital and Labour is, on the whole, a

What Are They Going to do With the Fishermen?

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Mr. Editor,—Kindly allow me space in your valuable columns to voice the sentiments of the fishermen of Bay St. George. The question at the heading of this item is in the mouth of every fisherman on the West Coast. How are we going to answer it? Only two answers I think can be given: starve them or drive them to some other country to earn the bread they should be enjoying at home. And why, I ask, are we doing this? What great industry is at stake that we should sacrifice our own fishermen, the backbone of the country? It is this, that we may provide superfluous sport for a few American tourists from whom nine-tenths of our people on the West Coast never receive a cent. It is true they leave quite a lot of money in the country, but who gets it? Why the one; but there are ten to be fed, what are you going to do with the nine. I said before we were simply preserving superfluous sport.

The whole cry among the sportsmen and their supporters is take up the salmon nets and let the fish come in the rivers. What do they want? Do they want every salmon that enters the Bay to come in the rivers? Salmon fishing at Robinson's, for one place, isn't a matter of sport, it is simply a competition between a few sportsmen for the greatest number of fish. I think, Mr. Editor, that when three men can get 47 salmon (400 lbs weight) in one week, or better still one man get 25 salmon in three days, there are salmon enough in the river for Newfoundland's good.

Salmon nets have been fished in Bay St. George for scores of years and the fishery is just as good to-day as it was 60 years ago, and if the Inland Fishery Board would consider it they would find other and better ways of preserving the salmon than doing away with the only way that many poor fishermen has of making a living. Then there is another rumour afloat that if the salmon nets and codtraps are not entirely done away with, they will have to be tied up or taken up from Saturday evening until Monday morning. Oh, yes, tie them up. It is a great sin for a poor man to get a salmon in his net on Sunday. Let them come in the river and let Mr. American hunt them round all Sunday from daylight till dark. I ask the fishermen of Bay St. George are they going to allow this thing to be done, if they do deserve their fate. Wake up, fishermen, and claim your rights. Stand up for yourselves and your country; and don't have such a valuable industry as your salmon fishery sold over your heads for the sake of a few individuals.

Yours truly, ONE INTERESTED. Robinson's, July 2nd, 1910.

BICYCLES BICYCLE SUNDRIES

DISC RECORDS BICYCLE MUSON Cat. Prices 240 Yonge St. TORONTO apr.18.11.

A Time at Brennock's.

The first annual outing of The People's Club was held at Brennock's last evening and proved a very successful event. About 400 guests were present including the new City Councillors—Coaker, Ryan, Mullally and Myrick. Mr. J. O'Keefe who is here on a visit from New York, was a special guest on the occasion. At 7:30 p.m. supper was served and the following toast list was rendered: "The King."—God Save the King. "Our New Councillors."—Prop. F. Horwood; resp. Councillors Coaker, Mullally, Ryan and Myrick. "Absent Members of the People's Club."—Prop. Mr. J. Phelan. "The Land We Live In."—Prop. J. Cooney; resp. Councillor Ryan. "The Press."—Prop. J. Fitzpatrick; resp. Representatives. "People's Club."—Prop. Mr. J. O'Keefe; resp. Mr. T. Shortall. The singing of the National Anthem concluded a most enjoyable time.

Praiseworthy Feature.

Though such a great concourse of men, laborers and mechanics, paraded through the streets yesterday, and though all were enjoying a holiday and had enough of excitement to engage such, hardly a man of such a great number was to be seen under the influence of liquor, nor did a serious breach of the peace occur. All enjoyed themselves in a rational manner and are to be congratulated on the decorum and orderliness they manifested throughout the day.

Portia's Fishery News.

Capt. Fitzpatrick of the Portia brings an exhaustive account of the fishery west. He says that north of Cape Ray there is no improvement in the codfishery, but actually a falling off especially in the lobster fishery which is not at all as good as anticipated. It opened well and the lobster catch was expected to be high, but the heavy E. and N. E. winds of three weeks ago banished the crustacean from the coast and broke up most of the lobster pots. From Cape Ray down to Fortune Bay there is a much better sign of codfish than there was two weeks ago. Friday evening last there was an abundance of caplin, a fish which had not been seen there for 12 years. Squid has also made its appearance there and pun fishermen about the ground are doing remarkably well. Around Fortune Bay there is no fish, nor in Lamaline Lawn or Burin, while in Mortier Bay the traps are without a voyage to date, and hook and line men have only a few small shares. From Placentia to Cape St. Mary's traps average about 100 qts. ashore. Mr. Matthew Murphy has a trap at the back of Marquise, and has 240 qts. to date. He is doing better than any other Golden Bay is so far very short. The schr. Carmelite, Peter Griffin, master had 110 qts. to Saturday which is the best around there. East of Point Lance, from that to Branch, a distance of about 3 miles, there is abundance of fish for all kinds of gear. Power of North Harbor, St. Mary's, laced up his trap Saturday with 70 qts. in it. For the past week the Branch skiffs had all the fish they could manage out of nets and off trawls. St. Mary's, Holyrood, Peter's River and St. Shotts are doing nothing in traps the past week, but trawlers and net men are doing fairly well. Trepansey has no trap fish worth while yet from 50 to 60 qts. each ashore, getting that in Blisay Bay, east of Powell's Head. Portuguese Cove men are doing very well, and all along the shore from Portuguese Cove to Cape Race traps, nets and lines are getting a deal of fish. As the Portia passed Cape Race at 1 p.m. Monday a man hauling his trap had it full of cod. Capt. Fitzpatrick spoke to several of the fishermen as the ship ran over that ground, and they said there was plenty of fish there for jiggers. At Renew's some traps had as high as 200 qts., and others as low as 30. The hook and line men were doing well right along. Good work is being done at Ferry Head and the past ten days and several traps have as high as 100 qts. ashore since the ship went west of the place. Strange to say no fish have been taken to the S.W. end of Ferry Head traps as yet. The best hauls have been made in the mouth of Caplin Bay. There were 13 Nova Scotia bankers in Caplin Bay boiling, and in Cape Broyle, 17; they are being very slowly. It was rough Monday night and caplin were scarce yesterday morning.

