Russians Occupying Six Border
Towns on the Tumen River—
Eastern War News.

Friday, April 8.—The brief despatches from the east of war appearing in London newspapers during the past few days all have been curiously stereotyped, indicating an active censorship. This applies particularly to points under Japanese control, but from the Russian side it also is evident care is being exercised to prevent the news of operations leaking out. The Japanese fleet continues cruising not far distant from Port Arthur. The Standard's Chefoo correspondent announces that a steamer which arrived there Tuesday sighted Japanese warships off Wei-Hai-Wei. The correspondent at Seoul, of the Daily Telegraph, cables that a correspondent at Gensan has telegraphed informing him that it took six days to travel 183 miles from Seoul to Gensan, owing to the state of the roads.

SCARCITY OF FOOD.
A Vladivostok despatch says: "There is a bad Easter outlook here owing to the scarcity of food. The poor people are unable to afford the customary Easter pies and eggs. In view of the petroleum famine the local authorities have taken over the oil supplies, and have placed the inhabitants on an allowance of a pound of oil per day."

JAP REFUGEES.
A St. Petersburg despatch says: "Through the U.S. Government, Russia has again been requested by Japan to allow the Japanese refugees on Sakhalin Island to be transported to Japan. The Foreign Office has already returned a favorable response to this request. The delay in the completing arrangements is due to the delay in consulting the military authorities of the island. The U. S. Government will probably send a neutral ship to take refugees off the island."

NEARING THE YALU.
Shanghai, April 7.—It has been learned here that the Russians have placed submarine mines off the coast of Tekushan, about 20 miles west of the mouth of the Yalu river, as well as in the estuary of the Yalu. The Japanese army now in Korea is reaching the south bank of the Yalu river at different points. Refugees who have arrived here from Korea, assert that the fear that the Japanese may land at Posset Bay, near Vladivostok, is causing a general exodus inland. Even the Russian garrisons in that locality are retreating, leaving only small outposts behind.

OFF PORT ARTHUR.
St. Petersburg, April 7.—8 p. m.—The Admiralty has received information that a Japanese squadron has been cruising off Port Arthur since yesterday.

A HOSPITAL SHIP.
The Russian volunteer fleet steamer Kazan, damaged during the first bombardment of Port Arthur, has been converted into a hospital ship.

CROSSED THE YALU.
Chicago, April 7.—A cablegram to the Daily News from Tokio says: "Reliable reports were received here to-day from Seoul to the effect that part of the Japanese fighting line has crossed the Yalu and established itself in strong positions there at several important points."

BOWLERS BUSY

"You will have to be real good this summer," said L. E. Tilton to J. W. Webb this morning, "we have got five clerymen in the bowling club now."

"Well," replied Shorty, "in that case we will be sure of one good rank anyway. I am glad there is going to be lots of enthusiasm over bowling for I think I will be right at myself this summer," he added modestly.

Dr. R. V. Bray, who happened to be standing near, murmured something about "It takes nine tailors to make a man," and as Mr. Webb was one of the supporters of the Opera House, Hood he understood the allusion and didn't enjoy the laugh that followed the doctor's remark.

Mr. Tilton, Mr. Humphrey and Mr. VonGutten are all out with membership lists and they already have about 85 members and hope to make the number swell to 100 before they are through. The club have sent a petition to the government for permission to build a bungalow on the park and if this is granted they will have things their way for some good sport this summer.

Roy E. Abram, a well known member of the Darrell football club, who has been employed in the Pere Marquette freight office at St. Thomas, is spending a few days with friends in Darrell and Chatham. Mr. Abram does not intend to return to St. Thomas, but will accept a position in either Chatham or Detroit.

Standing committees will be struck and other important business transacted. Every Conservative is cordially invited to be present at eight o'clock.

AN AUTO LIFE IS STRENUOUS

Such is the Verdict of Public School Trustee Heyward After His Initial Jaunt.

With Mr. O'Keefe He Met Experiences—Popular Place For Stunts is Near Physicist's Office.

School Trustee Geo. S. Heyward and J. T. O'Keefe were seen out Wednesday riding around in the latter's natty new automobile run-about. The new auto is a dandy and makes the third to arrive in the city, and if the craze continues, it will by no means be the last.

Mr. Heyward is getting to be a regular auto enthusiast. The other day he was also seen riding around with Dr. Cornell and Bert Jones, and his friends would not be surprised if they saw him riding around in one of his own in the near future.

"I am rather new at riding around in autos," said George to a Planet reporter, "but I am beginning to get a little used to it now. It is certainly a fine sport at the start, and when you become accustomed to it there is no ride that is better or more pleasant."

