

MORE ACTIVITY ON LOCAL SHOPS

The Xmas Stocks Piled High—
Snow Heralds Something
Of Christmas Spirit

CROWDED OUT LAST WEEK
Judging from the increased activity in local stores yesterday and today the sudden change in weather conditions has been instrumental in starting the annual search for Xmas gifts. Until the first of the week there was little evidence of Christmas shopping and many merchants were somewhat discouraged by the prevailing quiet. The snow storm of Monday night however has created an atmosphere more suitable to the Yuletide season and as a result of colder weather, local trade seems to have been stimulated.

Until yesterday few out of town shoppers have been noticed at the local stores. Today however with Christmas sales on all sides many non resident buyers from outlying districts are in town. So far the Restigouche River is open but with continued cold weather it is likely that nature will effect her winter bridge in a few days and thus enable people from Bonaventure County to make their annual Christmas trip to Campbellton and do their gift buying here.

In spite of the recent snow fall the main roads through Restigouche are still passable by motor and there is no doubt but what hundreds throughout the county will visit the local stores within the next few days. It is possible that this year Christmas business may establish a record.

Great Displays
In recent years Campbellton has come to be recognized by many as the Christmas Shopping Centre of the North Shore. And this is as it should be. Each year local merchants have been endeavoring to improve their facilities for giving service and satisfaction and with this year's displays of Xmas goods it is clear that they merit a liberal patronage. The improvements made in recent years by merchants here is clearly characterized by a determination to keep ahead of the times and nothing is more eloquent of this advancement than the great assortment of high grade Christmas goods now on display at the local stores. In all lines of merchandise one may find the desired quality at moderate prices and where practically unlimited variety affords the widest choice. In every way they compare very favorably with the larger mercantile houses of the bigger shopping centres.

Graphic An Index

Without any presumption on our part we may add that the Xmas Edition of the Graphic is an illustrated index for Christmas shoppers in Campbellton and throughout the whole Bay Chaleur territory. While there are features which would be appreciated by our readers and which we would like to include in this number, the unusual demand for advertising space has forced us to exclude these in order to even briefly record current events. We know, however, that our subscribers appreciate the advertising service we are enabled to give them in this way. Moreover the weekly paper, with its necessarily smaller staff in a field of its own and should not be confused with periodicals of another class. Magazines and daily papers each serve their purpose and the weekly paper must confine its efforts to the duty it is expected to perform. As an advertising medium direct to the home, the Graphic is without a rival among the weeklies of the province and we trust that this fact may not be eclipsed by the absence of any special feature in which it may appear to be lacking.

THE MAN THEY COULD NOT HANG.

Prison Talks With John Lee,
Whose Escape Talk of Content

Thomas Churchill, the writer of this article, was sentenced to penal servitude for life for manslaughter but by reason of his good conduct he was liberated at the end of fifteen years. He was sent to Portland Prison and while there he made a friend of John Lee, the Babacoomb, THE MAN THEY COULD NOT HANG, about whom he has much that is interesting and new to tell.

When I read of the various reforms that are now taking effect in English and Scottish prisons, my thoughts go back to the night when I was liberated at the end of fifteen years. I spent fifteen years at Portland. It was at this convict settlement that I met John Lee, the man they could not hang. Three times they tried to hang John Lee, for the Babacoomb murder, and three times they failed. His sentence was then commuted to penal servitude for life, and he was sent to Portland, where, after a long term of prison life, he was released. Known as the Prison on the Cliffs, Portland is, and always has been, the most unpopular prison in England, save with the exception of Dartmoor. The prison itself is an imposing though grim-looking block of buildings perched on the rocky, frowning cliffs of the Portland peninsula, and standing nearly five hundred feet above the sea.

Small wonder then that one man who had spent the best part of his life in exile there should describe it as "a place designed by nature for the imprisonment of human beings."

I was not a stranger to Portland, for two years before I made my terrible slip in life I was one of the soldier guards at the prison, but was brought out of the army later by my parents. I was then only in my teens. What a contrast there was! Someone must guard over me. For a while I thought the place would drive me insane. Words fail to describe the dullness and monotony of a convict's life there, right away from communion with his fellow men.

John Lee, the man they could not hang, had been there for some time before I arrived. It was at work that he and I were first thrown in together and I learned the whole circumstances of his remarkable escape from death on the gallows. He was a well-known figure of the prison for his escape. The most astounding in local annals had created a sensation throughout the country.

Behind the warler's back John and myself used to speak a lot to one another, and before he was released we had become sworn pals. It was in the employment of Miss Emma Keyes, at one time a maid-of-honor to the late Queen Victoria, was accused and found guilty on circumstantial evidence of murdering his mistress in her home at Babacoomb.

He always protested his innocence of the crime, and in conversation I had with him he related some most remarkable facts, including a strange dream he had on the night before he was to have met the judgment of the law.

"If I had to think much of that awful experience," John told me one day, "it would drive me mad. It was a dream I had on what was to be my last night on earth that convinced me that the hanging would not take place." In that dream I saw my own grave as I was on my way to the scaffold. I saw it arise later, still in the dream, and then I saw John Lee had failed and I was not to be hanged.

"Next morning I told the warders of my dream, and also Berry the executioner, but they didn't say anything except to tell me to prepare to meet my doom."

Lee then told me of how he was pinned and led to the execution shed and how the officials present seemed to have a foreboding that there would be a hitch to add agony to the tragic scene.

"I was placed on the drop," Lee told me, "and soon I felt the trap doors quivering under my feet, but they did not fall away. I was then being half-strangled with the noose around his neck he was released again. 'The agony of the suspense was awful,' he said. They offered me brandy, but I refused, and told them to get on with it. But after they had tried a third time and failed I was taken back to my cell, and later told that my sentence had been commuted to penal servitude for life. I felt it was my dream come true."

In his protestations of innocence John Lee told me that he had heard that a certain other person, a woman, had confessed to a Church Army official that she was guilty of the crime. But nothing of this came of it, though John petitioned the Home Secretary several times with a view to having his sentence reviewed and the facts of the case reconsidered.

These men were also given permission to speak and walk in couples on the exercise ground. But John Lee and myself came in for no title

MEETING OF THE PRESBYTERY

Quarterly Meeting Held at Newcastle Tuesday December 9th.

The quarterly meeting of the Presbytery of Miramichi was held in St. James Hall, Newcastle, on Tuesday, Dec. 9. There were present Rev. F. W. Thompson, A. D. Archibald, J. F. McCurdy, A. Firth, J. H. MacLean, E. V. Forbes, A. MacKay, R. Davidson, T. Harrison, W. W. McNair, J. H. A. Anderson, G. Gough, A. Craile and W. A. MacQuarrie, ministers; and Messrs. A. G. Adams, P. A. Forsythe, W. J. Carruthers and R. F. C. Mair elders.

In the unavoidable absence of the Moderator, Rev. Wm. Girdwood, Rev. F. W. Thompson was appointed to act in his place. Devotional service was conducted. The minutes of the last meeting being printed and in the hands of the members, were held as read and sustained. Mr. Forbes reported in reply to a question raised at last meeting regarding titles to certain property within the bounds of the Restigouche congregation deeded many years ago to the Church of Scotland, that he had made through search in the Registry Office in Dalhousie and found that the property had been legally disposed of and was today legally held by its occupants. Rev. A. D. Archibald and Mr. Joseph Henderson were appointed a committee to make full inquiry into the title of the church properties at Shippegan and report to next meeting.

Mr. McNair reported that the call extended by St. John's Church, Dalhousie, to Rev. James E. Forbes of Ferraona, N.S., had been declined by him with reasons stated and asked that Presbytery approve of the appointment of Rev. C. D. MacIntosh as stated supply in Dalhousie for four months beginning on Feb. 1st. This approval was cordially granted. Mr. MacIntosh has recently resigned the pastoral charge of the congregation of River John, N.S.

Rev. T. Harrison supplied the pulpit of New Mills congregation, Oct. 2, on immediate steps to deal effectively with the situation. A commission of Presbytery was appointed, consisting of Messrs. T. Harrison, W. W. McNair, J. H. MacLean, E. V. Forbes and A. G. Adams, with full power to issue the matter.

It was reported that in accordance with decisions arrived at by the Miramichi Presbytery and the Methodist Conventions, co-operative union was now in effect in the Upper Miramichi, consistently with good promise of harmonious working.

