AN AUBURN MIRACLE.

An Act of Heroism Followed by Dire Results.

Edward Donnelly saves a Life Almost at the Cost of His Own. He is Rescued in Health—A Story of Auburn, N. Y., Bulletin.

It is a record that upon a chilly April day, a few years ago, an eight year old boy fell into the East river at the foot of East Eighth street, New York, and when all efforts to rescue him had failed, Edward Donnelly, at risk of his own life, plunged into the water and, when himself nearly exhausted, saved the boy from drowning.

It was a humane and self-sacrificing deed and received deserved commendation in all the many newspapers that made mention of it.

Edward Donnelly, who gave a local interest to the incident, all this was some time ago, and both it and Mr. Donnelly had passed out of the mind of the writer until a few days ago, when in Saratoga, he was shown a letter to a friend from which he was permitted to make the following extract:

AUBURN, N. Y., Oct. 29, 1892. I am taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I have written you of that terrible disease, Locomotor Ataxia. When I commenced taking them, I was wholly unable to walk and nearly blind.

I am now showing a line of Custom Made Clothing at Ready Made Prices. Ask to see the Fifteen Dollar Custom Made Overcoats.

OVERLAND ODDITIES.

A Graphic Description of a Trip across the Continent in Winter.

By a Frederictonian.

(Written for the Globe.)

MONTREAL, JAN. 18.—

To the New Brunswick leaving for the wild and woolly west by the C. P. Railway, there is very little of interest either for himself or people at home, until he has fully launched himself from Windsor Street Station in Montreal, and feels himself finally embarked for the long and tedious trans-continental journey. There is so much that is not easily likely to him that it is barely worth while to make a note of what he sees, and especially in this time of winter time—for at this season of the year, not only is the external world as seen from the window of the car not as inviting as it is in the midst of summer, when nature is at her most beautiful and beautiful stage, but even should he desire to catch a glimpse of the natural world through which he is rapidly proceeding, he will find it almost impossible to obtain even the smallest space for observation through windows closed with feet, and when obtained, the view is so incomplete and unsatisfactory, that he is tempted to turn away with great dissatisfaction. It is true that one may, if he so inclined, have full and unobstructed view from the platform of the car, but the cold is so penetrating that nothing short of a polar bear or an Eskimau, can find comfort there.

Nevertheless, there is still something worthy of recording, when one is doing the journey perhaps for the very first time, and has plenty of leisure for thorough observation whenever it can be obtained. We left St. John by the West bound express at 11.15 Monday night, and arrived in Montreal some later than the regular time last evening. The discomforts of the journey are few indeed under the excellent management of the C. P. R. and we experienced no ill effects from the 12 hour ride excepting what were due to our own neglect or carelessness. It is almost useless to hear the extra expense of a sleeping car, for that length of time and any one journeying on this line will find the first class car so comfortable for resting that the tired feeling usually experienced after a night's ride in an sitting posture is muffled and not wholly absent. I do not suppose that there are any through the world, so many provisions for the comfort of ordinary first class passengers during the long hours of the night as are furnished in these C. P. cars. The seats themselves, usually in other lines so built that the highest portion of the back reaches just below the shoulders, and affords no rest to the tired head, are very models of comfort and convenience, and are almost equal to an ordinary bed, and indeed far preferable to one that I have slept in. The backs are very high and soft and are inclined at the exact angle admissible on such a car, and before the shoulders, and affords no rest to the tired head, are very models of comfort and convenience, and are almost equal to an ordinary bed, and indeed far preferable to one that I have slept in.

The difference between these admirable cars and those ordinarily used on other roads is surprising and grateful to the railway tourist, and I am glad to find that the Canadian Pacific Railway is improving railway facilities to such a great degree. He may not be a lover of cosmopolitan, and may possibly be aware that the C. P. R. is one of the greatest of these, and his mind is turned toward it, and his mind is turned toward it, and his mind is turned toward it.

TO PREVENT THE CRIP. If any other similar epidemic, the throat and the wind system should be kept in a healthy condition. If you feel worse on "that tired feeling" in the morning, do not neglect, give immediate attention to yourself. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla to give strength, purify the blood and prevent disease.

Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills, Jaundice, biliousness, sick headache, constipation.

