CHAPTER XII.

He praised in a delicate, well-bred way the beauty and grace of Ethel, the cleverness and heroism of Lord Fitz, and when her ladyship, who had been rather suspicious of him at first, was beginning to think him rather nice and distinguished, he glided from Fitz and Ethel to Violet and Leicester.

"Miss Mildmay," he said, after a sigh, "is, as you are, my lady, no doubt aware, the daughter of my dearest friend! Poor John! he recognized his darling to his care, and I am sorely tempted to take upon myself the post of guardian in the literal sense of the word. I would pray for no other task than that of watching over and protecting her. She is all my soul, my dear countess, all soul, as simple, as innocent, as single minded as a child. Just the nature to be misled by seeming heroism, to fancy all sorts of wild, improbable things, to be deceived in matters of the heart. Look at her now. Have you ever seen a more absorbed and trustful face than that turned up to Mr. Leicester's?"

Lady Lackland did not require to be directed. All the while the captain had been running on in his smooth way she had been watching the pair and Ethel and Bertie beside them, and she felt as if she could have dragged Mr. Fairfax away and thrust Leicester in his place while she pushed Fitz beside the ingenious Violet.

"Mr. Leicester, too, if he will permit me to say so," continued the captain, "is one of those disinterested men who follow the bent of their passing fancy without thought or reflection. Immensely rich, my dear madam, immensely! He should marry rank. Rank is what he wants—so does Violet. It would never do for Violet to marry one of her own class—never! Poor John would rise from his grave to forbid it. Hundreds of times he has said to me 'Howard, my girl must be a countess! Poor John!'"

Lady Lackland sighed sympathetically, and her voice was less cold than it had been hitherto toward the captain when she said: "She is beautiful and well bred enough for any rank." The captain bowed. "Did I hear that Lord Fitz sang?" he said, slowly. "If so, I wish we could induce him to sing a duet with Violet."

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN CRIED

Suffered Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Florence, So. Dakota.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and headache, and had a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me so and I could not do any work at those times. An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. P. W. LANSING, Route No. 1, Florence, South Dakota.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

AMBUK SAVED MY LEGS.
H. M. Ryall, first mate, S.S. "Boston," Yarmouth, N.S., writes: "I fell and badly cut my shins. The wounds did not trouble me for about a week, and then my legs began to swell and pain me very badly. The doctor told me that my clothing had poisoned the wounds. He gave me some salve and an antiseptic wash. I used these for a short time, but instead of getting better, the blood-poisoning and the pain kept getting worse, until my legs were terribly swollen and the pain was so intense I could not sleep. Indeed I was afraid the doctor would advise amputation. A friend then recommended Zam-Buk. Almost from the first application I felt a change taking place. I continued the Zam-Buk treatment and after a few boxes had been used the wounds were completely cured. I certainly believe that Zam-Buk saved my legs."
Don't take chances, as soon as accidents happen apply Zam-Buk and avoid all danger of blood poisoning, or complications. Zam-Buk is best for cuts, burns, eczema, pimples, piles, cold sores, chapped hands and all skin diseases and injuries. Insist on the genuine Zam-Buk. See name on every box. All druggists and stores, etc.

"I'll try," said Lady Lackland, instantly acting on the hint, and she went over to Violet.

"Miss Mildmay, will you sing a duet with my son? Please do; we are dying for a little music."

Violet, ever ready to give pleasure, rose and laid down her fan.

Lord Fitz, who had vainly been trying to interest Mr. Dodson in the next likelihoods for the coming race meetings, came forward with a blush of pleasure, and Lady Lackland had the satisfaction of seeing Lord Fitz and Violet at the piano.

Then the captain went up to Bertie and in his pleasantest manner said: "Mr. Fairfax, there is a sketch here you ought to see. I have never seen such color and tint in so simple an effect."

Bertie looked up at him as if he could have pitched him out of the window, but he rose and with as good a grace as he could assume went with the artistic captain to inspect the sketch.

Leicester and Ethel were left alone, and they fell to talking of violets. The song ended, and there were the usual thanks and requests for more. Violet turned to Ethel and Leicester with a smile.

"Enjoyed it, did you?" she said, echoing his words. "How can you say so? I heard you talking the while!"

"Yes," said Fitz, who was radiant and eager to sing another in the same company, "it was too bad, and there's no escaping Mr. Leicester's voice."

"Thank you," said Leicester. "No one would wish to escape yours. Sing another, pray."

"Do you not sing, Mr. Leicester?" said Lady Lackland. No? Mrs. Dodson, perhaps. Ethel, if Miss Mildmay is too hot, will you sing?"

Ethel rose obediently, and Leicester, in duty bound, led her to the piano.

