Sweet Eva!

CHAPTER XLIV.

He felt her tremble in his arms, but she did not speak, and he went on again: "Do you think—perhaps—some day . . . you might get to care for me again? I'll be so patient . . . I know you must have the sight of me now—but . . . perhaps . . . some day . . ."

She raised herself then, turning a little from him.

"If I could only just forget it all—"

she said brokenly. "You don't know what it's been—how I've been hurt . . . Last night—I meant to have left you—last night . . ."

The hot colour flamed in her face. "That's what I've come to," she said defiantly.

"It's what I've driven you to . . . My God, if I'd only known . . ."

Her tears began to fall again. "I did love you—oh, I did love you," she said brokenly.

"I know—"

Philip could not go on. He laid her gently down and got up, walking away to the window.

"But it's not too late yet," he said presently, trying to steady his voice. "I'll teach you to care again—I can—I know I can." He waited a moment, then came back to her. He bent over her, trying to smile.

"You're such a kid, after all," he said huskily. "Why, I could pick you up and run away with you if I chose. And to think you're a married woman! To think you're my wife." He turned his face sharply away, and for a moment there was silence. He kept her hand in his, and presently asked:

"You said something to me—about a note . . . when we were down at Aspley . . . When was it? . . . He passed a hand over his eyes, trying to remember. "It seems so long ago . . . what note did you mean, Eva? Oh, don't let there be any more misunderstandings between us," he broke out as she shook her head. "I want to know it all—everything, and I want to tell you everything, too—but I can't seem to remember."

She turned her face against the cushions so he could not see her eyes. "I wrote you a note—the last night before we came up to town; I—I—oh, I wanted to be friends with you," she added piteously.

Philip tried to laugh. "Friends!" he said brokenly. "I left it for you—downstairs . . . close to your slippers—I was so sure you would see it. I asked you to come and speak to me, but . . . but you didn't, and so . . ."

"You thought I had it! Eva, I swear to you . . ."

His voice rose excitedly and he felt her fingers quiver in his. He sat down beside her again.

"I never had the note . . . If I had . . . but it's too late to think of that now. Thank God, we can understand one another before it's too late . . ."

She looked away from his impassioned eyes.

"But you didn't love me . . ."

she said tremblingly. "You didn't love me . . ."

Philip slipped an arm beneath her head, bending over her.

"I began to love you from the day I asked you to marry me," he said. "The night of that infernal dinner party, when Kitty Arlington fainted . . ."

Yes, you've got to hear it all," he insisted as she winced. "She's nothing to me—I can see now that I owe her a sort of gratitude for letting me find out that it was you all the time I cared for . . . I knew it that night. I wish to heaven I had told you; but . . . I suppose I was afraid . . . I put it off to tell you when we were married, and then . . ."

He paused. "Before I could speak or say a word you . . . you . . ."

he clenched his hand.

Eva freed herself from his arm. There was a fiery spot of colour in either cheek.

"It was because I knew the truth. I knew why you'd married me . . . I knew you didn't care—that it was just to save your people. Oh, can't you imagine how I felt? Can't you realise what it was like to be told—on my wedding day?"

Philip put his hands on her shoulders turning her to him.

"When did you know? Who told you?" he asked.

Her eyes fell. A little quiver of anguish crossed her face.

"Father told me . . . when—when I was changing my dress—to go away with you . . ."

"Eva!" His voice was full of shame and anger.

"Oh, you mustn't blame him. I don't! I think I've always been glad that I knew . . . I might have gone on loving you, believing that you loved me, if I hadn't known—but as it is . . ."

She broke off with a long, quivering sigh.

The Broken Circle!

CHAPTER III.

Those were the palm days of West-end apartments and first-class music-masters. Then "the Voices of the People" lectured good broadcloth, wearing a gold watch and chain; and the patient, oppressed, toiling multitude gave their pence cheerfully, and never thought of the incongruity. When riot and anarchy reigned, when sullen hate grew into fierce vengeance, when man pursued master with dogged desire for ruin—then Martin Ray flourished, and his beautiful little daughters wore fine clothes and ate good food. But, when the loyal good sense of the people prevailed, when submission to lawful authority reigned, when the fire of discontent was extinguished—then doleful days set in for Martin. For, instead of paying the agitators who avoided all danger while they led others into it, the workmen kept their money.

Martin Ray was often at a loss to know where his dinner or his children's clothes were to come from. Yet, in spite of all drawbacks, the girls grew up beautiful and intelligent.

Wherever Martin Ray went, he took them with him; and they learned much that was useful, with much that was the reverse. They had no friends; it was impossible to form even acquaintances living as they did, alternately in luxury and poverty, in great cities and remote villages. The men with whom their father associated were almost unknown to them, and never brought wife or sister to see them. They were lonely and friendless. Then came a time of great trouble of which they fortunately knew not. Little Leah was eleven and Hettie ten. Martin Ray, rendered desperate by what seemed to him long-continued peace and order, made a speech which brought him under the iron grip of the law. He was tried, and sentenced to three years imprisonment; and, in spite of all that friends could do, of petitions, and of an agitation which spread all over the country, the sentence was carried out.

Martin Ray, who had not scrupled to use the most offensive language with regard to his sovereign, who had not hesitated to incite his people to sedition and rebellion, found his punishment in the ignominy and solitude of a prison.

An old patron took pity on his youthful children. Sir John Falkner, a leading Radical, came to the rescue. He sent the children to a boarding-school kept by a poor relative of his own—a Miss Fairfax—who resided at Kew. He forbade any mention of their father's imprisonment; and the children were told that he was away from home, absent on special business, and would not return for a few years. They believed it implicitly. They had some kind of idea that their father was a great statesman, born to set the wrongs of the world right. If they had been told that he had gone to de throne the Czar of all the Russias, they would have believed it just as implicitly.

They spent three years with Miss Fairfax—and very happy years they were.

"Let them learn everything," Sir John had said. "The chances are that Martin Ray will never be out of mischief again, and they may have to work for their living."

LIBERTY OF INDIVIDUAL RE-PRESSED.

"London has flourished and become famous largely because of the attractive features which it has presented to the travelling public, but the ever-tightening grip of control is changing all this."

The Association contends that much of the blame for the present unhappy condition of trade and commerce should be apportioned to the restrictions and limitations imposed upon business and individuals by authorities.

The writers assert that these restrictions result in the establishment of an arbitrary and bureaucratic authority, and the limitation of the right of the citizen to conduct himself with that freedom which is an essential part of the character of a free citizen.

GOING TO PIECES.

My years are ten and fifty, and when I meet my friends, I say I'm feeling nifty, my cheerful spirit ascends. I cry, "Ach, donner-wetter, life's autumn is good fun! I wasn't feeling better when I was twenty-one!"

I bravely make a showing of being free from care; but I am always going to come one for repairs. My molars drive me nutty, and need the dentist's skill; he plugs them up with putty, and jars me with his bill. I'm sighing and dodgating when I am all alone, for I must buy a casting to fix my collar bone; as daily I grow older, some grievous want appears; I need a wooden shoulder, I need some new ears.

The surgeon long has beckoned, the druggist brings his pill, and I must go in second when I would climb a hill. Yet cheerfully I canter along the village street, and blithely josh and banter the delegates I meet. "I never stacked up greater," I cry, in hollow glee; "I'd whip an alligator, and make a bobcat flee!"

Some men may say I'm dotty as on my way I wend, may even say I'm naughty to four-flush and pretend; but I believe it's better to spring a cheerful where than talk of gout and tetter and foot-and-mouth disease.

I'm So Tired

Fatigue is the result of poisons in the blood. So when the kidneys fail to purify the blood one of the first indications is unusual and persistent tired feelings and pains in the back.

Neglected kidney troubles lead to years of suffering from rheumatism or develop into such fatal ailments as Bright's disease.

The kidney action is promptly corrected by use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills—the best known regulator of kidneys, liver and bowels.

Mrs. John Ireland, R.R. No. 2, King, Ont., writes:

"I was a great sufferer from severe headaches and bilious spells. I tried a number of remedies without obtaining any benefit until I was advised to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. These completely relieved me and made me feel like a new person. I am very grateful to Dr. Chase's medicines for what they have done for me, and you may use my letter for the benefit of others."

London Business Hampered.

BY BUREAUCRATIC RESTRICTIONS.

LONDON, (Associated Press)—Governmental restrictions are blamed in part for the business depression in London in a letter which the Imperial Commercial Association has sent to the liquor licensing justices. Its signers predict that disastrous results will follow the closing of public houses at 10 o'clock as foreshadowed. The letter is signed by Baron Incheape, one of the leading shipping men of Great Britain; Baron Swaythling, banker; Baron Ritchie, vice-chairman of the Port of London Authority; Lord Balfour of Burleigh, former Parliament Secretary of the Board of Trade; Baron Ashfield, managing director of the underground railways; Baron Faringdon, chairman of the Great Central Railway; Viscount Devonport, chairman of the Port of London Authority and former food controller, and Sir J. P. Hewitt.

They asserted that "it is probable that never in the history of this country has the liberty of the individual been more subject to rigorous limitations than at present."

"London has flourished and become famous largely because of the attractive features which it has presented to the travelling public, but the ever-tightening grip of control is changing all this."

The Association contends that much of the blame for the present unhappy condition of trade and commerce should be apportioned to the restrictions and limitations imposed upon business and individuals by authorities.

The writers assert that these restrictions result in the establishment of an arbitrary and bureaucratic authority, and the limitation of the right of the citizen to conduct himself with that freedom which is an essential part of the character of a free citizen.

Secrets of the Scaffold.

REVELATIONS OF A PRISON OFFICIAL.

It ever a man deserved the hangman's rope, it was certainly Joseph Hefferman, for he brutally did to death a girl whose only crime was that she had befriended him in his need. Coward to the end, he passed from life in a scene as dramatic and sensational as any ever seen on the scaffold.

A dozen years ago there was no more popular girl in West Meath than Mary Walker, telegraphist at a local post-office. She was not only pretty; she had a sweetness of disposition and a goodness of heart that made her beloved by all who knew her. And it was with a sensation of horror and anger that one day it was learned that Mary's body had been found on the canal bank in a condition which pointed conclusively to murder.

At two o'clock on the previous afternoon she had left the post-office to return to her lodgings for dinner. As she was not due for duty again until 7.35 in the evening, she had gone for a solitary stroll after her meal, along the canal embankment, promising to be back for tea at five o'clock.

A FIGHT FOR LIFE.

Hour after hour passed and Mary did not return. When darkness fell her landlady grew alarmed and sent her son in search of the missing girl. Four hours later he came back with the terrible news that he had found her dead body on the bank of the canal, with a deep gash in her throat. It was clear that she had been done to death and that she had made a brave fight for her life was proved by the signs of a fierce struggle.

