A Short Way to truth will teach you "all truth."

(John xvi. 13.)

Such is the Church which Christ our Lord established upon the earth with a living, speaking, and unerring authority to teach you the way to heaven; and this, therefore, is the Church which you must endeavor to find.

A little more examination will discover to you that this Church is no other than that which you often truly say was the first and will be the last, and in which all Christians say that they believe when they repeat the Apostles' Creed: "I believe the Holy Catholic Church." Yes, this is the Church which Christ built on the rock, and which shall never be destroyed. It is the Church which has triumphed over all the persecutions against it; this is the Church from which all churches have separated, whilst it has always remained the same as our Saviour established it. (See Apost. xxii. 17; Pa. xxvii. 11; Matt. x. 17 to end of chap. xii. 29; 10-32; vi. 25 and of chap. Death! Judgment! Heaven! Hell! Eternity!

What, therefore, is to be thought of the many Religions in this Country? As our Saviour taught but one religion, it must follow that all these religions are false except one, whatever that is. Hence, St. Paul says in his epistle to the Galatians (3. 8): "Though we of an angel from heaven preach a Gospel to you besides that which we have preached, let him be anathema."

Is it not very uncharitable to say that all Religions are false except one? From what you have been reading it is as clear as noonday to one who has been on a journey, and to tell him all other roads will lead him astray. But are you not safe in following the Religion in which you were born?—From what you have been reading it is clear as noonday that you are not safe in following the religion in which you were born, unless it be the one true religion that Christ taught.

But how are you to find out the true Religion? You must truly and heartily repent of all sins you have committed; you must have no other wish than to learn the will of God and to do it; you must be resolved that persecutions, nor losses, nor worldly interests, nor anything else whatsoever shall prevent you from doing the will of God when you know what that will is and you must often pray that He will teach you His holy will, saying: "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" (Matt. ix. 6.) If you will follow this advice you may be sure that God will hear your prayer and lead you into the right way, for He promises to give His Holy Spirit to those who ask it. (Luke x. 16; Matt. vii. 7, 8.)

You should also look about you, and inquire which is the one true religion. You will soon find in the New Testament, that Christ established a church upon earth; that He built it upon a rock, and declared that the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. (Matt. xvi. 18.) You will find that He gave His Church authority to teach His religion and commanded all to hear and obey it. (Matt. xviii. 17; Luke x. 16; Acts ix. 6, 7, 25-26.) That His Church cannot teach error, being "the pillar and ground of truth" (1 Tim. iii. 15); and that by following what it teaches you will be freed from all doubts and perplexity about the way to heaven and will no longer be tossed about by every wind of doctrine. (Ephes. iv. 11, 15.) You will find, in short, that you will be sure of learning the religion of Christ from this Church as if you heard Him speaking to you Himself. "He that heareth you, heareth Me" (Luke x. 16), and St. Paul says: "For Christ, therefore, we are ambassadors; God as if were attending by us" (2 Cor. v. 20), and (John xiv. 16): "I will ask the Father, and He shall give you another Paraclete, that He may abide with you for ever"; and again: "But when He, the Spirit of truth, is come, He will teach you 'all truth,'" will teach you "all truth." (John xvi. 13.)

Such is the Church which Christ our Lord established upon the earth with a living, speaking, and unerring authority to teach you the way to heaven; and this, therefore, is the Church which you must endeavor to find.

Troubled With Kidneys

For Over Three Years.

WAS CONFINED TO BED.

Mrs. George Gray, Hopewell Hill, N.B., writes: "I had kidney trouble for over three years, and was so bad I was confined to my bed. First I contracted a bad cold and it went to my kidneys, and I suffered dreadfully. I got the doctor, but he did me very little good. I tried all kinds of kidney pills, but got very little help. One of my neighbors came in to see me and told me to get Doan's Kidney Pills and give them a good trial. I used five boxes and they have cured me so that I can sleep all night without being disturbed, and I feel better in every way. I cannot say too much in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Doan's Kidney Pills are just what their name implies; a pill for the kidneys and the kidneys only. When you ask for "Doan's," see that you get them put up in an orange, grey box with our trade mark: "Doan's Kidney Pills." Price 50c. Sold by all druggists.