A GREAT OFFER. A MONTHLY PAPER FOR NOTHING. We are pleased to announce that we have completed arrangements by which we are able to offer free to each of our subscribers a year's subscription to "CANADA," that well known Monthly Journal for Canadians.

Young and Old, at Home and abroad. We make this offer to each of our subscribers who will pay up all arrears and for one year in advance, and all new subscribers paying for one year in advance. "CANADA" begins a new series with the number for November, 1892, and while preserving the features which have won wide recognition for it already, we add new ones which will render it still more emphatically the favorite Canadian monthly paper.

It is pure, intensely patriotic, attractive in make-up and remarkably varied in contents. Many leading Canadian writers contribute, and the departments on Canadiana, Home Topics, etc., are edited by capable hands. The regular subscription price of "CANADA" is Fifty Cents a year, but by this arrangement it will cost you nothing to receive this splendid Canadian monthly paper for one year. Do not put it off, but send your subscription today. Sample copies of "CANADA" can be sent at this office, or can be obtained from the Publisher, Hampton, New Brunswick.—Adv.

OVERLAND ODDITIES.

A Graphic Description of a Trip across the Continent in Winter.

By a Frederictonian.

This morning I did the town up as well as possible...

I saw St. James street, where three quarters of the city's business is transacted...

and a fine street it is-Notre Dame Cathedral both inside and out...

McGill University buildings, all outside and partially the interior...

I was all through the new McDonald Engineering building, which with its twin the McDonald Science building has just been built by Mr. W. C. McDonald...

A rich tobacco manufacturer and must have cost $15,000,000 between them...

Attached to the McDonald Engineering building is the Workman building, the funds for which to the amount of $10,000,000 were bequeathed by Thomas Workman...

The grounds of the university are spacious and grand and cover nearly the whole of a block...

South of the university can be seen Mount Royal towering apparently straight in the air...

Of course we visited "The Lookout" on top of Mount Royal and found the air intensely cold and the view magnificently grand...

Montreal lies just at your feet and the St. Lawrence with its neighboring hills can be seen in the distance...

On the left descending we saw the mournful flag half-mast on the dome of "Havensack" the residence of the late Sir Hugh Allan...

On Windsor street near the Windsor Hotel we saw the death of the night just after attaining his majority, among sympathy on all sides here...

Havensack must be a magnificent residence in summer-I mean excessively and the view from there is particularly good...

You can drive to the Lookout and back in a very comfortable sleigh with fine robes and at good speed for $1.50...

I do not know of any place which has so many possibilities for grand summer beauty as Mount Royal, but of course in winter you see it at a disadvantage...

Montreal has 45 churches and the many of them remarkably fine. On Windsor street near the Windsor Hotel is the English Street church, where Rev. Mr. Morritt is at present stationed...

I am told he is popular and as much esteemed as he was formerly in Fredericton and certainly his church is as good as that at home, but no more beautiful outside...

I am not staying at the Windsor Hotel, but I visited it this morning and was delighted with the beautiful office on the ground floor...

It is said to be the finest hotel in Canada and to have no superior on the American continent, but as that statement was entrusted to my keeping by a Montreal Canadian, I shall reserve my decision until I have seen some of its continental competitors...

The C. P. R. has two stations here, one on Windsor street and the second on Hutchison square. From the former we will take our departure for the West to-night at 8.15 in a Tourist Sleeping car and we will probably hear no more from us till we are much farther west...

MADONNA WESTERN OIL, Jan. 20th.-I neglected to say that while in Montreal I met Rev. Mr. McLeod on St. James street. The Royal Prohibition Convention was in session there Wednesday and I have no doubt is still holding its inquisitorial investigations into the secrets of the liquor traffic and the state of the continent regarding the great question of prohibition...

Some of the evidence elected on Wednesday was of a rather startling character, and will interest many ardent prohibitionists to consider their position before taking any decisive step. For instance the evidence given by Mr. John H. Wain as an officer with the R. V. department, showed among other things that under a system of licensing such as prevails in Montreal those who pay license for the sale of liquors were not connected in any way with the enormous fraud committed upon both the government and the people by illicit distillers and unlicensed vendors...

