St. Fillan's Cemetery.

The new trustees of St. Fillan's cemetery, regularly elected by the plot owners some weeks ago—Messrs. W. A. Cram, R. D. Carmichael and Thomas McCuan—have suggested that the proper name of this cemetery be used as much as possible. The name of St. Fillan was given to the cemetery when the land was originally decided by the early settlers, but custom has caused it to be known as "Cram's," which is a misnomer. The suggestion is a good one, and we are satisfied that once the general public is conversant with the facts that the correct name will be used.

Accident at the Ranges.

While working at the Connaught Rifle Ranges, South March, last Thursday morning Henry Albert, a laborer aged 70 years of Ottawa, met with serious injuries. He was engaged in a deep drain for sewerage purposes when the sides caved in covering him up so that he had to be dug out. His right leg was broken near the hip and his face and head cut up considerably. Dr. O. M. Groves dressed his wounds, after which a motor ambulance came up from Ottawa and took him to Water Street Hospital. This is not Mr. Albert's first painful experience, as he had both legs broken and a couple of toes taken off in other accidents.—Carp Review.

Hockey Team Reorganized.

At a meeting held last Wednesday evening the Ragged Seven Hockey Club was reorganized for the season of 1915-16. The name of the club has been changed, and henceforth it will be known as the Royal Hockey Club. The team has lost some of last year's players, some having enlisted for active service, and others having moved from town, but plenty of material is on hand, and everything points to another successful season for the purple and gold. The following were elected officers of the club: Hon. patrons, Mayor Smythe, Dr. J. A. McEwen, F. A. J. Davis; pres., John Bennett; vice-pres., Moore Knowles; secretary, F. McDiarmid; treasurer, H. Sinclair; committee, G. Gordon, R. Munshaw, L. Abel, L. Hughes, L. Devlin; manager, Frank Robertson.

Abraham Dowdall of Ramsay.

Mr. Abraham Dowdall, whose home is on the 1st concession Ramsay, passed away yesterday morning after a lengthy illness, of heart trouble. The deceased was born in Beckwith and was 61 years of age. In 1879 he married Eliza Thompson, youngest daughter of the late Robert Thompson, who with one daughter (Ettie), Mrs. J. H. Kidd, survives. Mr. Dowdall, has resided in the Boyd's district, and was held in the highest esteem by his neighbors and those who knew him best. A member of Methodist church, the funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon from his late home to Boyd's church and cemetery. During his lengthy illness, borne with patience and resignation, his strong christian faith was never known to waver and the "crossing of the bar," had no terrors for him. The bereaved family have the deep sympathy of many friends in their hour of sorrow.

Caldwell-Gillies.

A marriage of more than usual interest was solemnized in St. Andrew's church last Thursday morning, at 10 o'clock, when Miss Elsie Ross Gillies, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Gillies, was united in wedlock to Captain William Ronald Caldwell, Second Canadian Pioneer Battalion, C.E.F., youngest son of the late W. C. Caldwell, M.P.P., and Mrs. Caldwell, of Lanark. The church was tastefully decorated with union jacks, evergreens and flowers for the occasion. The groom was in uniform, as were also Col. Clyde Caldwell, brother of the groom, and Major A. B. Gillies, brother of the bride, who acted as escorts to the bridal pair, who were unattended, and gave the function a real military tinge. Rev. J. J. Yonds, M.A., officiated, and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Mondis sang the bridal hymn, "O Fair, O Sweet, O Holy." The bride who was given away by her father, was attired in a travelling suit of navy blue, with black velvet hat and white fox furs, and carried a bunch of beauty roses, as beautiful a bride as ever stood before the altar. Before the ceremony and after, the organist played appropriate music on the organ. The wedding party motored at once to the depot and took the train for Montreal, where the groom's regiment is at present located. Among the out-of-town guests present were, Mrs. W. C. and Miss Caldwell and Mr. J. Boyd Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd A. C. Caldwell, Lanark; Col. A. Clyde Caldwell and two sons, Major A. B. and Mrs. Gillies, Mrs. Helen and Miss McEwen, and Mrs. H. Allan, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jackson, Montreal; John S. and David A., and J. A. Gillies, Brantford; Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Robertson, Arnprior; Mr. and Mrs. D. W. F. Caldwell, Appleton; Mrs. A. E. and Miss Freda Frapp, and Mrs. J. R. Armstrong, Ottawa. The bride, who is one of our fairest and most popular young ladies, received a very large number of handsome gifts, including many cheques for generous amounts, prominent in the array being a Sheffield tray from Col. Davis and the officers of the groom's regiment. Although the wedding was of a private nature, the news filtered out and crowds of interested friends and well-wishers filled the church to witness the nuptials. The young couple have the best wishes of hosts of friends for a long and happy married life.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries dedicated to tired Mothers as they join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

MAKING A MAN.

Hurry the baby as fast as you can, Hurry him, worry him, make him a man. On with his baby clothes, get him in pants, Feed him on brain food and make him advance. Hustle him as soon as he is able to walk, Into the grammar school; cram him with talk. Fill his poor head full of figures and facts, Keep on a jumping them in till it cracks. Once boys grew up at a rational rate. Now we develop a man while you wait. Rush him through college, compel him to grab Of every known subject, a dip and a dab. Get him in business and after the cash, All by the time he can grow a mustache. Let him forget he was ever a boy. Make gold his god and its jingle his joy. Keep him a bustling and clear out of breath Until he wins—nervous prostration and death.

Mother, wife, daughter, sister, is it not in your power to make some one happy? Do you abandon thoughts of self sufficiently to make the happiness of more consequence than your own? Do you use all your gentle arts and influences to attain an object so desirable? Then you do not have to seek your own contentment. It comes to you in the realization that there is one heart, at least, dependent upon you for happiness. And if you realize also that the vibration of a tone carries weight, that the expression of a smile, a glance, the significance of a word, an action, may make or mar the sunshine of a day for that one and if you regard this trust more sacredly than the keeping of the most precious jewel—then you need not seek the rivalry of strange women, nor rum-shops, nor any other business or pleasure. Thus the charm of your presence gladdens the spot made most holy on earth, bearing the sacred title of home.

If you have any doubt in your mind as to the good that can come to you by living in the sunshine way, we ask you to try for one day and prove by personal experience whether or not it is worth your while to scatter sunshine. Begin at once by trying to make those about you in your home happier. Keep a sharp lookout for little opportunities of helpfulness. Be courteous and kind whenever you speak or are spoken to. Be pleasant to everyone everywhere. Be willing to sacrifice your own personal enjoyment if by doing so you can make another person happier. Do all this and see when night comes if your own heart is not

Charged with Kidnapping.

Chief Phillips, of Smiths Falls, has been playing the detective game during the week and doing it most skillfully and successfully. A week ago Sunday he received a telegram from the Montreal police asking him to be on the lookout for a man named Wm. Thompson, who was charged with kidnapping a young girl of about sixteen from that city. She was supposed to be with him. The Chief kept a keen lookout and towards the end of the week he met a girl on the street, who he thought, might be the one he wanted. He found out where she was boarding and that she gave the name of Mrs. Thompson. He went to the house yesterday took her up to his office, questioned her, got the story and later found the man working in the Frost & Wood shops. He arrested him on the charge of kidnapping the girl and at noon a Montreal officer came up and took the girl back home. It is understood that while the charge is technically kidnapping, the girl came away willingly with the man, and seemed content to remain with him. She had visited one clergyman in town to see about getting married. Her parents are prosecuting.—Rideau Record.

Self-healing Trees.

When any foreign body penetrates a tree not sufficiently to kill it, the wound cicatrizes almost in exactly the same way as a wound on the human body heads. If it did not, destructive microbes would enter and cause more or less decay of the tissues.

"Trees," writes Henri Coupin in La Nature, "are very well equipped for healing their wounds, and more fortunate than we, as an antiseptic dressing is almost automatically applied. As soon as the lesion has taken place the vegetable reacts to the wounded spot, its breathing at the same time protein matters are rushed to the scene.

"Many plants are provided with secreting canals filled with more or less gummy substances which are instantly poured out over the wounded surface and protect it. This is true especially of the conifers—pines, firs, etc.—of which the resin makes a swift and impermeable antiseptic dressing."

In trees that have little or no resin the wounded part turns brown. This is due to the appearance of a juice that seems to be a mixture of gums and tannin. And the cells of the tree start into activity, proliferating and filling up the cavity with new cells. If the wound be large these take the form of vegetable cicatricial tissue, which makes a plug and remains as a scar.

full to overflowing with peace and joy unspeakable.

DUTY.

How many times we could make our mothers, fathers, sisters and brothers happy! But for the lack of thoughtfulness we so oftentimes forget our duty until it is too late, and we make our lives a sorrow. In their disappointments, trials and troubles we could often soothe and help just by doing our duty. We forget the disappointments which come upon others, but are continually looking at those which come upon ourselves, and thereby neglect our duty. We do not think that everyone bears as great, or greater burdens than we. If we could forever keep in mind the times that we have felt depressed and how we wished for a kind, sweet word or smile, and, too, how we rejoiced to see our mother's and father's sweet face smile upon us, or give just one word of cheer. Then after we get this word of cheer, why do we forget our duty?

HOME COURTESIES.

In the close relations of members of the same household and the constant contact through long association, there is apt to be a lack of the friendly greetings and delicate attentions which are given to visitors and strangers in the household. Children are commonly not trained to see courtesies in their treatment of parents and one another. Husband and wife do not preserve their first gracious care of each other. But thoughtful and loving little services sweeten and pour the oil of joy over daily experiences. When a husband or son is prompt and helpful in placing her chair for her at the table, what woman does not feel happier?

