Believe in Sacredness of

Still on Stand.

Canadian Press Dispatch
Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 1.—That letters which had been exchanged by R. B. Russell and C. E. Stevenson, Vancouver, Dominion secretary of the Socialist party, showed that seditious conspiracy had been arranged for the trial of J. E. Coyne, C.C. junior counsel for the Crown at the night session of the Russell trial today. Russell's letters stated that something must be done to try and "raise a little dust"; that the movement in Winnipeg was developing rapidly; and that "they were fast knocking hell out of the labor party"; that the labor party had been "killed for sure"; that when they got control of the trades and a council, "we would use it to our advantage"; and that "we are getting a number of reds elected to the locals, so let us hope that we can start something."

CONSIDER FLAT RATE
WATER SERVICE

York Township Council Ask
Superintendent for Report on Advisability.

York Township Council yesterday asked the waterworks superintendent to bring down a report on the advisability of charging a flat rate for water service in houses where the cellars are not suitable for the installation of meters. It was stated that quite a few meters are being destroyed by the frost in small houses, where the amount of water used would not pay in a couple of years for a meter. A flat rate of $10 a year was proposed for a report on a proposal to assess the cost of 6-inch service water pipes against the flankage of corner properties served. The engineer's report on the construction of a 6-inch water main in Windsor avenue, from the present line, a distance of 155 feet, was accepted. Council also accepted the engineer's report on the construction of a 6-inch cast iron water main in East Eglinton avenue with the new 6-inch main in South Atlas avenue, from Mulberry avenue to Vaughan road. A contract was let for the laying of water service pipes on Windsor avenue, Monty street, Mulberry crescent, to G. Thompson, superintendent of the township waterworks. Third reading was given to a by-law to extend Woodville avenue westerly from its present limit to Don Mills road. The solicitor was authorized to take up the arbitration proceedings in this connection. In answer to an appeal from the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives the clerk was instructed to reply that the township had paid for the care of all patients placed in that institution. Council approved plan of a subdivision on Norval street, block B, plan 1211. A grant of $25 was made to the Swansea Public Library. W. H. Bessey, secretary-treasurer of S.S. No. 26, asked for a refund of $97 paid for a permit to erect an eight-room addition to Secord School. The request will be considered. Local ratepayers asked for the installation of street lights on Silverthorn avenue, between Rowntree and Eglinton avenues. Attention was called by both the Motor League and the Safety League to the dangerous condition of the road at the corner of Heath street and Kipling avenue, where the lane drops about 40 feet to a ravine. It was decided to maintain a danger sign and a red light at night to warn the public. The Swansea Volunteer Fire Fighters applied for fire fighting equipment, including uniforms. Some uniforms will be supplied. Sir Adam Beck, replying to the complaint of the township that the installation of house lights in the township was being delayed, said he would have the work hurried along. The water department reported revenue for the six months ending September 30, of $1,369.97; expenditure, including amount paid to city, $10,124.17; net revenue, $1,575.80.

RANEY NOT ANXIOUS
OVER GETTING SEAT
OVER GETTING SEAT

No Foundation for Connecting Him With Running for Dundas.

"The matter of a seat in the legislature is not giving me the least anxiety," said Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general, to The World yesterday. "It will have my attention in due course, and as soon as I know where I will be a candidate the public will be informed." Mr. Raney also stated that he had noticed a published extract from a letter written by W. E. Casselman, M.L.A.-elect for Dundas, denying reports that he intended to resign to make way for him (Mr. Raney). "My position in the matter," said the attorney-general, "will be sufficiently indicated by a letter which I wrote to Mr. Casselman on November 26, which I presume he had not received when he wrote his letter. My letter was in part as follows: 'You will, of course, have noticed paragraphs in the newspapers mentioning my name with Dundas in connection with the by-elections. I thought I ought to write to you and say that there has been no foundation so far as I know for these paragraphs. Nobody has ever suggested the matter to me and I have never spoken to anybody about it. It is, I suppose, a newspaper guess founded on the fact that as a boy I lived in Williamsburg.' 'I may just add,' said Mr. Raney, "that this is the only communication I have ever had, direct or indirect, with Mr. Casselman, and that I assume that no friend of mine would undertake to arrange for a vacancy in the legislature in order to make a place for me, without first speaking to me about it."