Of the latter, those who ran illicit stills manufactured liquors out of inferior alcohol, flax oil, oil of bitter almonds head oil, and other substances equally more deleterious to the human machine, thus poisoning by the thousands the consumers of these liquors, who are deceived by the false labels used by the unlicensed vendors. These labels are manufactured wholesale and kept in stock for sale by the Geo. Bishop Engraving Co. This company does some remarkably fine engraving work among samples of which are the diploma used year after year by the university of New Brunswick. Mr. Watkins evidence would lead one to conclude that a very light license system, combined with close and thorough governmental detective control of the illicit stills, and pericial and frequent analysis of the liquors sold would lead to the surest and most satisfactory results...

I note by an item in the Montreal Star that Gabe Acquin, the noted Millionaire Indian, has been engaged by Paul Boyington of Chicago to appear at his witness stand in London. My next. This will mean another trip to England for "Gabe" and I sincerely hope the old man will live to enjoy it with the youngest citizen in the world...

As you see, we have now accomplished some little distance on our western journey, and are still stretching away over the wide country at an average speed of 25 miles per hour. Wednesday night we left Montreal's junction at 9 o'clock sharp and were soon installed in our respective berths on the sleeper. I am travelling, by one of the already famous Tourist Sleeping Cars, first operated, I believe as well as originated by the Canadian Pacific, who are even yet the only company running through cars of this description to the Pacific Coast. These cars were originally designed to supply the convenience of a sleeper of moderate

COMFORT AND AT SMALL EXPENSE TO SECOND CLASS PASSENGERS; BUT SO EASY AND COMFORTABLE ARE THEY IN CONSTRUCTION, AND SO AIRY AND WELL VENTILATED, THAT VERY MANY FIRST CLASS PASSENGERS NOW MAKE IT A PRACTICE, ESPECIALLY IN SUMMER, TO UTILIZE THE ADVANTAGES THERE OFFERED, AND RIDE THE FULL JOURNEY TO THE COAST BY THESE CARS IN PREFERENCE TO THE LUXURIOUS AND EXPENSIVE PULLMAN SLEEPERS. THERE ARE JOBBLE BERTHS ON EACH SIDE OF THE COACH, FULLY FURNISHED WITH MATTRESSES, CLEAN LINEN AND PILLOWS EACH, CAPABLE OF BEING SOLD IN SECTIONS AND COSTING ONLY THE INSIGNIFICANT SUM OF $500 PER DOUBLE BERTH TO THE PACIFIC COAST. THERE IS A PORTER IN ATTENDANCE, WHO, IN OUR CASE, IS THE TYPE OF CIVILITY, CLEVERNESS AND NEATNESS. ORDINARY PASSENGERS, BOTH FIRST AND SECOND CLASS, ARE KEPT EXCLUDED BOTH BY DAY AND NIGHT. THE CAR IS WARM AND THOROUGHLY VENTILATED, STRONG AND EASY RIDING, FURNISHED WITH TOILET ROOMS AT EACH END. A BUFFET ROOM FOR COOKING, AND A SMOKING APARTMENT SEPARATED BY TIGHT SHUTTING DOORS FROM THE SLEEPING PORTION AND RESERVED FOR THE USE, BENEFIT AND BEHOOF OF TOURIST PASSENGERS ALONE. IN THE DAY TIME THE UPPER BERTHS CLOSE TIGHT AGAINST THE ROOF AND FORM A RICH PANELING ON EACH SIDE WHICH ATTRACTIVE TO THE EYE, WHILE THE LOWER ONES ARE EASILY AND QUICKLY TRANSFORMED INTO WIDE SEATS WITH HIGH AND EASY BACKS, SUPERIOR FOR COMFORT TO THE FIRST CLASS PASSENGER CAR SEATS, AND BEING ARRANGED TO FACE EACH OTHER AND SEPARATED BY A WIDER SPACE THAN USUAL, AFFORD ROOM FOR A SMALL NEAT TABLE BETWEEN EACH PAIR OF SEATS. AT THEIR MEALS MAY PLAY A QUIET GAME OF WHIST IF SO INCLINED, OR MAY, AS I AM DOING AT THE PRESENT TIME, WRITE TO THEIR BERTHS CONTACTED TO THE FRIENDS AND RELATIVES AT HOME. ON THE WHOLE I DO NOT BELIEVE THAT IT IS POSSIBLE TO OBTAIN FOR ANYTHING APPROACHING SO SMALL AN EXPENSE, SO MUCH COMFORT FOR SO LONG A JOURNEY. WE LEAVE MONTREAL WITH A TRAIN OF 7 CARS, THE TWO REAR ONES BEING RESPECTIVELY DINING AND PULLMAN SLEEPING CARS. OF COURSE WE DO NOT SEE THE SCENIC BEAUTY OF THE VALLEY FROM MONTREAL TO OTTAWA BEING SURROUNDED AS WE WERE BY WHAT BLACKMORE CALLS THE "DEEP WHITE DARKNESS" OF WINTER. WE WERE GREATLY DISAPPOINTED THAT THIS SHOULD BE SO, WE WISHED TO VISIT THESE BROAD WATERS WITH THEIR BEAUTIFUL BANKS, AND ESPECIALLY DID WE DESIRE TO SEE OTTAWA AND THE PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS, BUT AS WE WERE DUE THERE AT 12 O'CLOCK MIDNIGHT AND WERE RUNNING PRETTY NEARLY ON TIME, WE WERE OBLIGED TO MAKE THE MOST OF THE SMOKEST SLEEPER BY THAT TIME. JUST BEFORE REACHING OTTAWA THE TRAIN CROSSES THE OTTAWA RIVER ON A MAGNIFICENT BRIDGE FROM WHICH A FINE VIEW OF CHANDLER FALLS, ESPECIALLY BEAUTIFUL IN WINTER, CAN BE OBTAINED, BUT AS WE WERE MISSED, AND VERY DISAPPOINTING IT WAS TO ONE WHO HAD JUST MADE THE PLEASURE OF MAKING THE TRIP TO BE.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

