Thirty Thousand Prisoners Taken in Last Week

SOVIETS ARE EVACUATING MOSCOW CITY

Gold Reserves Removed—Bolshevik Leaders Have Already Fled

REPUBLIC IN DANGER

Czecho-Slovaks Appreciate Recognition as an Allied Nation

Amsterdam, Aug. 15.—British wireless press—Soviet troops have begun to evacuate Moscow. The gold reserves which had been in the basement of the Kremlin already have been removed to an unknown place.

Dispatches received in London on Monday reporting that Premier Lenine and War Minister Trotsky had fled to the naval base at Kronstadt adding that the Government departments would be removed there. Whether the Soviet troops were forced to depart from Moscow is not clear; but the loss of the city to the Soviet Government undoubtedly would be a serious blow to their cause.

Moscow, the ancient capital of Russia, was made the Soviet capital in March. The Lenine Government fled there from Petrograd, toward which the German troops were marching. It has been reported within the past few days that the Germans had renewed their march toward Petrograd. Czecho-Slovak troops have been reported in force along the Volga about 500 miles east of Moscow.

REPUBLIC IN DANGER

London, Aug. 15.—The Soviet Government has issued a proclamation declaring that the Russian republic is in danger, according to telegram from Helsinki, received in Stockholm and quoted by the correspondent of The Times there. The Petrograd Soviet have retired to Kronstadt. Armed peasants are reported to be marching on Petrograd from surrounding districts. They declare they are starving and that the red guards have stolen all their food. Dissatisfaction with the Soviets is said to prevail everywhere in Russia.

British Well received. London, Aug. 15.—Reuter's Limited learns that the British troops on their way to join the Czech-Slovaks on the Usuri front were received by the Czechs with the greatest enthusiasm at Nikolai and elsewhere. The Dsuri River joins the Amur near Krabarovsk, north of Vladivostok. The Czechs have been engaged with the Bolsheviks in this region for several weeks.

BRITISH CASUALTIES

By Courier Leased Wire. London, Aug. 15.—British casualties reported in the week ending to-day totalled 8,828, compared with an aggregate of 9,866 reported in the previous week. These are divided as follows: Killed or died of wounds, officers 215; men 1,441; Wounded or missing: Officers 647; men 6,317.

WEATHER BULLETIN

Toronto, Aug. 15.—Showers and local thunderstorms have occurred in the Maritime provinces and some light showers in Alberta. Otherwise very fine weather has prevailed generally. Forecasts: Light to moderate winds, today and on Friday with about the same temperature.

BATTLE AT STANDSTILL ALONG THE ENTIRE FRONT FROM GURY TO THIESCOURT

French Hold Ground North of Belval And Have Footing in Plessier-Roye Park—British Make Further Progress on Chaulnes Sector.

By Courier Leased Wire.

With the French Army in France, Wednesday, Aug. 14.—Reuter's.—Along the new battle front from Gury to Thiescourt Wood, the struggle came to a standstill today. In addition to the St. Claude and Eonvillon Farms, we hold ground to the north of Belval, and a footing in Plessier-Roye park. The battle therefore has reached a natural conclusion, and the danger of a counter-attack from Thiescourt Massif has been removed. It is unknown whether the battle will be renewed or not, but if it is it will be a new operation with stronger material and man power on both sides.

BRITISH OFFICIAL

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Bulletin.—The British line has been advanced slightly east of Raincourt in the district of Chaulnes, on the Picardy battle front, today's war office statement announces.

Since August 8, when the Allied attack in Picardy began, the British and French have taken prisoners to the number of 30,344.

British patrols were active throughout last night in the district between Albert and Ayette, where the Germans began their retirement yesterday. The patrols have maintained close touch with the enemy in this region. The British made further progress at several points along this front.

The text of the statement reads: Severe local fighting took place last night to our advantage east of Rainecourt. Our line was advanced slightly in this neighborhood. One of our patrols rushed a hostile post north of Albert, capturing a machine gun.

Between Albert and Ayette, our patrols were active throughout the night, and have maintained closer touch with the enemy. Further progress was made at a number of points, and several prisoners and a few machine guns were taken.

Hostile raiding parties were repulsed last night southeast of Arras, near Gernille.

The enemy's artillery was active east of Robecq, and in the Scherpenberg sector—Flanders.

The total number of prisoners captured by the British Fourth Army since the morning of August 8, is now 21,844. In the same period the prisoners taken by the French First Army amounted to 8,500, making a total of 30,344 prisoners captured in the operations of the Allied armies on the Montdidier-Albert front.

ARTILLERY DUEL

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The violent artillery duel between the Avre and the Oise continued last night, according to the statement from the war office today. A German raid in Champagne failed. The statement reads:

The night was marked by the rather intense activity of the artillery between the Avre and the Oise.

An enemy raid in Champagne against the Marquis sector was without result.

With the British Army in France, Aug. 15.—By the Associated Press.—In the battle area between Fouquescourt and Roye, the enemy appears to be in a fairly strong position in the old trenches behind the rusty wire erected prior to July, 1916. This area is strongly garrisoned.

However, there are no immediate signs of a counter-offensive here or elsewhere. The enemy seems to have accepted defeat, preferring not to attempt any operations which might cost him heavy losses.

It is believed that the Germans themselves are somewhat nervous. According to the talk of prisoners, which may or may not be correct, at least five, and probably more enemy divisions were withdrawn from the fight in an exhausted condition.

There have been only a few real developments on the British front in the past few hours. The Australians have cleared the enemy from Cateaux Wood just south of Bray, straightening their line at the river and eliminating an enemy strong point. CLOSE ADRIATIC SEA TO ENEMY SUBMARINES

French, Italian, Saloniki and Palestine Campaigns Depend at Least Partially on Sea Communication With Mediterranean

Manchester, Aug. 15.—The Manchester Guardian discusses the remarks of Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the American Navy Department, with regard to the closing of the Adriatic Sea to enemy submarines. What Mr. Roosevelt says about important naval measures to keep the Mediterranean reasonably clear of submarines, says the newspaper, is very welcome. Four campaigns depend wholly or partially on sea communication in the Mediterranean, the French, Italian, Saloniki and Palestine campaigns.

GERMAN ADMIRALTY HAS NEW STATE SECRETARY

By Courier Leased Wire. Amsterdam, Aug. 15.—Vice-Admiral Behneke has been appointed state secretary to the German Admiralty, says The Weser Zeitung of Bremen. He was formerly vice-chief of the naval general staff. Vice-Admiral Behneke succeeds Vice-Admiral von Capelle in the office of secretary to the Admiralty or Minister of Marine, as the office is customarily designated.

RE-ALIGNMENT OF GERMAN POSITIONS MADE NECESSARY BY ALLIED GAINS IN PICARDY

Enemy Troops Have Begun a Retirement on a Five-Mile Front, But Complete Details of the Movement are Still Lacking—Momentary Lull in Fighting Facilitates Withdrawal by the Teutons.

By the Associated Press. Allied success in Picardy apparently has compelled the Germans to realign their positions between Albert and Arras. Enemy troops have begun a retirement on a five mile front, but complete details of the movement are lacking.

Between the Ancre and the Oise the fighting is still confined to local actions at various points. The British and French have improved their positions slightly north of the Somme, northwest of Roye, south of Lassigny and along the Oise. Enemy troops have shown no disposition to counter attack elsewhere, and have confined their retaliatory efforts to artillery bombardments.

The extent of the German withdrawal north of Albert is not yet clearly defined, and its effect upon the situation as a whole is problematical. Field Marshal Haig announces the enemy has left his forward positions at Beaumont, Hamel, Serre, Plessieux-au-Mont and Baucigny. These are in the Hebuterne sector, where the Germans were stopped in their offensive of March 21. Many vain efforts were made by the Germans to reach the heights around Hebuterne, as their positions in this sector were dominated by the British guns. Should the German lines be moved back any great depth the line south to Albert and thence to the Somme would be affected. Likewise the line northward to the Scarpe might have to be readjusted. It is not unlikely the movement here is similar in purpose to the recent withdrawals in the Lys salient, and is part of a German plan to get into strong positions as quick as possible on the entire front from Ypres to Ghent.

"RETREAT SPECIALIST" IN SUPREME COMMAND OF HUN FORCES ON SOMME

General Hans Von Boehn Appointed to Take Charge of Entire Sector; Retirement of Wider Extent is Thus Foreshadowed, Critics Believe

By Courier Leased Wire.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—Havas Agency.—General Hans von Boehn, the German retreat specialist has been appointed to the supreme German command on the Somme front. The newspapers believe that this change in the German command is highly significant. The German withdrawal north of Albert is looked upon as the first application of his tactics.

General von Boehn and his former command, the German Eighth army, stood the brunt of the Allied pressure in the Marne salient previous to the withdrawal to the north of the Vesle. The German troops engaged in the fighting east and southeast of Amiens have been under the command of Generals von Der Marwitz and von Lutier and in the army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria.

Gathering Strength.

Paris, Aug. 15.—Both sides are gathering strength for a resumption of heavy fighting. That, however, does not prevent the French from hammering away at the Lassigny-Noyon line and doggedly struggling onward through gas-choked woods.

General Humbert's men have carried Ribecourt, which barred the road running toward Noyon, between Thiescourt ridge and the Oise, and protected the Germans in Ourscamp Forest east of the river. It is a useful success that seriously endangers both Thiescourt ridge and the Ourscamp salient.

The enemy in the Thiescourt position already severely shaken by the attacks of General Humbert's left, is reported to be showing signs of giving way.

A Month's Success.

Paris, Aug. 15.—Just four weeks ago to-day the residents of Paris were awakened by the sounds of such a cannonade as they never had heard before. It was General Mangin's counter-preparation against the German attack, which the enemy believed was to bring him to the gates of Paris.

