Ten o'clock this evening was to time fixed in the Government schedule for closing the debate on the other clevon clauses. At that hour the committee was discussing Mr. Gladstone's amendment, which provided that acts relating to the royal constabulary be repealed at the end of six years and that none but civil police, he created under an Irish act. This amendment concerned clause 30, which deals with the Irish royal constabulary and Dublin metropolitan police. The clock struck, and under the closure the amendment was carried by a vote of 537 to 49. Clauses 30 to 36 were then passed in rapid successiva by majorities varying between 24 and 34. The subjects of these clauses are police, Irish exoltence, law applicable to both Houses of Irish Legislature, supplemental provisions as to powers of the Irish Legislature, iminitation of berrowing by local anthorities, temporary restriction en powers of Irish Legislature and executive with regard to land and transitory provisions. Clause 37, concerning the ory provisions. Clause 37, concerning the continuance of existing laws, courts, officers, etc., was carried without division. Clause 38, concerning the appointed day for the purposes of the bill, was carried by a vote of 295 to 261. Clause 39, concerning the significance of terms used in the bill, was lost. The City and Street Railway Company Differ Over Blocks.

The Company Aak for Material to Use on Dundas Street West-A Relivant Language of Dundas Street West-A Relivant Language of Dundas Street West-A Relivant Language of Dundas Street, west of Richmond street torn up to make room for rails. This was brought out at a meeting of the Board of Works Last evening. Several communications between the city and company were read. On the 18th inst. the railway company sent in a demand to the mayor for blocks. The mayor replied by stating that he did not admit the right of the former to place blocks upon the pertion of the street mentioned at ail. He, however, stated that, in order not to inconvenience the citizens, an order would be issued for the material necessary if it were received without prejudice to the city interests in the pending action between the two corporations.

The mayor shortly afterwards had the following communication from the street railway company placed in his hands: "We claim the right tunder the bylaw to enable us to replace the pavements are required by us and required by the hylaw we will hold the city responsible for all damages that may arise either to us or to the public."

On Wednesday, the 19th, Acting Mayor Parnell wrote a note of a similar tenor to that of Mayor Essery. The company wrote again, absolutely refusing such a condition and repeating their statement. Ald. Parnell then asked the city accided to take no action.

Some difficulty has also earlies in regarding the subject. The solicitor's opinion was private. It hinted that the granting or refused to the blocks would have a bearing on the impending law suit. The committee decided to take no action.

Some difficulty has also arisen in regard to the position of the track on Dundas street, west of Ridout street. The city engineer complained to Ald. asylum. For some reason not explaine, he has never been taken there, and has been gradually growing more violently insane. His food had to be passed to him through an opening in the cell door, and as hel was continually aving and screaming, he was kept in an isolated part of the prison, wher he could not disturb the other immass. No one has been able to go near hit of late, and mumbering 5,000 or more, went to Bay View Park, where their piente was held in the Grove, presenting a sight seldom witnessed.

This afternoon musical proceedings were held in the Athletic Park, where fully soon people were present, including the choir members. The musical programmes was arranged and more of the circurses were exceptually well rendered, particularly the "Goria in Excelsis," conducted by Prof. Freel, of Stratford, who is an expert with the batton. The other numbers by combinations of different choirs were good, and the playing of the band of the Waterloo Musical Scelety was very much admired.

Altogether the open-air concert was a great musical treat. The arrangements for the excursion gave evidence of a great deal of labor. The affair proved a success in every way, and Sarnia will be glad to have the united choir organization return next week.

A correspondent says the largest hay crop in many years in South Dumfries township is now housed and in good condition. Quite a large acreage of wheat is already in the shock, and, from present appearances, this crop will not be much behind the remarkably heavy one of 1892. In a few places the rust has had an evil effect, but on the whole the sample is fair. The acreage of barley is not very large, neither is the crop very promising. From the appearance of oats, the yield of this grain will be very good.

A very large and destructive fire happened on Monday night on the farm of Mr. John Dunlop, con. 11, when the barn and greater part of the hay crop, together with threshing machine, binder, mower, two buggies and four horses, three pigs, a calf and about 100 towls were burnt. The cause of the fire is at present unknown. The barn was one of the finest in the town. ship, being about 80 feet long. Mr. Dun lop's loss will be very heavy.