It is said by competent judges that Government House only requires a new roof and heating apparatus inside (steam or hot water) to render it not only in habitable but comfortable, and the work may be done with such small fixings inside as may be required, for a comparatively small sum of money, probably five to seven thousand dollars. Surely with all the fine grounds about this city mansion, the Legislature should not hesitate about putting it in order?

STATE OF THE OTTAWA MARKETS

As Brunswick grocery store, a rather stale article, stands about the same...

The Adams quality is rather stale, and goes off very slowly, the Burns' within it...

last two days is quite unsalable. Through it may take a rise again shortly...

The Gaitan article has fallen back to all prices. The Mitchell rib-pieces (6-7 only) coated by a St. John morning...

and a Montreal (dodge) are offered freely in the market at the old prices, but appear to meet with few purchasers...

We saw no evidence of any of the above stocks rising above par. If anything goes off it is the Tiley flank pieces, which always did bring good pieces, as the quality is equal to the best tenders of a good Tanager's' heater. In fact, the Tiley cuts are the only saleable pieces on the market at present, and yet before long the market may be so glutted with this very glutinous material (generons) that it may be bought for almost any price. Therefore intending purchasers had better hold off.

The latest returns from the market show that the horse stock has taken a quiet rise. Mr. Kilham is authority for the statement that Mr. Burns has secured his appointment.

A proclamation has been issued by President Harrison, granting a pardon to all Mormons convicted of polygamy prior to November 1890, and giving an amnesty to all persons liable to prosecution under the law for such offences committed before that time. This amnesty is conditioned upon the declarations made by the leaders of the Mormon church, that it has abandoned the practice of polygamy, and upon the faithful fulfillment of these promises upon the part of the members. The people of Utah say that the most of the Mormons take it out in promises, and that the practice goes on a little more privately, but quite as flagrantly as ever.

The death is announced at Portland, Oregon, of William S. Ladd, a banker of that city and one of the largest capitalists of the Pacific coast. It is said to have been an unfeeling custom of Mr. Ladd's from the beginning of his career to set aside one-tenth of his net income for charitable purposes. He does not seem to have missed the amount thus appropriated very seriously, as his estate is estimated at twenty million dollars.

Commenting this week we will publish a series of letters written specially for the Globe—graphically describing a trip across the continent in winter, over the C. P. R., the principal cities along the route after leaving Montreal, the wild and picturesque scenery, the rocky mountains in winter, etc. The letters which are written by a Frederictonian will appear weekly and are both interesting and instructive. Don't fail to read them.

