'Margaret,' The GIRL ARTIST, OR, The Countess of Ferrers Court.

CHAPTER XXIII. "You don't take any care of yourself, Blair," she said, lightly, though her soul was filled with bitterness at the thought that it was the loss of that "other woman" which had wrought such havoc with him.

"It is first rate," he said. "You always used to make good tea, Vi." The color mounted to her face at the sound of the familiar name. How long it was since she had heard him use it.

"Did I? It is about the only thing I can do properly." Then she went on talking in a light and cheerful tone, the sort of talk that exacts almost nothing from the listener—gossip about places and people he knew, the last scandal of the five o'clock teas, pleasant chat, to which he could listen or not, just as he chose.

"Well?" she said, turning her face to him, with a sudden light in her eyes, a light of hope and expectancy. "I want to tell you," he said, passing his hand across his brow, "you know I have been in trouble lately. You may have heard something of it from Austin."

Pains in the Side, Chest, or Back, Aching Muscles Cured Quickly

Even Doctors Marvel at the Penetrating Power of Good Old "Nerviline." Pains anywhere—in the chest, neck, side, back or muscles—they are always a discomfort. If the inflammation is severe, the pain will be intense. If allowed to continue, complications will follow.

Blair!" and stretching out her hand she laid it, softly as a feather, upon his. Something in her voice, or perhaps it was the touch of her hand, reminded him of Margaret so keenly that he shuddered and his face went white.

"Stop, Blair," she murmured. "Perhaps it is better that you should not tell me. Whatever it is—and it must have been something terrible—it will be well that you should forget it; and you won't forget it any the sooner by talking of it. No, don't tell me! But I am very sorry, Blair, very—very."

"Yes—yes," he said, brokenly, and he put out his hand, and took hers and pressed it. "Yes, you were always good to me—too good, Vi. I don't deserve that you should be so kind now, after leaving you all this time."

"Oh, no my hand, dear!" she murmured, and slipping down at his knees she put up her lips. Blair bent down and kissed her, as he was bound to do. He could not have done otherwise, and by that kiss he sealed his fate. And yet, even as he gave it, the sweet face of Margaret rose as plainly before him as if it were she and not Violet Graham who knelt at his feet.

CHAPTER XXIV. Margaret went to her beautiful suite of rooms that night with a beating heart and a mind sorely troubled. Prince Rivani had proposed to her! It had come so unexpectedly that it overwhelmed her. There are a great many princes in Italy—they are commoner there than with us, but still a prince is a prince, and this one was amongst the best and highest of his order.

And now, quite suddenly, without preparation, he had asked her to be his wife! It seemed incredible, but it was only too true; and what was she to do? It would have been bad enough if she had been an ordinary English woman, and her insignificance and poverty the only drawbacks; but her position was not so good as that even. There was a blot upon her escutcheon which made it impossible for her to be the wife of any honest man, however humble he might be, least of all the wife of so great a man as Prince Rivani!

she had so completely buried all thought of love in the tomb of the past, that it had never occurred to her that a man might fall in love with her, and now, as she stood before the glass and looked dreamily and sadly at her face, she was bound to admit, and that without vanity, that she was beautiful; but how beautiful, how supremely lovely, she herself did not guess.

But now what was she to do? Improbable and unlikely as it seemed, Prince Rivani had fallen in love with her and asked her to be his wife, and as it was simply impossible that she should marry him, there was only one course open for her; she must leave the villa and Florence, and at once.

She sighed deeply as the conviction was forced upon her. She had been, after a fashion, almost happy; she had been at peace at any rate with these great people, who had lavished their kindness upon her and won her gratitude and love.

For the first time Margaret was not glad to see her, but Florence unsuspectingly ran in and put her arm round the white shapely neck. "Oh, forgive me, dear!" she murmured, with the impulsive enthusiasm of her age. But I could not go to sleep until I came to you and told you how glad I am!"

"What has happened?" said Margaret, her face all aflame for a moment, then growing pale. "I mean your great success tonight," said the girl, sinking at Margaret's feet and leaning her head against her knee. "I can't sleep for thinking of it. The countess says she remembers nothing like it, it is not only the picture, which was quite enough to make you famous, but yourself, dear—yourself! Isn't it almost too unfair for one person to be so lovely and bewitching and also so clever?"

Margaret forced a smile and smoothed the girl's rather rough locks. "Are you making fun of me, princess?" she said pleasantly, and yet a little sadly.

The princess looked up at her amazedly, then uttered an exclamation. "Then it really is true that you don't know that you have caused such a sensation?" she said. "Why, dear, it was a furor, it was a 'Venit, vidi, vici,' as our ancient emperor said. Do you know that directly you left the salon everybody fell to talking about you, though they had done that while you were there under pretense of talking about your picture. They all talked about you as if you were something that had dropped out of the skies, and we Rivani were lucky to own the particular spot of earth upon which your divinityship descended."

We all like to wear what we call "Good Clothes." Now good clothes are not costly—not dear—but they become dear if they have to be discarded practically unworn. The French Dry Cleaning Process meets the difficulty. We can afford to buy the best and most beautiful fabrics without being extravagant, because of their quality we can rely on being able to have them restored by this process to their original beauty quite often enough to enable them to be eventually discarded without a lament.

LONDON

LONDON, March 27th. ARMY MEDICAL SERVICE TAX STAYS.

The denial of the rumor of the retirement of Sir Alfred Keogh, Director-General of the Army Medical Service, will be received with universal satisfaction. He has served his country well during the war, and his highest eulogium, Colonel Leslie, who is in a position to know the first hand of the achievements of the service organized by its director, paid a flattering tribute to Sir Alfred in the House of Commons recently. There is any official in the War Office, he said, who is universally recognized as a success, in view of his great talents, his alert and far-seeing mind, it is Sir Alfred Keogh, and he has done in this war entirely to the highest praise. Sir Alfred is nothing whatever to do with the tactical arrangement in Mesopotamia and the responsibility for any breakdown which may have occurred there, he said. He is a successful general throughout the anxious months of a heavy burden, and it is probably his own request that Sir William D'Almeida has been appointed Assistant Director.

ANOTHER HOTEL FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

The Government continue to look over hotels for administrative purposes. Carter's Hotel, one of the many private hotels in Mayfair, London, which never shock their aristocratic clientele by advertising, received on March 18th that it was about to be requisitioned. On March 21st government officials were settling arrangements were going on in the officers' mess. People staying in the hotel had to make sudden arrangements. Government contractors appeared on March 20th to dismantle the furniture and remove the furniture and fittings. There are fifty rooms in the hotel. Part of the arrangement with the Government is that the place is to be decorated and restored to the condition in which it was before the war. The present condition of the hotel at Metropole, in which the Ministry Department have been at work for the last fortnight, shows how quickly an hotel can be adapted for these purposes. Lloyd George's office is in the music room (which is used for conferences), but in one of the suites of rooms on the first floor. The big reading and writing rooms are divided up into many compartments where typewriters are left, and the dining room is partitioned into rooms where hard-worked staffs labour at high pressure and have no time to spare for their former associates. Only in a few cases have the papers had to be touched, and the room papers form the background of many busy department chiefs.

GRAMOPHONES IN THE TRENCHES.