Ethel is going, I think. Yes, there is Captain Murpoint opening the door."

"Violet put her hand upon his arm, and Leicester took her out."

"How beautiful!" she said. "I wish all the nights were moonlight."
"We cannot see the moonlight here; it is ruined and marred by the light from the room. Let us move a few feet lower down."
Violet allowed him to take her out of the gloom of the room.

"We cannot see the sea," she said. "We have the advantage over the Lacklands, the only one I expect, for they are mighty people, are they not?"

"Very," said Leicester, coolly. "With one disadvantage."
"Pray what is that?" said Violet.

"That the great age of the blood has turned the heads of the family to stone."

"Oh, how can you say so?" said Violet. "Lady Lackland seems quite kind."

"The moon appears quite near," said Leicester, significantly. "But don't let us quarrel over Lady Lackland's temperature; I was going to ask you if you would persuade Mrs. Mildmay to try a little yachting."

Violet was about to reply when a smooth voice, the low, hateful one of Captain Murpoint, said behind them: "Miss Mildmay, I am the reluctant censor. This night is dangerous after a warm room, and your aunt has commissioned me to break into a pleasant tete-a-tete and carry you from the probability of cold."

Violet smiled and was about to put her hand upon his arm, but Leicester, whose face had set with that hard, cold look which some of his friends had seen when he was about to punish insolence or was suppressing his feelings by a great effort, took her hand and laid it on his own arm.

"Allow me to take you to Mrs. Mildmay and offer my excuses, Miss Mildmay," he said.

And as he passed the captain he looked him full in the face with the cold, icy stare.

The captain met the look of contemptuous suspicion and defiance with the sweetest smile, which lingered upon his face until the pair had quite passed, then it deepened to a grin, and the wreathed lips muttered: "Soh! Now comes the tug of war. My lord, the grand duke, King Leicester means fighting. So be it. Howard, my boy, you have had a nice little rest, now set to work!"

CHAPTER XIII.
Up to this time the captain had been making holiday. He had been resting after his exertions for his country in the stone quarries at Portland, enjoying a little quiet repose amid the luxuries and beauties of the Park. But while he had been resting he had not allowed himself to be lulled into a false sense of security.

He was fully aware that the position which he occupied at Penruddick was intangible and untenable.

back in the carriage returning to the Park, watched from between his half-closed lids the thoughtful, pensive face of the girl who was usually so light-hearted, careless, and talkative. "Is she in love with him?" he asked himself. "What a pity it is one cannot pick the secret chamber of a woman's heart as he picks a doorlock! I hope she may be; love is blind for all but the adored one, and Miss Violet's eyes will have no regard for me in my little game while they are fixed on the brave and stoical Leicester."

Poor Violet, it was not until some time afterward that she knew how cunning a spider was the considerate and well-bred Howard Murpoint.

Both the ladies were tired when they reached home, and ascended to their rooms, to which Captain Murpoint insisted upon carrying their silver candlesticks. Then, when he had heard the key turned in their respect live chambers, he glided off to his own.

On the sofa sat Gem fast asleep, his head on his arm, and his thick, muscular hands—which still above the wrists bore the marks of the gang-chain—clitched at his side.

The captain looked down upon him and then laid his white hand—which also, under the broad wristband, bore the telltale mark—upon Gem's shoulder.

Jem started up with an exclamation and an expression of fear so palpable that Captain Murpoint looked at him with some attention.

"Asleep, man," he said, rallying him in a soft mocking voice. "You have been asleep for some weeks, my friend. It is time you, and I also, woke up. There is work to do."

"I'm glad of it," said Jem, with an oath and with a transient gleam of interest.

"Jem, you used to be able to climb I have seen you cling to the cliffs like a bat, with your eyebrows. Have you lost that art?"

Jem shook his head.

"No," he said. "I'm pretty strong in this arm and I ain't lost my cheek, captain. They used to call me the monkey, and pr'aps I deserved it."

The Dacia Case.

