"Great Scott!" The exclamation broke from Spencer Stern, and he surveyed Patience with bewildered astonishment. "What are you driving at? I don't understand what you mean," he continued. "I never asked your sister to steal the Blue Diamond, I'd swear to that before any court or jury in the world. There was a ring of utter conviction in the man's voice. For once he appeared to be speaking the truth.

Patience stared at him with puzzled eyes, then the suspicion she had felt before returned to her, the suspicion that she had been on the wrong track all the time, and that Vivienne possibly had been referring to something else during that memorable conversation on the eve of her wedding.

"What was it you asked my sister to steal for you," she said, in low, unsteady tones, "if it wasn't the Blue Diamond? For I may as well tell you now," she went on, "that I know about your last letter to Vivienne. She told me about it the day before yesterday.

Spencer Stern turned livid, then raised his thin hand and touched at his heavy mustache. "What an extremely indiscreet person your sister is!" he remarked slowly. "It was easy to see that he was furiously annoyed.

"And what a blackguard you are!" Patience sprang to her feet. The sensation of faintness and nausea had given way to a feeling of rage and, for all her gentle disposition, she would have liked to strike Spencer Stern across the face. "You are nothing better than a blackmailer," she went on passionately, her bosom heaving wildly, her eyes sparkling with sudden fire. "But come, tell me the truth," she continued. "If Vivienne didn't steal the Blue Diamond, what do you mean?"

Patience asked the question authoritatively. She loathed the man so heartily that for once she had forgotten to be afraid of him. "Papers," he said, the words leaping, staring hard at her, his eyes shining with a curious light, admiring more than with anger or fear before. Her wrath made Patience look very splendid, and her sudden dash of courage pleased him; also he appreciated the crimson flush which now dyed her pale cheeks, and her passionate defiance.

"Papers," Patience repeated the word blankly, then a helpless expression came into her eyes. She felt so vague, so utterly in the dark. "But whom do these papers concern, and who did Vivienne steal them from?" she asked, slowly and miserably. "Ah, that is my secret," he laughed softly.

"He was feeling more at his ease now, confident that the game was in his own hands. Then a crafty look lit up his dark face, and he turned to Patience with a cruel smile.

"You are very fond of Jack Braithwaite," he asked. "This boy whom I hate so. You would not like him to be hurt?" "I love him," she said, the words very simply.

"And you would do a great deal for him?" He came close to her, and spoke. "Yes," she replied. "Voice of the world."

"Then I will tell you one thing," he said, quietly. "The papers your sister stole at my instigation—papers that are in my own possession now—contain that"

A DRESSY JUMPER FROCK OF BUFF-COLORED LINEN.

Linen, besides being used in some of the smartest summer tailor-made frocks, is finding much use in dressy jumper frocks, combined with handsome lace, beautifully embroidered or again elaborately braided. A combination of heavy and baby Irish crochet finds a most attractive use in this pictured jumper dress of linen in the old-fashioned buff shade. The skirt is gored to the knees, and finished with a tucked bounce. Between this and the skirt proper are set two rows of lace between a band of linen, ornamented with whorls of white braid. The jumper, worn over a gumpie of batiste and val. insertions, is made entirely of the face in the most extreme form of the Japanese idea, and the surplus fronts and large, loose sleeves are banded with the linen, and the white cord ornaments hold the fronts in place. The hat is the popular cloche or bell shape in neopatan, trimmed with white and yellow ostrich feathers and yellow tea roses. Loops of black velvet ribbon on the bandeau in the back give a Frenchy touch.

is likely to play the part of a quixotic fool. Give you up the papers indeed! And for nothing! Thank you, I am not such an idiot. A bargain is a bargain all the world over. I give those papers up only to my wife.

Patience began to sob helplessly. A feeling of utter despair was creeping over her, what might she do, but she realized that Spencer Stern had beaten her.

"I love you—and he loves you." He took Patience's hand in his own, and she dared not drag it away, repulsive as she felt his touch. "The possession of these papers means a lot to me," he added. "I can get what price I like for them, and also they will be of service to me in another way. They will help me to be revenged on a boy I have vowed to punish, for don't think I am going to forgive Jack Braithwaite for knocking me down as he did yesterday. No, don't think that; I never forgive an injury of that sort."

"These papers," he muttered, "I can understand that you would sell them to someone who wishes to hurt Jack. Would nothing induce you to be useful?"

"Yes, something would," he gripped her fingers so tightly that he hurt her. "I love you, little girl," he panted, "so intensely, so passionately, so heartily, that I can understand that you would sell them to someone who wishes to hurt Jack. Would nothing induce you to be useful?"

