

Militia, are not allowed these privileges. All Militiamen are liable to be called out ten days in each year, for drill, and for every day beyond that, they are to receive the same pay as Her Majesty's troops.

This, we think, is a fair outline of the Militia Law of 1861, and it will be seen that the powers placed in the hands of the Commander-in-Chief are almost unlimited.

C. W. FIELD, Esq., is expected of this harbor this morning in the steamer Medway, to take His Excellency the Lieut. Governor, C. A. Hyndman, Esq., and one or two others on board, and these proceed for the Straits of Northumberland to lay a second cable between this Island and New Brunswick, and to repair the old one.

THE weather during the whole of the past week was miserable in the extreme, and very much against farming operations.

THE editor of the Patriot appears to be 'caving in' upon the question of Confederation, and hints that he can live as well under that form of Government as 'any other man.'

A lot of Catholic Bibles, large Catechisms, Mitchell's Geography, Kearney's Compendium of Ancient and Modern History, Copy Books, etc., have been lately received at the KENT STREET BOOK STORE, Herald Office Building.

WE regret to learn that the sub-marine Cable connecting this Island with the Province of New Brunswick, is again not in working order. It is conjectured that some vessel has anchored on the Cable, drawing it up, and either cut or broke it.—Id.

THE WINTER AND THE CROPS.—We are sorry to hear that very large quantities of grain throughout the Island, have been injured by the rains which have recently fallen. We believe that the year 1866 has, so far, proved an unusually rainy year, both in Europe and in British America, and that in both hemispheres the injury to the harvest has been great.—Id.

HANDSOME DONATION.—The Rev. Dr. McKinnon, Bishop of Archaic, contributed One Thousand Dollars to the building fund of the new Catholic Church in this town.—Picton Standard.

THE Toronto Patriot of the 12 inst., says:—'It is only necessary to read Mr. McDonald's speech (at Kingston), to be convinced that the Government intend to adhere to the Quebec conference plan of union; and that they do not intend to become parties to any alterations. This inference is fairly deducible from his language.'

The Convention of Rome will be legally carried out. Second class navies are assured the liberty of the Baltic and Mediterranean. MEDICAL NOTICES. IMPORTANCE OF HAVING DAVIS' PAIN KILLER ALWAYS ON HAND. Wonderful Cure of the Rev. D. L. Brayton, Missionary in India, who was stung by a Scorpion.

Extract from his letter, published in the Baptist Missionary Magazine:—'For the first time since I have been in India, I have been stung by a scorpion. I went out this morning to my exercise, as usual, at early dawn, having occasion to use an oil box, on taking off the cover I put my hand on a scorpion, which immediately crept into my hand, and thrusting its sting into the palm of my hand. The instantaneous and severe pain which I felt through the system, has been relieved by what an awfully violent poison their sting must contain! I flew to my bottle of Davis' Pain Killer, and found it to be true to its name, after a moment's relief, I saturated a small piece of sponge, bound it on my hand, and went about my exercises, feeling no more particular inconvenience.—Id.

GRACE WELDON.

FREDERICA, THE BONNET-GIRL.

CHAPTER VIII.—Continued.

The mulatto slightly frowned. He was not pleased with any reference to reminiscences of his kind. He knew well that he himself had been the main instrument of Charles Anson's ruin; for, amongst Clew's other means of making money, he had kept a gambling saloon in a quarter of the city not far distant from the head of Hogover street; and in this place the husband of the mantua-maker took the first step to infamy. At the time he was a young dry-goods merchant in Old Cornhill, and married to a lovely and amiable girl; but the ambitious hold out to young men at Clew's saloon drew him within their vortex, and he was ruined. His wife opened a mantua-making establishment, and the husband became a miserable drunkard, dependent upon her for support and a home; and, as we have seen, by robbing her of her stock, he had placed her in the power of the man whom, of all men, in his sober moments, he hated.

And at the window I first saw and loved her. I have told you my purpose touching her. You must aid me in this object, madam!

"I'll exclaim the mantua-maker, with alarm. "Yes, you, madam!"

"I have no knowledge of her, Mr. Clew."

"You must make her acquaintance."

"How?"

"There are a hundred ways. You can call and give her work. You can make errands for her to cross the street, and see you about the work. You have wit, and must use it! Remember you are in my power, and only on condition that you serve me faithfully in this affair, which I have so closely at heart, do I release you from my power over you!"

"If you are successful in bringing about an interview here, in this room, between me and this lovely girl, I forgive you the debt, and, besides, will richly reward you. As a woman, you have plans and schemes at your finger's ends by nature. These you must contribute to the furtherance of the object I have in view. I will give you three days to bring, by some ruse or other, this maiden and I can speak with her—where I can, without interruption, plead my passion. Moreover, you must first pave the way by speaking of me in the terms which you of these days I will give you to bring this about!"