The prohibition of the importation of gramophones and their component parts will be a blow to our fighting forces, who have become the keenest customers for these things. An purchase of new records is one of the commissions entrusted by their officers to sailors, and an equal responsibility attaches to the man who takes up the new records for the compact British gramophone, which is a purely British invention and has not been once been destroyed by shell fire. Most of the gramophones sold here, including the most famous of all, are made in England, but the records come from Switzerland, and are hardly made in England under present conditions. Although they are threatened by the suggested prohibition of shellac. We have a good stock of machines in England, and it is to be supposed that the fighting men will have first class claims to them, especially the men in hospitals or on hospital ships—the Anglians and down with her gramophone singing vigorously—but it will not be before the shortage is for ever over. They, and the men in Mesopotamia, who asked for gramophone records will do well to bring their best-worked gramophones home with them.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY IN WAREHOUSES.

A very remarkable side of domestic economizing in London, which is naturally enough escaped public attention, is becoming quite common in the better parts of Chelsea and Kensington, and, for all I know, on the other side of the Park. It is not uncommon now when you call on a friend there to find the whole family living on two floors, and that the rest of the house has been shut up and the whole place is being run on the aid of one servant. In many cases relatives have joined households, or letting the house of one of the party. The servant's scarcity is

ARMY MEDICAL SERVICE CHIEF TALKS STAYS.

LONDON, March 27th, 1916. The denial of the rumor of the retirement of Sir Alfred Keogh, the Director-General of the Army Medical Service, will be received with universal satisfaction. He has served his country well during the war. In France his work has won for him the highest eulogium. Colonel Lee, M.P., who is in a position to know from the first hand of the achievements of the service organized by its director, paid a flattering tribute to Sir Alfred in the House of Commons recently. GRAMOPHONES IN THE TRENCHES.

The prohibition of the importation of gramophones and their component parts will be a blow to our fighting forces, who have become the largest customers for these things. A purchase of new records is one of the commissions entrusted by their mates to sailors, and an equal responsibility attaches to the man who takes back new records for the compact little french gramophone, which is a purely British invention and has more than once been destroyed by shell fire. Most of the gramophones sold here, including the most famous of all, are made in England, but the motors come from Switzerland, and can hardly be made in England under present conditions. Although nearly all records are of British make, they are threatened by the suggested prohibition of shellac. We have a good stock of machines in England, and it is to be supposed that the fighting men will have first class claim to them, especially the men in hospitals or on hospital ships—the Anglia went down with her gramophone singing vigorously—but it will not be long before the shortage is felt even by them, and the men in Mesopotamia who asked for gramophone needles will do well to bring their hard-worked gramophones home with them.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY IN WAR-TIME.

A very remarkable side of domestic economising in London, which has naturally enough escaped public attention, is becoming quite common in the better parts of Chelsea and Kensington, and, for all I know, on the other side of the Park. It is not very uncommon now when you call on a friend there to find the whole family living on two floors, and that the rest of the house has been shut up and the whole place is being run with the aid of one servant. In many cases relatives have joined households, shutting or letting the house of one of the party. The servant scarcity is, of course, at the root of much of this economising; still, many people are doing it as a sensible contribution to the national necessities. Many families have now two or three sons in the army, which generally means an unexpected claim on their purses. All sorts of minor economies, such as doing without table napkins or linen table-cloths, can be seen, while the white linen collar seems to be disappearing now from whole districts of respectability. Even in households which would not have been classed as Bohemian dinner parties are becoming very like the old improvised supper parties in artists' studios, after the big fancy dress balls. I have heard of one big party where the whole bill of fare was sausage and mashed potatoes, beer and apples. One suburban hostess who sent out invitations recently added the indiscreet that the dinner would be fish and chips, but that the fare could be depended upon because the cook (aged 16) had been in the fried fish business and had once been entrusted with the whole barrow!

the risk of war with herself. The object would be, by a swift descent down the river, to gain full command of the mouth of the Scheldt, an object regarded none the less desirable by the extensive allied air raid on Zebruggen on March 29th, which is rapidly becoming less tenable as a German base in the North Sea. Those who know how, at the creation of the Belgian kingdom in 1830, the determined retention of Dutch rights over the navigation of the Scheldt, from close to Antwerp into the North Sea, was the rock on which the negotiations nearly split, and was, indeed, one of the main causes of a war between Holland and France, will realize how essential to the former this position always has been held. It has been taken as an axiom, indeed, in European politics, for a century that the one thing necessary to set Holland against any power would be any attempt to interfere with its full holding of the mouth of the Scheldt. So much was this realized by our Ministers that, even to relieve the agony of Antwerp in September, 1914, no attempt was made by us, despite our naval command of the North Sea, to go up the river to her aid, and thus to violate Dutch neutrality; and the Foreign Secretary rejected with emphasis a suggestion thrown out at that time that we should open negotiations for the purchase of Zealand and its transfer to Belgium, an idea which at once would have thrown Holland into Germany's arms.

GENERAL CADORNA'S BUSY DAY.

If the Italian General Cadorna's soldiers are as busy in their trenches as their general is in London the Austrians on the Alps are bound to have a hot time of it. Yesterday he met General Robertson at ten, at eleven he saw Lloyd George, at twelve he was received by the King. He lunched with Asquith at one, he saw Sir Edward Grey at three, and Lord Lansdowne at four. He met also Bonar Law, and in the evening he dined at the Embassy. It would be rather interesting to know when he attended to the voluminous correspondence and despatches which follow a commander-in-chief everywhere. One may be sure the dinner was no mere social entertainment, for he met five Cabinet Ministers at the Embassy.

LUCKY GERMAN DESTROYERS.

Shipbuilders who have had to do with the construction of destroyers will no doubt smile at the statement in the German official account of the little encounter off the Belgian coast on March 20th that the fight was "a success" for our enemies. The Germans were lucky to get away, and the affairs of October 17, 1914, and May 1, 1915, prove it. In both of these scraps the Hun flotillas were cleared up by British destroyers, four vessels going down on the first occasion and two on the second. In the battle of the Bight on August 28, 1914, when several larger boats than the Zeebrugge class were sunk, British destroyers convincingly demonstrated their superiority. They are, as a matter of fact, better and swifter than craft and harder hitters than anything of the type in the German Navy. Probably if the run back on March 20th had been a little longer there would have been another "clear up" to add to the last.

TAILORING AND OFFICERS' UNIFORMS.

Barely hit by the great shrinkage of their civilian trade owing to so many of their customers having joined the colors, the West End tailors have hitherto consoled themselves with the thought that at all events the demand for officers' uniforms would enable them to keep their staffs partly employed. But since the beginning of the year there has been an extraordinary falling off in this business, and practically no officers' uniforms are now being ordered from the tailor. It is believed that the War Office is depriving them of this remnant of their trade by securing the outfits through contractors and issuing them at about cost price direct to the officers. Feeling is very bitter on the matter. For, should military trade be taken away, it will compel many firms already fighting against great odds to close down altogether.

Instant Relief From Eczema

You can stop that awful itch from eczema and other skin troubles in two seconds.

Seems too good to be true—but it is true, and we vouch for it. Just a few drops of the simple cooling wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for eczema, a new remedy that is attracting widespread attention and the itch stops instantly. The first bottle will prove it. Eczema, Bad Leg, Ring-worm, Salt Rheum, Barber's Itch, Psoriasis, Open Sores and Itching Rash and other skin troubles are caused by myriads of germs at work in the skin. Unless these germs are promptly destroyed they rapidly multiply, gnawing their way deep into the sensitive tissue. This is what causes that awful itch, and what seemed a mere rash may grow worse and develop into a loathsome and torturing skin disease with its years and years of misery. Don't take any chances! Destroy the germs at the beginning of the trouble with that soothing and cleansing wash, the D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema.

If you have skin trouble of any kind, get a bottle of D. D. D. Prescription to-day. Sold Everywhere.