In phrases tempered with joy the morning newspapers outline the great change that one short month has brought. The enemy, who was at the gates of Amiens, Rheims and Compiègne, has been soundly beaten and outgeneraled at every point and initiative has been swung from him by the military genius of Marshal Foch. The German command, it is said, has transferred the direction of operations to General von Boehn, a specialist in retreats.

Allied troops have captured 75,000 prisoners and more than 1,700 guns. This is a greater number than the Allies have taken in four weeks since the beginning of the war.

Record Number of Raids. London, Aug. 15.—A record number of air raids were made into German territory during July. The total is said authoritatively to be 96. The bombs dropped amount to 81 tons.

APPROPRIATE RECOGNITION

Washington, Aug. 15.—Thomas G. Marosky, president of the Czech-Slav national council, has sent a message to Arthur J. Balfour, British secretary of foreign affairs, expressing appreciation for the action of the British government in recognizing the Czech-Slovaks as a nation.

This step is conclusive evidence for all oppressed nations of Austria-Hungary and Europe, of the earnestness with which your nation is waging this war as one for the liberation of the oppressed nationalities, the message says.

CHILD BADLY BURNED.

As a result of running and jumping over a pile of burning leaves, Zola Russell, Northumberland street, a little tot of about four years of age, was badly burned about the feet and legs shortly before noon to-day. Dr. West and Wiley are in attendance, and the child is said to be in a critical condition.

HISTORIC BARN.

Interesting Features of the Land-scape in England.

The great old stone barns of England, dating many of them from the fourteenth century, are comparatively speaking, little known to the general public. The beautiful architecture to be found in the English village churches has received its full measure of appreciation...

Yet the barn is intimately bound up with the history of the neighborhood in such a way, and where, for possibly nearly 500 years, it has been fulfilling practically the same eminently important functions...

The rising cost of living is the great universal hardship of the present day. So great and so many have these rises been that few people stop to realize that there have been many exceptions to the general rule.

The present agitation on the high cost of living has led to some investigations which have brought out a lot of facts hitherto unknown to the public.

Some of the most important work in this line is being done by the Association of National Advertisers, an organization of 260 of the leading advertisers of the country.

Mr. Sullivan, the secretary-treasurer of the association, has given out some vitally important facts concerning the relation of advertising to selling costs.

"The old idea," said Mr. Sullivan, "that the cost of advertising raises prices, dies hard. But the business man knows better. He knows that selling goods is costly business—no matter what the goods or what the selling methods.

And he knows that anything which creates demand on a large scale, and thus makes selling easier, is bound to reduce selling costs and thus helps to reduce prices.

"But the evidence is better than argument; facts are better than theories, and we have been at great pains to collect the facts. We have secured an immense amount of data from our members which proves that advertising does reduce selling costs and thus tends to reduce the selling price of advertised goods.

Let me quote a few examples:

"The makers of a famous photographic camera, when they began advertising twenty-eight years ago, made one camera which took a 2 1/2-inch picture, and which sold at $25.

Today they make a far better camera which sells for $10. Another, which took a 4x5 picture, sold for $60. Today they sell a far better one for $20. And so on through the line.

"A prominent hat manufacturer has, by means of advertising, reduced his selling cost seven cents per hat. Result—the buyer gets a hat of better quality at no increase in price; this despite increased cost of raw material and workmanship.

"When the manufacturer of a famous breakfast food specialty began advertising, his goods sold at 15 cents a package. Today the package is fifty per cent. larger, and the price has been reduced to 10 cents. Again advertising did it, the same causes producing the same results.

"The producer of another well known food specialty is selling his goods at 25 per cent. less to the wholesale grocery trade than four years ago.

"Twenty years ago a nationally advertised shaving stick was sold in a cheap metal leatherette covered box. Today a stick containing 20 per cent. more soap is sold in a handsome nickel box at the same price.

"Then take the most conspicuous example of them all—the automobile business; and compare the $5,000, or $10,000 cars of ten years ago with the equally good cars of today, selling for a fraction of the money.

"And so on through a long list. In every case, the manufacturer either has been able to lower the price or improve the quality at no increase in price."

How has he done it? By means of advertising, which has created demand on a larger scale, and thus permitted production and distribution on a large scale. Result—improved manufacturing efficiency and reduced costs. And all of this in the face of a steady increase in the cost of labor and raw materials which, with advertising eliminated, might in many cases have doubled the price of the goods.

"A triumph of economical marketing" is the only possible verdict for advertising in the face of these facts.

Proof That ADVERTISING Lowers Selling Cost Some new facts and figures throw a flood of light on this subject

Let me quote a few examples:

"The makers of a famous photographic camera, when they began advertising twenty-eight years ago, made one camera which took a 2 1/2-inch picture, and which sold at $25.

Today they make a far better camera which sells for $10. Another, which took a 4x5 picture, sold for $60. Today they sell a far better one for $20. And so on through the line.

"A prominent hat manufacturer has, by means of advertising, reduced his selling cost seven cents per hat. Result—the buyer gets a hat of better quality at no increase in price; this despite increased cost of raw material and workmanship.

"When the manufacturer of a famous breakfast food specialty began advertising, his goods sold at 15 cents a package. Today the package is fifty per cent. larger, and the price has been reduced to 10 cents. Again advertising did it, the same causes producing the same results.

"The producer of another well known food specialty is selling his goods at 25 per cent. less to the wholesale grocery trade than four years ago.

"Twenty years ago a nationally advertised shaving stick was sold in a cheap metal leatherette covered box. Today a stick containing 20 per cent. more soap is sold in a handsome nickel box at the same price.

"Then take the most conspicuous example of them all—the automobile business; and compare the $5,000, or $10,000 cars of ten years ago with the equally good cars of today, selling for a fraction of the money.

"And so on through a long list. In every case, the manufacturer either has been able to lower the price or improve the quality at no increase in price."

How has he done it? By means of advertising, which has created demand on a larger scale, and thus permitted production and distribution on a large scale. Result—improved manufacturing efficiency and reduced costs. And all of this in the face of a steady increase in the cost of labor and raw materials which, with advertising eliminated, might in many cases have doubled the price of the goods.

"A triumph of economical marketing" is the only possible verdict for advertising in the face of these facts.

NATIONAL PARKS VALUABLE ASSET

Augment Dominion's Income by Many Millions of Dollars

Ottawa, Aug. 15.—The National Parks of Canada, being powerful magnets for tourist traffic, are becoming an increasingly valuable asset to the Dominion. The immense sums now being added to our national indebtedness make it doubly desirable that the great potential source of revenue which Canada possesses in her scenic wonders and recreational areas be developed to the full, says Mr. J. B. Harkin, Commissioner of Dominion Parks, in his annual report. Mr. Harkin believes that the establishment of a national bureau for tourist travel is an example which might well be followed in Canada. The Secretary of the Interior at Washington estimates that in 1915, over $100,000,000 of the money which formerly went to Europe was diverted to the United States National Parks. Their total number of visitors was about 278,000. The number of visitors to the Canadian Parks during the same year was 121,532, or about 43 per cent. of that which went to the United States parks. On the same basis of expenditure, the travel to the Canadian parks would have been worth somewhere in the neighborhood of $43,000,000. While the amount of money spent in the Canadian parks has never yet been closely estimated, it is evident that it reaches every year a very large sum, that it constitutes a harvest which warrants considerable effort and expenditure to reap. There is probably no field of enterprise in which a small investment brings such a large return. The railways in Canada, as in the United States, have borne the burden of the important work of attracting this valuable tourist traffic. When the railway development of Canada is spoken of, the services rendered by the Grand Trunk naturally come to mind. This was the pioneer road of the Dominion, and year by year it has extended its lines to open up new playgrounds and new industrial and agricultural territories. It has introduced to tens of thousands of tourists the great Canadian resort districts, such as Muskoka Lakes, the Algonquin Park of Ontario, the Thirty Thousand Islands of the Georgian Bay, Timanika, Lake of Bays, and (in the Rockies) Jasper National Park, the Mount Robson region and Alaska. It has made "The Highlands of Ontario" known to vacation seekers in every state of the Union. It carries to the magnificent as well as Canada possesses in her scenic territories.

OLD STREET CRIBS

They Have Long Been Picturesque Features of London.

In the hot August days the old cry of "Sweet Lavender!" is still heard in the streets of London. It comes faintly from the past centuries when streets teemed with vendors, hawkers and peddlers; and not only lavender, but rue and marjoram, rose-blowing and a-growing and "Lilies of the Valley O!" were cried up and down the town in their seasons. "Chairs to mend" is, or was, but a few years ago, still heard in the suburbs, and the milkmen still gave that peculiar, strident cry of theirs as they clattered down the streets, but chairmen and milkmen, or not to resuscitate at the close of the war, who can tell? The history of the street is the history of social changes, some of which are still present upheaval will only have sped the very last of the departing guests, if it puts an end to all that survives of a characteristic feature of London, as it existed from the days of Chaucer, and probably long before, to the Victorian era. Legion was the name of that population of itinerant vendors, peddlers, hawkers and street sellers which congregated in the street of the towns and travelled along the highroads from fair to fair. They have left their traces in literature as well as on the statute books. In 1694 the chapmen and peddlers were threatened with all the terrors of the law against rogues and sturdy beggars, chiefly because they interfered with and hindered the trade of the shopkeepers. Ben Jonson in his comedy of "The Silent Woman" makes Morse walk through the town under a huge turban of nightgown, so that he may escape the cries of the peddlers, orange women, chimney sweeps, broom men and costard-mongers, the loudest of the hundreds of the tribe who so powerfully contributed to hurly-burly of the town. But the earliest writer to mention street cries is John Lydgate, a monk of the Benedictine Abbey of Chertsey, Edmunds, friend of Geoffrey Chaucer, the author of the ballad, "London Lads and Lasses." The hero of this ballad comes to the city of Westminster in term time to obtain legal redress for some wrong done him; and being without any means at all, he is forced to pay even the preliminary fees, he comes to the aid of the humble beseeching to "one with a silken hood," even get the "mum of his mouth." Leaving Westminster Hall he walks to the City of London, through the village of Charing and along Strandwise.

