The Sin of Taking Offense.

No one is obliged to take offense A readiness to do it gives evidence of deep scated selfishness and the habit of doing it is proof conclusive that folly reights.

Many who are quite excelul to avoid giving offense have not yet come to a full recognition of the fact that taking offense is worse. It betokens a most unhealthy tone of mind. It gives evi-dence of a sinful and unchristlike spirit It shows that the thought is fastened on self, that precious self, the most important personage in all the universe and this petted darling somebody has had the temerity, the unpudence, to insult or slight. Shall it not be promptly resented?

Yes, by the fool, by him who likes to be continually in hot water. Let him nurse his injuries, and care scintonsly for his diguity, and make both himself and all around him as uncomfortable as possible. He will find no end of occa-sions if he is on the lookout for them and there will be no getting along with him in any sort of peace. At the most unexpected moment he has taken mortal umbrage at something done or said with the atmost unocence. No excuse suffices; he is alienated forever, and in the course of a few years he lias managed to get rid of about all who tried, in vain, to show him friendship Ho-han-became perfectly certain that every body is against hun

Surely there is a better way, of love He who is full of love will see things undisturbed by the blinding mists of selfishness which steam up from corrup tion within. He will behold realities not appearances, facts, not fancies He will have tender pity for the failings and weakness of others. He will be full of such genial kindness that no amount of ill-behaviour can make him cross. He will have so much of gental sweetness in him that circumstance cannot sour him | Love is a little child Love lives in sunshine. Love behaves all things that make for peace, is ignorant and incredulous regarding evil, delights to humble itself before others, and prefer them in honor. It locs not tako offense-

Were take, and truly best, who absolutely refuses to receive the absolute affronts refuses to receive the absolute affronts that may be proferred him, who postively declines to feel aggreesed no matter who attempts to put grief upon-him, who promptly and obstinately thrusts out of his thought the injury that some one thought to do him. We are our own masters in this matter. Our actions flow from our feelings, our feelings from our commons, and our opinous ings from our opinions, and our opinions are our own Everything is susceptible of explanation. The Triumph of Politoness.

Harry was standing on the read on the way home from school. There had been a heavy shower an hour before. and there was a large puddle in the road. He had a switch, and was switching the water from side to side.

Nettie came along and looked very cross at Harry

"You stop that" she said.
Harry did not like the way she spoke, nor the look on her face. Say 'please,' and I will." he said. I am not going to say 'please"."

Then I will do it as long as I like."

"I can t get by till you stop."
"Yes, you can. I'm not hindering you You are. I shall get all splashed."

Then stay where you are. You can't make me stop "
Now, the truth was that Harry did not care a bit about switching the water any longer If Nettie had spoken pleasantly he would have stopped at once. But now he felt as if-he would stay there all day just to spite her.

I shall tell your mother, you mean toy if you don't stop, went on Nettie.
Harry laughest louder as Nettie tried to run by. He gave a harder switch, and laughed more loudly than ever as he saw Nettie's white apron spotted with mid. She seewled back at him as she went on Nettic had just turned a corner-when Ruthic came up. Harry looked at her a little sourly, for he did not feel half so pleasant as he had before Nettie came. Do you wonder why? Was it because Nettic had been cross? Partly so, for no one can speak or look cross without leaving:a shadow behind. But Harry felt that he had been wrong, too, and this is worse than to suffer wrong from

Moral Training in Schools.

Education compries all the influences which go to form the character. The child is ignorant, it must be developed. Upon these two facts are founded the branches of education teaching and training.

Both of these factors are used in moral training. By moral training is meant the foundation of right habits, the development of a virtueus and noble the development of a virtuens and noble character.

This moral effect is produced in part by giving to the pupil a knowledge of right and wrong. But it is more largely produced: by having him do the right and avoid the wrong. This doing process must be repeated over and over until the habit of right doing is fixed. "Man is a bundle of habits." Habits are thoughts, feelings and actions repeated until they become case, pleasurable until they become easy, pleasurable.

Among the habits that fall within the scope of school influences, and that may be cultivated through its special appliances, are the following:

Promptness, obedience, order, selfrespect, respect for others, carefulness, neatness, courtesy, kindness, justice, industry, economy, honesty, truthfulness. Others might be added. The formation of such habits is of more worth to the individual and to society than the com-plete mastery of all text looks.

How shall these habits be formed, this moral character be created?

First.—By a limited amount of theory, or rules of morals, adapted to the age, advancement and cuvironment of pupils.

We must recognize the necessity for instruction on this subject. The right thing and the right way must be point ed out. As in the infancy of our race it was necessary to have ten commandments written on tables of stone and con-tinually repeated until a more perfect day, when the law should be written in their hearts, so in the case of every child it is necessary first to teach it what is right or wrong, until in a more mature age it sees all moral law summed up in the one maxim. "Do unto others as ye would that they should do unto you," or that still more perfect character is formed in which the moral law is written in the heart in the one word "love," and that principle dominates the whole life. This is the end of all moral and religious training.