KEEPING THE FACE SUPPLE.
To keep the skin of the face supple and in good condition, steaming it is ideal. Too frequent steaming is not advised, once a week is usually often enough, as it has a tendency to make the skin flabby, but if indulged in now, and then, it serves to open the pores, removes dust and accumulations and keeps the skin supple.

There are different methods of steaming the face, but a favorite one is to utilize the chafing dish, for with this the heat may be so regulated that the temperature of the water can be kept below the boiling point. However, any kind of a vessel can be used over a gas burner or alcohol lamp. The water should never reach the boiling stage as steam from boiling water will burn the skin. The object is to cleanse the pores by perspiration.

Before beginning the steaming process, the complexion should be given a thick coating of cold cream, applying it with the finger tips, using a rotary motion.

The face is now held over the steaming vessel and a towel is so held that the steam is directed to the face. After the perspiration starts, the cream is removed with a soft towel, and the complexion is again steamed.

The wiping and steaming should be continued until all trace of grease have disappeared. Ten to twenty minutes may be devoted to this process, and then the face must be carefully dried, after which a dash of cold water will close the pores, the face is again gently dried and a good tonic applied.

Pit Prop Exportation.

Sufficient information was laid before the Opposition to cause the members to reconsider their attitude against the further exportation of pit-props from Newfoundland. For patriotic purposes it was realized that the Opposition should waive their policy during the continuance of the war. It is vital to the mother country and to France that these countries should receive ample supplies of pit-props during the war. Provision was however made that no pit-prop should be cut within the three-mile limits from green trees, and the Prime Minister gave an undertaking that the Department of Agriculture and Mines would see to it that the law was properly observed. It was felt, however, that the cutters engaged in this war industry should be quietly paid, and it was provided that a Board should be appointed to regulate prices, and that the minimum prices paid to cutters should be Five Dollars a cord for unripped and Six Dollars a cord for ripped wood, on the bank, and that when cutters were engaged on wages, that the monthly rate of pay should not be less than Thirty Dollars a month and found. Under these provisions cutting and export of pit-props from the island of Newfoundland will go on during the war. It may be remembered that there is a law which permits the export of pit-props from the Labrador for a term of ten years. This permission, however, does not seem to be available of pit-prop exporters.

Dedication and Formal Opening of New Organ.
The formal opening and dedication of their New Organ, recently installed, took place last night in the presence of a large gathering of Masons and their friends. The Grand Masters of the Scottish and English Jurisdiction, Bro. Duder and Bro. Cliff, respectively, were present with their supporters. The proceedings opened with an address by R.W.D. G.M., S. C. He briefly referred to the installation of the organ and to the use to which it would be put in connection with the meetings of the various Masonic Lodges. The key of the instrument was then presented to him by Bro. Spry, who has been largely instrumental in getting the organ for the Masonic body. The Grand Chaplain, Bro. Rev. Canon Bolt, M.A., read the 150th psalm and offered the dedicatory prayer. Then Grand Master and President Duder conducted Mrs. J. A. Cliff, wife of Grand Master Cliff, to the organ. Shooting Old Seals.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—My attention has been called to some interesting but very misleading figures and observations published in your evening Telegram, and signed by the Hon. John Harvey, which purport to prove that the present rate of killing of old harp seals by the steamers is leading to such a serious reduction of the herd as to warrant the absolute stoppage of this practice. Mr. Harvey's figures and contentions will not, however, bear close inspection, and are in my opinion based on entirely erroneous premises, and misleading statistics, as I hope to prove in this letter. As the important clause in the Bill now before the Legislature relating to this matter has admittedly been framed at Mr. Harvey's personal instigation, and there seems no other way open to me of showing the erroneous impressions upon which the clause has been based, I venture to trespass on your space to a greater extent than I would otherwise feel justified in doing. Mr. Harvey commences his article with figures purporting to show that there has been a serious steady average decrease in the catch of young harp seals at the front, taking 3-year periods commencing in 1889 and ending in 1913, and so far as the quantity of seals actually manufactured is concerned, the figures are fairly correct. The figures given by Mr. Harvey are roughly as follows:

Average Catch of Young Harps.

1889-1902	254,000
1902-1904	242,000
1905-1907	235,000
1908-1910	138,000
1911-1913	164,000

Mr. Harvey has, however, I presume, omitted to notice that (1) The decrease in the period 1905-1907 is entirely accounted for by the abnormally small catch (120,000) in 1905, when the main patch was driven very far South, and nearly all of the steamers missed it. That year will be remembered as the one in which Captain Jackson in the "Esquimaux" finished taking his seals well South of Cape Race. The average for the two years 1906-7 was very little if anything less than the average for the years 1899-1904.

(2) The young seals taken by the steamers during the period 1908-1910 are entirely accounted for by those taken in the period 1905-1907, as the catches of the steamers "Grand Lake" and "Virginia Lake" which were lost in at least 36,000 seals between them, are not included in Mr. Harvey's figures. The correct figures as a basis for consideration of this matter would therefore be approximately:

1889-1902	254,000
1902-1904	242,000
1905-1907	206,000 (decrease entirely accounted for by steamers missing the patch in 1905)
1908-1910	198,000 (viz.: 188,000 as per Mr. Harvey's figures, plus 10,000, say one-third of 36,000, in "Virginia Lake" and "Grand Lake")
1911-1913	164,000

The sequence of alleged decline in catch in young (which Mr. Harvey evidently believes is a fair indication of the quantity of young seals in the herd) will be noticed was broken in the period 1908-1910. It is this alleged regular sequence of decrease that catches the eye in Mr. Harvey's figures, and at first blush makes one think there might be something worth considering in his figures, but the fact that there were 275,000 young seals killed in 1906 disposes of any question of decrease up to that point.

I think it is clear from the above that there was no material decrease that could not be accounted for by natural conditions until the period 1911-1913, in which period there was certainly a very material decrease. As regards this particular period, I am confident that the decrease can be attributed partly to wind, ice and weather conditions, and partly to the fact that the steamers sailed three to four days later than in the earlier periods.

In the year 1913 particularly (total catch only 130,000) the "Beothic" was the only steamer that secured anything like a good trip, and she took most of her seals. I think I am right in stating, early in April, or very late in March, and would have taken very many more but for the very bad ice conditions, and the lateness of the date at which she located the seals, that it was Captain Winsor's opinion that the other steamers, with the exception of S.S. Adventure, never saw the main patch.

Now, unfortunately for Mr. Harvey's theory that a decrease in catch of young can be accounted for by the number of old seals killed by the steamers, I would like to call attention to the fact that since 1895 the heaviest catch of old and bedlamer seals during periods of four years (I see no reason for adhering to three year periods) occurred in 1895-1898, when over 100,000 old seals were brought in. These four years were followed by eight years of extra good catches of young seals, the average for the eight years being 237,000 seals, which is far better than any similar period since 1895.

Mr. Harvey also attributes the increased catch of young in the Gulf in subsequent years to the small catch of old there between 1901-1908, but apparently has failed to notice that there were many more steamers employed in those subsequent years than previously, and also that the largest catch of young seals there (74,000 in 1913) was preceded by four years, during which more old seals were killed than in any previous period.

This would show entirely the reverse of Mr. Harvey's contention. The truth, however, is that no such conclusion as that drawn by Mr. Harvey can be gathered from any statistics as to catch. The figures on the front have mainly been those in which the ice is well off the land but not too far South, and the poor years those in which the ice is either jammed on the land, or in close proximity to it, or in which the seals have been driven South of the Banks and into rough water before the steamers have had a fair chance to reach them.