The Groder Dyspepsia Cure Co., St. John, have issued a very pretty pamphlet calling the attention of the public to the merits of this wonderful remedy, and giving a brief sketch of what it has done in Canada and what it proposes to do. The records of the same published in the pamphlet show that the Groder Dyspepsia Cure Co., have a remedy that does the work claimed by it, and its fame is rapidly becoming known all over the Dominion.

A terrible disaster happened at Bonny River, about six miles this side of St. George's week. A house belonging to T. A. Sullivan of Bonny River was discovered to be on fire by a young man but for whose timely arrival the inmates would have all perished. It, however, became the sad fate of two young men to be burned beyond recognition. The unfortunate were Henry Sullivan aged 14, eldest son of Mr. Sullivan, and John Orr of St. Stephen aged 21. The building was burned to the ground.

John Crompton, a man 60 years of age, met a sad fate at Fairville St. John, Monday afternoon. Some time before 4 o'clock he started out from Fairville to walk by the C. P. R. track to his home at South Bay. Near Boggs' crossing, just west of Fairville, he was killed by an incoming freight train. Crompton apparently saw the train approaching and made an effort to get off the track. Engineer George Brown saw the man step from the track and thought the train would stop for him, although he endeavored to stop her speed. The curtain of the engine crashed against the man and then a sick, which was projecting from a carload of wood, struck him across the chest and he was seen to fall to the ground and try to crawl away. As quickly as possible the train was stopped and the man taken on board. He was unconscious and when examined by Dr. Gray in the Fairville station house he was a corpse. His head had been crushed in by the blow and several ribs broken. The train was in charge of Conductor Edward Brown. Deceased leaves a wife and several children.

FARMERS' AND DAIRYMEN'S Association Meeting in the City Hall. The Reports from the Officers.

Interesting Discussion on Dairy Work in New Brunswick.

In the opening address, President Owens spoke with satisfaction of the trade returns of 1922. He believed the McKinley bill to be a blessing in disguise, in that it would draw us into closer trade relations with the mother country. He believed dairying to be the most profitable line for our farmers to work on; and by securing competent men to instruct in cheese and butter making the provincial government, has shown a desire to aid them.

There are plenty of openings as good and better for the young men of New Brunswick at home than abroad, and he called upon the farmers to assist in a greater and greater degree year by year the work of their association.

The president's address was followed by the reports of delegates for the different counties. H. McLean of Sunbury reported crops up to a success.

H. Eves of Carleton Co. reported crops good except buckwheat.

Donald Lewis of Victoria county reported one cheese factory in operation in the Danish settlement, and it had been made a success through the united efforts of the farmers.

Robert Lamb reported for Westmorland and stated the red soil seed corn was not adapted for ensilage as it matured too late.

Reports were also received from delegates from Kings, Kent and Albert.

Mayor Berwick addressed the meeting and in a neat speech welcomed the farmers to the city, and complimented them on the rapid growth of the association.

After the secretary treasurer had submitted his report, the corresponding secretary presented his, at the same time pointing out the work connected with that office had grown so enormously that it was absolutely necessary to have a secretary who would be independent of other work. Mr. Baxter thought it would be well to follow Ontario's example and pay a secretary to devote his whole time to the work.

The corresponding secretary was tendered a vote of thanks for his energetic and faithful work.

Two letters committee submitted their report. There was considerable discussion on the question of fees, which had been fixed at $1 entrance with a subsequent annual fee of $1.00. The three of the discussion were all towards fixing the fee at $1 annually, and finally an amendment of Mr. Reid's to that effect was carried.

Some reports from other societies having been read the meeting adjourned until evening.

The subject for discussion at the evening session was agricultural education, and was ably handled by W. W. Hubbard, the president. Mr. Owens, Messrs. Howie, Tomlinson, Geo. E. Baxter, G. B. Trueman, J. N. Sloan, D. F. Moore, Dr. Inch and Mr. Millen.

Mr. Hubbard said the New Brunswick soil is richly fertile, that more than 90 per cent of our people are engaged in farming than any other occupation; that the prosperity of the country depends upon the prosperity of the towns.

He stressed the young people should be taught agriculture in the common schools.

The president followed making a few interesting remarks after which Mr. Howie and Mr. Hubbard favored education for the farm beginning in the common schools. He stressed the importance of the farmer's education in the schools, and supply the practical instead.