Second.-The exercises of the school afford a fine opportunity for the repo-tition of right thinking, right feeling and right doing, and these acts should be repeated over and through the school life, until acts crystalize into liabits and habits aggregate into character. Thus the teacher forms in the pupil the habit of promptness by requiring everything to be done on time. This habitual doing of the right thing is better than all theories of morals. Occasions arise each day for calling into truthfulness, ctc. There is scope in the school for the culture of all the elements of virtuous character. It is not necessary that the pupil should always know the end simed at, but the teachers should always have character in his sight as the end of all his effort. "Culture above knowledge, and character above culture," is the true motto of the feacher. Is it better that the methods and spirit of the school create right habits rather than expend much energy in suppresing wrong ones. But when suppression is a necessity let it be done wisely and promptly.

Third.-Moral scutiment may be awakened by a right selection of "Liberty Geres" to be memorized by the pupils. These gems will be germs of moral life, which, planted in this fertile soil of the young heart, will in due time grow and bud and blossom and bear fruit; or, changing the figure, they will dwell in the memory as guar dian angels, helping the soul in its war against ovil. -- Prof. E. S. Mills.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1896.

The Session of 1896-7.

When this issue of THE CANADIAN

MUTE reaches our readers the work for this session at the fustitution will be well-under way in all the class-rooms and industrial departments; and it is no mere atcreetyped expression to say that the session has opened under the most favorable auspices. For various reasons, elsewhere specified, a targe number of pupils have not returned this session, and though the number of new pupils is equal to that of former years yet the total attendance is not quite equal to that of last session, being 262 at present as ompared with 273 then. There are suffi cient, however, to give each teacher even more pupils than he can do full justice to; but fortunately we have a staff that is not daunted by difficulties, and we are quite safe in predicting that this will be a very successful term. It is gratifying to know that overy officer and teacher who was here last year was on hand again at the beginning of this term, and is in the enjoyment of excellent health and well prepared, with recuperated energies, and accumulated experience, for nine months of faithful effort. The mental, and to a very considerable extent, the physical and moral welfare of those 262 immortal individualities are placed in their keeping to mould for time and for etermty, and that teacher or officer would indeed have a strangely perverted sense of responsibility and accountability who would wilfully fail in one jot or tittle of his duty towards them. We are sure that there are none such here, and-we have every confidence that next June we will be able to say gladly and truthfully that this has been the most pleasant and successful session in the history of the Institution.

A Handsome Diploma.

After nearly three years' delay the diploma awarded to this Institution by the managers of the Columbian Exposition has arrived and is now on view in the lobby here. It is an artistic and beautifully symbolic design and bears the following legend —" The United States of America, by act of their Congress, have authorized the world's Columbian Commission at the International Exposition held at the city of Chicago, State of Illinois, in the year 1893; to decree a medal for specific merit, which is set forth below, over the name of an individual judge, acting as the examiner upon the finding of a Board of International judges, to the Outario Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, Belleville, Canada. During his recent visit to Sarma becoming aware of the presence of a couple of our form r pupils among the large gathering met to do him honor. His Excellency begged that they be allowed to come and shake hands with him, the estomshment and pleasure of the privileged ones being intensified by the Governor making the sign for Mr. Mathison not a few other and orthodox gestures. We have often urged that this plan should be adopted in Outano, and every passing year emphasizes and augment the vast practical utility of a knowledge of dactylology by the mass of the people. It is to be hoped that the Department of Education will soon see its way clear to the inserting of the manual alphabet in-the read ig books used in the public schools, in which case the boys and girls could be trusted to acquire its skilkful use without any special effort on the part of the teacher.

Format Opening of School.