"Mr. O'Keefe and I had rather an exciting time of it Wednesday. When he came for me he said he didn't know the first thing about running the machine yet, but he was willing to make a try of it. I knew even less than he did about it, but I prepared myself for the worst and jumped in. "Everything was all right until we got in front of Dr. McKeough's office. We were whizzing along towards the gas office when a team of horses became frightened at the machine, I don't blame them very much, for I was a little shaky about the thing myself. However, I knew that if anything happened we were near a good surgeon's office and this afforded a little re-assurance. We got through all right, but the team ran away, and another horse became frightened at them and ran away, too. That was how the excitement started, and things were kept lively from that on."

"When we turned the King street corner at the gas office immediately afterwards, Joe thought he would try a little scorching. The scorching was so hot that it brought the perspiration out all over me. We saw a team ahead of us and I suggested that if might not be an unwise thing to slacken a little before we passed them. Joe thought so, too, but he couldn't find the right crank and there wasn't much time to look for it. He accidentally touched a secret button or something and the machine came to a sudden dead stop a few yards behind the wagon. We both jumped out about the same time, but I think I lit first."

"After fussing around with a monkey wrench for some time we finally got started again."

"We had one more adventure before we were through. We were over the creek and started another runaway. The only thing I was sorry about happened here. A lady was thrown out of the rig and slightly injured."

"Automobile riding is all right, but I wouldn't do any of it if my hair were not already grey. If it weren't my friends would not know me after the first ride."

CONSTABLE CONDEMNED

"Johnson, you are unfit to be a constable. The council should dismiss you at their very next meeting," was the way Judge Houston told it to John Johnson at the police court this morning, for bringing a charge against one White, for assault and not being able to prove it. "The idea," continued the Judge with a smile, "of coming up to my place under the influence of liquor and getting me up in the middle of the night for such a thing. You are unfit for the position and I would advise you to resign your position as constable. I dismiss the case and you will have to pay the costs."

Johnson charged White with assaulting him. The costs amounted to three dollars. Johnson paid. O. L. Lewis acted for White.

LOOKS LIKE A "HOLD UP"

City Council Decide to Fight the Alleged Claims of the Thompson Co.

Important Meeting Held Last Evening—Citizens' Deputation
Met With Co-operation.

At their special meeting and conference last evening the City Council unanimously decided to fight the case of the Thompson Electric Co., in which suit for $400 is entered, to a finish. It appeared evident from the conference that the plaintiff was engaged in an effort to "hold-up" the city for the amount, by reason of the demise of several important city witnesses, viz., the late Wm. Douglas, Q. C., the late Engineer Gilbert Wiles, the late Geo. C. Rankin, and the late Engineers Moore and Tomlinson. It was felt, however, that this could be shown at the trial, which takes place in Toronto next week. The facts show that at the time of the installation of the Thompson dynamo in 1897, they were reported satisfactory and that $400 was held back by mutual agreement from the purchase price to put them in first class working order. A sum altogether exceeding that amount was spent by the city, so that, in reality the plaintiff got the better of the agreement, but the lapse of time and the death of material witnesses enables him to instigate what the aldermen term "an attempted hold-up" for the amount.

There were present at the meeting his worship Mayor McKeough and Ald. Marshall, Figgott, Westman, Scullard and Tye, ex-Mayor Smith, ex-Mayor Sulman, ex-Ald. Cowie, City Solicitors Wilson and Gundy, City Clerk Merritt, Supt. Jones and Engineer Dunn.

After hearing a discussion of the evidence the decision was unanimously a vote to fight the issue. A citizens deputation, consisting of S. Stephenson and G. W. Salman, asked the co-operation of the Council in the forthcoming street fair and old boys' reunion. The aldermen present heartily extended the co-operation asked.

Enterprising Citizens Take Up the Matter and Propose to Carry it Out.

A meeting of the citizens, called for last night in the parlors of the Garner House, was fairly well attended. Although the meeting was not large it made up for its size in enthusiasm.

The object of the meeting was to meet Dr. Fontaine, of Sarnia, in reference to the having here, in the week of May 30th to June 4th, a street fair and celebration of a very high class character.

The people of Sarnia, Mr. Fontaine explained, have been negotiating and completing arrangements for the "Street Fair" for their town since last November and have, with great trouble, succeeded in getting 20 attractions of the very best class. Three of these attractions are free shows, which give two performances daily. The other seventeen are pay shows with an admission ranging from 10 to 25 cents. All the shows are good of the character which lady or child can attend and thoroughly enjoy. The Sarnia people have made all their arrangements with the well-known Spellman Amusement Society, of Cleveland, O. Chatham will have no arrangement to make for the attractions, other than the guarantee, and they will follow right on here from Sarnia.

The meeting was quite enthusiastic over the affair and the amount to be raised will be in the neighborhood of from $1,200 to $1,500.

All at the meeting thought it would be a great thing for the city and suggested the idea of having the old boys' reunion in the same week. A committee was appointed to get subscriptions from local merchants and hotel men.

