DECLARES SITUATION IN BULGARIA CRITICAL Pro-Russian Demonstrations in Several Places Reported

German Division Called in To Crush Demonstrations—Cabinet Position Said To Be Serious—Spirit of Troops Low

London, Aug. 29 (New York Times cable)—Dispatch to the London Times from Bucharest, dated Sunday, says: "According to trustworthy news received by the Journal Special, the situation in Bulgaria is very critical. During the last few days, pro-Russian demonstrations have taken place at Philippopolis, Yanbol and Stara Zagora, and the government was compelled to call upon the German division to crush them. The population attacked the soldiers, who fired, killing and injuring a great number of citizens.

"It seems that the situation of the Radosloff cabinet is very critical. Another despatch to the Times from the Roumanian capital, bearing date of Saturday, says: "Bulgarian deserters who have arrived in Roumania, declare that the spirit of the Bulgarian troops is very low, on account of the fact that they have not received pay for six months, and insufficient food. All their movements have been made on foot, whereas the Austrians have been well fed, regularly paid, and all their movements are made by train.

"According to trustworthy information, Bulgarian troops are continually being moved toward the south, in order to meet General Sarraff's offensive."

Bucharest, Aug. 29.—The following is the text of a note handed to Count Cernin, the Austro-Hungarian minister to Roumania, at the conclusion of a meeting of the Roumanian Council, which preceded the Roumanian declaration of war.

"The alliance concluded between Germany, Austro-Hungary and Italy, according to the statements of those governments, had only a conservative and defensive character. Its principal object was to guarantee the allied countries against attack from the outside and to consolidate the state of affairs created by previous treaties. It was in accordance with these principles that Roumania joined this alliance.

"Devoted to the development of her national affairs, and faithful to her resolution to remain as an element of order and equilibrium on the lower Danube, Roumania never has ceased her devotion to the maintenance of peace in the Balkans. The last Balkan war, by destroying the status quo, imposed upon her a new line of conduct, but her intervention gave peace and re-established the equilibrium.

"For herself, she was satisfied with the rectification of her borders, which gave her the greatest security against aggression, and repaired certain injustices of the Congress of Berlin. But in pursuit of this aim Roumania was disappointed by the failure of the Vienna cabinet to take the attitude Roumania was entitled to expect.

"When the present war broke out, Roumania, like Italy, declined to associate herself with the declaration of war by Austro-Hungary of which she had not been notified by the Vienna cabinet.

"In the spring of 1916, Italy declared war against Austro-Hungary. The Triple Alliance no longer existed, and the reasons which determined Roumania's adherence to this political system disappeared.

"Roumania remained in the peace group states, seeking to work in agreement, in order to assure peace and to conserve the situation de facto and de jure, created by treaties.

"Roumania then found herself in the presence of powers making war for the sole purpose of transforming, from top to bottom, the old arrangements which had served as a basis for their relations. These changes were for Roumania proof that the object she pursued by joining the Triple Alliance no longer could be attained and that she must direct her efforts in new paths, especially as the work undertaken by Austro-Hungary threatened the interests of Roumania and her national aspirations. Consequently Roumania resumed her liberty of action.

"This neutrality which Roumania imposed upon herself in consequence of a declaration of war made independently of its will and contrary to its interests, had been adopted as the result of the assurance that Austro-Hungary, by declaring war against Serbia, was not inspired by a spirit of conquest or of territorial gains. Those assurances have not been realized.

"Today we are confronted by a situation de facto threatening great territorial transformations and political changes of a nature constituting a grave menace to the future of Roumania. The work of peace which Roumania attempted to accomplish in a spirit of faithfulness to the Triple Alliance thus was rendered barren by the very powers called upon to defend it."

Venezelos Critical

Athens, Aug. 27.—Commenting on the Bulgarian occupation of Kavala, former Premier Venezelos said to the Associated Press correspondent: "I predicted that the Bulgarians' assurances that they would not occupy Kavala, would not hold good five days. They lasted just four days.

"Can you conceive anything more repulsive in a military sense, than the

When Kaiser Heard of His New Enemies

London, Aug. 29.—(New York American cable).—An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Cologne says the Kaiser first heard the news of the declaration of war by Italy and Roumania while he was visiting Zwickau.

Roumania's Queen Helped Swing Nation To Side of Allies

New York, Aug. 29.—An officer of the Medical Corps of the British army, who has been in Russia and Roumania, as a member of the British Red Cross commission and who left Roumania only a few weeks ago, told last night of the part that the Roumanian queen has played in swinging her country in line as an ally of the Entente Powers.

Owing to his official position, this officer asked that his name be not used. "If a woman," he said, "has had a powerful influence with respect to the position of Greece in the war, it may also be said that a woman has exercised a little influence as regards the Roumanian position.

"The Queen of Roumania is enthusiastically pro-ally in her sympathies, which she has been at no pains to conceal, for she is of a very outspoken disposition. While her husband is a Hohenzollern prince, he is far from sharing the strongly militaristic tendencies of the head of his family, and the queen is the daughter of an English prince by a Russian princess. Her father was the late Duke of Edinburgh, brother of King Edward, and uncle of the present King George, and her mother was the daughter of the Czar Nicholas.

"The Queen of Roumania is a beautiful and brilliant woman, to whom her husband, himself a man of marked ability, is devotedly attached. She is somewhat impulsive and unconventional, and is greatly beloved by the people, interesting herself in philanthropic movements.

"Since the outbreak of the war, she has kept herself in touch with her English and Russian relations, and has been able to enlighten her husband with respect to certain facts which might not possibly have been otherwise fully impressed upon him."

Army of New Ally Is Reported on the Move Invasion of Hungary by Russians and Roumanians Believed Imminent; King on His Way to Front

London, Aug. 29.—(New York Times)—A despatch to the Daily News from Lausanne, Switzerland, says:

"I learn from a high diplomatic source in Bern that almost the entire Roumanian army is moving rapidly. The Swiss frontier obviously indicates that movements of German troops are in progress to meet the new situation created by the entry of Roumania into the war."

