Miss R. A. Douglas, who has been in charge of the Y. W. C. A. cafeteria in King street since its installation, in March of this year, has received word from the Dominion Council of her transfer to Moncton, in connection with the cafeteria work. Miss Douglas has rendered excellent service to the local Y. W. C. A., which now accommodates about forty girls, providing a home for girls from out of town who would otherwise have few of the comforts of home life. As a token of their appreciation of her efforts in their behalf, the girls and staff of the Y. W. C. A. last evening presented to Miss Douglas a beautiful bouquet of roses. The presentation was made by Miss Bates and Miss Donegan. The following address—
Dear Miss Douglas:—
It is with the deepest regret we learn of your intention to sever your connection with the St. John Branch of the Y. W. C. A.
We all know that your work here has been very hard, but by your untiring efforts and sound business principles you have accomplished that which is a credit to yourself and to the association.
As a small token of our respect, will you kindly accept this bouquet, and may each flower breathe to you our sincere regards.

We wish you every success in your new field, and trust that the New Year will bring you every happiness.

A SHOCKING REVELATION.

At the moment when a religious forward movement is engaging attention it is worth while to direct attention to the conditions revealed in one home in this city as described in yesterday's issue of the Times-Star. Two women, with seven little ones in all, living in a small and filthy tenement under such conditions that it was necessary to take all of them to the Children's Home. One of these women is in receipt of a pension, the other is living apart from her husband.

What is religion? What obligations does it impose? Where should its effects be first noticeable—here or in China? It will, of course, be said that many religious agencies are at work in this city, giving a great deal of valuable service, and it is true; but what proportion of those who profess to be good Christians and attend church on Sunday are doing a little personal work to prevent such conditions as were revealed in one home yesterday, and may be found in lesser degree in many other tenements in St. John today?

It is of course possible that some cases are almost hopeless because of the incapacity or depravity of parents, but there are very many cases where families are slipping down toward depravity when timely sympathy and a practical personal interest would steady them and save the situation. That interest must not be spasmodic. Some people need moral crutches to lean on all the time, and these must be provided by neighbors in the community.

It will never do to allow disgust with the parent or parents to alter one's feelings toward the children. They at least are not to blame, and they may be saved. Those members of a community who go complacently about their own business and pleasures with no personal interest in what may be going on around them—what suffering may be imposed on helpless children—what want and woe and vice may exist in the next street or alley are not Christians in the true sense. There is a great field for home mission work in this city—of the practical, sympathetic, helpful, human sort.

A PROSPEROUS YEAR.

A review of conditions in New Brunswick shows general progress. With the exception of wheat the crops generally were larger than those of the previous year, and the farmers certainly have cause to complain of a dull market or low prices. Official reports show that there are more cattle, sheep, cows, horses and poultry in the province than there were a year ago. The province produced more butter, cheese and eggs. There is a steady increase in agricultural progress. More attention was paid this year to marketing the product of the orchards, with results that should ensure a better preparation and more extensive shipments next year. The matter of canning fruits and vegetables as well as meats is receiving attention and should soon yield good results for farmers as well as packers. There is no good reason for importing so much of our canned goods.

With regard to the industries of the province, the manufacture of lumber has gone steadily on, and, if there are heavy stocks to move, the most of them are sold, and there will be a busy winter in the woods. In other lines of industry the factories have been fairly busy, some of them to their capacity. There is much room for industrial growth, and it is bound up with the question of cheaper power, which is now engaging the attention of the government.

The fisheries of the province have proved profitable in some sections but less so in others. There is room here for development along scientific lines, for the fishery wealth in New Brunswick coast waters is great enough to warrant systematic expansion.

Some progress has been made during the year in mineral development, but here also there are great resources awaiting capital and enterprise.

The growth of Moncton, Edmundston, Bathurst, Campbellton and other towns gives promise of continued expansion, and is a proof of general prosperity. The failure record for the year has been exceptionally small. Trade has been active and money plentiful throughout the year. We are now approaching a Christmas season which promises to show an exceptional volume of business.

The people of the province have every reason to regard the year's record with satisfaction, not forgetting the remarkable success of the Victory Loan and the universal and hearty response to appeals made in behalf of worthy causes of every community.

Will a street paving programme which omits the stretch from the Marsh Bridge to the One Mile House be satisfactory to the citizens? That is a great thoroughfare entering the city which should be put and kept in first-class condition, the more so that it connects with one of the best pieces of highway in the province.

Rippling Rhymes

FUNDAMENTAL.

I am not very wise or clever, but this seems patent to my eye: The good old virtues live forever; all other living issues die. We hear so much of Vital Issues, which keep us staring for a day, and then, like other fragile tissues, they shrivel and are blown away. The transient things are oft alluring, gold bricks in every age; but Truth is a sower enduring, and industry still holds its own. Short cuts to wealth, short cuts to honor, short cuts to fame confront all men; but he who takes them is a goner, in fourteen cases out of ten. That road is long, the man must travel who'd fairly win the nobler prize, and often he will damp the gravel with tears from worn and weary eyes. Still Perseverance is a treasure, of cardinal honesty's trust, measure to gauge the mortal pilgrim's worth. And Loyalty and Truth are standing triumphant while the ages roll, the good old virtues still commanding the homage of the healthy soul. He wastes his time who fools and bothers with fads and isms up to date; the good old virtues of our fathers are all he needs to make him great.

CANADA—EAST AND WEST

Domestic Happenings of Other Days

THE REBELLION IN UPPER CANADA.

It was the night of Dec. 5-6, 1887, the alarm bells were ringing all over Toronto. Already a riot had been committed in the street in the name of the rebellion. The loyalists were hastening to their posts, not to the mothers part of Toronto, in the locality of Mountgomery's tavern, was in possession of the enemy.

COMMENT ON WINNIPEG.

(New York Globe.)

The dispute in Winnipeg last June, which may have been a strike, or which may have been an attempt at revolution, was carried into the elections of last Friday. It resulted in the re-election of Mayor Gray, who led the fight against the strikers, and in the election of three labor men and four citizens' committee candidates to the board of aldermen. The significance of these results is increased by the fact, conceded by a correspondent of the New York Sun, that the labor candidate for mayor, S. J. Farmer, is a rather moderate man with a good business standing. The choice of such a man shows that the labor party did not contemplate, in the event of victory, a serious interference with establishing business. There are, however, many other situations, and the majority against even such a tame manifestation of radicalism indicates that an overwhelming number of the inhabitants of Winnipeg are anxious to clear their skirts of the bare sustenance of revolution.

"And if these figures exhibit Winnipeg as not now in a revolutionary mood, they probably also afford ground for believing that the city never was in grave danger. The affair of last June started with an ordinary dispute, and it became bitter. Radicals on the labor side obtained wide publicity for adaptations not taken seriously by the rate and file, so the rumor went out that Winnipeg had barely escaped going Bolshevik. In this case, and probably in some others, the alarm was somewhat too loud to fit the facts.

THE LABOR SITUATION.

State Superintendent of Schools Augustus O. Thomas in speaking before the Twentieth Century Club in Bangor on Monday night, said that a hopeful sign of labor is its attitude toward education. In the past the man who worked with his hands was not supposed to need much education. A greater amount of skilled labor becomes essential today and the workers must be well educated as his employer in order that the two may understand each other and cooperate for the welfare of both. He said he had secured labor the right to organize for the improvement of the work under which it works; we have accorded it also the right to strike but not the right to the organization to interfere with the rights of the non-union man who desires to stay on the job to support his family. He said he was certain that which become essential for the well being of mankind and whenever a strike will be broken down if it is not based on humanity and then labor engaged in that industry should be treated in the emergency as a public service representative under the laws of our country and both sides should submit to arbitration.