Then unto London I bid me his Of all the land it beareth the prize; Hot peascods; one began to cry; Strawberries, ripe, and cherries in the rise. One bade me come near and buy some spice; Pepper and saffron they gan me. But for lack of money, I might not speed. In Cheap (Cheapside) he sees much people standing and shouting the merits of their "velvets, silk, lawn, and Paris threads." Then I went forth by London Stone, Throughout all Canwyke street, Drapers much cloth me offered anon; Then comes in one crying, "Hot sheep's feet"; One bade me buy a hood to cover my head. But for want of money, I might not be sped. Thinkers were prominent members of the street, fraternity, and among them, in the early part of his career, was John Bunyan. The version of the tinker's cry, which appeared in the "Catch that Catch Can" of the year 1817, was thus: Have you any work for a tinker, miss, Old brass, old pots, or kettles? I'll mend them all with a tink terry tie, And never hurt your kettles. Maids I mend old Pans, or Kettles, Mend old Pans or Kettles, O!" is the more unvarnished version. British Boots for Buddies. U. S. soldiers in Europe are wearing British boots. The boots provided by the military authorities have proved too light for the rough battlefields of the war zone. British army boots are of great strength and heavily ironed. They will stand heavy wear and are specially designed for the stones, mud and damp of the battlefield. The specifications for the boots supplied to the American forces have had to be modified and increased. Meanwhile pending the arrival of the new pattern the American Expeditionary Forces will wear the British article. The British military authorities have placed 1,000,000 pairs of boots at their disposal and can supply further millions of pairs if necessary. There are ample resources to meet all new demands, and the present issue has been produced without the factories working overtime. — New York Sun. Britain's Birth-Rate. Sir Bernard Mallet, the Registrar-General of Births and Deaths, shows that since the war began the population of the United Kingdom has increased by excess of births over deaths to such an extent as to more than counterbalance the whole of the losses of our armies in the field. On the other hand, the civil population of the Central Empire has steadily, and even rapidly, declined since the war began, and estimates that this loss, added to the loss by deaths in the field, has reduced the total population of the Central Empire by at least four millions. — Family Herald. Liquefying Gas Helium. By liquefying the gas helium a European scientist has succeeded in reaching temperatures within six degrees of the absolute zero.

"SORRY TO HAVE BEEN OF TROUBLE"

The Simple Story of a French Lad Who Gave His Life

The following sketch is written by former Brantford young man, now serving as a physician with the American forces in France: No. 6843. He was brought to our auto car on the 28th, 1918. "Hello," he told us that his name was Janvier, and that he had a "plate penetrating thorax." Also a soldier, he was in appearance only a boy. One of the numerous mud and blood stains of the line, pushed into the ranks by the exigencies of war. He looked up and between painful, hurried respirations, enquired: "Are you Englishmen in English? The accent was distinctly that of the recent acquisition of language and the voice soft and sweet to its quality. A vague impression stirred me, that it was the voice of one already numbered with the dead. His face was blanched, his lips quivered, and an unusual brightness of his eyes, with a haunting earnestness, left little doubt that hemorrhage was a factor in his condition. "Hello," he said, "I am here." "Americans are there many of you here?" "Yes—considerable—here and about." "I am glad you are here. Simple, direct, it bespoke a quiet confidence in our coming. We lifted him gently to the operating table. He told us he had lived for a time in Hastings, England, and had just been called to the colors a short time before. The story of his wound is vague. There was a local attack, a barrage, and suddenly he was "hit" and thought by a shell fragment. He fell and lost consciousness and awakened in the ambulance. Gently we examined his wound. Over the left shoulder was a ragged punched-out hole with edges turned in. A fragment of shell had traversed his left lung and lodged far back and down in the body of the seventh vertebra. The removal of our resuscitation was clearly out of the question. A simple dressing was applied to his wound, and he was sent to the ward and as he left us he looked up and said with a sweet smile of happiness to have been of any trouble to you. "For a week he did very well, then a change came over him. Suddenly, and with frightful rapidity the color faded from his cheeks and lips, his eyes somewhat protruding from recession of the soft tissues about them and the skin became waxy. A culture of the blood withdrawn from the chest showed "perfringens," gas gangrene. Quickly and painlessly he sank and at nine in the evening of the 12th day he died. Sister S. held his hand as he made the transition from war and destruction into the vision of a glory yet to be. At his last conscious moment he looked up and said, "I am sorry to have irritated his face. I am sorry to have been of any trouble to you"; and died. I see him marching on with a banner, carrying on his brave man, hardly in his manhood, he yet made the supreme sacrifice and conquered all. Beneath a plain coat of arms, a name by company he sleeps beneath the beneficent legend: "Mort pour la France." In his few years of living he consecrated his soul. In his tragic, hurried experience he defined a cause, and became respondent in personal achievement. His passage from travail to quietude, justified his life and earned the cause by a sacrifice worthy of its traditions, and gave a just expectation to its hopes. In the long review of his career, it may well be said, that it matters little, where he lived or how he lived. The best and noblest portion of his life was summarized, in how he died, in miniature, with less of the atmosphere of personal ambition, he expressed in crude, but poignant words, the spirit of the master martyr of all time. "I am sorry to have been of any trouble to you."

THURSDAY, AUG. 15, 1918
THE SITUATION.
The town of Ribecourt, on the road leading to Noyon, has been captured by the French after a sharp engagement. Preparations for a German counter-attack were broken up by Allied infantry and some battalion commanders taken.

The Australians have cleared the enemy from Cateaux wood and taken all hostile positions between the western outskirts of Bray and Etienneville. In addition, the foe have evacuated to the British their lines on a five-mile front north of Albert.
The figures with regard to submarine tolls continue to make good reading. During July Allied and neutral shipping thus sank reached a total of 270,000 tons, as compared with 134,000 tons in July of 1917. The decrease is all the more notable because of the fact that there has lately been a marked increase in merchant marine navigation.

There has been a lifting of the curtain with regard to affairs in Moscow. After witnessing the violation of the French and British consulates, the American Consul destroyed his papers, turned the affairs of the office over to Sweden and demanded a safe conduct from the country of himself and associates.
It is anticipated that the comparative lull on the Western front may soon witness another series of operations of first magnitude on the part of the Allies.

MOHAWK PARK.
It is safe to affirm that no other city in Ontario can boast of such a great natural resort as Mohawk Park. It is beautifully wooded with many shady dells, there is a splendid sheet of water alongside for bathing and boating facilities and a large arena for sports. Old timers will remember when crowds used to surge down there to attend baseball matches and evening bicycle races, and with the re-erection of a substantial grand stand and some other expenditures this portion of the grounds could again be made a centre of attraction. Then there used to be a stock company in a theatre for the summer months and many other forms of diversion. The result was that excursions from many outside places used to be run here almost daily during the hot weather period and the number of visitors amounted to many thousands each season. Then matters were allowed to lapse, with the consequence that what should prove a place of great and enjoyable resort has in late years fallen into half-hearted notice and patronage. The possibilities are great and undoubted, but they have been sadly neglected—there can be no doubt at all about that.

The people own this magnificent property. The sum of $25,000 was paid for it by the municipality and some other land was also acquired to construct a wide approach which has never been done. The people also own the Street Railway, by which the resort can be handily reached and in both respects, under a progressive policy, infinite pleasure and recreation could not only be afforded citizens, but in addition these two publicly owned enterprises could acquire much to be desired financial earnings. Nature, with a lavish hand, has bestowed of her best upon Mohawk Park and other attractions should be added in the shape of innocent and healthy amusements. There should be a driveway constructed for autos with a nominal charge for entrance as an offset to loss of car fare and the sports arena, brought up-to-date. The street car service should also be more frequent and care taken to efficiently handle the crowds on special occasions. If the park could be made a successful and enjoyable centre when the city was not nearly its present size and opportunities to reach Brantford by radial were non-existent, surely it can be made trebly so now with the local population at 30,000 and three radial feeders reaching this centre. The cordial response and approval of citizens with regard to The Courier agitation in this matter affords abundant proof that citizens are ripe and eager for a broad-minded and comprehensive policy.
The thing can be done and should be done and it is up to the members of the Parks Board and the Street Railway Board to get together with reference to some comprehensive plan. Such a cause would have public backing and hearty cooperation. In short, the people are not only alive to the need for such action, but expect it to be taken.

THE HINDU SETTLEMENT.
Sir Robert Borden, who is depleted by some papers as idling away his time in the Old Land, continues, to accomplish a lot of work with regard to Dominion interests. One of the things accomplished is with reference to the Hindu problem. The Pacific provinces in particular have been deeply interested in this matter. Some of these Orientals are already located there, not in large numbers, it is true, but their presence and willingness to work for a white man would be a salvation for a white man and his family, has led to much feeling and apprehension. Sir Robert, in this regard, has been in conference with the Hindu representatives who were in attendance at the Imperial conference, and as the outcome it is announced that a solution has been reached. It is that any further general migration to British Columbia is to cease, while those Hindus at present there will be permitted to have their wives and children join them. The changes are that in the years to come, even these will gradually get back to their own country for they miss the native customs and environment. The solution will be regarded by most people as fair and satisfactory.