SULLIVAN'S DYING MESSAGE

John L. Sullivan, the greatest of modern pugilists, lies, a physical wreck, on a sick-bed in Boston. And he sends out this message, through an interviewer: "Remember, young men, that if you couldn't lick John L. Sullivan you can't lick the thing that is stronger than he is. Leave whiskey alone."

There is a more potent argument for total abstinence than a dozen lectures could advance. One of the most perfect specimens of physical manhood and physical strength, invincible in the art of self-defence, dying as a result of the all-conquering power of King Alcohol. Surely young men will heed this warning. But Sullivan is not the first. Men of great physical strength and mental strength as well, have been conquered by the same enemy. Young men, take John L.'s dying advice. — St. Thomas Times.

TO-DAY

Here is Wednesday, writes Charles F. Raymond, in the Toronto Star. It is a day peculiar in its relation to you and to me, and unique in its part in the history of the world. No day has been like this, and no day in the future will ever be just the same. Tuesday is behind us. We go back and try the door, but it is closed, and the key withdrawn. We walk to the room ahead and seek for admittance to that chamber which holds the secrets of to-morrow, but although we knock loudly we cannot secure admittance. We may not even peer through the keyhole, for we are not tall enough. However, the rising of the sun will fling open this door ahead, and we may walk out. And so we are prisoners in this room, this room of To-Day, walled in between the future and the past. Instead of thinking about this room behind us which we may never enter again, or the room ahead which we may never reach, let us stir around and observe things. Let us be active in this present chamber. Let us do something to make it worth while for ourselves and those we call our friends and the world at large. It is not as though we could take our time about it. There is order in all nature. (There is the coming and going, the dying and the re-birth of things. It is all mysterious. And this morning I saw a sparrow that carried a straw to the house-top. This sparrow is building a home for itself. It has never been informed of the probabilities. It does not know that to-day is April 8th, 1905, but yet it builds a home. And so this sparrow was one of the things worth noting as I passed through this room to-day, walking west. He said plainly in his flight with the straw and as he sat peering over the eave-trough, "Never mind if the winter has been long. Spring is coming, and I am building my summer home." Thus the warmer weather seemed just a little nearer.

Talk is cheap. Honors have been showered on Mr. Pettipiece as the champion of the people's interests in the movement for the equalization of taxation. There is glory for him in addressing the Canadian Club and the University students on the question. Measured by what he has said, Mr. Pettipiece is a Wilberforce attacking an injustice more powerfully entrenched than was the slave system of old. Measured by what he has done, Mr. Pettipiece is pliable clay in the hands of the potter and potters, Ross and Gibson. — Guelph Herald.

STARTLING STORY OF MRS. ADAMS

Stricken With Bright's Disease, all Hope of Life was Abandoned

Her Restoration to Health Causes a Sensation in the Medical World.

Doctors Gave Her Up, But Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Her Completely.

Collingwood, Ont., April 7.—(Special)—While Canada stands agast at the terrible inroads Bright's Disease is making on the ranks of the brightest and best of her citizens; while the medical profession stand helpless before the dread destroyer of life, Collingwood has among her citizens one who knows all its terrors, who has been carried down by it till the portals of death were open to receive her, and who to-day is a strong, healthy, happy woman—a woman who knows Bright's Disease in all its hideousness, but who fears it not, because she knows its cure.

Mrs. Thomas Adams is this lady's name, and she has now been a resident of Collingwood for a year and a half. Before that she lived in Burk's Falls, where she is widely known and highly respected. Mrs. Adams feels it her duty to spread the good news all over Canada, all over the world, that she has found a cure for Bright's Disease, and that that cure is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

MRS. ADAMS' STORY.

"Yes," she said, when interviewed regarding her case, "my friends can tell you how terribly ill I was. My doctor pronounced it Bright's Disease and Sciatica, but I got no relief from anything he gave me. It was Dodd's Kidney Pills that drove away the terrible disease, raised me from my bed of suffering, and made me a well and happy woman."

"I was for years troubled with a pain in my back, at times it would have to keep my bed. In March, 1900, I got so bad with pains in my back and hip that I was more helpless than an infant, and at times gave up all hope of getting well. I had no power of my back or limbs. I was for eight months an invalid, and my sufferings during that time were something too terrible for words to describe. My doctor said I had Bright's Disease, but he could do nothing to give me relief."

HOW THE CURE CAME.

"It was then a friend of my husband induced me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I had no faith in them, for I never expected to get better. But I tried them, and I thank God that I did. They brought me relief almost from the first, and after taking three boxes I was able to do my own work and look after my children."

"It is three years since I started using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I have not had a return of my trouble since. When I feel a little out of sorts I just get a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and they drive all the pains away."

It is needless to say Mrs. Adams' friends all use Dodd's Kidney Pills. They find that a remedy that cures Bright's Disease easily disposes of all the earlier stages of Kidney complaint.

Motherly Advice.