"I love him," she said, the words very simply. An eager expression came into his eyes as he spoke, and he dropped Patience's hands to clench his own nervously. Beads of sweat shivered themselves upon his forehead, and his complexion was a livid grey. There was no doubt of the man's wild passion for the slender girl who faced him, nor of his absolute determination to win her for his wife.

Patience trembled pitifully. What was she to say? What was she to do? She felt like a bird snared in the net of the Fowler. She was indeed in the toils.

She sank down in a chair and covered her face with her hands. She had decided herself to save Vivienne. Now it was to save Jack that she was called upon for a new sacrifice. She felt herself the playing thing of a strange destiny—strange and inexorable. What did her own happiness matter. Patience thought, compared to the happiness of the two beings whom she loved most upon earth? And if she could save them from trouble and misfortune by the sacrifice of herself, well—the sacrifice must be made.

"She shivered a little and thought of Jack—Jack, whom she loved so deeply and so well, and who loved her. What would he think, she wondered, when he heard she was to marry Spencer Stern? And yet perhaps it was, after all, the best thing that could happen. She was no fit wife for Jack, sister of a girl like Vivienne, and the daughter of a gambler. She might only bring shame and reproach upon an honorable name, and hurt the being she would have died to save.

"Well!" Spencer Stern came close to her as he asked the question and leant over her chair. "Give me your answer," he said softly. "Don't be so frightened of me, Patience. I swear before Heaven, I love you better than the whole world, and once we are married, I will devote the whole of my life to trying to please you."

"Won't you spare me?" she raised her eyes appealingly. "If you love me so much as you say you do," she continued, in low, earnest tones, "won't you give me the papers, and not force me into marrying you? For I don't love you, and I shall never love you. My whole heart and soul is given to another man—to Jack Braithwaite." She raised her voice as she said the last words. "Confound him!" A sudden expression came over Spencer Stern's face, and his eyes gleamed with fire. "Have done with all this nonsense," Patience exclaimed, roughly, "and stop appealing to my finer feelings. I am not the sort of man who

A HITCH IN THE WEDDING PLANS

Archbishop Bruchesi Will Not Allow Skinner-Forget Wedding to Take Place Before Catholic Altar.

Montreal, June 9—There is a good deal of interest in the coming Skinner-Forget wedding, which is set for Thursday next. Mr. Skinner is a son of Recorder Skinner of St. John (N. B.), a law partner of Bole Smith, K. C., and a Protestant, while the prospective bride is the daughter of Hon. E. J. Forget, a Roman Catholic, and both young people are very popular in society.

It was supposed that the ceremony would take place in Senator Forget's private chapel at Senneville where the millionaire's summer residence is located. They, however, had committed without his and both young people are very popular in society.

FOUND BOY DEAD UNDER A FENCE

Haliifax, N. S., June 9—Death under particularly sad circumstances visited the home of Lewis Strang, of Burton, lot 7, while Mr. Strang was working in a field some distance from his house, his little son, four years old, who had accompanied him, left him to visit his uncle, who was working in a field not very far off.

His father, thinking that the little fellow was enjoying himself, had not noticed him, and then on starting for home, went to get the little boy to take him with him. On going to call him, he made the painful discovery of his little body lying dead under a fence which he had climbed over, but which had fallen upon him while he was doing so. One of the poles had fallen across the boy's neck and killed him.

Dr. Liebig, the famous German Chemist, says that beer is "liquid bread." By this he means that beer is a food—full of life-giving, health-sustaining qualities. The value of beer as a food is becoming well known, and it is now used by many who have hitherto looked upon it as a beverage only.

Pabst Blue Ribbon

is the most nourishing of all beers—because it contains every particle of the healthful, wholesome nutriment of the malt and all the tonic properties of the hops from which it is made.

The Pabst Eight-Day Malting Process follows nature by slowly transforming the substance of the barley into pure, nutritious food. The quality of the materials used and the Pabst method of brewing make Pabst Blue Ribbon not only a pure beer, but a healthful, tissue-building, muscle-building, life-giving, "liquid bread." Drink Pabst Blue Ribbon, and you put health and strength into your system.

When ordering beer, ask for Pabst Blue Ribbon. Made by Pabst at Milwaukee. And bottled only at the Brewery.

FINANCIAL and COMMERCIAL

SAVAGE ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT BY J. S. BACHE AND COMPANY

New York Brokers Declare He Erred Irrevocably in Attacking the Railroads.