Dr. Linscott in this column will help you solve your heart problems, religious, marital, social, financial and every other anxious care. Each perplexing problem you present is answered in a five cent stamp. No name will be published; if you prefer, sign your initials only, or use a pseudonym.

Ambitious Young Man—A young man ambitious to "make good" writes for a short recipe for success. Here it is: multum in parvo; Always realizing that God is in and around you. First, build yourself over, discarding the old thoughts of human greatness and power; second, seek practical knowledge, unfold your powers, mental and spiritual, thus seeking first "the kingdom of God" within you; third, put God to the test; fourth, believe in yourself and go forward.
A Warning—There are two things you can do when in trouble: wring your hands and your heart with grief, or keep calm; think philosophically and believe that the trouble will work out for your good. It seems folly to ask, which is the better way? Look over your life and you will see that the sad things have been the glad things; the plagues have been blessings in disguise. The story of Joseph is an example; he was sold as a slave, and after a series of darkest calamities became Prime Minister of Egypt. Each calamity was a necessary step to the throne.

able according to advices received here this afternoon.
British Headquarters in France, Aug. 15.—Canadian Press dispatch from Reuter's Limited—General Ludendorff's recent order that ground must be given if holding on entails an undue expenditure of man power is largely responsible for the German withdrawal around Albert. The wonderful success of the light tanks has probably impressed the German high command with the desirability of getting behind the River Ancre wherever practicable. We have now pushed posts far toward Buequoy. The Hebuterne salient has practically disappeared.

IF YOU KNEW THAT YOU WANTED TO MOVE
But had not decided upon the better place to live, wouldn't the "To Let" ads at once become the most interesting reading matter in the paper for you? If you have something to say to the man who has decided to find a better home, this is a good time to say it.

CANNING CITIZEN BADLY BEE-STUNG

NEWS FROM PARIS

PRINCE LEFT TORONTO
Toronto, Aug. 15.—Prince Arthur of Connaught left this city this morning at 9 o'clock for London. He boarded the train at Government House siding, and meanwhile a guard of honor of 200 R.A.F. men stood waiting at the Union Station to see the Royal visitor off. They were hurriedly moved by street car to north Toronto, and there discovered that the Prince was boarding the train about one mile east of Government House. However, the Prince's train pulled in, and he inspected them on his way to London.

BOWLING JOURNEY.
Toronto, Aug. 15.—W. G. Brown's Ottawa rink will play H. G. Salsbury's St. Catharines rink in the Ontario trophy, one of the important cups of the Dominion Bowling tournament. Brown beat Salsbury in the semi-finals this morning by a score of 17 to 16. The play was probably the most exciting seen in the present tournament and required extra ends to win the Ontario trophy. Salsbury's opponent in the semi-finals, 17 to 12.
In the eighth round of the Toronto Trophy, Darling of Ottawa beat Tom Rusk of Toronto, in the Ontario rink, 15 to 13. This also was vigorously contested.

RELEASE JAILED MAN

Ginniver, charged with alleged contempt of court, in not removing certain buildings in the village of Goderich. He is to appear in court today in the action of Jones vs. Tucker-Smith.

TO CONSIDER NEW BILL
Washington, Aug. 15.—Plans for beginning consideration in the senate next Monday of the new man power bill extending the draft ages, were blocked today by the failure of a quorum to appear when Chairman Chamberlain of the military committee, submitted to the measure with a favorable report. The senate adjourned Monday and the plan now is to have consideration of the bill next Tuesday if possible.
Senator Chamberlain still hopes to pass the measure by Saturday of next week.

PRISONERS ESCAPING.
Washington, Aug. 15.—A great number of Russian prisoners, according to an official despatch from Copenhagen to-day, are escaping from Germany into Denmark. The despatch says that nearly every day fugitives arrive at Ribe, where they are well treated by Danes. A camp has been established for them near Ribe.

A War Prediction.
Mr. Bhattacharj, an Indian astrologer, of Calcutta, has issued a warning which has, at any rate, the merit of definiteness not always forthcoming in predictions of the kind. He predicted that vigorous battles would be fought at Mons on April 15th, 1918, at Namur on June 9th, and at Brussels on August 13th, in all of which the Germans will be defeated. The whole of Belgium will be freed from the hateful presence of the German invader before Dec. 2nd, 1918. Rhenish Prussia will be occupied by the Allies' forces before April 27th, 1919. The Allies will dictate terms of peace on July 1st, 1919, and an armistice will begin from Sept. 5th, 1919. So long as Satan remains in Caesar Mr. Bhattacharj thinks peace is not likely to be concluded, so that with the present winter we may look forward to at least two more Christmases in the field.—Family Herald.

IF ONLY THE SWEET MOMENTS COULD LAST!
There were times, in Ruth and Brian's married life, when they seemed perfectly compatible—when their companionship was complete. Then the storm clouds would come, again, and the period of happiness would be over; once more they would and themselves quarrelling over trifles and jarring on each other's nerves. At these compositions periods, Ruth would realize they had not made a mistake in marrying each other. Brian, too, had these misgivings in regard to the suitability of their marriage. But wait! Does not the fact that there were sunny periods at all, leave just the possibility that there might be sunshine all the time, under the right conditions? Of course it does. And the right conditions ever come?

The foe is worried.
The "splendid isolation" that Germany has contrived to engineer for herself has a few disadvantages which the people of the Fatherland are just beginning to discover, and they are looking anxiously into the future and constantly asking, "What will be our relations with America after the war?" We glean from the press that this question is being asked not only in the industrial centres but at the great shipping ports as well, and the general opinion seems to be that America will "use every effort to harm German interests" by barring Germany from all the raw products she bought from us before the war. As usual, the Germans indulge in bombast rather than fact, and grandiose threats are made as to what the Fatherland will do to us if we don't behave ourselves after the conflict. For example, the Berlin Deutsche Zeitung says:
"If America sells us no cotton, she shall get no potash, which is a serious blow, almost indispensable to impoverished agricultural land. Germany has a world-monopoly of potash. If America gives us no machine and no grain she shall get no dyes, no drugs, no glassware, no optical instruments—in fact, nothing that Germany has exported to the United States in the past.
"it is not yet known in Germany to what extent the United States will depend upon us for such imports after the war, but we may generally assume that none of the other belligerents nor any neutral country will be able to take our place as a producer of all the goods that America uses to buy from us."

Margaret Garrett's Husband
By JANE PHELPS
CHAPTER CXXXII
The Ending
"Oh, my dear, you found daddy, didn't you?" Donald shouted.
"Yes, dear," I replied, a blush stealing up to the roots of my hair.
"Let's walk a little," I said, embarrassed. "Will you come over where you and George are," I said to Donald, and he, satisfied, ran on ahead.
"You are quiet," I remarked as we followed our boy.
"I have been alone so much it has made me so lonely," he replied with a slow smile.
"Tell me that I had not freed him to be alone and lonely, but that wouldn't do! I must not refer to her again. It might still hurt him too much. He had loved her."
"Here comes my dear daddy," Donald announced to Della and his little brother, then he fairly pounced upon Bob and led him away to see how far he could throw.
Presently both voices were ringing out in laughter. Bob's deep tones and Donald's childish treble.
"Mr. Garrett must have been a brave soldier," Della remarked, with one of her loving glances at me. "It is awful to lose an arm."
"Daddy a soldier man," George piped up.
"Is it good is his his left arm?" I said quietly.
"None of them had been me and I was beside him listening to the story. Bob was telling them before anyone of them realized my presence."
"Bob never," Donald who saw me first exclaimed, "daddy is talking me such a nice story. Can you hear?" he asked Bob.
"Bob never wants to," Bob answered smiling at the little boy's face. "But this is a little boy's story, not a man's."
I remember I wore all white, hat, shoes, dress and carried a big rose and white stushade. By the time I was dressed the boys and Della had been some some time, so I walked slowly in the direction I knew they had gone.
I came upon them sitting on the sand, Bob between the two boys, his arm around Donald, and Della quite a distance away knitting.
None of them had seen me and I was beside them listening to the story. Bob was telling them before anyone of them realized my presence.
"Bob never," Donald who saw me first exclaimed, "daddy is talking me such a nice story. Can you hear?" he asked Bob.
"Bob never wants to," Bob answered smiling at the little boy's face. "But this is a little boy's story, not a man's."

CONOSEVITCH BEFORE T. AND L.

Russian Socialist Protested Against Sentences Passed on His Fellows

The semi-monthly meeting of the Brantford Trades and Labor Council was held last night in their hall in the Bank of Hamilton building. There was a large attendance of about thirty delegates and twenty Russians as visitors. Secretary Kite submitted his report that unsuccessful attempts had been made to organize the working girls of the city. The endorsing of the move to place more men on the Fire Department and to establish the platoon system was the next issue. The matter of forming a Firemen's and Policemen's Union was also suggested. The delegate from the Bakers' Union reported that all trouble with the men of one of the local bakeries had been amicably settled as all the men have joined the union. The Blacksmiths also have made progress, over a hundred new members being added to their membership. A motion was passed that a special committee be appointed to probe into the accounts of the defunct Brantford Free Press.

The question of the employees of the Brantford Municipal Railway wearing non-union made uniforms was laid over as there were no delegates present. A call from the Trades and Labor Congress, asking that a delegate be sent to the convention to be held in Quebec, beginning September 16th, was decided to send a representative to the Congress at a cost of 10c per member of the Trade Unions.

A letter had been received from the secretary of the House of Refuge in connection with the matter of representation on the House of Refuge Board. As the Ontario Legislature only has the power to appoint representatives the board could do nothing. A letter from the St. Thomas Trades and Labor Council inquiring as to the cost and method of handling seats was referred to the Fuel Controller. The Port William Council has written the secretary for particulars on the action taken by the Council regarding the sentencing of Russians for having seditious literature. It was decided to send a copy of the report of the trial as published in the local press.