Invasion of Hungary.

Paris, Aug. 29.—The invasion of Hungary by Russians and Roumanians is not only possible, says Lt. Col. Rousseau, the military critic of La Liberté, but it is imminent. General Letichitsky, the Russian commander in chief, the writer adds, holds nearly sixty miles of ridges from the source of the two Bystritsa towards Rajahuz, the writer adds.

He will easily aid the Roumanians, who, hardly on entering Transylvania, will certainly envelop the army of General Kovesski if the latter does not retreat quickly. Field Marshal Von Hindenburg will be unable to help him, as from the Diester River to Stokholm, General Brusiloff is holding Von Hindenburg solidly.

King to the Front.

Rome, Aug. 29.—King Ferdinand of Roumania today led up to the front to take command of the army, according to a despatch from the Roumanian capital.

Dutch Optimism.

The Hague, Aug. 29.—The Dutch newspapers view Roumania's entry into the war as a grave blow to the Central Powers, and especially to Austro-Hungary. They refer especially to the material motives which prompted Roumania's action. The Meusebo says:

"History, which will judge on the moral and not the material principles, will not decide in favor of Roumania, however fortunate her choice may turn out from a material standpoint."

The Handelland says:

"Roumania's action means that Bucharest foresees the ultimate defeat of the Central Powers, although it cannot expect a war-over, as in the second Balkan war."

What Will Roumania Do?

London, Aug. 29.—The Times' military correspondent, discussing the probable next step by Roumania, says: "The strategic situation points to a combination of Roumania with the present Russian offensive. This line of attack will lead the Roumanian army into Transylvania, where a majority of the population favor the invaders. At the same time the passage of the Danube, an advance on Sofia and the breaking down of the Bulgarian power in co-operation with the allied forces at Saloniki has its attractions."

EXPECTS GREECE ALSO TO GET INTO THE WAR

Roumanian Minister Leaving Berlin—Suggestion For Entry That There May Be Quick Blow at the Roumanians

London, Aug. 29.—An Exchange Telegraph despatch from The Hague says that Germany is making preparations for the possible entry of Greece into the war, which in German diplomatic circles is regarded as certain to take place. Some Greeks have left Germany in the last few days. Tomorrow the Greek minister in Berlin is to be received, by the German minister, Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg.

Leaving Berlin.

Berlin, Aug. 29.—Despatches from Vienna indicate that Roumania's war declaration caused no particular excitement, but resulted almost everywhere in a sigh of relief that the worst now is known. The Roumanian minister will leave Berlin today. He requested a special interview with the imperial chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg last night. It was promptly refused. Bulgaria undoubtedly will follow the lead of Germany in declaring war on Roumania. In the opinion of Count von Reventlow, naval expert of the Tageszeitung, commenting on the action of Roumania, writes:

"It may be assumed with certainty that Germany and her allies had counted upon Roumania as participating in the war and have taken measures in advance. In view of the geographical situation, the presumption is permissible that military developments are imminent. It is certain that the German empire would regard the cause of its Austro-Hungarian ally will do the same. The allies will meet the new enemy, who once was believed to be invulnerable, with the force which he has now made for himself. He has now even had a treaty of alliance, and who, after two years of purposeful waiting and inactivity, now takes the camp of our enemies, and draws his sword for the simple reason that he believed the moment had come to take booty."

GREEK WAR COUNCIL.

A despatch to J. M. Robinson & Sons says: "King Constantine calls a war council today, and it is believed that the future action of Greece will be decided upon."

GREEK KING AGAIN UNDER KNIFE FOR SLIGHT OPERATION

London, Aug. 29.—King Constantine of Greece underwent a slight operation on Sunday, according to Reuters' Athens correspondent. The correspondent adds that the king recently had been in bed, suffering from inflammation of the wound caused by the last operation on him.

Kim, Constantine, in June, 1915, suffered a relapse from an attack of pleurisy, which necessitated the removal of part of his tenth rib.

Paris, Aug. 29.—A Havas despatch from Athens says: King Constantine was unable to receive yesterday a delegation of the Greek Liberal party, which had asked for an audience, as the king still was suffering from the operation.

CAFT JOHN ASTOR WEDS WAR WIDOW

Bride is Daughter of the Late Lord Minto, Former Governor-General

London, Aug. 29.—Captain John Astor of the First Life Guards was married yesterday afternoon to Lady Charles Mercer Mains in Christ Church. Captain Astor is the youngest son of Baron Astor of Hever Castle, formerly of York. The bride is the widow of Lord Mains, second son of the Marquis of Lansdowne, who was killed early in the war in France. She is a daughter of the late Lord Minto, who formerly was governor-general of Canada, and later viceroy of India, and is twenty-seven years old.

GERMANY WAS WARNED BY ITALY

Mind Made Up, However, To Pounce Into War MORE FACTS COMING OUT

Dr. J. E. Dillon Says That Italy Three Times Drew to Central Empires' Attention Grave Crisis Threatening After Assassination of Archduke

Acqui, Italy, Aug. 29.—(By Dr. J. E. Dillon, London Daily Telegraph)—The decision formed by the Italian government a month ago to declare war upon Germany has been at last carried out. I am now at liberty to state that proofs will be forthcoming that Austria and Germany reached the decision to wage war immediately after the assassination of the Austrian archduke. The document will soon be published, and will furnish additional evidence to support my contention that those of the Entente governments which fancied that if a European conference had been convoked, war would have been avoided, were laboring under a delusion.

The archduke was assassinated during the first week of July. On three occasions the Italian government, through its ambassador, called the attention of the Central Empires to the grave symptoms of a European crisis, which was being aggravated by the policy of aggression that Germany and Austria were obviously pursuing on the strength of certain mistaken assumptions.

Secretary San Giuliano virtually said to the Central Empires: "You imagine that only one of two things can happen, namely, you will impose your will on Serbia without appeal to arms, or else Russian will utter her veto and stand by that."