An act of courtesy cultivates in its performer more appreciation and attachment. The spirit which prompts little attentions and the habit which preserves them will banish hard feeling, sharp words and alienations that naturally and easily come in times of difference of judgment or conflict of interest. There is no fault so hard to overcome as the hasty temper. We may make any number of good resolutions, and then the first time we have any provocation away we go without an instant's warning, and before we realize what we are doing the unkind words have been spoken, and no matter how much regret we feel they cannot be unsaid.

A New Idea for Red Cross Funds.

In this the 16th month of the war it would seem an impossibility to think of any new way by which to add to the Red Cross funds. Picnics have been held, concerts given, fortunes told, tags sold, innumerable other money-making devices put into practical execution so that the ingenuity of Canadians has been put to the severest of tests. It has remained for Mr. Henry Pearce of Victoria to suggest an original idea. Mr. Pearce in delivering a recent Red Cross speech, stated that many thousands of people possess many superfluous articles of convertible monetary value such as pictures, jewelry, furniture, china, curios, books, glassware, which they would be pleased to donate to the Red Cross. His suggestion is that the Red Cross everywhere hold a series of "Superfluity Sales" which if run on proper business lines with some popular effects of auctioneering would bring large sums of money into the Red Cross coffers. This seems on the face of it an excellent idea. It would turn property which no one would grudge into wealth which the Red Cross could use. The contributors would assist the Red Cross without cost to themselves and the buyers would secure bargains. It is certain indeed that the Canadian Red Cross with its steadily increasing responsibilities can make use of any increased revenue.

GOOD SUGGESTION TO CARLETON PLACE PEOPLE.

It is surprising the amount of old, foul matter the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-i-ka, drains from the system. This remedy became famous by curing appendicitis and acts on BOTH the upper and lower bowel so thoroughly that ONE Dose relieves sour stomach and constipation almost IMMEDIATELY. We are mighty glad we are Carleton Place agents for Adler-i-ka. W. J. Hughes, druggist.

How a Watch "Runs."

A balance wheel of a large watch has a diameter of about 0.75 inch and a circumference of 2.36 inches, says the Scientific American. As the wheel makes five single oscillations in a second and the amplitude of each oscillation is 15 complete revolutions the rim travels about 18 inches in a second, one mile in 24 hours and 24 miles in a day. In three years of uninterrupted running, which is not unusual, the travel of the rim of the balance wheel equals or exceeds the circumference of the earth, a distance that a locomotive, running 10 hours daily at a speed of 30 miles per hour, would take nearly three months to accomplish.

Loss of Timber by Fire.

Read the statements in the following article. "In 30 years," says a forest expert, after recently examining a certain area of Northern Canada, "the Dominion has lost through fires about 16,000,000,000 feet, board measure, of merchantable spruce and pine, which at 50 cents per 1,000 feet would represent the enormous sum of $8,000,000.

Nine Babies Born.

Lexington, N.Y., Nov. 10.—Mrs. Gaither Drewry, thirty years old, has blessed her husband with nine children in eighteen months. Four healthy boys were born to Mrs. Drewry to-day. Mother and babies are doing well. Mrs. Drewry, who lives in Spencer County, presented to her husband five children at a birth eighteen months ago. The two girls died, the three boys are thriving. So there are now seven boys, the older eighteen months, the younger one day, in the happy Drewry household.

Sing Sing Prison.

Sing Sing Prison was erected in 1835 and in 1846 was condemned but it still stands as it was in 1835 except that with each year it has grown more of a menace to health, and public decency and safety. In it are two hundred cells into which in eighty years the sun has never penetrated. The New York Times says: "These cells are so small that if you try to turn or walk in one of them you wipe the damp walls with your body. The cells are insanitary, filled with vermin, exhaling decay. The number of men the prison has killed, has driven mad, has for life crippled with rheumatism, or inoculated with unspeakable diseases will never be known."

Russia's New Arctic Railway.

When Russia realized last winter and spring just what it meant to have no outlet in Europe to the open sea save Archangel, which even ice-breakers could not keep open in mid-winter, and when she found that the single-track railway from Archangel to Petrograd was not able to handle the tremendous amount of war munitions which poured into that port, the Government decided to build another road from Petrograd to Ekaterin, on the Arctic, a port which is open the year around. The new road was to be a double track and six hundred miles long, and it was to be pushed through as fast as human skill and energy could do it. Oct. 1st was set as the limit within which this great 1,200 mile railway was to be built, and it was actually complete before that date. Engineers from the United States were called in and placed in charge. As the work was one of military necessity all the men necessary were supplied, and with almost incredible speed swamps and morasses were filled in and the new road was built at the rate of about three miles a day. All that is needed now is new equipment, and locomotives and cars were built and are now in process of construction in the United States to supply this need. Russia has her own car shops and locomotive shops, but at the present time the pressure on them is very great, and some fifty heavy compound engines will be brought from the United States. The new road will doubtless be in full operation before winter, and Russia's supplies, ammunition and guns should be assured for the winter. Already, we are told, her shortage in that direction has been overcome, while it is Germany's turn now to suffer from lack of shells.

It is sometimes as hard to meet a bill as it is to keep out of it.

Half a million dollars' damage was done to one plant, and a munition factory was menaced by a blaze in New Jersey.

The German spy system in the United States was exposed last week; $40,000,000 has been paid for news since the war began.

Three Belgians who informed the Allies of German troop movements were executed. A fourth was given twelve years in jail.

A pair of old shoe laces that had been sent to the Toronto Red Cross Society by a soldier who had been in the Northwest Rebellion, and could not afford any money, was put up for auction and brought $250 for the British Red Cross Fund.

While visiting his daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) H. A. Graham, in London, W. H. Kennedy, Toronto, died after a few days' illness, in his ninetieth year. Mr. Kennedy, who was a mechanical engineer, was born in Adolphustown, and spent most of his life near Kingston, although he resided in Toronto for the past twenty-five years.

Zinc is so essential in war that it has risen enormously in price in the past year. Costing originally only two-fifths as much as copper, it now costs decidedly more than copper, in spite of the fact that copper itself has sharply increased in value. Zinc is a constituent of cartridge brass and shell fuses, and is used also as a covering for iron barbed wire fencing.

FIGHTING THE HESSIAN FLY.

Pest is on the increase and Should Be Combated.

The 1915 wheat crop was cut down to the extent of several million bushels by the depredations of the Hessian fly, says the Iowa Homestead. This pest seems to be on the increase, and in those localities where it has made its appearance wheat growers can well afford to take certain precautions against its spreading.

The real damage to the wheat is not done by the mature fly, but rather by the maggots or larvae. In a contribution to the Iowa Agriculturist Professor R. L. Webster points out that in some cases as many as fifteen or twenty maggots will appear on a single plant. In this case so much nutriment is taken up by these pests that the wheat dies, and if the entire crop is not a total loss it is so greatly injured that the yield is materially cut down. These insects cause wheat to lodge so badly that it is almost impossible to take it up with a binder.

In discussing control measures Professor Webster advises the plowing under of infected stubble. After harvest is the best time to take measures against the Hessian fly. All summer is spent in the flaxseed stage on wheat stubble, where the insect can easily be reached.

Stubble may be burned over soon after harvest. This destroys a large percentage of the insects. There are, however, some undesirable features about this measure. It does not get all the flaxseed, since some are on the plants below the soil. In Kansas, according to Messrs. Headlee and Parker, plowing wheat stubble under was found a more efficient measure than burning it over.

Infested wheat stubble should be disked immediately after harvest. This makes plowing easier and conserves moisture. Then three or four weeks later the field should be plowed under at a depth of six inches, completely burying all stubble.

Volunteer wheat allows the insect to breed readily, and flies easily go from this to sown wheat. All volunteer wheat should be destroyed by disk and harrowing.

By sowing wheat as late as possible and yet obtaining a good start much benefit may be obtained. Although there is danger of winter killing if sowed too late, the idea in late sowing is that the wheat may come up at a time in the fall when most of the flies have disappeared.

Late sowing benefits only so far as the fall generation of the insect is concerned. All wheat is liable to infection in the spring, so that late sown wheat is open to injury then as well as that sown early. But if late sown wheat escapes damage in the fall the chances for injury are greatly reduced in the spring, since the majority of the flies will deposit eggs in the field where they emerge.

Not infrequently late sown wheat becomes heavily infested in the spring. This is usually due to infestation from other nearby wheat.

Spoon to Pit Peaches.

Put an old, heavy kitchen spoon on a grindstone or use a file to cut it down from each side until it is half an inch wide. Grind each edge until sharp and you have a semicircular blade that passes easily around a peach pit without waste. The small handle of the spoon will likely cut the hand. It may be best to cut off the spoon handle halfway up and attach a round wooden handle over this.

RANGE FOR CHICKS.

The problem of supplying a range or green feed for chicks does not receive sufficient attention. This is an important side of the proper rearing of poultry, and the farmer who has sour skim milk or buttermilk to spare and a good green range has more than half his chick problem solved.

For temporary feeding one can soak oats overnight in water, wash them thoroughly next morning and spread them in half inch layers in boxes or trays. Place these trays in the shade outdoors and sprinkle with water twice daily. In from three to six days the oats will be ready for feeding. For baby chicks feed when the sprouts are one-half inch long, giving once daily what the chicks will eat in about ten minutes.

Rape may be sown and when grown cut up and fed to chicks. Cabbage, lettuce, mangels, beets and turnips can also be used for green feed.—Colorado Experiment Station.

Temperature of Brooders.