In addition to the question of contraband, the question of the transfer of a ship from a belligerent mercantile flag to that of a neutral is occupying attention. Edward N. Breitung, of Michigan, has purchased the Dacia from the Hamburg-American Line and transferred it to the American registry. It is proposed that the vessel shall carry a cargo of cotton from Galveston to Bremen in Germany. As cotton has been declared contraband by Britain and as such the question of seizing a contraband cargo does not arise. The question does arise, however, as to whether the British navy will seize the Dacia if she puts to sea and take her before a Prize Court. The treaty on International Law by Wheaton, at one time the American Minister at the Court of Prussia, and brought down to a later date by an English barrister, says: "The transfer of ships from belligerents to neutrals during war is always looked upon very suspiciously, and clear proof of bona fides is required to save the ship from condemnation. But if the sale of a ship by a belligerent to a neutral be absolute and bona fide, it is then permitted, either during war or in contemplation of it, and whether she is lying in an enemy or a neutral port." Mercantile vessels of an enemy are liable to seizure by a hostile nation to be brought before a Prize Court for condemnation. Condemnation by such a court deprives the enemy owner of the rights of property in her. That is why the owner insures against the risk of capture, and why Lloyd's exact a higher rate as the risk increases and a lower rate as it decreases. The whole question in any such case is one of the genuineness of the transfer. If the British Admiralty suspects that the transfer of the Dacia to Edward N. Breitung and its registry under the American flag is a fake, she will seize the ship and the case will be tried by a Prize Court. If that court is satisfied that the purchase by an American citizen is genuine and its transfer proper, then the Dacia will be released and she can continue to ride the seas unmolested. If, however, the court holds the purchase to be a fake, that her ownership still remains that of a German citizen or company and the transfer to the American flag is but a trick of retaining ownership and avoiding seizure, they will condemn it, and the reputed owners and the actual owners will lose their

McMurdo's Store News
TUESDAY, Jan. 19, 1915.
McMurdo's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is essentially a food medicine, and will quickly put a weakly child into good shape and increase its weight. So pleasant to take that no child will refuse it; it is no way disturbs the digestion; and will almost from the start cause improvement in the general condition. In cases of chronic "Winter" cough, it is in many cases successful where ordinary remedies fail. Price 25 and 50c. a bottle.
Have you seen our Sc. Soap. It is well worth a trial for toilet and bath. Ask for McMurdo's "round" cakes, 5 cents each.

property in it. A feeling, however, prevails that the whole transaction is a plot by the Germans to stir up strife between Britain and America, and that huge sums of money have been furnished to German agencies in the States to stimulate a campaign against Britain, should the Dacia be seized. That accounts probably for the negotiations which have been instituted between the American and the British Governments as to the facts of the case, so that if possible the question of bona fides may be settled before the ship leaves Galveston.

One Heavy Blow
May drive a nail right home. But the more blows you use hands at the firmer it goes in and the harder it will be to take out.
IT IS WITH AN ADVERTISEMENT.
It is not the occasional ad. that shows you the value in them. It is the ad. that is put up, and if you have the goods to back the advertisement, your customers will increase.
Mark Twain said the Spider knew it wouldn't be disturbed if it cast a web across the door of a shop that didn't advertise.

Supreme Court.
Court met at 11 a.m. to-day pursuant to adjournment. Present: the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Emerson.
In the matter of the winding up of the Commercial Bank of Newfoundland, it is ordered accordingly: Upon considering the arguments upon exception to the Master's reports, here-in we confirm the report with the exception that we allow the judgment of two hundred and fifty dollars made to Doyle, the accountant, for services.
The costs of the solicitor and counsel for the Trustee will be taxed against the estate. For retainer, consultation opinion and advice a fee of twenty-five dollars may be allowed. These costs, when taxed, will be paid out of the fund in the hands of the Trustee, the residue of which will then be paid by the Trustee as requested by him into the Treasury of the Supreme Court to a special account. Let this be done without delay and let the Trustee proceed for the purpose of certifying to the Court that the Bank has been wound up.
The Court adjourns until 11 a.m. tomorrow.

To Play-Goers.
We have not seen a good play in St. John's for a long time, and play-goers will be interested to hear that there are two new plays under preparation which will be produced at the Casino Theatre early in February. These are "Ici on Parle Français" and "Between the Soup and the Savoury", both well-known one-act plays, with unparalleled successful runs in other countries. The former, though bearing an ironic French title, is in English of course, and this is a bearing in the true sense of the word. When the name of Mr. Charles Hutton and Mr. W. W. Blackall are included in a cast it presages fun of a riotous order. These are but two of a splendid company which has the play well in hand.

TURKS ADVANCE ON SUEZ CANAL
Cairo, Egypt, Jan. 15.—The Turkish forces advancing toward the Canal number 40,000 men. Their artillery includes many guns of the most modern type, believed to have been sent to Turkey from German British aviators brought this information to English headquarters (London). They made a flight of eighty miles and got complete details of the Turkish equipment.

On "Queer" People.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The other day I heard a girl talking about a queer couple who had sat next table to it a summer resort. She was asked in what way they were queer. "The things they talked about," she explained. "They were like a regular debating society. One day it was the war and whether big geniuses should be permitted to go to war and get killed just like common folk; and the next day it was something about socialism and another time about Thackeray and whether he was cynical or not and, oh yes, one time there was something about the will and the ego—the funniest stuff you ever heard. Just imagine two young married people talking like that. Don't you call that queer?"