SIR DOUGLAS HAIG.

Mr. Poincaré, in his rhetorical address at Glasgow, paid an eloquent tribute to Field-Marshal Haig. He said: "I saw him in the most tragic hours, and I presided at times over important conferences where he gave proof of as much clearness of mind as any man I have ever known." He explained to us his plan and reasons for the attack on the Somme. This strategic sense is accompanied in your celebrated fellow countryman with a spirit of resolution and with a disinterestedness of which I am glad to recall striking examples. In 1916 the French army, by inflicting the town of Verdun against the German rush with a tenacity which filled the whole world with wonder and respect, but it suffered enormous losses, and in spite of its courage it was obliged to yield ground little by little, and the enemy slowly encircled the walls of the town. All the houses were destroyed by bombardment; the streets were obstructed by the rubbish of crumbling buildings; the forts of Douaumont and Vaux were taken; Verdun was exposed to falling into the hands of the Germans. General Joffre, General Pétain, General Nivelle, who were all convinced it was urgent to help Verdun by attacking on another point of the front. A council of war was held under my presidency, to which Field Marshal Haig came with willing courtesy. We requested him to support the great operations our staff was preparing on the Somme. He readily agreed to do so, and he gave, indeed, the faithful assistance he had promised, and Verdun was saved."

ANOTHER WHITTINGTON.

In the December World's Work Ole Whittington thus relates the circumstances of his first night at Seattle: "When I came to Seattle in 1902, I pitched my tent on Beacon Hill, a close-in, non-settled part of the city. The first night I arrived, I stood on the hill and looked out over the city. Below me to the west were the tide lands covered with bulrushes, with an occasional straggler on a stump; to the north was the city abuzz with light, with small buildings, narrow streets, a station house for a depot, and hills and hills, covered with forests. Around the fire that night I told of my growth, and that some day I would be a stranger that we had come to Seattle to make it our home to be a part of its growth, and that some day I would be its mayor. Of course, they laughed at the idea of the red-headed stranger with his team and covered wagon becoming the mayor of their city of 100,000 people."

NEW PROGRAMME MAKES BIG HIT

Opera House Patrons Enjoy Good Vaudeville Acts And New Picture Serial

The new programme at the Opera House last evening attracted capacity houses. That they were well repaid for their visit was evident from the complimentary remarks heard on all sides; the hearty laughter which greeted comedy scenes and sayings, and the prolonged applause. The variety of the acts was in itself an attraction. There was something to satisfy all, real good music, clever dancing, a little bit of burlesque, a humorous skit and an exhibition of strength by Mang and Sydney, which was well worth the price of admission alone.

NEW SYSTEM OF FAT REDUCTION

Here's a new way for all fat people to laugh together at that old bugaboo—Obesity. The saying that "there is nothing new under the sun" does not now apply to fat people any more. Here is something new for them—a new sensation, a new pleasure, a new and graceful figure, easily found by anyone who is passing beyond the limits of slenderness. Everyone has heard of the Marmola Prescription; that harmless combination of fat-defying elements discovered by one of our foremost physicians. Now, from the same high authority, there comes another idea—the idea of condensing these same pure, harmless ingredients into a pleasant little tablet. Taken after eating and at bed-time, they help the stomach to dispose of all the fatty foods, converting them into compact, solid flesh, muscle and energy, without dieting or exercise. Marmola Prescription Tablets regulate the entire system—do for you what you so vainly exertion and self-denial can not do, and the fat, once routed, is gone for good. You can prove all this at a trifling cost. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists sent post paid by the Marmola Co., 866 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. A large case—sufficient to bring lasting results—is but $1.

SIX IN ST. JOHN ARE AFFILIATED

Only West End Improvement League Yet to Join A. A. U.

A. W. Covey, President of Maritime Branch, Looks For Active Sport Season Next Year—A Glance at The Local Situation

A. W. Covey, president of the Maritime Branch of the A. A. U. of Canada, told the Times-Star yesterday that thus far the Y. M. C. A., Y. M. C. I. S. T. Peter's, Sugar Refinery, East End and South End Improvement Leagues had affiliated with the A. A. U., leaving only the West End Improvement League to come in.

Mr. Covey anticipated an active season in sport next year. There is not much in prospect for the winter. Moncton is building two skating rinks and a curling rink. Rinks are to be built in Bathurst, Amherst and Halifax. Outside of St. John there is great interest in hockey. There will be out-door skating rinks on the south and east end playgrounds.

With regard to playgrounds Mr. Covey says that St. Peter's will put their playground in first class shape for next season, so that the north end will have an active season next year.

diamond on which inter-league games can be played, and where sports may be encouraged.

There is a steadily growing sentiment in favor of having the Rockwood playground put in good condition for sports, and the city council will no doubt be asked in its next year's estimates, to make provision for a larger expenditure than that of recent years for playground purposes. All the organizations affiliated with the A. A. U. are keen for an active season next year.

NEW ENGLAND MUST
SAVE EVERY POUND

Faces Most Rigid Curtailment of Fuel Use in its History
FIRST PLANTS CLOSING DOWN

Heatless Days And Lightless Nights in Massachusetts to be The Order—Preparing 10 Per Cent Cut in Railway Service

(Special to Times.)
Boston, Dec. 6.—New England today faces the most rigid curtailment of fuel in its history. With the coal crisis hourly becoming more acute, drastic provisions have been made to guard against the slightest waste of fuel. Industrial plants in all six states are now being struck with telling effect and unless relief is forthcoming soon many will be forced to shut down. Already three plants in Wamscocket, R. I., have announced their intention to close on Monday because of the lack of coal.

James J. Storrow, Massachusetts fuel administrator, will order heatless days and lightless nights in this state and put in force other drastic measures looking to a reduction in fuel.
Theatrical managers to avoid a possible closing of all playhouses, to conserve fuel, have agreed to shut off all their electric signs at night except for one hour.
Preparations for an immediate 10 per cent curtailment of train service on all New England railroads were started yesterday afternoon. According to the regional director no date for the adoption of the lessened schedules had been received from Washington up to a late hour yesterday.
Officials of the New England railroads were in conference late yesterday studying their schedules. It is expected that the trains to be cut are those regarded as luxury trains. Parlor and dining car service also will be cut. So far as possible coal consumed for heating terminals and other stations and railroad buildings will be conserved.
The scarcity of bituminous coal, which is responsible for the stringent measure was regarded as more acute yesterday and the increased demands upon the coal committee for supplies for immediate use which it was necessary to deny gave rise to the fear that the day is close at hand when some industries will be forced to a minimum and yesterday all railroads and other concerns that have surplus supplies of coal began burning from these supplies. Priority lists have been prepared by the New England coal committee and it is feared that soon even this number will be cut down unless coal shipments begin arriving in New England soon.

Mayor Peters issued a bulletin yesterday asking that the greatest conservation be used and urging that the people be calm so that a panic be averted.