Who is Responsible for Smashing the Treaty?

Jubilation reigned in some quarters when the U. S. Senate's emphatic rejection of the Treaty of Versailles came as a sensational climax of one of the most bitterly fought political battles in our history. It may have been a victory, and the destroyers of the Treaty and the League of Nations "may exult in their triumph," but, retorts The Springfield Republican (Ind.), "they will go into history having constructed nothing and selfishly leaving the world to its darkness and woe." Opposing this view, The New York Sun declares that "there never was anything more wrong, more ridiculous, more preposterous, than to maintain that the war was going on and must go on until the United States Senate and the American People consented to swallow Mr. Wilson's pernicious League of Nations." In fixing the responsibility, the pro-League Rochester Times-Union (Ind.) says that "the United States Senate, under the bankrupt leadership of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, has killed the Peace Treaty," but Republican papers like The Philadelphia North American and New York Tribune lay the responsibility for the failure of the Treaty at the President's own door, in effect charging him with "infanticide."

Lieut.-Governor
ASSUMES OFFICE

sidered Future of Government House.

Lionel H. Clark, the new lieutenant-governor of Ontario, in succession to Sir John Hendrie, took the oath of office in the executive council chamber at the parliament buildings yesterday afternoon. "I have had five delightful, but strenuous years," Sir John Hendrie remarked to The World at the conclusion of the function. Asked as to when he would be leaving government house, Sir John said the official quarters had already been vacated. He would clear out his private belongings as quickly as possible and remove to his old home "Strathearn," at Hamilton. The new lieutenant-governor remained for some time with the cabinet in council. Questioned as to whether anything had yet been decided regarding the future of government house, Premier Drury replied in the negative.

rate difficulties, these being problems which remain to prevent the ice launch of the river is not so and is feared by beginning of the work. Mr. Cassidy also provided all in requiring extra-ordinary instances pay-ment. The examination proceeded concerning the actual riots and the raiding of a store owned by Sam Blumenberg. University Governors' Board
Entertains Ontario Cabinet

The board of governors of Toronto University entertained Premier Drury and the other members of the cabinet to dinner at Hart House last night. The proceedings were private, but it is understood that the university, in its relation to provincial grants and other respects, was informally discussed. STRUCK PLAINCLOTHESMAN. F. Lavelle and George Tracey pleaded guilty in the police court yesterday to having assaulted Plainclothesman Forbes while the latter was making the arrest. They paid $20 and costs or 30 days. ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION Create Gas, Sourness and Pain—How To Treat. Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not, as some believe, to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sour, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well. Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try Lavelle's Acid-Neutralizer. It is a potent from any drugist a few ounces of full in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid, and neutralizes the acid. Bismarck (in powder or tablet form—never in liquid form) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for the purpose. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Little Boy's Fate

Chief Justice Will Inquire Why 12-year-old is Incarcerated for Nine Years.

Chief Justice Sir Glenholme Falconbridge yesterday issued a writ of habeas corpus directed to the keeper of the Victoria Industrial School for Boys, requiring him to have John Little brought before the court on Dec. 3, when an inquiry will be instituted as to the reason for his detention. The little boy borrowed a bicycle from a Windsor merchant without the consent of the owner, and was brought before the city magistrate, who let him off on suspended sentence. It is alleged that officers of the Children's Aid Society appeared on the scene and took the little fellow to Oshawa, from where he subsequently escaped. He was re-arrested and taken to Windsor, where he was placed in the cellar of the city hall. He became ill, and when a doctor was called it was found that he had been incarcerated in a small dark cell. For this and other horrible crimes such as robbing an orchard, he was ordered to the Victoria School to be held till his twenty-first year. THREE FINGERS AMPUTATED. John Gray, 8 Clarence square, had three fingers amputated yesterday afternoon when his hand caught in a machine. He was admitted to the General Hospital. CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME if you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises, go to your drugist and get 1 ounce of Parmit (double strength), add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Closed nostrils should open; breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Any one losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Excuse No Good.

