INSTEAD of asking what other men are going to do for the town, let every man ask himself what he can do. If he puts the question honestly he will be surprised to find in how many ways he can help boost his town. And this is what every one ought to do. It is a thousand times better to be a booster than a knocker.

The annual Harvest Thanksgiving services will be held in Trinity church on the first Sunday in October, the 6th, the Rev. Horace Small, B.A., rector of Thorncliffe, will be the special preacher. A WELLAND county constable arrested a farmer for drunkenness and brought him to Welland jail, but when the Chief of Police inspected the couple he found the constable so much more drunk than the farmer that he let the home and locked up the constable. A matter like this could not occur in Watford as all the county constables here are prohibitionists.

MISS ETHEL VIRGO, of Sarnia, a returned missionary from China, lectured in the Methodist Church Wednesday evening to a good audience. Her story of the progress being made in the spread of Christianity in that country and the drawbacks encountered was interesting and attentively listened to, and her recital of her escape from China at the time of the recent uprising was quite thrilling. Miss Virgo will return to her work in the east next winter.

SUPERINTENDENT JOSEPH ROGERS of the provincial police has issued a warning to farmers to be on the lookout for oil experts who have revamped the old lightning rod scheme. These "oil experts" seek agreements with farmers for the purchase of their property, asking big prices. The agreement is produced by the farmers asked to sign. A portion is then torn away and the farmer has signed a promissory note.

WE are in receipt of a folder issued by the Lambton Publicity Association, which, for the vast fund of information it gives to intending settlers, is a credit to those at the head of the association. The articles are concise and well written, while the photos of farm scenes in different parts of the county are of a high class. Along with it is a list of "Farms for Sale," which in itself is a great benefit to intending purchasers, and as they are issuing 5,000 of these folders, the good old county of Lambton (one of the first, if not the first, to advertise itself far and near) should take its place as the banner county of the province.

OVER five hundred tickets for London were sold at the station during the Western Fair period.

THOMAS KEYS, a former resident of Watford, who for the past eighteen years has been living in Oil Springs, died at the latter place on Friday last, aged 62 years, after an illness of several years duration. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon to the Watford cemetery.

THE new sidewalks that have been put down are a great improvement to the appearance of the streets, and a great convenience to pedestrians. Watford can boast of more good granolithic sidewalks than any town of its size in Western Ontario, and we might add a finer lot of sidewalks would be hard to find anywhere. It is a model place to live in and do business in.

THE Departmental text book regulations issued by the Provincial Department of Education contains the following special notice to teachers and school boards: The teacher himself may use any book, pamphlet or magazine in preparing the lessons for his class; but he has no authority to use as text books in his class teaching any other publication than those whose use is authorized in this circular or which are listed in the catalogue of the school library with the approval of the inspector. Nor can Notes on history, geography, etc., School Helps, School any Home, or similar publications be used by his pupils in their work at school; and neither the teacher nor the board has any authority to require or induce pupils to buy any of such prohibited books, pamphlets, magazines, Notes, School Helps, School and Home, or other similar publications.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Rawlings, Petrolia; Mr. and Mrs. Will Lapointe, Petrolia; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Ross and daughter, Mona, Sarnia, and Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Elliott and son, Laughlin, London, attended the funeral of their father, the late Samuel A. Laughlin, on Friday.

Deceased was born in Switzerland and moved with his parents to Ireland when an infant, and when a boy of 14 years came out to Canada, settling in Bowmanville. He was married to Ellenor, only daughter of the late Col. Hueston, of Montreal, and came to Watford fifty-one years ago. In the early days he carried on a cooperage business at the south end of Main street and later followed painting and decorating for a living.

He was a charter member of Defiance Fire Co., and always took a deep interest in the affairs of the Company. For the last thirty years he was a great sufferer with rheumatism. He is survived by his widow, two sons, and four daughters, namely, Mrs. T. Rawlings and Mrs. Wm. Lapointe, of Petrolia; Mrs. Dan Ross, of 323 Christina St., Sarnia; and Mrs. T. P. Elliott, 98 Stanley St., London. Mr. Laughlin was an uncle of the Hon. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia; James L., school inspector, Toronto; and William, governor of the Kingston penitentiary.

The funeral took place from the family residence, Huron street, on Friday afternoon at 2.30, to the Watford cemetery, the Rev. H. E. Currie, conducting the service.

Among the floral offerings was a handsome wreath from Defiance Fire Co.

Brown's Millinery Opening.

The ladies took advantage of the glorious weather on Friday and Saturday to attend the fall millinery openings at A. Brown & Co.'s. Miss Crigg and her staff of assistants were kept very busy showing the new styles and explaining the beauty and artistic merit of the new headgear. The styles shown are prettier than last season, and velour and beaver hats will be extensively worn. Mousses, wings, moire silks and furs enter largely into the trimmings, while some of the more prominent colors are brass, tan, cerise, black and white. We understand that an exceptionally large number of hats were sold at the opening this season.

DANGER PERIOD OF WOMAN'S LIFE FROM 45 to 50

Interesting Experience of Two Women—Their Statements Worth Reading.

White Oak, Ont.—“At Change of Life when doctors could do no more and I was given up by my friends, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to the front and did wonders for me. I had been having female troubles for years, my head troubled me severely at times, I had bearing down pains and backache and I was very anemic from excessive flowing. I recommend your Compound highly and do all I can to advertise it as a genuine woman's medicine.” — Mrs. SYLVESTER MANNING, White Oak, Ontario.