NEW YORK, June 7.—The discussion of the week and the interest of security holders has continued to be centered in the war against railroads. The latest utterances of the president have been thrashed out, and the official deliberations of the commerce commission have received attention in prices and in the press. The ineffectual character of the president's policies is evidenced by the decided alteration which he has again and again made in the objects sought to be attained.

THE SITUATION A YEAR AGO.

A year ago the railroads of the United States were crowded beyond their utmost capacity. For some years equipment and construction had not nearly kept pace with the growing business of transportation.

FOREIGN CREDIT THEN GOOD.

It was at this period that there began to be projected the arrangements for loans by nearly every road in the country. The credit of the roads, both abroad and in this country, was at the very height, and foreign nations were willing and ready to aid us, for without their aid no large development could be made.

ASSASSINATION OF CREDIT.

This was the time, with prosperity at its highest and the credit of the securities of this country the very best, that the president of the United States began his fierce, vindictive and personally malicious fight against the railroads.

THE INEVITABLE

These warnings of breaking confidence were written in the early months of the year. The crash in securities of March was the evidence of the fatality of these warnings, and a great break which has occurred cannot but shock the whole business structure to the extent of producing similar conditions later on in the country's trade.

DESTRUCTIVE METHODS

As a country, we have been crippled beyond any conceivable estimate by the pernicious activity of the personally conducted political campaign inaugurated by Mr. Roosevelt, and joined in by a horde of graft and vote seeking politicians in all the States. The borrowing of the railroads has come to a standstill, or is eking out by high rate, and generally in part successful, loans at home. It has become utterly impossible to borrow abroad by reason of the breaking of confidence created by the Roosevelt campaign.

GOOD NEWS FOR AMOROUS LOVERS; NEW YORK JUDGE UPHOLDS KISSING

(New York American.) Arousing Uncle John

There was the usual crowd of villagers sitting on the postoffice steps waiting for the mail to be distributed, and among them was Uncle John. He had joined the streets without saying a word, and at the end of 15 minutes one of the men

Among them was Uncle John. He had done half a day's work tearing down the pile to get at the rat. He had been aroused at last.

THE FUN OF IT.

Sibyl—Yes, and won't the inhabitants look surprised when lunch time comes and empty sardine cans and soda water bottles rain down on them!

POPULAR MUSIC

A new piece of music with a swinging, catchy, military air, has been placed on the music stands. It will be most interesting to St. John people on account of the fact that it is dedicated to a well known institution. It is to be known as "The Currie Business University Two-Step."

The title page is very pretty, containing colored plate of "Portia," with photo engravings of the president and management along with a plate of the football team of 1897.

THE FORCAST

"Tomorrow, Weather Bureau Man, Will the skies be blue and clear?" "It didn't rain," said he with pride, "Upon that day last year."

"Now tell me, Weather Bureau Man, if we are through with snow," "It snowed in June," he proudly said, "Just twenty years ago."

"Oh, tell me, Weather Bureau Man, will June be June or not?" "My records show," he firmly said, "That former June was not."

"It's wonderful," gaily said the weather man. "How you forecast the weather." The weather man, he winked at me, "And then we smiled together."

U. S. CIVIL SERVICE OFFERS INDUCEMENTS

Work Seven Hours per Day--A Month Holidays--
 A Month Sick Leave and Great Chances for Study--A Notable Trial.

(From our regular correspondent.)
 WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8.—The public has probably almost forgotten the scandal that occurred in Washington in 1905 in the agricultural department concerning the giving out of advance information of cotton reports but one of the men who was indicted on the charge is now being tried here. He is Edwin S. Holmes who at the time of the cotton leakage was assistant statistician of the agricultural department. Two other men were alleged to have been involved with him, but these men have escaped their trial by fleeing to a foreign country. It is claimed that the three profited by the information given out in advance concerning the cotton reports speaking in the stock market and that they cleaned up several hundred thousand dollars by that means. Mr. Holmes has always accounted for his prosperity by the alleged sale of a gold mine, and it will be the effort of the prosecution to show that the people the advance information of the cotton reports was a mine of value. The case is attracting a great deal of interest notwithstanding it has been so long coming to trial.