Who could have done this foul deed? It was not long before light was thrown on this terrible mystery, for a boy who had been exercising a horse in a field near the scene of the tragedy informed the police that, about five o'clock on the fatal day, he had seen a woman running along the side of the canal, pursued by a man who had caught her and pushed her down the bank. He had thought they were "sky-larking," and had paid no more attention to them.

About the same time a girl living near the scene had heard screams proceeding from the same spot, and later had seen a man washing his hands in the canal and rubbing his boots with grass.

Further evidence was soon forthcoming from a woman, who said that her lodger, Joseph Hefferman, a labourer, had returned at ten o'clock on the night of the murder with the strange story that he was at the canal when a girl had been murdered and that he had helped to dispose of the body.

SHOULD HE CONFESS?

The first suspicions were later confirmed. Hefferman was identified as the man who had been seen first chasing a woman along the canal-bank and then washing his hands at the scene of the crime. In the afternoon he had been seen walking in the direction of the canal. He was recognized also by a young girl as the man who, late on the night of the murder, had presented himself at her house and demanded a drink.

When arrested, Hefferman declared that he did not know the girl. On the day of the tragedy, he said, he had been working on a farm until late in the evening—a statement which farmer denied, declaring that the man had left off work at noon, and had not returned to it.

Seeing that he was not believed, Hefferman said: "I am afraid they will swear my life away. Do you think, if I admitted it and said I was mad with drink, I would get off with a couple of years?"

Seldom has evidence of guilt gained a man charged with murder been more conclusive, and never has there been a more entire lack of motive to explain the crime. Indeed, so far from having done anything to incur her murderer's enmity, Mary Walker had befriended him by getting him employed on the farm.

INTO THE PIT.

Together the three men mounted the scaffold, the priests flinging their arms round the half-unconscious man and clinging convulsively to him. Even when his feet were plintoned, the noise was placed round his neck and the white cap drawn over his head, the priests refused to leave him. Standing on the trap-doors they continued to pray and weep over him as it determined to share his fate.

Thus several minutes passed. At last the hangman and his assistants, their patience exhausted, pulled the priests away from the now unconscious man and pushed them clear of the trap-doors. Then the executioner sprang back to his lever, released the bolts, and Joseph Hefferman vanished into the pit below.

The last scene in this amazing drama reveals the priests bending reverently over the dark pit, praying, with streaming eyes, for the repose of Hefferman's soul.

"SIX MONTHS AGO"

"It's hard to realize that six months ago I couldn't walk across the floor and now I am so well!"

"I have never been very strong but the heat last summer was too much for me. This and the fact that my husband was out of work and I had to work day and night to keep from starving, left me a physical wreck. Luckily my husband was able to get a good job just when I had to go to bed. I tried everything I could think of to get strong, but each day I seemed to be getting weaker and weaker. I was reduced to a skeleton. I couldn't eat or sleep. I had no strength left and finally I was so weak that I tried to cross the floor one day I collapsed. I was so ill and weak that I didn't care whether I lived or died. And then I heard about that marvelous preparation—Carnol. A friend of mine had used it with wonderful results and as it had done so much for her, I decided to try it. The results were nothing less than miraculous. In two weeks I was able to get up and walk about the house. My appetite had returned. I was no longer hungry. I could sleep when I went to bed, something I had not been able to do for months. I have already taken six bottles of Carnol, and I am still taking it. I weigh more today than I ever weighed before in my life. I sleep like a child. I am never tired and my skin is as clear and my cheeks as rosy as a girl's. I believe I heard about Carnol," Mrs. E. K. Toronto.

WHOM DO WOMEN DRESS TO PLEASE?

Whom do women buy their clothes to make an impression on? Their husbands? Other women? Other men?

This question arose the other day when a friend of mine, who was considering the purchase of a garment that she knew would be very becoming, but also knew cost more than she ought to spend, justified herself by saying that she wanted it to make herself look attractive in her husband's eyes and give him reason to feel proud of her.

He says to please other men. One of the men present

FINISHING THE REVOLUTION.

PRETORIA, March 13.

Government forces are proceeding with great success against the revolutionaries according to an official communication issued at midnight. The statement says "the total number of rebels taken in the operations in the past week is 2,200. Our forces are equipped with but slight casualties the ground west of Cliffe. In the area Major-General Von Decker's troops forced the revolutionaries to retire into Benoni, twenty miles Northwest of Johannesburg, where they are now pushing eastward. We have occupied Rietfontein, in British Transvaal."

UNFAVORABLE CONDITIONS WILL SOON BE RE-ESTABLISHED.

LONDON, March 13.

Press despatches from Madras, Bombay, Calcutta and Lahore concur in declaring that there was very little excitement in India over the arrest of Non-Co-operationist leader Gandhi, which had long been expected. A Calcutta despatch to the Times says leading Non-Co-operationists in Bengal Province welcomed the arrest, because they say Gandhi will no longer be charged with escaping punishment while compelling others to suffer.

ANOTHER SIDE OF THE STORY.

LONDON, March 13.

Discussing incidents which led up to the request for the resignation of Secretary for India Montagu, in the House of Commons to-day, Austen Chamberlain, Government leader, said Montagu had received two telegrams from India, one on March 1, which he had communicated to the Cabinet, and the second on March 4, to which he replied by private wire to India authorizing publication of the first telegram. On March 6th, when Lord Curzon spoke to Montagu about the question of publishing the first telegram Montagu replied, "Oh, I authorized it Saturday." Mr. Chamberlain repudiated the suggestion that the reasons given for the resignation of Montagu were a pretext to get rid of him.

WILL ADOPT STERNER MEASURES.

BELFAST, March 13.

The King's speech re-opening the Ulster Parliament to-morrow will refer to the situation in Belfast created by the recent outbreak of terrorism, and will also deal with the general position in Northern Ireland. It is learned. The Ulster Government has a surprise by giving notice of the introduction at an early date of a new and drastic Bill for the repression of disorders and crime. The measure would empower the authorities to take possession of premises from which sniping occurred, and, if necessary, to destroy them. The Bill also would confer power upon the authorities completely to close and barricade danger spots from which attacks have been made from time to time with fatal consequences. Penalties for those found with arms, or under circumstances which indicate clearly their participation in sniping, would be greatly increased under the Bill, and wider powers would be given the police to allow prompt search and detention of offenders.

MILITARY AND NAVAL ESTIMATES.

LONDON, March 13.

The British army estimates for the coming year total £62,300,000, as compared to £53,714,000 last year, it was announced in the House of Commons this afternoon. Naval estimates total £64,383,700.

IN CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

OTTAWA, March 13.

In the House of Commons to-night Premier King, speaking on the Address in Reply to the speech from the Throne, announced that 1. Government ownership of railways would be given a fair trial under the most favorable auspices possible; 2. What Board proposals would be referred to the Agricultural Committee of the House to consider, (a) Compulsory Pool, (b) the Voluntary Pool, and (c) marketing through the farmers own Co-operative Societies, and report back to the House. The Prime Minister observed that if the Government was not able to secure a reduction of railway freight rates it was for Parliament to take action. Premier King said that Canada had representation at the Washington Conference of Disarmament, and we owe it to General Smuts and not to the Canadian Prime Minister of the day. Hon. Arthur Meighen warmly protested he had held from first to last that Canada should be represented at Washington by her own delegates who should take instructions from Canada.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

LONDON, March 13.

Mohandas K. Gandhi and Shankerlala, a banker, were arraigned before the Magistrate in Ahmedabad on Saturday, charged with being connected with articles published in "Young India," according to a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph. The prosecution declared these articles had caused disaffection against the Government. Both accused men said they would plead guilty at the proper time, but that they would decline to open their defence or cross examine witnesses. They were committed for trial.

SHOT DEAD.

BELFAST, March 13.

Hugh McNally was shot dead and another man wounded at the funeral, yesterday, of Herbert Hassard, a member of the Ulster Imperial Guards, who was shot Wednesday night. The funeral procession was fired on while passing through Greenacres, the Sinn Féin area, and members of the funeral party replied. The police version is that a party of toughs preceded the procession ordering storekeepers to close. One of them refused and this precipitated the firing.

The Land of Our Forefathers.

LECTURE BY W. R. HOWLEY, K.C.

"The Land of our Forefathers" was the subject of a most interesting lecture delivered last night by W. R. Howley, Esq., K.C., before a large audience in the Convent School Room, St. Patrick's. The lecturer was introduced by Mr. Joseph Fitzgibbon who acted as chairman in the absence of the President of St. Patrick's Institute under which auspices a series of lectures is being delivered. Mr. Howley's theme as may be surmised was that troubled country—Ireland. Its history in the centuries before the dawn of the Christian era, with its then established trade and commerce. Its ancient kings, their wars, the conversion of the country to Christianity by St. Patrick, the exploits of Brian Boru and Malachy were reviewed by the lecturer in a manner which showed that much study had been given the subject. With appropriate anecdotes, particularly in reference to St. Patrick's blackthorn which blooms at Christmas beside the River Loire, the closest attention of the audience was held. Outstanding figures in the country's history down to the present era: the dawn of brighter hopes for the land of our forefathers made the lecture one that will not soon be forgotten. At the close a vote of thanks to Mr. Howley was proposed by Mr. J. J. Rossiter and passed by acclamation. It was announced that on next Monday night Mr. John Fenelon, B.L., would be the lecturer. The members of St. Patrick's Institute are to be congratulated on the efforts they are making to defray the cost of erecting the new Memorial School. They have been successful in obtaining the assistance of a number of able platform speakers for a series of lectures which will take place during every Monday night in Lent. Mr. Fenelon's subject for Monday night next "An Interesting Life" should draw a full house. All who are anxious to assist in a dual cause, the erection of a war memorial and the advancement of education should not fail to attend these lectures.

George Dale

Bids Farewell.

POPULAR SINGER CLOSING ENGAGEMENT.

Mr. George Dale, the popular Tenor who has been for some time filling an engagement at the Nickel Theatre, closed his season with, last night's performance. Mr. Dale is an artist of no mean ability and his work at this theatre has won the appreciation of the large music-loving public of St. John's. His renditions last night were received with the usual whole-hearted reception. Miss Ruth Chase, the charming Soprano soloist delighted her numerous admirers with her well chosen selections. The duet "Le Miserere" from H. Trevor, sung by Miss Chase and Mr. Dale achieved a tremendous hit.

A very interesting and unusual picture is "Curtain" featuring Katherine MacDonald, which was the feature attraction at the Nickel last night. Miss MacDonald plays the part of a stage idol who is won by a man of wealth after a very brief courtship. The result of this hasty wedding is a disappointment and great unhappiness for her until she finds the solution of her problem. A picture that is as full of beautiful romance as a watermelon is of seeds.

Will Fly Across
Atlantic in 1924.