TIGHTER HOLD IN WEST

Calgary, Dec. 6.—With four new cases of the so-called sleeping sickness and another death on Thursday, the outbreak has reached epidemic proportions in Calgary. Up to date, out of ten cases of the disease, there have been four deaths.
Winnipeg, Dec. 6.—Three new cases of sleeping sickness bring the total for Winnipeg to forty-five.

REVIVAL MEETINGS SUNDAY

Charles Inglis, D. D., of London, Eng., to Speak at All Services Beginning at 11 a. m.—Meetings Will Continue For One Week
Closing Friday the 12th
Inst.

The Laymen's Evangelistic Committee, which is an inter-denominational organization for the purpose of promoting evangelistic enterprises, is to be commenced for securing Dr. Inglis to speak to the Christian people of St. John, and as many as can should not miss this opportunity of hearing this old tried servant of the Living God.
Dr. Inglis is taking steamer from here the 12th, making his stay of necessity very short. There will therefore be three services Sunday and two each day during the balance of the week. Evening evangelistic addresses. Afternoons will be devoted to Bible study. These afternoon sessions will afford a special opportunity for Christians desiring a deeper acquaintance with the Word. Dr.
Inglis is well known as an able Bible teacher. He has crossed the Atlantic seventy-one times to preach or teach the Bible and is constantly in demand both at home and abroad in Bible conference or evangelistic work.

IN CHARGE OF SCOUT WORK FOR SALVATION ARMY

Captain Rufus T. Spooner, who is a visitor in the city over the week-end, is in charge of the life saving scout work in Canada, east territory, for the Salvation Army, and previous to being an officer of this organization was engaged in the Baden Powell scout work in Western Canada, having been in charge of a large troop in the city of Moose Jaw. It is also interesting to know that he received one of the first commissions direct from England issued by Sir Robert Baden Powell. He was also selected as leader in charge of the scouts selected from the various towns in the province of Saskatchewan and proceeded with them to England, taking part in the great Windsor rally, when King George reviewed 40,000 scouts, and with the scouts from the other provinces helped to line the route as guard of honor for the newly crowned king.

Another feature in the life of Captain Spooner is that he is a survivor of the Empress of Ireland disaster; at the time he was a member of the Canadian territorial staff band.
Captain Spooner's work now is with the boys of the Salvation Army, and he is engaged in the formation and supervision of all the life saving scout troops in Canada east territory and while in the city he will inspect the local troops of life saving scouts.

IN MAIN STREET CHURCH.
The Young Ladies' Aid Society of the Main street Baptist church, presented a very enjoyable programme in the church last evening, before a good sized audience. The entertainment consisted of what is known as a magazine programme, each number representing a page from a magazine. The table of contents were printed on a large sheet, placed in view of the spectators, and one of the society read the different numbers. The first number represented the cover of a magazine and was a tableau called "Cheerful Chat." The second item was a short story, read by Miss Elizabeth Cowan. The fourth was a piano duet by Miss Madeline Adams and Miss Enid Hutchinson. The fifth was a continued story by Miss Agnes Waring. The next item was a solo by Mrs. Sydney Codner. The seventh number was a page called "Home Hints", which was presented by Miss Elta Estabrook.
A page of smiles was rendered by Miss Mary Thorne. The next number consisted of two tableaux, the first called "Heaven Worship" and the other Christian Bible study in heather lands.
A solo was then sung by Mrs. Blake Codner. The last and concluding number consisted of tableaux, representing four pages of advertisement, viz., "Cu-tex," "Old Dutch Cleanser," "Puffed Rice" and "Victoria."

Lord Robert Cecil's Star Grows In British Political Firmament

In Discussion of Possible Prime Ministers His Name is Frequently Mentioned—Winston Churchill The Only Outstanding Figure Among Coalition Liberals

(Foreign Correspondence of New York Evening Post.) London, Nov. 14.—Let us imagine some British Rip Van Winkle awakening today after a moderate slumber—compared with that of his Catskill prototype—of three years. At his club he happens upon a group that is discussing a possible change of government. "Say what you will in criticism of the prime minister," remarks somebody, "but you must admit that there is no one to take his place." "That is quite true," comments our resuscitated sleeper, "for everybody is agreed that Asquith is the one indispensable man." He would then make the almost incredible discovery that it was not Asquith that his friends were discussing, but Lloyd George.

nobody in sight who was competent to step into his shoes. It was in the midst of a chorus of such tributes that a rival brought off a successful coup d'état, and the indispensable man disappeared from the scene at a few days' notice. The fate of his predecessor should warn the present prime minister not to bank too heavily on popular assent to the claim that the nation cannot get along without him. Some unexpected turn of events may bring about a sudden collapse of his reputation and the equally sudden rise to power of some politician whom he has failed to reckon as a serious competitor.

Not Likely to Be an Outsider. Unless the next change of government is revolutionary indeed there is one safe guide to any speculation about the identity of the prime minister who will take the place of Lloyd George when his time comes. It will be some one who is already a member of one or other of the two houses of parliament and who has taken an active and prominent part in political life. In the British system it would be out of the question for any candidate for any cabinet position to be such an "outsider" as regards parliament. And, of course, there is no chance here for any "favorite son." Unless a politician is well known the country over he is entirely out of the running for the premiership. That is to say, he must already be more or less of a national leader whose characteristics are familiar to the general public from Land's End to John o' Groats.

"SALADA" TEA

In the political firmament the star that has been most notably in the ascendant of late has been that of Lord Robert Cecil. It was not until after the armistice that Lord Robert's reputation rose to the front rank. Up to that time he had been thought of as a man of ability, it is true, but one who, in the event of a change of government, could not expect appointment to anything better than a subordinate post. Today he is frequently spoken of, by no means exclusively within his own party, as capable of sustaining worthily the responsibilities of the highest place. He has gained this reputation partly by his work in Paris and partly by the grasp of both international and domestic problems that he has shown since the return from the conference. Somehow he inspires confidence in men who do not share his political views, and what the English people are seeking today above everything else is a man in whom they can trust. Like his father, he is a Conserva-

George—is an indication of a remarkable movement of opinion. The London Nation, too, has lately been writing of Lord Robert in the same strain. It must be noted, however, that this attitude toward him is not universal among Liberals, even among those who share the Nation's views of international policy. Some of them say that his internationalism is only talk, and recall that he joined the "knock-out-blow" government, that as under-secretary at the Foreign Office he defended a foreign policy of which secret treaties formed a part and that he was the minister responsible for the vigorous enforcement of the blockade. A government of which Lord Robert Cecil was the head would not be a party government, nor would it be a coalition of the type with which we have become familiar. It would be a composite administration comprising several Conservatives of democratic sympathies—men like Lord Henry Bentinck, for instance—together with some Liberals, attracted by his internationalism and his hostility to protection, and possibly with some Labor representatives also.

Bonar Law or Lord Curzon. If a purely Conservative administration should come into power—and a reactionary movement, it must be remembered by no means outside the range of possibilities—it would naturally find its chief in either Bonar Law or Lord Curzon. There are persons named that Bonar Law is tired of politics and is meditating retirement in the near future. Curzon is a member of the hereditary aristocracy he would secure a following among many to whom Bonar Law still appears something like an intruder upon sacred territory.