The Case of Mrs. Kirlin.
 Circleville, Ohio.—“I can truthfully say that I never had anything do me so much good during Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. “Before I had taken one half a bottle of it I began to feel better, and I have continued taking it. My health is better than it has been for several years. If all women would take it they would escape untold pain and misery at this time of life.” — Mrs. ALICE KIRLIN, 353 W. Mill St., Circleville, Ohio.

The Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. At such times women may rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

 WATFORD, SEPTEMBER 20, 1912.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Calgary retail grocers may endeavor to eliminate the wholesaler and deal directly with the manufacturer. The matter was broached at a meeting of the Calgary Grocer's Association. The contention is made that the wholesalers' profits are extortionate, and that the retailer must bear the odium of separating the public from its money.

A potato war is on at Calgary between the farmers and merchants. Incensed at what they contend is discrimination against Alberta-grown potatoes in favor of the British Columbia product, a number of farmers have organized and opened a local market, shaving the price of tubers about one-third, as compared with the price asked by local merchants. The farmers are using space in the local newspapers and doing a rushing business.

The late Hon. David Davis once said—“Each year every local paper gives from $100 to $5,000 in free lines for the benefit of the community in which it is located. No other is interested and should know about the wonderful MARVEL Whirling Spray. The new vaginal syringe. Best for all ailments. It cleanses instantly. Ask your druggist for it.

agency can or will do this. The local editor, in proportion to his means, does more for his town than any other ten men, and in fairness man with man, ought to be supported, not because you happen to like him or admire his writings, but because a local paper is the best investment a community can make. It may not be brilliant or crowded with great thoughts, but financially it is more of a benefit to a community than a preacher or a teacher. Understand us now, we do not mean morally or intellectually, but financially, and yet on the moral question you will find the majority of local papers are on the right side of the question. To-day the editors of local papers do the most work for the least money of any people living.”—Free Lance.

A writer in Rural New Yorker, in discussing the cause of lightning striking barns, says that a vacant barn is seldom struck by lightning, but a barn full of hot hay or grain is often struck. His theory is that the heat-rising from the barn full of new hay or grain makes the air light and offers a channel for the lightning to travel in. Dust particles, a current of moist air, or a current of hot air will afford such a channel. Moral—Throw open the barn doors to the end that the air inside and outside the barn may be uniform.

A proud man, in nine cases out of ten, has nothing to be proud about. The fellow who throws out his chest, and struts about, with a “do you know who I am” air is usually the product of money and impudence. “Do you know who I am?” Yes, and if some people would undertake to tell what you are and where you came from you would take the next train out of town if you had any sense of decency. You haven't far to look back to find where these upstarts who brag about their position come from and you needn't look far ahead to know where they will land. “A man's pride will bring him low, but honor shall uphold the humble in spirit.” Put that down.

People who don't mind their own business bring more misery into families, societies and churches than anything else. They turn the pleasant, peaceful stream of good will into a loathsome pool; they intrude on grounds where angels would even fear to tread. Now, minding one's business is the very best remedy for the itching ears that are never satisfied with hearing and the busy tongue that hurries to speak cruel words. Minding your own business will turn your attention to self, and you will forget to watch so closely the short comings of others; it will make peaceful homes, happy neighbors, and quiet consciences; and you will be able to realize and more fully comprehend the truth spoken in holy writ, “Blessed are the Peacemakers.”

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous services. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness, (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Will Soon be a Thing of the Past.

Telegraph operators will only be serviceable as fiction heroes and their places in the railway and telegraph systems will be usurped by young and untrained girls if the newly introduced device which is at present under trial in the offices of the C.P.R. lives up to expectations. The new system is now in use on the C.P.R.'s Montreal and Toronto line. It is known as the Morkrum Automatic Telegraph, and the sending and receiving apparatus resembles nothing more closely than a typewriter. The sending operator presses the keys at Toronto, and the message is automatically transcribed in Montreal. English letters and words are used throughout. The innovation in methods of telegraphy will achieve its most important results in the lowering of the wages of operators eighty dollars a month, girls will be engaged at thirty dollars who will be competent to handle the messages in future. The Morse code will be forgotten, and the services of a receiving operator will be dispensed with, as the message is automatically recorded at the receiving end. Thus, the operating staff will be numerically cut in two. If the present experiment proves a success, the system will be extended to include all the lines of the Canadian Pacific telegraph department.

BOSANQUET COUNCIL.

Council met on the 3rd inst., all the members present. Minutes of last meeting confirmed. The following orders were given:—

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY

An eminent scientist, the other day, gave his opinion that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. Just think! As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, such injury is insured against blood poisoning. Not one species of microbe has been found that Zam-Buk will not kill!
 Then again, as soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. They care nothing for the science of the thing. All they know is that Zam-Buk stops their pain. Mothers should never forget this.
 Again, as soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh healthy tissue FROM BELOW is Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is worked up the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.
 Only the other day Mr. Marsh, of 101 Delorimier Ave., Montreal, called on the Zam-Buk Co., and told them that for over twenty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in a few months it cured him. To-day—over three years after his cure of a disease he had for twenty-five years—he is still cured, and has had no trace of any return of the eczema!
 All druggists sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, or we will send free trial box if you send this advertisement and a 1c. stamp (to pay return postage). Address Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

BANK OF ENGLAND

Tragic and Romantic Episodes in Its Historic Career.