It affords a shelter and they "come and dwell in the branches thereof." To the Master this hallowed seed was a figure of His Church, which beginning in humble surroundings and nourished by "the blood of prophets and of saints," would shelter the races of earth and lead them to the Kingdom of God. "Through eternity the work of the Church goes on as 'the voice of many angels' stand 'roundabout the throne' proclaim her glory. "The Lamb that was slain is worthy to receive power" and this has He given to His Church, that she may "prophesy to many nations and peoples and tongues." The infant, "conceived in sin" becomes a child of God with a right to a kingdom that will never end. The growing youth is made a soldier of the cross with a bravery borne of grace and faith. The sinner becomes a saint, his soul made "whiter than snow, purer than milk, fairer than sapphire." A mantle of care enfolds her children with a shield that is strong and a help that is Divine, against "enemies that are swifter than the eagles of the air." The grave forms no barrier to her progress nor does death halt her march in the interests of souls. Into eternity she accompanies her offerings "that they may rest from their labors, for their works will follow them." Race, color, ancestry mean nothing to her, for she will "gather the clusters of the vine-yard of the earth because the grapes thereof are ripe." This is the Ark of God springing to life at the words of the Lord, to "Make His works known among the people." Spread everywhere and under every flag she is truly as the tree in whose branches the birds of the air find a shelter and a home.

Anna, the maid, having picked up a white sheep, a soldier boy, a Teddy bear and many kindred treasures, vigorously proceeded to tidy up the apartment. Mother came home and expressed her warm approval.

Much gratified the maid remarked with pride "It takes me to clean up."

With equal pride Della remarked: "It certainly takes me to dirty up. That gives you a lovely chance to get praise by mavour."

Triumph of Christ

"Jesus said to the multitude: The Kingdom of Heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed which a man took and sowed in his field. The Kingdom of Heaven is like to leaven which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal." (Matt. xiii. 31-35.)

In the Gospel assigned by the Church for the twenty-sixth Sunday after Pentecost, Jesus teaches in parable the triumph of the Church and the zeal of her Founder. Clothing these sacred truths in the figures of the mustard seed and the leaven, He "lays bare things hidden from the foundation of the world." In the early days of His public life Jesus preaching in Judea spoke directly to the people, both of enemies and to friends. In the second year of His public life the Master for a time abandoned the precincts of Judea and returned to Galilee, the home of the first disciples. His coming to the fishing stations of Genesareth was hastened by the untimely death of the Baptist, who had at this time made the supreme sacrifice for the Kingdom of God. The scenery of Galilee in its natural beauty had a charm for the heart of the Lord. Manners and customs of the people, appealed in their simplicity to His soul. Here were means of conveying His thoughts that even the uneducated would understand. Thus does He return to the parable in teaching His followers, that His "throne shall rule them and shall lead them to the fountains of the waters of life." In the mustard seed though considered "the least of all the seeds," Christ saw a figure of His Church. In the leaven placed "in three measures of meal," the Saviour beheld the love of Himself for the hearts of men. The people understood as there dawned upon them a knowledge of the wonderful words of God. There are many who in this world are strangers to God. Some have never known Him. Others despising His precepts have rejected Him. To the blessing of His Church they are strangers, though He longs to bring them back. He sighs as He sighs through His prophet: "How is the gold become dim, the dust color is changed, the stones of the sanctuary are scattered." To such the figures of the Gospel are spoken, that coming they may listen and listening "they may wait with silence for the salvation of God."

The glory of the Church

"When it is grown up it is greater than all herbs." The mustard seed, almost insignificant in its beginning grows up with a life that is mighty until it becomes "greater than all the herbs." To the birds of the air

NEVER TROUBLED WITH CONSTIPATION

SINCE TAKING

MILBURN'S LAX-LIVER PILLS.

The often one is liable to discuss constipation as a trifle. It is not. When you allow your bowels to become clogged up, there pours a stream of polluted water into the channel of being carried off by nature's channel, the bowels, and when this waste matter gets into the blood it causes headaches, jaundice, skin eruptions, sour stomach and many other troubles.

By taking Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills you will find that the bowels will be kept regular in their action, the poisoning of the blood and general weakening of the system is relieved, and the entire body is restored to normal condition.

Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills, Toronto, Ont., writes: "I have used your Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills for constipation, and have never found myself troubled since. I am very glad to have found something to ease me, and will always tell everyone about them who is troubled in the same way as I was."

Canada At The Conference.

From Paris comes the pleasing intelligence that Canada, as well as the other overseas Dominions, shall be represented at the Peace Conference. This representation is upon a basis in substantial agreement with the proposition submitted, on behalf of the Overseas Dominions, to the Imperial War Cabinet in London, by Sir Robert Borden. The proposal was that the Dominions should be given equal status in the conference with the smaller Allied nations, and in addition, should have their representatives upon a panel from which the British delegation would be drawn.