Every mother possesses information of vital value to her young daughter. That daughter is a precious legacy, and the responsibility for her future is largely in the hands of the mother. The mysterious change that develops the thoughtless girl into the thoughtful woman should find the mother on the watch day and night. As she cares for the physical well-being of her daughter, so will the woman be, and her children also.

When a young girl's thoughts become sluggish, when she experiences headaches, dizziness, faintness, and exhibits an abnormal disposition to sleep, pains in the back and lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude, and a dislike for the society of other girls, when she is a mystery to herself and friends, then the mother should go to her aid promptly. At such a time aid nature a little and prepare the young system for the coming change by using

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Case of a Young Girl, of Interest to Every Mother and Daughter in the Land.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to write you these few lines thanking you for what you have done for me. I was in a terrible condition, could not eat or sleep, had no strength, felt tired all the time. I had such a bad color that my mother was very much worried about me. Also suffered with headache, backache, pains all over. Menstruation was very irregular and scanty, and had such bearing-down pains. I have taken both the Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and now I am a well girl. I cannot be grateful enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies have done for me. I would advise all who suffer as I did to write to you for advice.—Miss KATIE C. CONNOR, 102 S. Franklin St., Wilmington, Del."

A medicine that has restored so many women to health and can produce proof of the fact must be regarded with respect. This is the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which cannot be equalled by any other medicine the world has ever produced.

It is well to remember these facts when some druggist asks you to buy something which he says is "just as good." That is impossible, as no other medicine has such a record of cures as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so do not experiment with untried medicines, but insist upon the one you know is best.

SPECIAL ADVICE TO YOUNG WOMEN FREE.

From a vast experience in treating female ills, extending over 20 years, Mrs. Pinkham has gained a knowledge which is of untold value to every ailing young woman. Her advice never fails to help. If you need such help write her at Lynn, Mass.

HOW IT'S DONE.

It's from the stomach the blood is fed and the nerves controlled.

Undigested food ferments for lack of gastric juice. The fermentation and putrefaction in the stomach and alimentary canal are the main causes of disease. It upsets the nerves. It poisons the eye sin.

Dr. Leonard's Anti-Put increases the necessary supply of gastric juices in quantity and quality to insure perfect stomach action. It has similar action on bile formation. Anyone can prove this for himself by addressing Wilson-Frye Co., Niagara Falls, Ont., for free sample.

It's Impure Blood.

"What is it?" asks the mother as she notices the smooth skin of her child marred by a red or pimply eruption. It is impure blood, and the child needs at once to begin the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the best and surest remedy for impurity of the blood. It entirely eradicates the poisons which corrupt the blood and cause disease. It cures scrofula, boils, pimples, eczema, salt-rheum and other eruptive diseases which are the direct result of impure blood. It enriches as well as purifies the blood.

"Dr. Pierce's medicine has not only benefited me greatly, but it has done wonders for my two sons," writes Mrs. M. H. Bartrick, of Demeter, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Both had scrofula. I have lost two daughters in less than five years with consumption and scrofula. My eldest son was taken two or three years ago with hemorrhage from the lungs. It troubled him for over a year. He took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and has not had a hemorrhage in over a year. My younger son had scrofula sores on his neck; had two lanced, but has not had any since he commenced to take your medicine."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Hours and Luck.

As strong as the superstition of Friday is that concerning certain hours in European and oriental countries.

In Paris the superstition is so prevalent that an enterprising business is that of selling cards on which are printed the hours that should be avoided.

The famous Gambetta consulted a reader of cards as to the auspicious day for embarking on any important enterprise.

President Carnot was skeptical of such things, and he chose an unlucky hour for his journey to Lyons, where he was assassinated.

St. Roger de Coverley.

Ralph Thoresby, writing in 1717 of the family of Calverley of Calverley, Yorkshire, says: "Roger was a person of renowned hospitality, since at this time the obsolete tune of 'Roger a Calverley' is referred to him. He was a knight and lived in the time of Richard I." This passage carries the date of the origin of the tune back to about 1190. The Spectator in a description of Sir Roger, now called 'de Coverley,' says, 'His great-grandfather was the inventor of the famous country dance which is called after him.'

A Matter of Doubt.

A minister in a certain city said: "My brethren, the collection will now be taken for my expenses for a trip, for I am going away for my health. The more I receive the longer I can stay." The largest collection ever made in that church was taken. And now the question under discussion is whether the size of the collection was a compliment to the preacher or much the reverse.

The Story of a Discovery.

How many valuable inventions have been the result of pure accident, while in other cases men have puzzled their brains with study for a lifetime and brought forth nothing!

It happened one night that a big starch factory on the banks of the Liffey, near Dublin, took fire, and great puddles of starch and water were left outside.

Some calico printers who had been out all night and were quite tipsy came along toward morning, and one of them stumbled into one of the puddles. He found it so sticky that all his clothes stuck to him so fast that he had to stay in bed next morning till his wife soaked them out.