John A. McIlhenry of Louisiana, the president's recent appointee as a member of the civil service commission in Washington this week conferring with the president concerning an effort to increase the proportion of federal officeholders from the south. From here he will make a trip through the south, at the president's suggestion, for the purpose of making civil service examinations and of placing themselves in line for federal appointments. The proportion from the southern states of appointments in the civil service are less than from any other part of the country, and the attention of the president has been attracted by the fact that these appointments instead of growing more numerous were actually decreasing. There is a prevalent opinion in the south that because of republican administrations and sentiment in the north a democrat has no chance to secure a government appointment. This is not the case, of course, and a man or a woman chosen by the civil service examination process without regard to political affiliations. Mr. McIlhenry will also explain to the southerners that when they are in the agricultural department are encouraged the appointment of negroes to federal positions, the very thing to which they are so violently opposed. As the law requires no distinction of color and if the negroes apply for the examinations and pass them and the white people do not take the examination the offices will be filled by the negroes, however objectionable it may be to the people of the section.

The civil service in Washington offers an excellent chance for a young man of moderate means. The government clerks are well paid and they work less than seven hours a day. They have an annual vacation of thirty days and a like amount of sick leave. If they desire to stay in the service they have a fair chance of being in a life time. If they want to prepare themselves for a profession they have ample leisure and means to study, for nearly all of the institutions here have night schools in which government clerks study law, medicine and even theology. The fees are moderate and the museums and libraries furnish the best advantages for students. Mr. McIlhenry will tell all this to the people in South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, and Louisiana, and as he is himself a southerner, appointed by the president with the object of eliciting the interest of the south, it is probable that his trip will be attended with success. Mr. McIlhenry is an intimate friend of the president. He is a member of the president's tennis club, and his appointment to the civil service commission is another vacancy in the ranks of the Rough Riders. He is a graduate of Harvard and a millionaire, being the heir of the fortune made in McIlhenry's tobacco sauce. Most of his having in college consisted in being fed on the tobacco sauce, which he probably endured with patience as it added just that much to the McIlhenry property. He was an admirer of Mrs. Longworth before her marriage, and was one of the many to whom she was reported engaged.

HAS THE GIBSON MILL PASSED TO A COMBINE?

Report That it Has Been Purchased by the Canadian Colored Cotton Co. for $1,250,000--Typhoid Patient Escapes From Hospital.

Fredricton, N. B., June 9.—It is stated upon the very best of authority that the Canadian Colored Cotton Mills Company, of Montreal, have for some time been negotiating with the Gibson Railway & Manufacturing Company, Ltd., of Maryville, for the purchase of the Maryville cotton mill, with the property and business attached to it. This mill is the company's main mill in the province.

While it is stated in some quarters that the deal has already been completed and that the Canadian Colored Cotton Mills Company are now the owners of the property and business, it is learned from reliable sources that the matter has not yet quite reached that stage and that a deal has been put through, although the matter is likely to be closed up at almost any time.

There are many stories in circulation about the streets; in fact, there have been rumors going about Maryville for some time past. Of late a substantial foundation has been given to the rumors through the mill, where they have been running lines on the boundaries of the cotton mill property, and other persons have been looking the property over, apparently for the purpose of appraising it.

At Maryville it has been stated that there have been several bids made for the property and that offers and counter offers have been made and that eventually the Canadian Colored Cotton Company has been successful in landing what they were after.

For some years past the Canadian Colored Cotton Mills Company of Montreal, have been buying the entire output of the Maryville mill; in fact, the orders for the mill to make up for the cotton in direct from the Canadian Colored Cotton Mills Company. The latter company's travelers have sold all the goods and the mill has been under instructions from its head office. The Gibson company's travelers were called in off the road some years ago and have since either been employed at some other work by the company or found positions elsewhere.

The Gibson mill, however, has been one of the very few of what are known as independent mills in Canada, the Canadian Colored Cotton Mills Company being what is known as the "trust" in Canada. It is a big syndicate which has bought up practically all the mills, and so far as can be learned the only ones which it does not now own are the Gibson cotton mill in Maryville, and the York and Cornwall mills in St. John.

The only other concern owning cotton mills in Canada is the Dominion Textile Company, but they are interested practically altogether in gray cotton, and thus they are not thought to be figuring in this deal at all.

Col. Hugh H. McLean, one of the directors of the Gibson company, and who takes a foremost part in the company's affairs, was asked at St. John today relative to the sale of the cotton mill property owned by the company, and stated that negotiations have been on for its sale, but that the deal has not been put through as yet.

J. W. Spurlin, manager of the Bank of Montreal, this city, who was lately elected a director of the Gibson company in place of M. S. L. Ritchey, was seen at noon today relative to the talked of sale, and the information which he gave corroborated the statement made by Col. McLean at St. John.

From well informed persons at Maryville similar information was obtained, while the officials of the company at the office and at the mill stated that the matter was something with which they would have nothing to do, although they had heard rumors.