The Imperial War Cabinet accepted the plan, but as the effect would be to increase the total British representation in the conference, whenever matters of special interest to one of the Dominions, or of universal concern, came up, the question was remitted to the allied great powers for consideration. The matter was the subject of discussion at the informal conversations which went on between the representatives of the great allied powers for some days previous to the assembling of the great congress in Paris. Premier Lloyd George brilliantly fought the case for separate representation for the Dominions, India and the native states. He urged that the principal basis of representation should be the actual war efforts of the countries affected, and that some ration in connection therewith should be observed.
The American representatives in friendly but most firm manner, unremittently opposed the proposal, President Wilson saying that he objected to the British Empire having so many delegates. When the council adjourned on Monday 13th, the question was delicately poised, but Tuesday a full agreement was reached, though America did not withdraw resistance. France turdily supported the British claim, as did Italy, but not so eagerly. Japan readily assented.
Lloyd George failed to secure separate representation for Newfoundland.

The above recorded solution of this difficult problem is most satisfactory in all respects, giving to Canada and her sister Dominions a voice at the conference, not only on matters specially affecting themselves but on the large common issues, and testifying at the outset of the negotiations to the amicability and generosity among the Allied nations. The status accorded the Dominions is more generous than the best that had been hoped for and one of which they have reason to be proud. Representatives of the Dominions are to form part of the British delegation, the personnel of which will be changed during the conference as advisable, thus starting with the Mother Country. Britain's authority at the peace table. That alone would have been accepted as close to fair treatment, but in addition the Dominions are to have the standing of smaller nations at the conference; Canada, Australia, South Africa, and India are accorded two delegates each and New Zealand one, these delegates to represent their countries directly at the peace table, having a voice in all the general issues such as the League of Nations, and the "freedom of the seas."

While the British Dominions, through their contributions to the conduct and victory of the war, were entitled to more than a say on matters directly affecting themselves, their position as part of the British Empire made it difficult to accommodate them since the representation of each of the great powers was confined to five delegates. In waiving the fact that the British imperial delegation represents all parts of the British Empire and placing the Dominions in the status of nations entitled to direct representation, aside from that through the main British contingent, the other Allies have undoubtedly stretched a point and stretched it generously. Canada is to share in the conference to the very fullest degree that the most jealous guardians of her dignity could desire. Incidentally, the wisdom and perseverance of Sir Robert Borden have been rewarded, and the sincerity of Premier Lloyd George's promise on behalf of the Dominions has again been proved and the weight of his influence among the Allied statesmen strikingly illustrated.

Bolshevism In Germany.

The Spartacus group in Berlin, who with the help of some sailors have been attempting to overthrow the Government by armed force, are not very successful pupils of their masters, the Russian Bolsheviks, unless they are such faithful copyists that they think it necessary to begin with one bad failure.
Among the causes of the dramatic success of the Bolsheviks in Russia were a favorable international situation; the division and irresolution of their opponents, a division and irresolution which still obtain; the rebellious temper of the army; the determination and desperate character of some of the Bolshevik leaders. It does not appear that similar circumstances, favorable to the Spartacus group, and his friends. The Germans have an international truce and the promise of bread and peace. The Government is neither divided very deeply nor doubtful as to the course it should pursue. It has hastened the meeting of the Constituent Assembly, which it hopes will turn out the most formidable of bulwarks against Bolshevism and revolutionary movements generally. The army, so far as can be learned from the cables, is overwhelmingly against the revolutionaries, and the Spartacus party show none of Trotsky's skill in disintegrating its loyalty. The truth seems to be that the Germans have been so long used to docility to autority and discipline that they make a poor show at rebellion of any kind. After all, it is something for which the Allies should now be thankful. For although none of us would shed many tears over a Germany rent asunder and overwhelmed by rebellion or anything else, we have got to realize that a Germany in revolution is a Germany impotent to pay, and Germany has got to pay.

How many Liberals who voted for Union Government because they sincerely believed that petty party divisions must be wiped out in order that Canada might put on its full war armor, are prepared now to go on the battlefield and receive Sir Wilfrid Laurier's patronizing suggestions? How many, on the other hand, recalling what the Laurier policy was—how ineane and selfishly ineffective—will not rejoice in the fact that they refused to longer associate themselves with a party and a leader so blind to the vital nature of

River Rhine The Boundary

Treves, Wednesday, Jan. 15.— It is the conviction of Marshal Foch that the Rhine must be made the barrier between Germany and France. He expressed this clearly today, when he received American newspaper correspondents. The Marshal is here in connection with the meeting concerning the extension of the German armistice.