DEADLY BATTLE WITH A MOB!

The Bloody Climax to the Attempted Raid by the Lord Gordon Rioters—A Financial Coup That Was Spoiled by the Duchess of Marlborough.

No other banking institution has so romantic a history as that pertaining to the Bank of England, the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street."

One of the bloody episodes in the history of the bank is that embraced in the story of Charles Walter Godfrey, one of its early partners in the bank. It appears that Godfrey while crossing the channel in the midst of a terrific storm and laden with £60,000 in drafts for the aid of King William, who was just then besieging Namur against the forces of Louis XIV., insisted upon his right to deliver the warrant for the money into the hands of the king, then in the trenches under hot fire. As he handed the document to the king, saying, in response to William's growl of remonstrance, "Am I, then, more exposed to danger than your majesty?" a cannon ball swept away his head.

Not so very many years ago there stood over the massive fireplace in the directors' room of the bank three rusty specimens of the old "Brown Bess," together with a number of roughly shaped bullets. In these relics was embodied a picture of the November night in 1789 when the mob of Gordon rioters marched down from Newgate, setting fire to every Catholic chapel on the way and advancing with a force of 5,000 upon the bank itself.

The clerks, armed with muskets, were unprovided with shot. Before them lay rows of leaden inkstands, suggesting the possibilities of a new use. In less than half an hour the inkstands had been melted and turned into bullets. The muskets were loaded. At every window of the bank stood two marksmen, their guns trained on the mob below. Yet the rioters came on until they were within ten yards of the bank gates. Then sharp and clear above the frightful din rose the order to fire, and from the windows poured a deadly volley. When the smoke finally cleared away 250 lay dead or dying in the open space now covered by the esplanade of the Royal Exchange. The attacking army wavered, stopped, broke line and fled, and the Gordon riots were at an end.

During the first part of the reign of George II. it was the practice of all banks to give a receipt in payment of a deposit, the receipts being passed from hand to hand and serving the same purpose as the check of today.

At that time Childs' bank, a private concern, which had the backing of a great part of the English nobility, exhibited such signs of future greatness that the Bank of England became greatly alarmed, especially in view of the fact that the "Old Lady's" notes were at a discount of 10 per cent. Little by little, through their agents, the managers of the Bank of England bought up every receipt bearing the Childs' signature, allowing the collections to accumulate each year until the time should be ripe, during a shortage of gold, to present the receipts in one great mass for payment. It was deemed a certainty that Childs' would not be able to meet the demand and would thus be ruined.

The principal figure in the drama that ensued was no other than the famous Sarah Jennings, in whom Childs' bank found its staunchest supporter. One night there came a wild clanging at the bell of the great gate of the town of Blenheim—a clanging that soon awakened every one in the town. A white faced, travel stained man staggered into the duchess's hall, begging an audience with her grace. When the duchess, in her dressing gown, appeared, demanding to know the reason for this unseemly visitation, the man explained that the Bank of England held the Childs' receipts in the amount of £620,000, that those receipts would be presented for payment at noon following, that there was not at Childs' enough gold to meet them, that unless the demand could be satisfied within eight hours Childs' was ruined and that there was but one person in the world—her grace—to whom they might turn.

Whereupon the redoubtable duchess sat down and wrote out a check, which she handed to the agent. It was an order on the Bank of England for the payment of £700,000. He was instructed to take this check to the Bank of England and to say that if it hesitated for a single instant in paying it the duchess would proclaim it as a defaulter.

At 12 o'clock that day there appeared at the Childs' counter an agent of the Bank of England bearing a big bag full of receipts and blandly suggesting immediate payment. At the same moment the Childs' agent was in Threadneedle street receiving cash on the check of the duchess.

The cashiers at Childs' naturally took their own time in scrutinizing the receipts, spending fully half an hour over the first batch alone. They were at the end of the first hundred when their messenger arrived. Then they quickened the procedure a little, and within ten minutes the Bank of England had been paid in its own coin. The net result was that Childs' was many thousands of pounds richer.—Harper's.

108 Cheques Will be Distributed Among Canadian Farmers. Will You Get One of Them?

In addition to the twenty-seven first prizes of $50 each, there will be eighty-one other cash prizes, ranging from $10 to $25 in our

1912 PRIZE CONTEST FOR FARMERS

This contest is along the same lines as the one which was so successful last year, except that there are three times as many prizes, and therefore three times as many chances for each contestant to win. Every farmer in Canada who uses "Canada" Cement is eligible to compete. The conditions are such that large and small users of cement have equal opportunities to win a $50 prize.

The contest is divided into three classes, and there are first, second, third and fourth prizes ($50, $25, $15 and $10) in each class.

CLASS "A"—Prizes to be awarded to the four farmers in each province who use most "Canada" Cement on their farms in 1912.

CLASS "B"—Prizes to be awarded to the four farmers in each province who send photographs of the best concrete work done with "Canada" Cement on their farms in 1912.

CLASS "C"—Prizes to be awarded to the four farmers in each province who send the best description, telling how any piece of concrete work was done with "Canada" Cement. (Entries for this prize must be accompanied by photographs of the work.)

In addition to this being divided into classes, so as to give small users of cement an equal chance with those who use more, the Contest is also divided into nine divisions, one for each province. So you see you need only to compete with the other farmers of your own province, and not with those all over Canada.