One day about the middle of last week Col. McLean and Laurent MacLennan, another director of the Gibson company, came to this city from St. John, and that their visit was one of importance. They were accompanied by their stenographer, who accompanied them to Maryville.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the mill will change hands. The property which will change hands will include the mill and the company's holdings in Maryville on the east side of the Nashwaak river, which will include the cotton mill and the largest industrial enterprise of ground and all of the brick tenement houses on that side of the river, about fifty-five in all. The proposed purchase price is said to be $1,250,000. It is stated that the cost was about $1,250,000.

The work of erecting the Gibson cotton mill was commenced in the year 1883, the contractors being the Messrs. Mooney, of St. John, and it was in May, 1885, that the mill was completed. Fitted with machinery and commenced operating.

Alexander Gibson, Jr., the head of the mill, who was so seriously ill during the past winter, was able to visit the mill the other day for the first time since this illness.

If the Gibson company sells out the cotton mills business they will still control one of the largest industrial enterprises in this province—the lumbering business. The Gibson company at its Maryville and Blackville sawmills, shingle and other mill operations between thirty-five and forty million feet of lumber annually.

Colonel McLean was asked yesterday about the Gibson property deal, but said he was unable to say anything further, owing to his position as solicitor for the company.

A young man named Warren Allen, belonging to Burton, Sunbury county, created a lot of excitement here today. He has been under treatment at the Victoria hospital for an attack of typhoid fever, and this morning about 4 o'clock while delirious, took it into his head to leave the institution. During the temporary absence of the nurse, he went into the bath room, on the ground floor, and made his escape by jumping out of the window.

An alarm was raised instantly, and diligent search was made in the neighborhood of the hospital, but no trace of the man could be found. Later on members of the fire department and other citizens joined in the search, and the river in front of the hospital was dragged, as it was feared he had drowned himself. Shortly before 8 o'clock this afternoon the unfortunate man, clad only in a night shirt, made his appearance at the residence of Fred. St. John Bliss, Waterloo row, and asked for food. Mr. Bliss had heard of his escape, and after providing him with clothing, called a cab and had him returned to the hospital.

It was raining heavily when Allen left the hospital, and he must have been greatly from cold and exposure. He was unable to give a satisfactory account of his wanderings, but it is believed that he had hid himself in the Intercolonial freight shed, near Mr. Bliss' residence. It was learned this evening that Allen was shown into the hospital, and that he had been decided to hold his open air treatment. The unfortunate affair has been reported to the hospital trustees, and they have decided to hold an investigation tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

A party of St. John ladies and gentlemen arrived here at 10 o'clock last night in four automobiles, and are registered at the Queen's hotel. They encountered wet weather and muddy roads during the run up, and two machines had to be laid up for repairs. The party, which reached here was made up as follows: Mr. and Mrs. J. Roy Thomson, Leslie Smith, Alex. Fowler, James A. Patterson, G. S. Brown, A. S. Peters, Mr. D. Coll, J. A. Legge, J. A. Pugsley, G. W. Rutherford, W. G. Pugsley, P. M. Rising, Dr. F. C. Bonnell, R. D. Patterson, H. A. Allison. They will return to St. John by train tomorrow, and return later for their automobiles.

It has been raining steadily here for the past two days, and a big rise of water in the river is looked for.

THE CANADIAN MONEY MARKET

The Great Demand Has Caused Liquidation of Securities--What Bankers Think.

(Montreal Witness)
 The farmer, the miner, the cattle raiser, the elevators in the west; the manufacturer in the west, the wholesale and retail merchant, the dairyman, Cobalt and other company promoters in the east, have all been crying for money and more money. The result has been general and persistent liquidation in the security markets. Marginal trading has become a luxury, owing to the difficulty broken here in maintaining sufficient call money to carry their customers' accounts. Money, following its liquid course, has drifted from the four, five, six and seven per cent returns, in some cases, in the security markets, to even more profitable sources of investment.

Some bankers think that by the middle of this month there will be a change for the better in the money market. The product of the farm, carried over from last year, will have reached the distributing points, and the owners responsible, and a greatly enhanced price. Money will then be bought, very largely, no doubt, not so much for investment return, as for the speculative profit that must come on the scrip when money is free enough to admit of extensive speculative and investment. The tremendous energy displayed in railway construction and in other directions, and the demands which such development will entail upon the money market, will prevent any great glut of funds. The general impression seems to be, however, that there will be money in abundance to lift the course of security prices far above the level of the past half-year. An attractive feature in the home market is the continued increase in earnings of all the industrial and railway, steam and electric companies, and a corresponding increase in both production and consumption of the more important staples.