Chicks should not be taken from the incubator too soon. Allow them to become hardened. At the bottom of most incubators it is 90 to 95 degrees. This is the proper degree to have the brooder heat before placing the chicks in it. It is realized that it is a hard matter to keep the heat at just 90 degrees, especially in outdoor brooders, which are subject to sudden changes in the weather, many times at night.

It is safe, therefore, to run the heat a little higher, say 95 to 100 degrees. The chicks by coming to hover front can get away from too much heat, but they can never obtain heat if the brooder becomes cool, and a chilled chick as a rule never fully recovers. Too much heat weakens the chicks, but heat is less fatal than cold and is by far the lesser of the two evils.

A Prisoner's Tribute to the Red Cross.

A newspaper correspondent who travelled from Holland to England with a detachment of exchanged prisoners of war has recorded some interesting facts as a result of his conversation with these men. The wounded prisoners who are of course all incapacitated by wounds, otherwise they would not be exchanged, arrive in Holland on a German Red Cross train. During their brief stay, prior to their transhipment to England, they receive many attentions from the Dutch Red Cross. "If the people at home," says the writer, "could have seen what I saw in those few hours, Red Cross organizations and prisoners funds would have to refuse money instead of appeal for it." The prisoners were somewhat critical of German prison life. They complained of the hardships of the prison camps, the petty tyrannies, the bad and insufficient food. Their opinion of the Red Cross was invariably expressed in the formula "I don't know what we should have done without the Red Cross parcels. We have to thank the Red Cross and its parcels that any of us are here to-day."

PARCELS FOR SOLDIERS AT THE FRONT.

A circular from the Post Office Department urges the public to exercise every care in packing parcels for the troops, as careful packing is absolutely essential to ensure delivery of the parcels in good order.

Parcels sent abroad require a higher standard of packing than is necessary in the Canadian Parcel Post, and this applies with even greater force to parcels for the troops. Those which are inadequately packed run great risk of damage or loss of contents.

Thin cardboard boxes, such as shoe boxes, and thin wooden boxes, should not be used; nor does a single sheet of ordinary brown paper afford sufficient protection. The following forms of packing are recommended:

- (1) Strong double cardboard boxes, preferably those made of corrugated cardboard, and having lids which completely enclose the sides of the boxes.
- (2) Strong wooden boxes.
- (3) Several folds of stout packing paper.
- (4) Additional security is afforded by an outer covering of linen, calico or canvas, which should be securely sewn up.

The address of the parcel should be written in ink on the cover preferably in two places.

The address of the sender of the parcel should also be stated in order that it may be returned if undeliverable. The contents of the parcel should be stated in writing on the cover.

In the case of parcels sent to the Mediterranean Force, they should be very strongly packed. They should be as nearly round as possible, and well padded with shavings, crumpled paper, or similar protective material. The outer covering should consist of strong linen, calico or canvas, and should be securely sewn up. The use of wooden or metal boxes with square corners is undesirable, as parcels so packed are liable to injure other parcels in transit. No perishable articles should be sent, and anything likely to become soft or sticky, such as chocolates, should be enclosed in tins. Parcels merely wrapped in paper or packed in thin cardboard boxes, such as shoe boxes, cannot be accepted.

RED CROSS MIRACLES.

If you are inclined to believe that the age of miracles is passed and wish visible evidence of Red Cross thaumaturgy, you have only to look at our returned soldiers who are coming home in steadily increasing numbers. Nearly every returned soldier is a Red Cross miracle, for in the majority of cases a soldier is invalided home only when he is physically incapacitated for further service, you may think that some of them are sadly crippled and mutilated, but if you could compare their condition when they were first placed in the hands of surgeon and nurse, you would be able to estimate what the Red Cross has done in the way of patching up and healing shattered bodies.

In Canada, however you can not see the greatest miracles of the Red Cross and Army Service Corps—the men and women who have been made sound and whole and as good as new again, and are once more back in the trenches making one life do double service. Indeed it is not a miracle that one man having only one life to give should be able to give that life twice and even three times over—thanks to the Red Cross.

Think what the Red Cross has saved in that most precious of all commodities—human life—and be certain when next you put your name on a Red Cross subscription list that you have made a very profitable investment—to say nothing of performing a humane and patriotic act.

MONKEY ANTICS.

The Orang Outang is a Creature of Great Imitative Ability.

In hotels and private houses of India monkeys have been found that were trained to wait at table, bringing dishes and articles of food in a more or less mechanical way.

The story of the talented orang outang of Buffon, the naturalist, is classic. This creature gave visitors his arm, walked with them, showed them to the door, ate with a knife and fork and drank from a glass, poured tea into a cup, sweetened it and waited till it cooled before he drank it.

An orang outang at the Jardin des Plantes in Paris regularly unlocked with a key the door of the compartment he occupied, opened the door, locked it on the other side after he had entered and then hung the key on a nail.

Flourens relates that he once visited the Jardin des Plantes in company with an aged scholar whose appearance greatly interested this orang outang, which was at large in the rooms of the institution. The scholar wore old fashioned clothes, one article of which was a tall hat with a wide brim. He was much bent from age and in walking supported himself with a heavy cane.

When the two men were about to depart the hat and cane of the old man were missing. Presently the orang outang was seen tottering through the room, his back bent almost double, wearing the hat upon his head and walking stiffly by the aid of the cane.—Chicago Herald.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN.

Story of the Growth of a Famous New York City Landmark.

Madison Square Garden, indissolubly associated with the city of New York, was purchased in 1853 by the Harlem railroad after the extinction of the old eastern post road, which ran diagonally across the block. In 1854 the railroad company put up sheds for the handling of the early morning milk supply and farm products.

In 1863 the train sheds were rebuilt to house a passenger terminal of the Harlem on Twenty-sixth street and of the New Haven road on Twenty-seventh street, the trains being broken up at the present Grand Central and the separate cars being drawn down by mules.

The railway ceased to use the building in 1871, and in 1873 it was remodelled and leased to Barnum for the congress of nations. Sheridan Shook and Patrick Gilmore, in joint conduct of a museum, were the next tenants. Barnum returned with the circus and menagerie April 27, 1874. Gilmore took the place for the next season and produced the first of his concerts May 29, 1875.

On May 31, 1879, the place was first designated Madison Square Garden. The tearing down of the old building was begun Aug. 7, 1889. The present structure was formally opened June 16, 1890.—Argonaut.

Health For Canaries.

Even a canary must be cared for judiciously if its life is to be happy. Regular exercise outside its cage is desirable, if its owner has time to look after this exercise. A scrupulously clean cage, fresh water and seed every day, greens of some sort—lettuce, celery, plantain—once or twice a week, and enforced abstinence from sugar, sweet biscuits and other odds and ends that are often fed to birds—these details insure health and, therefore, happiness to the caged bird. Perhaps the fact that it is caged, that it has so few ways of making its wants known, should make its owner more careful of its health than she would be even of the health of a dog or cat.—New York Sun.

Pictures In Gardens.

Above most other arts, landscape architecture is based on nature, and the art should be practiced on natural lines. The evolution of growing things, the development of distinct types of effect, although greatly varied, can be, and should be, made to bear the stamp alike of definite, though perhaps instinctive, ideas throughout the various kinds of landscape gardening, whether it be a park, an estate, a village garden or a window box. It should make a fine picture, no matter how small or how large.—New York Telegram.

How the French Make War. One-half of the tracks of the Eastern Railway of France, and nearly three hundred of its stations lie in devastated territory to the north of the French lines. As a consequence, the road is seriously crippled, but it has done its best to provide for those of its employees who can no longer work or who are fighting in the trenches. Every soldier employee receive half pay; if a soldier employee is married, his wife receives the other half. Every employee who has lost his position because of the German occupation receives his regular salary. That is only a single instance of the whole-hearted sacrifices made by the entire French nation in the present war.

Would be a Cruet.

A lady told me, as a true story of a soldier's wit, that a soldier in a hospital on recovering consciousness said:— "Nurse, what is this on my head?" "Vinegar cloths," she replied. "You have had fever."

After a pause:— "And what is this on my chest?" "A mustard plaster. You have had pneumonia."

"And what is this at my feet?" "Saltbags; you have had frostbite."

A soldier from the next bed looked up and said:— "Hang a pepper-box to his nose, nurse, then he will be a cruet."

Sure he Would.

Did you ever have a cold you could not get rid of?

No—If I did I'd still have it now.

THE HERALD.
TUESDAY, NOV. 16TH, 1915.

THE young men of Britain will have the alternative of either joining the colors voluntarily, or of being forced to do so. The time for "conscriptio" is near to hand.

AFTER feeding the people for over a year on continual "victories," the German editors are now calling on them to "bride your joy of tidings of victory," because "the hardest times are coming." They are beginning to fear the finish.—Montreal Herald.

To equip a soldier and keep him in the field for a year costs about $1,000. It may be necessary to raise, if not to send abroad, 200,000 or 250,000 men. The charge is to be a heavy one, even if the struggle lasts but for another year.—Montreal Gazette.

DURING the first week in November, C.P.R., G.T.R., and C.N.R. combined earned $4,808,265. This is an increase over the same week last year of 43.9 per cent. Canada is growing more prosperous every day; a fact established by her financial records.

THAT the United States has given less per head for Belgian relief than Canada, Austria or Holland is now made public. In practical benevolence our people are doing exceedingly well. They are practising self-denial and self-sacrifice in a manner that is worthy of their high ideals.

CANADA, during the first seven months of the current year, sent the United States 57,963 head of cattle, against 55,113 head last year, and 13,305 head in 1913. The United States market for cattle has, in fact saved the situation for the Canadian cattle-raiser during the past two years. Yet we were formerly assured that there was no market in the United States for Canadian cattle by the same people who are now quite certain that it would be fruitless to secure the opening of the United States markets for Canadian wheat.—Brockville Recorder.