At the last meeting of the Stratford Council a bylaw was introduced granting exemption from taxation to the North American Mill Building Company, which recently suffered severe loss from fire. The bylaw received a majority of the votes of the council, but not a two-thirds majority, and was therefore defeated.

FLOODS IN THE THAMES.

The Waterworks Dam Not to Blam for London West's Troubles, Great "Spate" in 1849 That Deluged

Kensington. To the Editor of the Adventisen:

I have been waiting for a long time, hoping that some old settler of London would contradict the charges made by the ling that some old settler of London would contradict the charges made by the London West Council against the city that all their trouble from floods was caused by the erection and maintenance of the waterworks dam. Now, sir, that charge is perfect rot, and has not the slightest foundation if properly investigated. The dam is but slight hindrance, if any, to the escape of water. The railway bridge at the Cove is a hindrance, and should have had another span. I came to London in October, 1843, and have seen every rise and fall of importance since that time, and two of its largest floods that I have seen occurred many years before the waterworks as nearly as I can remember, was in the latter part of July, 1849, when what is now known as Kensington was entirely covered with water except about one-quarter of an acre just where the old house stands that acre just where the old house stands that acre just where the old house stands that was formerly owned and occupied by the late Thomas McBroom, gardener. At that time trees, sawlogs, cordwood, fence rails, hay cocks, cattle, pigs, geese and almost everything you could mention was swept down the river. The most lamentable sight was to see the poor cows struggling against the raging current to get up stream. They would struggle against the current until they became exhausted and drowned. Several of the drad carcasses were to be seen on what is The imports at the port of Goderich for the last year were $216,818 and the exports $552,000.

THE Tupper family costs Canada $44,000 a year. They are a dear, dear crowd, and stick to effice closer than a thistle "burr' to a new pair of trousers.

THE proposed Conservative convention in Toronto is alleged to have been indefinitely postponed. There has been friction bewould have had the preliminaries to the reference completed long before now but for the absence of Sir John Thompson, who also has the right to take the case to the Supreme Court. A direct reference to that Court, if it can be managed, will save time.

We expect to see the point settled as soon as the Dominion Fremier returns from of petty theft was thrown out by the Lords,

DETROIT also is engaged in a tussle over an electric railway agreement. In all probability an agreement will be reached on the basis suggested by the city council committee which is as follows:

LORDS VS. COMMONS-A CON-FLICT IN BRITAIN NOW

There is no longer any doubt that the Liberals of Great Britain believe that a conflict between the Chamber elected by the people and the House of Lords is imninent. Mr. Gladstone and his friends are sending out cartloads of documents to the constituencies representing the facts of the case, and incidentally attacking the Chamber of Privilege for its avowed attitude against the wishes of the majority of the people, as expressed at the polls less sheen to the iris. than a year ago. The Liberals are warranted in assuming this attitude because of the declaration of Lerd Salisbury that the Irish remedial legislation, no matter how amended, will be thrown out by the Lords. CRICKET.

LONDON ASYLUM WINS.

The cricket event of the season in the western district—so much talked about by old cricketers and anticipated with so much pleasant expectancy by the local eleven—the two days 'match between the Hamilton club and the Asylum club—came (S. Leiser the past incolors) Hamilton club and the Asylum club—came off during the past two days on the Asylum grounds. The weather throughout was everything that could be desired, being warm and dry with a cloudless sky, and the contesting teams were both in first-class condition. The home team was greatly strengthened by the addition of Rev. F. W. Terry, who is just now visiting his London friends during his holidays, and wish this acquisition both teams seemed to feel that they had met friendly foemen worthy of their best skill. Hamilton has so many years been the home amilton has so many years been the home first-class cricket in Ontario, and the ondon men had so often accepted their of first-class cricket in Ontario, and the London men had so often accepted their frue cricketing hospitality and experienced their supremacy at the noble game, that everything combined to place the match on the best possible focting, both from a cricket point of view and from the basis of of personal regard.