On Monday morning the usual formal opening took place. All the pupils officers and teachers assembled in the chapel and after devotional exercises Mr. Mathison made a brief address. He said that when he realized the fact that this was the commencement of the 18th years of his superintendency here be felt that he must be getting old. When he first assumed charge here on Sept. 13th, 1879, he did not think he would be here for so long a period, but time had moved swittly on and lare be was still. They have been seventeen years of considerable unviety but this had been compensated for by the pleasure and satisfaction he has derived in working with good people in a good cause. It had always been a great satisfaction to him that he been so ably sustained by such good officers and teachers, with very few exceptions in which none of the present staff are included. He desired to make it well understood that the success of the Institution was not due to the Superintendent alone, but to all who are connected with the Institution. He could say without boasting that the work carried on here from year to year was good, futhful work. He did-not know that better work could have been done even had the classes been smaller. but what has been accomplished with such unduly large classes has been at the expense of great nervous force Perhaps at some time in the future the classes could be reduced in numbers but he had to admit that the immediate propects were not very bright. The Government had a good deal of money to spend every-year but they also had many uses for it. He had received some slight encouragement that a new-building would be creeted and more teachers engaged, but not enough to build any very saugume hopes upon, and for the time being they would probably have to continue to work as in the just. He was glad that all of last year sidaff were present in the enjoyment of good health and ready to resume their labors with all their old time ardor. He was glad that none of them had met with any serious accidents. Mr McKillop, while riding on his bicycle in the States, had found a hill too steep for him and had made a vam effort to break open a rock with his head, but he was glad to see him with them again safe and sound. He was sure that all the teachers and officers were prepared to go on and do their duty to the very best of their ability. All of them felt that this was a noble work in which they were engaged and all we to prepared to put forth their There were not quite so best efforts many pupils present as there were last year, since a number who had been here the full time had been advised not to return, and others who should have returned bad been detained by illness ; because their parents needed their assistance But there were enough an hand to fill all the classes. He was sure that the pupils, as in the part years, and especially last year, would do their utmost to advance themselves. Many of their parents had sent them here at great sacrifice and the last way the pupils could show their gratitude was by making the best possible use of the opportunities thus afforded them. fle was pleased that so many of the officers and teachers were able to attend the Convention at Brantford, and all of them were delighted to see that the deaf-mutes present were such an intelligent, well dressed and well conducted lot of people. All of them were evident ly doing well in life and all of there paid their way to the Convention and did not ask to be billeted on the city as many conventions of hearing people did There was no drinking or carousing among the mutes and the people of Brantford were surprised to see such an intelligent, well-behaved, and thoroughly happy and presperous for of people, and the chizens of Brantford now had a much higher opinion of this lustitution than they ever had before. He also made short visits with friends in Walker ville and London.

-Superintendent Mathison enjoyed several pleasant outnigs. He first attended the Convention at Brantford, and then the oral Convention at-Philadelphia. He spent several days at Ottawa as delegate to the High Court I. O. F. While there he witnessed the opening of the Parliament and had the the pleasure of attending Lord. After his recovery they visited Utica, Rome, Syracuse, Rochester, and other places in the States. Mrs. Balis also spent a couple of days in Toronto before achool opened.

Vication Notes,

Mr A Parkin, of Toronto, gave us a call as he passed through Belleville during the vacation

Our I mon Jack floated at half most from the 20th to 22nd Aug out of respect for the Hon W D Ballour, Provincial Secretary, whose regretable demise took place at that time.

In August, Mr Mathison attended the Convention of the Independent better for his chosen rest and uneventful Order of Foresters held at Ottawa, and was elected Past High Chief Ranger for the Eistern division of the Order in Ontario

About 2000 copies of the Convention number of the Coveries Mere were distributed. Apart from the proceedings. the engrasings of the class rooms, workshops, etc. made it a very interesting and Ringston. See also made a short; number and we hope all our friends re-stay at the Thousan | Islands | coved one

-During the holidays Mr. R. O Meara jand a short visit to his father at the lustitution. He was on his way from Berhu to Ottawa where he has now en tered the University His old friends wish him a brilliant career, and look to see him do as good-service on the University foot hall team as he did on ours.

Of all who belong to the Institution we should think that our cool-headed Superintendent would be about the last to get the bicycle craze, but it struck him, and not the wheel only, but the side walk also had an mnings. Dr. George Mathison lately took a trip to the "Queen City" and three high grade wheels were sent down for Mr Mathison and family George is, of course, an old hand, but the others have had to get accustomes to the eccentricities of the thing and can now ride pretty well.

Fishing in the bay has been very poor this season and those who wished for really good sport had to go out to some of the country lakes. Mr. Mathi son, with his son George and Mr. Donglas, have on two occasions during the vacation made trips to Consecon Lake and each time returned heavy laden with trophics of their sport. All were tine black bass and pike, some of the latter being-taken with red and line, which can only be done in places where they are very much in evidence. A long drive of thirteen unles has to be taken to the fishing grounds or they would be more frequently visited, but those who go are amply repaid

-Messrs, Isbister, Recycs and Hanson made brief calls on as during the holi-days. Mr. Isbister spent Dominion Day here and his old friends were very glad to see him. He is employed in one of the best shoe shops in Peterborough and by keeping steady has good future prospects. Mr. Recves has a steady dace on the Lindsay Warder, he having learned the printer a trade in our office. Mr. Hauson is a tailor at Kingston and gets steady employment during most of the year. In the middle of the summer, trade being dull, he got a healthful change on the farm assisting Mr. Van Luven, of Morven, with the harvest, and drove over for a few hours to see us.