Among the Coalition Liberals the only outstanding figure other than Lloyd George himself, is Winston Churchill. In sheer ability he has few equals and his ambition is ready for any venture, yet he is hardly considered seriously as a candidate for the premiership. He has alienated opinion by the readiness of his policies, and there would be a general apprehension as to the madcap enterprises to which the country might soon find itself committed if he were allowed any greater responsibilities. And, though he is still nominally a Liberal, the rank and file of the party have practically written him off as a Liberal asset, while Labor is vehemently hostile. If there were a Bolshevik revolution in England, Winston Churchill would probably win the distinction of being the first man to be hanged on a lamp-post in Whitehall.

The difficult task of leading the little group of Independent Liberals in the House of Commons has developed in Sir Donald Maclean a political ability for which no one had previously given him credit. His services would give him a claim to an important place in any future Liberal administration, but he hardly measures up to what is required in the head of a government.

Then there is Labor. The railway strike the other day did a good deal to reassure a good many people outside the Labor party who, while generally sympathetic to that party, were afraid it was deficient in the personnel necessary to carry on the work of national government. By common consent the trades union committee which undertook so successfully the work of negotiation between the strike leaders and the government, displayed gifts of statecraft and leadership far beyond expectation. Evidently the cabinet drawn mainly from members of that committee would bear comparison, on the score of competence and public spirit, with any average ministry representing either of the two older parties. In most speculations about a possible Labor ministry, Arthur Henderson has commonly been regarded as the best candidate for the premiership. Nothing is to be said of him, however, that is not in some way diminished his reputation, but he is no longer the one Labor man talked of in this connection. During the last few months J. R. Clynes has made an increasingly powerful impression upon the minds of all parties. He has attracted attention by the intellectual ability of his speeches, by the reasonableness of his attitude toward controversial questions, and by the frankness and courage with which he faces the facts of a difficult situation. He has shown more than once a capacity to take long views that is all too rare among Labor leaders. As a propagandist he has several superiors within his own party, but, if non-Labor opinion has to be reconciled to a Labor supremacy, Mr. Clynes would probably be able to do more than any one else to inspire public confidence.

There are still living three former prime ministers. Two of these are never mentioned in any canvassing of possible premiers. Lord Roseberry, who more than twenty years ago led a troubled existence as head of an administration, has long been a spent force in British politics, and he seldom emerges from his office parties and after the war in an administration of which he was not himself the head. But, apart from all other disabilities, he is now in his seventy-second year and his strength is no longer equal to sustaining so heavy a burden as that of the premiership once.

There remains Mr. Asquith. His partisans are eager to see him once more in command, but the country does not share their enthusiasm for him. It is probably more of a coincidence than the chance of independent Liberal candidates at the by-elections have been decreased in proportion as Mr. Asquith has made himself more prominent. Their most brilliant successes were gained early in the year when, for all that one could learn from the newspapers, one could not know whether he was dead or alive. Indeed, Liberal candidates lately have actually been handicapped by the prospect that the restoration of a Liberal majority to parliament would mean the return of Mr. Asquith to power. Lord Loreburn's book on the origins of the war has severely damaged Mr. Asquith's reputation, and the refusal of Labor candidates to stand aside for Liberals in three-cornered contests is partly due to the opposition of progressive politicians to any endorsement of what he stiles for. "Even if we could forgive Asquith," they say, "for the policy which led to the war, we can never forgive him for the secret treaties which have ruined the peace." H. W. H.

Justice And The Ballot Are The Means of Reform

Striking Passages From President Wilson's Message to Congress, Dealing With Capital and Labor and Industrial Unrest

(Extracts From President Wilson's Message to Congress)

No one who has observed the march of events in the last year can fail to note the absolute need of a definite programme to bring about an improvement in the conditions of labor. There can be no settled condition leading to increased production and a reduction in the cost of living if labor and capital are to be antagonistic instead of partners. Sound thinking and an honest desire to serve the interests of the whole nation, as distinguished from the interests of a class, must be applied to the solution of this great and pressing problem. The failure of other nations to consider this matter in a vigorous way has produced bitterness and jealousies and antagonisms, the food of radicalism. The only way to keep men from agitating against grievances is to remove the grievances. An unwillingness even to discuss these matters produces only dissatisfaction and drives comfort to the extreme elements in our country, which endeavor to stir up disturbances in order to provoke governments to embark upon a course of retaliation and repression. The seed of revolution is repression.

The remedy for these things must not be negative in character; it must be constructive. It must comprehend the general interest. The real antidote for the unrest which manifests itself is not suppression, but a deep consideration of the wrongs that beset our national life and the application of a remedy.

Congress has already shown its willingness to deal with these industrial wrongs by establishing the eight-hour day as the standard in every field of work. It has sought to find a way to the child labor. It has served the country by leading the way in degrading the means of preserving and degrading lives and health in dangerous industry. It must now help in the difficult task of finding a method that will bring about a genuine democratization of industry, based upon the full recognition of the right of those who work, in whatever rank, to participate in some organic way in every decision which directly affects their welfare. It is with this purpose in mind that I called a conference in Washington on Dec. 1, to consider these problems in all their broad aspects, with the idea of bringing about a better understanding between these two interests.

Collective Bargaining.

Governments must recognize the right of men collectively to bargain for humane objects that have at their base the mutual protection and welfare of those engaged in all industries. Labor must not be longer treated as a commodity. It must be regarded as the activity of human beings possessed of deep yearnings and desires. The business man gives his best thought to the repair and its usefulness will not be impaired, and its power to produce may always be at its height and kept in full vigor and motion. No less regard ought to be paid to the human machine, which after all propels the machinery of the world and is the great dynamic force that lies back of all industry and progress.

Return to the old standard of wage and industry in employment is unthinkable. The terrible tragedy war which has just ended and which has brought the world to the verge of chaos and disaster would be in vain if there should be a return to the conditions of the past. Europe itself, whence has come the unrest which now holds the world at bay, is an example of standstill in these vital human matters which America might well accept as an example, not to be followed but studiously to be avoided. Europe made labor the different-

LIFT OFF CORNS IT DOESN'T HURT

Get rid of every corn and callus for few cents

Drop a little Frezzone on an aching corn. Instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right out. It doesn't pain one bit. Yes, magic!

Why wait? Your druggist sells a tiny drop of Frezzone for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes and calluses without soreness or irritation. Frezzone is the much talked of discovery of a Cincinnati genius.

mental, and the price of it all is enmity and antagonism and prostrated industry. The right of labor to live in peace and comfort must be recognized by governments, and America should be the first to lay the foundation stones upon which industrial peace shall be built.

Labor not only is entitled to an adequate wage, but capital should receive a reasonable return upon its investment, and is entitled to protection at the hands of the government in every emergency. No government worthy of the name can "play" these elements against each other, for there is a mutually interested between them which the government must seek to express and to safeguard at all cost.

Strikes and Government.

The right of individuals to strike is inviolate and ought not to be interfered with by any process of governments, but there is a predominant right and that is the right of the government to protect all of its people and to maintain the majesty against the challenge of any class. The government, when it asserts that right, seeks not to antagonize a class, but simply to defend the right of the whole people against the irreparable harm and injury that might be done by the attempt by any class to usurp a power that only government itself has a right to exercise as a protection to all in the matter of international disputes which have led to war, statesmen have sought to set up a remedy, arbitration for war. Does this not point the way for the settlement of industrial disputes by the establishment of a tribunal, fair and just alike to all, which will settle industrial disputes which in the past have led to war and disaster? America, witnessing the evil consequences which have followed out of such disputes between these contending forces, must not admit itself impotent to deal with these matters by means of peaceful processes. Surely, there must be some method of bringing together in a council of peace and amity these two great interests, out of which will come a happier day of peace and co-operation, a day that will make men more hopeful and satisfied in their various tasks, that will make for more comfort and happiness in living and a more tolerable condition among all classes of men. Certainly human intelligence can devise some acceptable tribunal for adjusting the differences between capital and labor.