"Thus speaking, the mulatto rose up and took her hand."

"We understand one another, Mrs. Anson?"

"Yes, sir, answered the lady, in a faint tone."

"Remember that your safety depends on your faithfulness to me!"

"Yes, sir," she answered in an embarrassed and undecided tone, making an effort to release her hand."

"Then good-night, madam," he said, and was about to press his lips to hers, when the door was flung open, and Charles Anson staggered into the room.

CHAPTER IX.

A CATASTROPHE.

CHARLES ANSON stood a moment supporting himself by the door, gazing from one to the other of the parties. The mulatto released the hand of his wife, who sprung back from him with a countenance glowing with resentment. Clew smiled with cool derision at her angry emotion, and then saying in a low tone, "Remember I am faithful!" he crossed to the door in which the husband stood, to go out. Happening to lift his eyes to the face of Charles Anson, he recoiled a step from his expression. Instead of the vacant stare of the inebriate, he encountered a look of the sternest indignation and fiercest revenge. The sight the husband had witnessed had sobered him in an instant. He recovered his senses, and stood erect and defying in the path of Clew.

"Back! you pass not forth till I avenge this foul dishonor in your black blood!" he cried, in a tone as determined as it was unlooked for by Clew. "I saw thee, slave, and what thou wouldst have done, but that she, whom my veins have left open to such degrading insults as this from a slave, should have been the witness of it!"

"Down upon your knees, dog, and ask that woman's pardon for the wrong you meditated!"

"The mulatto stood calm, firm, and with a derisive smile curling his lips. He had scarcely ever seen Charles Anson only under the influence of wine, and aware that when he opened the door he would not stand without clashing of his sword, and his sudden outbreak at the sight of the drunkenness. He therefore laughed in his face, and said, in a tone of authority,

"Give way, Anson, and let me pass. You are tipsy!"

"Villain! slave! infamous black! This is not wine, but some of wrong. What I have seen has sobered me! To you I am a lion roaring! Down on your knees to her, and ask her forgiveness!"

"As he commanded him to do this he advanced a step towards Clew with his hand clenched.

"Do you dare me?" cried the mulatto, pale with rage, and thrusting his hand quickly into his bosom.

"Dare and defy you! I thank thee, Clew, for this hour! To you I owe my life, for I have not been so angry since I was a child. Through your brilliant temptations I became what I am! and what I shall be no longer! You degraded me, and you are now become the instrument of saving me!"

"This shall be the instrument of your destruction, Charles Anson, cried Clew, drawing a pistol forth and leveling it at his breast. "You know not the men you are to do me to!"

"I know you, Philip Clew, but I do not fear you! You shall kneel as I have bid you, before you quit this room!"

"As he spoke he dashed his cap in Clew's face, and springing upon him, caught his arm and wrested the pistol from his grasp. With the same act he flung him from him, and then confronted him with the weapon in his hand. The mulatto stood trembling with rage. His eyes fairly blazed with the intensity of his fury. His white teeth shone like those of a hyena when about to bound upon its prey.

"Now, Clew, the scale is turned; said Charles Anson, in a deliberate tone. "This moment is the happiest in my life. There is my wife, and there is the foe! Down dog!"

"Charles—oh, Charles!" cried his wife, who had stood till now almost paralyzed with fear at the rapid progress of events, but fearing the most dreadful results if he continued to persist, she now clung to his arm.

"Not one word, Anna! not a movement of the lip. It is my honor I would have stonement for!"

"The villain would not have dared to venture this outrage if he had not believed I was too low and degraded to resent it! I am no longer so, Anna! From this hour—from this scene I am a man. He shall kneel to you!"

"Never!" repeated the mulatto in an under tone that seemed to come from the very depths of his chest. And with folded arms he stood erect and defiant, a smile of contempt mantling his lip.

"Charles Anson advanced a step towards him, and cocking the pistol, spoke but one word and pointed to the ground—"Obey!"

"Never!"

"Charles!" shrieked his wife, and lunged herself upon him.

"The pistol went off, and the ball entered the bosom of his wife! With a cry of suffering the unhappy woman sank to the floor, the crimson tide gushing from the wound!

"Charles—my husband, you have killed me!"

"The hapless husband stood gazing upon her petrified with horror at the accidental deed he had done. Her words rung in his ears, and maddened him. He dashed the pistol to the floor, and glared through the smoke that filled the apartment, for the mulatto. He had disappeared! He was about to rush forth in pursuit when the voice of his wife arrested him.

"Charles, leave me not! I am dying!"

"Dying?" he cried, returning and taking her head from the chair on which it had fallen, and placing it tenderly on his knee; "dying! oh say not so."