Marshal Foch pointed out the difficulties that had been ever-come, and said that peace must be commensurate with the price of victory. Germany now was beaten, he added, but with her resources, especially in manpower, in a comparatively short time, was quite possible.
It was now the duty of the Allies to prevent further aggressions.
The armistice was not concluded too soon, the Marshal said, and the Allies got all they asked for from Germany, without continuing the fighting. The Allies were prepared for another offensive stroke, which would have forced the Germans to give up. This was to have been Lorraine, on November 14th, six American and twenty French divisions participating.

"This is for me a happy opportunity," Marshal Foch began, to tell you all the good things I think of the American army, and on the part it played on our side. Your soldiers were superb.
They came to us young, enthusiastic and carried forward by a vigorous idealism, and they resisted to battle with admirable gallantry.

The youth of the United States brought a renewal of the hope that hastened victory. Not only was this a moral fact of the highest importance, but you also brought enormous material aid, and the wealth which you placed at our disposal contributed to the final success. No body among us will ever forget what America did.

And you know what happened on the field of battle since the month of July, first on the Marne, then in the region of Verdun. General Pershing wished, as far as possible, to have his army concentrated in an American sector. The Argonne and the heights of the Meuse were a sector hard to tackle. There were considerable obstacles.

"All right, I said to him, your men have the devil's own punch. They will get away with all that. Go to it."

"And finally everything went well, everything went so well that here we are on the Rhine."

Marshal Foch was asked by the correspondent, "But was not the armistice concluded too soon?"
"It was not possible to do otherwise," answered the Marshal, "because the Germans gave up everything that we asked for at once. They satisfied all our conditions. It was difficult to ask more."

"Doubtless any General would have preferred to have continued the struggle and to have battled when the battle which offered itself was so promising, but a father of a family could not help but think of the blood that would be shed. A victory, however easy, costs the lives of men. We held victory in our grasp without any further sacrifice. We took it as it came."

The German high command was not ignorant of the fact that it faced a colossal disaster. When it surrendered every thing was prepared for an offensive in which it would infallibly have succumbed. On the fourteenth we were to attack in Lorraine with twenty French divisions and six American divisions. This attack would have been supported by other movements in Flanders and in the center.

"The Germans were lost. They capitulated. There is the whole story."

of all the Allies, precisely of all those who united to save civilization. The Rhine is the guarantee of peace for all the nations who have shed their blood in the cause of liberty. Then let us watch on the Rhine.

"We have no idea of attacking Germany, or of recommencing the war. Democracies, such as ours, never attack. They ask but to live in peace and to grow in peace, but who can say that Germany—where democratic ideas are so recent and perhaps very superficial—will not recover quickly from its defeat."

"England has the channel to cross. America is far away.
France must always be in a position to safeguard the general interests of mankind. Those interests are at stake on the Rhine. It is there that we must prepare to guard against painful surprises of the future."

"The armistice is signed, but peace is not yet concluded. So long as the status of Europe has not been settled let us watch, let us watch together, so that we lose not the fruits of our common victory. Let us remain united as we were in battle."

The Peace Congress

Paris, Jan. 19.—The Peace Congress, destined to be historic, and on which the eyes of the world are now centred, was opened yesterday afternoon in the great Salle de la Paix. The proceedings, which were confined to election of Georges Clemenceau, the French Premier, as permanent chairman of the conference; an address of welcome by the President of the French Republic, Raymond Poincare, and speeches by President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George and Baron Sonnino, were characterized by expressions of lasting friendship, and the apparent determination of the representatives of the various nations to come to an amicable understanding with respect to the problems to be decided by the conference.

When President Poincare spoke the entire assembly stood, and the fact that, according to custom, no applause greeted his utterances, gave greater solemnity to the scene.

In Premier Clemenceau's acceptance of the presidency of the Congress, he voiced both an expression of personal gratitude and a definite outline of the great questions immediately ahead.
Three of the larger general subjects he defined as responsibility for the war, responsibility for crimes during the war, and international labor legislation. The two delegates each for Australia, Canada, South Africa and India, including the native states; one delegate for New Zealand.

Referring to the authors of the war, he said he had consulted two eminent jurists on the panel as to the responsibility of the former German Emperor, and each delegate would receive a copy of that report.

In all seventy-two seats were provided for the opening session of the Peace Conference. On the outer side of the great horseshoe table were arranged the Japanese, the British and Colonial delegates and the seat for the fifth British delegate. A chair for the fifth American delegate was reserved immediately to the right of the table of honor.