Colonel Denison and J. Walter Curry, K. C. M.L.A., had a lively argument before the police court yesterday during the trial of Sam Lambrow, who was charged with a breach of the O.T.A. According to the police Lambrow had consumed 123 bottles of liquor in a house previously condemned under the O.T.A., thus making it illegal. Lambrow's defence was that he had the liquor before the order-in-council came into force. His worship imposed a fine of $800 and costs or three months.

Colonel Denison and J. Walter Curry, K. C. M.L.A., had a lively argument before the police court yesterday during the trial of Sam Lambrow, who was charged with a breach of the O.T.A. According to the police Lambrow had consumed 123 bottles of liquor in a house previously condemned under the O.T.A., thus making it illegal. Lambrow's defence was that he had the liquor before the order-in-council came into force. His worship imposed a fine of $800 and costs or three months.

TUESDAY MORNING, DEC. 2.

Fooling the "New Poor."

With a letter to The Times General Sims, the agent general of Ontario in London, attempts to Ontario the "new poor," "the class which prior to the war, lived on a moderate income derived from inherited wealth," and which is "unaccustomed to effort."

If General Sims means that these people, "unaccustomed to effort," should become Ontario farmers, the cabinet in Queen's Park should be asked to give its personal experience of "fishing, shooting, golf and tennis, sports and games."

If General Sims means, as he says, that the "new poor" should come to Ontario because their "straitened circumstances" will not allow them to live in England without effort, and that they can live here without effort on incomes that will not support them over there he must have forgotten that living is dearer in Ontario than in England.

Mr. Doherty, the minister who now directs immigration, should have a few earnest words with General Rainbow-Falster Sims.

Food or Farmer Finance? When Bernard Shaw turns his attention to figures he is as iconoclastic of financial traditions as of any other idols.

Bernard Shaw discusses the theory that the wealth of Britain, the capital of the country, amounts to fourteen thousand million pounds. It is also calculated that it is thirty thousand million pounds, or any round figure between these two.

The national debt is part of the capital. It is called £3,000,000,000. But if the current rate of interest rises to ten per cent it will only be £4,000,000,000.

"Capital," he continues, "during the brief period in which it has a substantial existence, before it becomes a figure in the ledger, is spare food out of the current harvest. Jevons called it spare money which comes to the same thing. Spare food can be turned into anything that can be made by men while they are consuming it."

While they are eating it the workers can be set to anything that will produce an income, he proceeds. The continuous labor can be fed out of the income, and leave some over for the people who have provided the spare food.

It is for the sake of this surplus that those of us who have spare food at our disposal from the current harvest refrain from consuming it ourselves. We lend it to commercial organizers, he says, to make incomes for us. We say we have saved it, but it has not been saved and cannot be saved. It has been spent to the last penny, leaving an earmarked legal claim on a share of future harvests year by year as they are produced. It is then said to be invested and is called capital.

A man who has invested a hundred pounds and is getting an income of five pounds a year for it, and who wants his money back cannot have it. It is all spent. If he wants his next twenty years' income all at once he cannot have that either. He cannot get a grain of wheat of the harvest of 1939. There are other people who do not want to spend their twenty years' income all at once, and the banker or the stockbroker, by bringing the two parties together, can effect an exchange of their interests.

A man can realize his capital in this way, but it is only possible to the amount of the spare food available and of the current harvest. Before the war this was estimated at four hundred millions every year. Shaw declares that no less than half of this "was driven abroad by the continuous tendency of capitalism to drive capital out of the country in spite of the efforts of Socialism to retain it."

"There is nothing more than four hundred millions to be got in any year by a tax on capital," he maintains. A levy of one per cent on the £14,000,000,000 could be collected; two per cent, would be feasible, "but three per cent, would overdraw the account at nature's bank, where over-drawing is not possible." He thinks that three per cent, might be collected if the money were used immediately to pay off the national debt and so throw the funds back on the money market for investment.