"You fancy that in the former case you will have scored a success and increased your prestige, whereas if the latter alternative is unavoidable, you will win an easy victory. Well, your allies, assure you that your reading of the European situation is utterly wrong."

"The dispositions of the Entente Powers have changed radically since the Roumanian crisis. They are no longer minded to brook arbitrary action of isolationism, as in those days. Russia will certainly intervene, and a strike under France will go to her assistance, unhesitatingly, and if France is drawn into the war, Britain certainly will not leave her in the lurch."

"Consequently your present policy, if persisted in, must inevitably lead to a European war, and we earnestly request you to desist."

The admonition from San Giuliano was not heeded.

THE SCHOOLS

Precautionary Examination Begins—Another Grade X Class in High School Needed

An examination of pupils was made by teachers in the schools throughout the city this morning. The maintenance of good health among children in schools is being given careful consideration, both by school officials and health authorities, and in this morning more than 700 children had obtained permits to enter city schools. This number compares favorably with other years. As children are daily applying for permits, the total number will not be known for some days.

There is considerable congestion in the High School, as there are 150 pupils for Grade X alone. At present there are three rooms occupied by pupils of this grade, but Dr. Bridges considers that another is necessary, as the number is too great for three teachers. He intends to bring the matter before the trustees, and he expects that a fourth class will be opened.

RECEIVED MEDALS

Members of St. John High School, who won honors at an athletic meet held at Rothesay College stadium in June, this morning received their medals. William Donnelly, who broke two interesting records—the broad jump and the hurdles—received silver medals suitably inscribed, and lives Anglin, winner of the pole vault, and Donnelly, winner of the mile, and Porter, who tied in the high jump, each received a medal. It will be recalled that Rothesay won the interscholastic meet from St. John by a half point.

THE THIRD LAP—AND THE LAST?

MATTER OF RAILWAY STRIKE NOW TO BE LAID BEFORE CONGRESS

Evidence That Latest Proposal Has Been Rejected—Strike Order Prepared

Washington, Aug. 29.—President Wilson will address congress in joint session on the railway strike situation this afternoon. He reached his decision soon after a meeting of the brotherhoods had come to a conclusion on the latest proposal of the committee of railway presidents, to defer a strike pending an investigation.

Their decision was not announced, but the president's action in deciding to address congress was interpreted plainly as meaning they had rejected it. A strike order has been prepared in the following terms, addressed to all members of the four brotherhoods assigned by the various chairmen: Sigs and Brothers:—

"This is to advise that the vote of the employers in train and engine service on the eight hour day and time and one-half overtime proposition was overwhelmingly in favor of a strike. Notwithstanding this, your representatives have been unable to effect a satisfactory settlement and a strike under the laws of the respective organizations becomes effective on September 4, 1916, at seven a.m.

"Impart this information, so those interested will understand that they are to promptly obey."

Strong Advocacy For Industrial Farm Here AN EXPERT IN THE CITY

Dr. Leonard, Head of Great Reformatory Institution in Mansfield Ohio, Speaks of Work and Methods and Men

The most interesting combination of philosopher, teacher, preacher and practical reformer of men that has come to this city is the head of the great reformatory institution at Mansfield, Ohio, an industrial farm for men who have committed felony, including even those who have been guilty of manslaughter. There is a twelve-hundred-acre farm, with factories, and there is a physical and mental institution at Mansfield, Ohio, an industrial farm for men who have committed felony, including even those who have been guilty of manslaughter.

Dr. Leonard is the guest of Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Catherwood of Fairville, the latter being his aunt. His father was born in Pennsylvania, and his mother (Mrs. Catherwood's sister) is the north of Ireland, and he came into the world endowed with fine physical and mental powers, which he had also a warm and sympathetic heart, and that, with his other qualities has made him as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land to many a man gone wrong, but who has at Mansfield learned to go right again.

For two hours in J. King Kelly's office yesterday afternoon a Times man listened to a part of the wonderful story Dr. Leonard has to tell of his experience and his views on prison reform, and it is so sane and convincing that one does not wonder at the success of his work. No inmate of the Mansfield institution (Continued on page 12, first column).

"Take No Prisoners; Kill All With Bayonet!"

New York, Aug. 29.—A London cable to the World says: "The Times' correspondent on the Somme front quotes a letter written by a German prisoner and captured on him. The letter shows that German troops of the 18th Corps, to which this man belonged, had received the following orders: "Take no prisoners, but despatch them all with the bayonet."

The letter adds:—"That would not be so bad, but they always get prisoners from us, and then what would they do with them?"

THE WAR NEWS

While we rejoice that Rumania has entered the war on the side of the Entente Allies, adding more than three quarters of a million men to the fighting forces against the Central Powers, we must not overlook the fact that the enemy is still so formidable that every foot of ground gained by the Allies on any front is bitterly contested, and there are still no smashing victories.

But Rumania will help. Austria must now greatly lengthen her lines of defence, which means making her lines of men thinner and less able to cope with Russia and this new enemy. Russia has been reported to have a large army on the Rumanian border. If so, it will now be free to pass through Rumania and join in a vital thrust through the passes into Transylvania. The action of Rumania will also seriously affect the food supply of the Central Powers from the very outset. It may be assumed that Rumania will also soon take the task of the Allies at Saloniki. Eventually it will mean that Turkey and Bulgaria will be crushed and the Allies free to complete their strangle-hold upon Austria and Germany. But that will be many months hence.

The developments of the last two days make the position of Greece all the more interesting and less problematical. It must be obvious even to the pro-German king of that country that there must be no more flirting with the Central Powers, and it seems a reasonably safe prediction that even the benevolent neutrality toward the Allies of which Venizelos speaks will soon give place to co-operation in the field, in which case the defeat of Bulgaria and Turkey would be much more quickly accomplished. The most momentous events of the day are now transpiring in the Balkan region, and the feeling prevails in the Allied countries that the outcome will perceptibly hasten the end of the war.