MUST STAY IN CANAL.

British Mine Fields Hold German Warships Close Prisoners.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Daily Express in the course of a discursive article on the navy asserts that it is allowed to reveal a secret long known in Germany to the effect that the British mine fields have been embraced in the German mine fields protecting their channels and harbors, and that unless their ships are scrapped for making war material they will stay in the Kiel Canal until the end of the war.

The writer declares, nevertheless, that plenty of space is left to enable them to emerge and fight. If they wish, but that they must fight in a place the British navy's choosing. The British armada of patrol boats is equipped with wireless to ensure against surprise.

He declares confidently that there will be no Trafalgar in the present war. The great final naval engagement of the war, he says, was that of the Dogger Banks in January. He adds that a map showing the German submarines captured recently was shown to newspapermen visiting Admiral Jellicoe's fleet. The map covered only the captures up to June. The operations since then, the writer says, have been far more successful.

FOOD PRICES FIXED.

French Government Takes Steps to Protect the Public.
PARIS, Nov. 15.—The Government committee began yesterday posting throughout France the retail prices for every classification of food, in order to prevent overcharging and speculation. The public billboards in Paris bear an order signed by Prefect of Police Laurent, prescribing exactly what shall be charged until the next public notice.

Fifty-four varieties of beef are specified, with prices ranging from the equivalent of 14 cents to 44 cents a pound, the metric pound being one-tenth more than the British pound. The best butter is from 52 to 56 cents a pound, the best eggs are 6 cents apiece; potatoes are 4 to 6 cents a pound.

Every retail dealer must post in his store a list of prices so that it can easily be read by the public.

Kingston Wholesaler Dies.
KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 15.—After a short illness, the death occurred at his home, 16 Sydenham street, at two o'clock on Saturday morning, of David Stewart Robertson, of D. S. Robertson & Son, wholesale grocery brokerage, Ontario street. The late Mr. Robertson was born in Brockville in 1854. He attended McGill University. He is survived by his wife and three sons, Elsdale S. and Hugh M. Ottawa, and Stewart M., Kingston. Also three brothers and two sisters, all residing at Vancouver, B. C.

A hospital motor ambulance costing $5,000 will be presented to the British army by the British Empire Association of Chicago as a memorial to the late Miss Edith Cavell, the nurse recently shot at Brussels by the Germans.

MAY CUT ENEMY OFF

Both Serbian and Anglo-French Armies Are Victorious.

Severe Check Has Been Inflicted on the Bulgarian Forces by the Serbs at Katchanik Pass—British and French Troops May Soon Be in Veles, Where the Enemy Are Hard Pressed—Requested Armistice to Bury Dead.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—While the Serbian army in the north is putting up an heroic resistance against the Austro-Hungarian invaders, holding as they have held ever since the fall of Nish, the main part of the line based on the mountain slopes to the south of the western Morava River, the smaller body of Serbs in the south, operating north-west of the left flank of the Anglo-French line, are reported to have inflicted a severe check on the Bulgarians at the Katchanik Pass. So stubborn has been the resistance of the Serbs that the Bulgarians have had to call for assistance from the Austro-German artillery in their effort to drive the defenders out of Katchanik Pass. Thus far they have been unsuccessful.

The Serbian Legation at Paris yesterday made public the following official communication: "Although Veles is not yet in the hands of the French and British troops, the Bulgarians are hard pressed, and the fall of the town is imminent. The Bulgarians in the region of Veles have suffered enormous losses, and have requested an armistice to bury their dead."

Reports from Saloniki and Athens under date of Saturday report the Bulgarians as having met with a severe defeat at this point. According to these reports, the Serbians have cleared the enemy from the pass, and the situation is developing in a striking way in favor of the Serbians. Meanwhile the reports state, without giving particulars, that the Anglo-French line to the south-east is very active. Other despatches have told of additional Franco-British troops joining the allied line in Southern Serbia daily, and it may be presumed that the allied offensive in this quarter will develop gradually as the number of men available increases.

Anglo-French Victory.

A Saloniki despatch says: "The Anglo-French forces have occupied Hill No. 350 between Radovc and Strumitsa, dominating the left side of the pass through which runs the Dojran-Strumitsa Railway. They have also taken Hill No. 516, on the opposite side of the same pass, putting the pass completely in the power of the Anglo-French troops. In the Cerna River sector the French already hold Dhrista, Kametof, and Memea. They have captured Sirkovo and Clusevika, south of Cicevo, inflicting heavy losses on the Bulgarians and doubling the territory occupied in this sector. By this action the French extended their line to within a few miles of the Serbian positions commanding the Babuna defile and cut off an important Bulgarian force in the neighborhood of Phares."

BUYING UP OPINION.

Von Bernstorff and Albert Have Spent $35,000,000 in the U. S.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 15.—The Providence Journal says to-day: "A vast fund of money, amounting to between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000, has been spent in this country in the past four months for propaganda work against the Allies, under the immediate supervision of Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, and Dr. Heinrich Albert, Privy Councillor, who describes himself to a Journal representative as the 'fiscal agent' of his Government."

"The Journal has a positive record of the receipt by Ambassador von Bernstorff and Dr. Albert of at least $10,000,000 in the time mentioned. A great deal of this money has come through the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, and most of it has been immediately transferred to the Chase National Bank and other banks in which Dr. Albert and Ambassador Bernstorff keep a joint account."

All for Vicious Work.

"The Journal charges that not one dollar of this money has been spent for legitimate purposes, but that all of it is going for propaganda work of the most vicious description. One item alone, the maintenance of burcaus for dragging men out of munitions factories, amounts to many millions of dollars. The cost of sustenance of the Consular service of Germany and the expenses of the Embassy reach the various officials through regular channels, which are in no way connected with the fund referred to. It is believed that the entire cost of propaganda work conducted by Austrian Consuls and Consuls-General is financed from this German fund."

Kaiser to Visit Serbian Front.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 15.—It is stated that the German Emperor passed through Orsova, Hungary, Friday on his way to visit King Ferdinand of Bulgaria at Sofia. From Sofia the Kaiser is said to be going to inspect Gen. von Mackensen's army in Serbia and then go on to Constantinople.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Miss Winifred Boyle entertained a number of her little friends on Saturday afternoon.

PERTH.

From the Examiner.
Saturday's papers announce that Corp. William Daughen of Perth had been wounded, but was now on duty again. He belongs to the 21st.
Several heavy blasts were set off this week in the river at the bend below the town, in order that the channel could be widened and deepened.
An Indian bearing the name of John Sunday is in the cells at Smiths Falls charged with trapping and taking muskrats, contrary to the provisions of the law. Sunday is an Indian from New York state and is in residence in a tent on Beech island. With him are two other Indians and two squaws. Inspector Phillips was suspicious of them and the other day visited the camp to search for rat skins. He found fifty.
Mr. G. B. McGee, Mr. R. W. Watchhorn and his two sons, Harry and William, of Merrickville, were the victims of a painful accident on Monday night. The party was motoring from Perth to Merrickville, with Mr. R. W. Watchhorn at the wheel. They had not gone very far from town, when the car turned on its side. The front wheels got in a rut, and in turning out, the steering gear was turned back again too sharply. All the occupants were thrown a distance of about twelve feet. Mr. McGee was painfully injured, but not seriously.

LANARK.

From the Era.
Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Stead announce the approaching marriage of their daughter Ethel, to Mr. Alan B. Adamson, of Winnipeg, the wedding to take place at the home of the bride's parents, on Monday, Nov. 29th.
Lieutenant-Colonel A. Clyde Caldwell, R.C.E., son of Mrs. W. C. Caldwell, Lanark, who is at the Exhibition Camp in Toronto, was rather disappointed on Friday in receiving word from Ottawa that he could not be allowed to go overseas with the 2nd Pioneer Battalion of which he was named for second in command. Col. Caldwell has been getting the Exhibition buildings and other places in Toronto in shape for returning troops, and it is understood his services were needed there. Lieut. Col. W. M. Davis left Thursday with 260 men of the 2nd Pioneers.
A wedding that has much interest for Lanark folk is that of Raymond Oscar Berwick to Shirley Gertrude Mitchell, which took place at Rosthern, Sask., on Wednesday, Nov. 3rd. The bride is a daughter of Mr. Alex. M. Mitchell, Rosthern, Sask., and a niece of Mr. John McLean of this village. Miss Mitchell was a resident of Lanark for six years with her uncle. She was a highly popular young lady and sang for a number of years as chorister in St. Andrews Presbyterian Church. Mr. and Mrs. Berwick will take up house at Regina, Sask. They carry with their new life the happy wishes of Lanark friends.

OFFICIALLY AT WAR

Italy Accepts German Outrage on Ancona as Declaration.

All German Vessels Interned in Italian Harbors at the Beginning of the War Have Been Seized and Are Being Refitted as a Result of Submarine's Action in Sinking Liner—No Warning Was Given.

ROME, Nov. 15.—The Italian War Office definitely announced Saturday that the submarine which sank the Ancona was German, and not Austrian.

The Italian Government holds that the attack was tantamount to a declaration of war. The Government has therefore seized all German merchantmen interned when war was declared with Austria, and will fit them out for service.

The official statement follows: "The Ancona did not attempt to escape, but stopped within 33 yards after the firing of the first shot. The liner was torpedoed while boats were being lowered, and a hundred passengers were still on board."

"The submarine being German, has opened hostilities against Italy without a declaration of war."