The man knew from his trade that the starch and water had formed a very powerful and valuable gum. He went back to the place of the fire and investigated, and the result was the discovery of the adhesive gum now used in sticking postage stamps and which has made many rich. But temperance lecturers need not know it.—Boston Globe.

A Vivid Imagination.

A furniture dealer tells a little story that shows how some people are constituted. A lady ordered an elegant easy chair of a peculiar kind. It was made and sent to her house. She examined it carefully and critically, finally remarking that it suited her exactly, with one exception—it was too soft. She sent the chair back to be made a trifle harder. It was returned to the shop and put aside. Nothing was done to it. After a lapse of about a week the chair was sent out again. The lady again examined it and now found it too hard. She was sorry, but when she paid so much to get an article for her own comfort she wanted it just right, so she sent it back to the shop for another change. The chair was again put aside for a week or ten days and sent out for the third time without the least alteration. This time it was just right. She took the chair, paid for it and was sorry it had not suited her at first. The poor woman never knew that the chair had not been changed a particle.

IN THE MERRY MERRY SPRINGTIME

You Must Get Rid of That Tired Spring Feeling—How and Why Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Drive It Away.

In the Springtime the Stomach needs a rest. It has been working overtime all the winter through supplying the different parts of the body with the heat and strength they need.

It is wearied, and when the stomach is wearied all the body must be in a like condition. For when the stomach is tired and unable to do its full work the different muscles and organs do not receive the food they need. They become weak and starved.

This causes that tired feeling that is so prevalent in the springtime. The remedy is to give your stomach a rest, and the simplest and best way to do it is to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets rest the stomach by taking the work of digestion off its hands. They digest the food and the stomach rests and returns to its natural and healthy state. That's why Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure permanently as well as relieve.

Daniel DeCov, of Highgate, is registered at the Sanatorium. Mr. DeCov has a severe attack of rheumatism, and, having heard of the marvellous cures effected by the Chatham mineral water, he has decided to take a course of baths.

Canoeing, which has ever been a favorite pastime among many local lovers of aquatic sports, promises to be very popular in Chatham this summer. Already some of the young gentlemen are talking of forming a canoe club and it has been decided to hold a meeting in the Garner House parlors next Wednesday evening, for the purpose of organizing such a club. It is hoped that as many as are able will attend and help the scheme along to a successful issue. There are several now who have canoes and it is expected that their number will swell greatly before the season is over.

PREMIER ROSS IN QUANDARY

Reaping the Reward of Vacillation on the Liquor Question.

Now Afraid to Enter on a "Banish-the-Bar" Campaign, for Political Reasons.

Toronto, April 7.—Finding himself at last in a corner, and inspired by a spirit of desperation, there now appears to be a possibility, even a probability that Hon. Geo. W. Ross contemplates shattering his party and appealing to the country on a "banish the bars" cry. Defeat, he realizes, confronts him, but he desires, if possible, defeat without disgrace.

Meaningless as it may have seemed, and, undoubtedly, was in itself, the letter which Mr. Ross yesterday sent to the temperance deputation, has aroused new interest in the whole political prohibition question.

The most significant feature of the whole situation is the unmistakable undercurrent of feeling that something is going to happen. Just what that something will be is the subject of many.

"Does the Premier's letter preface a campaign on a prohibition basis?" is the question asked in big black letters in the Liberal organ to-night. Many interviewers support an affirmative answer. A leading liquor man veils to the view foreshadowed by your correspondent last night, that the Premier contemplates the bold course of reorganizing his cabinet, introducing a banish-the-bars bill, and posing as a little hero throughout the country. He cherishes the belief, however, that this will not be done till next session, assuming that the Government will survive the protests now pending by a process of saw-off. This surmise contains the flaw that there are five Liberal protests and three Conservative. The loss of one seat practically puts the Government out of business, and it is scarcely possible that they can escape.

If this is the plan the Premier contemplates as there is every reason to believe, it is an admission that a tremendous effort is necessary to cover up the many sins which have been brought home to the discredited party. Delays are dangerous, and there is probably only one reason why the Premier would not cast the dice at the present session. That reason, it is learned on good authority, is the imperative interests of his party at Ottawa. It is understood that they have decided to go to the country in September. To bring on a Provincial contest on a banish-the-bars basis before that time would so disrupt the party organization as to preclude any hope of success. So the prohibition Premier, in his eleventh-hour virtue, must bow to party exigencies, and he may yet realize that he who hesitates is lost. This is the situation as it appears to careful observers.

It is this is the plan the Premier contemplates as there is every reason to believe, it is an admission that a tremendous effort is necessary to cover up the many sins which have been brought home to the discredited party. Delays are dangerous, and there is probably only one reason why the Premier would not cast the dice at the present session. That reason, it is learned on good authority, is the imperative interests of his party at Ottawa. It is understood that they have decided to go to the country in September. To bring on a Provincial contest on a banish-the-bars basis before that time would so disrupt the party organization as to preclude any hope of success. So the prohibition Premier, in his eleventh-hour virtue, must bow to party exigencies, and he may yet realize that he who hesitates is lost. This is the situation as it appears to careful observers.