KNOX COLLEGE LOST $37,000 THROUGH BAD INVESTMENTS

Montreal, June 9.—The sensational disclosure by Rev. Principal McLaren, of Knox College, Toronto, of the fact that the college had lost in the neighborhood of $37,000 of its funds, and the announcement that the college committee being of opinion that the investments had been made in the supposed best interests of the college, had determined to take no steps to recover the money from the late treasurer's estate, were the chief features of Saturday's meeting of the Presbyterian General Assembly.

Strange to say, the announcement was received with comparative equanimity. The principal of the college, who had believed that no bad faith could be imputed to the late treasurer, Mr. Warden, being apparently responsible for the assembly's indignant attitude.

Rev. Principal McLaren stated that the investments had been made owing to over-zeal of the college trustees, which had left such matters largely to the treasurer's judgment. The principal further stated that to guard against similar occurrences all investments in the future will be in the hands of the trustees of the General Assembly, of which the treasurer is one.

Principal McLaren told the assembly that in order to obtain a higher rate of interest on the college funds the late treasurer had made investments in other than the trust fund securities sanctioned by valid authority. The report of the college accountants, John MacKay & Co., of Toronto, dated May 16, of this year states that in their opinion the securities held, particularly in mortgage and real estate, should be revalued, with the exception that without such a revaluation they are unable to accept any responsibility for the stated intrinsic value thereof.

The auditors report shows to what extent the sinking for industrial enterprises entered into the late treasurer's investments on behalf of the college.

It was evident that the whole affair was very painful to Rev. Principal McLaren, to whom the assembly showed respectful consideration in their obvious deference to his views that the late treasurer had been actuated by honest motives.

Sir Thomas Taylor, of Hamilton, in expressing his regret at the losses which the college had sustained, coincided with the principal's opinion of the late treasurer's intentions. Sir Thomas further stated that all investments not within the line would be disposed of by the college, and the proceeds placed in authorized securities.

The report of the board of management of the Presbyterian College, Halifax, was read by Rev. Dr. McMillan, who referred to the loss which had been sustained by the college in the resignation of Principal Falconer, to whose catholicity of spirit tribute was paid.

Principal Falconer, who has been appointed principal of Toronto university, is succeeded by Dr. Magill, while his professional chair falls to his brother, Rev. J. W. Falconer. Principal Magill, who was greeted with applause, after referring to his predecessor's call to what was a national and not a sectarian appointment, drew a hopeful picture of the future that lay before the Maritime Provinces. "They will wake up," he said, "and be a great centre of industrial work and struggle, with a vast population." So Halifax college could look forward confidently to expanding scope for activity. The college had remained true, amid surrounding unrest, to the fundamental faith. It had been said that it was a college of "toy professors," but despite their youth they had not adopted the "new theology," which in their opinion, was no theology at all. In their recognition of the need for keeping pace with advancing light and knowledge, they were accustomed to regard all vexed questions from the viewpoint that the Lord Jesus Christ was God manifest in the flesh. They were true to the divinity of the Saviour.

University of Alabama Team Cancels Game with Vermont University.

A Burlington, Vt., despatch of June 6th says: Two baseball games which had been arranged for today and tomorrow between the University of Vermont and University of Alabama teams have been cancelled by the management of the latter team, and the reason assigned is the presence of two colored youths on the Vermont team.

At the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Thorne, Butternut Ridge, on June 5, Miss Alpha Thorne was married to Ernest Alward. The ceremony was performed on the lawn by Rev. Geo. Howard. The bride wore a suit of grey, trimmed with white.

Some New Screams

By WALTER WELLMAN

TOO GOOD. He-So you wouldn't marry the best man living? She-No, I imagine he'd be a dead one.

"George says he's going to buy an automobile as soon as he can see his way clear." "Oh! that isn't necessary with an automobile."

She-Well, George and Marie went to a minister and had the knot tied at last. He-I guess you'll find it's only a slip-knot.

She-You shouldn't kiss me. It is entirely out of place. He-But I only kissed you on your hand. She-That's what I said-it was out of place.

She-But Jack, you don't earn enough to support two. He-But won't we be one then?

She-You shouldn't kiss me. It is entirely out of place. He-But I only kissed you on your hand. She-That's what I said-it was out of place.

SIR FREDERICK WELL SATISFIED

Minister of Militia Back from the Colonial Conference is Sanguine of Success of All Red Service.