The claims of the Synod Special Benevolent Fund were brought before the Presbytery by a letter from the Moderator of the Synod's Committee stating the urgent needs of support by all the congregations of the bounds. Rev. W. W. McNair, convener of the Church Union Committee of Presbytery, reported contributions received to date in his office from congregations towards the special Church Union Expense Fund. He also commended the members that congregations in the province of New Brunswick had not voted on the question of concurrence of non-concurrence until after the date of June 10, 1925. Mr. McNair further reported that in accordance with the resolutions of the Maritime Synod he had placed the question of their relation to the United Church of Canada officially before every minister of the Presbytery and from answers received it was found every minister on the constituent roll of the Presbytery in active service within the bounds, excepting one, had intimated his intention to go with the congregation of Canada officially before the date of June 10, 1925.

The election of officers for the ensuing six months resulted as follows: Moderator, Rev. Thomas Harrison; clerk, Rev. A. D. Archibald; treasurer, Rev. J. H. A. Anderson.

The clerk read a letter from Rev. Alexander Craile resigning his charge of the congregation of Bass River. The congregation had been duly cited

The Heart of Hester

When Hester Eastholme found her self fatherless and motherless, folks
in Gisorth said there would soon be a wedding, "soon as ever she's all through her mourning." For the gossiping crowd, that, having lost
both her parents within a month,
lonely life would soon pull upon her.
Prophetic matchmakers had coupled her name with that of Frederick Lowburn, others with that of John Whalley. But the former had left the office of the local lawyer and gone
to the big city, where it was reported
he was doing well, and though Whalley still remained, carrying on his father's quarry, it was evident that he was too shy and diffident, people
said to capture the beautiful girl, who,
it was whispered could if she chose,
live upon her literary earnings alone.

Hester indeed, had no fear that they discussed her in the places where women congregate. She taught their children, who all loved her, and
as for seeking the towns, she was well
content with the bracing air of the Penins and the quaint folk with their quaint speech.

Her time was fully occupied, her work was her recreation, and for change she asked not more than to reach the local "Beacon Hill," where the map of North Lancashire was rolled before the view, from silvery Ribble and her gleaming estuary to the Yorkshire marshes, and from Black-burn's smoky pall in the south of the land fields northward.

On one such day many months before, when she had found her way to this viewpoint, two lads had encountered her, one after the other.

"You look bucolic, old man," put in Frederick Lowburn, with a smile, at
which their hostess flushed. It was
with relief she observed that John
showed no resentment.
"Just so," replied John. "We live
in the open air, you know, at Gisorth.
No smoky holes in cities for us!
Hello! Some one's asking for me!"

Two boys breathless, appeared at
the door.
"We want Master Whalley! Two o'
Pilkington's sheep are down't quarry.
Me and my brother seen 'em. Mrs.

They left her to herself and jour-
neyed down the hill together, friendly
in speech, but each with a secret
heart; and within sight of the ancient
keep of Clitheroe, Hester mused upon
the days of chivalry and thought with
some self-chiding that she had set
knights against knaves, and some day
must give the querdon to one—or the
other.

The heather died, and one moor-
land winter after another passed,
leaving her fatherless and motherless
in their passing, and in the third winter news came of still another bereavement—news through a firm in Manchester solicitors who added the
information that a small fortune now
devolved upon her.

But though folk noticed that she
was mourning, and heard it was for
an uncle, she held her peace about the
money, and no one was the wiser for
she lived her life as before.

It was not in the mild season or
autumn that Lowburn returned but
when the moors were bleak, their
brooks silent, and a north wind blew
that heralded snow.

Hester had responded fitfully
with him during his stay in the modern Athens always writing as a sister
might, even as she spoke to Whalley,
the plodding stay-at-home. But ever
the news of his increasing success
contrasted with the apparent stan-
still of John's affairs, who since that
memorable day upon the hill spoke to
her with a reserve that resembled
diffidence.

Yet now Lowburn was coming to Gisorth, Hester felt no enthusiasm.
"I fear," she thought, "he will expect
a welcome that is more than just
friendly."

She bided herself on the Saturday
morning, assisting the middle-aged
cousin who had come to live with her,
but sought no counsel. The steady
progress of the hands of the clock
told her. She even felt a sense of grievance against John Whalley, un-
reasonably blaming him for the one-
sided battle.

It had already begun to snow lightly after noon, and toward sunset, when
his greatcoat flecked with snow. It
was strange that though Susan the
maid, declared him to be "right hand-
some," Hester should find fault with
him for his prosperous look, his dark
curled hair and imposing moustache.

"At last, Hester!" he said, taking
and retaining her hand. "This is the
moment I have worked for!"
His eyes drank in her beauty. The
girl he had known had developed into
a calm, clear-eyed woman, with the
blance of natural health, and a voice
whose vibrations were thrilling.

And after tea, too, with Hester,
he unfolded the story of his do-
ings reserving for the last the important item that he was almost immediately to become a partner in firm.

"But, Hester, there is one thing
wanted to crown it. I want to take you back with me, one day. You
would be happy there in your true
element. And I should be happy
with such a wife beside me; will you
trust me with yourself?"

He took her hand, not noticing the glance with which she allowed him
to grasp, and the next
moment he was gone.

"Hal! We must see John. Poor old John—stuck in the mud. Not come to propose, too, has he? That little legacy'd be a fine lift for John wouldn't it?"

Like a flash Hester returned. "Legacy—did you know?"

"Of course! We acted for two of the smaller legatees under your uncle's will."

"Oh!" replied Hester simply. And then, quickly again, she said, "Don't mention it to Mr. Whalley. I have told nobody here," and a moment later Whalley entered the room.

"Evening, John," said Lowburn.
"Glad to see you."

"Same here," was the reply, "although it's a surprise. I called in to see Hester. Excuse me for a moment and I shall be going."

"It is about the Pilkington's, Hester,"
he said, "I've just been there to see Tom."
He told her that he'd seen Tom's wife has her hands full, nursing him,
and to-night's the crisis. She'd feel a lot happier and able to do everything if little Lottie could sleep somewhere else safely. I said you'd have her—I felt sure you would."

"Decidedly, John! I'm very glad you said so."

Hester was strangely stirred. With the two men before her—the one with
the polish and breeding of the town,
the other wild tanned, suggestive of fresh air—she knew instinctively
that they differed in every fibre.

Frederick Lowburn, obviously, knew what he wanted. He was the sort of man who would always know what he wanted.

But John Whalley would always know what others desired; he would always understand what she desired.

"You look bucolic, old man," put in Frederick Lowburn, with a smile, at
which their hostess flushed. It was
with relief she observed that John
showed no resentment.

"Just so," replied John. "We live
in the open air, you know, at Gisorth.
No smoky holes in cities for us!
Hello! Some one's asking for me!"

Two boys breathless, appeared at
the door.
"We want Master Whalley! Two o'
Pilkington's sheep are down't quarry.
Me and my brother seen 'em. Mrs.

They left her to herself and jour-
neyed down the hill together, friendly
in speech, but each with a secret
heart; and within sight of the ancient
keep of Clitheroe, Hester mused upon
the days of chivalry and thought with
some self-chiding that she had set
knights against knaves, and some day
must give the querdon to one—or the
other.

The heather died, and one moor-
land winter after another passed,
leaving her fatherless and motherless
in their passing, and in the third winter news came of still another be-
reavement—news through a firm in Manchester solicitors who added the
information that a small fortune now
devolved upon her.

But though folk noticed that she
was mourning, and heard it was for
an uncle, she held her peace about the
money, and no one was the wiser for
she lived her life as before.

It was not in the mild season or
autumn that Lowburn returned but
when the moors were bleak, their
brooks silent, and a north wind blew
that heralded snow.

Hester had responded fitfully
with him during his stay in the modern
Athens always writing as a sister
might, even as she spoke to Whalley,
the plodding stay-at-home. But ever
the news of his increasing success
contrasted with the apparent stan-
still of John's affairs, who since that
memorable day upon the hill spoke to
her with a reserve that resembled
diffidence.

Yet now Lowburn was coming to Gisorth, Hester felt no enthusiasm.
"I fear," she thought, "he will expect
a welcome that is more than just
friendly."