The captain of the home team won the toss and elected to take the bat, and before the last wicket fell the Asylum team had 183 runs to their credit, Rev. Mr. Terry making 59, Dr. Beemer 23, W. A. Waiker 14, D. J. Bacon 10, C. S. Hyman 11, Geo. England 14, and Dr. Ross 30 runs.

After luncheon the visitors went in and compiled 138 runs, A. Gillespie making 10, Atter luncheon the visitors went in and compiled 138 runs, A. Gillespie making 10, K. Martin 14, F. G. Pattison 16, and Fleet 52, not out. There still being half an hour to spare before the time arranged for drawing atumps, the home eleven went in again and lost three wickets for 17 runs, thus leaving the Asylum Club 62 runs ahead, with three wickets down in the second inning, at the close of the first day's play.

second inning, at the close of the first day's play.

On Thursday morning, soon after 10 clock; Dr. Beemer and M. A. Walker continued the accond inning of the Asylum cleven, but the whole team was put down for the small score of 89 runs, Mr. Walker being unfortunately disabled when he was scoring safely and rapidly. The visitors soon began their second inning with a score of 135 runs to make to win, and at this time, as, indeed, at any period of the match, the chances seemed about even in the minds of those who knew the comparative strength of the opposing teams. The visitors' inning, however, closed with a total of 127 runs, A. Martin making 50, A. Gillespie 630, and F. G. Pattison 15, not out, leaving the home team 7 runs ahead. The best of feeling existed throughout the play, and old feeling existed throughout the play, and old leading the home team 7 runs ahead. The best of feeling existed throughout the play, and old risk class of the best witnessed in London for many years. Mr. Young performed the duties of umpire for Hamilton and Mr. R. Bayly, Q.C., for the Asylum club in a way entirely acceptable to both teams, and Mr. G. B. Sippi did the scoring. Below is appended the score in full: feeling existed throughout the play, and old

The London Bicycle Club will hold their weekly run this evening, leaving the club house at 7.30 sharp. A nice route has been arranged, and a pleasant time is assured for all present.

THE COMING RACE.

The London's race meet on Aug. 16 promises to be a big affair. Through the kindness of the City Council and Western Fair Board the track and grounds have been secured. The club intend introducing at these races a new feature in bicycling, viz.: a fancy drill on wheels under the direction of a late drill master of the British army. Several hundred wheelmen will be in the city on that day, and the citizens should turn out in large numbers and support the club in their endeavor to provide enjoyable sport. At a meeting of the club last evening reports from the different committees were received, and all the necessary arrangements are being rapidly completed.

Delegates representing 101,000 men voted against the resolution. It is provided that the miners in question shall give notice to their masters of the termination of their contracts on the next "making up" day.

WEIR CITY, Kan, July 20.—A number of striking miners, together with a number of their wives, attacked the strippit miners in one of the mines near here this afternoon. A fierce fight ensued, in which clubs, rocks and firearms were used. About 100 shots were fired and a number on both sides were injured. No one was killed.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 20.—At 1:30 'clock this afternoon Patrick Gallagher, the confessor, requested the presence of Warden Wright at his cell in the penitentiary. Warden Wright responded at once. Gallagher said: Warden, I have been in—all night and wish to say to you now that the confession made by me yesterday was all a botched up scheme, and that I was dragged into it. I wish now to retract everything that was said in that confession, and wish you would send for the attorneys interested, as I will decline to sign the confession. The warden immediately notified District Attorney Burleigh and Attorney Porter. After three hours' talk with Gallagher, District Attorney Burleigh came out and said that Gallagher had declared under oath that every statement he made vesterday was absolutely false, and that under oath that every statement he made vesterday was absolutely false, and that Dempsey, Beattie and Davidson are guilty

CHAPTER XXXVI.

The house was bazing with light, every window bright with it. Mrs. Cray loved pomp and vanity in all their forms, and she generally caused her rooms to be lighted with the first glimmer of twilight. Mark Cray stelped into his handsome hall and was received by a couple of footmen. Filing his hat to one, his gloves to another, he hounded upstairs to his dressingroom, conclust that he was keeping the dinner and his guests waiting. A SLIGHT CHECK.

ing his hat to one, his gloves to another, he bounded upstairs to his dressing com, conclous that he was keeping the dinner and his guests waiting.