Affidavits are being secured from officers and passengers of the Ancona with a view to presenting them with a formal document to the United States Government. The burden of these representations will be that the submarine which sank the Ancona was German and that absolutely no warning was given before the steamship sank. The captain of the steamer had already made affidavits supporting both these contentions. It is given wide publicity and credence here.

It is generally admitted at the Italian capital that a most important decision is now impending as a result of the activities of German submarines in the Mediterranean. The sinking of the Ancona has but brought to a head or crisis which the press has been forecasting for some time. Without waiting for a declaration of war against Germany, anti-German reprisals should be begun at once, the Italian newspapers now urge. In some of these anti-German polemics, which are allowed to go unchallenged by the censor, the very large property holdings of Germans and Austrians is pointed out. Their financial interests here are estimated to be about one billion dollars.

Germans Are Wilting

A NEUTRAL who professes some knowledge of military history asserted the other day that Britain was never able to win more than one great fight in any of her wars, but that it always happened to be the last one. Beneath the exaggeration of this opinion may be discerned the distinctive military quality of the British, namely, their ability to hold on, and in the face of repeated reverses to come cheerfully and confidently to the final struggle, where they have been successful ever since there was a British nation. In the present war it has been made plain that the British race has lost none of its nobler qualities, and there is doubt in no quarter as to the final issue of the war. This war has come to be a question of holding on, and bitter and desperate through the fight is, our people are entitled to a knowledge of the fact that in Germany the pressure of the war is becoming daily more pronounced. A correspondent of the New York Herald at Zurich, who has been traveling in Germany, finds that a great change has come over the people in the past six months.

Sick of the War.

He hears talk of quitting; the upmost word is not victory, but peace, although most of the people continue to hope for victory. Nevertheless, it is peace they desire above all things. Their fighting spirit is not rising, even though the tide of their armies' victories shows little sign of turning. On the surface the people are with the Government, and no open criticism of the Kaiser appears; but underneath he finds a growing discontent with the continuance of the war, which the Germans had expected to be over before now. Every month that passes takes its heavy toll of German lives and imposes fresh hardships upon the masses of the people. The newspapers are now venturing to publish letters from the front which discourage the notion that the German soldiers are supermen. Germans in the trenches are allowed to inform the people at home that bravery and military resourcefulness are not exclusive German characteristics, and even to rebuke those who continue to madly cheer for the war.

Rhine Ready for Peace.

He says that the recent peace demonstration ordered by the Cardinal Archbishop of Cologne would have been impossible six months ago, and though the actual procession was frustrated at the last moment by the authorities, they feared to interrupt the preparations which had preceded it, knowing very well that the Archbishop represents the feeling in the Rhine provinces and in other parts of Western and Southern Germany, where the majority of the people are Roman Catholics. For months past the Archbishop has been advocating peace, and when he announced that upon September 26 there would be a procession in Cologne of those in favor of ending the war at once, thousands of Roman Catholic clubs and societies prepared to take part in it. The authorities hesitated to interfere until it was announced that the Socialists were to participate, when they forbade it on the ground that it would lead to disorders. So the demonstration was cancelled, but nobody has ventured to rebuke the Archbishop, who continues his demands.

Vorwärts Protests.

It is the rise in the cost of living, and especially in the price of food, that increases more than anything else the growth of war weariness. A remarkably outspoken comment on the food question which appeared in the Socialist Vorwärts was as follows:

"One of the most dangerous deceptions perpetrated during the war is the pretence that Germany, although cut off from all her overseas supplies, can feed her own population. The fact is that the population of Germany cannot be properly fed by products of her own country. The war has proved beyond all doubt that it is impossible to produce enough articles of nourishment or to raise a sufficient number of cattle to feed the German people without foreign assistance. It is true that we shall be able to hold out for some limited time, but only at the cost of the health and strength of the nation, now being undermined by systematic deprivation and underfeeding."

Textile Industry Ruined.

From another source it is learned that the great textile industries of Germany are stagnant. This is caused by a lack of raw materials, and means that not only are hundreds of thousands of people out of employment, many of whom, of course, are serving as soldiers, but that there is increasing difficulty in supplying the forces with clothing. The Government is being called upon to provide for the idle men who are not fitted for military duties, on public works, to furnish temporary financial assistance to those without means and to keep the insurance policies of all of them in force until the end of the war. The German Government may be able to solve this problem, as it has solved others in the course of the past fifteen months, but it is in the position of a tiring horse obliged to face one fence after another, each higher than the one before. Pressure from within and from without increases, and while such enterprises as Germany is now conducting in Serbia may temporarily cheer the people it does not lessen unemployment, reduce the cost of existence to the masses of German people, nor does it lessen the terrifying lists of dead and wounded which stare the readers of newspapers in the face each morning.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

BUELOW CARRIES THE OLIVE BRANCH

Visit of Diplomat to Switzerland Is Significant.

BERNE NOW PEACE CENTRE

Presence in Swiss Capital of Former Chancellor of Germany and Also of Representatives of Other Powers Indicates That Berne Will Be Place of Peace Parleys.

THE arrival of Prince von Buelow at Lucerne is regarded as an event of transcendent importance, to which the press of Central Europe has suddenly awakened, says Andre Beaumont in a letter from Milan. The general impression, despite official German denials, is that a foundation exists for the reports that Germany is seeking the possibility of opening negotiations for an armistice.

At any rate, von Buelow is allowing the Swiss press freely to present him as the bearer of an olive branch. The correspondent of The Secolo states, after inquiring from reliable sources:

"Von Buelow is doubtless entrusted with an extremely important mission. The internal situation of Germany and Austria is pressing hard on a large majority of the population.

Tragic State of Affairs.

"Information from persons who have visited Germany and Austria, the evidence of deserters and letters written by Germans to friends in Switzerland suggest a tragic state of things. The people of Austria look upon the coming winter campaign with a feeling of horror. Milk, butter, petroleum, leather, fat, cotton, meat, and vegetables are rising to fabulous prices.

"In Germany the misery of a large class of the people is great. Next year it will be greater. The armies will also diminish, and in the spring the Government will be obliged to call out the last reserves, pressing into the service all hitherto discarded men, including the half-lame, blind, asthmatic, and diabetic.

"And when this army has been sent to the firing line and sacrificed, the question will be 'What then?'

"Not all the Bulgarians and Turks called to the rescue can then save Germany. It is better for her to try to obtain peace now while recent military successes give her a basis upon which to build pretensions to favorable terms."

A significant fact is the sharp decline in the price of shares of German industries connected with the war and the sudden rise of shares in industries unconnected with the war, which points to a belief in Germany that von Buelow's alleged peace mission will prove successful. It also accounts for the simultaneous reports of peace missions from all the neutral capitals, including the Vatican.

Germany has mobilized all her secret influence among the neutral nations to create an atmosphere favorable to peace proposals. The union of voices rising from The Hague, Berne, Stockholm, Copenhagen, Madrid, New York, and Washington is remarkable.

The sending of Count Ehrensvaerd to Berne as the representative of Sweden is considered a diplomatic event of the first order. His mission to Berne was primarily to organize a Pacific League of Neutral States for self-protection during the European conflict, but soon afterwards the rumor spread in Berne that he was also grouping the allied States with the object of offering themselves as mediators.

Berne has suddenly come to be looked upon as an important diplomatic centre. Turkey has felt the need of re-establishing her Legation in Switzerland, abolished years before. Japan has appointed a Minister to Switzerland, and the latest report is that Bulgaria also is about to send a representative.

The correspondent of The Resto del Carlino of Bologna states that hints have already been thrown out in official circles in Berne as to the terms upon which Germany would be willing to accept peace negotiations.

According to these rumors, Germany would agree to withdraw her armies from northern France, and that Belgium and Poland should be created autonomous States. Germany would not ask for a war indemnity, but would only demand the restitution of her lost colonies, the making of an international agreement as to the liberty of the seas and the signing of commercial treaties in her favor.

LABOR AND ART CLASHED.

The Battle Was Rather One Sided and Labor Won the Night.

Among the experiences which Sir Frederick Cowen, the eminent composer, relates in his book "My Art and My Friends" is the following: Once while conducting in Melbourne a terrible noise of hammering started overhead as soon as the concert began.

"I put down my baton and stopped," writes Sir Frederick; "so did the noise. Thinking it was over, I began again; so did the noise. I then sent a messenger with a polite request that the noise should cease. After about ten minutes, during which the hammering grew more and more persistent, the messenger returned, and I said to him: 'Did you give them my message?'

"Yes, sir."

"And what was their answer?"

"They said, 'Tell Mr. Cowen we've got our contract to finish by a certain time and we ain't going to stop for no concert or nobody.'"

"Upon this I turned to the audience and said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, as you have possibly noticed, there has been a fight between labor and art. Labor has won. I am very sorry, and I wish you all good night."

"Then I dismissed the orchestra, and there was no concert that evening."

FIRE RISKS ON FARMS.

Safety First Should Be as Much the Rule There as Elsewhere.

A contributor to Farm and Fireside shows how appalling fire risks are on farms. He tells how to reduce some of these fire risks and writes in part as follows:

"The inveterate smoker is about as dangerous as a walking stick of dynamite. It makes me shudder to see a man smoking around the farm buildings. One man I know never will forget the way he was run off the farm when I caught him smoking a cigarette while stacking hay.

"Another dangerous practice of which the average man is guilty is that of carrying ordinary matches loose in his pockets. He should carry either safety matches or keep the ordinary kind in a metal box.

"On most farms the lantern is still the usual light for working about the buildings after dark. A good way to keep it clean and safe is, first, to take out the burners and clean them by boiling in strong soapuds. This will keep the ventilating passages of the burner working properly. Then wipe all leaking or spilled oil off the base.