On all other fronts there is comparative quiet, but very soon the situation will assume a new aspect all round the circle.

The effect of Rumania's action upon the people of Austria and Germany is, of course, an uncertain quantity; but, with the growing consciousness of defeat, the state of mind is becoming more and more formidable for the struggle against them cannot fail to deepen the feeling of unrest and discontent.

THE END NOT IN SIGHT.

We have progressed far enough in the war to be assured that the Central Powers cannot win, and that the British Empire is perfectly secure. There never was any serious doubt in Canada about the ultimate safety of the Empire, but there have been times of grave anxiety. One after another the sources of anxiety were removed as the Germans failed at the Marne, at Ypres, on the Russian front, in the North Sea, and at Verdun; and as the later developments of the war made it clear that if any more of the neutral powers came into the conflict it would be on the side of the Allies. Events in the Balkan region during the last week have greatly increased the feeling of confidence that has been steadily growing. The whole outlook grows brighter day by day.

But the war is far from being ended. We are not even sure that it will end when Turkey and Bulgaria have been defeated, Austria-Hungary prostrate, and the German armies driven out of France and Belgium. We believe Germany will be so torn by internal dissension before that point is reached that her government will be forced to yield; but so many beliefs and predictions have been falsified by the facts in these two years that it is not well to be dogmatic. Certain it is that the blasting process is still very slow on the western front and on the Italian front, and that the great Russian advance has been retarded of late, while the Allies are still without important victories to their credit on the Balkan front. Most of Belgium, part of France, Serbia and part of Russia, have still to be cleared of the enemy, and heavy losses must be sustained by the Allies before the task is accomplished.

There is always the possibility that the collapse of the enemy may come sooner than expected, but in England they are still planning for a long war; and Canada must take her cue from England. There is and will continue to be a great demand for recruits and munitions, and the same need as now for keeping the country on a war basis. Canada is still at war, and will be at war for a long period. War is still the chief business that should command the attention and govern the conduct of the Canadian people.

NO CAUSE FOR PESSIMISM.

The state of mind of a man who cannot see any virtue outside of one party and is finally compelled to denounce that party is not one to be envied. Sympathy is therefore due to the esteemed editor of the St. Andrews Beacon, who, in a review of the political situation in New Brunswick, says:

"The denials of the government would be viewed with little alarm by people throughout the province if there were any assurance that it would be followed by the advent of power of an administration that would be efficient and would place the welfare of the country before party advantage and personal ambition. Since Mr. Haesen resigned the premiership the province has been without such an administration, and there is no prospective premier in sight to whom the province can look with confidence and full-fledged hopes.

That is to say, the present government ought to be defeated, but as the party to which it belongs is the only one which produces leaders who can be trusted, therefore to place the opposition in power would do no good. The editor of the St. Andrews Beacon is an honest and sincere man. He ought to be willing to believe that there are other honest and sincere men, and that they are not all confined to one party. If he has been a careful observer, he must have noted that there is in this province a growing unrest and a desire to reform the administration of provincial affairs. The revelations which have shocked him have shocked others, and reform is in the air. The first step is to remove the present government, and when that is done and a new administration formed, the next step will be for the press which has urged reform to detach itself from the new government to the extent that it will as fearlessly criticize the new as it denounced the old. Perhaps the Beacon fears that the whole press of the province is also tainted. Well, it is for the Beacon to live and learn. The Times is convinced, not only that the leaders of the opposition party are sincere in their expressed desire for a thorough reform of the provincial administration, but that they will find the press as ready to criticize wrong-doing as to approve of what is honest and progressive and for the good of the province. We are really entering upon a new and better era in New Brunswick politics. There is no reason whatever for pessimism, but for hope and confidence.

There will be no objection to an early return to standard time in St. John. Daylight time has been very satisfactory during the summer, and should be made universal in summer hereafter, but early in September standard time might fairly be re-adopted.

Returned soldiers who have been engaged in recruiting work complain that they have not received their pay. What of that? Hasn't Sir Sam Hughes had another review of troops and a dinner with Lloyd George? Isn't that the important thing? What kickers these soldiers are. They kicked about the Ross rifle, and the food, and the "swank" of the officers—and a lot of other things, while Sir Sam and Col. J. Wesley Allison were saving the Empire. Poof!

Why should the government party in Carleton county hold a convention? The Standard this morning nominates the candidate. Its Hartland correspondent says: "Your correspondent has authority to state that Dr. Rankine will be the choice of the convention next Thursday when the delegates will ratify the entry of Hon. B. P. Smith into the government as minister of public works." Evidently all the convention can do is to accept the man thrust down its throat by those in "authority." There's democracy for you.

If it is deemed necessary in the interests of the discredited local government that the St. John Standard should be sent free to numbers of people who would not subscribe for it, the post office department should see to that proper postage is paid. The people should not be taxed to offer the men behind the Standard special privileges. They have a perfect right to give away papers if they enjoy that species of philanthropy and the kind of circulation, but they should not ask the postal department to help.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN GOVERNMENT ATTITUDES

(Hallfax Recorder) The Tory press has tried long and hard to offset the revelations in Manitoba and Ottawa by making a great noise about charges against Liberals in the Saskatchewan legislature. Some months ago, J. E. Bradshaw, a Tory member of that body, made twenty-seven charges against thirteen Liberal members, the gist of the charges being that these men had accepted bribes to vote against Premier Scott's prohibitory liquor bill. The premier at once appointed a commission to institute the fullest inquiry, to search out and spare not. The commission did its work thoroughly and has now reported. Of the twenty-seven charges made, two were dropped by Bradshaw and fifteen others were thrown out by the commission as being absolutely without a shadow of evidence. Of the ten charges investigated the commission found seven of them sustained involving four members out of the thirteen accused. All are private members of the house, and not a member of the administration was found to be involved. Hon. A. P. MacNab being completely exonerated. The guilty ones will no doubt summarily get their punishment, and the whole matter seems to show that Premier Scott is relentless against anything dishonouring to the legislature of Saskatchewan, and that no such doings as those carried on for years at Winnipeg will be for a moment tolerated by a Liberal government.