Old Hagar's Secret...

By Mrs. M. J. Holmes...

"Nothing," answered Mag, a little testily, "only he's the meanest man!—Wouldn't follow me, when I leaped the gorge, and I know he could, if he had tried."

"Showed his good sense," interrupted Hagar, adding that Maggie mustn't think every man was going to risk his neck for her.

"I don't think so, of course," returned Maggie; "but he might act better—almost commanded me to come back and join him, as though I was a little child; but I wouldn't do it. I told him I'd go down to the long bridge and cross, expecting, of course, he'd meet me there; and instead of that, he has gone off home. How did he know what accident would befall me?"

"Accident!" repeated Hagar; "accident! I tell you, who know every root and turn of these woods so much better than he does?"

"Well, any way, he might have waited for me," returned Mag. "I don't believe he'd care if I were to get killed. I mean to scare him and see," and springing from Hagar's back, she gave a peculiar wailing sound, at which the pony he rode away toward home, while she followed Hagar into the cottage, where a letter from Henry awaited her.

They were to sail for Cuba on the 15th of October, and he now wrote, asking if Maggie would go without her grandmother's consent. But, though irate when he before broached the subject, Mag was decided now. "She would not run away," and so she said to Hagar, to whom she confided the whole affair.

"I do not think it would be right to elope," she said. "In three years more I shall be twenty-one, and free to do as I like; and if grandma will not let me marry Henry now, we must wait. I can't run away. Rose would not approve of it, I'm sure, and I must know Mr. Carrollton would not."

"I can't see how his approving or not approving can affect you," said Hagar, then bending down, so that her wild eyes looked full in Maggie's eyes, she said, "Are you beginning to like this Englishman?"

"Why, no, I guess I ain't," answered Mag, coloring slightly. "I dislike him dreadfully, he's so proud. Why, he did the same as to say that if I were your grandchild he would not ride with me."

"My grandchild, Maggie Miller!—my grandchild!" shrieked Hagar. "What put that into his head?"

Thinking her emotion caused by anger at Arthur Carrollton, Mag mentally chided herself for having inadvertently said what she did, while, at the same time, she tried to soothe old Hagar, who rocked to and fro, as was her custom when her "crazy spells" were on. Growing a little more composed, she said, at last, "Marry Henry Warner, he all means, Maggie; he ain't as proud as Carrollton—he would not care so much if he knew it."

"Knew what?" asked Mag; and, remembering herself in time, Hagar answered adroitly, "Knew of your promise to let me live with you. You remember it, don't you?" and she looked wistfully toward Mag, who, far more intent upon something else, answered, "Yes, I remember. But hush! Don't I hear horses' feet coming rapidly through the woods?" and gazing to the window, she saw Mr. Carrollton, mounted upon Gritty, and riding furiously toward the house.

"You go out, Hagar, and see if he is looking for me," whispered Mag.

"You go out, Hagar, and see if he is looking for me," whispered Mag.

"You go out, Hagar, and see if he is looking for me," whispered Mag.

stepping back, so he could not see.

"Henry Warner must snare the bird quick, or he will lose it," muttered Hagar, as she walked to the door, where, evidently much excited, Mr. Carrollton asked if "she knew aught of Miss Miller, and why Gritty had come home alone? It is such an unusual occurrence," said he, "that we felt alarmed, and I have come in quest of her."

From her post near the window, Maggie could plainly see his face, which was very pale, and expressive of much concern, while his voice, she fancied, trembled as he spoke her name.

"He does care," she thought; woman's pride was satisfied, and ere Hagar could reply she ran out, saying laughingly, "And so you thought maybe I was killed, but I'm not. I concluded to walk home and let Gritty go on in advance. I did not mean to frighten grandma."

"She was not so much alarmed as myself," said Mr. Carrollton, the troubled expression of his countenance changing at once. "You do not know how anxious I was when I saw Gritty come riderless to the door, nor yet how relieved I am in finding you thus unharmed."

Maggie knew she did not deserve this, and blushing like a guilty child, she offered no resistance when he lifted her in the saddle gently and tenderly, as if she had indeed escaped some great danger.

"It is time you were home," said he, and, throwing the bridle across his arm, he rested his hand upon the saddle and walked slowly by her side.

All his fabled coldness was forgotten; neither was the leap, nor yet the bridge, once mentioned, for he was only too happy in having her back alive, while she was doubting the propriety of an experiment, which, in the two matters had taken, seemed to involve deception. Observing at last that he occasionally pressed his hand upon his side, she asked the cause, and was told that he had formerly been subject to a pain in his side, which excitement or fright greatly augmented. "I hoped I was free from it," he said, "but the sight of Gritty dashing up to the door without you brought on a slight attack; for I knew if you were harmed the fault was mine for having rather unceremoniously deserted you."