Did Mark Cray ever cast sigh of regret to the quiet life at Hallingham, when he and his wife used to sit down to mutton outlets and a pudding and think the fare good moment? Not yet. Dress and dinners and expense of all sorts bring a fascination with them all too enthralling to the senses. How they pall upon the wearied spirit in time, how they deaden the heart and debase the intellect, let those answer who have become their slaves; but Mark Cray and his wife had not reached that period of weariness yet. You may be very sure, knowing what you do know of the world and the generality of people who populate it, that Mr. and Mrs. Cray wanted not for what is called society. The great projector of the Great Wheal Bang Company, holding in his own hands the power to make others rich, was not likely to lack adulation in his private capacity any more than in his publicate, and he and his wife drank their fill of it. Mark's mind was shallow and his head locrably empty, but he was sufficiently altractive in manners to win his way in society, even without the adjunct just mentioned. Mark was looked upon as a gentleman also; for it had somehow got reported the he was a naphew of the proud baronat of Thorndyke. Perhaps it may be forgiven to poor empty-headed Mark that he held his tongue from contradicting it, and suffered the world to think he was of the family of that great man. As to Caroliue, people were in love with her beauty and her youth, and the costly extravagances of the house in Grosvenor Place bore their own charm. Altogether, more guests crowded the doors could always hold. Many satellites of the great world, of a position far above the real one of Mark Cray and his wife, flocked to pay them court; and neither of them was eneough to see how unuitable are extremes, or to discern that the acquaintance would never have been condescended to, but that Mark was the femile board; on the contrary, it would have been a marked circumstance now had he and his wife dined alone.

Mark washed his hands and hurried on his coat, and in a few minutes was this dinnertable, his guests on either side of him. One guest at it, Mark could only regard with natonishment, and that was Miss Davenal. Not that Miss Davenal was not fit to grace a dinner-table, no lady more so at her age in the three kingdoms; but she had so resolutely abstained from honoring Mark's house with her presence, that he had never expected to see her in it again. Caroline said she should invite her and Sara to meet their old friends the Fords, and Mark had laughed when he heard it, "She'll never come," he said; "you might as well ask the lioness from the Zoological Gardens." However, here she was; she had chosen to come. She sat on Mark's left hand, her delicate features quite beautiful in their refinement; Miss Ford was on his right, a shrinking little woman of 40 years; Miss Mary Ford and Sara Davenal were lower down, and the physician, a little, red-faced, thin man, who talked incessantly and wore nankin pantaloons, was next to Caroline. "Put a knife and fork for Mr. Barker had not made his servants; but Mr. Barker had not made his spearance yot. Those were all the guests.

There is something false about Caroline to-day. Look at her dress! Caroline in her evening dress had long put off the mourning for her good uncle, her more than father, dead though he had been but four menths yet; but she is to-day a little ashamed of her hasts, and she has assumed these black ribbons before these Hallingham friends and her Aunt Bettina, to make believe that she still wears it. Her violet eyes are intensely bright, and her cheeks glow with their sweetest and softest of carnine. Sara wears a black crape robe, a little edging of white only on its low body and sleeves, and she wears no ornament, except the jet beads on her neck and arms. The two Miss Fords are in copper-colored The two Miss Fords, simple and the miss Miss Fords, simple and the miss Miss Fords, simple and fish, and Carolines with a country of the miss Miss Fords, simple are two missing the form of the Miss Fords, simple and plants are two missing the form of the Miss Fords, s

But she knew better than to mar the meeting with any unpleasant reproaches of foreboding them, and she was as cordialand chatty as her deafness allowed. It was a roal pleasure to meet Hallingham friends, and Miss Bettine onjoyed herself more than she had ever done since the doctor's 'each, and Caroline marshaled her guests to the glittering drawing room; glittering with its mirrors, its chandellers, and the many lights from its glided girandoles. Dr. Ford and Mark followed shortly, and found them drinking coffee. Caroline and Sara were stealing a minute's private chat together; they had lived apart of late.