"I want you to take a picture of our Joe here," said the fond parent to the country photographer. Joseph was requested to stand in a certain attitude and look toward the photographer. That gentleman's specialty was quick developing, and in a short space of time a proof was placed in the mother's hand. She looked at it very unasily for some time and then remarked: "I see a notice in the window there to say you can do photos to customer's desire, so I'd be obliged to you if you can put another face on Joe. You see, it's to be sent with an advertisement which said they wanted a boy, smart-looking and honest."

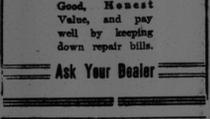

"Bill had charge of the animal tent," said the old circus man, "and among the pets was a leopard, the only one we had with the show, and quite enough, too. This leopard gave Bill more trouble than all the rest of the menagerie put together. It was certainly an ugly brute. "Well, one day when we were resting downstate, I had come up to town to arrange about some advance business. I was eating my dinner in the hotel when a telegram was handed to me. It was from Bill and read: 'The leopard has escaped.' "Crowling about town. What shall I do?" "That was just like Bill. He had to have explicit directions, even in an emergency like this. He didn't want to make a mistake. "I immediately wired back to Bill: 'Shoot him on the spot.' I didn't think any more about it until a couple of hours later, when I received another telegram from conscientious, careful Bill, asking, 'Which spot?'"

Young Hopkins had become a happy benedict and his father thought it advisable to administer to him a certain lecture on how to make marriage a success. "Which you have any differences of opinion," he began, "if you are not able to persuade your wife that you are right—and you probably will not be able to do so—you must compromise." "Well, father," replied the son, respectfully. "And in this connection I will give you a little experience of my own and to illustrate that your mother desired to spend one summer in Switzerland, while I was equally anxious to go to Brighton." "And how did you arrange a compromise, father?" "Well, we started from Friday to Monday at Brighton and spent the rest of the summer in Switzerland."

THE LATE ARCHBISHOP SPALDING

Archbishop Spalding, who died in Peoria, Ill., on last Friday, was seventy-six years old. He had been ill for some years, having suffered a paralytic stroke in 1906.

The Most Reverend John Lancaster Spalding lived in America, the first of the Catholic diocese of Peoria, Ill., on May 1, 1877, and resigned because of ill health on Sept. 11, 1906. In the following May he was created titular Archbishop of Scythopolis.

He was one of the most prominent prelates of the Catholic church in the middle west states and received nationwide notice when President Roosevelt named him as one of the arbitrators to settle the anthracite coal strike in 1902. He was the author of several books dealing with labor topics, and also wrote several works on religious questions.

For 200 years the ancestors of Bishop Spalding lived in America, the first of the name to come to the new world being a follower of Lord Baltimore. During the reign of King Henry VIII, and Queen Elizabeth in England, the Spalding family was distinguished for its loyalty to the Catholic church. Bishop Spalding was born in Lebanon, Ky., on June 2, 1840. He was educated at Mount St. Mary's college, Cincinnati, O., and then he went to Louvain, Belgium, where he received his degree of doctor of divinity, in 1868. After being ordained he went to Rome for a special course of study in the Belgian college and in 1869 returned to the United States prepared for his life's work.

He was assigned to the cathedral at Louisville, Ky., and in addition to missionary duties, he acted as secretary to Bishop Lavallee. He remained in Louisville until 1869, when at his own request, he was charged with founding a parish for negroes. Before he left Louisville in 1872 he had built and paid for a church and parish house for Catholic negroes.

He moved to New York soon after the death of his uncle, the Most Reverend M. J. Spalding, the archbishop of Baltimore, and devoted several years to writing a biography of that prelate. He served as an assistant priest at St. Michael's church, New York, for several years and while in this position was appointed Bishop of Peoria.

The Peoria diocese under Bishop Spalding's direction grew from fifty-one to 250 churches.

DOOM OF THIEPVAL NEAR AS BRITISH GUNS BLAST WAY CLOSER TO VILLAGE

Salient Caught in Noose; Advance East of Mouquet Farm Almost Cuts Off Defenders; Vivid Tale of British Charge

(By Philip Gibbs) The London Daily Chronicle Dispatches. Special Cable to The New York Times. With the British armies in the field, Aug. 26.—The doom of Thiepval is near at hand. By a series of small, sharp attacks in short rushes after enormous shells, the British troops have forged their way across the tangled web of trenches and redoubts until now they are just below a row of apple trees which still show a broken stump or two.

Below the southern end of the village they have bitten off the nose of the Leipzig salient, and yesterday I saw them take the Hindenburg trench and its strong point, which is almost the last of the defensive works bearing the way to the south entrance of the village fort.

Thin People Can Increase Weight

This men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 to 15 pounds of healthy "fat" should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure your chest. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and tape measure will tell their own story. Many people, having followed these simple directions, report weight increases of from five to eight pounds with continued gains under further treatment.

drifted away. They were not in close formation. They went forward after the first few moments of advance in small parties widely scattered, but keeping the same direction. Sometimes the parties themselves broke up and separated into individual figures jumping over shell craters running to the left or right as the shriek of enemy shell warned them of approaching death.

Men Swallowed Up in Smoke

"For a little while the men were swallowed up in smoke. I could see nothing of them, and I had the horrible feeling this time that none of us would ever see them again, for they had walked straight into the infernal fire and all behind them and all in front shells were burning and flung up the earth and raising enormous fantastic clouds.

It seemed an hour before I saw them again. I suppose it was only five or six minutes. The wind drifted the smoke away from Thiepval Ridge and there, clear and distinct to the naked eye, were lines of the British advancing up. Some of them were already on the highest ground. Standing as single figures, back to back, they stood there a second or two, then jumped down and disappeared. They were in the German trenches close to Thiepval.