This is the hour of test and trial for America. By her prowess and strength she vindicates the cause of her soldiers, she demonstrated her power to vindicate on foreign battlefields her captives of liberty and justice. Let not her influence as a mediator between capital and labor be weakened and her own domestic concerns be proclaimed to the world. There are those in this country who threaten direct action to force their will upon a majority. Russia today, with its blood and terror, is a painful object lesson of the power of minorities. It is whether capital or labor, or any other class, no sort of privilege will ever be permitted to dominate this country. We are a partnership or nothing that is worth while. We are a democracy, where the majority are the masters, of all the hopes and purposes of the men who founded the government have been defeated and forgotten. In America there is but one way by which great reforms can be accomplished and that is through the orderly processes of representative government. Those who would propose any other method of reform are enemies of this country. America will not be daunted by threats nor lose her composure or calmness in these distressing times.

We can afford, in the midst of this day of passion and unrest, to be self-contained and sure. The instrument of all reform in America is the ballot. The road to economic and social reform in America is the straight road of justice to all classes and conditions of men. Men have but to follow this road to realize the full fruition of their objects and purposes. Let those beware who would take the shorter road of disorder and revolution. The right road is the road of justice and orderly process.

Still a Ray of Hope.

Despondent Sailer—"It's no use. She says her decision is irrevocable."

Cheerful Cylic—"Then take heart, my boy. A woman who can make such a statement as that can't possibly know her own mind."—Boston Transcript.

THE CUTTY SARK STAYS ON WAYS

Schooner Fails to Take Initial Dip at Launching Effort This Morning

An attempt to launch the large four-masted schooner "Cutty Sark" from the ship building yard of Grant & Horne this morning was unsuccessful. The frost evidently thickened or froze the grease on the ways and every effort to move her failed.

At ten o'clock Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Pugsley, Premier and Mrs. Foster, Stanley E. Elkin, M. P. and Mrs. Elkin went on to a raised platform at the bow of the new vessel and an order was given to let her go. For a few minutes men were engaged with saws and sledgeshammers clearing away braces, etc. A crew of men then began operating large jacks, which were set near the bow to be used for starting the vessel on her way. While this was going on the throng stood momentarily expecting to see her glide gracefully down the ways and take her first dip in the waters of Courtenay Bay.

As the men kept driving wedges and working the jacks it became apparent that something was amiss and soon an order was issued for a line to be sent to one of the tugs standing by. It was felt that a pull by the tug would be sufficient to move the vessel, but this proved wrong, and an order was issued for another tug to take hold. The men working the jacks had moved the vessel about twelve or fourteen inches, but this was not sufficient to start her. As the other tug came up to take hold an order was issued to stay proceedings and the man in charge of the launching soon had his crew of men making every effort until another attempt will be made.

The unsuccessful attempt to launch the vessel was a keen disappointment not only to the owners and those directly interested, but also to the many citizens who flocked to the vessel to witness the event. Included in the gathering were the following prominent shipping men: J. Willard Smith, R. C. Elkin, and Peter McIntyre. There were also a number of elderly men, who in their younger days were employed as ship-builders and all took a keen interest in the proceedings.

Commenting on the failure to launch the vessel some of these said that there was always more or less uncertainty regarding how the vessel would launch, especially in cold weather. They are confident that this would be remedied and the second attempt would meet with success.

ARGUMENT IN WEBBER CASE

The Carleton Drug Store Matter Also Resumed in Police Court Today

In the police court this morning the case against William Webber, charged with having liquor on the Halifax train, was resumed. E. S. Ritchie, counsel for the defendant, contended that the Intoxicating Liquor Act only contemplates violation within the province and that where this liquor, which was seized on the train, was going to Halifax, there was not a violation under the act.

W. M. Ryan, counsel for the prosecution, contended that under section 123 of the act, the inspectors have a right to search any place or any part of any place other than a private dwelling in that they came within their rights in going to the train. He said that where they found the liquor under the defendant's control, under section 141 it was necessary for the defendant to rebut the prima facie case against him. He said he refused to take the stand or call any witnesses in his behalf, therefore the magistrate could not do otherwise than convict him.

The magistrate will deliver a judgment in the near future.

William Foley was charged with loitering around a pool room at 88 Mill street. Edward Trearnt, proprietor of the place, said that in consequence of the conduct of the accused customers left the pool room. He said that the accused used profane language in the place. The case was postponed.

Henry Fitzpatrick was charged with wandering about and not being able to give a satisfactory account of himself on South Market wharf. He was sent before pending an investigation.

A case against Oliver Emery and George Wilcox, charged with being drunk in the drug store of Everett Walters, West St. John, was resumed this morning. The magistrate asked the regular nine questions under the prohibition act, to which the defendants both answered, "Nothing to say." The case was postponed until Monday afternoon at 1:45 p. m. W. M. Ryan appeared for the defence.

Five men charged with drunkenness pleaded guilty and were remanded.

ROSEBUD DAY WORKERS BEING WELL RECEIVED

Several Large Donations Reported and General Response to Taggers' Request Good.

With bright fine weather to aid them in their efforts and an encouraging reaction on the part of the citizens in general the ladies working in the Rosebud Day campaign for the Children's Aid Society today met with marked success and there was every indication that the effort would be entirely satisfactory. The workers were well organized and while the campaign was being conducted under the auspices of the Women's Council, it was being participated in by almost all women's societies throughout the city.

The names given here are of those in charge of the ward and departments and they are assisted by members of the societies represented in each case. An energetic body of workers canvassed throughout the wards. The average amount deposited in the little boxes carried by the "taggers" was fairly generous. Tags bearing drawing of rosebuds were given to those who donated. Instances were reported of some who would not give, but they were the exception. One lady working in the boxes carried by the girls, stenographers, cheerfully made a deposit. Headquarters were apprised of the occasion.

A light luncheon was served at noon at the headquarters of the Children's Aid Society street, and the workers afterwards started out again to keep themselves busy throughout the afternoon in their effort to swell the funds for the institution and its noble work. There were remarkably few people about the streets wearing a tag, which speaks well both for the taggers themselves and the general body of citizens who were desirous of helping.

The Workers.

The campaign today was in charge of the following:
General supervisor—Mrs. E. A. Smith.
Banking committee—Convenor, Mrs. Geo. Frink; Mrs. A. W. Estey, Miss Estey.

Ward convenor—Mrs. A. W. Estey.
Luncheon committee—Mrs. Willard Smith, convenor; committee, Mrs. J. E. Secord, Mrs. E. P. Flewelling, Mrs. Jenner, Miss Sinclair.

Advisory committee—Convenor, Mrs. E. Atherton Smith, Mrs. J. Boyle Travers, Mrs. A. W. Estey.