She bided herself on the Saturday
morning, assisting the middle-aged
cousin who had come to live with her,
but sought no counsel. The steady
progress of the hands of the clock
told her. She even felt a sense of
grievance against John Whalley, un-
reasonably blaming him for the one-
sided battle.

It had already begun to snow light-
ly after noon, and toward sunset, when
his greatcoat flecked with snow. It
was strange that though Susan the
maid, declared him to be "right hand-
some," Hester should find fault with
him for his prosperous look, his dark
curled hair and imposing moustache.

"At last, Hester!" he said, taking
and retaining her hand. "This is the
moment I have worked for!"
His eyes drank in her beauty. The
girl he had known had developed into
a calm, clear-eyed woman, with the
blance of natural health, and a voice
whose vibrations were thrilling.

And after tea, too, with Hester,
he unfolded the story of his do-
ings reserving for the last the important item that he was almost immediately to become a partner in firm.

"But, Hester, there is one thing
wanted to crown it. I want to take
you back with me, one day. You
would be happy there in your true
element. And I should be happy
with such a wife beside me; will you
trust me with yourself?"

Pilkington told us to he was here and he'd see to it!"

"That's bad," said Whalley. "I'd better go. Poor Pilkington can't afford to lose anything just now, and the poor animals may get lamed.
Perhaps, Lowburn, you'd like to come
and help."

"No thanks!" was the reply. Not quite my forte you know, you'll manage all right. You'll be in your element."

He spoke without the sarcastic injection he had meant to use. Somehow an intuition had come to him that Hester would not like it. But nevertheless she divided the ironical
intention.

"Yes, John!" she said, "you will be
in your element."

But Whalley was not waiting to argue—he was gone.

Hester followed him to the door,
and looked out into the Moorland night. When she came back into the room she wore her cloak and Tam-o'- Shanter hat.

"I am going to that quarry bank,"
she said, and was gone.

Being a little taken by surprise, Lowburn was slow in setting out, and could not overtake her. He knew the path as well as she, and so arrived in time to see the little drama played out which relegated him to a small part.

Up the steep shelving sides of the quarry John Whalley was climbing
slowly, thrusting before him a dim shape, which ever and anon bleated plaintively. On the brink stood Hester Eastholme, hands clasped, gazing downward quite oblivious of the man
at her side or the excited boys who completed the little audience.

"O, John!" she cried, "Take care
take care, for my sake."

Once he almost went backward, but clutched a bunch of grass—which held fortunately. And then came the steepest hit up the summit, and Whalley rested awhile, and the boys held
the foolish sheep prisoner.

On hands and toes, down went Whalley again, and shortly began the upward journey, while the girl at Lowburn's side strained her eyes and gasped with every perilous step taken by the man below.

And when once more he had safely reached the top, and in a matter-of-fact way announced his intention of seeing the animal safely folded, Hester turned, and for the first time knew that Lowburn was there.

"It has occurred to me," said he as they crossed the fields, "that I shall be rather in the way. You have this little protegee coming. But tomorrow
you will give me your answer?"

"To-morrow, you need not come, Frederick, if it is for an answer. The answer you want me to give I can never give."

The night was still young when little Lottie arrived with the man whom her mother said was "summat like a mon."

He entered the comfortable room
in which Hester awaited him.

That was all, and somehow, neither
knew how, her head was on his breast,
and they both knew that it belonged
there.

"John, dear," she said after awhile,
I ought to have told you before I I have never told you or anybody but asked you—again—to be my wife.
I have a little fortune. I hope it will help you to get success. I've managed to help you to get success. You won't mind, will you?"

He laughed—an easy laugh, for the diffidence had gone from him, and he was Lowburn's match in the matter of
And I've only just found out."

OBITUARY

Mrs. Daniel Irvine.
The death of Mrs. Daniel Irvine occurred at her home, Mann's Settlement on Thursday last. Deceased was 59 years of age and is survived by her husband and a large family.

The Late Thos. L. McAleese.
The many local friends of the late Thomas L. McAleese, formerly of Atholville, have learned with regret of his death which occurred at his late home in Niagara Falls, Ont., on Tuesday, December 9th, after a brief illness from pneumonia.

The deceased was well and favorably known on the North Shore. Leaving Atholville some years ago he went to Niagara Falls where he remained until his death. The late Mr. McAleese who was predeceased by his wife about fourteen years ago was 66 years of age.

The remains were brought here for burial, arriving on the Ocean Limited last Friday. The funeral services were held from the Church of England on Saturday afternoon, the Rev. A. Brock Humphreys officiating.

The deceased is survived by one daughter who resides in Toronto, and two sons, Dr. T. Karl McAleese of Springfield, Mass., and W. Frederick of Niagara Falls, Ontario.

A Quick Get-Away.
A negro who had unwisely assimilated some alien chickens heard the sheriff was on the trail. Hastily he sought the agent of the railroad, asking for a ticket to the end of the line.

"The passenger train left a few minutes ago," replied the agent. "Well," gasped the hardbreathing tourist, "jest gimme the ticket and pint out the track."

SACKVILLE TEAM MAY PLAY HERE

Possibility of An Exhibition Game In Local Rink About Jan. 2

Hockey fans will be glad to learn that a game with Sackville may be arranged for even before the opening encounter of the league series on January 5th.

An exhibition game is being negotiated for by the club officials now but as yet there is nothing definite to announce. As in other years Sackville has a strong sextette and if a game is arranged for the occasion would doubtless see a well filled rink.

If this prospective game materializes it is thought that the date will likely be arranged for Friday, January 2nd.

TWO WOMEN met the other day. "Come let's lunch together," said the first woman affectionately. "A friendship lunch, you know. They're lively."

"What's a friendship lunch?" said the second woman. "Why," said the first one. "I pay for yours and you pay for mine."

Tourist traffic in New Brunswick during the past summer left nearly $3,000,000 in the province, an amount almost equal to the total provincial revenue, according to an estimate of the New Brunswick Tourist Association. Approximately 70,000 tourists visited the province.

One thousand British Columbia rose bushes are being shipped to Portland, Ore., "the Rose City."

Portland, famous all over the continent for its roses, buys the varieties produced in British Columbia because they are the hardiest and best suited for growing in North America.

Silver production in Ontario for 1924 will not vary materially from that of 1923, judging by figures available for the first nine months of the year from the reports of several operating companies, though some increases will be shown. Production to date has amounted to about $19,500 a day.

Caribou have been seen in very large numbers this season in the northern part of Yukon territory.

Old-timers say that the main herd must have numbered tens of thousands, while in some of the smaller herds that had broken temporarily from the main herd there were hundreds and sometimes thousands.

LOW VOLTAGE CAUSES TROUBLE

Electric Light Plant So Overloaded that Lights Almost Useless.

The failure of the Lower St. Lawrence Power Co. to supply hydro at time specified in the contract is proving a great inconvenience to our merchants and others.

After five o'clock it is almost impossible to see to read the voltage being so low, and this causes great inconvenience to merchants and shoppers. In many stores it has been necessary to use candles.

In the newspaper offices it is almost impossible to keep the typesetting machines in operation. Heat is necessary to keep the metal fluid, and when the voltage drops, there is not sufficient heat to do this, and consequently our work is interfered with and delay caused.

It is hoped, (but we fear it is a faint hope) that current will be on Christmas eve.

FEDERAL ELECTION NEXT JUNE QUEBEC LIBERALS INFORMED

Quebec, Dec. 16.—General federal elections will take place in the beginning of June next spring, according to information available from the Liberal headquarters here.

It is said that instructions have already been given out that unless some changes occur between now and next spring the elections should take place between the 15th and the 25th of June.

CODFISHING STILL ON NORTH SHORE

And Wild Geese Show No Inclination to Leave Bathurst Harbor.

Bathurst, N. B., Dec. 12.—Codfish-
ing is still in full swing at Petit Ro-cher on the Bay Chaleur despite the lateness of the season. As yet the Bay is still open and a heavy run of fish is being encountered by the fishermen who are taking full advantage of the unusual conditions which prevail. In conversation with one of the fishermen your correspondent was informed that the open fishing was expected to continue for several days
providing the weather does not change
suddenly.