Do you, reader friend?

Or do you call it an evidence of the sanity that is so rare that it is usually hailed as queer by those who cannot understand it?

That's the way I look at it.

To my mind the absence of real conversation, of interesting discussion of what has been read, and stimulating exchange of ideas, among house-mates is a great misfortune.

The Husband and Wife Who Don't Speak.

The husband and wife who walk down the street or sit in the street car or restaurant in almost unbroken silence are familiar figures. Why do they do it? Sometimes because they don't like each other, but more often simply because they have exhausted neighbourhood gossip and household and office news and have nothing else to say to each other.

Why not talk about some of the inexhaustible subjects that the big world about them constantly presents? Why, that would be queer. It may be that one or both talk about these things to their friends but husbands and wives are husbands and wives to them and not to be treated as friends.

Of course it may be that they do not of their own volition ever talk about such things. Many people do not. Indeed the world might be divided into people who naturally talk on general subjects as well as on the more personal ones, and people who never think of introducing a general topic. Sometimes, to be sure, they rather enjoy it when it is introduced but they simply never think of bringing it forward themselves.

MORE QUEER PEOPLE NEEDED.

I was one of a rather stiff, ill-assorted gathering the other day who were conscientiously breaking painful silences by talking about the weather and bringing up bits of news about people known to various members of the group, when one of these people who have a talent for general conversation blew in. In five minutes we found ourselves talking easily and with pleasure about a general subject on which we all had something to contribute.

To my mind that's the kind of person we need more of to stimulate us into being queer instead of conventional.

Kaiser Changes Tune About Britain.

Tells Soldiers they Face Brave Foes and Must Fight Hard.

Copenhagen, Jan. 11.—The Kaiser has paid his first tribute to Field Marshal Sir John French's "contemptible little army," and has called it brave. He visited Douai, in Northern France, and held a grand review of the troops in position. He saluted the colors, many of them reduced to unrecognizable tatters.

Prince Eitel Friedrich accompanied his father, who made a speech to one regiment, telling them they were fighting brave foes and must be convinced that the war would not stop until the enemy was defeated and the Germans able to dictate peace terms. The German people find much satisfaction in the official news that the Crown Prince has had his portrait painted at the front. His reappearance on New Year's Day dispelled the alarming rumors coming from Berlin about his health, and even his personal safety. He gave a sitting for the painting to a well-known portrait painter. The picture is now finished. The Crown Prince is depicted in the grey uniform of the First Hussars Regiment of Douai, and he has been decided to present the portrait to the mayor of Zopent, who acted as official care taker of the royal villa in the neighborhood. It is suggested that it be reproduced, and copies presented to the Crown Prince's troops. He has already sat to several sculptors, whose portrait busts are being sold in Berlin.

Austrian Losses.

The last defeat of the Austrians at December 15th, the Serbians' capture of which has hardly yet been appreciated by the world at large. For instance, in the fighting between December 3rd and December 15th, the Serbians captured 274 officers, 26 surgeons, 46,000 privates, three flags, 122 guns, 29 machine-carriages, 362 ammunition wagons, 70 machine guns, 2,000 horses, 32 field kitchens, 39 field batteries, not to mention three bands of music, and thousands of rifles with an immense ammunition supply. In the fighting around Belgrade which followed the general debacle, the Austrians further lost in killed, wounded and prisoners 60,000 men. In short, within three weeks the invaders of Serbia suffered losses of 106,000 men, together with all the material losses enumerated above. The Serb victory was one of the most memorable in all history; probably the greatest ever won by so small a nation.

New German Offensive Blocking Railways.

Copenhagen, Jan. 10. There is strong evidence here that the Germans are again preparing a new offensive in the west. There has been considerable delay during the last few days on the Danish-German railway and ferry communications. I have been informed that the German railways are blocked with many military trains going westward, and past experience shows that such delay invariably precedes the concentration of reinforcements in the west. Danish officers from Germany state that on the main line from Central Germany, transport trains are being hurried forward, many crowded with young soldiers, evidently Germans of a new army going to France and Belgium to receive the baptism of fire. It is also thought that a number of troops are being drawn from Poland but the majority of reinforcements appear to come from Central Germany and the Rhine garrison towns.

'The Optimists Corner.'

"Opportunity," they say, "knocks once at every man's door," sooner or later. Some quickly open the door, others are too busy doing nothing to heed it, while still another class is too sound asleep to hear the knock consequently a very few comparatively speaking, ever attain the success which is written in capital letters. The meaning of the words opportunity and luck should not be misunderstood, for their difference is as the difference between day and night. Luck doesn't mind dropping in without an invitation—but he's a mighty like-warm friend to rest your entire weight against. But when opportunity knocks its generally because you've given her reasons to leave that her attentions will be appreciated. FRENCH PRESIDENT DECORATED BRITISH GENERALS.