Gilbert Leguille, who was struck by a train while walking on the railway track near his home during the vacation. has returned to school apparently-little worse for his fool-hardy venturing. It is fortunate for him that the engineer of the train had sufficient space to slow np considerably, or the boy would probably now be, if not in his grave, a mangled piece of humanity. It will be a life lesson to him, but it is doubtful if it will be more than a passing reminiscence to others, as experience has proved that the warnings of teachers and friends are of little avail in stopping the practice. Of all classes, the deaf should avoid the

The family of the late Mr. Wills moved from their old home at the gate lodge on Sept. 1st. It was naturally a very painful move to give up old associations, as they have lived in the house for about eighteen years and seem a part of the Institution itself. Tho family of our new gardener, Mr. Mooro are now settled in the house and in charge of the gate. The pupils missed the kindly welcome of their old friends, Mr. and Mrs Wills, and were quick to note the new faces at the gate as they drove through from the station on the 16th We feel sure they will soon come to like Mr. and Mrs. Moore and family on better acquaintance

Mr. McKillop, has had a rather disappointing vacation. His cherished plans were sally upset and all through the provalent bicycle craze. At the close of school in June, he had planned a trip on his new wheel to take in New York, the Convention at Philadelphia, a visit to Washington. Hartford and other places. An unfortunate tumble near New York, in which the was severely cut on the face and hands, for the time being spoiled his beauty and quite pro-cinded his joining the chte of deaf-mute society at the Philadelphia Convention. After a brief stay at New York to repair damages, he returned again to Canadian soil, vowing that next time he proposes a trip of that kind he will go by steam or not at all. We are glad to report for the information of our tair readers that he is none the worse for his mishap and is still as bland and nico looking as ever and that his heart is still doing business at the old stand.

-Dr. George Mathison was the only person around the Institution who came into violent contact with Neptuno during the summer, and the doctor gave the god several good pointers about managing his own element. George is as much at home on the water as on the land He can swim with quite as much easo with his clothes on as he can walk. and can manage a boat much better than ho can manago-well, say a bleyele. One day he was returning from his camp at Brighton in his skiff-when he was overtaken by a violent gale. He saw it coming and as he was alone had not time to reef his sail, and as he know he would be upset he tred his valise and other loose property to the boat and calmly awaited events. In a few mo-ments the tempest struck the boat, in stantly capsizing it. The doctor accepted the inevitable and despite the violence of the storm, and the weight of his clothes, he kept swimming round and round the boat, herding all the floating flotsam as a shepherd would his sheep, keeping it all well together. After a while the storm abated and a boat from the shere came to his assistance. With most people this accident would have meant mevitable death, but to him it was only an unpleasant episode, plus the loss of a $5 bill.

WALKERTON TIDINGS.

From our own Corre., onlient.

This is the first time you have had a correspondent from this part of the province. I will do my best to gather nows around here that I think will be of interest to insert in the Murs, as long as I remain in this section.

Your correspondent had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of Mr. George A. Lobsinger, of Carrick township, last August, who is a cousin to Miss Jacobina Lobsinger, one of your brighest reporters of the girls' locals last session. He has had the honor of heling a member of the Bruco County Council and is now a conneillor of Carrick township. He is a director of the Carrick fall show, which is held in Mildingy. It took place this year-the day before school opened at Belleville. While there he introduced little Alex. Lob-inger to me, who went to your school this fall for the first time.

I was very much pleased to hear of the success of my old comrade on the foot-ball field. Willie Watt, in securing employment in the shoo factory, Milton. I know something about Wille last June. but won't say anything about it in the MUTE. If you want to know what it is, ask Mr. Campbell.

Roy. J. W. Shilton, father of Johnny at your school, after being pastor of the Walkerton Methodist Church for a term of three years, was appointed by the Methodist Conference held at Galt last summer to take the pastership of the Methodist Church at Niagara Falls, He and his family left for their new home on the first of July. Before coming to Walkerton he was pastor of the Methodiet Church at Clinton. Johnny spent nearly a day at David Luddy's home a few days before he left.

When the proposed Huron and Ontario Electric Rallway is built it will be a great convenience to the deafmutes whose sections it passes through, in meeting each other often. The carwill pass David Luddy's home on Silver Creek Farm near the G. T. R. station. A main branch will be constructed from Port Perry in Ontario County to Walkerton. A branch will be erected from Walkerton to Goderich and another from Walkerton to Kincardino and Tiverton. Several other branches will also be built.

School is opened once more and the officers, teachers and pupils are preparing for another hard work's session. 1 wish them all every success. - 0, S. L.