In the face of the news of the Roma disaster, P. G. O'Malley, British designer of aircraft, and dirigible expert, who has arrived in New York on the White Star liner Cedric, predicted that giant passenger dirigibles capable of a speed of 50 miles an hour, will be operating on a regular schedule between New York and the British ports by the spring of 1924. Next year, according to O'Malley, there are to be numerous transatlantic flights, but there will not be sufficient regularity, he asserted, to attract many passengers. The 1923 transatlantic fliers will carry mail, but will not attempt the carriage of freight, and their trips will be largely in the nature of test flights by aircraft of several companies which will be in competition for transatlantic business by the following year.

Brigus Team Coming.

WILL PLAY OLD TIMERS.

On Wednesday night a team from Brigus will play an aggregation of Old Timers at the Prince's Rink. Long before the game starts arrangements will be made for the reception and comfort of the city team. It is expected that shortly after 6 p.m. the parade of bath chairs, ambulances and stretchers parties which will bring the Old Timers to the rink, will begin to arrive. In the dressing rooms all will be in readiness. Feather beds and Turkish baths will be provided and special chairs for those who suffer from gout will also be prepared. Several medical men will be in attendance, and a specialist in massage work will do his utmost to reduce the soreness before the game begins. In goal, Nix Vinicombe is expected to play the game of his life. Rumour has it that he is using the side of a house for a goal stick, but this is not generally believed. It is also said that George Marshall is wearing double runner skates, but this also sounds like a malicious and untrue rumour. Gus Herder, says another rumour, is now collecting elderdown to pad himself up with in case of accident. The game from all appearances is going to be good.

First Tie-Cup Game.

ST. BON'S DEFEAT TERRAS.

The first Tie-Cup game was played last night, the St. Bon's defeating the Terra Novas by 10 goals to 3. The game was very poor, and rough play was too much in evidence. The St. Bon's had things all their own way from the start. The first period ended with the score 3-1 in favor of St. Bon's. On one occasion during the second period, four members of the winning team were lodged in the penalty box at the one time, while one of the Terras kept them company. The Terras scored once during this period and the St. Bon's twice. In the final period St. Bon's obtained five goals and the Terras 1. Mr. Gus Herder was referee. The contesting teams to-night are the Fieldians and Saints. Judging by the exhibition given by these teams in their last game, to-night's contest should prove the best of the series.

MINARD'S LINIMENT PREVENTS SPANISH FLU.

It's Flavor that Makes the Meal!

And the sauces that the Libby chefs have adapted for you give flavor to the simplest dishes.

It may be eggs, or macaroni, or a cheap cut of meat—an unusual and delicious sauce will make it something you eat with delight and remember with pleasure—because of its flavor.

LIBBY'S CATCHUP and CHILI SAUCE are made from red, ripe tomatoes, grown in the fertile soil of Kent County, Ontario, picked when they are mellowed by the sunshine of long summer days, then rushed to the nearby Libby kitchen.

Here in sunny rooms the tomatoes are cooked with fragrant spices, onions, sugar and the best vinegar—cooked for hours until all the flavors are blended through and through.

Now the sauce is ready to give an appetizing relish to your steaks and chops, or a new piquancy to the meat gravy you serve with your roasts.

Your grocer has, or can get you, Libby's Catchup or Chili Sauce. Use it with your cold meat teas and note how quickly the second helping is necessary.

The delightful flavor of Libby's Beans is due largely to the wonderful Sauce prepared by the skilled chefs. Have you tried them?

Opening of Legislature.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon His Excellency the Governor, Sir C. Alexander Harris opened the Third Session of the twenty-fourth General Assembly of Newfoundland, with the following Speech from the Throne, delivered in the Legislative Council Chamber:

Mr. President and Honourable Members of the Legislative Council, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Honourable House of Assembly.

I regret that, owing to severity of the weather interfering with the journeys of members, and other unforeseen circumstances, it was not possible to call you together at an early date as it was hoped.

It was my privilege on the 28th February last to send to the Princess Mary, a message conveying the good wishes of the Government and of the people of Newfoundland on the occasion of her marriage. A gracious reply, expressing her thanks, was received from Her Royal Highness.

I desire to express my sincere regret at the recent loss, by death, in a foreign country, of a member of the House of Assembly, who held a high reputation as a Captain in the fishing industry. We can ill afford the loss of such a man at the present time.

There are not wanting signs that the process of world-reconstruction is proceeding slowly, though more slowly than we could wish. The decisions of the Disarmament Conference, which met at Washington, if carried into effect, will ease the burden of Naval expenditure, though we cannot but feel genuine regret at the dismantling of H.M.S. "Briton" in the port of St. John's. The League of Nations continues to function, and its work is bringing the Nations closer together, should greatly assist in creating harmony and good will. While we in Newfoundland, in common with the people in adjoining countries, are earnestly expecting the approach of a brighter day, conditions are yet so serious as to engage the most earnest thought of legislators, business men and the people in general. A wise restraint and sympathetic patience will be necessary in order that steady progress may be made towards a better state. The general improvement in exchange is an important feature in world trade, and should have an encouraging influence on the marketing of our staple product.

The question of unemployment has engaged the close attention of my Ministers. Our experience has been similar to that of other lands, though perhaps not to so great a degree. At the time of the closing of the last session, delicate negotiations were being conducted in regard to special works to meet unemployment, and discussion of the matter at that moment might have prejudiced the situation. In St. John's a Committee of public spirited citizens was formed in an endeavour to cope with local conditions, but it has required the co-operation of my Ministers to ensure any success in allaying distress, and very real difficulties, both personal and economic, have presented themselves. The present position of the matter, as well as the whole programme, past and future, will now be laid before the Legislature.

During August and September of last year, enumerators were engaged in making the decennial Census of the people. All the returns have not yet been received, but it is hoped that an interim report of the result will be tabled in the Legislature before the close of the session.

My Ministers propose, as soon as possible, to proceed with the erection of the Normal School for Teachers, for which an appropriation was made by the Legislature. It is intended that this School, while serving its practical purpose, shall also stand as a Memorial of the service and sacrifice of the brave men from this Colony who stood between us and the enemy and gave their lives in the dark days of the Great War. You will also be aware that the efforts of a Committee of citizens to provide another fitting Memorial are meeting with success.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Honourable House of Assembly.

The statement of expenditure and of revenue for the last fiscal year will be laid before you in due course. From these it will be seen that the expenditure is within the amount estimated. The revenue slightly exceeded the estimate, and it was possible in closing the accounts to leave a balance, to the credit of the Surplus Trust Account, larger than the amount set forth in the Budget Speech of last year.

The estimates for the several Departments of the Public Service have been prepared, and will be laid before you. They have been given much thought by my Ministers. Ad, under the extraordinary circumstances which at present obtain, great care is necessary in order that, while due economy is exercised, the Public Service shall not suffer. The whole question of finance I commend to your most favorable consideration.

For the purpose of financing certain public operations, including particularly marine works, road construction and improvements, the cutting of pulpwood and pitprops and certain railway improvements and special expenditures, it will be necessary for a loan to be procured on the credit of the Colony. A Bill to this effect will consequently be submitted to you during the early stage of the present session.

Mr. President and Honourable Members of the Legislative Council, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Honourable House of Assembly.

The contract between the Government and the Reid Newfoundland Company for the operation of the railway, has been receiving close consideration at the hands of my Ministers. In the Speech which I addressed to you nearly three years ago, I referred to the pressing importance of this question. As the Legislature is aware, it was necessary in July, 1920, to appoint a Railway Commission, representative of the Government and of the Reid Newfoundland Company. This Commission provided certain new engines and rolling stock, and put the railway bed in good order. The major portion of the loss on operation was borne by the Government. At the session of the Legislature last year, an Act was passed providing for the temporary operation of the railway, under which, certain losses were to be borne by the Government, and the charge on public funds was again serious.

For some time negotiations have been in progress with the object of establishing a definite and permanent basis for the operation of the railway. At this moment the negotiations are still proceeding, but it is hoped that, before the end of the session, it may be possible to submit proposals that will be satisfactory.

Last year my Ministers decided upon certain readjustments in the matter of war pensions, and a supplementary amount was included in the estimates of last session for that purpose. A Bill, which will be a complete revision of the War Pensions Act, 1919, will consequently be submitted for your consideration.

In September last, the question of our Telegraph and Cable business was discussed in New York by my Prime Minister with the Executive heads of the Western Union Telegraph Company, and in January last, with the Executive heads of the Western Union Telegraph Company, and the Commercial Cable Company. It is probable that, as a result of these interviews, a Bill, relating to this important matter, will be submitted to you for consideration during the session.

I trust that, in your deliberations, you may have wisdom and wide vision, and that, under the guidance of Divine Providence, the results will tend to the stability and progress of this land.

HIS DIARY.

March 13th.—Up betimes and to the office where I find a letter from Mr. P. J. Kinsella which compliments me on this, my Journal. I to the Aerial Survey Office and did have much discourse with Major Cotton of his journey from Cartwright by air coach. He did tell me divers strange tales of his visit to Labrador. A great uproar to-day about those flags which the Government did propose to place in the Council Chamber to-morrow but the former soldiers cry out against it. I did have some discourse with Sir R. A. Squires about the matter and he tells me how the flags will not be presented. And the whole thing, to my mind, but a mole hill of which some do make a mountain. The talk of the town of the opening of the Parliament, which is set for to-morrow. The session is not, I think, like to be a hot one and will close long before the summer.

Obituary.

It is with deep regret we chronicle to-day the death of one of our respected and well known citizens in the person of Mr. Jno. Billingsley, which occurred at his late residence, 60 Gower Street, yesterday morning, after a short illness. "Jack" as he was familiarly called, though of a reserved disposition was a general favorite, in the Club Rooms of the T. A. Society, being always an active member. He was employed until recently with the Nid. Boot and Shoe Mfg. Co., and leaves to mourn his loss one brother, Will, the popular business man of Bell Island, C.B., to whom we extend our sincere sympathy. His funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon.—R.L.P.

Attractive Show at the Crescent.

Last night's attractive show at the Crescent Theatre was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience that attended. The programme was a well selected one, consisting of Maurice Tourneur's spectacular achievement, "Victory" from the pen of a master writer, Joseph Conrad. The vaudeville entertainment by Eddie McGinley was an attraction in itself. Eddie's opening number was a catchy novelty song "Down by the Ohio," which was followed by a fine selection of jokes and funny stories. Eddie also sang a beautiful ballad, entitled "Just like a Rainbow" and ended up with a breezy novelty number "Strut Miss Lizzie," in which he employs song, recitation and gesture. Those who did not see this bill, should do so tonight.

Burglar Climbs Laddered.

TWELVE MONTHS IMPRISONMENT. John O'Brien, a labourer, who has already served long terms of imprisonment, was sentenced to one year in the pen, at the Magistrate's Court this morning, for the larceny of goods from the Royal Drug Store. O'Brien climbed a ladder in the back of the store and broke a third story window with his boot. He entered the building and proceeding down stairs, packed up a quantity of goods and breaking a window on the second story, got out and dropped to the ground with his booty. The drug store is situated on New Gower Street and is owned by Dr. Smith.