Rosebud in charge—Convenor, Mrs. Worden; Dauffin ward, King's Daughters' Guild, Mrs. A. P. Crockett; Sydney ward, Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., Mrs. Colby Smith; Wellington ward, young ladies of the Natural History Society, Mrs. McGinley; Landon-down and Thorne wards, Mrs. R. B. Travers; Victoria ward, Miss Gunn; Princess ward, Mrs. H. Fielding, Mrs. Rankine, Mrs. McTavish; Kings ward, St. Vincent's Alumnae, Mrs. Worden; West St. John, Mrs. E. A. Young; East St. John, Mrs. Magee; Fairville, Miss O'Brien; South Bay, Mrs. Ferris; Rotherly, Mrs. Foster.

FIND THEY MUST HAVE THESE CHILDREN SEGREGATED

Examined by Doctor McAlpine, the seven children taken to the Children's Aid Home in Garden street yesterday were found to be suffering from a skin disease which made it necessary to segregate them. There was no room in the General Public Hospital, and they were therefore placed in the small hospital suite in the home. It was necessary to get additional nursing help to care for them. The father of the Pierce children is in the city, but had not been living with his wife.

Today Rev. George Scott, agent of the society, was called on to investigate two other cases of alleged neglect. He is kept very busy dealing with such cases.

GODDARD-BOWSER.

On Thursday evening the German street Baptist church was the scene of a very interesting event when Parmer M. Goddard of St. John, and Miss Mary Bowser, of Sussex, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. S. Poole, pastor of the church. Mr. and Mrs. Goddard will reside at 113 Pitt street.

Doubtful About Alliance.

London, Dec. 5.—Lord Robert Cecil says he does not think the suggested alliance of Great Britain, France and the United States guaranteeing assistance for France in case of future aggression by Germany, would materialize. Such alliances, he declared, always broke down just when they were wanted.

Serious Situation In States Because of Coal Shortage Set Out

Reports From Various Sections; Whole Country in Struggle to Get Along—Store Hours in Chicago Shortened

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 6.—Virtually the entire country was struggling last night to make the best of more abnormal conditions than prevailed during the war as a result of the drastic measures being prescribed daily partially to counteract the prolonged strike of miners in the bituminous coal fields.

Last night the situation could be summarized as follows: The strike in some Federal Fuel Administrator Garfield indicated that coal production was increasing over last year.

Orders for further curtailment in train service were issued with suspension, for the first time in its history, of the famous 20th Century Limited between New York and Chicago.

Approximately 150 other trains in the eastern region, so will be affected, beginning next Wednesday.

New York City was included in the restricted area today when heat was turned off in subway, elevated and surface cars during rush hours, and in cabins of some of the ferry boats.

Reports from the Pittsburgh, Penna. district indicated that many miners had resumed work, while word was received from Richard J. Hopkins, attorney-general of Kansas that he believed the coal situation in that state would break away from the leadership of President Lewis of the mine workers.

St. Louis in Oklahoma were placed under military rule and Governor Robertson has ordered on duty the entire National Guard organization to occupy the coal fields.

Governor Loden of Iowa announced that the state would make no effort to run the mines at present, as it would be almost impossible to send untrained men into the deep pits.

Tennessee operators and miners have been called by Governor Roberts to meet in Knoxville on Saturday to consider steps to end the strike without seizure of the mines.

State operation of the Kansas surface mines continued with volunteers taking care from leaving pits in a desolating rain.

While the restrictions were ordered for Chicago on Thursday, the full effect was not felt until yesterday. The public utility commission also revised its orders and, beginning on Monday, retail stores will have their doors open from noon until six p. m.

It was announced that a four hour day might become necessary. Efforts in Michigan and Iowa to resume work in the mines were in vain, with the miners' representatives standing pat.

A thousand idle miners in West Virginia were urged by a convention or other body to return to work at a fourteen per cent increase and preparations were being completed to put volunteer labor in the surface mines to work.

Members of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association have begun a boycott of clothing, food, fuel and other necessities of the striking miners of the state.

With the towns and cities in Southern Illinois affected by the restrictions caused by the public utilities commission, operators and miners announced they could see no immediate end to the strike.

RAILWAYS MUST PAY FOR COAL, SAY OPERATORS, OR ALL MINES WILL CLOSE

Washington, Dec. 6.—All bituminous coal mines now in operation must close within a week unless the railroad administration pays for the coal it has contracted or diverted, said a statement today by the American Wholesale Coal Association.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Not one cent can be added to the price of coal to finance the increased cost of the coal, said Fuel Administrator Garfield today after reading despatches that Governor Cox of Ohio had proposed that miners and operators in that state compromise on the basis of a 25 per cent advance.

There will be no increase in the present price of coal under the Lever act, no matter what local arrangements and agreements are put into effect.

MESSANGER BOY SENT ON MISSION TO CAMPBELLTON
An instance of the purposes for which uniformed messenger boys are now being employed, other than for carrying telegrams, was given this week when a request was made for a boy to go to Campbellton on a special errand. It was necessary to send a delicate instrument to the town and it was feared if it were sent in ordinary way it might be damaged in transit. The request was made by Western Union Telegraph Company and the manager, George M. Robertson, recommended that a messenger boy be sent.

NO ORDINARY MASS MEETING

Is the Big Affair at 4 O'clock Sunday—Geo. Porter, M.D., Col. MacLaren, C.M.G., and the Lieut. Governor Will be Heard—Dr. Porter's Subject Although Not Announced, is One That Will Interest All.

Everything in connection with Sunday's mass meeting at the Imperial will be the ordinary, including the placing of the city chairs throughout the audience, where they will be more effective, and leave the stage for those who cannot find room in the auditorium. Dr. Geo. Porter's message is a thrilling one, and while the subject, which is one that the public knows too little about, is unannounced, they promise it to be one that will interest every man and woman in the community.

St. John has few citizens who have won greater prominence abroad or whose first public words will be awaited with greater interest than those of Colonel MacLaren, C. M. G., who, while he has not promised an address, has had such intimate acquaintance with the subject of Doctor Porter's address that he will find difficulty in refraining from expression. The lieutenant-governor will occupy the chair. Early attendance will be necessary doubtless to secure a good seat.

His Honor Judge Forbes was also heard. He joined in welcoming the men back from the war and spoke of the work done by Dr. McLaren.

Man's Terrible Deed.
Detroit, Mich., Dec. 6.—Walter Webb, aged fifty-one, shot and fatally wounded his wife and sixteen-year-old daughter, Maude, as they lay asleep in bed yesterday morning. He then killed himself.

Mrs. Webb is in the receiving hospital with a bullet wound in her head. Miss Webb is in Harper Hospital, the bullet having lodged near the left ear. Both have a slight chance for life.

Webb committed the deed in a fit of fury because his wife refused to drop divorce proceedings against him. After shooting his wife and daughter, Webb woke his son, told him what he had done, walked into the dining room and fired a bullet into his brain, dying instantly.

Another child, a girl of five years, was asleep in a back room at the time of the tragedy.

DEATH VERY NEAR HER BABY BUT PASSES ON, THEN THE LITTLE MOTHER CRIES FOR JOY

Quincy, Dec. 4.—A little Italian mother, whose name the police could not learn, had a terrifying experience for a few seconds in Elm street, which so unnerved her that she sat down on a stone wall and cried; cried for joy that her baby was not crushed to death, as she surely thought it was going to be.

The little mother was wheeling the baby carriage on the sidewalk in Elm street when an auto truck, loaded with lumber, came along. The truck was operated by Howard Hall. Nearly opposite Bigelow street one wheel collapsed and the truck turned almost at right angles and ran onto the sidewalk, just at a point where the little mother and her baby carriage stood.