Mr. Shaw deals in a humorous way with what he conceives would happen if such an impossible demand as ten per cent, were made on capital. He declares that the result is making a bigger national income than ever, but that it must be redistributed, and so that no slackers get off. If the redistribution be not made he thinks anything may happen in the way of a financial crash, such as Germany suffered in 1917.

His remedy is to nationalize all industries, and make everybody work for their incomes, just as they were made to fight. "But if you are lazy and disingenuous, and prefer to go on merely taxing, remember that there is nothing but income to tax, and that if you try to get more you will be landed in a frightful mess, and probably precipitate a violent solution of the social problems you are shirking."

LADY ASTOR ENTERS BRITISH COMMONS

Was Introduced by David Lloyd George and Arthur J. Balfour, and Takes Seat.

London, Dec. 1.—Lady Astor took the oath as member of the house of commons this afternoon. There was a great outburst of applause while she was approaching the speaker and again when she signed the roll. Her sponsors were David Lloyd George, the premier, and Arthur J. Balfour, lord president of the council. Lady Astor wore a black dress and hat.

Viscount Astor, the husband of the new member of the house, was seated in the distinguished strangers' gallery. Tickets to the public gallery for today's session have been in great demand. So great has been the rush that it has been quite impossible to accommodate nearly all the applicants.

Countess Georgina Markievicz, who was elected member of parliament for the St. Patrick's division of Dublin last year, but who refused to take her seat owing to her Sinn Fein affiliations, has been in London over the week-end. Her presence here has created some curiosity as to whether she meant to forestall Lady Astor in taking a seat in the house of commons by making a dramatic appearance there.

Countess, however, went to Manchester, where she addressed a big Sinn Fein meeting and it is understood she had no intention of returning to divide the seat with Lady Astor. Lady Astor made the three regulations boys on entering the commons. The speaker, however, had to be sworn, after which she signed the roll as "Nancy Astor."

Another of the innovations in the session at this afternoon was the presence of a woman reporter who occupied a seat in the press gallery.

PLAN COALITION WITH KOLCHAK

Social Revolutionists Are Now Disposed to Accept Compromise.

Irkutsk, Siberia, Nov. 26.—The Social Revolutionists are disposed to accept a compromise with the Kolchak government along the lines of a responsible coalition cabinet, as outlined by Victor Pepeljaeff, former minister of the interior. Pepeljaeff has become entangled with the formation of a new cabinet and instructed to organize one with the greatest possible Socialistic tendencies compatible with Admiral Kolchak's stand against Bolshevism.

Governor Yakovlev of the Irkutsk district, leader of the Socialist Revolutionary party, is continuing in outlining the attitude of his party and that of the Social Revolutionists of the centre and left, said today that a resolution in protest against the continuation of the Omsk government's policy, "which would be heard throughout the world," had been prepared by the district duma, but had been suppressed in view of the action of the Omsk ministers resigning and the announcement of the new compromise.

This platform, said Governor Yakovlev, would, in his belief, form a basis upon which the opposing elements could unite.

To Establish St. John, N.B., As Air Post for East Coast

St. John, Dec. 1.—The establishment of St. John as an air port and the headquarters of a system of aerial transportation in the maritime province and connecting with upper provinces, the eastern states and the Magdalen Islands, is possible next year if the Eastern Canada Air Lines, Limited, can make arrangements for suitable grounds for an aerodrome here.

This was a statement made by representatives of the company, who appeared before the mayor and two commissioners today.

THE BRONCHO BUSTER

"PUSSYFOOT" JOHNSON

The Man Who Went Out to Help Make England a Dry Country.

All England is now talking about "Pussyfoot" Johnson. Since the regrettable accident that has deprived him of one eye, all the English-speaking world talks of him. England looks upon him the better for his gameness under very trying conditions, and is perhaps a little more disposed to listen to him since that event than New Brunswick.