Debating Confederation.

"Should Newfoundland go into Confederation with Canada? Is the time opportune, and is it necessary?" is the interesting subject which the Wesley Debating Club will discuss to-night. MAJOR COTTON RETURNS TO BOTWOOD.
Major Cotton and his mechanic, J. R. Stannard, left Quidi Vidi at 1.05 p.m. to-day for Botwood. Malls will be dropped at various points in Trinity district. Major Cotton proposes to land at Trinity, proper and take mails, which will be brought to Botwood by transhipment by express train to the city. Major Cotton told the Telegram to-day that the purpose of yesterday's meeting between himself and the sealing owners was to get them to keep him advised of the position of the ships in the night, in case he is compelled, at any time, to alight at sea. It is not correct that he made them an offer yesterday in connection with a sealing survey.

McMurdo's Store News.

TUESDAY, March 14.
For those who like a mild throat lozenge, but one that has sufficient medication all the same, we suggest a trial of Parke Davis and Co's Medicated Throat Discs, which have a great vogue in the United States and Canada as a preventive and cure for throat troubles. We believe they will be found exceptionally valuable. Price 30 cents a box.
After a cold, or attack of "flu" or bronchitis, a tonic is always needed. One of the most eligible ones is McMurdo's Nutritive Hypophosphites, which contains all the qualities of a good builder. Price 50 cents and $1 a bottle.

Billiards for Memorial.

A billiard tournament will shortly be held in the C. C. C. Hall in aid of the War Memorial. It is expected that about eight clubs will compete. Owing to the cup which was offered by Hon. W. R. Warren being a perpetual challenge cup, it was thought advisable that another trophy, to be won outright, should be awarded for the Inter-Club Memorial Billiard Contest. Arrangements have now been made for a meeting of club representatives in the Padre Nangle's office on Thursday at noon for the purpose of finalising matters. The cup which is being offered is a splendid one, and should arouse great enthusiasm among our city billiardists; not to mention the worthy object to which the proceeds will be devoted.

At the House.

In the Legislative Council this afternoon, the motion for an Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne was moved by Hon. J. J. Murphy and seconded by Hon. M. P. Gibbs. In the House of Assembly the same offices were performed by Mr. R. Hibbs, M.H.A. for Fogo, and Mr. J. T. Cheesman, M.H.A. for Burin. Resolutions of condolence to the family of the late Captain John Lewis, M.H.A. for Harbor Main, were moved in both the Upper and Lower House, in the latter the Prime Minister being the proposer, and the Leader of the Opposition, Sir M. P. Cashin, the seconder.

Three members of the Assembly were absent from the opening session; viz. Hone, W. F. Coaker and S. J. Foote, who are abroad, and Mr. H. H. Small (Burgess and Lapelle) who is out of town on business for his firm. An exceedingly small muster of "Senators" appeared on the benches of the Council Chamber, only twelve being in attendance. The Speech from the Throne, published in to-day's issue is a document of sorts, but such as to call forth some observations as to its flimsy character, and there is no doubt but that the Opposition will do ample justice to it in their criticisms.

Cattle Feeding Experiment.

The ensilage feeding experiments now being conducted at Mount Cashel Farm, although not giving the results anticipated, warrant making further extension. Owing to an early frost cutting down a patch of sunflower seeds the silo had to be filled with oats. Although the Brothers anticipated not getting results from this food, they have proved that the silage, fed like it, is easily handled and the cattle like it. Next season they plan to fill the silo, which holds about 60 tons, with a mixture of oats and peas.

Tricking Otters.

An animal that is becoming rarer every year and will soon be almost unknown is the sea-otter. These beasts are very like seals and are found in part of North America. A curious feature about them is that they never collect in big parties but live in pairs. The female sea-otter is a very good mother and will fight for her young when attacked by the hunters.
The Eskimos have adopted a very ingenious device for finding out the whereabouts of the animals. They suspend a number of bells from posts and connect them by means of string with the shallow parts of the sea which form the animals' haunts. Consequently, when an otter is approaching she moves the string and the bells ring to warn the hunters.
Sea-otters are generally killed while asleep either on the ice or the top of the water. The animals sleep on their backs with the young otters in their paws in the same way that a mother holds her baby.
Otter fur, which is highly prized, especially in China, is becoming very difficult to obtain.

Seal Jammed—Terra Nova Takes Withcoats.
Messrs. Bowring Bros., Ltd., have received a message from Captain Bartlett, giving the position of the Viking as 20 miles N.E. of St. Paul's Island. The message states that the ice is in large sheets and difficult to get through. The S.S. Terra Nova, Captain Kean, reports being N.E. of the Funks with the S.S. Theals alongside.

Captain Kean took 30 whitecoats yesterday. From the S.S. Seal, Messrs. Baine Johnston and Co., have received the following radio:—"Ice very heavy. Seal jammed. Position to-day lat. 50.30 N., long. 61.55 W. Have taken a few young and old hoods. Prospects are poor, but good, if ship can forge ahead. A heavy swell is needed. No other ships are in sight. Feeding the House of Commons.

FACTS ABOUT PARLIAMENT'S HOME LIFE.

In the old days the House of Commons was one of the most dismal places imaginable, where it was almost impossible to obtain even a sandwich.

To-day it rivals the best clubs in the matter of catering.
Personal conveniences and club amenities were of slow growth. What the present building was erected—at a cost of £3,000,000 and after twenty-seven years' work—only about 350 seats were provided in the Commons for 670 members, thus starting the game of snatching or reserving seats by means of hats or tickets.

Mistakes That Cost Money.
There was a number of years ago that a Kitchen Committee was formed, and soon after shilling dinners were instituted. The Parliamentary "Minister of the Interior" who presided over the Committee floundered in the attempt to provide rooms and lounges for the members, strangers, and reporters—a change from the time when the latter, by favour of the doorkeepers, huddled on a bench at the back of the Strangers' Gallery!

Under the "Minister of the Interior" is a salaried manager, who has to be a student of debate in so far as he must judge how long a sitting may last and make preparations for meals accordingly. A mistake in calculation might mean that the debate would finish in time for the members to go home, and the caterer would be left with a heavy loss.

Some 25,000 lunches are served in a season and about 37,000 dinners, 1,000 suppers, and quite 50,000 teas—to say nothing of 8,000 quick meals at the busy day. The turnover is about £20,000, something like £4,000 going to the staff in salaries.
As well as waiters, maids, and chefs, there is a clerk-cellar staff with many waitresses and kitchen hands. And under the Clerk of the Works are many employees—electricians, boiler stokers, engineers, postal and telephone workers.

Only One Detail Wrong.

NOT GOING WHEN FOUND.
—Vancouver, B.C., (Canadian Press.)
—A gold watch, lost in the snow on a mountain near Glacier, B.C., ten years ago, was recently found by a member of a mountain climbing party. It was in almost as good a condition as on the day it was lost and when wound kept perfect time. When found it was lying on a rock at a height of about 7,600 feet and had slid through snow for some distance. A trail left by the climber, a member of the British Columbia Mountaineering Club, was the finder. From an inscription on the back he located the owner, Rev. Benjamin F. Bacon, of Yale University. The watch was highly prized by Rev. Mr. Bacon as it was presented to him in 1872 by the First Congregational church at Osgo, N.Y. The watch has been returned to Rev. Mr. Bacon, and with it a fob, also a presentation received while he was a member of a football team in 1882.

Are You Superstitious?

It is unlucky to be kicked in the back by a pith helmet horse on a Sunday.
When crying in front of a green motor-car it is unlucky to skid and fall off.
All the luck of an iron horse-shoe is lost if, when picking it up, you are inadvertently run over.
When travelling by rail it is distinctly unlucky to be alone in a carriage with a homicidal maniac.
If on your wedding-day the clergyman forgets to ask you for his fee you may consider yourself very lucky indeed.
It is unlucky to be the thirteenth guest at a dinner-table which is laid for twelve only. The better course is to wait until you receive an invitation.

WILL DEMAND A SHARE.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The United States Government has announced that it will demand a share in the reparations to be paid by Germany for the occupation of Rhineland. The announcement was made in a report from Paris, that the Allied Governments contemplated deferring the occupation of the Rhineland until the United States Government had not agreed to the Treaty of Versailles. The announcement further said that the United States Government had not agreed to the Treaty of Versailles. PEACEFUL BELFAST.

BELFAST, March 13.—Twelve persons, including women and children, were injured through the explosion of a bomb thrown in a crowded street to-night. There were no bomb outrages during the night. Sergeant Clark, accompanied by a constable, was returning from the scene of the explosion in a motor car. The car was hit by a bomb, which caused the explosion.

TORONTO, March 14.—The United States is in the best position of all nations to play the role of mediator in Europe, said Colonel C. A. A POSSIBLE CHALLENGER.

ESSEX, Mass., March 13.—A schooner, as yet unnamed, and a possible contender for the honor of being the fastest of the North Atlantic, is being built at the shipyards of A. D. Martin. She is owned by Gloucester, and is from designs by T. J. McManus, of Boston. It is expected that she will be launched in ten days. The vessel, which is named "graceful as a yacht," will be taken out by Capt. Clayton Martin in general fisheries.

PIERRE IS ALWAYS NEAR.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Plans for "a floating liquor palace," says J. V. Martin has announced, will be stationed in the Atlantic, outside the three mile limit, are going forward, according to Martin. That Shorn Lamb.

A subtle form of irreverence shown in prayers for the weather was well illustrated by a Western American township. Its main street pointed due east, and bitter eastern gales blew fiercely and continuously down it till life became a burden. At length the leading citizens determined (on the suggestion of the local editor) that a shorn lamb should be tethered at the open end of the main street—on the ground that "God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb."

TROTSKY ON THE STUMP.

MOSCOW, March 13.—Leon Trotsky, Soviet Minister of Foreign Affairs, was addressing an extraordinary session of the Moscow Soviet to-day, and the Genoa conference was intended to develop plans of international capitalists for intervention in Russia, accompanied by encouragement of revolutionary activities. Foreign capitalists, with the aid of Grand Duke Nicholas, hoped to get control of the Russian oil fields, he said.

ALLIES ARE WORRYING.

PARIS, March 14.—The Allies are worried by the tone of communications from Moscow, with regard to the Genoa Economic Conference, and views have been exchanged among the Allied Governments in the past few days, as to conditions under which the Conference is likely to open. If Russian Soviet representatives go there in the spirit indicated by recent declarations of Soviet leaders, these declarations are interpreted in French circles as meaning that Russian representatives will go with a determination to talk about anything they desire to, or not take any part at all.

English Boxing Fans Watching Closely.