"How did you get my aunt to come?"

The blushes tingled on her cheeks as Mr. Oswald Cray touched her hand. Tingled at the thought that it was not the first time that they had met that day.

A change of even a few degrees makes the difference between comfort and pain to many persons. Happily disease now holds less sway. The Western Fair Board has realized the importance of the interests focused in cycling. At its meeting yesterday afternoon the proposal of the London Bicycle Club's representatives—Mr. Percy Caroll, Dr. J. Balfour and Dr. C. W. Belton—to construct a cinder track in connection with the fair, was received by the members present with cordial approval.

Mr. Carroll said that the object of the committee's attendance was to ascertain whether the board would be willing to aid financially an enterprise which had been often broached, but never realized. He would like to hear what the board was prepared to do.

Capt. Porte, who presided, wanted to know whether the wheelmen had not some definite plan regarding the project.

Mr. Carroll said that the club to which he belonged thought of attempting to secure a bonus of $1,000 equally divided between the board and the city council. He was of the opinion that an excellent track could be procured for $1,300. The bicyclists would be willing to contribute enough to make up the amount mentioned.

Col. Gartshore asked who would have the regulation of the track when it was instituted.

Interligible instituted.

Mr. Carroll believed that the bicyclists should have control; that they should have the repairs and running of the track under their supervision, as they were the persons most interested in its preservation and condition.

Mr. Thomas A. Browne maintained that the board should assume management. The board already had a superintendent of grounds and his duties could easily be enlarged without any material expense being incurred.

Ald. Welford observed that the bicyclists being incurred.

Ald. Welford observed that the bicyclists should start a subscription in aid of the scheme. He thought if they would do this, very little aid would need to be sought from the board. Three thousand dollars could easily be obtained in such a way, and the long desired athletic grounds might then be established.

Mr. Carroll remarked that as far as the expense was concerned, the board should not demur. Five hundred dollars would be readily realizable from a single meet. The board could inaugurate both their fair and the track this fall, and indemnify themselves twice over for the present outlay.

Dr. Balfour said that a bicycle track would be of great value to the city in bringing outsiders within its precincts. The bicyclists had to have a track, and this would be the last time the board would be asked to move in the matter.

Capt. Porte expressed himself as entirely favorable—to the proposition. There were, however several difficulties which would have to be solved before a satisfactory outcome of the suggestion could be effected. He was entirely in favor of the board doing anything in its power to forward a desirable and beneficial pastime.

Mr. George Taylor moved, seconded by Ald. J. Welford, "that the proposition of a bicycle track at Queen's Park be approved of by the board, and that the proposition of a bicycle track at Queen's Park be approved of by the board and that the proposition be referred to the executive to con-

Mr. Carroll then thanked the board for the favorable consideration which had been accorded the views of the wheelmen, and hoped that a speedy and successful realization of the scheme would be reached.

A Man of 57 Infatuated With a Child

AUBURN, July 20.—Edward Wilson's attempt at murder and suicide on Monday was a preconceived plan, and one of the strangest cases of insane infatuation on record is also brought to light by letters found upon his person. His age was 57 years, and he was enamored of his landlady's daughter, Maude Smith, aged 7 years. It is thought he went to the boarding-house to kill Maude and then himself, but he was driven away after firing one shot and then made the attempt on the life of Seals, the marble-cutter, who he claimed had ruined his life by coming between him and his darling Maude.

A letter found on his person betrays an over-mastering passion for the young girl.

He said he had been driven from her door He said he had been driven from her door and now did not care to live without his darling Maude. He announced his intention of taking her with him before the great Judge, where they could get justice. He was not afraid to die. He was driven to it, and nobody knew what he had suffered for the past three weeks. He hoped all would forgive him and he bade everybody a long farewell. The letter was signed by his full name and addressed to a friend in this city.

HUMANE SOCIETY NOTES

Contributed by the Secretary—Good Work Dene.