"Never set a lantern down. Either hold it or hang it up. Then when it is accidentally struck it will swing instead of upsetting."

A Gladstone Anecdote.

Lord Alverstone tells this anecdote of Gladstone in his "Recollections."

"Mr. Gladstone was very much interested in the Caucasus. I had a friend, Captain X., who had recently come home from that district, and I gave him a letter of introduction to Mr. Gladstone. A few days later I met Mr. Gladstone in Parliament street. He stopped me and said, 'Your friend, Captain X., knows more about the Caucasus than any man I ever met.' A few minutes afterward I met Captain X. in Pall Mall. I said to him, 'Well, you have made a great impression, Mr. Gladstone.' 'Have I?' he said. 'Yes,' I replied. 'He says you know more about the Caucasus than any man he ever met.' 'Well,' said Captain X., 'that is very strange, for, though I was with him for three-quarters of an hour, I made only three observations.'"

Leather Medals.

Leather medals were originally conferred as a genuine mark of honor. When King John of France, captured at Agincourt, was forced to pay to Edward III. of England a ransom of 3,000,000 gold crowns to effect his release he was left without precious metal for coins or decorations. So he found it necessary to pay the palace expenses with leather money. He also used leather medals when he wished to confer honor on some nobleman. The custom quickly arose of presenting leather medals as a burlesque distinction.—American Boy.

SOME people give you the impression that they are going around with canned sunshine that is all of two years old trying to make you believe that it has been but just plucked from Old Sol himself.

He has a great and noble cause That ought to win the world's applause. That ought to be the very thing In life to soften down the sting. But on it you cold water dash By bringing in the hint of cash—"What's in it?"

He may, this man who only dreams. Be poor in purse, but rich in schemes. You who are practical suspect That he would with your purse connect Or that it will not bring you gain, And so you ask him to explain—"What's in it?"

Alas, the schemes that rise and fade And with the dead are lowly laid That might have been given a show Have put a crimp in pain and woe. Did not the man who would unmask Some subtle scheme rise up and ask, "What's in it?"

Broad Brimmed Hats.

Toward the end of the thirteenth century big broad brimmed hats were fashionable in Austria. They were of such huge dimensions that a face under one of them could not be recognized. A poem written by Johannes Hadlaub expresses disgust with the style and the hope that the hats might be consigned to the Danube "so that the pretty faces of our women might once more become visible."

AN EVEN TRADE.

It Wasn't Made Simply Because the Law Wouldn't Allow It.

A traveling salesman for a Gansevoort street wholesale grocery firm, recently back from a trip through rough lands of a neighboring state, tells this possibly true tale:

"One day on my last trip I had a six mile ride to make to the county seat, and the small village in which I was had only one horse that I could hire and no other form of conveyance. I may say that a friend had landed me in the town that morning from his car, and I had sold goods enough to pay the expenses of the trip.

"Well, I got away on the sorriest specimen of a horse I ever straddled, and I was to send him back by the mail carrier, though not as a parcel post package. It took me two hours to cover the distance—I was sorry enough I hadn't walked—and as I passed the county jail on my old bag of bones a face grinned at me from between the bars of a small square window. I was too sore to smile, but I nodded to the grin, and the prisoner called to me:

"Say, mister," he said, "how'd you like to trade that critter for thirty days in jail?"

"Just then I would have been glad enough to have traded, but the law wouldn't let me, and I rode on."—New York Sun.

Making a Changeless Ink.

In shops where it is damp or chemical fumes are present it is usually difficult to cause labels to stick to bottles or cans. An ink for use on such containers is made as follows: Shellac, 20 grams; dissolve it in a hot solution of borax containing 30 grams of borax to 400 cubic centimeters of water; filter while hot and add a solution made of aniline black, 8 grams; tannin, 0.3 gram; picric acid, 0.1 gram, and ammonia, 15 grams, in water, 10 grams. It will be found that this ink works nicely and resists the usual chemical and corrosive fumes.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Golf Ball's Strange Flight.

That a golf ball does not travel in a parabolic curve was asserted by Professor C. Vernon Boys during the trial of a patent suit in the British chancery court. Professor Boys, who had been called as an expert on ballistics, described experiments he had made with mechanically propelled golf balls and said that these when driven hard more than counteracted the attraction of gravity. "A good flight," he said, "is very nearly straight for a long time, then gradually rising and then falling."

Gordon Craig SOLDIER OF FORTUNE

By RANDALL PARRISH
Copyright, 1915, by A. C. McClurg & Co.

"Oh, I simply cannot stand this place!" she exclaimed. "There is something perfectly horrid about it, and the people. How shall I ever get through the night?"

"That is nothing," I soothed, although hardly at ease myself. "She is evidently of the taciturn sort. We don't need to keep these servants, you know. I'll hunt up some more cheerful in town tomorrow. Why, by Jove, it's 10 o'clock already. Have you finished?"

"I couldn't choke down another mouthful."

"Well, don't be afraid. They mean well enough, no doubt. Sallie!" She came gliding in, her back to the door.

"Are you the one who is to show us to our rooms?"

"Yes."

She picked up the lamp and went out, and Mrs. Bernard followed instantly, evidently afraid to be left in the dark. I followed with the grips, trailing up the stairs, having seen nothing of Coombs in the front room. In the upper hall our guide threw open two doors, going into the rooms and lighting lamps, thus giving glimpses of the interiors. The one in the corner was the larger and better furnished.

"This will be yours," I said, placing her valise on the floor. "You can feel safe enough there with the door locked—yes, there is a key—and I will be right opposite if you need anything."

She gave me her hand, but I felt it tremble.

"You are still afraid?"

"Yes, I am—but I am not going to be such a fool."

As her door closed I turned to the mulatto, who still stood there, lamp in hand. I was not sleepy, and I wanted most of all to have an understanding with Coombs. "Is the overseer downstairs?"

"Ah reckon he's out in one o' ther cabins, sah—he done don't sleep in the house nobow."

"He doesn't sleep here! Why?"

"Ah spect it's cause he's afraid, too, sah," she replied, her snaky eyes showing. "Ah's a voodoo, an' Ah don't care 'bout 'em fall, but good Lor', dar ain't no white man wants ter stay in des yere house more'n one night."

She laughed, a weird, grating laugh and started downstairs. I stood still, watching her light disappear. Then, swearing at myself for a coward, I stepped back into my own room and closed the door.

This revelation of conditions left me thoroughly puzzled. I was not frightened at the situation, for I largely attributed the fear shown by both Pete and Sallie to negro superstition. But Bill Coombs was a very different proposition. He was of the hard headed kind, not to be easily alarmed by visionary terrors, and yet he was manifestly afraid to sleep in the house. I was sufficiently acquainted with his type to comprehend there must be some real cause driving him to retreat to the negro cabins for rest.

I sat there for some time smoking, endeavoring to think it all over coolly and listening intently. At first I could distinguish the rattle of dishes downstairs as Sallie cleared the table, and, a little later, heard Mrs. Bernard moving about uneasily in her room across the hall. But at last these sounds ceased and the house became still. I removed a portion of my clothing and lay down on the bed, a certain uneasiness preventing me from undressing entirely. I was tired, but with little inclination for sleep. Could there be any truth in Mrs. Bernard's questioning of the motives actuating the man who had sent us here? Had we come—mere pawns in some game of crime—deceived, perhaps betrayed to arrest? Was Coombs here merely to watch us and report to Neale and Vall bow we carried out our part of the bargain? The affair certainly looked altogether different now I was upon the ground, although I could figure out no possible object those men could have. At least they could accomplish nothing without my co-operation, and, if I discovered any evil afoot, I could block them instantly. I was there to save this property for the rightful heir and was determined now to see that Philip Henley received all that was due him. It was after 11 o'clock before I fell into a drowsy sleep.

Indeed, it hardly seemed to me that I had entirely lost consciousness when I was jerked bolt upright by the sharp report of a firearm. For a single instant I imagined the shot fired within my room; then I sprang to the door and flung it open, peering out into the hall. Everything was still, the rays from my lamp barely extending to the head of the stairs. I could neither see nor hear anything, and yet I had a strange premonition that I was not alone. There was an automatic pistol in the pocket of my coat, and I stepped back after it, picking up the lamp on my return, determined on a thorough examination of the upper story. There was no doubt about the shot—the sound was no effect of a dream. I wondered if the girl had been awakened by the report and paused to listen at her door, but no sound reached me from within.

I moved down the hall cautiously, regretting the need of a lamp, but the place was strange, and I dare not ture about in the dark.

The first doors I came to were ajar, but the moon was at the back of the house, and I was obliged to enter each apartment and flash my light into the corners to make sure they were vacant. These were medium sized bedrooms, comfortably furnished, although containing nothing new. Only one exhibited any evidence of late occupancy, being in considerable disorder, the bed unmade, some discarded garments strewn about the floor.

Some man had been sleeping up here lately, and it was not Coombs, but a much smaller individual. This knowledge made me even more cautious as I tiptoed down the hall, now narrowed by the back stairway. The first door opened into a bathroom, the tub half full of dirty water, a mussed towel on the floor. The last door, leading to a room apparently extending clear across the rear of the house, was tightly closed. I set my lamp down well out of sight and gripped my pistol before attempting to manipulate the knob. It opened noiselessly. Moonlight streamed through one window where the curtain was not closely drawn, but the gloom was too dense to reveal much of the shrouded interior. I could dimly perceive a table and some chairs, one overturned. There was no movement, however, no sign of present occupancy. Convinced as to this, I slipped back for my lamp, shading the flame so the light was thrown forward into the room. A single glance revealed everything. The table, a common deal affair, contained two bottles, one half filled, and three dirty glasses, together with a pack of disreputable looking cards, some of these scattered about the floor. There was no other furniture, and the walls were bare, a dirty gray color. But what my eyes rested upon in sudden horror was the body of a man curled up in a ball on the floor as a dog lies, his face hidden in his arms. That he was dead I knew at a glance.