Don't think that because you have never used cement, you cannot win a prize. Many of last year's prize winners had never used cement before they entered the Contest. We will send you a free book, "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete," that will not only help you in the Contest, but will tell you everything you could want to know about the use of cement on the farm.

Don't delay, but send us your name and address to-day and get this free book and full particulars of the Prize Contest right away. Use a letter, postal or coupon.

A free book, "What the Farmer can do with Concrete" will be sent to all who request details of the Prize Contest.

HARRIS & CO. PROPRIETORS.

WATFORD, SEPTEMBER 20, 1912.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Michigan state has three "dry" candidates competing for governorship. Temperance sentiment is surely growing.

The ageing of wine by electricity has been followed by the ageing of cheese by the same subtle current. Ageing seems to be easy, but there is wealth awaiting the man who can restore the youth of an egg or of a salmon trout.

One of the provisions of the ordinance providing for the inspection of meats, now before the city commission of Pontiac, Mich., states that it shall be unlawful for any butcher to spit on the whetstone when sharpening his knives. The provision is well worth copying by other towns and villages.

Titanic relief funds raised in Great Britain exceed two million dollars. This sum, large as it is, will be all required to continue allowances which are being made to dependents of those who lost their lives in the great disaster. Claims have been made on behalf of 250 widows, 500 children under the age of 16 years, and 200 dependents.

Great Britain, France and Russia are said to have come to an understanding on the subject of naval defence with a view to holding Germany in check. France is to assume the defence of the Mediterranean against any possible combination of the triple alliance. Russia will take care of the Baltic and Britain will guard the North Sea. The unrest among the nations of Europe shows no diminution.

That western land values are greatly inflated, and that there will be a drop, owing to speculators boosting the prices up to such an extent that the purchaser pays profits that will not materialize for fifteen years, is the opinion of Mayor George J. Thorp, of Essex, who has returned from a trip to the coast. His advice to young men is, "If you have a comfortable position in Ontario stay east," and to investors, "Put your money in Ontario property and boost it half as much as you would if it were in the West."

The idea which actuates the crowd in this age has been crystallized in that latest musical atrocity entitled "Everybody's doing it." To catch the spirit of this song means to abandon one's self utterly to the mad infatuation which blinds so many millions of young people to the utter folly of their choice when they decide to be one of the crowd to do things because others are doing them, to cease to think for themselves, to lose their own personality and have their attractions dictated by the music hall artist who sets the fashion for the crowd just as their style of clothes is dictated by the New York or Paris dressmaker. There is a determined effort being made to keep yellow journals out of Canadian houses but such a song as "Everybody's Doing It" is sung by the child on the street without any rebuke. "Everybody's doing it!" God help the girl or boy who takes that for a motto! When Daniel and his friends stood up for the right, they did not nail that sentiment to the mast. When the late General Booth began his wonderful life work in the slums of London everybody was not enlisted under his flag. It is the man or woman who stands alone, who breaks away from the crowd, who sees with clear eyes that the crowd is following a leader as blindly as the children followed the pied piper of Hamelin, who makes his mark, who stands out clear and distinct as one who has been an individual, a reasonable, sensible being, and not a follower of every folly of the hour—Ex.

WARWICK.

Wallace Taylor has sold his farm on 18 sideroad to Ben. Williamson, and moved into Watford.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miller returned home last week after spending a week with friends in Port Huron, Saginaw, Rosebush, Clare, and also a day at Lake Stevenson.

Little Melvin Orile Smith died at the home of his grandfather, William J. Smith, 18 sideroad, on Wednesday last after a short illness, aged 4 years, 6 months and 18 days. The funeral will be held this (Friday) afternoon at two o'clock to Bethel cemetery.

Mr. D. N. Hossie, of Moosejaw, Sask., (grandson of Mr. J. Cronie) who won the Rhodes' Scholarship for Saskatchewan, leaves on the Megantic on the 28th inst. for England to commence his three years course at Oxford. The scholarship also includes $1500 a year for expenses.

Mr. Herbert W. Collier, Chief Probation Officer of the Juvenile Court for the city of Vancouver, B.C., is spending this week at his old home on the 2nd line, Warwick. Mr. Collier is combining business with pleasure and is looking into the system in operation in different Canadian and American cities. He has called at Winnipeg and Toronto and on Friday of last week sat on the bench with Commissioner Starr, of the Toronto Court, while he dealt with several important cases of delinquency amongst children. He will leave next Monday for Chicago where the oldest Juvenile Court in existence is held and will be open to receive pointers which may benefit his own work on his return to the coast city, but so far he says he has not seen anything better than their own. Mr. Collier took charge of this department at its inception in Vancouver and the splendidly organized system in operation there is the result of the united efforts of himself and his wife who is also considered an expert in dealing with the delinquent juveniles, and backed up by a Court Committee composed of members of the two Children's Aid Societies, Protestant and Catholic. The city council of Vancouver has recognized the benefit of this department in the rapidly growing city and have put over twenty thousand dollars into the plant and their appropriation for maintenance for 1912 is eleven thousand dollars.

FOREST.

Forest, Sept. 18.—The funeral of Mrs. Ann Sutcliffe, wife of Mr. Thomas Sutcliffe, was held this afternoon at Beechwood cemetery, and was largely attended. Deceased was 79 years old, and died on Monday after a brief illness. Besides her aged husband she is survived by a family of ten children: Joseph, of Forest; Mrs. Neelands and Mrs. Campbell, of Plympton; Mrs. Geo. Walker, of Forest; John and Will, of Plympton; Rev. F. Fletcher Sutcliffe, of Avon; Mrs. Patterson, of Plympton; Mrs. Rawlings, of Lakeside, and Miss Evie at home. Mrs. D. Kemp and Mrs. Richardson, of Forest, are sisters, of deceased.