Paris, Jan. 12.—President Poincaré, on his latest trip to the front, from which he returned to-day, in addition to presenting the colors to the blue-jackets there and visiting Hazebrouck went to the British headquarters, where he had a long conversation with Field Marshal Sir John French and the Prince of Wales, and invested the British Generals, Sir Douglas Haig and Smith-Dorrien, with the insignia of Grand Officers of the Legion of Honor. These were conferred at the special request of General Joffre the French commander-in-chief.

Prime British headquarters President Poincaré, undeterred by the serious risks from German shells, drove in an automobile to Arras, accompanied by Mr. Prefect of Arras, the Mayor and the Bishop. President Poincaré visited every part of the ruined city, whose aspect of utter desolation deeply moved him. President Poincaré inquired particularly if the 3,500 inhabitants who remain in the city, were getting sufficient food and before leaving spoke a few words of encouragement to a number of the citizens, mostly elderly people. The President gave the Mayor 1,000 francs for the poor of the city.

RUSSIA'S GIANT SUBMARINES.

In aircraft and submarines Russia leads the world. The giant Sikorsky aeroplane, a recently-invented type, is capable of carrying seventeen men, and seems likely to make a more useful fighting machine than the German gas-filled dirigibles. As to submarines, Russia is constructing one which will be far larger and better than any at present in existence. It is 400 feet long, 34 feet beam, and 5,400 tons displacement, which means that it is eleven times the size of the next largest craft of the kind. Its engines, of 18,000 h.p. will drive it at twenty-six knots on the surface, and its motors, of 4,400 h.p., will give it fourteen knots submerged. It has a cruising radius of 18,000 miles, can run under water for 375 miles at stretch, has five 4.7 guns for surface fighting, and carries sixty torpedoes and 120 mines.

No more useful gift for a man than a Safety Razor. We sell the Giant Junior Safety at 50 cents. A perfect shaver and the wonder of all users. CHESLEY WOODS, 140 Water Street, Manufacturer's Agent.—Dec 18, 14

TOMMY'S TACT.

Things had certainly looked black for the very young lieutenant when his colonel discovered him in sweet communion with his daughter.

What could he say when he was summoned to explain himself? As a general rule, men are helpless as babes when in love, but not so our lover.

He was made of sterner stuff than to knuckle under like a German.

"Have you any explanation to offer for your conduct?" the colonel demanded sternly.

"Sir," answered our hero, bringing his hand up to a smart salute, "I have the honour to report an engagement at close quarters, in which I have been entirely victorious. It now only remains for you to give consent to the terms of surrender!" He carried the day.

The Russian Government reports further advances west of Sierep. German attacks were repulsed at several points. Kiribaba Pass in Bukowina has been carried by storm. FIERCE STORM RAGING—RUSSIANS VICTORIOUS.

PARIS, via St. Pierre, Jan. 18. From the sea to the Oise a fierce storm is raging, especially in Belgium. Artillery contests on several points and two German attacks repulsed near Dauterche. In Soissons and Rheims sections the situation unchanged. Our artillery scored a victory in Perthes district. In Argonne, German attacks on the 263 were unsuccessful. We took possession of several German villages northwest of Pontamousson, also repulsed a counter attack and maintained our gains. In the Vosges the bombardment of Thann without any suits.

Petrograd.—After three days' fighting, and in spite of an unabated storm, the Russians were completely victorious at Karaugan. The Russian regulars co-operating with Turkistan and Siberian Cos completely annihilated the Turkish rear-guard. The remainder of the Turkish army is fleeing to Erzerum, closely pursued by the Russians. The latter captured 20 cannons abandoned in snow.

ON THE EAST FRONT.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 18. Recent developments in the region of Warsaw appear to indicate that the Germans are directing their efforts to push the Vistula, at the bank of the river with the Pilsa. The opinion of high military authorities is that the Germans expect co-operation from the Austrian-German army which for the past fifty hours been around a big village in Soichesev and Belimew, where attacks in succession were made Saturday night. In the region of Plock and Milawa the Germans appear to be on the defensive. They have been slowly pushed back by the Russians into several villages. On the River Skwa, which enters the Vistula a few miles below Southward the Austrians have fled along the River Dunajec, besieging Tarnow with heavy artillery. Their aim is believed to be to push forward eastward and Przemysl. With all Bukovina in the hands of the Russians, only a few which is strongly fortified, remains an invasion of Transylvania.