I cannot imagine upon what authority Mr. Harvey bases his assumption that the productive period of a breeding seal is only 7 years. The conclusions drawn from his figures are based on this assumed fact but he has shown no authority for it. His insinuation that the total herd of old breeding seals is only 550,000, it must be remembered is pure guess work, and in my opinion he has absolutely failed to make a good case. If, for instance, the productive period is taken as 10 years, and the present herd of old breeding seals is 750,000 (both of which facts can so far as I know quite as justly be assumed as the figures he has taken) on the basis worked out by Mr. Harvey, there would be a very large annual increase of young seals instead of the decrease he indicates.

The introduction of legislation which will deprive those interested in the fishery of the right to kill old harp seals should at least be based on some good grounds. I submit that none have been shown, and I think the steamer owners and captains are well entitled to the opinion expressed in view of the enormous quantities of bedlams seen this year, due no doubt to the very large quantities of young which have escaped in recent years, there never was a time when such legislation was less required. It is unthinkable that such legislation will be passed when it is admittedly based upon an opinion drawn from fancy statistics, and entirely opposed to the views of those competent to form a practical opinion.

In closing, I would like to add that Mr. Harvey's indication that a seal does not become a breeder until the beginning of its fifth year of life, is quite contrary to the opinion, and I think I am correct in saying, the unanimous opinion of the sealing captains, and it appears to be a generally accepted fact among seal killers, that a seal "mates" at the beginning of its third year, and whelps at the ending of its third year of life.

With apologies for length of this letter. Yours very truly,
ROBERT B. JOB.

Answers Supreme Call

The casualty list recently received contains the name of Laurence Dunphy of Trepassay, "died of wounds in action." Having joined the Canadian troops at Halifax early in 1914, he proceeded to Shorncliffe, England, and from there to France. His next of kin is Mr. John Doreaux of Trepassay. Private Henry Sexton, son of John and Elizabeth Sexton of Bonavista, who enlisted at Sydney, C.B., in June of last year, is reported wounded. Private Dunphy has answered the supreme call, and to his sorrowing relatives the Telegram extends deepest sympathy. We trust that Private Sexton's wound is not of a serious nature.

The Class will meet in the Synod Building to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The lecturer will be the Rev. Canon Bolt, M.A., who will take for his subject the work of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge. This venerable Society has for many years greatly assisted the work of the Church in this country and has been a particular friend to the Class in assisting it to maintain its Harp Mission work. Some of the results of the great war has been to reduce the subscriptions to the Society and to increase its opportunities for good, and under these circumstances it is the intention of the Class to assist its old friend in the hour of need. The meeting will be of a missionary character and the offering will be sent to the Society. No doubt a full attendance will be present.

MARSHALL Brothers.

Being Ancestors.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A friend of mine is very proud of the half dozen pieces of mahogany which have come down to her from her grandfather. The other day when I was calling on her the door bell rang and she excused herself to answer. When she came back to me she explained that she had been making arrangements to sell some furniture, among other things, a black walnut bedstead that had belonged to her parents.

"Don't you think your grandchildren will be sorry some day that you sold that?" I asked. "Just as you can never get over the fact that your grandmother traded that pineapple bedstead 'that hideous old mahogany ware'?"

"But this is that hideous black walnut," she said.

She probably called her Mother's Furniture Hideous.

"Yes, said I, "and probably your grandmother called the pineapple bedstead 'that hideous old mahogany thing.'"

The black walnut bed of which she spoke is a plain, massive thing with really good lines. I don't doubt that there will come a day when it will be valuable.

Black walnut at the present time is almost impossible to get. The black walnut as a tree is practically extinct. It will be many years before we get another growth of it.

Consequently the antique dealer is beginning to collect black walnut furniture. "This does not mean that all black walnut furniture is, or ever will be, valuable. Too much of it was made at a period when everything was ornate and ugly.

Did They Leave Their Brains Behind Them?

Someone has said that, judging from the architecture of the period just after the Civil War, one would think the architects of the United States left their brains instead of their bodies on the battlefield. One might well think the same of the cabinet makers.

Nevertheless, there are some good pieces that are worth keeping for heirlooms. Our children may not think so much of them, even as our fathers did not think so much of the mahogany we prize, but our grandchildren will surely bless us.

We all have ancestors, many of us are going to be ancestors. Practically all of us think more of the former fact than the latter, probably because no one cares much to think of the world going cheerfully on without him.

What Kind Of Ancestors Are We?

But have we no obligations as ancestors? We are grateful to our ancestors for the heirlooms and the traditions they have left us. Will those to whom we are to be ancestors have reason to be grateful to us?

To pass from black walnut (which was only the hook on which I wanted to hang my reminder that we are as well as have ancestors—though it seems to have grown disproportionately large for a hook) to less worldly considerations:

"Consider whether we ought not to be more in the habit of seeking honor from our descendants than from our ancestors; thinking it better to be nobly born."—Ruskin.

Mary Again on the War Path.

Going to Make it Hot for Some Bachelors.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—There is quite a lot of speculating about town as to who Mary is, particularly is this the case at one of our club rooms, and, if you please, the old bachelors are the most inquisitive in this respect. "This for their benefit I pen the following with the assistance of Thomas, as usual—"

Who's Who in Harbor Grace is making some folks very weary. But most of all they'd like to know The whereabouts of Tom and Mary.

"Tis asked in club rooms, workshops, too,

"Till puzzling makes the brain quite weary. And many would just love to know The maiden name of Tom and Mary.

This question's asked since 19-8 Has never yet been answered straight, Tho' some with tongues a little long Claimed they themselves were me and Tom.

This fact I think but little of But 'm too long now to the subject matter.

Of this my ill-rhymed little poem, The bachelor is who I'm after.

He'd like to know who Mary is, Is now quite near the point called vexed.

But if me and Tom could get our way We'd have every bloomin' bachelor taxed.

They walk as men, some talk as men, But in their homes they're almost buried;

They freely chat on all the news, But exit quick to mention married.

Let's tax them, women, one and all, A huge petition will do the trick; Into their homes you'll see them crawl With nose to pity when they're sick.

Tax them, yes, and make them help To school the rising generation; 'Tis shameful now to let them off When married men pay all taxation.

I'd like to see a Government Bill For bachelors all, without exception. When passed their 40th year of life To enter matrimony by conscription.

They even have the gall to speak Of sending men to war the "Jack." But where would this old Empire be If all our men stayed on their tack?

But think ye men, who ne'er got wed, How happy Tom and I have been For 59 years, since "I Will" we said, And not a saddened day we've seen.

Before I close, to my bachelor friends Be sure I hold no animosity; But at present I regret to say I cannot stay your curiosity.

Yours very truly, MARY.

Hr. Grace, April 26, 1916.

P.S.—I will attend to that Government official, mentioned by your H. G. correspondent, in a few days.—M.

Gulf Sealers Homeward Bound.

A message was received last night by Bowring Bros., stating that the s.s. Viking, Capt. Wm. Bartlett, 37, and passed Cape Ray on her way to St. John's. Capt. Bartlett did not report the number of seals he had, though he is believed to have at least 10,500 young and old. The ship should arrive here about noon to-morrow. Messrs. James Baird, Ltd., also received a message last night from Colroy stating that the s.s. Diana had arrived there from the Gulf, all well, and had landed part of her crew. Capt. Martin did not report his catch, which is understood to be $,000 young and old, mostly the latter. The Diana left Colroy again last night, due here to-morrow night. The Ranger will bring home the key of the 1916 sealfishery. As this is the last killing day allowed, she will no doubt leave for home this evening. All the Gulf ships has not enough seals to pay for the "bread box," so that the Gulf fishery has not been the failure anticipated.

Convicted of Assault and Imprisoned.