Delegate Parmenter introduced Felix Conosevitch, asking that he be allowed to state the particulars of his wrong. He spoke for some time on the good among the people being done by their societies. He stated that the Russians in Brantford were just as loyal and adverse to Kaiserism as the Canadians themselves and that because they had tried to educate themselves along the lines of democracy they had been persecuted. A number of delegates expressed strong sympathies with the Russians and the possibility of the four-hour day.

Delegate Bremner opposed their strongly stating that it was not right for a Trades and Labor Council to give its backing to men who had refused their allegiance to the Canadian flag. At this point sparks began to fly and President Stencombe ruled the subject closed. A strong appeal for support from the Cigar-makers' Union in their present critical condition was made. Mr. Stone of the Labor Day parade committee said that it was up to the Trades and Labor Council to make Labor Day a real day with a large representation of labor. It was decided to send a delegate to the next meeting of the parade committee with the view to arrange for a union demonstration.

Wm. Britton, a local dairy man, spoke briefly on the inadvisability of pasteurization of milk, as many local veterinarians state that it does not kill the germs. He promised to continue his address at the next meeting. Alderman Symons asked that Mr. Britton produce scientific evidence in the matter.

Mr. Potts, organizer of the Carpenters' organization, spoke very briefly prior to the Council's adjournment.

mans attempted a raid on the Allies' positions. Four managed to get in and one was killed and the others wounded.

The Germans have not desisted from the practice of leaving man traps in the territory from which they have been chased. The body of a British officer found in Aveluy Wood had a German grenade attached to the wrist that it would have exploded had the body been moved incautiously.

In addition to a continuous harassing fire from the artillery, the Germans are suffering at the hands of the British air force. Tons of bombs are being dropped on their day and night, and transports in towns and villages behind the line have been hit. Bridges across the Somme at Peronne and elsewhere have been bombed heavily.

Prisoners captured are unanimous concerning the effectiveness of the low flying British airplanes. They say the airmen have caused tremendous material losses and frequently have blocked roads completely by direct hits. They also have done heavy execution by pouring streams of machine gun bullets into enemy masses at close range.

All the prisoners mention the work of the tanks and seem to have stamped on their minds visions of steel monsters spitting death. One German company commander concluded his remarks about the tanks saying: They are a magnificent weapon, and I can't understand why we have none to speak of.

A German aviator, shot down within the British lines, declared he was positive that the German aerial losses in recent weeks had been much greater than is admitted officially. He said he knew of one instance where five German two-seaters crashed to earth well inside the German lines, but he added, there was no mention of them in official reports.

TERRACE HILL HOUSE BURNED

Home of Albert Lark, 44 Lyons Avenue, Suffered From Fire

OIL STOVE EXPLODED

Fire fanned by a south-west wind wrought great havoc early last evening in the home of a returned soldier, Albert Lark, 44 Lyons avenue. The back part of the house was practically destroyed and the front rooms, though not touched by the devouring element, were badly damaged by heat, smoke and water. The fire was caused by the exploding of a coal oil stove in a small kitchen in the rear. Near the stove was a two-gallon can of coal oil which as well as the fact that there was clear draught right through the centre of the house in the path of the flames, assisted in giving them a start that made it difficult for the firemen to extinguish them. From the back kitchen the fire spread through the doorway into the main kitchen. Here an alarm clock found in the debris showed the time that the fire reached it to be 5:40. From the kitchen the flames spread to the attic and burned through the roof in several places. The furniture was recovered from the front part of the house and only that in the kitchen was lost. When the firemen arrived the fire had gained a good start and it took almost three-quarters of an hour to get it under control. It was found necessary to lay two streams of hose and to use chemicals. The damage inflicted is estimated at about $600, covered by insurance.

RECORD CROWD AT TWILIGHT MEET

Say Mohawk Park Issue Is Up To The Public

Parks Board Willing to Make Improvements if Citizens Wish

EXPENDITURE HEAVY

If the citizens of Brantford are ready to bear the expense, Mohawk Park can be improved in the manner that public opinion demands according to Wm. Glover, secretary of the Parks Board. Approached by a Courier representative yesterday afternoon, Mr. Glover expressed the view that it was up to the citizens. "I have read with considerable interest all The Courier has had to say on this subject," he stated, "and regard it as a step in the right direction, inasmuch as it will serve to impress on the public the fact that expenditure is necessary to improve the park. The Parks Board has been endeavoring to follow a policy of consistent economy during the war, but it is the desire of the rate payers to see this work undertaken. It is up to them. Our appropriation is fixed by law at one half mill on the dollar, however, and we have been trying hard to get within that limit. The last couple of years we have barely succeeded."
 "Is that appropriation intended to cover improvements, as well as maintenance, of the city's parks?"
 "No, it is for maintenance only, but out of it the board has of recent years purchased Recreation Park, Putoka Park and Greenwood playground, so that not much of the money has been wasted.
 Do you not think that the public is far more anxious to see Mohawk Park improved than to see any more money expended on Bell Memorial grounds?"
 "There has been very little expenditure there so far as this board is concerned. The only work which it has undertaken is the planting of a few trees and shrubs necessary to complete the rear of the plot. The laying of the curb and other such undertakings are in the hands of the works department."
 "How about Agricultural Park?"
 "There has been very little expenditure there either, and the Royal Flying Corps mechanics to new fence, which was absolutely necessary."
 "Has the board any plan for improving Mohawk Park?"
 "We certainly have. We have been considering all the improvements suggested by The Courier for some time, but the public does not seem to realize that there are changes which must come gradually, and which, under present conditions, will cost a great deal. Last year two thousand dollars was spent in lighting Mohawk Park and in installing out-houses."
 "And is it not a fact that on the electric power, those out-houses were locked all day?"
 "It is, because, unfortunately, the well attached to them ran dry. Steps are now being taken to remedy that."
 "What about improving the entrance to the park?"
 "Little can be done in that regard until the Dominion Railway Board gives its consent to the application of the street railway for permission to cross the tracks of the Brantford and Hamilton line. That application has been in since last winter. Then it is approved, we can go ahead at once."
 "How about better care of the grounds?"
 "They are kept in fairly good condition now. It would cost a good deal to have them any better looked after."
 "How about the bathing pool?"
 "That has been under consideration by the board for two years, but would necessitate a lot of work in clearing the lake and installing a new bottom. The location is not particularly suitable, either, for the water is stagnant. There has been no great demand for such a pool until the hot weather this summer."
 "Has any effort been made to secure amusements for the park?"
 "Yes, but the holder of the refreshment concessions considers that they would not justify the investment necessary. He should know, for he holds similar concessions in Hamilton and Toronto parks.
 The parks board has thus considered, or expressed a willingness to consider, all the improvements advo-ated by the Courier. The board has no control over the street railway service to the park, and the railway commissions has declined to make the service more frequent than hourly.

"Those who criticize the city for allowing the park to run down" continued Mr. Glover, "are only displaying their ignorance, for it is to be remembered that it is less than three years since the park was purchased by the city, and at that time it was in a far worse state than it is to-day. Those who point out that Mohawk Park was a great attraction twenty years ago must remember that conditions have changed greatly since those days. There was not the competition then that there is to-day; motor cars were fewer—almost unknown, in fact. The board and other pleasure resorts were almost inaccessible."

"Is that not a strong reason for improving the park, so that it will be able to cope with these counter-attractions?"
 "Yes, it is, in a way. The Parks Board certainly recognizes the importance of improving the park, and is willing to undertake the work, if the public is prepared to sanction the necessary expenditure."

Orders Issued Regarding Mechanics of the Old R.F.C.

VOLUNTEERS WANTED

Recruiting Opens at Once for Service in the Siberian Corps

Toronto, Aug. 15.—Detailed instructions have been received from Ottawa regarding the transfer of the Royal Flying Corps mechanics to the Royal Air Force, and also with regard to enlistments in either the cadet or the mechanical wing of the new R.A.F. With regard to enlistments, the instructions state that men drafted to the ranks are to have a chance to transfer to the R.A.F. provided the latter organization wants them. Non-commissioned officers or men of the C.E.F. may make application to serve as cadets with the R.A.F., and when such application is made they will be put on the list of men that are available for overseas drafts, until such time as their applications have been disposed of by the Air Service. If an application is refused, the man will be struck off the list "not available for overseas drafts," but if approved he will be retained on the C.E.F. until he has passed the final tests offered by the Air Force. If, at any time during a man's career as a cadet he falls down on any of the tests or examinations he will immediately become available once more for overseas infantry drafts. Applications from non-commissioned officers or men must be made to their commanding officers, but applications from the commissioned ranks must be forwarded to military headquarters for consideration. Applications for the mechanical wing of the Air Force can be made only by non-commissioned officers or men, commissioned men not being allowed to join this branch of the air service. Such applicants will be considered only in case they are in a category lower than "A."
 The regulations with regard to the transfer from the R.F.C. to the R.A.F. state that men in Class One and liable under the Military Service Act, who do not transfer, but who accept air discharge from the R.F.C. are to be made available for immediate service in the C.E.F., provided their physical condition permits. The option of transferring from the R.F.C. to the R.A.F., or of asking for a discharge, but those who accept the discharge will be handed with a Depot Battalion. Prior to discharges being issued names will be forwarded to the Ontario Registrar in order that the notices to report may be ready by the time the men are discharged. This, however, applies only to men in category "A." If necessary, any man may be taken under escort to a Depot Battalion. Men who were previously in the C.E.F. are to be given their old numbers.