The funeral of Edward Archer, of Plympton, took place to St. Mary's cemetery, Warwick Village, Rev. W. M. Shore officiated. The pallbearers were Arthur and William Dodge and James Brush, of Plympton; Chas. Hawke, ins. Robt. Wilkinson and J. S. Clark, of Warwick.

CHOP STUFF.

Owing to their increasingly slim attendance, the Gaelic services, which had long been held in the Kilmartin Presbyterian Church, have been discontinued for some time. In making choice of a minister to succeed Rev. Dr. McDonald, Gaelic will not be considered a necessary qualification.

Joseph Lendon passed away in Leamington on Tuesday, Sept. 3rd, at the ripe old age of 81 years, after a lingering illness. Mr. Lendon was a resident of Forest, a number of years, having carried on a butcher business there until about 7 years ago when he removed to Leamington.

Angus McLeod, the well-known ex-champion bicycle rider, formerly of Sarnia, underwent an operation in Detroit recently for the removal of his left leg. He has been in poor health for some time, and recently developed blood poisoning in his leg, and the doctors decided that amputation of the limb was necessary to save his life.

Several freight cars were derailed on the Grand Trunk at Waukegan on Sunday night shortly before 10 o'clock, making it necessary for the London auxiliary to go to the scene to clear the tracks. The gang which accompanied the auxiliary worked for nearly 12 hours clearing up the wreckage of the cars and repairing the tracks.

Detroit coal dealers are unanimous in the belief that Detroit is threatened with a coal famine that will assume larger proportions than the famine of last winter. At this early date they say there is a deplorable shortage in the hard coal market, and if there is another freight blockade of the magnitude of the one of last winter, the situation will be serious. The big coal dealers of Detroit are rushed now taking care of orders on their books. Some of them declare it is almost impossible to handle new business. Purchasers are being charged $8 and in some cases as high as $8.25 a ton for hard coal, where a year ago it was retailed at $7.50 a ton.

Come in to-day and let us show you some of the finest ware that ever came to this town. Every piece is up to date and the best that ever came out of a kiln.

DO YOU CARE FOR YOUR HAIR?

Of course you do—every man and woman does. That's why no one likes to lose his hair.

One of the greatest enemies of the hair is dandruff.
Dandruff is not merely an unsightly nuisance—it's a real menace. It indicates a diseased scalp. And a diseased scalp can't nourish the hair properly.
When the hair fails to get proper nourishment it dries and falls out. Its perfectly simple when you understand it.

And still people say "I can't see why my hair comes out."

Dandruff—a sluggish circulation of the blood through the scalp—impaired vitality of the hair follicles—and the hair dies.

Nyal's Hair Restorer gets at the root of the trouble, by overcoming the dandruff. After a few applications, according to the explicit directions accompanying panying each bottle, the dandruff is seen to be very much diminished in quantity and continued use banishes it entirely.

At the same time the use of Nyal's Hair Restorer stimulates the scalp and promotes the vitality of the roots of the hair, causing a more healthy growth.
We do not claim that this will restore hair in case of complete baldness, but it will keep you from losing what hair you have.

Besides that, it's a delightful toilet article, and very agreeable for daily use in dressing the hair. It does not become sticky, neither does it make the hair harsh and dry. On the contrary by regulating the natural flow of oil from the scalp it keeps the hair soft and glossy.

It's made from a good old formula—so good that after years of use the people prefer it to any other sort of hair tonic.

Sells for 75c a big bottle.

crew, who found his terribly mangled body. Eastman lived but a few minutes afterwards. He was the only son of

DO YOU USE PILLS?

If In Doubt About the Right Pills to Use Read the Following Letter Carefully:

"I am one of those persons whose system requires aid," writes Mr. Young Gledhill, from Picton, "but it is so easily affected by reason of the great sensitiveness of the bowels that ordinary drastic pills inflict great injury to the delicate coating, and excite such persistent activity as to be with difficulty checked."

"I wish in the highest terms to express the great value of Dr. Hamilton's Pills in cases like mine, and I am sure also for elderly people and the very weak there is no pill like them."

"Speaking of my own experience with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I can say they have proved the most stimulating pills for the liver I have found. I have proved their tonic action upon digestion, and the same results have been secured by friends upon whom I have urged their use. The manufacturers are to be congratulated upon possessing so valuable a prescription, and the public should know that so valuable a remedy has been placed at their command."

No other pill for constipation, for liver, kidney, or stomach trouble, compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild and sure always to restore health. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all dealers, 25c per box, or The Carrhazone Co., Kingston, Ont.

An Athletic Girl

And What She Achieved

By HELEN JENNINGS

Johnny Perkins and I were born in adjacent houses, only Johnny was born a year before me. Johnny had no boys to play with, and there were no girls living near me. The consequence was that we began to play together as soon as we were old enough to be playmates and kept it up till we were past ten years old. Johnny's mother was content to have him in my company. She said that when he played with boys they abused him, tore his clothes, robbed him of his playthings—in short, treated him with all uncharitableness. They induced him to climb trees, get into the mud and say bad words. I, being a girl, and rather a delicately organized girl at that, didn't tyrannise over him or otherwise injure him. I certainly didn't induce him to climb trees.