By last night's train Constable Devine brought in the Penitentiary a male prisoner named Burke, who is to serve a month's imprisonment. Burke had been working on Bell Island and had assaulted another workman, after which he made his escape from the Island and was next heard of in Conception Hr. The case was heard before Magistrate Power at Bell Island in the absence of the defendant, but in the presence of the complainant. The facts were sworn to and the perpetrator of the assault fined $10 or 30 days. A warrant was then issued for the arrest of Burke and he was arrested at his home in Conception Hr. Failing to make good the fine imposed, the alternative was taken.

BREACH OF PROMISE CASE.—A breach of promise case came up before the Supreme Court on circuit while sitting at Hr. Grace. The principals were residents of Freshwater. Messrs. Hunt and L. E. Emerson, appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. Howley, K.C., for the defendant. The Court decided in favor of the defendant.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the triad of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should damn the moths until the candle drew them, I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X Lamp and GASTHEAM Radiators fill all light and heat requirements.

At the House

FRIDAY, April 28, 1916. The Report of the Medical and General Hospital was read by the Colonial Secretary.

The Council's amendments to the Weights and Measures Act were carried in except the one dealing with the measurement of pit props. The Bill amending the Duties Act, which applies the provisions of the Act to property held in the country and not taxed there read a first time.

The House went into Committee on the Ways and Means Resolutions, the Leader of the Opposition moved the taxing of war profits and a list of taxation on articles of consumption.

Mr. Lloyd moved the following resolutions—

"Be it resolved that this House is of the opinion that the Ministry of Finance should have recommended the imposition of taxes on goods made by the sale of steamships, steamers to the Russian Government and be it resolved further that the House is of opinion that such taxes should have been taken to the whole or in part the duties being collected on other articles, such as engines used for fishery purposes, gasolene used for fishery purposes, cattle feed."

The motion was put and carried on a party vote by 15 to 10. The Committee rose and the House resumed the chair. Mr. Lloyd proposed an amendment to the Ways and Means Resolutions. On a vote taken the amendment was carried on a strict party vote by 15 to 10.

The Public Service Act was introduced and passed.

The Saw Mill Bill went into Committee with slight amendments. The House then went into Committee on Bill "An Act to amend the Act respecting the Exportation of Timber." The main clause of the Bill (No. 1) provides for the export of props to the United Kingdom, France until six months after the war is over.

Mr. Lloyd stated that it was the intention of the Opposition to move to Section 1 all the amendments to the hindrance they possibly could under normal conditions they think it desirable to encourage the export of pit props from Newfoundland, but rather in the interest of the Colony to conserve our wood manufacturing resources. The pulp and lumber mills must be finished. Certain facts, he said, had been laid before the Opposition and he was asking them to recognize that they must be prepared to make a sacrifice for the Empire and for the advantages for the present and future of these resources.

Mr. Coaker spoke in support of the amendments. He said that he destroyed he would protest, but in view of certain circumstances, referred to by the speaker, he gave his assent to the Bill. In the meantime he had the Premier would give a statement that he would not consent to the amendments, but in view of the fact that he drew the attention of the House to the matter, he was paid $2.50 paid to the cutters of the "worthies" who afterwards on the other side at a profit of 10 cent.

The Premier congratulated the position on the patriotic speech by them and assured that the Bill was brought in in the interests of the Empire. He proposed to agree to Mr. Coaker's motion regarding the three-mile limit.

The Premier then expressed his regret on announcing the news that the Premier wounded in France. Mr. Lloyd on behalf of the Opposition conveyed their sympathy to the Finance Minister over the death of his son. He then criticized the men engaged in the cutting of props were sweated and paid a rate of $2.50 per cord and in cases 40 cents a day. He said that buyers were paying 12 cents much for freight as they paid for the pit props and in cases as high as $60 a cord in Great Britain and France. He emphasized that it was ridiculous for any country to allow the swamping of its market such an industry where such a profit existed and moved as an amendment that the minimum price for props shall not be less than $4 per cord for pit props on the bank and also a man shipped by the month shall be paid less than $10 a month board and lodging.

The Minister of Fisheries supported the amendment and the Minister of Finance said he would support amendment with the modification, that the price on the bank shall be $5 for unripened wood and $4 for ripened. The amendment was passed.

The House then went into Committee on the Prohibition Bill. Mr. Lloyd pointed out that the patent medicines contained 10 per cent of alcohol and were prohibited by the bill. It was his intention to exclude them from the scope of the bill, that intention should be clearly expressed, if it was his intention to leave them included in the scope of the bill, it would be as to state so in specific terms, as stated by a general expression of the scope of the bill, in order that the

At the House.

FRIDAY, April 28, 1916.
 The Report of the Medical Supt. of the General Hospital was presented by the Colonial Secretary.
 The Council's amendment to the Weights and Measures Act were concurred in except the one dealing with the measurement of pit props.
 The Bill amending the Death Duties Act, which applies the provisions of the Act to property held outside the country and not taxed there was read a first time.
 The House went into Committee on the Ways and Means Resolutions and the Leader of the Opposition advocated the taxing of war profits and a relief of taxation on articles of consumption.
 Mr. Lloyd moved the following Resolutions:
 "Be it resolved that this House is of the opinion that the Minister of Finance should have recommended the imposition of taxes on profits made by the sale of steel sealing steamers to the Russian Government and be it resolved further that this House is of opinion that some steps should have been taken to relieve in whole or in part the duties now being collected on either kero oil, motor engines used for fishery purposes, gasoline used for fishery purposes, or cattle feed."
 The motion was put and defeated on a party vote by 15 to 11. When the Committee rose and the Speaker resumed the chair Mr. Lloyd proposed an amendment the foregoing Resolutions. On a vote being taken the amendment was lost again on a strict party vote by 16 to 11.
 The Public Service Act was then introduced and passed.
 The Saw Mill Bill went through Committee with slight amendment.
 The House then went into Committee on Bill "An Act to amend the law respecting the Exportation of Timber." The main clause of the Bill (No. 4) provides for the export of pit props to the United Kingdom and France until six months after the war is over.
 Mr. Lloyd stated that it had been the intention of the Opposition to give to Section 1 all the opposition and all the hindrance they possibly could, as under normal conditions they did not think it desirable to encourage the export of pit props from Newfoundland, but rather in the interests of the Colony to conserve our woodlands for manufacturing purposes in order that pulp and lumber mills may be established. Certain facts he said, had been laid before the Opposition leading them, not to modify their opinions but to recognize the Newfoundland must be prepared to make sacrifices for the Empire and forgo these advantages for the present of retaining these resources.
 Mr. Coaker spoke in similar tenor. Owing to the way timber areas were destroyed he would protest vigorously but in view of certain circumstances, referred to by the previous speaker, he gave his assent to the Bill. In the meantime he hoped that the Premier would give a promise that he would not consent to representations made asking for the cutting of timber inside the three-mile limit. He drew the attention of the House to the miserable wage of $3 to $3.50 paid to the cutters in Newfoundland by "worthies" who afterwards sell at the other side at a profit of 100 per cent.
 The Premier congratulated the Opposition on the patriotic spirit evinced by them and assured them that the Bill was brought in entirely in the interests of the Empire. He promised to agree to Mr. Coaker's request regarding the three-mile limit.
 The Premier then expressed regret on announcing the news that the son of the Finance Minister had been wounded in France.
 Mr. Lloyd on behalf of the Opposition conveyed their sympathy to the Finance Minister over the wounding of his son. He then criticized the way the men engaged in the cutting of pit props were sweated and paid such rates of $3.20 per cord which meant in cases 40 cents a day. He showed that buyers were paying 12 times as much for freight as they paid for cutting pit props and were getting as high as $60 a cord in Great Britain and France. He emphasized that it was ridiculous for any community to allow the sweating of its people in such an industry where such margins existed and moved as an amendment that the minimum price to the cutter shall not be less than $5 per cord for pit props on the bank; also that a man shipped by the month shall not be paid less than $30 a month and board and lodging.
 The Minister of Fisheries supported the amendment and the Minister of Finance said he would accept the amendment with the modification, viz. that the price on the bank should be $5 for unripped wood and $6 for ripped. The amendment was then passed.
 The House then went into Committee on the Prohibition Bill.
 Mr. Lloyd pointed out that many patent medicines contained above 2 per cent. of alcohol and were therefore within the confines of the liquor prohibited by the bill. If it was the intention to exclude them from the scope of the bill, that intention should be clearly expressed, if it was the intention to leave them included in the scope of the bill, it would be as well to state so in specific terms, instead of by a general expression of all spirituous liquors containing above 2 per cent. of alcohol, in order that business men who dealt in these articles would not be misled. He was in favor of the latter course, as he considered the unregulated sale of alcoholic patent medicine a great evil, capable of growing to enormous dimensions if winked at by the authorities and capable of destroying the benefits hoped for from Prohibition legislation.