The Bathurst harbor has been sealed by ice with the exception of a narrow stretch of the channel. A large number of wild geese are still in evidence and have as yet displayed no inclination to depart. They are to be observed swimming around in the harbor channel while in the general
vicinity the skaters have taken advantage of the ice surface.

The dolls of yesterday—so beautiful and so cheap—they are no more. It is the war. But no little maid need be without a doll for it is the easiest thing ever to make one of heavy domestic and paint a face on it. One can buy a pattern of any of the pattern companies and make the body,
which is to be stuffed with sawdust.
Such a doll dressed and making her appearance at Christmas time will be as much loved as the most fragile waxen beauty that ever came from overseas.

BETTER PRICE FOR POTATOES

Market is Better for Both New Brunswick and Maine Potatoes.

Fredericton, N. B., Dec. 16.—New Brunswick potatoes will be bringing a better price soon after the coming of the new year, if not before, it is now believed.

Latest report from Maine points
indicate an expectation of higher quotations there almost immediately as a result of increasing exports to the British market.

There is also a project to make big shipments from Maine to Ireland to relieve a potato famine which is said
to threaten to quail the famous Irish potato famine of 1847. All this would take much of the stock that had been intended for the Cuban market,
and thus give a better opportunity
there for New Brunswick shippers.

Market is Better.
Port Fairfield, Me., Dec. 12.—The Port Fairfield Review in its weekly
bulletin on the potato market, says:
"Potatoes are coming in a trifle
more freely than last week, the ruling
price for Mountains now being from 85 to 90 cents. A few Spaulding
Rose have been coming, at 65 cents,
while a very few Cobblers have been taken at 75 cents. The feeling in general over the potato market is better than it has been, most people expecting to see a dollar considerably exceeded soon after New Year's, if not before."

LUMBER CUT TO BE INCREASED

Production Will Be Greater
Than Early Preparations Indicated

Fredericton, Dec. 16.—New Brunswick's lumber cut this season, which predictions had stated would be far below the average, is being heavily increased as a result of the constantly improving demand in the United States market and anticipated improvement in the British market.

Districts where it was said the lumber cut would not be more than 50 or 60 per cent of the average cut will now cut a full normal quantity of lumber, and this, it is now believed, will be the case throughout the province,
except in some districts where there will be some reduction in the amount originally contracted for, cutting will be concluded within the next day or two,
and when the crews come out for Christmas they will not return unless arrangements are made in the meanwhile for new contracts. However,
other lumber companies are actively seeking men and teams and there is said to be plenty of employment offering for experienced woodmen, while wages are also showing the influence of the improved market.

One might as well expect Christmas
to be observed without dinner as without the pretty tea aprons that help to make it a joyous feast. One serving apron is of white muslin with an edge of rickrack braid, and the little tea apron is of batiste with pink dots embroidered on it. It is edged with lace and has pink ribbon rosettes
and ties run through eyelets worked in the apron.

STEPHEN CONSTRUCTION CO.
Notice of sale of certain properties
of the Stephen Construction Company had been published, to take place by public auction at Moncton on Thursday, December 18, to satisfy alleged claims of the General Supply Co. of Canada, Ltd., in the total amount of $42,396.14. The goods listed for sale include an excavator at St. John, a stone crusher and portable engine at Smith's Falls, Ont., and an asphalt
plant, locomotive boiler and engine,
steam roller, asphalt sprayer and other equipment at Moncton. A representative of the Stephen Co. stated

this afternoon that the sale was advertised under protest of indebtedness

Gifts for the Children
You Can Make at Home

Quite naturally the children will want to make gifts for each other. Undoubtedly there is more love and affection tucked into the made gift than any other. Among the gifts that child can make are those done with "dyeing." This process comes from the Orient, where the bandana handkerchief first got its name.

A true bandana handkerchief was tied expertly by a Hindu girl, who was called a Bandhani, and then dipped in red dye. When the string was untied a pattern in white on red was found to have been wrought.

Squares of muslin or linen are the first requirement. If a child does not like to hem, white handkerchiefs already hemmed may be used. Two or three colors of dyes should be made up, each a strong color. Pint Mason jars will do to keep the dyes in. Dilute the dye in small bowls, a bowl for each color.

The process of tying the handkerchief may be done in one or two ways. Fold the square and pick up a portion in the fingers. Wind string tightly around this "point" of cloth, and tie and cut the string. Several points can be tied in one square. Each time all four thicknesses are caught, the little pattern thus formed will be repeated four times. After experimenting you will find out how to pick up the cloth so as to produce a square, a circle, or an oblong shape.

The other method suggested is to wind the point and, without trying and cutting the string, proceed to the next point. This is the method used in the Orient, the unwinding, when one comes to that, being greatly facilitated.

This part, the winding, takes the most patience on the part of the children.

The dyeing is more thrilling. Dip the entire handkerchief in clean water and wring it out until almost dry. Then dip the tied points in different colors, in such combinations that you think will be pleasing. From experience the writer suggests a few color schemes. Red, orange and yellow will be gay. Pinks and lavenders combine nicely. Blue and blue greens and green will be effective. Remember that except where tied, one color will "run" into another sometimes resulting in a (muddy or unpleasant color.

Now wring out all the liquid you can and untie the knots taking great care not to let one point touch another. Your pattern made by the points is often amusing and surprising. Be sure to hold the square until dry, over heat if it is available, as for instance the radiator, the oven or the register. If hung on a line while wet or laid on a radiator, streaks will result, spoiling nice work. When quite dry press out.

When working with dyes, other gifts suggest themselves. A half dozen handkerchiefs, each a different color in pastel tints, makes a dainty present. A large silk handkerchief can be tied and dyed for a scarf. Picot the edges of a yard and a half of crepe de chine and tie and dye it. A very stunning scarf will result. Children can make cunning Christmas cards by pasting Christmas Seals on correspondence cards, and lettering a simple greeting beside or under the seal. Of course if they want to draw or paint the necessary decoration, so much the better. The result though not perhaps perfect in execution, will please the recipient none the less.

Scrap books on stiff muslin pink or blue with "nickel" edges are pretty gifts for children and can be made by children. Color pictures from magazines and ads, pictures of animals, or of children playing games, all these are interesting and can be prettily arranged on the pages.

For the kiddies who are fond of dolls, or animals, the mother who has imagination can make several unusual gifts by making characters from story books. Using the illustration of that old favorite as a guide, Peter Rabbit himself can step out of the pages, stuffed with cotton and wearing his little jacket of blue. Also there's "Brer Rabbit." Joe Chandler Harris has so kindly created for us.

Among the characters for dolls for wee wees, are many, many well-known girls. Little Red Riding Hood seems to come first. Then there is Alice in Wonderland, and Little Miss Muffet, and the Queen of Hearts, and Old Mother Goose, and ever so many others to be found in the Mother Goose rhymes.

And lest we forget, there's Puss in Boots and the Little Pig who went to market, and Old Mother Hubbard and her dog.

For several of these characters an ordinary doll can be used, and properly costumed. Some young folks will enjoy crepe paper dollies, especially if they can be dressed and undressed.

And don't let's forget a Rabbit slumber doll for the littlest fellow. It is made of a woolly scarf. Fold the scarf double, fringes together. At the other end pull out two long pieces for ears and tie with a string. Make a nose of thread, and shoe buttons for eyes. Stuff the head with cotton, tie again for then neck. Short pieces for paws are tied next. Then the long sides are sewed up, stuffed, with cotton and sewed up under the fringe. A gingham apron is a good dress for this rabbit. What could be nicer to cuddle, hug and sleep on?

THEY WILL EXPECT IT

Christmas Day is drawing near and with its approach every housewife is preparing good things for this annual festival. Don't forget Gray's Velvet Ice Cream. Your guests will expect it, and because of its delectable flavor and unexcelled quality it is eminently worthy of a place in the most elaborate Christmas spread. In bricks or in bulk. Phone your order to 209 and have it delivered. Gray's Wholesale. Dec. 11-24.

"SIX FEET in his boots!" exclaimed the listener. "Nonsense! Why they might as well tell me that the man has six heads in his hat!"
"I'M GOING to start a comedy company on the road, in a couple of weeks," said the theatrical manager.
"What play?" asked the critic.
"Oh, I haven't got that written yet, but I heard a good joke to-day that we can use in it."

SHOP EARLY!