This was more than Mag could endure in silence. The frank ingenuousness of her nature prevailed, and turning toward him her dark, beautiful eyes, in which tears were shining, she said: "Forgive me, Mr. Carrollton. I sent Gritty home on purpose to see if you would be annoyed, for I felt vexed because you could not follow my whim and meet me at the bridge. I am sorry. I caused you any uneasiness," she continued, as she saw a shadow flit over his face. "Will you forgive me?"

Arthur Carrollton could not resist the pleading of those lustrous eyes, nor yet refuse to take the ungodly hand she offered him; and if, in token of reconciliation, he did press it, it was more fervently than Henry Warner would have thought at all necessary, he only did what under the circumstances, it was very natural he should do. From the first Maggie Miller had been a puzzle to Arthur Carrollton; but he was fast learning to read her—was beginning to understand how perfectly artless she was—and this little incident increased, rather than diminished, his admiration.

"I will forgive you, Maggie," he said, "on one condition. You must promise never again to experiment with my feelings in a similar manner."

The promise was readily given, and then they proceeded on as leisurely as if at home there was no anxious grandmother vibrating between her black-backed chair and the piazza, nor yet an Anna Jeffrey, watching them enviously as they came slowly up the road.

That night there came to Mr. Carrollton a letter from Montreal, saying his immediate presence was necessary there, on a business matter of some importance, and he accordingly decided to go on the morrow.

"When may we expect you back?" asked Madam Conway, as in the morning he was preparing for his journey.

"It will, perhaps, be two months at least before I return," said he, adding that there was a possibility of his being obliged to go immediately to England.

In the recess of the window Mag was standing, thinking there was no such thing as parting from those she liked—even as little as she did Arthur Carrollton.

"I won't let him know that I care, though," she thought, and forcing a smile to her face, she was about turning to bid him good-by when she heard him tell her grandmother of the possibility there was that he would be obliged to go directly to England from Montreal.

"Then I may never see him again," she thought, and her tears burst forth involuntarily at the idea of parting with him forever.

Faster and faster they came, until at last, fearing lest he should see them, she ran away up stairs, and mounting to her room, sat down behind the chimney, where, herself unobserved, she could watch him far up the road. From the half-closed door of her chamber, Anna Jeffrey had seen Mag stealing up the tower stairs; had seen, too, that she was weeping, and suspecting the cause, she went quietly down to the parlor to hear what Arthur Carrollton would say. The carriage was waiting, his trunk was in its place, his hat was in his hand; to Madam Conway he said good-by; to Anna Jeffrey, too, and still he lingered, looking wistfully round in quest of something, which evidently was not there.

"Where's Margaret?" he asked at last, and Madam Conway answered, "Surely, where can she be? Have you seen her, Anna?"

"I saw her on the stairs some time ago," said Anna, adding that possibly she had gone to see Hagar, she usually visited her at this hour.

A shade of disappointment passed over Mr. Carrollton's face as he replied, "Tell her I am sorry she thinks more of Hagar than of me," leaning against the chimney, Mag watched with tearful eyes the carriage as it wound up the grassy road.

The next moment he was gone, and on the brow of the hill, just before it would disappear from sight, it suddenly stopped. Something was the matter with the harness, and while John was busy adjusting it, Mr. Carrollton leaned from the window, and looking back, started involuntarily as he caught sight of the figure so clearly defined upon the house-top. A slight suspicion of the truth came upon him, and, kissing his hand, he waved it gracefully toward her. Mag's handkerchief was wet with tears, but she shook it out in the morning breeze, and sent to Arthur Carrollton, as she thought, her last good-by.

Fearing lest her grandmother should see her swollen eyes, she stole down the stairs, and taking her shawl and bonnet from the table in the hall, ran off into the woods, going to a pleasant, mossy bank, not far from Hagar's cottage, where she had more than once sat with Arthur Carrollton, and where she fancied she would never sit with him again.

VIN ST MICHEL

Nature's Own Tonic.

Is work now hard that was once easy? Have passing years brought weakness, tiredness, nervousness?

You will surely appreciate Vin St Michel. The first bottle you take of this rich, fruity, tonic wine will make you feel better and stronger than you have felt for years. And a wine-glassful, three times daily, for a few weeks, will drive away that dull, tired, listless feeling—start up all your oldtime energy and vigor—make the brain active, the muscles strong, the digestion sound—and make the day's work easy again.

WAS IN A CRITICAL CONDITION.

System was Run Down.

FELT DROWSY AND MISERABLE.

Burdock Blood Bitters

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM AND ADDED TEN POUNDS IN WEIGHT.