LONDON, (Associated Press)—With four home champions expected to uphold their titles during the coming two months, and the prospect of seeing Carpenter again in a London ring, English enthusiasts are following the boxing game closely. George Cook recently defeated by Carpenter returns to the ring on March 27, meeting Joe Beckett, the English champion in a match labelled the British Empire heavy-weight championship. It is expected that this same bill will include a bout between Joe Fox, the holder of the feather-weight belt, and the Belgian, Arthur Wynn, which has been postponed from this month because the former fell a victim to the influenza epidemic. Wynn has already beaten one English featherweight champion, Mike Honeyman. Boy McCormick, who lost last November to Ted "Kid" Lewis, the middle-weight holder well-known in America, will meet Jack Bloomfield two weeks later to decide future possession of the light heavy-weight belt, now held by McCormick. Lewis is also recovering from an attack of the "flu" and is expected to be in perfect condition for his match with Carpenter which, according to present arrangements, will be held here about the middle of April.

Don't Want Tame Rabbits.

TIERED OF DOMESTICATED BUNNIES.

BERLIN, (Associated Press)—Germans are turning against the use of tame rabbits as food. Rabbit sausage was a staple of the Teuton table in wartime and Germans explain its present unpopularity by saying they had too much of it in that "starvation period." Millions of tame rabbits were imported from Belgium and Holland by the states and the municipalities, and sold at a normal cost to the citizens, who established rabbit hutches and bred them to replenish the beef and pork supply in the war. Berlin alone bought 100,000,000 marks worth of rabbits in one order, for which the city is still indebted. Whole trainloads of the little animals were distributed from 1917 to the middle of the following year. Many families tasted no other meat but rabbit for months, and the sweetish flavor of it palled. Then came a time when the cost of rabbit feed became so high that the citizens were compelled to kill the animals and eat them, or see them starve. Soon the rabbit houses on the roofs of buildings, on balconies, in backyards, gardens, and odd corners of alleys and streets, disappeared. Wild rabbit is still sold in the market stalls, but the tame variety of the species has virtually vanished, unlamented.

Royal Dances.

The man who thinks that dancing is beneath him will be interested to learn that the Royal Family contains many good dancers, of whom the Prince of Wales is probably the best. His Royal Highness learned to dance when he was a small child, and even if he were not a prince, would be an asset to any ballroom.

Prince Henry is trying to emulate him, and has lately taken lessons at an academy near Regent Street. Princess Mary, of course, is a very graceful dancer, her two favourite dances being the fox-trot and the waltz. The Queen puts the waltz first of all, possibly because she dances it best.

Viscount Lascelles, the Princess's fiancé, is not quite such a devotee of dancing as the Princess herself. And the King? He is not an enthusiast of the modern school of dancing. There is one dance, however, which he will tell you is his favourite. It is the hornpipe, a dance he learned during his naval days, and he has been known to dance it at Balmoral.

The Right to Smoke.

A remarkable strike occurred at Leeds, 100 girls employed by Messrs. Hepworth and Sons, wholesale clothiers, throwing up their employment to obtain the reinstatement of five girls discharged for smoking. The firm enforce rigidly a rule that no person shall smoke on the premises. On Friday afternoon five girls were found smoking and were instantly dismissed.

A Bit Off.

Mrs. Newrich was describing her travels to an envious audience. "And have you been in South America?" somebody inquired. "Many times," said Mrs. Newrich, rather bored. "In fact, I know it from end to end." "Then, of course, you went up the Amazon?" "No! As a matter of fact I didn't." Mrs. Newrich fanned herself languidly. "My husband went to the top, but I never did care for climbing."

Easily Rectified.

She called herself a typist. One day the manager called her in to his office. "Surely, Miss Green, I-a-c-u-m is a new way of spelling 'income,' isn't it?" he asked mildly. She fluffed her hair with one dainty finger for a moment in thought, then her famous smile came into play. "Oh, I'm sorry!" she gurgled. "How stupid of me to forget the B!"

Banking Cooks on Strike.

LUNenburg FLEET HELD UP. Lunenburg, N.S., March 7.—The first strike in the history of the Lunenburg fishing fleet has resulted from a demand of the vessel cooks for $150 per month. The captains and crews are willing to pay $125. The schooners expected to sail for the banks this week or next, but many will probably be delayed. The cooks of the Lunenburg fleet are the only men who receive a stated wage. The captains and crews work on a co-operative basis, sharing according to the success of their vessels.

Black-Coated Criminals.

Students of sociological conditions will be interested to learn, on the authority of the British Commissioners of Prisons, that since the war a new class of offenders against the laws of the country has come into existence. These are people who are "educated and of respectable antecedents and parentage." One explanation is that these folk became accustomed to a certain style of living during the war, and since that period, finding themselves unable to sustain that standard by legitimate means, have drifted into crime. Both men and women figure in this gallery. The women are mostly shoplifters, and in this particular form of crime there has lately been a most formidable increase. The great stores are appalled by the extent to which this crime has grown, and their losses have lately been so great that they are talking of uniting in a common effort to suppress it.

TARTAR.

"Tartar" is a lime-like substance that forms on the teeth. It is composed of saliva, phosphate of lime, etc., and becomes attached to the teeth near the salivary duct. It is porous like a sponge and holds particles of food which decompose and taint the breath with an offensive odor. This tartar once formed increases, always in the direction of the gums; first inflaming them, then causing them to puff up and recede from the teeth, and finally by absorption of the bony sockets, to cause good, sound teeth to drop out for want of support.

Climax Sale of MEN'S HATS ALL THIS WEEK

A Sale for celebration purposes only. Water reached very few of our hats. Spoiled all our delicate stuff, left our hats untouched practically. Anybody knows that water couldn't take the color out of a Stetson, a Christy, a Borsalino. Something we've spouted about for years. And here comes a grand, royal chance to prove it, and the water hikes right into another part of the store. Rot-ten luck! We had to celebrate the closing of this Sale. All our damaged stock was bought up, so we cut into the ranks of the regulars. Every hat placed on the price-block. Prices we dare any store to duplicate, even where the hats come from. And the hats are untouched, unharmed, perfect. Man alive, there never was such a chance for you to save money.

The Legislature Opens On the Edge of a Crisis.

"But There's Life in the Old Land Yet."

BY AN EX-M.H.A.
 "New occasions teach new duties; Time makes ancient good uncouth; Must upward still and onward, who would keep abreast of Truth."

The session of the Legislature which opens to-day promises to be one of the most important in the history of our local Parliament. Employment for the People, Ways and Means, the Humber Proposition and other questions of a directly confront us, and it will, I am afraid tax the energies of our legislators to the utmost, this time, to pilot the Ship of State back to the secure anchorage she occupied in pre-war days. To speak plainly, the main point is that it is a matter of life and death necessity for the colony and its future to obtain some relief of its crushing burthens on the one hand and to restore trade and employment on the other. The present condition of things must be got rid of as soon as possible. It is depressing, it debilitates commercial vigor, it cuts at the root of colonial energy and self-confidence.

MORE THAN WHAT THE LABOR ORATOR SUPPOSES.
 We may take it for granted that our present system of over-taxation is by no means the more punishment of capital that the vaguer kind of Labor orator supposes. It makes in every way for low wages and hard times for the workless and misery of the masses. The system makes directly for the extinction of the middle class who have played the chief part in building up the prosperity of the country and creating its wealth. Our difficulties are by no means of sudden or unexpected development. Oh, no! They have been visibly accumulating since the general election of 1918—each year getting more and more oppressive, on account of increased extravagance and debt, until we are now almost hopelessly involved and at our wits' end to meet the imperative demands of an extremely critical situation.

MUTT AND JEFF—

"possess, which has been found to be 'no beneficial to the rising generation.'"

The population of Newfoundland at that time amounted to 122,858, or about half what it is to-day, and yet our forebears, to that highly respectable number, managed to get along very nicely with a revenue of little more than half a million dollars a year. Now we, with a population of 250,000, must have a revenue of $11,000,000 (eleven million dollars) per annum; and even with this enormous income we are unable to meet our obligations, and find it necessary to go "borrowing and borrowing" until our public debt has gone up to $1,000,000 (fifty-one million dollars)! Tell it not in Gath, publish it not in the streets of Askelon!

A BANE INSTEAD OF A BLESSING.

As a matter of fact, our "Responsible Government," as it is called, has been a bane rather than a blessing to Newfoundland. The whole island to-day is vocal with voices that attest this truth, and I shall have great pleasure in giving them interpretation as I proceed with my investigations and expositions along these lines. Meanwhile, let me say just here:

- (1) Responsible Government has been a bane to Newfoundland because of the consequences of the incompetence of so many of its rulers.
- (2) Responsible Government has been a continued bane to this colony because of the needless, selfishness and unpatriotic conduct of our public men.
- (3) Responsible Government has been, and is, a perpetual bane to Newfoundland as the propagating medium of sectarian strife and religious bigotry.

THE HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY AND ITS WORK.

However, now that Responsible Government has come to stay, and that the only alternative is Confederation, we must try to make the best we can of it, and, at the present opportune moment, put in a plea in favor of sweeping reformation, where it can be made without detriment to the Civil Service, and drastic reforms in the House of Assembly. At present it is strangled by its own form; paralyzed by its own procedure. If nothing else could be done, at least the waste of time that now is the rule, should be prevented. In the first place why should the House of Assembly be compelled to do over again what has been done already done? Take the case of a bill rejected by the Legislative Council. It would be quite proper that the House of Assembly should have to pass the bill again before sending it once more to the Council; but why should it be thought necessary for it again to go through the laborious and tedious process of settling it clause by clause? It is sufficient for it to pronounce that it has not changed, and this it can do by reading the bill once.

TO BE ARRANGED BY A STANDING ORDER.

This might be arranged by framing a standing order to the effect that after such a bill has been read a second time it should be competent for the member in charge of the bill to put it down for third reading without its passing through Committee stage. In this way the House could re-affirm its continued support of the principle of the bill and its form without the loss of time that must now occur. This reform would have two important results. In the first place it would make the procedure of the House express the principle that the rejection of a bill by the Legislative Council is not entitled to the same weight as its rejection by the House of Assembly, and that if the Assembly persist, it is for the Legislative Council to give way. And, secondly, it would afford opportunity for showing by action outside the House that the Assembly possess popular support for their action, such as ought to induce the Council to pass the bill.

HOW THE MISCHIEF IS NOW DONE.

At present the mischief is done before this can be affected, and that mischief can be repaired only at the cost of going through the whole work again. It would be a very different matter if the bill could be sent up again without costing a considerable portion of the available time of the next session, as it is too often the case at present. Again, why should the work be lost that has been done upon bills that have not passed through all their stages? Why should they not be continued in following sessions from the point at which they had arrived in the preceding one? The main point is to facilitate the doing of the work. How is this to be effected? In my judgment there is only one answer. You must be content to trust to the House of Assembly to do the work which is used to assist it in its work—speeches and amendments—are obstructing the end to which they ought only to be auxiliary.