"Magnificent!" said a French officer who was standing close to me. "By God, your men are fine. They were through and on as though proof against death."

ONLY SEVEN NATIONS OF EUROPE NOW OUT OF THE WORLD WAR

Last Night's Cables From Many Battlefields Generally Encouraging

Except for Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Spain, Switzerland and Greece, all Europe is at war. Rumania has thrown in her lot with the Entente Allies, having declared war against Austria-Hungary, and almost simultaneously Germany has announced that a state of war exists between Germany and Rumania.

Already the troops of King Ferdinand are seeking entry into the plains of Transylvania, through the eastern Carpathian mountain passes, toward Kronstadt, the great city in Transylvania, and in the direction of Hermannstadt, evidently in an endeavor to press northward through Transylvania toward the Bukovina and Galician borders, and take in the rear the Austro-Germans who are trying to block the Russians from entering the plains of Hungary.

As yet nothing has come through to indicate what preparation has been made by the Bulgarians, if, as now seems probable, Rumania declares war on Bulgaria to effect a general attack by the Romanians along the Danube, and through Dobruja or by way of the Black Sea.

Orders from the Macedonian sector little important fighting is reported from any of the fronts. Along the line where the Teutonic Allies are in contact with the Serbian, British and French, the official reports of Berlin and Paris report additional gains for their respective forces.

From the Riga region, in Russia, to the Carpathians there have been isolated engagements at various points between the Russians and the Austro-Germans, but no marked successes by either side. Hard fighting is in progress between the Russians and the Turks in the Lake Van region and north of Bilibis. In the latter region the Turks have been driven back southward by a Russian winter-attack, with loss of men and guns.

WHAT'S NEW AT THE MOVIES

ELLEN TERRY NOW IN MOVIES

For years Miss Ellen Terry, who was Sir Henry Irving's partner in his palmist days, fought off all suggestions that she appear in moving pictures. At last, however, she has been prevailed upon to take part in a picture play, entitled "Her Greatest Performance," which was especially written for her. Photo shows Miss Terry in a dramatic moment in a court room scene.

IMPERIAL CROWDED FOR EXCELLENT BILL

Fall Rush is Noted — "The Man Behind the Curtain," Patriotic Pictures and Excellent Singer

The first of the fall rush of business started at the Imperial Theatre yesterday to a capacity matinee and the usual overflow crowds at night. Saturday's boats and trains brought so many vacation folks back to town because of the school opening, etc., that nearly all were eager for their favorite amusement once again. The Imperial had a good programme with which to greet them, too. The Vitagraph Co. presented a gripping mystery-play entitled "The Man Behind the Curtain," or the unravelling of a series of circumstances which seemed to fasten a terrible crime upon a perfectly innocent governor, which part was enacted most amiably by dimpled Lillian Walker. Throughout the whole five acts the interest was kept at high tension and each player enacted his and her role so admirably that especial power was imparted to the fiction in its every phase. The Vitagraph Co. is certainly a capable organization and this production of theirs amply demonstrated this fact.

Much enthusiasm was evinced in the patriotic pictures contained in the Patriotic Pictures. There were photos of Lord French reviewing the great citizen army of England; Minister Lloyd George at the memorial to Sir Christopher Cradock, hero of the Falkland Islands disaster, at which ceremonial were hundreds of sailors who took part in the victory of Julland. Then again patrons saw Australian soldiers fresh from the trenches being entertained on the Thames, as well as scenes at the battle-front and so forth. In the afternoon the children were regaled with the cleventh chapter of "Peg o' the Ring."

A FINE START TO A BIG WEEK AT GEM

Wm. S. Hart Holds Patrons Spell-bound in Powerful Presentation of "The Primal Lure"

How a man's misjudgment of a woman who loves him almost costs both of them not only their happiness but their lives, is the story of "The Primal Lure," drama of the far Canadian northwest in which Wm. S. Hart is starred, and which was shown at the Gem last night. Angus McConnell is the "factor" of an outpost of the Hudson Bay Company. Lois Le Moyne, daughter of a trapper, loves him. Having made him a pair of moccasins she slips into his office when she thinks he is out to leave them in his desk. But it so happens that McConnell's account book has been stolen, and when he hears her at the door he watches, thinking he may catch the thief. When he sees the girl go to his desk, he rashly believes the trappers have hired her to steal his account books. He accuses her of the theft and thrusts her into the rough prison of the post. But there arrives Richard Sylvester, an inspector for the company, who is bewitched by the prisoner, and has her released. Soon after, he procures the dismissal of the factor, and takes the place himself. But he does not win the girl. The visitation of a plague and loss of Indians prove the unwisdom of the factor, and McConnell resumes the post left vacant by the other's desertion. The Indians, in overwhelming force, demand a sacrifice to their great spirit, that the plague may abate. McConnell gives himself, and the story of how he is saved from death at the stake, learns of both the innocence and the love of Lois, and begs at last for a return of that love, makes a series of scenes both thrilling and satisfying.

Margery Wilson is Hart's leading woman, and Robert McKim is seen as Sylvester. The picture is distinguished by some remarkable photography under water. It is a play of tremendous power and gripped the interest of patrons. In lighter vein they were given two reels of excellent comedy work by Joseph Belmont in "The Love Comedy," one of those superb funmakers for which the Gem is noted. On Wednesday and Thursday comes "The Martyrdom of Nurse Cavell at the hands of the Germans," a picture that will cause sensation. With it will be chapter XIII of "The Strange Case of Mary Page." Friday and Saturday Billie Burke in the noted picture, Peggy.