 Quite a lot of debate followed in which the Premier, the Leader of the Opposition, Colonial Secretary, Mr. Coaker, Mr. Devereaux, Mr. Downey, Mr. Higgins, Mr. Currie and Mr. Grimes took part. It was generally admitted by all speakers that the use of patent medicines such as tonic wines alcoholic beverages was one of the great evils of the day, but it was considered too drastic to declare such Patent Medicines as are Liniment, emollient and ordinary household remedies.
 Mr. Lloyd later moved that all spirituous liquors, containing two per cent. of alcohol, except such drugs and medicines excluded by the Governor in Council, should be within the scope of the Bill. The amendment was accepted unanimously.
 The refusal of the druggists to dispense liquors gave rise to an amendment which provides that the Controller may dispense on prescription of a medical practitioner. Another amendment in the Bill is that it shall be lawful for the Controller to deliver to all clergymen such quantities of wine, for sacramental purposes, as may be certified to by the head of the denomination of which the clergy is a member, or such agent as may be appointed by the denomination.
 The Premier moved that the rules of the House will be suspended on Monday next. He also stated that the House would likely close Wednesday next. He also tabled a communication from Commander MacDermott stating that our Reservists are treated in all respects as the petty officers and R. N. seamen.
 The House then adjourned till Monday.

Girls! Girls! Try It! Stop Dandruff and Beautify Your Hair
 Hair stops falling out and gets thick, wavy, strong and beautiful.
 Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Dandrine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Dandrine and carefully draw through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.
 Besides beautifying the hair at once, Dandrine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.
 But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Dandrine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

The Education Bill.

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Sir—By this morning's Daily News I notice that in the Legislative Council they still haggle over the Education Bill. Some of those members have no children of their own to penalize, and these are the ones that have most to say about the Bill, and others may have them too stupid to take C. H. E. Exams, at 15 years of age not to mention 11. But why should they penalize my children if they are able to take the Exams at 11 years of age? Why should my children have to wait until 12 or 13 years of age or miss the examinations altogether? No man's children are compelled to take these exams at 11 or any other age; and if I wish my children to take them at 11, why prevent them from doing so? Let these learned gentlemen take matters of which they know something, and leave school affairs to parents and teachers.
 With thanks for space, Mr. Editor, INDIGNANT PARENT. St. John's, April 28th.

THE THOUGHTS OF THEOBALD.

POVERTY!
 Rev. Mr. Hemmeon's sermon on Poverty is very much to the point. Several times I have advocated that this matter be taken up by the Municipal Council and I hope that the New Charter will contain provisions for dealing systematically with the question—not with the object altogether of seeing that all those who are in need are helped, but with the object of finding out why poverty exists. Some may say that we have very few poor. So much the better, and so much easier will the work of a Commission on Poverty be. But there are others, who speak as they know, who say that we have altogether too many poor. We may have very few cases of destitution, that is, those absolutely starving. But as Mr. Hemmeon defines it poverty is a condition in which a "normal demand for food is not satisfied." And I think his figures as to the expenses of a family of five are very conservative. I should like anyone to sit down and figure out how a family of five can live on 25 cents a day at the present rate of living, and have a menu which includes the meat, vegetables, bread and fruit that is necessary to keep their bodies nourished. A statement showing how best to expend $25 a week for eatables would be an interesting and welcome list for many families of five, who find the problem how anything but easy. If any readers will prepare such statements and send in, I shall be glad to have them put in these columns. Perhaps the leading questions that have to be answered are these:
 (1) In making up the cost of an article, should the labour be reckoned in at an amount which will give a living wage to the workers?
 (2) Are the profits made by the sale of any article such as to allow larger wages being paid?
 At present labour is generally the last item considered in making up costs, and it is then limited by the selling price of the article. The question then is shall our profits be lessened in order to pay our workers as near a living wage as possible? It may be possible that in some cases in our own city, the price has to be reduced in order to compete with foreign goods. It is evident, however, that there are probably cases in which the profits made justify increased wages, without causing loss to anybody. Where this can be done it should be done. The object of every employer ought to be the giving of his men a living wage and that object should be equally as important as making money. As Christians it is imperative on us to act thus. The shame of civilization seems to me that we sacrifice human rights to material gain, receiving the difference between the actual cost of an article and the selling price often at the expense of human degradation. "A living profit" you ask for? Certainly. No one can object to it. But there are too many, too many, who consider that a "living profit" is not worth being in business for. They want all the profit they can get.

THE EDUCATION BILL.

Hon. J. A. Robinson deserves praise for his efforts to amend our Education Acts and bring in certain needed reforms. The decision to keep children under twelve from taking the C.H.E. examinations is a wise one, though I do not know why the Assembly objected, nor why the Legislative Council would not assent to the age limit of 12. It is good also to have a provision in the Act that all fatherless children shall be schooled free in any public school. As a matter of practice I understand that this is already done in many places, outports especially, and when done in this manner the teacher is really teaching these children at his own expense, as a great many of our outport teachers depend on the fees to make up their salary. Now, I presume, the Colony will pay for the schooling of these fatherless children and thus help the teacher to get a salary which will be in better proportion to his most important duties. At the same time, while we should be thankful for small mercies, yet I do not like the idea that the ignorance and lack of means of a father should cause his children to be brought up in the same state. The child cannot help the fact that his father has not the money to send him to school, nor can he help any fact that prevents him getting an education. It is the child only who suffers, and all who come after him. Therefore I should like to see all children who cannot afford the school fee, educated free. There are many things to be considered of course, before school is made compulsory. For instance children must have decent clothes to wear and must have a good meal inside them before they go to school. For all these questions it was indeed desirable that the powers of the Council of Higher Education should be enlarged. Education ought to advance not at the whim of any Executive, but in accordance with the ideas of our foremost educationists, and I cannot conceive what objection there could have been to give an advisory character to the Council of Higher Education. It would have been the nearest approach to a Department of Education that must come some day, and I

THE PLEBISCITE.

I cannot imagine why some think that the people cannot in two months make up their minds as to whether the Ward System suits them or whether they wish a Council elected at large. It seems to me that the Commissioners do protest too much in the matter. The impression gathers in the city that there is a want of confidence in the ability of the electorate to decide what is good for themselves. Now democracy may make mistakes but it is at its worst better than absolutism or despotic government is rampant. Not only is the individual Councillor shorn of his administrative power, but the Council as a body cannot interfere in some matters. The Commissioners prefer to give certain absolute powers to irremovable officials of the Council!

