The little stations hummed with bustle and noise, big farm wagons rattled off up the vilige streets and raced with "cut under" or omnibus; people walked with quick steps; the baggagemasters called rily to the trainmen, and the brakemen laughed goodbys to rollick-ing girls. At times the train ran be-

It takes a long time for the full beauty of the flat lands to reach a man's soul. Once there, nor hills, nor sea, nor growing fan leaves of palm shall suffice him. It is like the beauty in the word Indiana. It may be that there are people who do not consider Indiana a beautiful word, but let it ring true in your ears, and it has a richer sound than Vallombrosa All at once the anger ran out of John Harkless. He was a hard man for anger to tarry with. And in place of it a strong sense of home coming began to take possession of him. He was going home. "Back to Plattville, where I

"Honest! A man in the pay it than to trot a smug pace unscathed. He had been a dullard, a sluggard, weary of himself, unfit to fight, a fail-ure in life and a failure in love. That of Rodney McCune! They ran by the outlying houses of the town amid a thousand descriptive exclamations from Harkless, who wished Meredith to meet every one in Car-

low. But he came to a pause in the middle of a word. "Do you hear music," he asked abruptly, "or is it only the rhythm of the ties?" "It seems to me there's music in the air," answered his companion. "I've been fancying I heard it for a minute or so. There! No-yes. It's a band, isn't it?'

"No. What would a band—yes, it is!" The train slowed up and stopped at a water tank 200 yards east of the station, and their uncertainty was at an came the detonating boom of a cannon, There was a clash of brass, and the ing "Marching Through Georgia." Meredith laid his hand on his companion's shoulder. "John," he said, "John!"

The cannon fired again, and there shouters all unseen. The engine coughed and panted, the train rolled on, and in another moment it had stopped alongside the station in the midst of a riotous jam of happy people who were waving flags and banners and handkerchiefs and tossing their hats high in the air and shouting themselves hoarse.

The band played in dumb show. It could not hear itself play. The people came at the smoker like a long wave, and Warren Smith, Briscoe, Keating and Mr. Bence of Gaines were swept ahead of it. Before the train stopped they had rushed eagerly up the steps and entered the car. Harkless was on his feet and started to meet them. He stopped.

"What does it mean?" he said and be-"That's it," returned the other. "He what does it mean?" he said and be must have worked them like that for some time, because they didn't look uneasy. Warren Smith seized one of his hands and Briscoe the other. "What Briscoe and a red faced young man (a stranger to Plattville) came down the steps laughing like boys, and then Keating and Bence, and then Warren Smith. As the lawyer reached the platform he turned toward the door of the car and waved his hand as in welcome. "Here

At that it was as if all the noise that had gone before had been mere leak-age of pent up enthusiasm. A thousand horns blared deafeningly; the whistle of the locomotive and that of Hib-bard's mill were added to the din; the courthouse bell was pealing out a wel-come, and the church bells were ring-ing; the cannon thundered, and then cheer on cheer shook the air as John Harkless came out under the flags and

Why should I ride in the midst of a procession that knows me not? Why should I en-throne me in an open barouche, with four white horses to draw it and draped with silken flags? Since these things were not for me, I flew to your side to dissemble my spleen under the licensed prattle of a cousin."

"Then who is with him?" "The population of this portion of In-diana, I take it." "Oh, it's all right," said the judge, leaning back to speak to Helen. You'll have plenty of chances to about it." Helen gave a little gasp. "Never!"

she cried. "Never!"
The buckboard stopped on the Herald corner, and here and along Main street the line of vehicles which had followed it from the station took positions to await the parade. The square was almost a solid mass of bunting, and the north entrance of the courthouse flags so as to make a sort of stand. Hither the crowd was already streaming and hither the procession made its way. At intervals the gun boomed from the station, and Schofields' Henry was winnowing the air with his bell

Nobody had a better time that day than Schofields' Henry, except old Wilkerson, who was with the procession. In advance came the boys, whooning and somersaulting, and behind them fode a band of mounted men, sitting their horses like cavalrymen, led by the lock. Then followed the Harkless club of Ame, led by Boswell, with the magpanimous Halloway himself marching in the ranks, and at sight of this the Helen's eye fell upon Halloway's fat, rather unhappy face she felt a pang of pity and unreasoning remorse, which warned her that he who looks upon politics when it is red must steel his eyes to see many a man with the hearthurn After the men of Amo came the Bence in the van with the step of a grenadier. There followed next Mr. Ephraim Watts, bearing a light wand in his hand and leading a detachment workers from the oil field in their stained blue overalls and blouses, and after them came Mr. Martin and Mr. Laudis at the head of an organization recognized in the "order of procession" printed in the Herald as "the business men of Plattville." The band played in such magnificent time that every high stepping foot in all the line came down with the same jubilant plunk and lifted again with a unanimity as complete had taken that day. The ringing bells caught the time of the song, and the upper air reverberated in the rhythm. She glanced at Briscoe. He was standing on the seat in front of her and Minnie and both were singing. Meredith had climbed upon the back seat and was nervously fumbling at a cigarette. "Sing, Tom!" the girl

"I should be ashamed not to," he answered, and dropped the cigarette and began to sing "John Brown's Body" with all his strength. With that she seized his hand, sprang up beside him, and over the swelling chorus her

The barouche stopped in front of the courthouse, and Harkless passed up a lane they made for him to the steps. When he turned to them to speak, they wait for them to quiet down.

