ATTITUDE OF THE POWERS AT THE HAGUE CONVENTION

Spain and Portugal Inclined to Follow Britain's Example—Austria Will Adopt the German Programme—Japanese Ideas.

MADRID, June 11.—The recent union of the royal houses of Spain and England with the present intimate relations between the governments of the two countries, renders it practically certain that Spain, at the coming Hague conference, will follow closely in the wake of England. Indeed, it is not impossible that she may advance tentative propositions which England may not care for the moment to openly espouse.

Portugal's position at the Hague can be easily summarized. Her delegates will probably support the English position at every point, for in foreign politics Portugal is now practically a political dependency of the British Government.

VIENNA, June 11.—The attitude of Austria-Hungary at the Hague Conference will be substantially similar to that of Germany, her ally in the triple alliance. On the proposal to limit armaments, it is learned from authoritative sources, that following the example of Germany and Russia, there will be no participation whatever by Austria-Hungary in any discussion of the subject.

VIENNA, June 11.—Apparently Japan approaches the Hague with a tentative programme to be given definite shape by the delegates of the conference. The government beyond formal expression of a desire that the conference may be productive of beneficent results has maintained much reserve regarding its attitude on the larger questions which will come up, but prominent men in both official and private life have conceived their belief that any practical results are at best problematical.

DISABLED SCHOONER ADRIFF A FEW MILES FROM ST. JOHN

The Alma, Waterlogged and Helpless, With Six Men Perched on the Deckload, Refused Assistance, But is Now Looking for Help.

The coal steamer Pors arrived in port this morning from Forquard, Germany, with a cargo for the Dominion Coal Co. Capt. Hanson reports having passed the American schooner Alma in distress about five miles out from Parkside Island. Capt. Hanson states that his attention was called by one of his crew to an object on the water at some distance off. Distress signals were being made and he at once headed his steamer for the boat. On arriving alongside the Alma, Hanson states that he saw six men on the boat. They were sitting on the timber which composed the cargo of the Alma. Most of the boat was submerged and the men were practically floating on the wood.

It was first reported that the Grand Maun steamer, Aurora, passed the Alma on her trip this morning and took the crew on board. It is also reported that the schooner rolled over soon after the Aurora left. This was found to be incorrect on the arrival of the Pors. The Alma is an American schooner, and Merritt Bros. of this city are the local agents.

GELDART TELLS OF THE STOVE STEALING

He Was Very Free With the McCleary On's Stock. And Distributed Goods Among His Friends—He Hoped to Square Up for Everything.

The stove stealing case was resumed in the police court this morning and Hanford Geldart having pleaded guilty to stealing and having been placed on the stand as a crown witness at the last session, was cross examined this morning by Daniel Mullin, K. C., counsel for Oscar Peterson. Geldart said he belonged to Albert County, and has been in St. John three years, and was placed in jail for a month in the month of May. He was at first employed in the Chipman Hill warehouse, then transferred to the warehouse on Celebration street. He knew Wm. Mahoney who was employed with Schofield Bros., and was intimately acquainted with him. He had some enameled ware from the warehouse. He also let another man take some enameled ware, three or four pieces in all. There was also a third person whom he allowed to have some enameled ware. He did not allow anything to go from the warehouse. He received money from Mahoney but nothing from either of the other men. Mahoney and the other men were not the first to get things from him. He furnished the names of all the persons he gave things to, to Manager Irwin of the McCleary Co. Having been asked by Mr. Irwin to tell all, Mr. Irwin did not say he would make it easy for him to go from the warehouse. He was paid for what enameled ware he gave away, having got money from two of the men who received the enameled ware. Witness said he had agreed to make good for the enameled ware missing. He had paid $15 and owes $8 yet to the McCleary Co. Mr. Irwin told him it was his first offence, he was a young man, and if he made it right he would be bothered. In view of that statement he was not surprised at being arrested. He told Mr. Irwin he would tell the truth and he expected to be arrested. Mr. Irwin had told him that he had found all about the stoves, and then witness confessed to everything. When he sold the stoves to Peterson he told him the stoves were not being manufactured by the company and was a little out of date. Peterson said he would give a little money every month. Wm. Mahoney and Peterson helped put up the stove in Peterson's house. Mrs. Peterson asked if everything was all right, and he told her it was all right because he was told by Mr. Peterson to tell her that.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE OF A SUNBURY FAMILY

PREDERICTON, June 11.—The house of Rathal Carr, residing at Geary settlement, Sunbury County, was struck by lightning on Saturday and being demolished. The family had a most miraculous escape. Mr. Carr was working in the field nearby at the time and saw his house tumbling. He rushed to the dwelling expecting to find his family killed. It so happened that they were sitting on the door step at the time and escaped injury. The bolt passed over the chimney and through the several rooms. Had there been any occupants in any of them they would have been killed.

PIONEER LODGE I. O. O. F. LEADS IN A CAMPAIGN AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Resolutions Passed After Careful Deliberation Call for Radical Reforms in the System of Protecting the Public Health --- Hope that General Interest May be Aroused Over This Very Important Question.