WHEN SANTA CLAUS was a little, jolly, round young man, paying annual visits to the occasional believer scattered throughout Central Europe he, like all modest-minded persons, probably dreamed of the vortex of popularity into which he was to be drawn in his hale old age. In those peaceful days his petitions were contented with a pointed religious symbol or sacred toy, or, perhaps, an extra bowl of vassail. It was the easiest life imaginable—no early leave-taking from Mr. Santa at the North Pole home, no exhausting trip with a load of mechanical toys, vacuum cleaners, silk lingerie, and many et ceteras, drawn by several dozen frisky reindeer, no awful burden of correspondence to shoulder, and no Sunday school Christmas trees to manage. He slipped noiselessly from one fire-side to another with his sack of simple gifts, refused to work more than an eight hour night, and flew back to Mrs. Santa in time for dinner. "Santa consider that he kept getting rounder and jollier."

Now that he is white-headed and bearded, he looks back wistfully to the leisurely beginning of his business—innocently, but not regretfully.

For with changed customs have come changed conveniences, and he finds a thousand aids to the age of labor saving devices. Catalogues, specific gift suggestions, purchasing services, honest salesmanship, each reach out a helping hand, and, though the actual load of presents taxes the strength of all the reindeer, the mental anxiety, to a great extent, has been eliminated.

The wise Santa shops early in the month and in the day. The earlier the day and hour of shopping, the wider the selection, the fresher the goods, and the politer the sales-people. Who has not had experiences in hectic last-minute buying that disillusion one as to the delights of the Yule-tide season? An uncivilized mob treads on your toes; an uncivil shopper blames you for treading on his; the weary eyes of clerks stab you accusingly. It is all chaos.

Contrast this picture with another. In it there is no suggestion of undue haste or turmoil, or jagged nerves. The wise person, who has listed the necessary purchases the previous day, makes a point of being in the stores at least before 10 o'clock; she shops serenely, and, therefore, satisfactorily, from her own point of view and that of the clerk. She will enjoy Christmas itself because she has enjoyed the preliminaries.

Approaching the captain one day he asked: "How far are we from land, captain?"

"Oh, about three miles!" said the official.

"Only three miles?" said the passenger. "Then it's funny we can't see it."

"Oh," returned the skipper, "that's because the water isn't clear enough!"

"Perhaps it did; but I fail to see how that proves it a benefit to humanity."

Here and There

Agricultural products harvested in British Columbia during 1923 were nearly $4,000,000 in excess of the 1922 total, according to the annual report of the provincial department of agriculture. Total production for 1923 was $59,169,798.

The ninth winter carnival at Banff, Alta., will be held from February 7 to 14, 1925. The curling bonspiel in connection with the carnival will run concurrently from February 9 to 14. Revelstoke has fixed its carnival dates for February 8 and 9, 1925.

Tourists to the number of 100,000 are estimated to have entered the Province of Nova Scotia during the past season. These people have left approximately $7,600,000 in the province, an increase of 25 per cent. over the previous year. The number of motor cars entering the province during the tourist season exceeded 11,000.

JIMMIE CAME back from the circus much excited.

"Oh, mama," he cried as soon as he got in the house. "Mary spiled some nuts and what do you suppose the elephant did? He picked them all up with his vacuum cleaner."

Rex Beach, the eminent American author, was recently in New Brunswick as a guest of W. G. McIntyre. On leaving for his home in the United States at the conclusion of his visit, Mr. Beach expressed himself as a strong booster for the hunting and fishing possibilities of the province, charmed with its scenic beauties, delighted with its people and solemnly proposing to return with his gang next year.

The largest and one of the most valuable shipments of foxes ever to pass through Montreal, Que., by Dominion Express Company, was handled by that organization recently. There were 35 animals in the shipment, valued at $17,000, 30 being silverblack foxes and the rest black foxes. The former were destined for exhibition at Minneapolis, while the latter went to different points in the Canadian West.

The Eastern International Dog-Sled Derby, which was so successful last year, will again be held at Quebec in 1925, the dates set being February 19th, 20th and 21st. As on former occasions, the distance to be covered will be 120 miles, at an average rate of 40 miles a day. Earl Bridges, of La Pas, Manitoba, now holds the handsome trophy awarded for the race and is expected to defend his honors. Many teams are already working out.

A decided acquisition to Trois Rivieres, Que., is the new Canadian Pacific Railway station, which was opened there on November 8th. The building is Italian in design. Rose and MacDonald, of Montreal, were the architects. Remarkable speed was made in the construction, as the contract for the work was only signed on June 2nd last. The opening ceremony was performed by Grant Hall, vice-president of the company, in the presence of many notables.

Three moose and one deer was the total bag of W. H. Lewis, Jr., young American multi-millionaire, and his friends, Nils Florman, Albert Hopkins, Paul Smith and Mortimer Davis, Jr., as the result of their recent hunting trip into the Xipama district. The leader of the party expressed himself as delighted with the results, as he hoped for such luck. Titles of game are given.

EDITOR'S MAIL

Editor's Mail.
 Campbellton, P.Q., Dec. 13, 1924.
 Editor, Graphic.

Will you please spare me space in your paper to make a vigorous protest against the way my brother Len has been deprived of his right to fish smelt on the shore formerly held by our uncle, the late Fred Gaudin. Of course I am aware that smelt license are not transferable, but until the present, I have never heard of anyone losing his license after having had them the previous year and fulfilling all the demands of the Government, simply because he is accused of holding a different political belief than the Government.

I have not been asked to write this letter neither do I know I am writing it, as I have never seen Len since he was deprived of his just rights. But I am prompted to do so by the very same reasons which caused me to write the demand for the restoration of the smelt license to my brother, by the way, when I think of the injustice done to my brother, I am filled with indignation and I am sure a fair and honest government would not permit such a thing.

The more I think of the injustice done to my brother, the more I am convinced that in this case my brother makes no difference to me as I would do the same for any other man. The stand in question has been fished by the Gaudin family for thirty years or more and it was from a Conservative Government they first got their license and although they were staunch Liberals no one ever tried to rob them of their license for that, or any reason. Well, to be brief, Len Court fished the stand for the last two seasons. The fact was divided equally between them, and just within the last Mr. Gaudin perceived that his end was near, as he had been informed that he had an incurable disease, had his partner take out a license in his own name in order to hold the stand when he was gone, and he also gave him all his fishing equipment as a gift. I was present when he asked Len to get the license in his own name as he said "some one might be bad enough to try and rob him of the stand when he was gone." Of course he never suspected it would be the usurper who has it now as he always believed him to be a true friend of the family, which he certainly appeared to be. So much confidence did the deceased put in his supposed life long friend that he even appointed him his executor. Surely the deal must have turned in his grave when his neighbor of fifty years when he respected so much was reaching out his hand to take the license from Fred's favorite nephew, who he so dearly valued and who he had been so kind as to give him the stand. It is difficult to understand how a man brought up in a Christian Community, under the shadow of the Church could do such an unchristian act as to deprive a poor man with a large family of his livelihood, of his chief means of providing for them when he himself is worth thousands of dollars according to his own story and knows nothing about fishing. It is doubtful if he could tell a smelt net from a hare net. He said I would not be surprised if his hair nets he buys as they are so cheap now as bobbed hair is all the rage, and I know he is not far from spending money. I wonder if he ever heard of the Commandment "Love thy neighbor as thyself" or the golden rule "Do unto others what you would have them do to you." When the Divine Master says "What shall I profit if I gain the whole world and lose myself?" What shall we think of a man who will run the risk of losing his soul in order to gain a few blinks. Now Mr. Editor if it were the mere incident of Court losing his fishing, unjust as it is, I would hesitate to make all this fuss about it. But it is the principle involved which I am protesting so vehemently. It is creating a vicious precedent for if one Liberal can step in and take a fishing stand from a Conservative, well so can any other providing they are small enough and free to do such an unchristian act. Of course I do not think there is any immediate danger of the rest of the Conservatives who hold good stands losing them, as most all of the Liberals around here are honest upright gentlemen, who would scorn to rob their neighbor of his fishing rights simply because they held different opinions on what was best for their country. But the great danger is, if it becomes lawful for Liberals in general to drive Conservatives out of their stands that a horde of unscrupulous scoundrels posing as true Liberals may come from other places wherever they are, and meanly depraved and dishonest enough and take over the fishing stands from the natives who were not Liberals and then in the event of a change of Government they could do likewise. Think of the confusion it would make. If the fishing industry is to be taken over by the Liberals, it costs hundreds of dollars to rig out for fishing and the equipment they stand might not do at all for the Liberals as it all depends on the depth of water and currents, etc., what kinds of nets and pickets must be used.