Mr. Sloan in his remarks, illustrated how a large number of the young people were driven from the farms into the towns.

Mr. Reid followed and delivered a most interesting address. He referred to some of the former speakers who spoke up for the farmer's education.

Mr. Tomlinson followed and spoke with regard to the farming interests, and he showed clearly that it was not the teachers' fault that the children were not educated on the farm. Home life should be more attractive and as much as the drudgery as possible taken from farm life.

He emphasized the fact that agriculture was to have special attention in the schools, other claims of special education could not readily be met.

Mr. Millen followed and in closing extended a cordial invitation to all present to visit the Normal School.

Shortly after 9 a. m. Thursday morning Mr. Hart, of the Dominion dairy station, opened the proceedings by a practical illustration of the Babcock method of testing samples of milk from Z. R. Reid's herd were tested and the result showed a percentage of fat ranging from 5.55 to 8.7 per cent. One sample of skim milk was tested. The milk had been set in ice water twelve hours, and the skim milk was found to contain 1.2 per cent of fat, or nearly 2 of the butter fat was proved to have been left in the milk by the deep setting process.

An Alpha de Laval hand separator was then operated. Mr. Richard gave a very clear explanation of the principles of the machine, and recommended that make of a separator.

During the exhibition of the separator Mr. Peters had been operating his dairy churn and on the completion of the churning he gave the audience an illustration of the practical remarks of how good butter should be made at home.

The afternoon session scarcely began when Prof. Robertson dairy commissioner; Prof. Fletcher, entomologist and botanist of the Central experimental farm, and Col. Blair, superintendent of the Experimental farm at Sneyton, said great enthusiasm, took their seats on the platform. The two hundred additional chairs provided were soon filled, and an audience of three hundred listened to the distinguished speakers.

Mr. Alward first read John Robertson's paper on the position of dairy work in New Brunswick, and was followed by Mr. Hart in an instructive address on the essentials to success in co-operative dairying.

Prof. Robertson, who next addressed the meeting in his inimitable way, was listened to with absorbing interest, while Prof. Fletcher, who after to make a few remarks on insects as they affected dairymen and stock owners, announced some amount of interest that owing to repeated questions it was some time before he could take his seat.

Yesterday the association discussed the several branches of sleep raising, in which Messrs. Robert Brown, Yorkton; H. B.

Trueman, Point de Bute and F. C. Powsy delivered able addresses. Particular attention was directed to the dog nuisance in the discussion which followed.

David C. Parent, Queen's Co. handled the question of "Corm growing and making of milk in York county" in a manner that showed he was thoroughly acquainted with his subject.

A general discussion followed. Several papers were read on fruit growing, after which Prof. Fletcher Dominion entomologist, Ottawa delivered a very able paper on "Diseases of fruits and how to fight them."

The following officers were elected for the coming term; Thomas A. Peters, Hampton, President; James S. Sloan, Carletonville, Vice President; C. L. S. Raymond Woodstock, secretary; W. W. Hubbard, car. sec'y; County fair president; for Kings county—D. P. Wetmore, Clifton; Westmorland—James Frier, Shediac; St. John—Robt. McLeod, St. John; Queens—L. L. Peters, Queenston; Albert—C. M. Peck, Hopedale; Kent—Augusta Leves, St. Louis; Charlotte—J. Davidson Gimmer, St. Andrew's; Gloucester—P. J. Tower, Bathurst Village; Sunbury—Henry Wilton, Oromocto; York—Isaac Peabody, St. Mary's; Carleton—H. Emery, Jacksonville; Victoria—Donald Lewis, Tolique; Riverview—John Barber, Blackville; Madawaska—Levitt Thurling, M. P. F. Edmundston.

The benefits derived by our farmers from this association are becoming fully appreciated throughout the province and to-day it is in a flourishing condition, and rapidly gaining the sympathy and support of all.

OVER 1,000 LIVES LOST.