When Johnny was eleven years old his father got rich, and the family went to live in a big house, and I didn't see anything of him after that until he was twenty years old.

Meanwhile I had been growing more and more delicate, and the doctor, when I was sixteen, recommended little or no school and athletics. The consequence of this was that I grew robust and from a "little angel," as I was called, had become a sportswoman. I played tennis, golf and other out of door games and had become quite a horsewoman. Johnny, on the contrary, had been going downhill in this respect, just as I had been going uphill. When his father made money and Johnny was taken away from me his mother hired a nurse for him. It seemed the only way for her to keep him from tearing and soiling his beautiful clothes he was obliged to wear.

His nurse watched him like a cat. If he got into a swing she would order him out. If he rolled in the grass she would pick him up, set him on his feet and ask him what he meant by getting the green on his white knickerbockers. The result of all this was that when Johnny reached the age of twenty he didn't know how to swim, he couldn't pull an oar, he had never ridden on a sled or glided on a pair of skates.

I overheard a lady who had known him since he was a baby say to my mother: "Johnny played too much with your daughter, Kate, when he was a little fellow, and when he was parted from her he fell into the hands of a nurse. That's what's the matter with Johnny, poor boy; he couldn't help it. He's been educated so and will remain so."

I had been very fond of my little playmate, and now that I had been changed from a fragile girl to a sports-woman I felt awfully sorry for the boy. Johnny had been handicapped. What I didn't like especially was the influence I had had on him in the beginning. I blamed myself for his condition, for, I argued, if he hadn't played with me when he was a little chap his mother couldn't afterward have tied him down to a nurse.

When I was nineteen I went to visit at the Perkinses. When I saw Johnny I wanted to cry. A more helpless man I never saw. He had never mingled with any except swells, and none but the most effeminate swells would have him around. I couldn't believe that he was the dear, honest, sympathetic, self-sacrificing boy I had been so fond of and had remembered as my dear little playmate.

"Well," I said to myself, "I'll get some of that out of him if I have to kill him."

I had been invited to spend a week at the Perkins country home, and I determined to make the most of that week. Pocketing my repugnance to Johnny's effeminacy, I ran up to him with outstretched hands, taking both his in mine, and said:

"Oh, John; I'm jolly glad to see you again, old fellow. I've been eager for it ever since I received your mother's invitation. We'll have a hot time while I'm here. We'll just make things hum."

He looked at me in a half frightened way and said he was "very much pleased to meet me again." He "remembered our childhood days very well." He seemed to be a bit taken back by my exuberance and especially my slang, which, by the bye, I adopted for the occasion.

"Have we time for a ride before dinner?" I asked. "We can talk over old times together in a canter."

"Oh, yes, I'll tell James to bring round the auto, or would you prefer to go in the box wagon? James usually drives me in the wagon."

"Neither. I'll go on horseback."

"Horseback! I don't know how to ride a horse."

"You'll have to learn if you ride with me. Come; order a horse for yourself and one for me."

A pained expression passed over his face. From force of habit he looked at his mother, who said that John had not learned to ride. She had intended to have him take riding lessons, but had never been in a position to do so. I must excuse him.

"I'll be his riding master," I said. "Come, Johnny; let's have a canter."

I had purposely brought matters to a crisis. If John was a natural milk-sooper he would obey his mother, who at tempted to command him by a frown. If he was a man he would stand by me whether he knew how to ride or not. There was a brief struggle within him, and I won. He went out to the stable to select the horses and give his instructions. I ran upstairs, donned my riding clothes, and when I came down John appeared in an immaculate riding suit—he had never worn it before—and going out to the porte-cochere, we mounted and rode away.

John had provided himself with a horse that could not be driven out of a walk, and even then the poor fellow had a hard time to keep his balance. But I had made a beginning and made up my mind that before I had got through with him he should be jumping logs and ditches. I was tempted to prick the animal he rode with a pin and get my pupil dumped on the turf, but I didn't wish to try too much at once, so I refrained. I gave him a short lesson of an hour, then permitted him to return to the house, take a bath and put on his evening clothes before dinner. He was quite exhausted, but seemed to be very proud of having ridden a horse.

It required only this much to convince me that John was a man, like other men. He had been deprived of the elements of development. How can a plant thrive without sunlight? My old playmate had grown to manhood in obedience to a natural law. He was like a boy who had been taught to swim by reading swimming instructions from a book. In other words, he had not learned at all.

The next morning I came down to breakfast in a tennis suit, John in immaculate morning costume.

"Go straight upstairs," I said to him, "and come back in your shirt and trousers. Do you suppose you're going to entertain me sitting on the piazza? Not on your life! You'll play tennis."

He gave a sickly smile, marched upstairs, came back in sporting costume, and after breakfast we went out to the court. He played the game, though he had begun too late to make much of a hand at it. When we had played one set he was tired, but I kept him at it till an hour before luncheon, and he went in to the tub reeking with perspiration.

At the end of the week a great change had come over John. He had got some of the "soft" out of him and had entered upon a new career. I had been a link for him between his mother and freedom. Before the week expired he had declared his independence and developed a natural taste for athletic sports. He was like a plant brought from a cellar and placed in the shower and sunshine of an April day. He wouldn't hear of my leaving. I must stay on indefinitely, as long as I would.