IN THE CASE OF SPEECHES.

For instance, take the case of speeches. There comes a point when enough has been said upon a subject, and a continuance of a debate is merely a loss of valuable time. That point is reached at a very early stage. If you give to the House the power of passing on when it is satisfied with a clause or a group of clauses, it can check irrelevant and useless debate, without at the same time interfering with that which would be useful. It can take care that too much time is not devoted to discussing a bill, and yet insure that adequate discussion is given to those parts that require it. It seems to me that, with proper management, the business of a session could easily be disposed of in five or six weeks.

THE BOARD OF TRADE'S POINT OF VIEW.

To restore commercial prosperity to the colony and bring about a normal condition of things generally, we must improve the social and intellectual tone of our Legislature and do justice to the Civil Service as regards efficiency and salaries. In the course of some conversation I had, the other day, with a prominent member of the Board of Trade, relative to the political outlook, I casually remarked: "Why don't you business men take a more direct and active interest in public affairs? With plenty of time, talent and skill at your command, it would be impossible to over-estimate the services you could render the colony at this critical juncture." He replied: "I admit the force of your argument and concede that something ought to be done at once to put things straight; but how is it possible, with so many adverse elements confronting us? The first great difficulty that would have to be faced by any man or body of men who attempted to effect political reforms under existing circumstances, would be the education of the electorate up to the necessary standard. No effective work could possibly be done in that direction without the hearty co-operation of Demos, who, at present, seems to care very little how things go, or of what elements our legislative chambers are composed.

"THERE'S LIFE IN THE OLD LAND YET"

That is true! Politicians, like all other workmen in the great field of human toil, must be qualified by training and rendered efficient in precisely the same way as all other men. And so with governments. Now, to ensure this efficiency on the part alike of public servants, individually and collectively, there are, of course, rewards for the efficient and penalties for those who are not so. In the case of a government acting under a constitutional form of administration, such as is the system we call "Responsible Government," these rewards and penalties are both clearly and sharply defined. Let us begin at once, then, to apply such remedies to the body politic as the urgency of the case demands; and, in doing so, let us examine ourselves and see that, in our anxiety for reforms, we are influenced by no personal party or religious prejudices, but rather, by a patriotic desire to promote the welfare and happiness of our island home. There is no real cause for despondency. Terra Nova has had to face political and financial difficulties before, and she has come out of them triumphantly. Her recuperative power is marvellously great, in proof of which I need only recall the holocaust of 1892 and the bank crash of 1894. Oh! yes—

"Fair as the Queen of Love fresh from the foam,
 Or a star in a dark cloud set;
 Ye may blazon her shame—ye may scoff at her name—
 But there's life in the old land yet."

Lives With Forty Dogs.

A modern cave-dweller has been discovered in the village of Linwood, Ontario, by Tax Collector Beggs, who has seized the herd of swine belonging to Mr. Frederick Probst in order to get payment of dog taxes on the 40 dogs alleged to be kept by Mr. Probst on his premises. Mr. Probst's manner of living is reported to be of the most primitive. His dwelling is said to consist of a shack with a hole covered by a blanket for ingress and egress. Huddled with him in his hut are the innumerable dogs, which he maintains principally on horse meat which he procures through the countryside. The authorities are investigating the whole matter.

WINTER'S PASSING.

A few more weeks of snow and sleet and crunching wagons in the street. A few more weeks of cold—and then The robins will be here again. And where the eavestrough drips and spills. Will bloom a row of daffodils. It won't be long. The snow will pass and we shall see the tender grass. The trees, now standing stiff and bare. Will house full many a nesting pair. And every twig, with winter gone. Will put its riches raimen on.

Some morning I shall wake and see The blue skies bending over me. And see a bright-red breasted pair. At work upon a nest up there. And I shall smile and say: "At last The dark and dreary days have passed!"

Then like the daffodils that bloom, I, too, shall break the bonds of gloom. And I shall hum a cherry song. Like one who has been troubled long. And then, released from strife and care, Finds beauty 'round him everywhere.

Air Mail to Labrador.

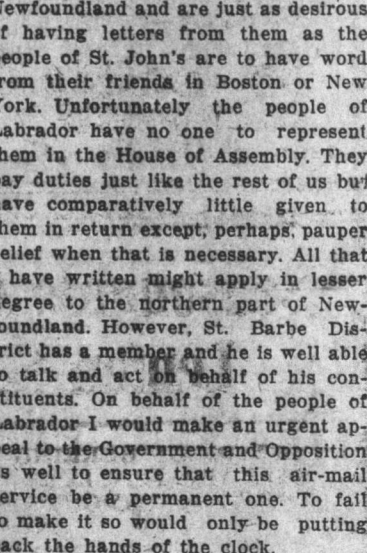

DR. GRIEVE URGES A PERMANENT SERVICE.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—It was with the greatest pleasure and satisfaction that I learned that Major Cotton had completed his flight to Labrador and back again. During the latter half of ten years that I spent as a medical man on that Coast I had visions of the time when the isolation would be broken by the aeroplane. My dream has now come true. Probably better than anyone else in this city I can appreciate the feeling of delight that passed through those who saw Major Cotton and his machine alight at Battle Harbor and Cartwright. When I think of the time when one was delighted to get one or perhaps two mails from the outside world by the laborious, hazardous route of Quebec as compared with aeroplane mail of a few hours, it seems almost too good to be true. Surely it has been demonstrated beyond all doubt that such a method of transportation is not only feasible but practicable. Is this not the opportunity for Newfoundland to stamp into the minds of the people of the outside world that Labrador is not such an isolated place after all? Occasionally I have been asked by men both in Britain and the United States who wished to interest themselves in Labrador properties why facilities there were for mail service. When they were told only two mails during the winter were of any value as coming from outside, they have replied sometimes humorously and sometimes otherwise that such properties were not worthy of serious consideration under the circumstances. To the traders on Labrador such an air-mail service would be of inestimable benefit. But what of the people themselves? Are they not entitled to such a service when it is reasonably possible? Most of them have friends and relatives in Newfoundland and are just as desirous of having letters from them as the people of St. John's are to have word from their friends in Boston or New York. Unfortunately the people of Labrador have no one to represent them in the House of Assembly. They pay duties just like the rest of us but have comparatively little given to them in return except perhaps pauper relief when that is necessary. All that I have written might apply in lesser degree to the northern part of Newfoundland. However, St. Barbe District has a member and he is well able to talk and act on behalf of his constituents. On behalf of the people of Labrador I would make an urgent appeal to the Government and Opposition as well to ensure that this air-mail service be a permanent one. To fail to make it so would only be putting back the hands of the clock.

DIANA REPORTS HARP SEALS.

Last night's messages from the sealing fleet gives encouragement to the hope that the ships are on the track of the whitecoats. S.S. Diana, Capt. Parsons, reported that he had struck a few young harps, and although Bowlings fleet did not report from the messages it is apparent that all the ships are together and should the main patch be struck all will get a share. The following is the report received last night:—

JOB BROTHERS & COMPANY.

Neptune.—(Monday p.m.)—30 miles N. by W. of Funks, all ships in sight except Seal and Ranger.

JAMES BAIRD, LIMITED.

Diana.—(Monday p.m.)—Making good progress. Struck a few young harps to-day. Five other ships in sight.

TO POSTAL TELEGRAPHS.

The following was received from Marconi Station, Fogo:—"All ships report crews on board and all well."

PERSONAL.—Mr. T. Heatre-Goer, W.M.I.F.A.F., arrived by the "Digby" and will be remaining in the city for a week or more. When interviewed by our reporter yesterday he informed the Telegram man in reply to a query that the letters after his name meant "wouldn't miss it for a farm" and on being asked "what" shouted "why Irish Night of course."

RESULT OF EGG-LAYING CONTEST.

Last night's meeting in the Board of Trade Bldg. was well attended. President Geo. R. Williams and Secretary MacArthur were present and a good attendance. Reports of the Dinner Committee, Eggs-Laying Contest, Propaganda Committee were duly received. The egg-laying contest started March 1st and the records given below are for the 1st to the 11th of March. Following are the returns:

Pen No. 1—3 Anconas laid 33 eggs, average 4 1/2 each.

Pen No. 2—3 R. I. Reds laid 13 eggs, average 6 1/2 each.

Pen No. 4—14 White Leghorns laid 63 eggs, average 4 1/2 each.

Pen No. 5—14 White Leghorns laid 72 eggs, average 5 1-7 each.

Pen No. 6—7 White Leghorns laid 29 eggs, average 4 1-7 each.

Pen No. 8—10 White Wyandottes laid 49 eggs, average 4 7-10 each.

Pen No. 9—11 White Leghorns laid 25 eggs, average 2 3-11 each.

Pen No. 10—10 White Wyandottes laid 23 eggs, average 2 4-5 each.

Pen No. 11—6 White Wyandottes laid 48 eggs, average 8 each.

32 hens laid a total of 360 for 11 days, or an average of nearly five eggs for each bird for eleven days. Considering the zero weather and all the birds are confined indoors, the Association members consider the returns very satisfactory. The Telegram will publish the returns monthly in future, till the contest finishes June 1st. Several members will go to Bay Roberts on St. Patrick's Day and give a lecture on Poultry Culture to try and stimulate poultry breeding in that centre. Three prizes will be offered to the school children of Bay Roberts for the best essays on the subjects of the lectures. Another lecture is being arranged to be held at Kelligrews later where two residents have already built model poultry houses and where three prizes have been won by the school children. Feeds are now very cheap and the Association hopes to have a big increased interest in raising chickens this spring. An advertising campaign will soon be started to dispose of hatching eggs. The members were sorry Mr. W. R. Butler, Treasurer, was unable to attend last night's meeting, being on the sick list with a heavy cold. Fresh eggs are now being sold by the members at a dollar a dozen. Five new members joined the Association last night.

WESTERN PIONEER MADE GOOD.

Winnipeg (Canadian Press).—Despite the loss of his arms and legs, Finlay Booth, a pioneer of the early 70's, who died here recently, aged 68, made his own way successfully in farming and other operations for more than fifty years. He was a survivor of a blizzard disaster of the early days of Manitoba, when the wanderer in a storm on the prairies was confronted with conditions that now exist only in comparatively few districts. In those days there were few buildings to offer refuge to the lost person, no fences and the roads were but winding trails. Mr. Booth arrived in Winnipeg in 1871, and with his father and family, who were taking up land near Carman, Manitoba, started out from the city for the new home late in November. While the others rode in a wagon, young Finlay, who was 13 at the time, led the family cow along the trail. After passing what is now the town of Sanford, which is part of the famous White Horse plains, a wide and treeless prairie, a storm developed. Finlay's brother, Payton, offered to lead the cow and let Finlay ride, but the latter declined. The storm later developed in fury and Finlay had to fight against it alone, being separated from the rest of the family. He plodded alone, lost and buffeted by the fierce blast. About midnight the storm broke and he trudged eight miles, badly frozen, to the new family home. As a result of his experience his hands and feet had to be amputated, but his rugged constitution pulled him through. With the aid of artificial limbs Mr. Booth developed remarkable experiences in performing work.