Imports FINE HORSE.—J. F. Donnelly, veterinary surgeon, left Montreal on the 2nd inst. for this city and is bringing with him a thorough bred hackney stallion for use here.

PATIENTS FOR ASYLUM.—By the Portia yesterday there arrived here 4 patients for the Lunatic Asylum from different parts of the coast. A woman also came for the hospital, and a man for the Poor Asylum.

FINE HORSE KILLED.—Yesterday people passing out the Pouch Cove Road saw a fine young colt dead or dying that thoroughfare. In prancing about it had run against the end of a lunge, which pierced its breast.

SPLENDID EXHIBITION.—Monday night the Cornwall gave a fine exhibition of her searchlights, six of which—three on either side—were kept going on the ship from 8 o'clock till 10. Despite the heavy rain which fell the wharves were crowded with people witnessing the spectacle.

AN ADDRESS.—A very pleasing ceremony is to take place at the T. A. & B. Society's Hall on Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, when the President, Mr. W. J. Ellis, the new Mayor, will be presented with a congratulatory address. The Juvenile Branch with their band will also be in attendance.

CHILD BADLY HURT.—While the St. Joseph's Picnic was on yesterday a little tot named Maher was very seriously hurt. His mother was opening a bottle of lemonade with the little one in her arms, when the bottle burst and flying pieces of glass struck the child squarely in the face. It was terribly cut, especially near the eyes, and it is feared that it will lose the sight of both orbs.

Labor Day Sports

After the parade of the Unions yesterday the weather cleared and a finer afternoon could not be had for the sports which were held on St. George's Field. The sun shone brightly but the heat emanating from the great luminary was tempered by a nice breeze from the westward, so that the spectators enjoyed without the slightest discomfort the various events which the programme contained. The field presented a gala appearance, bunting flew from all points, and the amphitheatre was bordered round by a dense throng, as owing to the threatening weather of the forenoon comparatively few went countrywards, and in the afternoon all wended their way to see the exhibition. Long before the games commenced the Grand Stand was packed, and it is safe to say that never before was there such a large gathering on St. George's Field. The best of order prevailed and applause greeted the winners in the various contests. The proceedings were enlivened by the dulcet strains of the band of the C.C.C.

On the eastern end of the field and contiguous to the arena tents were erected by the men of the Longshore, Carpenters, Truckmen's and Coopers' Unions, while an enterprising citizen had also on the green a large refreshment tent and did a good trade. The committee who supervised the sports and who are to be congratulated on their general excellence, were:—

T. J. Allen, Chairman; M. A. Hallaren, Sec.-Treas.; J. J. McGrath, M. McDonald, Andrew Walsh, William Edney, B. Mullins, A. H. O'Keefe, L. Barnes, M. Harter, John O'Neil, Hon. M. P. Gibbs, W. J. Men from each of the different events, and a number of points made each Union depended to win the Morris, Collins and L.S.P.U. cups. The following were the events:— 100 Yards Dash—1st, G. Way (Longshoremen) being second. The prizes, handsome gold medals and cups, were presented by Mrs. Gibbs at the dance to the winners.

Remember THIS!

YOU CANNOT DRIFT TO SUCCESS.

It's a good deal easier to drift with the stream than to swim against it. But there's neither glory nor safety in drifting; the world reserves its applause for the man that opposes the current and forces his way to the Harbor. The stream of life has always crowds of drifters trusting to currents of luck to float them to the Harbor of Success. That's why so many bachelors wear looks of disappointment. Their bright dreams of youth have faded with the years, their age has no refuge. Not a pleasant prospect to think about, is it? But you'll do well to think about it now while there is still time to provide for the future; it is not too late to catch up with the crowds of House Furnishers; begin to-day. Secure your partner, visit our store and you will certainly buy.