His mother needed some one to take him from her influence as much as he. She had followed a habit and was not sorry when she saw that I was trying to undo what she had done, for there is no mother who does not wish to see her son manly, even though she be the cause of his effeminacy.

I remained at the Perkinses for a month and even then found it hard to get away. I had nearly killed Johnny, but he said "he liked it." His mother didn't approve of that part of it and asked me if a taste for athletics necessarily involved breaking persons' necks. I replied that an occasional neck was necessarily broken in athletics, as well as in other less strenuous pursuits.

A year passed, during which I was constantly spending short or long terms at the Perkinses. Athletics were to Johnny like a new toy to a child. In the winter he learned to skate and in the summer to swim. He was greatly handicapped on account of learning those accomplishments late in life and had he not had a strong natural taste for them would not have learned them at all. As it was, he became fairly proficient in them.

I was repaid for all my trouble—if it can be called such—by John himself. Among other sports, I was fond of canoeing. It seems to me the most dangerous of all outdoor sports, even for those who can swim—that is, if they go too far from land. One day Johnny and I were paddling in a canoe on a bay of the Atlantic ocean. We ventured too far out and were caught in a squall. We saw it coming and death in it. In John the nature of a strong man triumphed over the disadvantages he had so long endured. He became the anchor, I the clinger. He ordered me to lie down in the bottom of the boat in order to preserve my equilibrium, while he crouched as low as possible and still worked a paddle. Watching the wind coming over the water, he kept the canoe in a position to be struck on the stern instead of on the side.

We plunged on the crests of the waves for awhile, but no strength or skill could keep us straight before them. The canoe turned, and the next wave that struck us keeled it over. Both swam for the boat, which floated bottom up, and caught it.

There is a good deal in this story about what I did for John and very little about what John did for me, and yet what he did for me, though concentrated within half an hour, was worth many times my efforts in his behalf.

The wind howled; the rain poured down on and about us, obscuring the land. The waves dashed themselves against us as if determined to drive us from our frail support. And during this time John was holding me in my perilous position, both of us clinging to the canoe. Then when it was all over and boats came to our assistance they took me aboard unconscious.

I had saved John from a life of effeminacy, and he had saved me from death. I found him as necessary to me as I had been to him, and we have never parted.

CARE OF THE CAT.

How Pussy Should Be Corrected and How She Should Be Fed.

It isn't a very nice task to punish pussy if you're fond of her, but there are times when she must be chastised. This is how to do it, according to Mr. Louis Wain, the great authority on the fascinating feline.

In the first place, don't actually strike the cat. A blow merely numbs it. And when the spine, which is its most sensitive part, is struck—particularly if the cat is old—it is likely to sprain at the strikes.

When pussy does anything wrong, frighten the wrongdoer by striking a stick on the ground. A cat is most sensitive to sounds and will connect this new noise with what has done. It feels more intensely than most animals; hence its supposed savagery in cases. Cats are highly electrical, and it is very good to have one perch on one's shoulder or knee.

The best food for pussy is raw meat, chopped up, and only one meal a day should be given. Most of the mistakes which are made in training cats arise from an absence of knowledge of the cat's character and constitution. —London Answers.

Honey is sometimes put to extraordinary uses. For instance, persons seeking safety for delicate seeds and bird eggs which are to be shipped long distances pack them in honey. Hindus for centuries have used new honey as a laxative and old honey as an astringent. Aborigines of Persia offered honey to the sun. Greeks still mix it with milk or water and use it as a libation to the dead. In one section of India milk and honey are handed to all bridegrooms as they arrive at the door of the bride's father, and in ancient Egypt honey was long a chief ingredient of embalming fluid.

tive markets held at these yards, all classes of live stock being well represented. Nearly all the local butchers and abattoirs had buyers on the market, as well as several from outside points.

There were many farmers, as well as distillery feeders, looking for feeders, both bulls and steers.

The result was that there was a good, active market in nearly every class excepting for lightweight eastern cattle.

Butchers' cattle of extra choice quality reached $7, but it must be remembered that these, with many other lots, were practically sold off cars, only having reached the market a few hours before being sold.

All things concluded, we consider that there was a good, steady trade for cattle, but prices were not notably changed from those paid at the close of last week.

Exporters—The export trade seems to be dead, as we did not hear of any being bought for export purposes. There were a few lots of export weights bought for butcher purposes, at $6.60 to $6.90, which is not as high as was paid for some of butcher weights.

Butchers—Extra choice quality butchers' steers and heifers sold at $6.75 to $7, but there were few got these prices, as will be seen by sales quoted. Loads of good sold at $6.25 to $6.50; medium, $5.50 to $6; common, $5 to $5.40; inferior, lightweight steers and heifers, $4 to $4.75; choice, heavy cows, $5.25 to $5.50; good cows, $4.75 to $5; medium cows, $4 to $4.50; common cows, $3.50 to $4; canners and cutters, $2 to $3.50; bulls, $3 to $5.25.

Stockers and feeders—The demand for stockers and feeders of the right kind and quality was greater than the supply. Steers, 950 to 1000 lbs., are worth from $5.25 to $5.60; steers, 800 to 900 lbs., $5 to $5.25; stockers, $4 to $4.75.

Milkers and Springers—There was a fair delivery of milkers and springers, which sold at $50 to $75 each for the bulk, and an extra choice Holstein sold up to $90.