He is being violently attacked and violently lauded by the British press and ever since he arrived in London from America accounts of his doings have been coming home over the cable. Johnson's mission overseas, as a representative of the Anti-Saloon League of America, is to help the British Isles follow the United States on the road of national abstinence.

He has a modest office in Fleet street, and from it he directs the spectacular raids the dry forces are making upon the old conservative British point of view on the subject of the "pub."

He speaks on street corners and in halls. His hecklers are plenty, but they never "get his goat." The wets and him and take notice, even if they have no far refused to take this project of universal prohibition seriously.

His First Big Work. William Eugene Johnson first gained great notoriety or reputation, according as one views it, as law enforcement official for the federal government in the Indian country during the administration of President Roosevelt. Acting under orders of the interior department Johnson was to go to Oklahoma and elsewhere and suppress the liquor traffic among the Indians.

When he took hold of his job he found that he had a lot of law and precedent and also a dearth of enforcement machinery. But he had been told by the department to "suppress the traffic in the joints, and the men and women who fancied themselves injured to take up the cudgel with the government afterwards. This was to stop the sale of liquor and then let lawsuits follow if they would, and they followed.

Times without number Johnson was lodged in jail at the order of local officials, only to be released later when they discovered that they were dealing with Uncle Sam's mate, and that Uncle Sam was protecting him. If occasion seemed to warrant, Johnson would sometimes pay a small fine, just to gain time to go on to the next locality where liquor sales were being made in violation of the law. First and last he put more than 4000 men behind bars.

In Used to Danger. Frequently his life was in danger. Once a bunch of law violators offered $2,000 for his dead body. Some fellows who needed the money went out and killed a man they thought was "Pussyfoot." They were paid half the reward and they and their employers proceeded to hold a glorious drunken wake around the body. Next day "Pussyfoot" and his deputies showed up and pinched the whole lot.

Once Johnson was sitting in a courtroom, leaning forward with his hand behind his ear, for he is slightly deaf, and a bully came behind him with two derringer pistols, the butts of which he applied to the bald pate of "Pussyfoot" with more force than tenderness. Johnson speedily took the count. He still bears the marks of that assault. Three or four times he was made to get him and plot after plot was hatched, but always something happened and Johnson was saved. Later, in most cases, he succeeded in arresting the plotters.

Whenever Johnson found he could accomplish things by existing law or known rules of legal procedure, he acted that way. When, however, he found no such law or rule he used common-sense, force, persuasion, threat or scheming or a combination of all. He knew that it was against the law to sell liquor to Indians. He knew that liquor was being sold to

The war casualties that leave no trace behind are certain compensation. "Perhaps Mr. Clarke knows that more than the palace in Rosedale is in poor repute with the farming community of Ontario. However much we may like him, we don't think much of the lieutenant-governorship as part of our administrative necessities. A good deal has been said in the Farmers' Sun about the office not being necessary, and about it certainly being expensive. I am told by the farmers that New Brunswick has had a lieutenant-governor open the legislature in Fredericton, he puts up at a hotel like any other respectable citizen.

"The U.F.C., which is doing things in New Brunswick in pretty much the same way as the U.F.O. is doing things in Ontario, will no doubt have a representative at the U.F.O. convention in the middle of this month, and we may get from him an idea of how they combine economy and efficiency in the silkworm and the sheep. The U.F.O. is doing things in Ontario, will no doubt have a representative at the U.F.O. convention in the middle of this month, and we may get from him an idea of how they combine economy and efficiency in the silkworm and the sheep.

"If the World has any influence with the new governor of Ontario perhaps you will let him know how his position makes an old Ontario man who wishes all good public servants a successful and happy career. The farmers think the government ship has been made into a perquisite of the smart society set of Toronto, with an outlook to a fringe what regards itself as the smart set in Hamilton, Ottawa, Kingston and a few other places where, if it could be managed, the old idea of the Family Compact would be revived.