OFFICIAL REPORT.
LONDON, Jan. 18.
The Governor, Newfoundland:
The French Government reports continued progress in the region of Nieuport and Lombsartzyde. Appreciable results have been achieved by artillery in the region of Soissons and Rheims, and there has been some progress at other points.
The Russian Government reports further advances west of Sierpe. German attacks were repulsed at several points. Kirlibaba Pass in Bukowina has been carried by storm. In the Caucasus the Turkish army has been completely defeated, after a three days' battle at Karavagan. The remnants are fleeing towards Erzerum.

INTERESTING COMPARISON.
LONDON, Jan. 18.
A military observer at the British Army headquarters in France, writing under date Saturday, Jan. 16, discusses the scale of the mental condition of the British troops and the Germans opposing them. The writer, after making due allowance for the many German prisoners, who in many cases represent a somewhat inferior element of the German forces, says that there seems to be a difference in the state of feeling in the German rank and file from that which existed some weeks ago. Some of our prisoners, the observer continues, now realize that a victorious German advance is out of the question, and their duty is merely to hold their ground. As regards the physical well-being it is doubtful if Germans are so well as the British. The German medical arrangements also are inferior. Many civilian physicians, without surgical experience, are being used. Both these points of German inferiority, the writer says, are more than offset by the general efficiency of the fighting machine of the Germans, the excellent staff work, and high discipline and thoroughness with which every military requirement has been provided for. Orders have been captured which give minute instructions for the care of clothing, equipment and sanitation which show great forethought and a high standard of inferior economies. This minute care for the well-being of the soldiers, so long as he can fight, is, however, combined with callousness and losses, when sacrifice of life is thought to be necessary. The latter part describes the story of an eye witness report and discusses the part aviation is playing in the military operations. The officer pays tribute to the remarkable work of the British aviators and mentions as a frequent occurrence, reconnaissances in driving snow with the temperature below zero or in gales, under the fire of the enemy's air-craft guns, or travelling with the wind when the machine rocks and sways and attains a speed of 150 miles an hour.

PIERCE STORM RAGING - RUSSAINS VICTORIOUS.
PARIS, via St. Pierre, Jan. 18.
From the sea to the Oise a fierce storm is raging, especially in Belgium. Artillery contests on several points and two German attacks repulsed near Dautrecht. In Soissons and Rheims sections the situation is unchanged. Our artillery scored good results in Perthes district. In the Argonne, German attacks on height 265 were unsuccessful. We took possession of several German works northwest of Pontanousion, also repulsed a counter attack and maintained our gains. In the Vosges there is a heavy fall of snow. The enemy bombarded Thun without any results.

ON THE EAST FRONT.
PETROGRAD, Jan. 18.
Recent developments in the vicinity of Warsaw appear to indicate that the Germans are directing their efforts to push the Russians beyond the east bank of the Vistula, at the junction of the river with the Plika. It is the opinion of high military authority that the Germans expect co-operation from the Austrian-German activity, which for the past fifty hours has been around a big village between Solichew and Belnow, where six attacks in succession were made on Saturday night. In the region of Plock and Mlawo the Germans appear to be on the defensive. They have been slowly pushed back by the Russians, who are said to be daily capturing new villages. On Saturday the Russians are said to have crossed the River Skwa, which enters the Vistula a few miles below Plock. Southward the Austrians have fortified along the River Dunajec and are besieging Tarnow with heavy artillery. Their aim is believed to be to push forward eastward and relieve Przemysl. With all Bukowina in the hands of the Russians, only one Pass, which is strongly fortified, prevents an invasion of Transylvania, Hungary.

REPORT NOT CORRECT.
HAVANA, Jan. 18.
There is no truth in the report published in the States that the German steamer President was sunk off Havana last night by the British cruiser Berwick.

THE TOLL OF THE SEA.
LONDON, Jan. 18.
Twenty-one men of the crew of 27, of the British steamer Penarth, were drowned to-day off the Norfolk coast. The Penarth, with a cargo of maize, was bound for Hull, and struck Sheeringham Shoal in a heavy gale, becoming a total wreck. Six survivors from the Penarth were picked up by a trawler. Another British steamer is also believed to have been wrecked in the same locality. She is the Tyne, bound for Saint Nazaire, France.

A GERMAN ANNIHILATION.
PETROGRAD, Jan. 18.—(Official).
On the left bank of the River Vistula, we delivered counter attacks on the night of Jan. 17, and we re-occupied certain trenches near the village of Gioumece which the enemy had captured on the night of Jan. 16. The Germans defending the trenches were virtually annihilated. Two efforts were made subsequently by the enemy in this locality to attack us, but were without success. In the region to the east of Plotzkow (south of Lodz), our artillery has destroyed an armoured motor car of the enemy. New attempts were made by the Germans to bombard Larnon (in Galicia) with heavy guns, but were frustrated by the excellent fire of our artillery. There is nothing of importance to report on our other fronts.