Paralyzed with fear at the sight of the oncoming truck, the little mother could only stand and wait. The truck mounted a high curbstone, clambered on the sidewalk and pushed the baby carriage against a stone wall in front of the residence of Thomas Bishop.

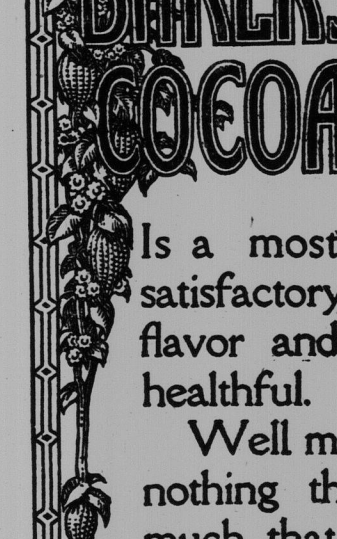

Just when the little mother expected the carriage would crumple up and the baby be crushed to death, the truck stopped. The baby carriage was wedged in tightly between the truck and the stone wall, but was not damaged, and the baby was safe and entirely unconscious of its close call with death.

And when she realized that her baby was not dead, nor even injured, the little mother stopped down on the stone wall and had a good cry.

WILHELM STILL HOPES.
London, Dec. 6.—Pomer Emperor Wilhelm of Germany does not believe he will be brought to trial by the Allies, or, if tried, that his future will be affected in any way, says the Berlin correspondent of the Daily Mail. Various friendly sources have recently suggested that he surrender to the Allies, offering to give the court all information in his power, the correspondent says, but he appears too lethargic to take any steps, or even concentrate his mind upon the preparation of notes.

Next to sawing wood, the erstwhile monarch's main interest seems to be the various campaigns waged in Russia, which he follows with the aid of large beflagged maps and he eagerly reads all the news from that country.

Chicken Bones à la Neilson

HAVE you ever eaten chicken bones? No! Not the bones of a bird, but a chocolate coated mixture of chopped figs, cream and sugar.

They taste delicious, so let us tell you how we make them.

We buy rich, juicy figs from Smyrna, cane sugar from Jamaica, cream direct from the farm, and blend all three into a delicious confection.

The figs are minced, the sugar and cream is made into a paste, and then the figs are rolled in the paste until a complete mixture is formed. This is rolled to the diameter of a pencil.

The figs are in the middle. The paste is then cut into two-inch lengths. Each contains its portion of figs. From there the "chicken bone" goes to the dipping room, where it receives a coating of very smooth and delicately flavored chocolate, and so on into the box.

Next time you Buy a Box of Neilson's, watch out for the "Chicken Bones."

CONFEDERATION BETWEEN CANADA AND WEST INDIES

Newfoundland, Too, Should be Brought Into Closer Relations With the Dominion, Says Harry J. Crowe

Toronto, Ont., Dec. 5.—In connection with the suggested confederation of Newfoundland and the West Indies with the Dominion of Canada, the following has been handed to the Canadian Press by one of the promoters thereof: Harry J. Crowe, recognized as the foremost champion of full confederation for Canada, the British West Indies and Newfoundland, has just left on a special mission to the ancient colony, the exact scope and purpose of which is not yet disclosed. His well considered views, as to the pressing desirability of a closer union between the Dominion and the British West Indies, are of peculiar interest at the present juncture, high prices of tropical fruits in Canada being a cause of much perturbation among housewives of the Dominion, who do not see why fruits from the West Indies, cannot be sold to them cheaper than at ten times the prices paid the producers, as is now the case. The explanation is simple. Canadians are at the mercy of the American Fruit Trust, largely through Canada having neglected opportunities of getting closer to British sources of fruit production in this hemisphere. Speaking on this text Mr. Crowe, prior to his departure for Newfoundland, said:

"The importance of these tropical islands is not properly appreciated in Canada. We Canadians at present import $108,000,000 worth of tropical products yearly, the greater part from or rather through the United States, thus piling up exchange against us. Our imports from the West Indies directly total but $28,000,000 annually. A large part of the 800,000 tons of shipping of the new Canadian government mercantile marine could not be better employed than in direct trade with the British West Indies, and would have the coincident advantage of supplying a new line of trade between the West Indies and Britain via Canada. Even without political union, the tariff preference can be made a potent force for commercial union between Canada and the Indies, although, of course, we would not get maximum benefits until political union was consummated. There must be political union to make commercial ties binding and permanent. Experience has shown the fact. But as England can consume all the tropical products Canada does not absorb, the tariff preference would provide return cargoes for the steamers carrying fruits, etc., from the islands, thus producing true empire interchange.

Seeking Trade. "Under present conditions the Canadian national marine ships are taking large cargoes to Jamaica and bringing sugar to Canada, but this trade is in its infancy. Canadians are active in seeking trade in Europe, where they must face the keenest competition while the Text: "The amazing statement of Ex-Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo that the profits of bituminous coal operators ran as high as 2,000 per cent in 1917, and his implied charge that they still are profiteering at the expense of both the public and miners, has started a pretty rumpus in the editorial columns of the nation's press." ALBERT COUNTY WINS VICTORY LOAN TROPHY

Will Receive German Gun in Recognition of Highest Percentage Beyond Objective—Total For New Brunswick Was $15,635,050 — St. John City and County Subscribed $5,589,500—Congratulations Due to Those Who Made 1919 Drive Such a Great Success.

The busy Victory Loan workers at the headquarters, after weeks of effort, succeeded last evening in getting the exact totals for all the counties and have handed out a grand total of which New Brunswick may well be proud. The triumph of the province is really a greater one than last year's, for although the total is not so large, still in comparison with the objective, New Brunswick has done better this year. The grand total is $15,635,050 and the objective was only $9,000,000. Every district, with the exception of Lower Gloucester, went over its objective so that all except one have won the Prince of Wales flag and some have won several crosses. Albert county will be the proud possessor of the German gun, which forever will be a monument to the patriotic and good business sense of her people, and to the excellent work of her canvassers and county committees who succeeded in putting her over the top three times.

The Owls got first peck at the Sparrows last night by winning the first string by twelve pins. In the third string the Sparrows did a sensational comeback and won out by forty-two pins, making an even break of two points each. For the Sparrows, Lawson had 113 and Smith ninety-four and the Owls had McCafferty in the ninety class.

In Lawson the Sparrows have made a find. He rolls a nice straight ball and is thoroughly familiar with the address of the king pin.

The fix appears to be on the pins this week and some averages have taken drops that remind one of a slump in Wall street.

BILLIARDS. The Cue Artists.

Philadelphia, Dec. 5—John M. Lawton of Columbia, Mo., last night lost his first game in the national American pocket billiard tournament, Louis D. Kreuter of New York defeating him 125 points to 117. The contest was completed in thirty innings. Lawton displayed a more consistent game. The winner's high run was nineteen.

In defeating Joseph Concanon of New York, 125 to 119, Bennie Allen of Kansas City showed the same good form that he did last night when he set two new world's records. At one point in the match the score stood 70 to 1 in Concanon's favor, and three innings later it stood 95 to 28. Allen then made several good runs, his highest 27, overcame his opponent's lead and won in the 81st inning.