For who does not regret that the Kangaroo has taken place to disturb the peace and harmony among the neighbors and fishermen. I am not intending this as an attack upon the Kangaroo, as I honestly believe they have been misinformed about the real facts of the case, as I cannot conceive of our hitherto popular Minister of Fisheries willfully taking a fishing stand from a poor man who is striving to earn an honest living for a large family and giving it to a man who has no children depending on him for a dollar and who goes about blatantly boasting of his money. No, I cannot believe that any responsible Minister of the Crown would be a liar so manifestly as to say that as soon as he hears the facts of the matter he will do his best to restore the stand to its rightful owner. For if this trouble is not settled it will do more to harm the fishing industry here than twenty years of a Liberal Government could do. In a case as both Liberals and Conservatives are agreed that Len Court has been badly used and I challenge the Government to all this trouble is not settled it will do more to harm the fishing industry here than twenty years of a Liberal Government could do. In a case as both Liberals and Conservatives are agreed that Len Court has been badly used and I challenge the Government to all this trouble is not settled it will do more to harm the fishing industry here than twenty years of a Liberal Government could do.

FIVE N. B. MEN
FINED IN QUEBEC

Charged With Entering Car to Get Liquor—Autos Seized

Quebec, Dec. 13.—An attempt to bring a carload of illicit liquor into this province from New Brunswick was nipped in the bud early this morning by the local police who discovered five men in the act of loading the liquor into a motor truck from the freight car in which it had been shipped from the Maritime Provinces.

The five men, Albert Lapointe, Ollidas Brochu, Joseph Brochu, Joseph Cyr, of St. Leonard, N. B. and Antonio Bishop, Alias Levesque, appeared in court this forenoon and were each fined $50 and costs on a charge of breaking the seals and entering a freight car.

The freight car, the motor truck in which the men are alleged to have loaded two hundred gallons of liquor, and a limousine in which they evidently intended to make their escape are being held by the liquor commission authorities.

TO THE FRIENDS

OF CAMPBELLTON
 As the winter is coming on, we have been and are called upon daily for help. For the past few weeks there have been 25 men for help, men who were travelling looking for work, who were both hungry and with no sight in view as to where they were going to rest for a night. Some of them, with their feet out on the ground, I have given them my own shoes, have fed and also put them up by night. To keep this up it is impossible for me to do it on the present income we are getting. Any friend who would like to help the less fortunate in giving a Christmas present, please mail your cheque to Ensign White, Box 182, Campbellton, N. B. also anyone having any clothing who would like to give it to the poor phone 277 and it will be called for. Wishing all a Happy Christmas and a Prosperous New Year. Dec. 17-18.

of his stand. Was he asleep at the switch, or was he using his influence in defence of Court, as requested by the latter through the Council of E-cuminate and Mann. It is more charitable if not more reasonable to believe the latter at any rate. We expect to have this mystery cleared up, even if we have to ask the opposition leader, Mr. Stave to bring a bill to the House when next the Legislature assembles. Now thank you for your speech Mr. Editor, I am Quebec expects to raise $400,000 from a two-cent tax on gasoline for the year ending April 30th, 1925. A large number of foreign car owners, who used Quebec roads, but paid nothing for their construction, contributed to this gasoline tax fund. That is as it should be.

REPAIRS TO MANSE
Extensive repairs are being made to St. John's Presbyterian manse under the direction of the Ladies Aid. An arch has been cut in the partition between the rooms on the east side of the dwelling making the two into one large room. New electric fixtures have been added and hardwood floors laid. The organization will have a manse equal to any in the North Shore. The repairs have been executed by Ex-Armyman N. McKillop, McNeill and the cost undertaken by the energetic Ladies Aid Society. On Thursday evening a chicken supper was held by the Ladies Aid in the basement hall of the church. It was a very delightful and successful affair, the handsome sum of $70.00 having been realized for the repair fund of the manse.

The entertainment given in St. Mary's Hall on Friday evening by the pupils of Miss K. Doyle, was much appreciated by the large audience of parents and friends.

LAST VESSEL CLEARED

Dalhousie, N. B. Dec. 16.—The barque "Alfred" which loaded for the Stetson Cutler Co. Ltd., at Campbellton, and which sailed from that port on Thursday, Dec. 11th, towed out by the steam tug "Lord Roberts" ran around a couple of miles below Campbellton, in a dense fog.

By good management the vessel, which is the last outgoing ship from the Restigouche, was able to reach Dalhousie port on Friday, 11th and remained at anchor outside of Inch.

When about 5 o'clock, after a lot of trouble hoisting the anchors, the vessel set sail and went into the Bay of Chaleur, driven by a stiff west wind.

The long delay in the Dalhousie Harbour, was caused by the need of two sailors, the crew being insufficient to undertake the voyage to Buenos Ayres.

On Saturday evening two sailors arrived from Montreal, and by the energetic efforts of Alderman Arthur Thompson, the sailors were taken to the barque in spite of a heavy wind and running ice.

IN WINTER QUARTERS

Capt. Frank J. Allard of Carleton, P. Q. arrived in the Dalhousie Harbour on Sunday evening with his tug boat "The Lord Roberts" just in time to place the vessel in winter quarters.

Shortly after his arrival a strong breeze of west wind with real cold weather, making ice between the Dalhousie Ferry wharf and the breakwater made Capt. Allard a thankful man, that he had not delayed even one day longer.

Consulted as to his plans for the establishment of a regular Steam Ferry-Service on the Restigouche River and upper part of Bay Chaleur, during the summer of 1925, he said that it all depended on the action of the Federal, Quebec and New Brunswick Governments as to subsidies.

When the different parties were in session during the winter, the question would receive serious consideration on his part. Capt. Allard resides in Carleton, P. Q. just 12 miles from Dalhousie and is one of Quebec's finest summer sportsmen, two large hotels and several cottages.

Mr. LaBille, Vice President for the County of Restigouche for the N. B. Tourist and Resources Association, received a letter on Monday, dated at Ottawa, Dec. 12th, advising him of the Dept. of Public Works having authorized an additional cost of $30.42 the moving of the slip at the Minganah Wharf, opposite Dalhousie, N. B. on the east side instead of in the center, so as to afford more shelter from a prevailing westerly wind.

Mr. LaBille is satisfied that the new extension will be very satisfactory to the general travelling public.

"One of the things for which Canada is most to be congratulated is that she has established a system of education that compares favorably with any in the world. Canada is a nation of literates, she has a remarkably small proportion of illiterates," stated the Right Hon. H. A. Fisher, former Minister of Education in the British government, when disembarking at Montreal.

One of the many gifts offered by enthusiastic individuals to the Prince of Wales on his visit, the majority of which he could not, for obvious reasons accept, was a package of French-Canadian tobacco grown on a farm at St. Rock, P.Q., situated near the boundaries of Montreal and Assomption counties.

In a letter from the Alberta ranch the Prince through his secretary thanked the donor for the gift.

A cablegram from London, England, quotes an article in the "Financial News" dealing with the British Empire Exhibitions. It stresses the exceptionally fine exhibit staged by Canada and the unquestionable benefit to trade relations it has effected. The article pays a high tribute to the Canadian Pacific Railway exhibit, describing the railway's gorgeously illuminated map of Canada, with its 5,000 incandescent lights as probably the most brilliant specimen of cartography ever seen at the exhibition or elsewhere.

It has been announced that H. J. Logan, M.P. for Cumberland, will accompany the Minister of Trade and Commerce to the West Indies to negotiate a new reciprocal treaty with those islands. The general purpose of the visit is to admit West Indian commodities free in return for Canadian manufacturers receiving similar treatment, the products of the two countries being entirely dissimilar. It is also hoped to build up a direct system of importations through Canadian ports instead of through the United States, by which route a great proportion of West Indian products now come to Canada.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has appointed P. A. Cox, general agent, at Shanghai, and E. F. L. Sturges, acting general passenger agent for the Orient, to be general passenger agent for the Orient, with headquarters at Hongkong. Lee Soloway, recently appointed Asiatic freight agent, with offices at Montreal, and supervision over Oriental and Australasian traffic via Pacific ports, has the distinction of being the youngest official in the Canadian Pacific Service. He was born in Vancouver, in 1895, and has been in the steamship freight service 14 years.