Lewis Regains Title.

Wichita, Kansas, March 4.—Ed. "Strangler" Lewis, of San Jose, California, to-day again held the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, having taken the second and third falls from Stanislaus Zbyszko, here last night.

The match was Zbyszko's from the start until just before the second fall. He pinned Lewis for the first fall in 41 minutes, 30 seconds, with a bar arm and full body scissors, Lewis using what was described by him as a counter with his open palm, sent the aged Pole spinning across the mat to fall flat on his back. Instantly, he leaped on him, and applied his deadly headlock, taking the second fall and evening the contest. The third fall went to Lewis easily in three minutes, Zbyszko still suffering from the effects of the headlock after the ten minutes' rest period.

Zbyszko and his manager at first said that Lewis had struck with his clenched fist instead of using the counter, but accepted the referee's decision that the counter was legitimate. Zbyszko took the title from Lewis about a year ago and retained it in a second meeting. Only recently he announced his intention to retire from wrestling and award defence of the championship to his younger brother, Wladek.

Last night Jack Herman, Zbyszko's manager, expressed the intention to challenge immediately for a return match, and said he would post a five thousand dollars forfeit.

Shipping Notes.

S.S. Sisto is now loading codfish at Morry's premises for Alicante and Naples.

S.S. Canadian Sapper leaves Halifax on Thursday for this port with general cargo.

Schr. Retraction, which cleared at Catalina on January 29th last for Gibraltar, sailed Sunday, taking 4721 quintals codfish shipped by P. Templeman. The vessel was detained owing to fog conditions.

Schr. Harriett, Capt. Edward Jones, arrived at Oporto on Saturday, making the run in 18 days. The Harriett which is owned by Earle & Sons, Fogo, met with several slight accidents before proceeding on her voyage. The schooner, it will be remembered, grounded on Pancake Rock whilst being towed out of port and considerable difficulty was experienced in getting her clear. In spite of the mishap the vessel has proved an excellent sailer as shown by the splendid run across.

Curious Timepieces of the Olden Days.

The fragile watch of the dainty pattern and design, which to-day is a favorite among women, is in striking contrast to some of the watches which were famous several centuries ago.

Many of these were of enormous size and of the most ornate design. Mary Queen of Scots was the possessor of a death's-head watch, which was of silver gilt and most elaborately ornamented. The forehead of the skull bore the symbols of death, the scythe and hourglass placed between a palace and a cottage to show the impartiality of the grim destroyer. At the back of the skull was Time, destroying all things, and at the top of the head scenes of the Garden of Eden and the crucifixion.

The watch was opened by reversing the skull, placing the upper part of it in the hollow of the hand and lifting the jaw by the hinge, this part being enriched by engraved representations of the Holy Trinity, angels, and shepherds with their flocks. The works of the watch formed the brains of the skull, and were within a silver envelope which acted as a musically toned bell, while the dial plate was in the place of the palate.

The curious work of art was made at Blois and, at her death, was bequeathed by Mary Queen of Scots to her maid of honour, Mary Seton, in 1587. It afterward came into the possession of Sir John Dick Lander.

Another skull watch, which once belonged to Mary Queen of Scots, by its inscription and date, 1580, shows that Francis II. of France presented it to his young wife many years before watches were supposed to have been brought to England from Germany.

Queen Mary was evidently a collector of watches of unique design. She is said to have possessed one in a case of crystal, shaped like a coffin, and another made at Rouen, in which a thread of catgut supplied the place of a chain.

Some of the early watches were so small as to be set in the head of walking sticks, the clasp of bracelets, or in pendants, and there is a record of a striking watch, which was mounted in a ring, in the year 1542.

At the Strawberry Hill sale Queen Victoria purchased a little clock of brass gilt which had been presented to Anne Boleyn by Henry VIII. upon their marriage in 1532. It is richly chased and engraved and is still at Windsor Castle.

The clock placed in one of the towers of the palace at Hampton Court in 1551 is said to be the oldest English-made clock extant. When in action it shows the motions of several of the planets. The original dial and several of the wheels attached to the back of the dial still remain.

Upon His Honor as Minister of the Gospel

REV. W. A. THOMPSON WRITES OF DR. F. G. KINSMAN'S HEART TROUBLE.

I had heart trouble severely for fifteen years and had many doctors to treat me with no discernible effect. I had become so low that I could scarcely walk fifty steps. At night I was troubled with fluttering of the heart, and by no means had a night's rest for that length of time. I had pains most excruciating and could not lie on my left side even for a moment. I tried five boxes of your Heart Tablets and can now truthfully say that I am well. I am a Minister of the Gospel and upon my word as such, I believe I could not have lived had it not been for your remedy. I am not, generally speaking, willing to give testimonials, but I fully owe this or more to you as owner of the Heart Tablets.

The Fisheries of Newfoundland

AND THEIR VALUE.
(M. E. Condon.)

I would ask for the freedom of the press, so as to give my views on the fisheries of Newfoundland to my readers, local and foreign, and in my opening remarks, to dilate freely on the great fishing industry of my native land.

THE MINE OF THE SEA.

The Mine of the Sea, to which I have given thirty-three years of my life, out of its over fifty years, in the school of experience in its various walks, and I would not take second place to anyone as to knowledge of its sea fisheries, and yet I will pass to the Great Unknown without knowing it all. There are times in which we must take up the pen in self-defence, particularly in this Newfoundland of ours, in which we have so many knockers, amongst us descendants of English, Irish and Scotch, who will do the knocking in the dark against their countrymen who are trying to uplift it in its various walks of life, but they are up against it as to writers who are made up of the pedigree of Daniel Condon, Michael Kearney, (Irish), and Blackler and Carter (English), and a mixture that will only be turned down with the sod. D. Condon's world-wide works, he being the inventor of the Pooton and Cofferdam over forty years ago, building a wooden and concrete bow in the s.s. Arizona of the Gulf Line, the then premier line of the world, after her collision with an iceberg; floating the s.s. Flavian of the Leyland Line, stranded at Great Island about forty-five years ago, with his pooton, and repairing with his cofferdam H.M.S. Flamingo after collision with an iceberg; s.s. European, s.s. Liscard, s.s. Palmyra, s.s. Manitoban, not to mention many of our local sealing setamers; also Michael Kearney, Newfoundland's greatest ship-builder, or those geniuses Newfoundland never produced their equal before, during or since their time, their works being world-renowned, and who performed more to uplift their native land than all the knockers combined, can boast of a pedigree of their equals. I intend calling a spade a spade, and I want critics to remember that I have been associated for the above-named 33 years with the fishermen, and it is only human for a writer to forget some of the early training as to education, kindly overlook any errors, as this is off my own bat.

BOOSTING THE FISHERIES.

In this great fight I have undertaken to uplift my country as to its fisheries, and to give the consumer of our codfish, herring, salmon, etc., at home and abroad that which will in the United States come under and should get the approval of Senator Herbert Hoover who brought the pure food law about. I have suffered unbelievable and untold hardships during the winter seasons for years past in experimenting the possibilities as to its various fishes for food and fertilizing purposes, many of same being heretofore wanted in various localities, and from the effects of but I am now slowly recovering from a run-down system, but I am about to succeed in uplifting my country in this work of my life. Also, let the words, "That who amongst you is without sin cast the first stone," sink deeply. You can be a life time total abstainer, take first place amongst your classmates at St. Bon's as to mental and slate Arithmetic, have a commercial training of seven years at the Broker and Commission business in my native city, St. John's, and as to honesty go as far as to forfeit two Life Insurance Policies, Nos. 971,770 and 1,978,133 in the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York on account of the world war, and the ups and downs of the fishery, and the pride of a name made by Daniel Condon, that I would not let my friends know my circumstances, many of whom would of course, come to my assistance and that honesty inherited from D. Condon and Michael Kearney, whose names are unsullied and venerated by their countrymen at home and abroad. Did it not take years for great enterprises at home and abroad to become a success, even with plenty of capital? The writer will not worry as to making his great undertaking a success, when he procures the necessary capital in the United States and elsewhere, backed by a 33 years experience at Cape Broyle, Newfoundland's bait fishery resort.

A GIANTIC ENTERPRISE.

Now with an enterprise that will be capitalized at two and one-half million dollars ($2,500,000.00) and upwards, to develop the fisheries with my modern ideas, it will include possibly two steel steam ships, with a part cold storage capacity, which will also prosecute the seal fishery and save the carcasses and flippers for food purposes, heretofore wasted, and those that assisted me to bring same about will be well compensated on my return from the United States, Cuba and other South American countries. I am only imperfect like all your selves, and have made mistakes in trying to do good, and we must remember that there are times in life when we should go slow, especially in waiting for the new normal as to general merchandise, machinery, etc. Had many of my countrymen taken my advice in whaling and shipping, and gone slowly, they would be wiser to day. As a general rule it takes men of over the fifties who have gone over the road of experience to be successful in various great undertakings, but a prophet is without honour in his own country, and must go to foreign lands to be appreciated. I had the endorsement of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, through his Private Secretary, who wished me success on board of H.M.S. "Dragon" at sea on August 14th, 1919, also of Lord Morris, P.C., ex-Prime Minister of Newfoundland, Sir R. A. Squires, K.C.M.G., Prime Minister, Hon. M. P. Gibbs, Sir J. C. Crook, K.C.B., Sir M. P. Cashin, K.C.B., A. W. Piccott, ex-Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

and the late Capt. John Lewis, the latter three of whom went through the mill of experience, and marched in the front ranks of the fishery of their native land. They are not brain-stealers like others that I intend to state later, or who would not give unto Caesar the things that belong to Caesar. And last but not least I could by no means forget the learned Dr. J. Alexander Robinson, ex-Postmaster General, who is looked upon as one of the most brilliant men in this Dominion, who quoted in the Daily News that if I could only do a tithe of all I claimed, the writer would be conferring a distinct benefit upon the community, and merit the praise and admiration of the present and succeeding generations, also various others in different walks of life. And now to commence my various articles on the fisheries, which is at present estimated from eighty-five to ninety per cent. of our total resources.

Next Article—The Codfishery.

Bonavista Hospital Entertainment.

PEOPLE ENTHUSIASTIC OVER PROPOSAL.

Hospital facilities in the outposts of Bonavista and Trinity Bays have long been a recognized necessity, but until 1919 no concerted effort was made to establish a local institution to meet the needs of the Northern settlements. On January 7th, 1919, however, a public meeting was held in the Orange Hall at Bonavista, to consider the establishment of an emergency and general hospital. Doctors Rutherford and Forbes urged instant action, referring to the disastrous effect of the recent epidemic of influenza, pointing out that, with the increasing population, serious results must be apprehended, unless some effort were made to limit the spread of infectious disease, and to provide suitable treatment for serious cases of a general character.