Details of the Sinking of a Chinese Steamship and the Awful Loss of Life.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—The Celestial Empire, an English newspaper of Shanghai, which arrived here yesterday, contains some interesting details of the disastrous wreck of the Canton, China, which resulted in the death of over 1,000 people. These additional facts show that the brigands who started the fire did not stop in the heat of anger over an unprovoked attack, but waited until the following night. On the night before the fire the brigands attempted to rob a theatre, in which was being held an exhibition of the Tin Han pole-dance. The gold and silver ornaments excited their cupidity, but soldiers on guard beat them off, wounded several and captured one. The next night while the temporary theatre was crowded fire was seen on the roof. The houses were made of matting and bamboo, and in a moment was a roaring mass of flames. Many were badly burned by falling bamboo, and those not severely injured rushed to the street. There they encountered no solid mass of excited people that they could not get through. In their alarm they rushed into the neighboring temple. This caught fire, and the scene then was awful. The door did not afford sufficient space for the mass of people and large numbers were lost. Altogether, over 1,000 lives were lost, including those burned in the theatre. The neighborhood was literally strewn with bodies. Charitable societies of Canton and other cities sent 700 coffins to give decent burial to the unfortunate dead. The village suffered heavily, as nearly 300 houses were burned. The robbers evidently escaped, as no mention is made of them.

MR. R. MERRICK of Toronto, Ontario, Cured of Catarrh and Neuralgia.

Good authority has said that "neuralgia is the cry of the nerves for pure blood." The prompt action of Hood's Sarsaparilla on the blood, combined with its toning and strengthening effect upon the nerves, make this a grand medicine for neuralgia and also for catarrh. We commend this letter to you having tried it, and especially to

GRODER'S SYRUP HIS FAMILY MEDICINE.

THE GROSS DYSPEPSIA CURE CO.

GENTLEMEN:—I am now seventy years of age, and have been out of health the past fifteen years. My suffering has been greatest during the last five years, when I have been in constant pain from weakness and distress of stomach. At different times I was troubled with palpitation of the heart, and sharp pains, distress from eating any kind of food, and became so bloated with wind on the stomach that breathing was difficult. Nervousness kept me awake night after night. My physicians could give me only temporary relief, and my troubles returned again and again until I learned of Groder's Syrup, for I had made my old age painless one. My wife has used your medicine with entire satisfaction.

Yours truly,
THOMAS PETERS,
WENLOW, MAINE.

CHAPTER XXI.

AN EVENING JOCKEY.

On the day following two carriages rolled out of Rome, and took the road toward Florence by the Via Cassanese.

One carriage held four ladies; the other one was occupied by two men, and the luggage of the party.

It was early morning, and over the wide Campagna there hung mists, which were dissipated gradually as the sun arose.

As they went on the day advanced and the departing mists there opened up a wide view. On either side extended the desolate Campagna, over which passed lines of ruined aqueducts on their way from the hills to the city.

There were crumbling ruins above the plain—some ancient, others medieval, none modern. Before them in the distance arose the Apennines, among which were here and there visible the white outlines of some villa or hamlet.

For miles after mile they drove on, and the drive soon proved very monotonous. It was nothing but one long and unvarying plain, with this only change, that every mile brought the nearer to the mountains. As the mountains were their only hope, they all looked forward eagerly to the time when they would arrive there and wind along the road among them.

Formerly Mrs. Willoughby alone had been the confidante of Minnie's secret, but the events of the past few days had disclosed most of her troubles to the other ladies also, at least as far as the general outlines were concerned. It was the consequence was that they were traveling in this way and Minnie knew that they all knew it. Yet this unpleasant consciousness did not in the least interfere with the sweetness of her temper and the gentleness of her manner. She sat there, with a meek smile and a resigned air, as though the only part now left her in life was the patient endurance of her unmarried wrongs. She blamed no one, she made no complaint, yet there was in her attitude something so touching, so clinging, so pathetic, so forlorn, and in her face something so sweet, so sad, so reproachful, and so pitiable, that she enforced sympathy; and each one began to have a half-guilty fear that Minnie had been wronged by her. Especially did Mrs. Willoughby feel this. She feared that she had neglected the artless and simple-minded child, she feared that she had not been sufficiently thoughtful about her, and now longed to do something to make amends for this imaginary neglect. So she sought to make the journey as pleasant as possible by cheerful remarks and lively observations. None of these things, however, produced any effect upon the attitude of Minnie. She sat there with unalterable sweetness and unvarying patience, just like a holy martyr, who freely forgave all her enemies, and was praying for those who had despoiled and used her.