The winners of the Canadian Pacific Railway's Ontario bungalow camps fishing trophy competitions for 1924 were announced recently. The French River competition resulted in two competitors tying in fish almost identically alike. In this contest a tie was declared. The successful anglers were D. W. L. Hawkins, New York City, and H. H. Champ, Hamilton, Ontario, each entering a small pound bass weighing exactly 4 pounds. The winning fish at Niagara River Camp was a 6 pound, 13 ounce trout, caught by William Metzger, Detroit, Michigan.

The Devil's Gap (Lake of the Woods) trophy was won by J. A. Furlong, Winnipeg, Manitoba, who entered a muscalunge weighing 20 pounds, 8 ounces.

Ernie Golden Musical Director Finds Visitors Full of Sentiment

No delegates to the Democratic Convention were heard to admit that New York was too snooty for them. But Ernie Golden, director of the orchestra at the famous McAlpin Hotel, they had at least to have their dances loved up!

"It was the strangest thing," Mr. Golden relates, "but I received hundreds of requests to slow down the tempo of the music. I was playing at the rate New Yorkers demand, which is a pretty good clip, and the floors were covered during most of two weeks with convention visitors. They applauded more heartily than New Yorkers, but I noticed that some of them dropped out before the dances were over, almost as if they were winded. To this I didn't know whether that was it, or whether it was just that they thought more new music would be enjoyed by New Yorkers."

"When I asked them what was the matter, they said they were used to pieces like 'Maytime' which really gives the dancer time to be graceful. When I played 'Maytime' they were perfectly happy and, believe me, put on some wonderful exhibitions of dilly-dally dancing, which had any New Yorker flapper I ever saw, beaten a mile."

Canada Book Week was held from December 1 to 6 this year. Addresses, radio broadcasting and special displays in stores throughout the country drew attention to the objects of the week, which are to promote the reading of good books generally and to foster Canadian literature. The week was, as usual, a distinct success.

The foolhardy recklessness of certain motorists was recently strikingly illustrated at a public crossing on the Canadian Pacific Railway line at Blind River, Ontario, when a speeding auto approached the crossing so rapidly that the driver was unable to pull up, and ran his car into the side of a train which was passing at the time. Fortunately, no one was injured.

In recognition of its excellent exhibits at the 1924 exhibition at Toronto, the Canadian Pacific Railway has been awarded one of the medals specially struck off for presentation to the Dominion and Provincial governments, and to a limited number of other exhibitors whose high class entries in the live stock and agricultural departments won them championship prizes.

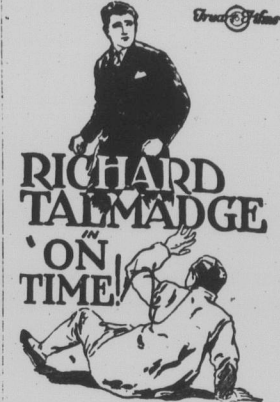

The plans for the construction of an immense amusement centre at Victoria, B.C., to be called the Crystal Gardens, have just been announced by the Canadian Pacific Railway, which is responsible for the scheme. The gardens will include a salt water swimming pool 150 feet long, and a series of dancing floors, with tea rooms and gymnasiums. Great quantities of plants, vines and shrubs will be grown in the structure, which is on the lines of a vast conservatory, containing 86,000 square feet of glazed glass roof surface.

A considerable increase in the sheep population of Canada, which has declined since 1920 from 2,255,029 to 1,575,000, is expected as a result of the recent importation by Alberta ranchers of 400 Ramucos rams. These animals are merinos, with fine wool, bred in France from Spanish merino stock. Louis XVI obtained the first flock as a gift from the King of Spain. A herd of 20,000 western range ewes will be provided for the Alberta purchase. The enterprise is important on account of the prevailing world shortage of wool.

CHRISTMAS LETTER
I'm always glad when Christmas comes, and yet I'd like it better if Mother wouldn't sit me down to write a Christmas letter. To Uncle John and Cousin Kate and dear old Grandpa Gray. And all these presents come to me from places far away. Of course I love my presents, and if people should forget her, No little girl, my mother says, need send a Christmas letter.

But oh! the ink makes awful blots, though I try to do real well. And when you write them out of school, all words are hard to spell. I mean to mind my mother, she's so kind I would not fret her. But when she says, "Stop playing, dear, and write this Christmas letter," it's just the thing I hate to hear, and if I dared, I wouldn't. Remember how to hold a pen; I'd make believe I couldn't.

Crystal Garden For Pacific Coast Playground

This drawing of the exterior of the new Crystal Garden, Victoria, B.C., gives a good idea as to the part plan will play in its construction. In design it is not unlike the Crystal Palace which Londoners are familiar with.

British Columbians are almost abnormally proud of their Capital City—Victoria. They will admit that its streets are not blocked with traffic, and that its shops are perhaps not of the most modern type, but give them an opportunity to talk of Parliament House Buildings, the Provincial Museum, the Library, the Spanish Mountain Observatory, the Empress Hotel, St. James Park, the golf links, the motoring roads, the Beacon Hill Park, and they will not let it go by. And they are justifiably proud of their city. It is indeed beautiful, and in a beautiful setting. Rudyard Kipling once wrote of it "To realize Victoria you must take all that the eye admires most in Bournemouth, Torquay and the Isle of Wight, the Happy Valley at Hong Kong, the Doon at Sorrento and Camps Bay; add reminiscences of the Thousand Isles, and arrange the whole around the Bay of Naples with some Himalayas in the background."

Follow the sunshine to "Victoria," might be a fitting slogan to use in attracting visitors to the capital city of British Columbia. Year by year it is becoming more popular as a winter resort, particularly among people from the Prairie Provinces who find in it an escape from the cold and snow of the winter at home. The average annual rainfall only approximates twenty-seven inches, while the temperature during the winter months allows for open air sports, drives and all that goes with outdoor life, and permits the seasonal flowers to bloom in wild profusion.

Five or six golf courses, open the year round, are features of the tourist attractions of Victoria, and when one comes to this city overlooking the Straits of Juan de Fuca, he finds that like the bag of Santa Claus, it holds something for everyone.

One could not write of Victoria without writing about its parks and gardens, public and private. Nowhere in the world are they scattered in such profusion or do they strike such a gorgeous, yet harmonious note as they do in this city. Perhaps the most popular of the public places is Beacon Hill Park, which contains 300 acres laid out as recreation grounds and pleasure gardens, within 15 minutes walk of the Empress Hotel. The Butchart Sunken Gardens, a veritable fairy land of flowers, shrubs, lawns, lake and waterfall, artificially constructed in an old quarry, are a never failing source of delight, and he who is possessed of a scientific mind, or is merely just interested will find much to admire from the astrophysical observatory on Spanish Mountain. Here he will find the second largest telescope in the world.

For the motorist, more than a thousand miles of splendid highway are open, and these he can enjoy for days at a time, making short trips from Victoria to neighboring bays, towns and villages, or tours which may be extended to a week or more. Good fishing is available off

BATHURST TO HAVE NEW SCHOOL HOUSE

Citizens Vote to Construct $80,000 Building—To Obtain Site.

Bathurst, N. B., Dec. 15.—The ratepayers of School District No. 2 unanimously agreed to the scheme for the erection of a six room school building with assembly hall in 1925 and authorized the issuing of bonds for $80,000 for that purpose at a well attended meeting held this evening at the Court House. J. L. Ryan, chairman of the school trustees, presided.

The project to erect a composite vocational school was abandoned because it was considered impossible to complete the building in the time limit for the Government grant. Authority was also given the trustees to purchase or obtain by legal means a site for the proposed school. I. J. Power, secretary, pointed out that the issuing of bonds for $80,000 would increase the rate for school purposes by 50 per cent. The present rate is 1 per cent, and the new rate will be 1 1/2 per cent.

The Steamer was only a few feet from the quay when there was a sudden commotion and a man came running madly from the dock gates, shouting to the officials to wait a moment.