This murder—or was it suicide?—had occurred within ten minutes. I turned the man over, revealing a bearded face, the features prominent but refined. He was no ordinary rough, and his clothing was of excellent material. He had been shot in the back of the head.

It was murder then—murder! Even as I struggled with the horror a sudden gust of wind extinguished the lamp, and I gripped the table, staring about in the haunted darkness. A moment and my eyes adapted themselves to the new environment, the moonlight streaming through the open window and across the man's body. With heart quaking like a frightened girl, I stole across the floor and glanced out. A single story extension, probably the kitchen roof, was below. Kneeling upon this the assassin could easily fire into the room. Beyond the pale moonshine revealed a patch of grass, a weed entangled garden, and behind these a dense forest growth. To the right of the garden I could dimly distinguish a row of small cabins, the negro quarters. Coombs would be occupying one of these, and they were so close that, even if asleep at the time, he could scarcely fail to hear the report of the gun in the silent night. Yet there was no light along the row of huts, no sign of human presence.

Seized by sudden terror, I caught up the extinguished lamp, scarcely breathing until again outside in the hallway, the door closed behind me. Trembling in every limb, I felt my way along through the darkness, guiding myself by the wall. "What could I do?" "What ought I to do?" I knew nothing of the house or where to find Sallie. I was not even sure of her presence. Indeed, the very memory of her snaky eyes gave me new horror. And Coombs! Suspecting him, as I did, it would be the height of folly to seek him out yonder in the dark. There was nothing left but to await daylight, to remain on watch, endeavoring alone to formulate some plan of future action.

God only knows how glad I was to discover the open door to my own room again. There were matches there on the table, but my hand trembled so I struck three before the wick of the lamp caught fire.

CHAPTER VI. I Get Into the Game.

I SAW the affair now from a new viewpoint. I was not so sure, so certain, that I understood the entire truth.

Coombs was no plantation overseer, but a mere Texas bully. The very appearance of the man told that, and those neglected, weed grown fields were another proof. What was he here for, then? And Sallie! Lord, I could despise that Texas rough, but the snaky eyes of the woman made me shiver and look about apprehensively. Then there was the dead man. There was wrong somewhere surely—cowardly crime, murder!

With the first return of daylight I would seek out Coombs, tell him what I had seen and compel him to confess the truth. Then I should know how to act, how to approach her and explain. My nerves steadied as I sat there in the silence, and my mind drifted to the woman sleeping across the hall. Then I also fell asleep, in the chair.

The gray of dawn was on the windows when I awoke, my body aching from its unnatural position. With loaded pistol in my pocket I slipped into the hall. The faint light revealed its shabbiness, the grimy rag carpet and discolored walls. Some spirit of adventure led me the full length until my hand was upon the latch of that last door. I could not resist an impulse to look upon the dead man again by daylight and thus assure myself of the reality of what seemed only a dream. All was exactly as I recalled it to memory—the stained walls, the dirty floor, the table littered with cards, the overturned chair and the motionless body of the dead man. From the wound in the head a dark flow of blood stained the floor, and as I bent closer I noticed the eyelids were lowered over the dead eyes. Shot as he had been, killed instantly, the hand of the assassin must have performed this act. Then surely this killing had been no common quarrel, but a planned assassination, the culmination of some prearranged plot.

This knowledge, while it set my heart throbbing in realization of new danger, yet served also to stiffen my nerves. My thought was not so much concerned with myself and my own danger as with that of the young woman whom I was bound to protect.

It Was Murder Then—Murder!

I closed the door on the silence and stole quietly downstairs. There was no movement, no sound in the great house. The front room, hideous in its grimy disorder, was vacant, and I opened the front door noiselessly and stepped forth into the spectral gray light of the dawn. The first glimpse about was depressing enough. The house itself, big and glaring as it was, was nevertheless little better than a ruin. Several of the windows were broken, and the steps sagged and trembled under my weight. The front yard, a full half acre in extent, was a tangled mass of bushes and weeds, a high, untrimmed hedge shutting off all view of the road. From the foot of the steps a narrow passage trampled into the dirt circled the corner of the house, disappearing within a few feet. Convinced that this must lead to the rear and possibly the negro cabins where Coombs slept, I followed its tortuous windings, although half afraid to desert my guardianship of the house even for this purpose. Still there was little to be feared so long as Mrs. Bernard remained securely locked in her room. Perhaps by the time she awoke and appeared below stairs I could find a reasonable explanation of all this mystery—something to smile over, rather than fear.

I emerged into a somewhat clearer space of ground at the rear. The kitchen was an ell, constructed of rough boards, but with a single roof. The door stood ajar, and I glanced in, only to find the room empty, the pots and pans used the night before still unwashed.

WOMAN IN TERRIBLE STATE

Finds Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cape Wolfe, Canada.—"Last March I was a complete wreck. I had given up all hope of getting better or living any length of time, as I was such a sufferer from female troubles. But I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am in good health and have a pair of twin boys two months old and growing finely. I surprised doctors and neighbors for they all know what a wreck I was."

"Now I am healthy, happy and hearty, and owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies. You may publish this letter if you like. I think if more women used your remedies they would have better health."—Mrs. J. T. Cook, Lot No. 7, Cape Wolfe, P.E.I., Canada.

Because your case is a difficult one, and doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has remedied many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and it may be exactly what you need.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of women—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Lesson VIII.—Fourth Quarter,
For Nov. 21, 1915.

Text of the Lesson, Jonah iii, 1-10.
Memory Verse, 10—Golden Text, Matt. xxviii, 19, 20—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Any one who questions the truth or the reality of this story of Jonah casts discredit on the Lord Jesus Christ, for He called Jonah a prophet and said that his three days and nights in the belly of the fish were typical of His own three days and nights between His death and resurrection. He also spoke of the repentance of the people of Nineveh under the preaching of Jonah and of a future judgment (Matt. xii, 39-41; Luke xi, 32). To question the words of the Lord Jesus is to question God the Father, for He said that the Father always told Him what to say (John xii, 47-50). Jesus Christ said, "I am 'The Truth,' and God is called 'the God of Truth'" (John xiv, 6; Isa. lxi, 16). Therefore let our hearts cry, "Let God be true, but every man a liar;" "For we can do nothing against the truth, but for the truth" (Rom. iii, 4; II Cor. xiii, 8).

When Jonah is mentioned people always think of the fish, whereas the fish is mentioned but four times in the book, while God or Lord is mentioned forty times. We are not as right with God as we might be until we give the same relative importance to people and things that He does; therefore let us not magnify the fish, but the Lord. This is called a foreign missionary lesson, and it is certainly a good one on that topic, as we shall see.

Two of the great foundation truths of the Bible are "God is love" and "The Lord is not willing that any should perish" (I John iv, 8, 16; II Pet. iii, 9). In this lesson we see a great city of at least 600,000 people (120,000 children) and much cattle, and there was great wickedness in the city (Jonah i, 2; iv, 11), but God would rather save than destroy them, and He sent Jonah to call upon them to repent that He might spare them.

That is always God's attitude to the world lying in the wicked one. He commandeth all men everywhere to repent, for He will have all men to be saved and to come unto the knowledge of the truth (Acts xvii, 30; I Tim. ii, 3, 4). But how can they know unless some one tells? So Jonah is called of God to go and tell Nineveh that, while the Lord does not wish them to perish, unless they repent judgment will come in forty days (i, 1, 2; iii, 4). At first Jonah is unwilling to go and seeks to flee from the call. Then follows the record of the voyage to Tarshish begun seemingly so favorably, but suddenly interrupted, for God sent two detectives to arrest His man and bring him back. A great wind to stop him and a great fish to bring him ashore (i, 4, 17). Arrested on the high seas and brought back, it reads like an up to date story, for our God is always up to date and away ahead. Look at the wireless and rapid transit as seen in the story of Daniel and Gabriel (Dan. ix, 3, 20, 21).

As to the present day attitude of those who profess to be the Lord's people toward the command of our Golden Text and of Mark xvi, 15; Luke xxiv, 47; John xxi, 23; Acts i, 8, could there be a more vivid picture than that of Jonah on this ship before the captain woke him up? The only man on the ship who knew the true God fast asleep, while the heather sailors earnestly cried unto their gods. Those who have the Bible and in it the knowledge of the living and true God and of salvation by Jesus Christ for all who will receive Him are as indifferent to the welfare of the millions of so-called heathen who are earnestly calling upon their gods as was Jonah when fast asleep on that ship.

They need to hear the cry of that shipmaster: "What meanest thou, O sleeper? Arise, call upon thy God, if so be that God will think upon us that we perish not" (i, 6).

If we had anointed ears we might hear the heathens say, "Arise and tell us of thy God and of His great salvation." And we would surely hear God saying, "Whom shall I send and who will go for us?" (Isa. vi, 8). If God was seeking in this age to win the world to Himself both He and we might well be discouraged, but He is not discouraged, and He cannot fail (Isa. xlii, 4). This book of Jonah shows us his plan. Jonah was an Israelite. After his resurrection from the dead, in a figure, he went to Nineveh and preached the preaching that the Lord bade him, and a whole city repented (chapter iii). I do not know of another instance on record of a whole city turning to God. Now see the foreshadowing of His plan. Israel has long been rebellious, but when they shall see the Lord Jesus, the risen Christ, their glorious and glorified Messiah, coming in His glory, as Saul saw Him on the way to Damascus, they will receive Him and with the zeal of Paul will speedily make Him known to all the world, and whole nations will turn to Him and be saved (Isa. xxv, 9; xxvii, 6; xxxv, 10; ill, 9, 10; lx, 1-3; Rom. xi, 12, 15). Notice in this book how God used a wind, a fish, a worm and even such a strange man as Jonah and, being first of all sure that you are redeemed by the precious blood of Jesus Christ, say to Him with all your heart, "Here am I; use me." Oh, use me, Lord, use even me, just as thou wilt, and when and where, until Thy blessed face I see; Thy rest, Thy joy, Thy glory share.