The exciting events consequent upon the Baron's appearance, and his sudden revelation in the role of Minnie's lover had exercised a strong and varied effect upon all; but upon one its result was wholly beneficial, and this was Ethel. It was so startling and so unexpected that it had roused her from her gloom, and given her something to think of. The Baron's debut in their parlor had been narrated to her over and over by each of the three who had witnessed it, and each gave the narrative her own coloring. Lady Dalrymple's account was humorous; Mrs. Willoughby's indignant; Minnie's sentimental. Out of all these Ethel received a fourth idea, compounded of these three, which again blended with another and an original one of her own, gained from a personal observation of the Baron, whose appearance on the stairs and impatient summons for "Minnie" were very vividly impressed on her memory. In addition to this there was the memory of that day on which they endeavored to fight the enemy.

That was indeed, a memorable day, and was now alluded to by them as the day of the siege. It was not without difficulty that they had withstood Minnie's earnest protestations, and introduced themselves. But Mrs. Willoughby was elaborate and Minnie's tears, which flowed freely, were unavailing.

Then there came the first knock of the impatient and aggressive visitor, followed by others in swift succession, and in every-breathing power. Every knock went to Minnie's heart. It excited an unlimited amount of sympathy for the one who had saved her life, and was now excited from her door. But as the knock grew violent and imperative, and Minnie grew sad and pitiful, the other ladies grew indignant. Lady Dalrymple was on the point of sending for the police, and only Minnie's entreaties prevented this. At last the door opened, and the madress of lives they did not think. Once convinced that he was mad, they became terrified. The maids all hid themselves. None of them would now venture out even to call the police. They expected that the stranger would interfere, but in vain. The stranger was a fellow.

After a very eventful day night came. They laid their feet upon the stairs, and knew that it was their tormentor. Minnie's heart again melted with tenderness for the man whose fate had turned her head, and she begged to be allowed to speak to him. But this was not permitted. So she went to bed and fell asleep. So in process of time did the others, and the night passed without any trouble. Then morning came, and there was a debate as to what should be done about the man who came up, and I haven't got over it yet.

I'm sure I don't see why, said Minnie. You're always imagining things. You're not a bit of a thing that may happen. No one made any remark, and there was silence in the carriage as the stranger approached. The ladies bowed somewhat coolly except Minnie, who threw upon him the most imploring look that could possibly be sent from human eyes. The Italian's impressive nature thrilled her, and she felt a great sympathy for him, unfeeling, tender, helpless, innocent or not. Remembering his hat, he bowed low.

I had not been aware, he said, politely in his broken English, that your ladyship's hat is to travel. Excuse me, but I thought it was to be worn.

Mrs. Willoughby made a polite request of a general character, the Italian passed a moment to drink in deep draughts from Minnie's eyes, and his eyes that were fixed upon his and then with a low bow, he passed on.

I believe I am losing my senses, said Mrs. Willoughby.

Why, Kitty darling? asked Minnie. I don't know how it is, but I actually trembled when that man came up, and I haven't got over it yet.

Well you saw him at Minnie's house. He came in.

No, he didn't. No. By thunder, it wasn't that time. Well, at any rate, that man I believe, is at the bottom of the row. It's my belief that he's trying to get me out, and he'll find he's got a level row to hoe before he succeeds in that project.

And with these words the Baron sat clapping one Italian with something in his eye that resembled family ties, the glance of some Dacra.

I had not been aware, he said, politely in his broken English, that your ladyship's hat is to travel. Excuse me, but I thought it was to be worn.

Mrs. Willoughby made a polite request of a general character, the Italian passed a moment to drink in deep draughts from Minnie's eyes, and his eyes that were fixed upon his and then with a low bow, he passed on.

I believe I am losing my senses, said Mrs. Willoughby.

Why, Kitty darling? asked Minnie. I don't know how it is, but I actually trembled when that man came up, and I haven't got over it yet.

I'm sure I don't see why, said Minnie. You're always imagining things. You're not a bit of a thing that may happen. No one made any remark, and there was silence in the carriage as the stranger approached. The ladies bowed somewhat coolly except Minnie, who threw upon him the most imploring look that could possibly be sent from human eyes. The Italian's impressive nature thrilled her, and she felt a great sympathy for him, unfeeling, tender, helpless, innocent or not. Remembering his hat, he bowed low.