Concanon had a high run of forty. J. Keogh of Rochester, N. Y., beat Edward I. Ralph of Hightstown, N. J., 135 to 96, in 88 innings. Keogh registered a high run of 20 and Ralph 17.

In the second night match James Matur of Denver defeated Charles Seebach of Hartford, Conn., 125 to 67, in twenty innings. Matur's high run was 28 and Seebach's 24.

Left Hook Did It.

JOHN SHEPARD HAD A NOTABLE CAREER

Boston Merchant Who Began With Small Capital

Fifty Cents a Week: And His Board His First Wages - Was Owner of Noted Horses But Got to Live Autos

John Shepard of Boston, who died on Dec. 2 and who led a business career for more than sixty years in Boston, more than half a century being proprietor of dry goods stores, was a striking example of a "self-made man."

had accumulated from his savings of nine years, during which he was employed at wages ranging from fifty cents to $8 per week. By careful, systematic oversight, his business grew until he had built up one of the best known, most complete and extensive dry goods establishments in America. He was born in Canton, Mass., March 26, 1834, the son of Nathaniel and Lucy (Hunt) Shepard, and was sixth in descent from one of four Shepard brothers who came from England and settled in various sections of Massachusetts. His father was a harness maker and carriage builder and it was his intention that his son should follow the same calling. But it was not to the boy's liking, however, and even before he had entered his teens he had decided to pursue a mercantile life. Young Shepard was a little more than eleven years old when he obtained a job in the apothecary store of J. W. Snow at a salary of fifty cents a week and his board. At the end of a year he went to work for George W. Vinton, a confectioner, at 243 Washington street for $1 a week and his board. He peddled cornballs and candy over the counter for the year and then entered the employ of J. A. Jones, who afterward became his brother-in-law, at $3 a week. Mr. Jones conducted a dry goods store at 320 Hanover street, and Shepard remained six years, his salary at the end of that time being $8 a week. By this time he had saved $300 and he decided to start in business for himself with his brother-in-law, Jones, as a special partner. Would Not Tolerate Deception. After Mr. Shepard had expended of his purpose to give up road driving for his recreation, he purchased Senator L. 2,024, and borrowing Borlana from his friend, Thomas W. Lawson, drove the pair at Readville in 2:12 1/2 on Oct. 24, 1900. In 1908 Mr. Shepard held the record of the Boston Driving Club—2:09. For many years Mr. Shepard was the most enthusiastic member and leader of coaching parties, and no pleasure seemed so great to him as to hold the hand of beautiful, practicing four-in-hand of thoroughbreds. In 1908 or 1909, however, during his winter visit to Florida, he and Mrs. Shepard were taken out by friends for an automobile ride on the beach. This made him almost as enthusiastic in regard to motor cars as he had ever been respecting horse flesh. In 1907, therefore, he sold the leader of his four-in-hand and purchased a fine machine, to which he subsequently added others. He was always an ardent champion of good roads. He never forgot his love for spending money for his recreation. In 1905 he bought Ethel's Pride for $12,000 and offered to give $20,000 for a suitable mate. Returning to a description of the man of business and his achievements it may be noted that the original Winter street store was so enlarged and added to that it covers nearly a block, extending from near the corner of Tremont street, almost half-way to Washington street, and through to Temple, occupying many thousand square feet of floor space, and embracing more than 100 different departments. Mr. Shepard was a public-spirited and patriotic citizen, and this was exemplified in a unique way through his suggestion. In 1895 he inaugurated an "American Week" during which all the good advertised and displayed were of the highest grade of American production. The week was timed to include the fourth of July, and being the first venture of the kind it drew an immense patronage, was favorably commented upon by the press of the whole country, and the plan has since been adopted in many other cities. Mr. Shepard had other aims besides the organization of wealth. He was never happier than when dispensing generous hospitality at his Beacon street residence or his summer home in Swampscott, helping some old friend over the difficulties and distresses of life or aiding some worthy cause, whether public or private. Improved Conditions for Help. The firm of Shepard, Norwell and Co. was among the earliest to take up the matter of light, ventilation and sanitation for the benefit of the men and women employed in their store, and was one of the first to be approved by civic organizations. But Mr. Shepard and his partners did not claim to be philanthropists in so doing. They believed simply that good care, clear head and proper diet led to an active brain, increased energy and greater usefulness. For years the firm has retained a physician to meet the employees and give healthful suggestions and good advice. This is all free of charge, and has resulted most favorably and improved the general condition. This led up to larger measures to further supplement this good work in a more substantial and enduring way, for on Mr. Shepard's 75th birthday, which occurred on Saturday, March 20, 1904, a check for $5,000 was handed to the trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital for the perpetual endowment of a free bed, to be known as the Shepard-Norwell Company free bed. Mr. Shepard was married twice. His first wife was S. Annie Bagley, daughter of Perkins H. Bagley of Boston, who truth and would not tolerate deception of customers by his employees. While located in Hanover street, close confinement impaired the health of Mr. Shepard and his physician advised carriage riding as a means of restoring his health. His love for horses developed rapidly and he became one of the most accomplished amateur drivers in the country and the owner of many fast trotters and pacers, and became known as the "King of Boston Speedways."

Some of his horses of note were Joe Clark and Blondin, mated; Della Magee and Robert Lee; Mill Boy, for which he refused $30,000; Kinney Lou, 2:10; Al-dine, which he sold for $18,000; Hattie R. Alro; L. Carline; Joe Cotton, Gold-finder; Young Rolfe, Dubarry, and a lot of others. In 1881 he drove Blondin and Mill Boy a mile in 2:22, thus making a record, which, however, was beaten four days later by Frank Work of New York in 2:19 1/2. Then Mr. Shepard went after a pole team to beat the world. He secured Arab, from California, and in April, 1882, he hitched up Arab and Mill Boy to 2:13 at Mystic Park, a shade under the previous record. Then he made another change and on the recommendation of Budd Doble bought Reins in 1912, to go with Arab. Good horses were thick in the Shepard stables, but an auctioneer stepped up and they all went, but at lower prices than he expected. He soon regretted the sale of Reins, however, and bought her back. The late Arloch Wentworth had had his eye on Reins for some time and desired to own her. One day he met Mr. Shepard and said: "John, give me that mare; she's getting old, and you won't want her much longer." Mr. Shepard said: "No; but I might sell her to you for $1,000." But Mr. Wentworth held out for the gift and after considerable discussion Mr. Shepard suggested that he would sell her to him on condition that Wentworth would give $10,000 to the Boston Young Men's Christian Association. In a few days Mr. Wentworth came back and said that he would not make the contribution, but that he had arranged matters so that the association would get it later. When his will was opened it was found that he had kept his word. Champion of Good Roads. LABOR COUNCIL AND FAIR WAGE CLAUSES. There was a good attendance at the Trades and Labor Council meeting last night in Labor Hall, Union street, with President Campbell in the chair. Communication was received from commissioner T. H. Bullock, chairman of the housing commission, calling on the council to produce facts and particulars in connection with the fair wages clause in the housing commission contracts. It was pointed out that the commission should have these facts already in their possession, and also the payroll of George Hennessy, member of the educational committee, explained the work of that board to the council as to the different courses that are being taken up and what is planned for the future. Three trustees were elected to after the building fund, which was voted out of the money made at the held in St. Andrew's rink during the week. USE The Wani Ad Wa.