Doctors and Gas Fires
In an article which recently appeared in the London "Evening News," Mr. W. G. Faulkner stated: "In making my inquiries I discovered one significant fact. This was that one company—the Gas Light and Coke Company—had among their consumers 2,500 doctors who had gas fires installed in their houses, some as many as ten or a dozen; that 1,500 of these doctors had become users of gas during the past three years; and that not one had ever given them up."

Professor C. V. Boys F.R.S., says, in the "Standard": "Sentiment and inertia are the only obstacles against the general adoption of gas fires and cooking appliances. Wonderful strides have been made, in spite of deep-rooted prejudice. A gas fire, burning with a blue, is an admirable agent for heating a room; and, as a scientist, I fail to understand how such a gas fire dries the air in a room more than any other fire."—nov17,tf

EMPLOYMENT OF JAPANESE WITH RUSSIANS AGAINST GERMANS NOW DISCUSSED.
New York, Jan. 11.—The New York Tribune's London special cable says: "Although nothing whatever has been published here regarding a most important conference which is said to have been held recently in Petrograd, the Tribune's correspondent was informed by a person who claims to be conversant with the facts that the purpose of the meeting was to discuss the use of Japanese troops in the eastern theatre of war."

"It is considered entirely practicable for a Japanese army of 250,000 men to take the field with the Russians. A well-equipped force of Japanese could easily be transported across Siberia, and it would be just as easy to regularly make up the losses both in men and munitions, but the question of enormous expense would have to be considered."

YOUR KING and COUNTRY WANT YOU

The above is one of the most popular of the many fine patriotic songs now being sung wherever the British flag flies. It has a sweet, pathetic melody and a tender appeal in the simple words. This song has been sung specially by Miss Maggie Teyte (the greatest British Prima Donna) for the Columbia Graphophone Company, who are paying a royalty on each record sold to the Prince of Wales' Patriotic Fund.

¶ We have just received a shipment of 2,000 Columbia Records direct from England—the largest consignment ever received in Newfoundland at one time—consisting chiefly of Patriotic Anthems, Marches and Songs. Among these are:—
God Save the King,
La Maresillaise,
Arrival of the British troops in France,
Russian National Anthem,
Belgian National Anthem,
My Bugler Boy,
Follow the Drum,
Bravo, Territorials,
Soldiers of the King (new version),
My Volunteer.

Nfld. Auxiliary Bible Society.

The annual collection in aid of the Newfoundland Auxiliary Bible Society will be taken up in the course of the next week by lady collectors who have kindly consented to wait upon the friends of the Society according to the new arrangement authorized at the last annual meeting. The Committee hope that the collectors will meet with a generous response, especially in view of the greater need of the Parent Society caused by the war. It is facing not only a decrease in its income but also an increased expenditure by the distribution of Testaments and Gospels among the troops. Since the war began over half a million copies of the Scriptures have been sent from the London Bible House alone to Red Cross organizations, field hospitals and other help-organisations of the sick and wounded. Also every Protestant Volunteer throughout the Empire including our Newfoundland boys has been presented with a Testament before starting for the seat of war. Amid the many calls perhaps there is none that has a stronger claim on our sympathy and support than this great work of the Bible Society.

STORMING OF CIUDAD RODRIGO.
 1812. A town in Spain to which Wellington lay siege and took after seven days fighting. It was gallantly defended and the English lost over 5,000 men. Wellington was created Duke of Ciudad Rodrigo as a reward for this achievement.
ADEN captured 1839. The strongly-fortified port on the S. E. Coast of Arabia, which was occupied by the Portuguese and the Turks until captured by the British on this date.

A BALLAD OF OFFICE BOYS.
 They came with collars of wide expanse
 And chubby faces and quaint round eyes,
 To ink their fingers at every chance
 And chatter their elders with rude replies.
 We saw them grow to alarming size,
 What kites they seemed, not so long ago!
 But now they march where the shrill pipes lead,
 The Office Boys that we used to know.

We smiled as schoolboy exuberance
 Grew gravely business-like, blandly wise;
 As call-love dawned at a typist's glance
 (With lively, consequent tastes in ties).
 And how could we in the least surmise
 That these were men to arise and go
 On war's grim desperate enterprise,
 The office boys that we used to know?

To see them stemming a foe's advance
 Or wrestling from him a cherished prize,
 Or manning a desperate trench in France,
 We'd once have stared in amazed surprise.
 We used to smile at them, none denies
 We thought they were born for Naught but show,
 Ah! never more can we patronize
 The office boys that we used to know!

Envol.
 Prince, heed not when the pessimist tries
 To prove the power of a German foe.
 Trust them! They'll send him to Paradise—
 The office boys that we used to know!