Without pausing in his stride, he hung his bag on to the boat and took a desperate leap. "Good!" he gasped, as he was assisted to his feet. "Just did it. A few seconds later and I should have missed it."

"Missed it!" exclaimed one of the passengers. "This boat is just coming in!"

ONE DAY he bought a roll-top desk, and when it arrived he said to his partner: "The one desk will do for the two of us. And here are two keys, one for you and one for me."

His partner took the key, but seemed to study the desk.

"That's all right," he said, "but where is my keyhole?"

Anticipating that this season will see the beginning of a large tourist movement toward Vancouver Island, the Canadian Pacific is planning to considerably augment its service between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle, and for this run two new steamships, the largest ever to be placed in service on the Pacific Coast, are now being completed. The first, the "Princess Kathleen," will make her initial run early in the new year when she will considerably facilitate the movement of the large number of vacationists and tourists who choose to visit British Columbia, and particularly Vancouver Island at that time. The "Princess Marguerite" will go into regular service two months later.

GOLDEN

Weeks with convention visitors. They applauded more heartily than New Yorkers, but I noticed that some of them dropped out before the dances were over, almost as if they were winded. To this I attributed I don't know whether that was it, or whether it was that they thought more was to come. When I asked them what was the matter, they said they were used to pieces like 'Maytime' which really gives the dancer time to be graceful. When I played 'Maytime' they were perfectly happy and, believe me, put on some wonderful exhibitions of dilatory dancing, which had any New York fopper I ever saw beaten a mile.

The Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian Church held a very successful chicken supper in the basement of the church on Thursday evening.

44 YEARS IN THE MINISTRY

Rev. Patrick William Dixon, P. P., Newcastle, completed 44 years of faithful service in the Catholic priesthood on Thursday, having been ordained on Dec. 13, 1879. On Dec. 8 he celebrated his 79th year and has been in charge of St. Mary's Church, Newcastle parish for 53 years. Fr. Dixon's scholarly attainments are well known throughout the Maritime Provinces.

ISSUED UNDER DIFFICULTIES

Because the power was off Thursday morning and very poor during the past three or four days, The Graphic is a day late this week. Had we dared to fill our columns with plain matter of little interest to our readers we might have issued on time but we decided it would be in the best wishes of our subscribers to work patiently on and thus fill our columns with the latest local news. We trust that the delay will not disappoint our numerous readers throughout the district.

We sincerely trust that hydro will not be further delayed.

The Central Book Store for Bargains.

The sale of fancy and useful articles held in Clifford's drug store on Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of St. Mary's Church, W. A. was a gratifying success.

ATTRACTIVE WINDOWS

With the big rush for Christmas gifts still to come local merchants are making still further preparations for Xmas shoppers.

Fresh Christmas goods is arriving daily and new displays are constantly appearing. In the last few days several new window displays have greeted us on our way to the office. All of these are particularly attractive, and present among the later ones are those of McRae's Shoe Store, the Barthe-Ruel Millinery Parlor, the Central Book Store and Renault's Hardware Store.

These together with the long list mentioned last week make a walk through the town at this season very interesting indeed.

A Special New Years Dance will be held at the Linnae New Years night. Several novelties on the program.

For useful gifts try Renault's.

CROSSING ON ICE

The frost since Sunday has been sufficient to close the river, and now pedestrians are crossing on the ice.

Mr. Fred Fraser and quite a number of others crossed from wharf to wharf Wednesday. Care however has to be exercised as there are yet open spots, or places very thinly covered.

SCHOOL CLOSING.

The Academy and Roseberry Street Schools are holding their closing exercises in the several departments this afternoon from two till four o'clock.

The closing exercises in the different rooms at the Grammar School will begin at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, while the formal closing will be held in the Assembly Hall at 11 o'clock. Parents and others are cordially invited to attend.

The Great Impersonation

A stirring story of love and adventure. By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM
One of the famous author's best.
Published by arrangement with The British & Colonial Press Limited.

The incredible had happened. The long discussed war—the nightmare of the nervous, the derision of the optimist—had actually materialized. The happy-go-lucky, years of peace and plenty had suddenly come to an end. Black tragedy leaped over the land.

Dominey, avoiding acquaintances as far as possible, his own mind in a vicious turmoil, passed down St. James's Street and along Pall Mall and presented himself at Carlton House Terrace. Externally, the great white building, with its rows of flower boxes showed no signs of undue perturbation. Inside, however, the anteroom was crowded with callers, and it was only by the intervention of Terloff's private secretary, who was awaiting him, that Dominey was able to reach the inner sanctum where the Ambassador was busy dictating letters. He broke off immediately his visitor was announced and dismissed every one, including his secretaries. Then he locked the door. "Von Ragsenstein," he groaned, "I am a broken man!"

Dominey grasped his hand sympathetically. Terloff seemed to have aged years even in the last few hours. "I sent for you," he continued, "to say farewell and to make a confession. You were right, and I was wrong. It would have been better if I had remained and played the country farmer on my estates. I was never shrewd enough to see until now that I have been made the cat's-paw of the very men whose policy I always condemned."

His visitor still remained silent. There was so little that he could say. "I have worked for peace," Terloff went on, "believing that my country wanted peace. I have worked for peace with honourable men who were just as anxious as I was to secure it. But all the time those for whom I laboured were making faces behind my back. I was nothing more or less than their tool. I know now that nothing in the world could have hindered what is coming."

"Every one will at last realize," Dominey reminded him, "that you did your best for peace."
"That is one reason why I sent for you," was the curt reply. "Not long ago I spoke of a little volume, a diary which I have been keeping of my work in this country. I promised to show it to you. You have an hour for that, I am going to show it to you now. It is written up to yesterday. It will tell you of all my efforts and how they were foiled. It is an absolutely faithful narrative of my work here and the English response to it."

The Prince crossed the room, unlocked one of the smaller safes, which stood against the side of the wall, the size of a small portfolio, and returned to Dominey.

"I beg you," he said earnestly, "to read this with the utmost care and to await my instructions with regard to it. You can judge for yourself. I am going to show it to you now. It is written up to yesterday. It will tell you of all my efforts and how they were foiled. It is an absolutely faithful narrative of my work here and the English response to it."

"I am not sure," she answered, a little mysteriously. "You see, in the country I still remember sometimes that awful night when I so nearly lost my reason. I have never seen you look as you looked that night."

"You know the proverb about the old man," he had replied. "His mind had wandered for a moment. He realized Rosamund's question with a little start."

"I think so. Don't I seem so to you?"
She shook her head.
"I am not sure," she answered, a little mysteriously. "You see, in the country I still remember sometimes that awful night when I so nearly lost my reason. I have never seen you look as you looked that night."

"That is the strange part of it," she replied. "There is nothing in the world I want so much to do. There's a mystery about it. You see, in the country I still remember sometimes that awful night when I so nearly lost my reason. I have never seen you look as you looked that night."

CHAPTER XXVIII
Within the course of the next few days a strange rumour spread through Dominey and the district. From the farm labourer to the farmer, from the school children to their homes, from the village postoffice to the neighbourhood, a gang of woodmen from a neighbouring country, with an engine and all the machinery of their craft, had started to work razing to the ground everything in the shape of tree or shrub at the north end of the Black Wood. The matter of war was promptly forgotten. Before the second day, every man, woman and child in the place had paid an awed visit to the outskirts of the wood, had listened to the whirr of machinery, had gazed upon the great bridge of planks leading into the wood, had peered, in the hope of some strange discovery, into the tents of the men who were camping out. The men themselves were not communicative, and the first time the foreman had been known to open his mouth was when Dominey waded down to discuss progress, on the morning after his arrival.

"It's a dirty bit of work, sir," he confessed. "I don't know as I ever came across a bit of woodland as was so utterly hopelessly rotten. Why, the wood crumbles when you touch it, and the men have to be within reach of one another the whole time, though we've a matter of five hundred planks down there."

"Come across anything unusual yet?"
"We ain't come across anything that isn't unusual as far as I'm men are all wearing extra leggings to keep them from being bitten by their ailers—as long as my arm, some on 'em. And there's fungus there which, when you touch it, sends out a smoky enough to make a strong man faint. We killed the first day, as big and fierce as a young tigress. It's a queer job, sir."

"How long will it take?"
"I don't know."