Toronto's Annual Plente

From a Correspondent The deal-mates of Toronto had scarce ly returned homo from the Convention at Brantford than they set to work to at Brantford than they set to work to arrango for their annual picuic they having determined to have one this year at any cost. So a meeting was call year at any cost. year avany ever severine arrangements. The principal point discussed was where to hold it. Several places were mentioned, but it was finally decided that Oakvillo was the most suitable place owing to its near proximity to the city, and the cheap rates of trensportation the boats afforded, so that both poor and rich alike could avail themselves of the opportunity. After all arrange ments had been completed there remain ed nothing more to be done but to wait for the day fixed for the occasion— Saturday, Aug. lst. Early on the morning of that date there were quite a number of the party at the what long before the time for the departure of the boat as if to wait events. As time were on more and more arrived till there could scarcely be less than 100 present. including a goodly number of hearing friends, amongst whom might be men tioned Mr. Smith, who has been to almost every pience of a similar kind for the last twenty years. Mr dallray Bursar of the Central Prison Mrs. McIntoshi, Mrs. W. Mason, Mrs. Taylor. formerly matron of Institution at Relleville; Miss Oussie Spaight, teacher in the Manitoba Institution for the Deaf. Miss Apple Fraser. A large number were now already in the boat comfortably scated and apparently taking things casy, while others were on the While we were thus waiting it was learned that for some reasons of the managers of the boat we had to secure tickets before leaving the what, a departure from the usual custom. Miss Fraser was deputed with the task of securing them from the office, she most willingly offering her services. Sho went and procured a few dozen, but as soon as she returned with them they were all quickly snatched up while there were yet many clamoring for them. She returned to the office for more but this time made sure she would have tins time made sure she would have enough. It was quite an anusing sight to see her hustling around at such a lively gait, but she did her duty to the satisfaction of all. At last we were ordered abroad as the hoat was preparing to leave. There were a few who were anxiously awaited for who had not yet turned up. Such remarks as these yet turned up. Such remarks as these were quite noticeable: "Oh, you are here, I thought you were not coming."
"Where's Miss Marrow" "Miss H:

The beat slowly drawn areas from the allows and support drew away from the shore and we are a last on the way to our distination When we were fairly out of the harbor your scribe took a stroll over the boat and found our party complacently seated in every mock and corner talking over their respective favorite subjects. He came to the door of the ladies' cabin. which was pretty well filled with the fair sex, but his modesty forbade him entering and he went on the deck where a good many were crowded around the bow of the boat evidently trying to see As the place became more and more visible a number of persons were seen standing somowhere near the wharf as if awaiting our arrival. It was discovered that they were a part of our parts who had got there before us on their wheels. They were A. Waggener and E. There being no bridge across within half a mile vilan a ana), we concluded to cross in a tag which was at hand, with our baskets, taby carriages, etc., in detachments of 2) or 40 at 8 time, and save surselves the trouble of walking around by way of the bridge. Before we entered the park proper we had to clumb a rather steep hill. Some of the ladies expressed their doubts about their ability to climb up an aded, but some of our brave young men offered to escort them up which they did in a very commendable manner On arriving at the top we met some of our Oaksilo friends awaiting us. Mrs. Fraser, Wisses Cumingham and Misses dolington. There was a large tent, with two top. long tables under it, on the ground which proved of great service the tent to shelter us from a stight shower of rain, and the tables to take our meals It being now past twelve o'clock. the ladies began to prepare dinner, while the sportsmen went to survey the ground which was to be our battle field for the afternoon not a battlefield of blood and despure but one of friendly games of sport with a little despair thrown in by those who were not fortunate enough to win the races in which they competed. In a short while scouts were sent out to amounce that dinner was ready, but in an amazingly short time they returned in an excited state to give the alarm that the enemy were preparing to make a raid on the tent Searce to had the alarm been given ix fore they were seen advancing in every direction under command of Major-General Waggener to the con sternation of those in possession of the tent, but to the joy of all cencerned it was learned that the raid was not of a hostile character, but merch a race for favorable positions at the table is needless to say that full justice was done to the ample spread provided by the ladies, and it general remark that long practice with our fingers had made us especially competent for such manual labor a cleaning during tables. The bountful sail had whether our appetites to such an extent that grave fears were enter tained as to the prospects of any thing being left for the evening meal but it was found later on that the ladies bad fully prepared themselves for the emergency by having hidden treasures for that occasion which will be referred to later on However while they had neither "toast" nor "song, a very enjoyable time was specia. The party enjoyable time was spent. The party now went to prepare the inserves for the real work of the day the sport-Coats, hats and shoes were promisenously strewn around in every direction, while the ladies repaired themselves to positions where they would have a good view of the games and char their favorite winners. Your scribe is sorry he has not a list of the gaines competed for, but is sure your regular correspon dent will furnish it in the budget of news hence it would be useless for me to repeat them here. They were all keenly contested, and many did themselves credit and would no doubt have beaten some of the professionals had they been competing. An interesting feature of the games was the tug of war between the married and single men Mr R. M Thomas, of that place kindly gave a basket of choice fruit to be distributed amongst the victors. After a long, hard and desperate pull the beneficts carned the day in both contests, there being juncture Mr. Harry Mason aunounced that he was prepared o take a photo of the whole party, he having brought his camera for that purpose. A procession was therefore formed and we marched off for the place wheeted Before arriving there we found we had to descend the same embankment as we had to climb in getting into the park although at another point even more although at another point even more after than the first. There was some steep than the first. speculation as how to get the failure down, some suggesting the use of reposbut at last a more practical and happy idea-was but upon It was that some of our stalwarts place themselves in positions like fence posts down the procipies and catch one tady a band

The New Sewton.