"In the stately homes of England, after which, and the palaces of imperialism, Government House in Toronto has been fashioned, social grades among the aristocrats are rigidly observed. The "upper" servants look down on the kitchen force as haughtily as my lady looks upon the school-marm. But, in the kitchen, there are certain compensations. The cook, for instance, has the privilege of being an aristocrat in the kitchen. The butler, as sources of revenue, the fur that is taken from the hares and rabbits, the servants look down on the kitchen force as haughtily as my lady looks upon the school-marm. But, in the kitchen, there are certain compensations.

"The smart set, as the farmers see it, have compensated themselves for their disdain of the workaday business of government by the vulgar affairs like voting for candidates and public meetings, and all that sort of thing, don't you know. They regard this government, with its New Year resolutions, and its dances, as the fur, the fat and the feast. The question, as he agreed, is not the naturalness to them after the public duty has been done by somebody else.

"The farmers, however, besides that, as far as several governors and their families are concerned, the existence of 20 per cent of the people who keep up their regal condition is practically ignored. If the lieutenant-governor were in any sense the father of his people his house would sometimes be opened to all.

"A few years ago Saskatchewan had as governor a son of the Ontario farm who was called a farmer in spirit, as well as a possessor of much wealth. Every Saturday Governor Brown opened Government House, with its overly conservative, to school teachers and those whose public spirit was shown in some form of public service. He used to go out into the province talking to the people about their problems, as a farmer to farmers, and a citizen to citizens.

Open the House. "The plain people of Ontario have provided a palace for an official. But has Government House hitherto recognized that the women's institutes, for instance, have an important place in the social development of a province that is as populous as the States of Denmark or Norway, whose queen is King George's sister, and are worthy of abundant recognition by the members of the legislature would have been fact that Johnson never was a member of any human being and let folks know it, not indeed, by bragadocho or confident declaration, but quietly and firmly, all the while looking the men in the eye. His great size and strength, of course, were in his favor, and even his enemies had to admit that when it came to a fight he was as square as a die.

NAPANEE MAN SUFFOCATED. Belleville, Ont., Dec. 1.—(Special).—Johnson Graham of Napanee, aged 34 years, an employe at the Canada Cement plant at Point Ann, met death by suffocation on Saturday afternoon in a chute. The chute beam clogged and Graham whilst working to loosen the material fell in and his body was too large to pass thru the aperture at the bottom. Large quantities of No. 10 limes or accidents whatever have so far been reported.

Port Arthur Wireless Reports. Ships Safe on Lake Superior. Port Arthur, Dec. 1.—Everything is all right in Lake Superior so far as we can learn, was the report from the Port Arthur wireless station at one o'clock this afternoon. Many boats have been in shelter behind the point. No losses or accidents whatever have so far been reported.

MOONLIGHT AND MONEY

BY MARION RUBINCAM

THE MOTHER CHAPTER 50.

Later in the morning, Anne came up again to tell Louise that her mother was awake. "I'm glad, and I'm so glad," she said, "but I don't see her. Her first glance at me over woman gave her a complete shock."

"There are some people around whom the sun never seems to shine," Mrs. Driscoll was one of these. Most of her life, at least what Louise remembered of it, had been spent in a house, or somewhere in the snow-drifted mornings had been given over to a lazy toilette and to reading. Her afternoons spent with dressmakers, or at matinees, or perhaps in the morning, attending to innumerable unimportant affairs. She never seemed to live and breathe until after twilight. Let she was not unwholesome, she simply seemed to avoid both the physical and spiritual sunlight of life.

But today she sat still in the glare of a winter sun in the bay window, or her bonnet, and the penetrating rays showed up all her defects and years and the marks of her temperament. Neither the silk nor the lace hooded cap could soften her appearance. She looked dry and old, and suddenly terribly tired. Louise left her heart contract as she faced a new worry.

But she crossed the room, smiling and kissed her mother, then took a chair near her. "The two women looked at each other and behind the eyes of each there was a gleam of pity.

Louise decided it was best to come straight to the point. Her mother felt cold and she was not sure her voice would be steady, but she began— "I've come back, you see?"