With regard to the Ward System it is not at all necessary that Councillors should have full powers to authorize any works in their individual wards. All these matters should be settled by the authority of the whole Council. I cannot agree with Mr. Gosling that there are not six men in this city who are "big" enough, or who have enough "principle" about them to see that all Wards get a fair show. However, whichever system of election the people prefer to have, let the New Charter be made to conform to it. And I see no necessity whatever for the city to go to the expense of a separate election on this question in September. The question could easily have been put at the bottom of the regular ballot paper. No separate paper would be necessary.

THE WICKED WAR.

I bought a ton of shredded coal. The price, I've had to raise," remarked the dealer, as he dole, and checked his loaded tray.
 "The war in Europe in a few days things high, and you'll be passing wise, if you produce your wad and buy before another rise." I went downtown to buy some ice, to use in place of coal; that dealer, too, had raised the price, and sprung his rigmartie: "The warring nations cannot find enough to eat. Their mined, and still lack countless tons." I asked the baker for a pie, to feed my hungry aunt; he said, "The war has made pies high—" I cried, "Aroint! Avoant! You merchants hand out whiskered lies, that you may boost the price; they are not shooting men with pies, or loading guns with ice. I don't object to being skinned, when sinkers I demand, but if you must use heated wind, produce a fresher brand."

Your Boys and Girls.

The diet for a nursing mother will, under ordinary circumstances be just the same as before the baby was born. It must be nutritious, laxative and appetizing. She may follow her own wishes as to the choice of food. The old idea that acid fruits and vegetables give the baby colic is probably not true, since all acids are changed in the process of the mother's digestion. However, if they or any other food or drink disturb the mother's digestion this may have an unfavorable effect upon the milk. It is necessary, therefore, to watch the diet very carefully and eliminate all articles that actually show themselves to be unsuited to the mother. If, in addition, the mother eats slowly, chews her food thoroughly, and above all, refrains from worry there will be no reason to suppose that the maternal milk will not agree with the baby. Brossiers are more and more necessary, now that sheer blouses are in such favor.

Denver.
 By GEORGE FITCH.
 Denver is the largest stopping off place between Kansas City and San Francisco and is called the "Mile High City," but not entirely because of the prices charged to tourists. It is situated on the second balcony of Colorado and is just a mile above the sea level. However, the city is quite safe. It is impossible to fall off of it, and in order to prevent anyone from falling out of it, the suburbs have been thoughtfully annexed giving the city an area of sixty square miles. Agriculture is making great strides in the outer wards of Denver. Denver was started in the middle of the silver boom by instantaneous millionaires, who wanted some pleasant place to retire and think it all over with a check book. In those days Denver was not good, but it was interesting. It was full of silver kings who built hotels, Grand Opera Houses, palaces, and office buildings with playful abandon while their money lasted, securing positions as janitors of the same buildings when it ran out. This gave Denver a great lead over its rivals, and it is now the metropolis of a territory 1,500 miles in diameter, has a population which ought really to be rated at double its figure, as each member can do enough lung exercise for two people, has a "welcome" sign in electric lights at its union station, and is a great tourist resort. One million grizzly bears and Rocky Mountain canaries with long furry ears are sold annually in Denver as paper weights, and are scattered over the world by thoughtful travellers who lose no chance to make life brighter and happier for the loved ones at home. Denver is within easy looking distance of the snow-capped Rockies and is congested with scenery and climate. The air is very rare and healthful. In fact, its rarity is only exceeded by the rarity of boarding houses for those who need said air. Denver has cured thousands of invalids with its rare air, but the man who goes out there with one lung finds a superior aloofness and exclusiveness in those citizens who have two. With the aid of a small guidebook and a large bale of bills one can spend a year most happily in the vicinity of Denver, rambling over the eaves, gables, domes, dormers and cupolas of the continent, and travellers who have had the European habit will be surprised at the number of Colorado people whom it is not necessary to tip.

MAN IS AS OLD AS HIS ARTERIES

THE failure of the arteries is one of the tragedies of modern life. Men in the very prime of life, and in the midst of business activities, are suddenly cut off. In many cases the blow comes before they realize their condition. And what is the cause? Most usually overeating and drinking, combined with too little bodily exercise. The blood becomes overloaded with poisons. The kidneys break down in an effort to filter the blood, degeneration of the arteries takes place, an artery in the brain bursts, a clot is formed and paralysis results. Or it may be an artery in the heart that gives way and causes heart failure. And how is this condition to be avoided? By moderation in eating and drinking, and by keeping the liver, kidneys and bowels regular and active. If you do not get sufficient exercise to accomplish this, it is necessary to use such treatment as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. It is only by the action of these organs that the blood can be purified and the poisons removed from the system. In using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you are not making any experiment, for they have no equal as a means of awakening the liver, kidneys and bowels to healthful activity. They prevent such serious troubles as hardening of the arteries, and thereby promote comfort and health and prolong life. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanison, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations disappoint.

POVERTY!

What Causes It? And What Will Cure It?

A Sermon Preached by the Rev. Douglas Hemmeon, in Gover Street Methodist Church, Sunday, April 16, 1916.

Text: Prov. 30: 8, 9. — "Give me neither poverty nor riches; feed me with the food that is needful for me; lest I be full and deny thee and say who is Jehovah? or lest I be poor and steal."

It has recently been stated in the press of this city that the church is not sufficiently concerned in the economic welfare of the masses. That statement is true. The church should be more than an asylum for saved souls. It should be a union of all who love to help all who suffer.

The duty of the church should be more than securing passports for heaven for the people. It should include the securing of life, labour, and happiness for them as they journey thither.

The problem of poverty in this city is not receiving the amount of attention which it deserves.

Professor Winslow says "that forty per cent. of the annual death rate is preventable." The City of New York reduced its infant mortality from 144 per thousand in 1907 to 94 per thousand in 1914. In our own city the rate stood in 1914 where it stood in 1907—168. On the 21st of last November the daily press of this city stated that there were 45 cases of diphtheria in our midst. On that day St. John, N.B. had 2 cases and Halifax, N.S. had 4. If honour binds us to kill people who attack our national institutions, honour equally binds us to protect our citizens from microbes and preventable degeneracy.

The present social order is far from being an expression of Christian brotherhood. There are men, women and children in our midst who are suffering from unjust economic conditions.

There was never a time when the duty of the Church to proclaim the practical demands of human brotherhood was so imperative as now.

I shall first define my terms. I shall then set forth certain fundamentals which must be accepted by all as a common basis of discussion.

Thereafter I shall state what I have calculated to be a living wage and divide those whose earnings fall below such a living wage into groups.

I shall next discuss some of the causes of poverty and shall conclude by suggesting some means for improving the conditions which produce poverty.

What is Poverty? Poverty is that condition in which a normal demand for food is not satisfied. It is of three kinds. Poverty of the Purse, Poverty of the Mind, and Poverty of the Life. Poverty of the Purse always produces poverty of the mind and life.

A poorly nourished body is a ready prey for disease of all kinds because it has so little resisting power. A poorly nourished body is also a ready prey to feeble-mindedness. A weak mind means a weak will. God cannot do much with a weak will. The devil can. Nature abhors a vacuum. She hates an empty stomach. The devil loves one because he knows that an empty stomach means an empty mind and an empty life. You can't raise men and women on bread and tea. Poverty produces starvation, inefficiency, disease and crime.

Riches may be defined as that condition in which the normal demand for food is oversatisfied. Overfeeding is gluttony and like underfeeding produces poverty of mind and life. Crime and vice find their habitation in the lives of the rich and the poor.