REMARKABLE STORY OF CAPITAL AND LABOR

"Dust" Presented at Lyric—Gripping Features and a Pointed Moral

If one is seeking the original in photo play productions the picture now being shown at the Lyric Theatre should meet with the hearty approval of the exacting lover of the silent drama. It serves a two-fold purpose, for it not only presents a rather startling truth, but it also points out a most substantial moral. Its title is "Dust" and although it deals with capital vs. labor, still it is not of the stereotyped order by any means, for the theme is given a new garb and is expounded in such a way that one could easily imagine the same foundation had never before been used to build a story upon. Very forcibly and candidly does it reveal the fact that society in doing acts of charity is not prompted so much by the good to be derived from such works, but rather by the cheap notoriety it derives from social functions of an elaborate nature arranged for the purpose of assisting the poor or unfortunate. Incidentally it calls to mind that there is much wisdom and truth in the old saying, "Charity begins at home."

Briefly told, the story is that of a wealthy factory owner, a modern Shylock, whose ambition is to derive as much of the world's goods as possible by making his employees earn their livelihood under conditions neither conducive to good health nor safety. A man of the world, played by Franklyn Ritchie, resolves to enter the political field and amend the factory laws so that every convenience and safety appliance will be placed in every manufacturing plant. His fiancée, who happens to be the daughter of the factory owner, is approached and her services asked for to better the conditions of her father's employees. She scornfully refuses to devote any of her time to such an undertaking, but is most enthusiastic over a big fete planned by the circle in which she moves, to offer assistance to the Belgian war sufferers. How the man of the world helped by fate wins her over to his cause, how he throws the cloak of hypocrisy from the shoulders of society during the fete, and how a big fire destroyed the factory, claiming as one of its victims the selfish owner himself, make up a series of events which result in a most worthy feature film play. Essentially the production excels, the fire is very spectacular, the rescues are thrilling and the entertainment for the Belgians is a most sumptuous scene. Gangster's troupe of educated dogs won well deserved applause at every show yesterday. The antics of these canine artists represented careful training. They introduced many new features, the dancing numbers being particularly good.

USE THE WANT AD. WAY

CANADA'S LOST OPPORTUNITY (Toronto Telegram, Con.) Imperial Munitions Board fell behind a heritage of inadequacy bequeathed by the smallness and incompetence of Sir Robert Borden's Shell Committee. The Meredith-Duff report can spill its seas of whitewash all over the procedure that wasted money and wasted still more precious time. The Shell Committee frittered away the months in which Canada's credit, Canada's cash, Canada's factories, Canada's men and Canada's women should have been mobilized for the production of munitions. The best that the Imperial Munitions Board can do, and the board is doing well, must still fall short of regaining the opportunity lost to Canada by the Shell Committee's failure to promptly effect a mobilization of their country's cash power, credit power, factory power, man power, and women power. Her Cook Book!

THE modern daily newspaper is a chart of domestic science. It is more than a cookbook—it is a buyers' guide to the average housewife. Many hours of a woman's life are spent in the home and her newspaper links her mind with the great busy world outside. She looks to it daily for the latest suggestions in domestic science, for new recipes, warnings against impure goods and guides to the cleanly and wholesome. She reads the advertising because it is helpful to her. She buys newspaper advertised goods because she has faith in them. She continues to buy them and tells her friends about them if they make good. Storekeepers who are large newspaper advertisers write their newspaper appeal almost entirely to women. Equally so they favor the goods the manufacturers advertise in the newspaper. They put the newspaper advertised goods in their window where they will catch the woman's eye while she is shopping. No other medium has the same constant and intimate appeal to the woman of the house as has the daily newspaper. The manufacturer or merchant who does not use newspaper advertising is closing his door to the most profitable avenue of trade. Manufacturers seeking to find a wider market for their product are invited to get in touch with the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, 506 World Building, New York City.

CHAINED TO HIS GUN

To the Editor of the Times: Sir,—Why will people deliberately seek sorrow? Everyone now outside of an asylum knows that drink causes most of the sorrow and suffering in the world and yet we have the spectacle of prominent men and a few leading newspapers opposing any relief from this scourge. It would seem as if for some selfish reason they want Britain defeated in this war for there is no doubt that drink lessens the effectiveness of the soldiers.

The sufferings of men addicted to the use of alcohol, morphine or any other narcotic drugs are often beyond description when they are deprived of their favorite dope. Many of them will lie, steal or even murder to secure a supply to relieve the terrible craving. Yet in the face of this well known fact, people will risk it. A physician who has been very successful in the treatment of these cases tells me that the cause of this dreadful craving is a secretion poured out by nature to protect the brain and nervous system from destruction. It is one poison counteracting another, but when the dope is withdrawn, this secretion does not stop but continues to be poured out, causing the most acute suffering in the absence of the poison which it was intended to counteract. That explains what has long been a puzzle and shows that there can be only one remedy, viz., something that will check this secretion and thus restore the man to normal. Men who drink often have an insane desire to make others drink also. An officer in France not long ago tried to force to drink a subordinate who was a total abstainer. He kept on annoying this abstainer till he turned on him and knocked him down. The officer was not punished for trying to ruin his subordinate, but the latter was chained to his gun for two hours every day for striking his superior officer. That officer was doubtless a beer drinker. Whisky makes a man noisy and either funny or combative; beer makes him coarse, foul mouthed and brutal. The beer drinker suffers more than the whisky drinker when deprived of his favorite beverage, and more rarely is able to give it up. H. ARNOTT, M.B., M.C.P.S.