At the last meeting, July 18, of the London Humane Society, the inspector's report for the month was laid before the board. It was a most satisfactory record of work done and neither time nor trauble have been spared in alleviating unnecessary suffering! and in righting many wrongs done, arising either through ignorance or cruelty. He reported several cases of poultry and calves being brought to market improperly tied, also cases of over-crowdin small coops. He had many of these cruelties remedied on the spot and others were warned not to repeat the offense.

The larger part of the report dealt with horses, and extended over several visits to stables. The stables were on the whole satisfactory, excepting in one or two cases are states the approach had been several visits to stables. This hotel is the great remedied on the spot and others were warned not to repeat the effense.

The larger part of the report dealt with borses, and extended over several visits to stables. The stables were on the whole satisfactory, excepting in one or two cases where the animals had been allowed out with sore backs and in one case he found two horses suffering from galled shoulders caused by drawing gravel, and as the poor creatures were in a very lean condition, the inspector thought the owner ought to be summoned.

The most serious case was that of a street car horse on the morning of the 15th, when, on reaching the stables at the East End, the poor animal fell down, presumably from over-driving, and could not be got up. The inspector sent for Dr. Wilson, who pronounced the horse to be dying and had it removed into the yard and put at one out of further suffering. In justice to the street railway company, it may be stated that Manager Break is doing his best to meet the society's wishes and obviate such cases.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

-A pretty malden on the sand Sighed forth "Ah me, ah me! If there were but a youth at hand How happy could I be!"

A youth within his office stayed And cried, "Alack-n-day! Beside the sea with some fair maid I would that I could stray."

Tie thus the world wags on amiss And people cry "Alas!" And meetings that would thrill with bliss Fate never brings to pass.

Charles Baker, a lad of 18 years, seems, like the little girl in the catechism, past redemption. He has been in the reformatory, and is now charged with three distinct thefts. In the Police Court this morning he pleaded guilty to each accusation—that of stealing a pair of boots from T. A. Mara & Co., of appropriating a new suit of clothes belonging to Chapman & Co., and of seizing a bicycle and lawn mower, valued at $25, the property of W. R. Hobbs. He will be sentenced next Thursday. A small boy named Henry Joneshired alivery rig the other day and drove it furiously on the street. To conclude the diversion properly he was fined $1. A woman drunk was allowed to go with a warning.

Palmer—Watson.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Ann's Church Monday evening, July 17. from the residence of Mrs. C. McIntyre, 630 Howard street, Detroit, Rev. Father Grande officiating. The contracting parties were Miss Mary Watson, of London, Ont., daughter of Mr. Joseph Watson, a well known and popular engineer on the Grand Trunk Railway, and Walter A. Palmer, formerly of London, but now of Pontiac, Mich. The bride was attired in cream albatross, trimmed with point lace and orange blossoms. Miss Evelyn McIntyre, cousin of the bride, acted as maid of honor, and was attired in pink henrietta, and carried a bouquet of marguerites. Wm. C. McIntyre acted as groomsman. After the ceremony they repaired to the residence of Mrs. Chas. McIntyre, aunt of the bride, where only friends and immediate relatives of the family were present. A sumptuous wedding repast was served, after which they took their departure for their future residence, Pontiac, Mrs. William Peed 606. Milne-Reed.

The residence of Mr. William Reed, 29 The residence of Mr. William Reed, 296 Horton street, was the scene of a very happy event Wednesday, the occasion being the marriage of his daughter, Annie L., to Mr. Robert C. Mine, traveler for R. C. Maefic & Co., city. The grounds, which were beautifully illuminated, presented a very gay and attractive appearance. A spacious marque had been erected in the rear, where the wedding breakfast was partaken of by the numerous guests, among whem were friends of the bride from New York, Albany, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, ork, Albany, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago foronto and Hamilton. The bride wa eautifully attired in cream lace, and wa Misses Ethel Reed and Nett familton. Misses Ethel Reed and Nettle Anderson, of Hamilton, were maids of the control of the c their friends. The ceremony was per-rmed by the Rev. J. W. P. Smith, of hrist Church. The wedding presents are both numerous and costly, among which was an oil portrait of the brid presented by the groom.