Delayed "Last Moments."

In the battle of Friedland, on June 14, 1807, there was a young lieutenant in Napoleon's army named Schramm. When the victorious general was riding over the battlefield that evening he came upon the eighteen-year-old officer lying on the ground mortally wounded and weeping bitterly.

"Why do you weep?" asked Napoleon as he rode by.

"Because I must die before I can become a captain," the youth complained.

The words of the dying lieutenant softened the emperor's heart. "My son, I shall gladly fulfill your wish," he said. "I hereby advance you to the rank of captain."

The unexpected promotion actually saved the boy's life. He recovered. Later on he fought most valiantly for the cause of Napoleon, and by the time of the battle of Waterloo he had already become a general. He outlived his "last moments" on the field of Friedland by more than seventy years.

Eugene Field and Children.

"It was children whom Field loved best," says Miss Hildegard Hawthorne in St. Nicholas, "and he would take all sorts of trouble to make a child happy. His room was crowded with toys, queer dolls, funny little mechanical toys that ran about or boxed or nodded strange heads or performed tricks. His study door was never shut to a child, and he had many child friends his family knew nothing of. His brother tells how a few hours after his death a little crippled boy came to the door and asked if he might go up and see Mr. Field. He was taken into the room where the gentle, much loved figure lay and left there. In a little while he came limping downstairs, the tears streaming down his cheeks, and went silently away, known to nobody there."

In the Distance.

Back to the land, they tell us,
To rise at five a. m.
To curdy down the chickens
And feed the sitting hen.
It really sounds alluring.
But please to mark this down:
Just two weeks of this pleasure
And, oh, you job in town!

Always the Excuse.

"I don't see what causes my hair to come out so."
"You need a wife."
"What for?"
"To charge it up to."

Substitute For Coal.

"How is the weather in your country?"
"We have cold waves to burn."
"By the way, what kind of fuel do they make?"

So Simple.

"He has a scheme to abolish war."
"He will be known as a great world benefactor. How is he going to do it?"
"Have nations quit fighting."

HAVE YOU WEAK LUNGS?

Do colds settle on your chest or in your bronchial tubes? Do coughs hang on, or are you subject to throat troubles?

Such troubles should have immediate treatment with the rare curative powers of Scott's Emulsion to guard against consumption which so easily follows. Scott's Emulsion contains pure cod liver oil which peculiarly strengthens the respiratory tract and improves the quality of the blood; the glycerine in it soothes and heals the tender membranes of the throat. Scott's is prescribed by the best specialists. You can get it at any drug store. Scott & Borne, Toronto, Ont.

Kept Her Busy.

"Very busy did you say she is?"
"Very."
"And clever, too, I understand."
"Extremely clever."
"How does she occupy herself most?"
"Drawing alimony from a number of former husbands."

Knew Him of Old.

"He has a most remarkable stock of common sense."
"Who—Brown?"
"Yes."
"Is that so?"
"Most remarkable."
"Now, I wonder where he has been stocking up?"

Reverse Argument.

"His argument isn't left with a leg to stand on."
"That doesn't make any difference to it."
"Why not?"
"It looks as well standing on its head."

Celebrate Diamond Wedding.

A unique event took place in Fitzroy township on Monday, Nov. 1st, being the celebration of the diamond wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Sadler, sr. This old couple have lived in Fitzroy since their immigration from Ireland in early life. They were married in 1855, several years before the Dominion of Canada was formed. On the morning of the diamond wedding day the family attended Holy Communion in St. George's Church, Fitzroy Harbor, of which church the old couple have been members ever since their marriage sixty years ago. At the service also their grandchild, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sadler, jr., was baptized. At 5 p.m. a beautiful dinner was served at the home of the "bride and groom," and a pleasant evening was spent in music and social intercourse. There were present at this gathering, besides the children and many of the grandchildren of the old couple, several sisters and brothers of the bride and groom, and among them Mrs. Brown, a sister of Mr. Sadler, and bridesmaid at the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Sadler. She came all the way from Vancouver to be present at the ceremonies on Monday last. Rev. C. F. and Mrs. Clarke were also present at dinner. Many presents and congratulations have been received, some from distant parts—from Washington, and from the Canadian North-West, so widely has the family spread. Ten years ago a celebration was given in honor of their golden wedding, and now they have commemorated their sixtieth anniversary. They have attained an honorable old age, but are still healthy, and take a lively interest in all present day happenings. All their friends join in wishing them many happy years yet to come.—Carp Review.

Huntley Farmers Losing Sheep.

Several farmers in Huntley have lost sheep and lambs during the summer in a rather alarming degree. Mr. P. Meach lost five or six, Mr. J. H. Kennedy nine, Mr. D. O'Keefe five, Mr. R. O'Connell three, Mr. Ed. Vaughan seven or eight, and others in the district have been losers as well. Traps were set and other means tried to catch the depredators but without avail. It is not known whether it is dogs or wild animals that are guilty, but it is supposed to be the latter. Wolves are said to be plentiful in that township, and in some sections can be heard howling at night.—Almonte Gazette.

Pembroke Youth's Accidental Death.

A very sad tragedy occurred Sunday afternoon at the scene of the government road work about a mile from Pembroke by which a boy named George McLeod, aged about sixteen years, lost his life. With the watchman who guards the dynamite used in the work, and another young man, he was sitting on a roller when a rifle in the hands of the watchman, a young man named McAuliffe, whose home is in Arnprior, was accidentally discharged, the bullet lodging in the boy's head. Death was instantaneous. The remains were taken to Macleod's undertaking rooms and an inquest opened before Dr. Delaney. The man who held the rifle, who feels the tragedy keenly, is being held pending the completion of the inquest, but there is no doubt that the shooting was purely accidental.

A short time ago a commercial traveller, when leaving Arnprior, took a suit case belonging to another traveller. He was arrested at Montreal and brought back, when he claimed he had taken the suit case in mistake, without being extra diligent in finding the rightful owner. It cost him about $75 to rectify the matter.

The second trial of the Indian, Peter Whiteluck, on the charge of murdering Jailer E. Coxford in the county jail at Pembroke a year ago, ended as did the first one, in a disagreement of the jury. The prisoner was sent over to the next assizes for his third trial. The jury deliberated for four hours and a half without arriving at a verdict.

The Miracle of Surgery.

An interesting operation was performed in England when a bullet was taken from a soldier's heart, while he watched the operation, perfectly conscious and feeling no pain. A local anesthetic was used, deadening the sensitiveness of that portion of the body around the heart. The surgeons opened up his chest, exposing the heart, and then manipulated it with their fingers until they located the bullet. Then they cut into the heart itself, removed the bullet with forceps, closed the heart with a row of stitches, all without affecting the pulsations of the heart, save for one or two beats which were missed.

HOW TO CURE RHEUMATISM

The Disease is in the Blood and Must be Treated through the Blood.

There are almost as many ways of treating rheumatism as there are doctors. Most of these treatments are directed at the symptoms and are considered successful if they relieve the pain and the stiffness. But the pain and the stiffness return particularly if the patient has been exposed to dampness. This shows that the poison was not driven from the system by the treatment employed. Rheumatism can be relieved in a number of ways, but there is only one way to cure it, and that is through the blood, expelling the poisonous acid that causes the aches, and pains and stiffness. To renew and enrich the blood there is no medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which go right to the root of the trouble and cure rheumatism to stay cured. The following is an example of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can do in cases of this kind. Mr. Henry Smith, St. Jerome, Que., says:—"For upwards of a year I was a victim of rheumatism in a most painful form. The trouble was located in my legs and for a long time was so bad that I could not walk. The suffering which I endured can only be imagined by those who have been similarly afflicted. Doctors treatment did not help me and then I began trying other remedies but with no better results. Finally I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although I had begun to lose faith in medicine, I finally decided to give the pills a trial. I am very grateful now that I did so, for after taking eight boxes of the pills the trouble completely disappeared. I was free from pain and could walk as well as ever I did in my life. I have since taken the pills occasionally as a precautionary measure and I cannot speak too highly in their favor. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PARODY ON "SING ME TO SLEEP."

(From the Trenches.)
Sing me to sleep where star shells fall
Let me forget the world and all
Damp is my dug-out, cold my feet
Nothing but bully and biscuits to eat
Sing me to sleep, where bombs explode
And shrapnel shells are "A La Mode."
Over the sand-bags helmets you'll find
Corpses in front of you, corpses behind.
Far, far from Ypres I long to be
Where German snipers can't pot me
Think of me crouching where the worms creep
Waiting for someone to sing me to sleep.
Sing me to sleep in some old shed
With the rats running around my head
Stretched out upon my water-proof
Dodging the raindrops through the roof
Sing me to sleep where camp-fires gleam
Full of French bread and "Cafe a L'eau"
Dreaming of home and night in the west
Somebody's overseas boots on my chest.
Far from the star shells I'd love to be Lights of old C.P. I'd rather see
Think of me crouching where the worms creep
Waiting for someone to put me to sleep.