The meeting welcomed the project with enthusiasm, and gave practical expression to its approval by subscribing $407.50 before the meeting closed. An organized canvass of Bonavista followed, with the encouraging result that, within a short period, the sum of $872.00 was deposited to the credit of the Hospital Fund, in the Bank of Nova Scotia. This left a sum of $328.00 to be raised in order to purchase the house and lot, owned by Mr. William Sait, which been selected as a most desirable property for the purpose. The Hon. W. F. Coaker had promised a contribution of $100.00 as soon as this amount has been raised, and the result of contributions from all the Societies, from social gatherings, private subscriptions, and musical and dramatic entertainments.

The culminating function, which finally cleared the Committee of indebtedness, and left a small balance in hand, towards furnishing the hospital, comprised a popular concert preceded by a generous collection. This took place on February 23rd and was so successful that, a repetition was demanded and given on the following night, with the result that the Fund was augmented by $296.00.

This entertainment deserves adequate notice both as a tribute to the efforts of all who assisted in its production, and as an appreciation of the merit of the entertainment. After a spirited opening by a lusty chorus of 28 voices, which was heard to advantage in the cheerful strains of "Humming," Mr. Ernest Malmstedt, then reached the hearts of her audience with her sweet contralto in the song, "A million miles from nowhere." Miss Mildred Rowell and Miss Belle Miffin then gave a pleasing and harmonious rendition of the author's duet "Ailsa Wail." Mr. James Reader followed with a rollicking description, in song, of "Pinnigan's Party," in which the geographical distinction between "Greece" and "Turkey" was lost in the wild disorder which ensued. "Forget and Forgive" was the moral inculcated by Miss E. Small in her recitation "Me and Jim," and the audience, moved from laughter to pathos, acclaimed her effort with applause. A novelty was introduced by Miss Beryl Rolfs and Mr. Howard Harris in a dainty, pastoral sketch "Country Courtship." Melodious, witty and graceful, this amusing duet elicited a hearty encore, which was given in a spirit of riotous humour, which brought down the house. Miss Rolfs' bashful response to the crude courtship of her huoclic again was a triumph of characterization, while Mr. Harris, with his "cave-man" advances, convulsed the audience. Miss Helen Brazil gave a charming rendition of "Absent" in a manner very creditable to so young a performer. Miss Brazil bide fair, in course of time, to rival her accomplished mother, whose magnificent soprano is known to music-lovers throughout the island.

An exceptional number was the violin solo by Mrs. Dr. Forbes, who was accompanied with sympathy and brilliant execution, by Miss Ella Templeman, the Organist of Christ Church, Bonavista. Space will not allow of an adequate appreciation of Mrs. Forbes' rendition of Meyerbeer's "Mazur," nor of the "Marche Militaire" by Tourné. To say that the audience responded with tumultuous applause would be as untrue as it would be uncomplimentary. Far more significant was the moment of silence and suspense, as the last harmonic left the pulsing string. Then followed eager demands for an encore, to which Mrs. Forbes responded with a spirited rendering of the "Moto Perpetuo." Fiddling is common, but one seldom hears the violin, and we hope that Mrs. Forbes will be more lavish in her priceless gift, when musical occasion offers.

The Bonavista Hospital was the reason and the occasion of the concert, and thus it was fitting that the dedication of the Hall should reflect the spirit of our enterprise. Above the stage, the Red Cross of help and succour confronted the audience, and under this banner, a bevy of beautiful girls, in hospital uniform, sang an amusing chorus, telling in tuneless numbers of the delights in store for potential patients. The ladies are to be congratulated on the success of this number.

Beauty, charm, action and mirth were all expressed, and the gallery pit responded with appreciative comment and applause. An interval followed, during which the "Nurses" passed through the audience dispensing bought and home-made candy, which commanded a ready sale.

After the interval a pianoforte duet was rendered in brilliant style by Miss Ella Templeman and Miss Gertrude Thorne. Each of these ladies is an accomplished pianist, and it is to be regretted that the length of the programme prohibited a further exhibition of their powers.

Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald followed with the song "Afterwards," which was a notable addition to an excellent programme. The negro melody by an Ethiopian chorus was an amusing piece, entitled "Stop that knocking." Mr. Beniah Abbott, as the protagonist of the chorus, was vicious and convincing in his demand for silence from without. The parts were well sustained, and the weird assault upon the floor, induced shouts and merriment from the audience.

Messrs. Harris, Reader and Alexander also took their parts with gleeful abandon. Mrs. Fred Brazil then gave a cultured exposition of "Humoresque," the song adopted from Dvorak's famous composition for the piano. Mrs. Brazil is our singer "par excellence," and it will suffice to say that, in spite of a refractory throat, she overcame nature, and all the life and joy in the "Humoresque" was imparted to the smiling audience with dainty precision and the tenderest of humour. The genuine excellence of the programme makes distinction invidious, but further special mention simply must be made of a recitation by Miss A. Bradley, of Lewisport, who has under her care a section of the school children of Malley's Cove. The recitation "Rara Avis" was given with charming diction, grace and appropriate gesture. This rare fowl was a goose, whose leg had been abstracted before it reached the dining-room, and Miss Bradley's description of the squirrel's mystification over the missing "drum stick," was replete with humor. Nature has done much for this talented artist, but her art of elocution combines with natural gifts to form an irresistible attraction.

A vocal quartette, Mrs. Malmstedt, Miss Mildred Rowell, Mr. Howard Harris and Dr. A. E. Rutherford "Sweet and Low," although a somewhat hoary antique, appealed to the sentimental side of the audience and an encore was demanded. Mrs. Joshua Anthony, in her touching melody, "Sweet long ago," reached the hearts of her audience. A duet by Mrs. John Thorne and Mrs. J. Alexander, "Huntin' Tower," was acted and sung with humour and vivacity.

Our new and respected Magistrate, Mr. John S. Rowell, then gave a graceful address, in which he welcomed the Hospital project and pronounced his benison upon the enterprise. This was Mr. Rowell's first public utterance in his magisterial capacity, and his remarks were heard with interest and respect.

Mr. James Miffin and a talented company of ladies and gentlemen then produced an amusing comedy, "Adventures in the Wrong House," which portrayed a series of farcical situations resulting from the amours of two individuals, each a member of the well-known family of Smith. Miss Winnie Smith, Government telegraph official, discovered a vein of humour that afforded an amusing foil to Mr. Miffin's amorous advance. The sketch was carried through in smart and breezy fashion, and aroused peals of laughter from the audience. Miss Dora Gardiner and Miss Mary Miffin played their roles to perfection, while Mr. Bert Reges, as the person, who tied the lovers' nuptial knot, sustained his part with dignity and action.

Before this happy consummation, however, the lovers met with various vicissitudes; but, ultimately, the tale was unravelled in the mid-night scene where a confusion of identity explained the misunderstanding, and the curtain fell on the union of the lovers and the arrest and discomfiture of the other by the policeman which was portrayed amusingly by Mr. Fred Lawrence. Mr. F. James, as the indignant bill-collector was fiery and fierce. The closing chorus, "We're going to have a Hospital," the words and music of which were written by Dr. Rutherford, was given with splendid harmony and volume.

The effect upon the audience appeared to reflect the intention of the Hospital Committee, whose aim it was to convey, by song and story, the urgent need of such an institution in our Bay. With the National Anthem a most enjoyable entertainment came to a bright conclusion. A very great measure, the success of the musical part of the programme was due to the unflagging energy and patience of the accompanists, Miss Ella Templeman, whose labours were shared by the able assistance of Miss Gertrude Thorne. Space will not permit of individual acknowledgment to all who served and catered, but to all who assisted, in any way, the grateful thanks of the Hospital Committee are tendered in full measure. As a result of this public spirited achievement, the Bonavista Hospital is no longer a visionary project, but is already a practical reality.

The balance in hand accruing from general contributions, and after paying expenses, will approximate $400.00, thus leaving ample margin over the $1200.00, which was our objective. Considering the financial stringency in evidence to-day, this is no mean achievement, but the good work must go forward and we appeal to friends in town and country, for contributions to the first outpost hospital in Newfoundland.

Doctors Eager to Clear Air.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO ACT WITH LICENSE BOARD—DETERMINED EFFORT TO STRAIGHTEN OUT O.T.A. TANGLES.

Owing to the unsatisfactory situation in the province in respect to the relationship of doctors to the Ontario Temperance Act, the Ontario Medical Association is arranging to send out a questionnaire to every practitioner in Ontario, and a committee consisting of Dr. N. A. Powell, Dr. John Ferguson, and Dr. T. G. Routley, of Toronto, has been appointed to act in an advisory capacity to the Provisional Board of License Commissioners. The committee is an interim one, which will hold action pending the action of the association when it holds its annual meeting in Toronto next June.

The questionnaire, upon the answers to which the association will determine its stand, contains eleven queries. These include questions as to how far the doctor is from the nearest drug store and the nearest dispensing points are satisfactory, whether patients have experienced any difficulty in obtaining the sealed six-ounce packages of guaranteed liquor which the vendor is authorized to supply to any druggist, whether the present quart bottle containing 40 ounces of liquor should be reduced in size, the doctor being asked whether a maximum package of 25, 8 or 6 ounces would meet the needs of his practice.

Motives Are Ethical.

The Ontario Medical Association defines its position as follows: "The association, being a voluntary organization, whose aims and objects are the advancement of medical science and all that pertains thereto, has no desire nor authority to assume disciplinary powers over the profession; but the association believes that it owes a duty to its members to protect their interests by every legitimate means.

The committee, obviously, cannot offer advice or counsel in respect to other than members of the Ontario Medical Association. However, upon request, it will gladly endeavor to assist any practitioner in the Province.

Dr. Routley, secretary of the association, said: "The plan is simply an experiment. The Ontario Medical Association has absolutely no desire to take a hand in administering the Ontario Temperance Act; and the motives which actuated us in appointing an Advisory Committee were purely ethical. The Commissioner appear to be very desirous of our co-operation. If we, as an association, can assist in promoting and fostering greater harmony between those charged with the administration of the Act and the physicians of this Province, our action will be thoroughly justified. Of course, the committee acts in an honorary capacity, and is responsible only to the Ontario Medical Association."—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Animal Weather Prophets.

Before a rainstorm a cat usually washes its face. Why? Some claim that the atmosphere excites the electricity in the cat's fur, and to overcome the tingling sensation sets to washing herself. One need seldom fear getting wet in the country. Horses, cows, sheep, hogs, dogs—all evince certain peculiarities before a storm. Dogs bury bones; horses flinch and neigh; cows lie down; hogs grunt. Some day you may walk into a field and see a flock of sheep in a corner, all with their backs turned to the north-west. If you wait long enough you will feel a wind blow up from that direction.