Anna! Live now for me! I have my reason upon me restored. I will be a true and kind husband to you. Dying? he repeated, gazing frantically upon her fast closing eyes, and watching the gathering paleness of death pass upon her countenance; "dying? oh, say not so! See, I have checked the flow of blood with your hands. The wound is above the heart. You will live. Let some one go for a surgeon. You will not die. You shall not die. Oh, God, she is dying!"

Soothing Syrup,

For Children Teething.

Which greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing all inflammation—it will allay all pain and spasmodic action, and is

SURE TO REGULATE THE BOWELS.

Dependent on, mothers, it will give rest to yourself, and RELIEF AND HEALTH TO YOUR INFANTS.

We have put up and sold this article for over thirty years, and can say with confidence and truth of it, which we have never been able to say of any other medicine—never has it failed, in a single instance, to effect a cure, when timely used. Never did we know an instance of disarrangement by any one who used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of highest commendation of its efficacy and medicinal virtues. We speak in this manner "what we do know," after thirty years' experience, and pledge our reputation for the fulfillment of what we here declare.

In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered.

This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most experienced and skillful nurses in New England, and has been used with never failing success in

THOUSANDS OF CASES.

It not only relieves the child from pain but invigorates the stomach, corrects acidity, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. It will almost instantly relieve

A Slight Cold, Cough, Hoarseness, or Sore Throat, which might be checked with a simple remedy, if neglected, often becomes a chronic disease, and the importance of stopping a Cough or Slight Cold in its first stage; that which in the beginning would yield to a mild remedy, if not attended to, soon attacks the lungs.

Brown's Bronchial Troches were first introduced, some years ago. It has been proved that they are the best article before the public for Coughs, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, the Hoarse Cough in General, and numerous affections of the Throat, giving immediate relief. For the Sufferers and Smokers, will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine, at 25 cents per box.

ALL CURES MADE EASY! BY HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

Bad Legs, Ulcerous Sores, Bad Breasts, and Old Wounds.

No description of wound, sore or ulcer can resist the healing properties of this excellent Ointment. The worst case readily assumes a healthy appearance whenever this medicinal ointment is applied; sound flesh springs up from the bottom of the wound, inflammation of the surrounding skin is arrested and a complete and permanent cure quickly follows the use of the ointment.

Files, Fistulas, and Internal Inflammation.

These distressing and weakening diseases may with certainty be cured by the sufferer's making use of Holloway's Ointment, and closely attend to the printed instructions. It should be well rubbed upon the neighborhood of the sore, when all obnoxious matter will be removed. A practice of bread and water may sometimes be applied at bed time with advantage; the most scrupulous cleanliness must be observed. If those who read this paragraph will bring under the notice of such of their acquaintances whom it affects, they will render a service that will never be forgotten, as a cure is certain.

Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia.

Nothing has the power of reducing inflammation and subsiding pain in these complaints in the same degree as Holloway's Cooling Ointment and purifying Pills, used simultaneously they drive all inflammation and depravities from the system, subside and remove all enlargement of the oint, and leave the sinews and muscles lax and supple.

A cure may always be effected, even under the worst circumstances. If the use of these medicines be persevered in.

Eruptions, Scald Head, Ringworm, and other Skin Diseases.

After fermentation with warm water, the utmost relief effect specifies cure can be readily obtained in all complaints affecting the skin and joints, by the simultaneous use of the Ointment and Pills. But it must be remembered that nearly all skin diseases indicate the depravity of the blood and derangement of the liver and stomach, consequently, in many cases, time is required to purify the blood, which will be effected by a judicious use of the Pills. The general health will readily be improved, although the eruption may be driven out more slowly than before, and which should be promoted; perseverance is necessary.

Sore Throats, Diphtheria, Quinsy, Mumps, and all other Derangements of the Throat.

On the appearance of any of these maladies the Ointment should be well rubbed at least three times a day upon the neck and upper part of the chest, so as to penetrate the glands, as salt is forced into most; this course will at once remove inflammation and absorption. The worst cases will yield to this treatment by following the printed directions.

Scrofula or King's Evil and Swelling of the Glands.

This class of cases may be cured by Holloway's purifying Pills and Ointment, as their double action of purifying the blood and strengthening the system render them nearly as able as any other remedy for all complaints of a scrofulous nature. As the blood is impure, liver, stomach and bowels being much deranged, require purifying medicine to bring about a cure.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following manner—

Bad Legs Ulcerous Sores and Old Wounds. Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

Chilblains Frostbites. Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

Bad Breasts Chapped Hands. Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

Burns Scalds. Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

Bunions Corns (Soft). Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

Rings of the Neck. Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

Contracted Muscles. Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

Stiff Joints. Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

Rheumatism. Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

Scalds. Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

Sores. Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

Wounds. Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

Warts. Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

Yaws. Rub on 3 or 4 times a day.

There is a considerable saving by taking the larger size.

N. B.—Directions for the guidance of patients in every case are affixed to each Box.