Ottawa, June 9 - Sir Frederick Borden, who has returned from London (Eng.), where he was attending the imperial conference, speaks highly of the manner in which the colonial representatives were received and entertained by the British government, and the British people generally. The results of the conference were satisfactory and he was glad to see from the opinions expressed in the press that Canada had taken that view.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had behind him a majority of the members of the conference. Every point that the Canadian premier put forward was carried except that in regard to the preference. As to the attitude of the British government on this subject, it was well known before the conference that there were other ways in which the dominions over the seas could be benefited and hence it was that the fact that the Atlantic and Pacific steamship project not only became a subject of discussion but was unanimously adopted by the conference. The suggestion came from the British chancellor of the exchequer and other members of the government supported it so that there is good reason for believing that the scheme will be carried into effect.

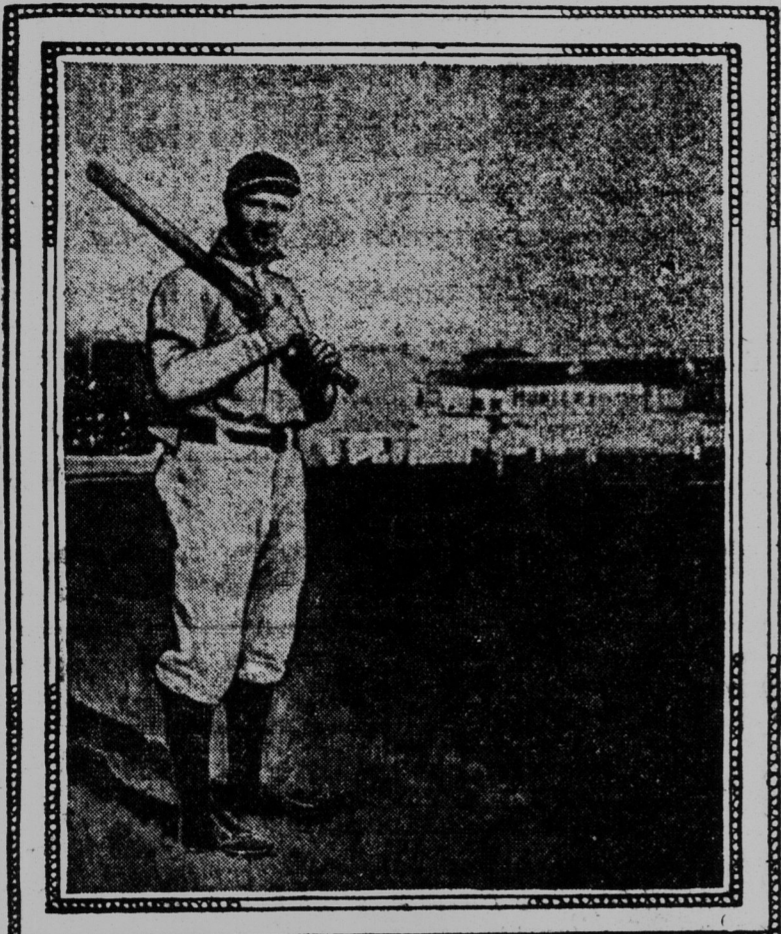

Referring to the military organization for the empire, Sir Frederick said a military general staff had been established. This would be selected from the forces of the empire as a whole, and would study military science in all its branches. Military information would be collected and disseminated to the various governments, and schemes of defence would be prepared on a common principle.

READ THIS AND CHEER UP.

This Summer is Not so Cold After All for in 1815 There Was Snow in the Month of August.