Mr. Ed. J. Harris, Newbridge, Ont., was in poor health, but has now been restored to full health and vigor. Here is what he writes us: "Last spring I was in a very critical condition, my system was all run down. I felt drowsy and miserable, and thought I would surely die if I did not get something to build me up. After reading one of your almanacs I decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I had taken two bottles I had gained ten pounds in weight, and am now in perfect health, and I can certainly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters to build up the system."

Doc Arnold—I ran a mile the other day and only moved two feet.

Dr. Garnet Holmes—My automobile is coming, and as soon as it comes it will be going.

A woman makes a capital listener when her husband talks in his sleep.—Guelph Herald.

I know J. T. O'Keefe's automobile is all right. Lord Loudon has lent it his distinguished patronage.

Fred Brisco—Well, I reckon the two-wheeled, foot-power automobiles will still be mostly used this year.

Shorty Hackett—I think I'll get one of those four-wheeled tricycles like Doctor Cornell has. They beat mine altogether.

The young men of this city will meet on Wednesday evening to form a canoe club. I wonder if the girls will like this.

If the city aldermen would settle their differences a la John L. Sullivan, they could do it quicker and there would be less differences to settle.

Dr. Perdue—Mr. French was a couple of days late in hearing that frog sing. I heard lots of them piping in the ponds at the G. T. R. on Sunday afternoon.

The Centenary Methodist Church, Hamilton, has adopted the surplice gowns and garbs for the choir. Perhaps the members of that church got tired of spring and fall millinery shows in the church choir.

W. W. Seane—After all, there isn't a great deal of difference between the way you tell the age of a horse and of a chicken. You tell the number of years a horse has lived on this terrestrial sphere by his teeth, and you tell the antiquity of a chicken by your own teeth.

The marriage of Miss Jennie Day, of Peoria, Ill., and William J. Rainey, of St. Louis, Mo., will take place at the home of the bride's parents in Peoria to-day. The heading "Rainey-Day" will look well over this spring-time announcement in the Peoria papers.—Stratford Herald.

I guess Rainey will have to put up, but not necessarily an umbrella.

URNS CANADA'S WAY.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy Writes of the Tide of Prosperity

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, writes in the New York Daily News of the tide of prosperity, which is turning Canada's way. Sir Thomas has this to say:

"The tide of immigration is turning from the United States to Canada, and is sweeping through the great Northwest at a pace that is amazing to Canadians. Towns and villages have risen where but a few months ago there were only vast plains and forests.

"During the past year 33,000 homesteads sprang up in the Northwest, and the same number of farms have been created and made profitable for their holders. Though the present year is still young, immigrants continue to pour into Canada. The number may not seem big to the people of the United States, but they do to the people of Canada.

All over the Dominion there exists a feeling of great satisfaction because of the turn of the tide.

"It is more difficult with us in Canada to get immigrants, but the sudden increase indicates great progress in the Northwest. Canada is going to have relatively the same growth as the United States and is going to be a big, throbbing, agricultural centre. Canada is going to have the same protective tariff as the United States.

"Canada is going to have great industries and it is going to make all of its own home products and take care of its workmen.

"Canada after all has had a protective tariff almost on the same basis as that of the United States, but there has still been a marked difference, and the prevailing sentiment in Canada is to put it on exactly the same basis as that of the United States.

"Keep your eyes on Canada. She is well worth studying at this important period of her growth. Canada is growing every hour. She is becoming active and is making great strides in the direction of prosperity. Her people are pushing ahead with the ambitious purpose to build up industries all over Canada, and they are going to do it.

"Canada is going to be one of the greatest, if not the greatest, agricultural centres in the world, and it is toward this end that Canada is working. By making Canada a great agricultural centre the people of Canada hope to make it a great industrial centre. There is not the slightest doubt in my mind as to their success.

"As to the improvements being made by the Canadian Pacific Railroad Company, I can say little, except that they are important and extensive. We are pushing work on many new branches and building terminals where they are needed. At the close of the current year we will have expended, since the beginning of 1902, $32,000,000 on improvements, aside from the building of new lines. We are going to keep right on making improvements, and we are going to do all we can to make Canada a prosperous agricultural and industrial centre."

It takes a woman to make a man feel his want of importance.

THE SLATER SHOE

"The Sign of the Slate"

is the guide post to good shoes. It is the sign that never misleads—that never points the way to doubtful shoes.

"The Sign of the Slate" marks the home of "Slater" Shoes. It tells the passers-by that this is the place of honestly made shoes—comfortable shoes—stylish shoes—and shoes that are vouched for by a Canadian company that lives up to every word of its guarantee.

The man who takes the "Sign of the Slate" as his guidepost, is on the straight road to foot comfort, shoe satisfaction, and economy.

Every pair of "SLATER" Shoes has this trade mark label sewn on the lining. Whenever you buy—look for it. Any shoe that has not this label in it, IS NOT a "Slater" Shoe.