There is always more or less auxiety connected with the opening of the Institution at the close of the vacation, but the work and the anxiety are a faced to a minimum by the complete preparations that are always previously made. Some weeks in advance every parent is made acquainted with the exact time that the pupils must be at then respective stations, and every presention is taken to provent any mistakes, being made by, even the most careires. This year the teachers in starge of pupils were promptly in their assigned places on the day named, and from the east and the west and from the north and the south throughout the lay the boys and girls were swiftly _athered: towards the converging point at Belleville, and before two o'clock the most morning all of them had arrived sit and sound and most of them delighted to get back again. It was, therefore, a happy and contented -though some-*hat tired-looking lot of girls and box that assembled, in the chapel on the morning of the 17th, and the greetmg of pupil with pupil, and of officers and teachers with pupils, was a hearty A glance over the chapel, however showed very many changes. A large number of the larger boys and and had not returned, some having hushed the course, some being detained to coust their parents, others being sick. and others, who were not capable of material progress, being requested not to a turn in order that: there might be two tor more of the new applicants. lien are a larger number of new populs than usual this session, and while the average size of the pupils is considerably less than it was last year. the average mental capacity, to judge from appearances, is somewhat higher. The cumber at present in attendance is and a few more are expected, but " was considered advisable this year to somewhat reduce the attendance, as the dormitories, were overcrowded-last

On Thursday morning Mr. Mathison we comed the boys and girls back again and expressed his pleasure at seeing all be sut evidently enjoying such good be 4th and spirits. He also addressed the words to the parents of the Papils a considerable number of whom were present. He assured them that the very best of care would be taken of then little ones while here. He-was pleased to have them come and see the Institution for themselves. Ho felt sura there they would be pleased with the interesting matter is crowded out of this disangements made for the comfort of issue, owing to want of space.

the children and they could pulge for themselves that the teachers and officers were all kind hearted and carnest and would do all in their power to promote the physical, the mental and the moral welfare of the children. It was no light matter for poornts to thus hand their children over to the control of strangers for so long a time and la fully sympathized with them in the pain of the parting but of course the sacrifico must be made for the children benefit. If procuts were anytons by invited them to write as often as they chose and every letter would be promptly answered. If a child because sick the parents would be notified at one, of the fact and of its exact condition and the very worst would alway be told it necessary of course the parents would be asked to come, and if they were not asked they could rest assured that there was no unmediate danger. If they did not hear from their child at any time they could rest assured that it was well The Cavadian Med is issued every two weeks and this also contained a record of the pupils, health and progress and many interesting items about the pupils and every parent should be a subscriber. The time the children spent here was the happiest time in their lives, for here they could associate with those who are deaf like themselves and with whom they could hold free and sympathetic intercourse. The oldpupils were always glad to get back and m a few days the new papils would be equally happy and contented ---

Improvements and Repairs.

There were not any extensive no provements or repairs carried on in and around the Institution burns the past summer, yet many little touches were given liere and there which have added not a little to its comfort and attractiveness. The principal work was done by Mr. Dowrie who placed new warnscoting all around the halfs the lobby and the waiting room and also con structed a new stairs on the beys side The paint pot was also much in evidence and the halls, the officers and teachers dining room, the main boys dorintery and the waiting room were all hand somely regrained, and the kitchen repainted. Miss Walkers room was repapered and a hand-ome colored glass put to the apex of the waning room window. The cocks pantry was replastered and painted and a new room, fitted up for the messenger in the shop building. The male teachers were pleasantly surprised to find that a room had also been set apart as a lavatory. with a handsome steel fined bath tab. with hot and cold water pipes, basins, towels, looking glass, etc. It was a very welcome boon. The ludies both room also has a new bath tub and has been painted, and papered with hygicine paper, as was also the gentlemen's bath room. All the washstands, bowls, etc., have been removed from the class rooms, being no longer necessary. Various other little changes have been made here and there, and the general appearance of the bailding thus considerably improved

Fine Vegetables.

Last week our gardener, with pardou able pride, was displaying to the admiring gaze of everyone around the Institution an assortment of exception ally fine vegetables. There was a lasket of carrots that ranged from 12 to 13 inches in circumferences, and ontons that measured from 13 to 15 mehes. But the chief interest was centered in five mammoth beets that together weighed 44bs, the largest one weighing 10lbs and being 25 inches in circum ference. With no thought of making a pun, we can safely ask, who can leat this? Such a fine product as this speaks well for the intelligent care bestowed by Mr. Moore on the cultivation of the garden.

- Somo correspondence and other ther new boys and girls are a fine lot of connigsters and have dropped into their places contentedly, not a single long face among the whole of them. There reonly one over-age pupil among them this term

Prof Coleman officiated in the chard on the first Sunday in the weston and gave a good-address from the text the text. Whitsoever thine hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." Ho impressed on the pupils that the only work pleasing to God is that done will uigly cheerfully, thoroughly and prompt-ly both in religious and secular duties.