But the pity that was deep in Mrs. Driscoll's eyes was not apparent in her voice when she answered, calmly enough: "I see. I knew you would."

"Yes," acknowledged Louise, with a curious desire to drink all the bitterness that was in this special cup. "You told me it would be deep in Mrs. Driscoll's eyes was not apparent in her voice when she answered, calmly enough: "I see. I knew you would."

"And you found out I was right, didn't you?" Mrs. Driscoll leaned back in her chair, her coffee cup in hand, and regarded her daughter. With her question an expression of retention and G. T. R. addition. That temper can be judged from an extract from Mr. Egger's address, Feb. 28, 1919, as retiring president of the board of trade.

"The nationalization of two of our large railway systems by the government has brought up a question of vital importance to the province of Ontario and the city of Toronto, viz: the possible removal of the head office of the former Canadian Northern Railway Co. from this city. While indications are that the Dominion government will recognize that Toronto, thru its geographical position, its commercial importance, its population and the resources of the district tributary to this city—the natural location for the offices and while we appreciate the right of the authorities at Ottawa to keep in mind economic results, considering such a momentous question, the people of Ontario, citizens of Toronto and the Bank of Commerce, should wholeheartedly resist any unjustified decision to remove the Canadian Northern Railway Company offices from this centre."

And that's the way it goes—everybody for a big, irrefragable campaign. Sir John Aird, general manager of the Bank of Commerce, spoke wholeheartedly in favor of it. Sir James Woods, head of the Gordon-Mackay Co., said that, of course, Toronto is the only place for the chief office of all the National Railways, and he was doing all he could to make our calling and election sure. And to show that public ownership, like grace, has its own peculiar trophies, Manager Fleming of the street railway and the Mackenzie interests joined the chorus.

The question, as he agreed, is not the arguable principle of public ownership, but the immediate advantage of it. And, as a crowning indication of how things are ready to move, it can be said that Lieut.-Governor Clarke feels that nothing would just now become the citizens of Ontario better than the strongest and most united activity in the new campaign.

And so it is the board of trade's privilege today to fire the starting pistol.

LEVEL SCRIBABLE FOR SILVER STOCKS

Timiskaming, Beaver, Trethewey and Chambers-Ferland Among Leaders

Cobalt stocks displayed a cheerful, not to say jaunty, spirit on the occasion of the opening of another week's business on the Standard Exchange, and the moderate losses sustained in Saturday's profit-taking session were more than made up.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Increased anxiety regarding coal shortage did a good deal today to give an upward swing to the corn market. The close was unsettled, at 1 1/8 to 1 3/8 net higher, with December 1 1/8 to 1 3/8 net, and May 1 1/8 to 1 3/8 net.

ON CHICAGO MARKET. Hughes, Harcourt and Co., 307 Royal Bank building, report the following prices at the close of the Chicago market yesterday:

CHICAGO MARKETS. J. P. Bickell & Co., Standard Bank building, report the following prices on the Chicago board of trade:

MONTREAL CATTLE MARKET. Montreal, Dec. 1.—Cattle—Receipts, 3212. The light run, cold weather and scarcity of good cattle put the market up from 60 to 70 per hundred on butchers' cattle.

MONTREAL PRODUCE MARKET. Montreal, Dec. 1.—A stronger feeling developed in the local market for cash oats, and prices higher, but the demand for supplies from all sources was somewhat limited, and the volume of business small.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK. Chicago, Dec. 1.—Cattle—Receipts, 35,000; slow. Beef steers: Medium and heavy, choice and prime, $18.75 to $20.50.

AMES-HOLDEN UP; BREAK IN ABITIBI BY CANADA BREAD. Loyal and Dominion Bridge Two Other Weak Spots at Montreal.

Montreal, Dec. 1.—Dominion Steel was the most active stock on today's market and Ames-Holden the outstanding feature by reason of its activity and strength, other features taking in a sharp break in Abitibi at the close, a continued downward action pursued by Loyal, and the weakness of Bridge.