The question of right to appeal after a man has been ordered to report for service has also been cleared up by a special order from the Department of Militia. The new regulations in this respect state that in any case where leave to claim extension of exemption or appeal has been granted after the man is ordered to report, the man concerned will be granted a thirty-day leave of absence, subject to confirmed by the Registrar. In the thirty days the Registrar is supposed to have the man's case decided by the courts.

To Recruit at Once.

Following the appointment of Brig-General J. H. Elmley to command the Siberian Corps, which will be raised in Canada, a telegram was received at Military Headquarters yesterday instructing the officials to start at once to recruit men for this unit. All applications should be made to the Toronto Mobilization Centre, Armouries, where the men will be examined, and if found physically fit, that is, in category "A," they will be attached at once to the Canadian Garrison Battalion at Exhibition Camp, with their papers marked "For the Siberian Corps." As recruiting for this expeditionary force is limited to returned soldiers and men outside Class One of the M.S.A., the assurance is held out that men who are later rejected from this special service. The rates of pay, separation and patriotic allowances, it is pointed out, are the same as for the regular Canadian army. Non-commissioned officers will not be appointed for some time, as all who recruit will be signed on as privates, the non-coms to be selected on point of merit.

This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corners.

MISS' OR SMALL WOMAN'S DRESS.

Soft voile or deep embroidery flouncing will make up most attractively in this design, No. 8821. The dress is quite easy to make and the soft fulness is most becoming to a girlish figure. The shoulder edges of the back extend over to meet the fronts, which are gathered. The simplest kind of a straight vest is set in at the front, forming the youthful square neckline. The long sleeves are gathered into deep cuffs, but if preferred the simpler three-quarter length may be used. The one piece skirt is straight at the lower edge and it is gathered all around to the slightly raised waistline.

The miss' or small woman's dress pattern No. 8821 is cut in three sizes—sixteen, 18 and 20 years. Width at lower edge of skirt is 1 1/2 yards. As on the figure, the sixteen-year size requires 4 yards 30 inch, 3 yards 44 inch, or 2 1/2 yards 54 inch, with one-quarter yard 27 inch contrasting material.

To Obtain This Pattern Send 15c to The Courier Office, or two for 25c.

THE PURSUIT OF THE GERMANS. French infantry fighting amidst the barricades in a village street.

MAKING WAR ON TREES The Verdict of Simple Men

By Lieut. J. B. Morton. In the days of the German retreat from Bapaume and Peronne the batallion was billeted one day in a village which the British had captured. Three inseparable friends deposited their packs side by side in a barn, and took their blankets out of the bundle. They had been through some hard fighting, and Curly, the old regular soldier, lay down at once to snatch a few hours of sleep.

The other two, who were younger men, decided to explore the village as it was still daylight. Tim, the ex-herald of Putney, and Ginger, a comedian from the south of England, sauntered out side by side.

In the centre of the main street there was a large crater, where a carefully laid German mine had exploded during the retreat, and most of the houses were in ruins. But on the outskirts of the village there were a few still habitable. Into one which was an Estaminet, the two friends strolled for a cup of coffee and milk. They sat down at a wooden table. Then Tim got up and walked to the window.

"Bit of a mess they made of this field," he said, looking out. "Look mate."

Ginger came over to his side. "That field was an orchard," he said. "It's had no British shot in it. You can see there's not one shell hole. No, that's just damned destruction. Look at those trees. What savage appetites the Germans are!"

Now Tim had been fond of Kew Gardens and the London parks in a subconscious kind of way, like most cockneys. He regarded trees as something to put seats underneath. They gave a pleasant shade. They had a sentimental association, too. He and his wife had often sat on two little green chairs in the London parks, and discussed their future.

"They do look unnatural sort of," he said, gazing at the destruction. "That's not the point," said Ginger. "You town blokes wouldn't realize that they're not just ornaments. They're food, too, mate. That lot was fruit trees. Orchard, that's what it was. Fruit that ought to have grown ripe in the sun."

"The swine!" he added. "Like mad baboons!"

The two men drank their bowl of coffee and walked slowly back to the barn. "Ought to see that orchard they've done in up there," said Tim to Curly. Curly, whose dreams were strictly of urban scenes, largely centring round a little house in Kentish Town, yawned.

"Think I'll go and get some coffee," he said. Tim pointed out the Estaminet and watched the old soldier go off up the road. Then he and Ginger sat down on their blankets and wrote letters and field post cards.

After some time Curly came back. There was a singular expression on his face. He began to talk. "Somehow," he said, "I don't seem to have noticed trees much before. That lot up there brings them home a bit. Never seen 'em lying about unnatural like before. Then I got a kind of picture of trees what I used to know. Apple trees there was when I was a boy. I used to shin up 'em and the old dad used to sell the apples. Made a tidy bit that way. An' there was birds used to sing in 'em, sing like 'ell in the morning outside my window. It just struck me that some kids might 'ave played among that lot. An' all the branders, is done in. Girls won't eat the wind in them, and they like that. My old woman, now, she's a bit poetic like; often says to me, 'Will!' she says.

Ark at the wind in the trees, like the seaside! Well, anyway, I've 'ad a look at that there orchard, an' I've got things pretty square in my mind. There's accidents, we all know in war. You can't 'elp a shell hittin' a tree now and then; but them what goes and deliberately 'acks 'em down, and destroys 'em, well they ain't human. It's their old jaunt again, like hurtin' the women an' kids; an' it only makes a chap appreciate 'em the more never thought of before."

Tim and Curly listened in surprise to the rot in eloquence. "You're dead 'ch," said Ginger. "Dead right. Bites that do that haven't got any feelings."

Tim thought. "No," he said; "there won't be any kids climbin' those trees, and there won't be any fruit, and no birds singin' in them, and no couples spoonin' under them; and it's all dirty spite, because we'd make them retreat. Makin' war on trees! Ooo! Blasted heathens!"

CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR TRIED Ernest Spalding, International Bible Student, Court Martialled

CLAIMED EXEMPTION. By Courier Leased Wire. Niagara Camp, Ont., Aug. 15.—Ernest Edward Spalding of the 1st Battalion 1st Central Ontario Regiment, was tried by general court-martial here yesterday on charges of having refused to put on a uniform and to be inoculated. He claimed exemption as an ordained minister of the International Bible Students' Association, Toronto, and argued the decision of the central appeal judge, Mr. Justice Gies.

Spalding admitted having been sentenced by Magistrate Dennison in Toronto as a defaulter, after which he had been brought to Niagara camp. He declared he would not serve in a military capacity, as he was a disciple of Jesus.

Evidence as to the good character of Spalding was given by Ernest Wheelpton of Hamilton, a carpenter, and a minister of the International Bible Students' Association.

Lieut.-Col. A. J. McCausland, O.C., second battalion, 2nd central Ontario regiment, was president of the court.

Rippling Rhymes

COMING BACK. The gray haired men are coming back, for duty they're enrolled; the men who one time got the sack because they were too old.

The younger men have gone to fight and share the tyrants' thrones, and there is need for every weight who has ten finger bones. And now the gent with wintry locks may vindicate his claim that Osler's much exploited talks were but a sin and shame.

"Young blood" for years has been the cry in every busy mart; the gray haired man might go and die or wilt and break his heart. The gray haired man has made his roar for justice he has called; they shooed him off from every door, because his head was bald. And now he has the wished for chance to show he's good as wheat; now he may conquer circumstance and get those in the flat, and show he's good as new, and he will prove that Osler's hat was used for talking through. The old boy leaves his easy chair, his slippers and his book; his coat tails flapping in the air, he's doing things, gadzooks!

RUSSIAN SEAMEN WILL FIGHT HUNS. Ready to Blow Up Fleet Rather Than Surrender it to Germans

Washington, Aug. 15.—A Stockholm dispatch says the Russian sailors are declaring they will fight the German government rather than give up their ships, or will blow up the Russian navy rather than have it fall into the hands of the Germans. This report is based on information obtained on August 11. It is stated that the Bolshevik leaders, Lenin and Trotsky, have been seen in Kronstadt by Russian sailors.

It is also reported in these advices that the German ambassador to Russia and the German consul at Petrograd are in Helsingfors on their way to Berlin. Previously it has been reported that the German ambassador had moved to Pskov.

A dispatch from Archangel to-day says the diplomatic corps of the Entente nations are being aboard warships in the harbor owing to the lack of accommodations and the crowded conditions of the city of Archangel.

FATTENING CHICKENS

Profits From Lean Poultry Generally Discouragingly Small. ADVICE TO BREEDERS

The profits obtained from marketing lean, poorly fleshed, unfinished chickens are so small as to be frequently discouraging. Many of the packing houses and larger produce dealers find it necessary to go to considerable expense to provide the necessary premises and equipment to properly finish such poultry.

The best place to feed poultry is on the farm, and, if it pays the packing houses to take the trouble, it obviously would be good business to do the work on the farm.

Proper feeding and finishing will not only greatly increase the weight of the birds, but will also enhance the value of every ounce of flesh on the carcass, and greatly reduce the proportion of offal in relation to the amount of edible meat.

There is generally a difference of from three to seven cents per pound in the price paid for well-fleshed birds as compared with lean unfinished stock just off the range.

There is always a market for prime quality poultry, while the poorer quality has to be sold at whatever price can be obtained, depending on the market and the amount of effort put forth on the part of the seller.

Birds generally make the greatest gain when about three to four months of age, and the average birds make the most economical gains during the first two weeks of special feeding. Chickens can be readily taught to feed by lamplight; this is a great convenience, as it is desirable that the time of feeding be spaced as nearly as possible twelve hours apart.

The crate system of feeding is much more economical and efficient. In practising this method one is able to carefully note the progress being made by each bird; and the feeding period of the more thrifty can often be shortened or lengthened as desired. Also the flesh of the crate fed birds is invariably softer than that of pen fed birds.