The Italian, Belgian, Brazilian, Cuban, Haitian, Peruvian, Portuguese, Serbian, Czech, Slavonian and Uruguayan delegates sat in the order named. Across at the left wing of the table sat the Siamese, Rumanian, Polish, Liberian, Hadjaz, Guatemalan, Equa-dorean, Chinese and Bolivian delegations. As the delegations arrived they were met by fanfares of trumpets and accorded military honors by the troops. The Japanese were among the earlier arrivals and were followed by the Siamese and East Indians in picturesque turbans.

President Wilson arrived at ten minutes to three. He was conducted to the council room by M. Fichon, the French foreign minister, where greetings were exchanged with the British and many other delegates.

Just at three o'clock a ruffle of drums and blare of trumpets announced the approach of M.
Poincare. The French President was escorted by the group of Premiers to the head of the table while a hush fell upon the assemblage as the moment arrived for the opening of the congress.

It was exactly three minutes past three when M. Poincare began his address, and the Peace Congress came into being. The entire assemblage stood as the President spoke. M. Poincare spoke in an earnest manner, without declamatory effect. M.
Poincare spoke in French, and when he had concluded an interpreter read the presidential discourse in the English language.
As M. Poincare closed he turned to receive the congratulations of President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George, and then withdrew, greeting each delegation as he retired. President Poincare closed his address a 3.25 o'clock.

President Wilson, as M. Poincare made his exit, nominated Premier Clemenceau for chairman of the Congress. The nomination was seconded by Premier Lloyd George in an earnest tribute to the French Premier.

Following are the Peace Conference regulations which were

King's Son Dead.

London, Jan. 20.—Prince John, youngest son of King George died at Sandringham last night. He had been ill for some time. The Prince was possessed of exuberant spirits. He was the prime favorite of all classes and the idol of the servants and tenants at Windsor. It is said that he was the favorite brother of Princess Mary who loved to romp with him. The Prince was born at Sandringham 12th July 1905. An official bulletin issued this evening says "Prince John, since infancy, had suffered epileptic fits which lately had become more frequent and severe. He passed away in his sleep following an attack at 5.50 p. m. Saturday."

Jobs Did The Trick.

London, Jan. 17.—Depth charges, in the opinion of many officers engaged in submarine chasing, were the chief factor in checking the German submarine campaign. The war had gone on for nearly two and a half years before the depth charges were perfected. Previous to that time trawlers dragged mines about on cables in an effort to strike submarines and used other equally dangerous and futile devices. But the perfected depth charges, so arranged that they could be timed for explosion at any desired depth, solved the problem of the small chasers which were fighting the submarine. Trawlers with sufficient speed could drop these charges and get out of the danger zone. The mortality among submarine chasers immediately dropped and the seas became very unsafe for the sensitive undersea craft. One of the novel devices adopted by the British for the co-ordination of the efforts of trawlers and submarines has just been divulged. A trawler would drag a submarine by a cable and maintain communication with it by telephone. When the trawler sighted a German U-boat, the British submarine would slip its cable and attack the German boat before the surprised Germans could submerge or prepare to give fight.

All Stuffed Up

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning. Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat. No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, small and hearing, pollutes the breath, deranges the stomach and affects the appetite.

Foch in Hour of Victory

Some months ago at least half the world gave Marshal Foch, by acclamation and common consent, the title of "the man of the hour." It was a tragic title, for it was fearful with awful responsibilities; it was a stupendously honorable title, for it meant that out of the hundreds of millions of men of the many nations arrayed against the Central Powers he had been judged the one man best fitted to save Europe and humanity.

HER LITTLE GIRL

COUGHED UNTIL SHE FAIRLY CROKED. Mrs. John Reinhardt, Ridgeway, Ont., writes:—"My little girl at the age of a year and a half old had an awful cough. She would cough until she would fairly choke, and I was afraid it would go to her lungs. I thought I would use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, as I knew of quite a few persons who had used it with good results. I am glad I did so, as I only used one bottle. It is a sure cure for coughs and colds."

FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST

TO MAKE GOOD BREAD You must have Good Yeast

GOOD BREAD is, without question, the most important article of food in the catalog of man's diet; surely, it is the "staff of life." Good bread is obtainable only by using the Best Yeast, the best flour, and adopting the best method of combining the two. Compressed Yeast is in all respects the best commercial yeast yet discovered, and Fleischmann's Yeast is indisputably the most successful and best leaven known to the world.