The warmest sympathy is felt by every one in the Institution with Rev. Mr Thompson in the freparable loss he sustained during the summer in the death of his wife. Mr. Thompson, during the short period she had resided in Belleville, had won the sincere respect and admiration of all classes of the community, and her sudden demise in the absence of her husband was sad and pathetic beyond expression.

Prof. Denys, while in Montreal, did himself the pleasure of calling upon Abbe Belanger, the veteran friend of the deaf in Quebec. He was pleased to and the good Abbe looking so well-and talking so enthusiastically of the work to which he has devoted his life. There are at pre-cut over a hundred boys in the school, and there is every prospect of a successful session. Father Balanger made very find enquiries about Superintendent Mathion, Mrs. Terrill, Mr. Coleman and all of the old staff. Our respected friend has lost none of his old time geniality and kindness; and it was a great pleasure for Mr. Denys to meet hun again

The Canadian Shoe and Leather learned, of Toronto, printed in its August issue, the cut of our shoe shop together with the photos of Mr. Mathison au ! Mr Nurse The Journal is a very interesting, practical and widely distributed trade paper and the graduates of our shop when they look for work or purchase leather will be better known than before. The Publisher, Mr. Acton; able is a cousin of our old pupils, Mr. an Miss Averell of Newton Robinson. can use his fingers like a muto and has kindly laced the Journal on his exchange list for the Canadian Mutr. and it will be perused with pleasure by the shee-shop pupils of the future.

Mr and Mrs. Bahs enjoyed their fall quota of honors at the various meetings they attended in the States. Both of them had papers prepared for the Alumni Association, but were detained by Mrs Balos illness from being present in time to give them. Both papers, however, will appear in the report of the proceedings. At the Alumn baiquet a splenad affair,— M. Bahs was master of ceremonies and had charge of the toast list. At the meetin of the National Association Mrs. Balis tools an active part in some of the di cussions, and at the banquet she was chosen to respond to the toast "Woman's -the first time a lady has over beer honored in this manner. Sho fully demonstrated the ability of her sex or at any rate of this member of it to make after dinner speeches of a quality quite equal to the best efforts of the winton "lords of creation," whose former prerogatives are thus being one by one wrested from their grasp.

Mrs. Ostrom has the sympathy of all in the Institution in the painful accident she sustained a few weeks ago. She was about going down the back stairnay when in some way, she does not know how, she slipped or tripped and fell about half way down the stairs, breaking her leg. She has suffered intense pain from the fracture and was for a time greatly prestrated by the shock, but is now rapidly recovering and feeling as well as can be expected. Miss Ostrom was alone in the with her mother at the time, and with the abnormal strength that affection and solicitude always give, she was able to convey her mother to her room and place her on her bed before summoning aid. Mise Ostrom lead returned from her extended and very pleasant holiday trip through the States in the enjoyment of an unwonted degree of health, which, however, was to a considerable degree dissipated by the stock of the accident and the subsequent anxiety and care it involved.

-Our old pupil. Mrs. R. Hoy, of Avonton, nee Miss Leitch, has been through much affliction lately-and has our sympathy. In July shows suddenly called home to Glencoo and found that her brother had met with an accident. While on a load of hay the horses ran away and he was thrown off, dragged across the field and he was so soverely injured that he only lived a short time. Mr. Robert Hoy's brother, Thomas, who has been ill since last winter died on the thirteenth of August. He was well known to many of the deaf.

-Mr. Alex. Swanson, an ex-pupil of our Institution, left Bolleville on the 13th ult. to commence his studies at the College for the Deaf at Washington. He passed with honor through the June examinations of the Kendall School preparatory class and has now entered tho college proper. Miss. M. Hutchinson. who left us last June, has also entered the Kendali school-high class with a view to the college. Mr. Braithwaite has, we understand, also gone to Washington to carry on his studies, he also having passed the preliminary examination for the college.

-Inspector Chamberlain made —Inspector Chamberian made an official visit to the Institution on the 18th ult. The departments had scarcely got down to work, but he viewed the buildings and met the pupils in the chapel in the afternoon. Mr. Mathison called on him for an address, and Mr. Chamberlain representation approximately the Chamberlain responding, expressed his pleasure at seeing all back to school so promptly and looking so well. He complimented them on their past record and hoped that the coming session would be a very successful one. He closed his remarks by hoping that all would enjoy good health, make good progress, and he very happy during the term. The Roy. Mr. Johnson, of Trenton, who was on a visit that day, also made a short address expressing his pleasure at meeting the children and giving all his good wishes.

The man who never told a lie hadn't better spoil his record by saying so.

A Business Lesson.