Veal Calves—Receipts of veal calves were less than 100, consequently the prices were firm, selling all the way from $3.50 to $5 for rough eastern quality; medium at $5.50 to $6.50, and good to choice at $7.50 to $9 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs—Sheep were firm, at $4 to $4.50 for light ewes, and $3 to $3.75 for rams and heavy ewes; lambs were 25c to 30c per cwt. higher, selling at $5.50 to $6.65, with a few selects at $6.80 per cwt.

Hogs—Deliveries of hogs being light, prices were firmer, at $8.75 to $8.90, the bulk of sales being reported at $8.85, fed and watered, and $8.50 to $8.60 f.o.b. cars.

East Buffalo.

East Buffalo, Sept. 17.—Cattle—Receipts, 400 head; steady. Veals—Receipts, 200 head; active and steady, $4 to $11. Hogs—Receipts, 6,400 head; slow and 15c to 20c lower; heavy and mixed, $8.25 to $8.85; yorkers, $8.25 to $8.85; rough pigs, $7.25 to $7.40; stags, $5.00 to $6.50; dairies, $8.50 to $8.75. Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 7,000 head; slow; sheep steady; lambs 10c lower; lambs, $4.50 to $7.50.

RURAL MAIL ROUTES.

Mail Couriers to Sell Stamps and Orders and Deliver Registered Matter.

Commencing on Tuesday, October 1st, next, all Rural Mail Couriers will sell postage stamps, purchase money-orders and postal notes to the patrons on their rural route who may request it.

The courier will provide himself out of his own funds, with a sufficient supply of stamps from the distributing office of his route, that is, the office where his mail is made up, and sell to any patron on his route during the time he is engaged in carrying the mail. Postmasters of the office of distribution must see that these regulations are carried out, and if not, report the fact.

A small booklet will be supplied every Rural Mail Courier in order to facilitate the carrying of the stamps.

The Department has had printed blank forms of application for money-orders and postal notes, which are supplied in bundles of 10. One bundle must be placed in every box, so that the patrons may fill them out as desired, and thus simplify the courier's task. The courier will only have to sign the receipt for the money received by him and hand the receipt to the patrons. On reaching the office of distribution the courier will purchase the money order or postal note and take it to the purchasers box on the next trip. If requested, however, by the patron there will be no objection to the courier taking the open letter in which the money-order or postal note is to be enclosed, put in the money-order or postal note, when purchased, and forward same to the addressee at once.

Blank forms of application should, however, be carried by the courier so that he may be able to meet the demands of the patrons on his route. The courier must also accept, for registration, any article offered to him, if it is properly prepaid, and must give a receipt for same from a small book which will be provided for the purpose.

As regards the delivery of registered articles, a notice must be sent by the postmaster of the distributing office on the next trip of the courier, after the article reaches his office.

The notice will state that the registered article will be sent on the following trip of the courier, and will advise the patron to meet the courier at the box, and give a receipt for the article on a card which will be filled in by the Postmaster of the distributing office and handed to the courier along with the article.

If the patron fails to meet the courier at the appointed time, the registered article must be taken back to the distributing office, the postmaster of which will send out a second notice to the addressee, telling him that the article will be held there until it is either called for, or instructions given as to its dis-

It's but seventy-two years since the first photographic portrait was made in America—a picture of Miss Dorothy Catherine Draper—made by her brother, Professor John William Draper, of the University of the City of New York. It took an exposure of five minutes in the full glare of the noon day sun.

To-day it takes but a fraction of a second, even in the softly modulated light of a studio. Clever photographers and fast plates and lenses have made having your picture taken a rather pleasant experience these days.

Kissing on the Street.

According to Magistrate Scott, of Philadelphia, it is no crime to kiss a girl on the streets of Philadelphia. The magistrate was called upon to render this decision when Harold Luders was called before him, having been arrested for kissing Miss Hilda Young, his fiancée, when leaving her, Sunday night, to board a car for his home.

"Why this boy has committed no crime," said the magistrate. "Things have come to a pretty pass when a man cannot kiss his girl on the street. If this keeps on it will be high time for the young couples to move out and the crippled and feeble-minded to move in. If a good, clean young man must hide his head under a bucket or crawl under a barn when he wants to kiss a nice, sweet girl, then I say it's about time for Gabriel to toot his horn and set off the big blast.

"Where do you think a fellow ought to kiss his girl? Down in a big cave? If a girl is good enough to be kissed she ought to be kissed out in the open, so that everybody can see it, and no one likes to do it and see it more than I."

He discharged Luders forthwith.

Suicide Point, Niagara Falls is no more. Workmen employed by the state conservation commission cut it away. It is estimated that more people ended their lives from this point than possibly any other point along the river, and this is how it got its name. The point jettied out about eight feet over the water, with a sheer drop of 100 feet. There was a solitary willow tree on it.

Twenty-five cents will pay for the Guide-Advocate until Jan. 1st, 1913.

EYE AILMENTS

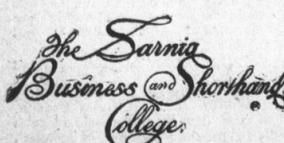

Seventy-five per cent. of the people have abnormal vision, and only about 25 per cent. wear glasses to correct the defects.

The other 50 per cent. suffer from various eye troubles. These have a reflex action on the bodily function, causing headaches, indigestion, dizziness and many other ailments.

Every person should make it a point to find out whether his or her eyes are normal or not. We can do this for you—do it accurately and scientifically by the dark room test.