"We can't hear him from over here," said Briscoe. "We're tee far off. Mr. Meredith, suppose you take the ladies closer in; I'll stay with the horses."
"He's a great man, isn't he?" Moredith said to Helen as he handed her out of the buckboard. "I've been try-ing to realize that he's the same old fellow I've been treating so familiarly all day long."

"Yes, he is a great man," she answered. "This is only the beginning."
"That's true," said Briscoe. "Only wait awhile, and we'll all go on to Washington and get a thrill down our backs when we hear the speaker say, The gentleman from Indiana,' and see John Harkless rise to speak. But hurry along, young people." Crossing the street, they met Miss Tibbs. She was wiping her streaming eyes with the back of her left hand and still mechanically waving her hand-kerchief with her right. "Isn't it beautiful?" she said, not ceasing to uncon-sciously flutter the little square of cambric. "There was such a throng that don't mind your seeing me cry. Pretty near everybody cried when he walked up the steps and we saw that he was attentive, earnest faces and into the kindly eyes of the Hoosier country peo-ple, and as he spoke the thought kept recurring to him that this was the place he had dreaded to come back to; that these were the people he had wished to leave, these who gave him everything they had to give, and this made it difficult to keep his tones steady and his throat clear. Helen stood so far from the steps (nor could she be induced to penetrate farther, though they would have made way for her) that only fragments reached her, but these she remembered.

DOMINION NEWS IN BRIEF.

During a thunderstorm in St. John on Wednesday afternoon last, the Roman Catholic Church of the Assumption was struck by lightning and totally destroyed by fire. The church and contents were valued at $50,000, and were insured for only $13,000. No light has yet been thrown on the murder of Miss Warren, Charlottetown, recently. It looks like the deed of a madman, but strange to say that, although the awful deed took place about 7.30 in the evening on one of the principal thoroughfares in the city, no direct clue can be found.

Very marked results in spraying with Bordeaux mixture for blight have been obtained by the Vermont Station, the Irish Department of Agriculture, and the Do-Farms. In 1901 experiments by Mr. Macoun with eight varieties showed spraying of 100 bushels of marketable otatoes, and in 1902 with eleven varisties the average difference was 120 ushels per acre. With the Empire State variety there was a difference of 165 bushels per acre. In 1902 the vines were sprayed four times, on July 10th. July 22nd, July 30th and August 13th, the formula used being 6 lbs. bluestone, 4 lbs. lime, 40 gallons water. While the Colorado beetles were active, eight ounces of Paris Green were added to each forty gallons of the mixture. For large areas the expense for bluestone would be in the eighborhood of $6 per acre, and the total expense probably not more than $8 or $9. 100,000 Men for India's Frontier.

London, October 21.-Lord Kitcher er's plans for the reorganization of the Indian army are well advanced, and a considerable grant of money has been made to him, in order that he may carry out his scheme. As has already been stated, Lord Kitchener's aim is to place a fully-equipped army on the northwest fron tier, ready to move against an i vader, and strike swiftly.

The new field army, which will co sist of 100,000 men, will be organized in divisions, each of which will stand The divisions will be placed in peac is the grandest, most scientific and safest cure for any kind of headache. Without being a laxative, it regulates a disordered stomach, and is therefore something entirely new for a billous headache. It clears the brain and makes you fit for the day's duties, and to those who are troubled with nervous headaches at night, it acts as a calmative, and insures refreshing sleep and bright mental activity the next morning.

Your physician will tell you that the safest and best form in which to take a headache cure is a tablet. Powders and wafers vary, containing either too much or too little of a prescription. All Hedrite tablets contain the same ingredients to a 1-100th part of a grain. They can be easily broken or crushed and swallowed with a drink of water. You will

A Good Baker

The oven in the Kitchener Range is scientifically proportionnd to the size of the fire-box so that no more fuel can be burned than is absolutely necessary to heat the oven.

The oven is lined with heavy sheet steel, which is a great adiator of heat and insures a uniform heat throughout the oven -no danger of a loaf of bread being half done on one side and burned on the other.

The Kitchener range is built on scientific principles throughout, and should be carefully examined before buying any