Peter Cooper was one of the most Peter Cooper was one of the most successful, careful, and prodent business men of his time. He was strongly opposed to the methods of many merchants who launched out into entravagant enterprises on borrowed money, for which they paid everbitant rates of interest. The following anecdote illustrates this point very forcibly:

trates this point very forcibly:

Once, while talking about a project with an acquaintance, the fatter said ho would have to berrow money for six months, paying interest at the rate of 3 per cent per month.

Why do you borrow for so short a time?" Mr. Cooper asked.

Because the broker will not negotiate

Well, if you wish," said Mr. Cooper, "I will discount your note at that rate for three years."

"Are you in carnest?" said the would be borrower.

"Certainly I am. I will discount your note for $10,000 for three years at your note for $10,000 for three years at that rate. Will you do it?"

"Of course I will," said the merchant.
"Very well," said Mr. Cooper, "Just sign this note for $10,000 payable in three years, and give your check for $800, and the transaction will be consider." and the transaction will be complete."

"But where is the money for me?" asked the astenished merchant.

"You don't get any money," was the reply.

"Your interest for thirty-six mouths at three per centum per mouth amounts to 10s per centum, or $10,800 therefore your check for $800 just makes us oven."

The force of this practical illustration of the folly of paying such an everbitant price for the use of money was such that the merchant determined never to borrow at such a ruinous rate, and he fro-quently used to say that nothing could

How to Test the Lungs.

Persons who wish to ascertain the state of their lungs are directed to draw in as much breath as they conveniently can. They are then to count as far as they can in a new and audible voice without drawing in more breath. The number of seconds they can continua counting must be carefully oberv. ed. A person with consumption cannot can a person with communication count count more than 10 seconds, and from quently after 6 is exhausted. In pleus risy phononia it ranges from 9 to 1 seconds. Advantage in Denfitess, Sometimes I am really glad I cannot hear. One of these occasions was on List Tuesday. A little description of the event won't harm by the telling.

It was a few minutes past six. Toilers in all busy ranks were harrying home ward. Businessbrought motothocorner of Sixteenth street and Third avenue. Just as I reached the east of the avenue a wounded bay to the parement. In two minutes there was a crowd of 500 people. I held the laboring man's funch box, with great confusion and some unplea-while he, in turn, held the wounded boy santness, the change was affected. How so the boy's head rested in his arms. The have been had she told them what she enough back to give the sufferer air.

By this time two doctors were on the spot and after a hurried consultation one polleeman left and returned in a few minntes with a fall, handsome priest. A query, a glance, and he was on his kneed reading the prayers for the dying. Just then the ambulance drove up, the surgeon then the minimum ancourage of the hastily alighted and at the end of two minutes the ambulance drove off without the "case" it came far. Ambulances do not carry the dead!

Now I'll tell you why I was glad I couldn't hear for the time being. I was spared the pain of hearing the key's shricks when he was strick by the ear.
The death scene, his pittlet means, his calls for "Manma!" His awful agony!
The cries of anguish of his father and brother, who came to the group for the brother, who came to the scene fust as ho was passing away, brought tears to all who witnessed the scene. It is good to be deaf at such a time.

A strange feature of the tragedy was A strange feature of the tragedy was the fact that not a line appeared in any of the papers about it, though I looked through them all. Philip Hamorous.

Some men's wives are too much like slaves, beings whose duty it is to be contented with pfenty of lixed work and something less than a plenty of board or clothes. Such a case scens to have been brought to light recently in southern Indiana under circumstances half pathetic, half lumorous.

An aged couple who had lived snugly for many years sold their farm for $16. 000. In the course the purchaser called with a notary to close up the business The notary had prepared a deed, which tho farmer signed and passed to his wife. whose signature was also meessary.

To the surprise of all concerned the woman refused to put her name to the document, "I have lived on this farm for fifty cars," she said, " and I'm not going to sign away my rights unless I get some thing out of it that I can call my own."

The husband reasoned with her; the notary did likewise. She was immovable. was no telling how increasonable her demands might be and he was eager to the farm.

"How much will you take to sign the deed?" he inquired. The woman howitated. Finally she said:

"Well: I think I ought to have $2.0.

"Do Not Touch a Pupil."

An old teacher says, "Never touch a papil." This is a very vigorous expression, and perhaps conveys more meaning papal." than the author wishes, It may be modified to this? Accustom your pupils to act from directions to obey orders.

I saw recently a lady attempt to get her Similar-school class of soven little dust as I reached the east of the avenue girls into the seat immediately behind a policeman and a laborer were carrying the one they were occupying. Without a wonded boy to the pavenient. In two to pash and pull one after another, till, wanted, and directed their to do it.

Vou wish Charley, who is at the fifth desk trom you to come forward and write on the wall slate. There are two ways of doing this. You can go to him and dean him toward. and drag him forward, thrust a crayon into his hand, and scoul at him; or you can tell him you wish him to write on such a state and let him get there and do it himself. You can make him do it, or let him do it.

No thought is acquired to see at once which is better. To do is pleasing: to be made to do is offensive and hundlat-