The writer of the text was a shrewd observer of human life.

This being true, the following fundamentals are clear.

1. There is a standard of income below which human life exists in a condition of starvation and therefore becomes a menace to society.

2. There is a standard of income below which starvation which therefore becomes a menace to society.

Therefore it is the duty of all fair minded citizens to study the conditions and try to improve them.

Let us now estimate the amount of income which in this community constitutes a living wage. A living wage is that amount of income which is necessary to satisfy the normal demand for food, in body, brain and life.

The average family in this town numbers five.

Rent per family (three to four rooms) $ 4 00

Fuel and Oil 6 00

Clothing 4 00

Doctor's bills, medicines, etc. 1 00

Insurance, school fees, reading material, church, amusements 2 00

Food which at the lowest estimate would cost 15 cents per individual per day, i.e., 5 cents per meal 22 50

$39 50

This equals about $9.00 per week, every week in the year.

If this estimate is fair, then all families receiving less than nine dollars per week are insufficiently paid. I do not know how many such families there are but the number must be large. This Church helps no families which are receiving more than $30.00 per month. I presume no church or charitable organization does.

State Charity gave assistance last year to 750 families in the city including electoral districts, exclusive of Poor House, Hospital, Insane Asylum, and Old Age Pensions.

This means that individuals were helped to the number of	3,700

The Churches and Charitable Institutions helped (estimated)	2,300
Less allowance for overlapping	5,000
	5,000

It would appear that we have about five thousand persons who have to be aided by charity each year.

The number of those who do not receive a living wage must be far larger than this. I have no present means of estimating them.

They may, however, be divided into groups.

Group I.—There is a considerable class of men who earn about $8.00 per week throughout the year. These, when their children are old enough to earn from $3.00 to $5.00 per week in factories and other places, manage to live in a fairly comfortable condition, though their mental and esthetic natures are often starved and their education is neglected.

Group II.—Another class of men, consisting of drivers, sailors, laborers, and others, I find, on enquiry, earn an average wage per month of $29.46. The expenses of such a family scale very low and amount to about the following:—

For coal (one small stove and fire often out) and oil per month	$ 5 00
Rent	3 50
Clothing	3 00
Doctors Bills and medicine	1 00
Insurance, reading, education	12 50

This leaves when not supplemented by children's earnings (as is often the case where the children are young) just eleven cents a day to feed each member of the family.

Such families are living constantly on a precipice of distressing and apprehensive need.

Group III.—Another group includes shop assistants who are receiving $1.50 per week, errand boys who receive $1.50 per week and sewers at home who receive $2½ cents per dozen for making overalls and jackets.

The members of this group live at home, otherwise they could not live at all.

Let us now consider the causes of Poverty. The causes of Poverty are of two sorts.

I. Causes for which the poor are themselves responsible.

1. Extravagance. Many spend their money as soon as it is obtained. They throw away money on cheap adornments and unnecessary food, buy prepared foods, and frequent places of amusement.

(a) Incompetence. This is notorious. Inability to cook, to buy, to utilize means to ends, to sew and generally to keep house.

(b) Indolence. They don't like work. Young men and women will stay away from the factory and shop without warning, to chase a street parade, to have a walk, to go on a picnic. Men will stand around street corners and refuse to work for less than they worked for yesterday, at a more lucrative job.

(c) Drunkenness. None of us is satisfied with industrial conditions as they are to-day and this is a good sign.

The hearts of the employer and the employee are turning toward each other. The friend is taking the place of the enemy. And this suggests the first method of improving conditions and healing the sore in our social life.

(d) Co-operation. Co-operation is gradually and surely supplanting competition. In many industrial plants it has completely taken its place. The Ford Motor Company has allotted ten million dollars on a profit sharing basis among its employees.

(e) Free and Compulsory Education. This would at one sweep gather thousands of young people who in a few years will be the workers of the land into schools, and transform them into efficient helpers instead of "helpless inefficient."

(f) A Government Commission to study industrial and domestic conditions among the laboring classes. It is indubitably true that a normal person's whole working time is worth a living wage. This being true the inevitable and unwelcome conclusion follows that there are classes of laboring men who are not receiving a living wage.

The continuance of such conditions is disaster to the State.

It is a fact that the low wages paid in many instances is the result of complex industrial conditions over which the individual employer has little if any control, and that he would gladly welcome any sane and practical aid offered by such a commission toward securing a general agreement among employers which would increase wages even though dividends suffered.

(g) Sympathetic Study by all who are interested.—How little we have really done but talk and listen and give a dole and run away. It is not Throw Away Your Eye-Glasses!

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye-strain or other eye-weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that there are ways for you. Many whose eyes were failing, they had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses. It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules here as the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in ¼ glass of water three or four times daily. With this liquid, bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear on perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many have had their sight restored in time. The Valmas Drug Co., of Toronto, will fill the above prescription by mail if your druggist cannot.

A prominent City Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituents ingredients are of the highest quality and are widely prescribed by them. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family."

thus that we shall bring the desired result. It is by hard thought and patient endeavor in the spirit of the Great Worker, with the radiant vision of a great Human Brotherhood to lure us on.

Long ago a Hebrew youth, serving the narrow greed of men about him dreamed of a time when he would stand among a suffering people and give them bread. Years pass, and lo! a nation is saved from starvation by his philanthropy and wisdom. In the same land another youth, bearing in his heart the pain of his people's servitude, dreamed of their flight to freedom. And lo! the wilderness trembles with the tread of those slaves of labour marching on to freedom. In the little town of Nazareth another youth, toiling with the tools of carpentry, dreams of the Kingdom of Heaven. And lo! twelve men rise up and carry His word of Freedom and Justice to all the world. Pierced by their prayers and labors, the leaden sky breaks above the bowed and weary head and reveals the coming commonwealth of God. Paul dreamed. And lo! in Corinth and in Rome, in Spain and in the faraway land of our fathers the slave shakes off his shackles and looks unafraid into the eyes of Kings. John Wesley dreamed! And here, in this dear land, the church bells call in hamlet and in town to glowing hearts and lives revived.

So shall we dream. And lo! our children's hands shall ring God's iron on the anvil, shall swing God's wood across the runways, shall steer the argosies of God into the friendly horizon, shall show God's goods upon the shelves, shall write God's numbers in the ledger, shall turn His kindly sod in the field, shall speak His word in the Council Chamber. Let us be dreamers. And lo! shall come a time when every child set to thirsty lips shall hold the very life of God and every crumb of bread shall be a sacrament.

Cure Borders on the Miraculous.

A. SAWYER TELLS OF WONDERFUL WORK OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

He and His Wife, After Years of Doctoring, Found Quick Relief and Permanent Cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Caporal Junction, Ont., April 28th. (Special.)—Bordering on the miraculous is the cure of Mr. A. Sawyer, of this place. For ten years, he was an invalid. Five doctors failed to help him. When he was a complete wreck, and unable to walk across his room he decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Six boxes of them made him like a new man.

"Yes, I suffered for ten years," Mr. Sawyer said in speaking of his cure. "The doctors of whom I tried, five altogether, couldn't give me any permanent relief. Some said I had rheumatism, others called it lumbago, but I got steadily worse."

"I must say I was a complete wreck when I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. They made a new man of me."

"My wife got the same good results from them. It was after trying several doctors and a specialist from Sault Ste. Marie, who advised her to stay in bed a month, that she decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. She took a dozen boxes in all with splendid results. We both praise Dodd's Kidney Pills. No one can speak too highly of them."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have a record of over a quarter of a century in Canada, during which time they have earned undying praise in all parts of the Dominion. Ask your neighbors about them.