For amplification of the foregoing information, apply to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for Bulletin No. 88 of the Division of Poultry of the Experimental Farms entitled "Preparing Poultry Produce for Market."

THIRTY FOUR YEARS SPENT IN LACROSSE

Alex. Turnbull Has Long Record of Service—Once Played in Paris

LEARNED IN TORONTO

Vancouver, Aug. 13.—Forty years ago a ruddy-cheeked lad sat on the rails surrounding Toronto athletic fields and watched the lacrosse giants of that day perform, wondering whether some day he would get his chance to fill their shoes. Today the youngster of '78 is completing a lacrosse career that extends over thirty-four years, a record in point of service in not only our national game, but in all branches of athletics in the Dominion. It has often been said that a man is just as old as he feels. Assuming this to be correct, Alex. Turnbull, of New Westminster, the lad of '78, must still be classed as a young man. "Dad," a sobriquet wished on him by the writer many years ago at a time when the veteran was said to be preparing to retire from the athletic field, and by which he is more familiarly known to lacrosse lovers, ranks to-day as Canada's most remarkable athlete.

Beyond the sunny side of the half-century mark, by just how many summers he refuses to say, and we do not propose to hazard any guesses, Turnbull is to-day, thirty-four years after he first broke into senior company, still playing the national game, one of the most strenuous of all outdoor pastimes. Records of twenty-two years in the majors are established by Lafite and others fade when compared with the wonderful record of the New Westminster stickhandler. That he has played lacrosse for thirty-four years is perhaps not so remarkable as the fact that he is still playing the game.

Many stars with whom he played years ago have passed into the Great Beyond, others have long since retired from the game, but as the years roll by, the daddy of them all, the greatest centre fielder in Minto Cup time and probably one of the greatest home fielders the game has ever known, plods along, taking his place regularly in the line-up of famous New Westminster teams. This may be his last season. He has not said so himself, but he believes that with the same re-established this year and the youngsters interested in the sport that the time is opportune for him to hang up his stick. And it may be said that when he does retire he will take with him much of the credit for bringing the national game back at a time when the outlook was far from promising. Not only has he veterans no peers in the national game, but his record for length of service in senior company will probably never be equaled in lacrosse, baseball or any other sport. The name of Turnbull will have been written large and indelibly in the history of the national game.

21 Years With Royals. On August 6 the veteran stickhandler rounded out his twenty-first year as a member of the New Westminster club. He has played games without number for the world's champions and he has been one of the main cogs for many years in one of the greatest lacrosse machines that has ever graced an athletic field. Although he started out with the idea fixed in his mind that to be a baseball star was to command the attention of the world, it was but a short time before the more strenuous game appealed to him. A national game, he had a chance forty years ago to see lacrosse played by real stars who played for the love of the sport, and athletic history shows that the matches of that period were more hotly contested than modern-day battles. By the time Turnbull was old enough to be permitted to stick his nose into a dressing-room such stars as Galdy Caruthair, Johnny Dryden, Schofield and Dinor, of Toronto; Dwyer, Barrie, Moore, Tansy and Tucker, of the Montreal Shamrocks; and Hodson, Patterson, Archie Macnaughton and Bob Christie were playing the game down East. "And believe me, they could play lacrosse," observed the veteran as he recalled some of the stirring engagements of that time.

Turnbull, before he came to the coast, twenty years ago, played in almost every small hamlet in Ontario for the different towns, to strengthen their teams for play-offs from players in other places, and Turnbull was one of the players who were frequently called upon to make barnstorming tours. His first senior lacrosse was played in Toronto in 1884. From there he went to Paris, Ont., which boasted one of the greatest teams that ever played the game. "Dad" started as a defence player, playing point in front of old Charlie Robinson, of the Paris team. In those days Indian teams were numerous throughout Ontario and Quebec, and among the tribes which the Paris team played were the Onondagas and Tuscaroras. Turnbull got his fill of defence playing against the latter teams, which trotted out the chief, taller, heavier and not standing much over five feet, checked the big chief, but took no chances. In the seat of Alex's trousers when the latter was wearing a uniform and advised the veteran to exhibit pluck or there was no lacrosse future for him.

"Ringers" in Lacrosse. From that time on Turnbull was ready to tackle them. In 1890 Turnbull was back in Toronto, and played with the old Athletics in the Minto Cup time and probably one of the greatest home fielders the game has ever known, plods along, taking his place regularly in the line-up of famous New Westminster teams. This may be his last season. He has not said so himself, but he believes that with the same re-established this year and the youngsters interested in the sport that the time is opportune for him to hang up his stick. And it may be said that when he does retire he will take with him much of the credit for bringing the national game back at a time when the outlook was far from promising. Not only has he veterans no peers in the national game, but his record for length of service in senior company will probably never be equaled in lacrosse, baseball or any other sport. The name of Turnbull will have been written large and indelibly in the history of the national game.

1896 Turnbull wended his way back to Toronto and for a time played with the Elmira, West Toronto and later the Tecumseh at Hamilton's Point. And it was some team the Tecumseh hosted. Barney Quinn, holder of the world's record for throwing the lacrosse ball, who later went to Vancouver; Billy Patterson, Billy Hartley, Cobby Grimes, Lionel York, the old Vancouver star; W. E. BATTERED CRUISERS ARE "CURED" BY "SHIP DOCTORS" AND EMERGE-FIT FOR FIGHT

THE great cruiser was indeed in a pitiable state; she looked the epitome of desolation and misery as the fussy little tugs hauled her gently past the chequered forts at Spithead, and headed her tenderly towards that house of healing for such battered hulks as she — Portsmouth Royal Dockyard.

The foremast was snapped off short, and the fire-control top had completely disappeared; the funnel looked like a battered tin can or a squashed concertina, and her bridge was a mass of twisted steel and splintered woodwork. The great fore-turret looked as though attacked with a gigantic tin-opener; the colossal right twelve-inch gun was snapped off short, the jaw edges of the steel showing like the teeth of a beast of prey. The midship was had completely disappeared with its triumphant also a six-inch foot square collision-net spread over her bows covered a gaping hole made when she, in her last extremity, lifted her main and jammed it clean through the side of her opponent. After that, what did it matter if the foremost compartments were flooded with water, if the deck slant downwards, if the deck did not sent a film of water streaming over the wrecked and shell-torn forecastle.

Her captain, unhurt by the fight, had gone almost grey-haired over the getting of the ship to the place where the three magnificent tugs met and changed. And now, with a pilot on the bridge, and a tug-ahead to haul her along, and one on each side to steer her, he was also being hauled, and after a long and arduous haul, the battered ship, saluting as she passed the Victoria, was being towed to receive a well-earned "well done" from that battle-worn craft. Trim cruisers, patrol boats, destroyers, and submarines extended their sympathy and silent prayers as she sailed, until at last she came to the great dry dock designed for her reception. The foremost tug cast off and dropped her "tug" and her nose gently against the cruiser's stern, and sliding her into position for entering the dock.

Then came fifty men in fussy little steamboats, and cast lines, which, when hauled upon, brought wire hawsers to the cruiser. These were made of bollards, and the other ends taken to captains ashore. Then slowly, carefully, these were hove round, and the battered vessel slipped back by inch into her mooring. The ceiling at the end of the dock slid into place, astern of her, the great pumps clanked, and the water became lower gradually, but quite perceptibly.

Hordes of grimy dockyardmen swarmed into her as the gangways were hung to the jetty; fussy little squares slammed into the dock huge, square banks of timber, sized and marked to fit each in a certain position and no other. They took these banks, the "masteys," and they adjusted them so that when at last the cruiser's keel rested on the chocks in the bottom of the dock the banks supported her on both sides, and prevented her canting over to one side or the other. And as the water receded and exposed more of her underwater hull, the masteys put in other rows of shores, till at last she was dry and high, and the healing hands of the ship doctors.

This done, came a small army of other grimy men — fitters, turners, artificers of all kinds, with their small tool-boxes. Followed then a host of small and even dirtier boys. Then arose the most awful din conceivable. Hammers racketed away inside the ship, driving out old rivets; drills chopped through armored bolts like knives through cheese; saws cut away battered plating as though it were tissue paper. The work went on day and night as if under a magician's wand. And when at the end of their three weeks' leave — they had well earned the rest — the cruiser's complement returned to their ship, they found that not only had her wounds been repaired, not only was she fully equipped at all points and ready for immediate action if needs be, but the dockyardmen had hauled her out of dock and placed her head towards the Channel, had filled her bunkers with coal and her magazines with ammunition — in sooth, they had healed her and convalesced her, and passed her "fit for general service." — B. Margerison, in Answers.

She is a daughter of Sir Daniel Cooper, an Australian millionaire. She married first, the late Viscount Northland, who lost his life on active service in 1915, and left a will in which he expressed the hope that his widow would marry again. She fulfilled his wish when she was married to Captain Geoffrey Mills, who was killed a year ago. Her third husband is also a British officer, holding a commission in the Royal Hussars.

THE WESTERN FAIR. London, Sept. 6th to 14th. The buildings at London's Exhibition this year will be exceptionally good. Several new firms are placing exhibits of wool and cereals, also a general exhibit in the Agricultural Building and a special exhibit pertaining to Domestic Science work and Conservation of Food, which will also be in the Agricultural Building. A loan of fine pictures has been secured from the National Art Gallery, Ottawa, which will add very materially to the Art Exhibit. For the Dairy Department there will be a fine exhibit of cheese and butter as usual. For the Machinery Department everything new will be exhibited, from the large tractor and threshing outfit to the smallest bit of machinery in use. The Process Building will be filled with a Pure Food Show. There will be a large entry of live stock as the management have added $1,000.00 to what was already a very liberal prize list. A large addition has been built to the sheep pens and a suitable place for judging the sheep has been provided.