War Notes.

Mr. J. Ramsay MacDonald, member of Parliament and chief of the Labour Party, has gone to the front with an ambulance corps. He was for a time bitterly opposed to the war.

During last August 1,571 naturalizations took place in Australia. These included 1,093 Germans and 128 Australians.

American-made siege guns and projectiles are to be used by the Russians soon. The guns were made in Pennsylvania and weighed 105 tons each.

Orders for 125,000 tons of barbed and plain wire from the belligerent nations will keep the mills at Pittsburgh going for several months.

The Trade Bureau in Philadelphia has received an inquiry for a lot of five hundred thousand pick axes from the French Government.

Owing to the failure of the crops in Sweden, Russia will permit the export to Sweden of allmentary products, oats, flour, eggs and barley, sufficient for one year's consumption, on condition that Sweden pledges herself not to allow the export of these products to the States at war with Russia.

As the Minister of Marine could not promise that the French fishermen would be released from service by the end of February, the fleet which usually equips during December for Newfoundland will not sail as early as usual.

Big Crowd at Pantomime

Last night a very large and delighted crowd came to see the pantomime "It has a been revised until it looks like another show. The specialties are very fine, and the children work with dainty grace for which their friends and parents should be ever obliged to their trainer, Mrs. Rossley, for they are taught to be graceful in every movement, while the singing and dancing is simply perfect. The costumes are handsome. There is another dandy pantomime in preparation with the welcome addition of the clever comedian, Joe Burkhart.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Some of the late volunteers for the army and navy left this morning for St. John's, and others will leave this afternoon.
 Mr. Henry Whiteway, caretaker of the Methodist Church here, was taken suddenly sick on Saturday forenoon, and was compelled to resign. Dr. Cron was called yesterday, and pronounced Mr. Whiteway very sick, ordering him to bed for a week.
 The steamer Mary, after taking on board a number of casks of fish from Mann & Co., left on Saturday afternoon for St. John's.
 A pretty wedding took place at Christ Church on Thursday night last, when Miss Bell Ash, daughter of Mr. George Ash, was united in marriage to Mr. Duncan Herald of Bristol Hope. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Andrews in the presence of a very large number of well wishers.
 Mr. Arthur Thomey, Bristol Hope, had a narrow escape from accident on Friday last. He was driving over Victoria street, this town, when his horse became frightened and bolted. When near Water Street Mr. Thomey was thrown from the slide, and falling heavily to the ground injured his side somewhat. People who watched the accident thought the man was killed, and was surprised to see him quickly jump to his feet and follow the horse which was caught a little further west. We congratulate Mr. T. on his escape from greater injury.
 Mr. Hugh Simmons arrived by Saturday night's train from New Brunswick, out of which port he has been sailing the past summer. Mr. S. expects to return to his ship again next month.

The "Novoe Vremya" of Petrograd, learns that the Gazeta Czenstochowa, published by the Germans at Czenstochowa, inserts the following proclamation by the Kaiser:—"Poles, you of course remember how once at night the bell of the Holy Swiatogorsky Monastery began to ring without human aid, when all pious persons understood that a great and important event had been signalled by a miracle. This event was my decision to wage war with Russia and to restore to Poland her rights and to annex her most cultured land to Germany."
 "I had a wondrous dream. To me appeared the Virgin and commanded me to save her holy convalescent, which danger had threatened. She kissed at me with tears. I proceeded to follow her divine behest."
 "Know of this, Poles, and meet my troops like brothers and saviours. Know, Poles, that those who are with me will be liberally rewarded, and those against me will perish. With me are God and the Holy Virgin. She lifted the sword of Germany to succour Poland."

MARCHING TO MUSIC.

The great outcry in London and other cities of the British Empire has been that there would have been a bigger stimulus to recruiting had there been more military display and more bands, and it must be confessed that there is something inspiring in a military band and a march tune.

The Finest Novel RALPH CONNOR HAS EVER WRITTEN.

"The finest thing Ralph Connor has done, and when we remember his past achievements that is no mean praise. His style throughout is strong and forceful, he has an intimate knowledge of what he is writing about, and his inspired descriptions of the heroisms of the North-West Mounted Police make one glow with the same feeling of pride as do the accounts of our heroes in the battles that are raging now. Ralph Connor shows us what magnificent men and what brave, noble women, the sons and daughters of the Empire, are. It is a joy to meet some of our old friends again, and in the dangers and anxieties they undergo they more than ever show of what pure gold they are made." RALPH CONNOR, THE PATROL OF THE SUN DANCE TRAIL. Cloth 80c., Paper 60c. See the New Magazines, the New War Pictures, the New War Papers and the New War Books.