DON CAESAR DE BAZAN

Attraction at Unique Famous Play Well Presented; Also "The Curfew at Supton Corner"

Who has not heard of the devil-may-care, broken-down count, Don Caesar de Bazan? For many years this character has been a great favorite with all lovers of fiction, and although there is something suggestive of a fairy tale in the strange adventures of Don Caesar, nevertheless the story offers something different, and as told in film form at the Unique Theatre yesterday it loses none of its attractiveness. The Broadway favorites of the Kalem Co. exploited the theme with care and each and every member of the cast played their allotted parts with grace and ease. Lawson Butts, depicting the ragged Don, clearly shows his happy-go-lucky kindly spirit

GERMANS FINDING THE WAR CONDITIONS NOW TERRIBLE

A very realistic and tragic picture of what is happening down there beyond High Ridge is given in a letter written on August 10 by a German officer of the 188th Infantry Regiment. "The relief yesterday," he wrote, "is incredible. The route taken - Ligny, Warleucourt, Pys, Concolette - on the way to the trenches was very dangerous. During the first part the thunder of the guns was very disagreeable, and the second part was very unsafe. Heavy shells fell to the right and left of the road. Mounted troops, cars, field kitchens, infantry in column formation on the route were all enveloped in an impenetrable cloud of dust. The last stage consisted of troops in single file, crouching on the slope beside the road with shells burning overhead. Close to Concolette a message arrived saying 'Enemy firing gas shells. On with your helmets.' It appeared to be an error. "Tonight I am taking my platoon out to form a covering party. My men and I are to lie in shell holes and in part of an old demolished trench of ours. The English are 400 meters away. Hundreds of dead bodies make the air terrible, and there are flies in thousands. About 800 meters from us is a deserted artillery position. We shall have to look to it tonight not to get taken prisoners by the English. We have no dugouts. We dig a hole in the side of a shell hole and lie there. We get nothing to eat or drink. The ceaseless roar of guns is driving us mad. Many of our men are knocked out. The company commander thinks we were breathing gas yesterday, which slowly decomposes the blood, and this is an end of one. What a variety of ways one can lose one's life in this place!"

talion of the 124th Regiment is a letter which pays a fitting tribute to the British flying men. It says: "I am on sentry duty and it is a very hard job, for I dare not move. Overhead are the English airmen and in front of us English observers with telescopes. As soon as they perceive anything, twenty-four 'cigars' arrive at once and larger than one care to see. The country around me looks frightful. Many dead bodies belonging to both sides lie around."

Catarrahal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrahal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces of the system. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Cleveland Shut-out by Washington White Sox Win From Philadelphia; Detroit and Chicago Tie For Second Place

The Giants continue to lose and are now only two games ahead of Pittsburgh. The team is a disappointment. With the addition of Herzog they improved for a few days, but they soon all back to the same old rut, "Bummy" Kautz. Federal League star, is not living up to expectations and has slumped badly in his hitting. The Braves gained on the leaders yesterday and are now only four games behind. Manager Stallings is a man who is sure to get results if they are to be had. Brooklyn slipped back several points yesterday. The team has not been going so well during the last week and the Braves are anxiously waiting for a chance to take the lead. Rudolph was defeated yesterday for the first time in eleven starts. If he can continue his good work he will be soon able to take his place among the leading twirlers. In the American League, Cleveland was shut out by Washington with Walter Johnson in the box. The Indians' pennant aspirations are fading. The White Sox won a pitchers' battle against the Mackmen. Myers and Benz each allowed five hits. Detroit and Chicago are now tied for second position and are five games behind the Red Sox.

WHY BULGARS WANT KAVALA

Covet Rich 'Turkish' Tobacco Country in the Region of the Port. While military critics are trying in vain to explain by military reasons the Bulgarian drive to gain possession of the right flank of the Allies at Kavala, a remark is recalled made by Take Joneska, former minister of the interior of Roumania, as he was about to welcome the Balkan delegates to the Bucharest Congress, which closed the second Balkan war of July, 1913. It was: "The Greco-Bulgarian dispute hinges upon the rich tobacco country in and around Kavala." So it has since remained. By the treaty of Bucharest, Greece secured Kavala and the country from most of the genuine "Turkish tobacco" comes. A year and a half later, January, 1915, when M. Venizelos was working for the reconstruction of the Balkan League and its intervention on the side of the Allies, he was ready to obtain the admission of Bulgaria by promising to surrender to her some part of the Kavala region. Bulgaria said to have demanded the whole of it. "The mixture of race in Macedonia which makes national division so difficult, is ten times worse around Kavala, where the 60,000 people are about evenly divided between Hellenic and Slav. The town itself is a place of some importance. The Messageries Maritimes boats

How Hughey Jennings's Spring Tide Predictions Have Worked Out

Closest Races on Record in Both American and National Leagues on This Season

(By Joe Page)

Sorel-top Hughey Jennings, manager of the Detroit Tigers, certainly proved himself one of the wise guys in the baseball world in so far as the work of the American League ball club fighting for the pennant is concerned in this present race. If one should take the time and trouble to look up the spring predictions of the various managers of the American League Clubs on how the race for 1916 would look at the close of the season, Sorel-top Hugh was right there with the goods. "Looks to me," said the famous Hughey, "as if it was going to be one of the closest finishes yet recorded for a pennant winner in either of the big leagues. Given two good twirlers added to my present staff on one bright particular day by purchasing the services of a pen-nant winner in either of the big leagues. Merkle Traded To Brooklyn

McGraw Lets Veteran Player go; Big Shake-up in Team

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 28 - Fred Merkle, veteran first baseman of the Giants, has been traded to the Brooklyn team for Lew McCarty, catcher. No money was involved in the transaction, it being strictly a player for player deal. That Merkle was coming to the Brooklyn team and that McCarty was going to the Giants was officially announced by Fred Ebbets after Manager Robinson had a long talk with McGraw over the long-distance telephone in Pittsburgh. New York, Aug. 28 - It is a foregone conclusion that John McGraw will subject the Giants to a tremendous shake-up before the season ends. In spite of the fact that President Hempstead has spent nearly $100,000 for new men since last fall, the team doesn't class with the Brooklyn, Phillies and Braves. The Giants' pitchers have failed to come up to expectations. They have fallen down hard. Weak batting of Doyle, Kauff and Merkle has been another heavy handicap. Although the Giants, just after obtaining Herzog and Salter, played good ball against the western teams at the Polo Grounds, they seemed to go to pieces the moment they left here for their present tour. The team soon will have Pittsburgh of the Louisville to strengthen the box and it is generally believed that McGraw, if possible, will make some important deals which will eliminate several of his veterans. The report that Kauff and Doyle will go to the Cubs in exchange for Cy Williams and Zimmerman has been denied but it is safe to say, however, that something is in the wind.