FIRST U-BOAT WAS BUILT IN 1850

Frightened Off the Danish Fleet That Blockaded German Shores CALLED "SEA DIVER"

Had Inglorious Record—Stayed at Bottom and Blew Crew Up

Germany's first undersea boat to be used as a weapon of offence was built in 1850, and by means of it the Germans drove off the Danish fleet which then blockaded the German shores.

The place of construction was Kiel, then the cradle of Prussia's infant navy, and the vessel was speedily put together that it was ready for sea in a few weeks' time.

Bauer took command himself with all the confidence in his machine of the born inventor, and his operations during the latter days of January, 1850, aroused such a panic of his novel craft in the commanders of the Danish fleet that they withdrew several miles from the German coast.

Nor was the inventor able to repeat his success in the first place, the manual apparatus by which the vessel was navigated rendered its submarine progress extremely slow, and all its operators could hope for was to reach and destroy single enemy craft, it was obvious that no other hostile ship would remain in the neighborhood after a disaster, but would take advantage of its steam power to outstrip the slow-moving submarine.

It was on Feb. 1, 1850, that an incident occurred which convinced the Prussian authorities that the Bavarian corporal's invention was not sufficiently developed to render it a serious naval weapon. The submergence was unfortunate. The great weight which Bauer employed for nose-diving rolled with such violence from stern to stem that it displaced the ballast and the enormous strain put upon the compartments of the vessel threatened to break them down.

To add to his difficulties, the inventor had to face mutiny on the part of his despairing assistants who began to revile him as the cause of their misfortune, and, after the manner of their race, to lament their fate rather than make any attempt to mitigate it.

Bauer, however, kept admirably cool and did everything in his power to hearten his companions. At first they would not listen, but at last they consented to help him, and worked desperately to get the pumps in order. Their efforts were rather hampered than assisted by the good intentions of their commander.

Although Bauer's great weight was attempting to raise the Sea Diver by means of grappling irons, the horror of Bauer and his men was such that they were again on the glass windows, which were all but shivered by the contact. Such a fracture would, of course, have resulted in the drowning, and the wretched crew, imprisoned fathoms down, shuddered each time one of the grappling irons struck the ports.

Entrance to the vessel was by hatches with water-tight lids, and submergence was accomplished by admitting water into a double bottom, whence it would be pumped out when it became necessary to rise. The air supply contained in the Sea Diver was not calculated, however, to serve her crew of three for longer than four hours, and artificial methods of ventilation were employed to permit of any prolonged submergence.

Bauer took command himself with all the confidence in his machine of the born inventor, and his operations during the latter days of January, 1850, aroused such a panic of his novel craft in the commanders of the Danish fleet that they withdrew several miles from the German coast. This retreat, however, was dictated more by fear for an invisible enemy whose destructive capacity was an unknown quantity than by any real strategic value on the part of Bauer's undersea boat.

Nor was the inventor able to repeat his success in the first place, the manual apparatus by which the vessel was navigated rendered its submarine progress extremely slow, and all its operators could hope for was to reach and destroy single enemy craft, it was obvious that no other hostile ship would remain in the neighborhood after a disaster, but would take advantage of its steam power to outstrip the slow-moving submarine.

German Press Strives to Restore Confidence in the Rhine Provinces

POPULACE ALARMED

By Courier Leased Wire. Amsterdam, Aug. 15.—While Tuesday's Berlin newspapers regard the Anglo-French main thrust as parried, and at all events stopped by the exhaustion of the attacking troops, the journals of the Rhine country discuss the situation in a much graver tone.

Boch and Haig probably will continue to tug on the Rhine, but they will never achieve more than phrastic victories which will assist in the attrition of their own forces.

Essentially the newspapers deem it necessary to editorially brace up the nerves of the people of the Rhine provinces, which seem to be badly shaken. The Cologne Volks Zeitung appears to interpret popular apprehensions with regard to the impending ruthless Anglo-French attempt to break through the German northwestern front, and says that Germany follows the terrible struggle with bated breath.

Another defeat for us and we shall lose the war. We have nothing to eat, no clothes, no shoes, we shall starve and be utterly ruined. As a cure for this state of mind, the Volks Zeitung administers an antidote in the shape of a rousing article about the enemy "wanting to murder, rob and enslave German men, women and children."

Shoddy and What It Is

ACCORDING to the dictionary, the word shoddy was used originally to denote waste stuff shed or thrown off, the fluff, fibrous waste from wool carding, worsted spinning or weaving of woolsens. Then it came to mean a fibrous material, obtained by deviling or tearing into fibres refuse woolen goods—old stockings, rugs, druggets, etc.; and the same term was often applied to the material obtained from old cotton goods.

Later the word shoddy was used to indicate a cloth of inferior quality, made of or containing a large proportion of shoddy, and from that it has acquired its common or colloquial use as a term signifying inferiority, sham and pretence. Because of this use of the term, many persons have a wrong idea of what shoddy really is. An expert recently issued a statement on this subject, and his comments are quite illuminating. It is when cotton is mixed with wool that one does not get the required warmth from fabric, he said, and wool shoddy, or rather, reworked wool, is the worst that has fallen into disrepute. It is really an excellent and useful article. Moreover, he claimed that the industry of reclaiming and reworking wool ranks high as a conservation measure.

The sheep of the world afford only a small quantity of the wool that is needed annually, thus, if wool were not reworked, there would not be nearly enough for all. Ninety per cent. of the reworked wool produced is said to be made of materials which were either all wool in the beginning or wool from which any cotton content has been carefully and absolutely eliminated.

The national association of wool fibre manufacturers, in a statement relating to the conservation of wool products, says: "The material for the manufacture of reworked wool, or wool shoddy, is secured by the reclamation of the refuse produced in the woolen and worsted and the clothing industry. It includes the clippings and woolen rags from every textile-manufacturing process, and the refuse of value given by the cotton industry, such as the worn-out garments, a worsted suit, for instance, thoroughly sterilized, it cleans it, and, subjecting it to the action of steam, it destroys the cotton and preserves the wool in the garments, returning it to the woolen mills in clean, workable condition. The reworked wool industry recovers hundreds of millions of pounds of material in this way, which would likewise be wasted."

Some interesting statistics collected by this association show that about 1,436,000,000 pounds (secured weight) of wool are yielded annually by the world's sheep. As there is an average loss of 20 per cent. in the processes of manufacture, about 1,027,600,000 pounds of wool are produced from this. As the number of people who need woolen clothing is estimated at 1,129,000,000, it is estimated that if there were no reworking of wool and woolen fabrics were made as they are, it would be estimated to 14 ounces a year, or a 44-inch square of lightweight material. When one thinks of all-wool suits and the gowns and suits of women, the waste of woolen fabrics is not to mention the woolen garments to which men are accustomed, one realizes the need for not wasting wool in the production of clothing. The good that is in the fabric by working it over, not once, but many times, as long as serviceable qualities remain.

For cloth, they say, is as often made of virgin wool as it is of reworked wool. It is the judicious admixture of the two that produces a successful fabric. Were wool not reworked, the price of a woolen garment—that is, one made of virgin wool—would be prohibitive to most persons.

It will be seen that the term shoddy is not always a term of reproach indicating inferiority, but that, on the other hand, the industry of making wool shoddy, or reclaiming woolen fabrics, is one of the utmost in service, is indeed a valuable one, especially in these conservation days, just so long as it is reworked wool, with no trace of cotton, and is made of material of the highest quality, and is made of material of the highest quality, and is made of material of the highest quality.

And it is represented that the very serious and unfortunate situation in which these men find themselves is due in many cases to the fact that, notwithstanding the information and warning contained in Our Proclamation aforesaid, they have misunderstood their duty or obligation, or have been misled by the advice of ill-disposed, disloyal or seditious persons.

AND WHEREAS we desire, if possible, to avoid the infliction of the heavy penalties which the law imposes for the offences of which these soldiers have thus been guilty, and to afford them an opportunity within a limited time to report and make their services available in Our Canadian Expeditionary Force as is by law their bounden duty, and as is necessary for the defence of Our Dominion of Canada.

NOW KNOW YE that we in the exercise of Our powers, and of Our good will and pleasure in that behalf, do hereby proclaim and declare and cause to be published and made known THAT THE PENALTIES OF THE LAW WILL NOT BE IMPOSED OR EXACTED against the men who belong to Class I under Our Military Service Act, 1917, and who have disobeyed, Our Proclamation aforesaid; or who have received notice from any of Our registrars or deputy registrars to report for duty on a day now past and have failed so to report; or who, having reported and obtained leave of absence, have failed to report at the expiry of their leave, or have become deserters, in Our Expeditionary Force, PROVIDED THEY REPORT FOR DUTY ON OR BEFORE THE TWENTY FOURTH DAY OF AUGUST 1918.

HUMBERT ACCUSED BY COMMISSION

French Senator is Charged With Trading With Foe—Arrest May Follow

By Courier Leased Wire. Paris, Aug. 14.—(Havas Agency).—A Government commission has sent to the military governor of Paris a report tending to charge Charles Humbert, a Senator and former owner of The Paris Journal, with communicating with the enemy.

A bill will be introduced at the opening of the Senate on September 17, providing for the suspension of Parliamentary immunity.

When the case of Bolo Pasha was before the French courts, it was shown that there had been some relations between him and Charles Humbert. Among them was the purchase of an interest in The Paris Journal by the Levantine financier.

M. Humbert was later accused of commerce with the enemy and it was alleged that he received German money from America. It was said the bank deposits to his credit were found in the United States, and an inquiry was started in New York City. He was later ordered by the courts of Paris to return 5,500,000 francs to Bolo Pasha.