(Brooklyn Eagle.) A Yarmouth woman has in her possession an old diary that contains the following article which will make interesting reading to those who complain of the coldness of the present season. The article appeared many years ago in the New York Sun: The year 1815 was known throughout the United States and Europe as the coldest ever experienced by any person then living. There are persons in the habit of keeping diaries for years and it is from the pages of an old diary begun in 1810 and kept unbroken until 1860, that the following information regarding this year without a summer has been taken. January was so mild that most persons allowed their fires to go out and did not burn wood except for cooking. There were a few cold days, but they were very few. Most of the time the air was warm and springlike. February was not cold. Some days more colder than any in January, but the weather was about the same. March, from the 1st to the 5th, was inclined to be windy. It came in like a small lion and went out like a very innocent sheep. April came in warm, but as the days grew longer, the air became cold, and by the first of May there was a temperature like that of winter, with plenty of snow and ice. In May the young buds were frozen dead, ice formed half an inch thick on ponds and rivers, corn was killed and fields were planted again and again, until it became too late to raise a crop. By the last of May in this climate the trees are usually in leaf and birds and flowers are plentiful. When the last of May arrived 1815 everything had been killed by the cold. June was the coldest month of roses ever experienced in this latitude. Frost fell ten inches deep in Vermont. There was a seven inch snow all in Maine, a three-inch fall in the interior of New York state, and the same in Massachusetts. There were only a few moderately warm days. Everybody looked, longed and waited for warm weather, but warm weather did not come. It was also dry, very little rain fell. All summer long the wind blew steadily from the north in blasts laden with snow and ice. Mocha ere knit socks of double thickness for their children and made thick mittens. Planting and sowing were done together, and the farmers who worked out their taxes on the country roads wore overcoats and mittens. On June 17 there was a heavy fall of snow. A Vermont farmer sent a flock of sheep to pasture on June 15. The morning of the 17th dawned with the thermometer below freezing point. At 9 o'clock in the morning the owner of the sheep started to look up his flock. Before leaving home he turned to his wife and said, jokingly, 'Better start the neighbors soon; it's the middle of June and I may get lost in the snow.' An hour after he left home a terrible monsoon came up. The snow fell thick and fast, and as there was so much wind, the heavy mass piled in great drifts along the downward side of the fences and outbuildings. Night came and the farmer had not been heard of. His wife became frightened and alarmed at the neighborhood. On the third day they found him. He was lying in a hollow on the side of a hill, with both feet frozen; he was half covered with snow, but alive. Most of the sheep were lost. A farmer near Tewksbury, Vermont, owned a large field of corn. He built fires around the field to keep off the frost. Nearly every night he and his men took turns in keeping up the fires and watching that the corn did not freeze. The farmer was rewarded for his tireless labors by having the only crop of corn in the region. July came in with ice and snow. On the Fourth of July ice as thick as window glass formed throughout New England, New York, and in some parts of the State of Pennsylvania. Indian corn which in some parts of the east had struggled through the May and June, gave up, froze and died. To the surprise of everybody, August proved the warmest month of all. Almost every green thing in this country and Europe was blasted with frost. Snow fell at Barnet, thirty miles from London, England, on August 20. Newspapers received from England stated that 1815 would be remembered by the existing generation as the year in which there was no summer. Very little corn ripened in New England. There was great privation and thousands of persons would have perished in the country had it not been for the abundance of fish and wild game.

FILLING THE VACANCY

Engineer Peters in Temporary Direction of the Board of Works.

Chairman McGoldrick of the board of works said this morning that it was unlikely any action would be taken to fill the position of director of public works vacated by Mr. Cushing, for a couple of weeks at least. The work of the department, he said, was going on all right and he expected that with Engineer Peters' assistance he would be able to take care of matters for a time. It is not known whether a permanent appointment will be made or an engineer engaged until the first of the year, when the resignation of the various civic departments will likely take place.

THE PRINTERS OUTING

To the Editor of The Times: Sir—Kindly permit me, through the columns of your valuable journal, a few lines wherein to relate the report appearing in this morning's Sun upon the outing of the boys on Saturday last to Cornwall-on-the-River. The report is altogether foreign from the truth. The outing was a clean and well-conducted one, and every credit is due the committee in charge for their attention to the welfare of all concerned. Waiting for the next. ONE OF THE STAR 'GANG.'

Vudor Porch Shades Make a Big Cool Room of Your Verandah.

JUST THINK, YOU CAN MAKE AN EXTRA ROOM OF YOUR PORCH—the coolest, most serviceable room in your home, too—at a trivial cost. Vudor Porch Shades make this possible; they keep out the hot sun, but admit the cool, refreshing breeze. They give absolute privacy, for no one can look through them from the outside; yet they are so constructed that from the inside you can see all that goes on without!

They can be instantly raised or lowered, with very little effort. A practically indestructible device (operating on the principle of a theatre curtain) accomplishes this. They are light, but exceedingly durable, being constructed of thin stripes of Linden wood fibre woven with the strongest seine twine.

THE MOST COMFORTABLE PLACE "In the House." TRADE MARK VUDOR PORCH SHADES

Vudor Shades are artistic in the extreme; stained in soft colors that rest the eye and harmonize with any style of architecture. The colors are absolutely indelible and will neither fade nor crack off. Over 100,000 homes in the United States alone are now equipped with Vudor Porch shades, among them both the city and country residences of some of the nation's wealthiest families. Yet Vudor Shades, while they add to the appearance of even the most palatial mansion, are not a luxury for the rich alone. Their moderate price puts them within the reach of everyone who can afford to have a porch at all. The cost is insignificant in comparison with their utility and the added comfort and pleasure they afford. Full particulars at our Furniture Warehouses.