Some two months ago Pioneer Lodge of Oddfellows took up for consideration after the physician discovers the disease or symptoms thereof, the physician to be paid the fee in each case. 6. The chairman of the Board on such return shall immediately take the case under his supervision with a view of preventing the spread of the disease from such patient. 7. That the chairman of the Board of Health shall have as an assistant an inspector whose duties it shall be to ascertain if buildings and tenements used as residences are generally conducive to health and particularly supplied with necessary ventilation, sanitary appliances and healthful surroundings with power in the Board of Health under by-laws to be made to meet any requirements in the premises such by-laws to be subject to the approval of the Lieutenant Governor in Council. 8. That the Chief of Police and all the police force shall be guardians and protectors of the public health as far as full extent as they are guardians and protectors of the public peace and for the prevention of crime and the necessary legislation be passed for the spreading of the disease as it has in regard to other contagious diseases, subject, however, to this that if the friends, relatives or others interested in the person afflicted have means of isolation of tuberculous persons then the patient be left to their charge subject, however, to the supervision, care and control of the Board of Health. 4. In case of the isolation of tuberculous patients by the Board of Health a sufficient and proper isolation hospital to be provided by the municipality for the care, etc., of the patients. 5. That all physicians return to the Board of Health (in confidence) the names, places of residence and condition of their patients afflicted with tuberculosis or liable to be so afflicted or manifesting any preliminary symptoms of leading to tuberculosis, such

METHODIST MINISTERS IN SESSION AT HAMPTON

HAMPTON, N. B., June 11.—Clergymen from the various Methodist churches throughout the St. John district to the number of twenty arrived here this morning on the trains coming east and west. The churches represented were: St. John City—Queen Square, Centenary, Elmwood Street, Portland, Carlton, Carmarthen Street, Zion, Fairville, Courtenay Bay. Sussex—Newton, Apathal, Springfield, Hampton, Jerusalem, Welsford, Kingston. The first session was a ministerial one. This business dealt with related to ministerial standing efficiency. No objection or charges were reported against any members of the district. Rev. Spencer Crisp, of Newton, was recommended to the conference to resolve the standing of a probationer of one year after his proficiency on his course of study had been passed under review. The late Rev. John A. Clarke was the only minister or probationer reported as having died during the year, and a committee was appointed to prepare a suitable memorial for presentation to the conference and insertion in the printed minutes. Edward J. Shanklin, B. D., was reported as having graduated in theology and successfully served the required years of probation. Mr. Shanklin is a candidate for ordination but owing to his unexplained absence at the first hours of the session his name was laid on the table. The standing of Herbert F. Ball, probationer, now attending college, could not be dealt with by the district because of the absence of documents which should have been furnished by him. The following were recommended as supernumerary ministers—Charles Combes, St. John; Henry J. Clark, who resides in England; James A. Duke and Edwin Evans, D. D., Hampton; Daniel D. Bayley, B. A., Apathal; F. H. W. Pickles, Yarmouth, N. S. Rev. G. W. Campbell, pastor of Queen Square Methodist Church, St. John, asked the district to recommend to conference that he be granted permission to accept the position of secretary of the Canadian Bible Society, and that he be not appointed to a church this year. The recommendation was so made. A strong resolution was adopted urging the appointment of a superintendent for the Methodist work throughout this province and P. E. I. after a long and vigorous discussion. The general session at which the lay delegates from the church are to be present opens this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. A public meeting in the interests of the denomination to be represented by a number of the pastors will be held this evening at 8 o'clock. GREENWICH, ENG., June 11.—Charles Dalton, an American writer, son of M. S. Dalton, of Indianapolis, attempted to cut his throat here today with a razor owing to despondency due to financial troubles. He was taken to a hospital and probably will recover.

SPORTING MATTERS

ST. PETERS ARE NOW ON TOP

About 500 fans shivered on the Shamrock grounds last evening and witnessed a very ragged game of ball as far as the last year's champions were concerned, and St. Peter's won the first round by a score of 3 to 2. McDonald, who played centre field for the St. Joseph's, had the distinction of being the only member of the team who had not an error chalked up against him, while his companions in the purple managed to run up no less than ten, causing considerable of a slump in their batting averages.

George for the St. Joseph's pitched his first game of the season and handled the sphere well considering the support, although his hitting was poor. He was steady and was only found for two safe ones. While George was only hit for three safe ones, the large score was made on ragged playing. The weather was in fact too cold for good ball playing and the crowd would have been in order.

The win last night put the St. Peters on the top of the ladder, and the champions took a drop. The following is the score and summary:

Summary - Shamrock Grounds, Inter-Society League, Monday evening, June 10th, 1907. St. Peter's; St. Joseph's, 3; St. Joseph's, 2. Two-base hit, Britt. Base on balls, McHove, 2; of George, 4. Struck out, by Howe, 5; viz., Creagan, Simpson (2), Harris, McGuigan; by George, 2; viz., F. Mahoney, Howe. Wild pitch, Howe, 2. Pass balls, Rogers, 1. Hit by pitched ball, George. Stolen bases, Small (2), J. McCormick, Rogers. Time of game, one hour. Umpire, J. Wales. Attendance, 500.

AMERICANS VISIT LORD STRATHCONA
And are Treated to a Story-Canadian Grain Commissioners Inspect Docks at Liverpool.

LONDON, June 10.-A visit to London of a party of one hundred ladies and gentlemen from all parts of the United States, has been the occasion of an interesting function at the High Commissioner's Office. They previously conveyed to Lord Strathcona their desire to pay their respects to one who had taken so large a part in the development of North America below well above the 49th parallel. Lord Strathcona consented, and the party were cordially received. He assured them of the friendship of the Canadians towards their great neighbors. They must always be much to one another. He himself, he said, had intimate associations with the states and had many good friends there including Messrs. Miller, Goldie, and McNair. Lord Strathcona assured the company by a story probably familiar in Canada, of a triangular encounter between himself, Hill and Archbishop Ireland which ended in Hill's exclaiming, "Ah, well Archbishop, I'll swap passes with you. His Lordship invited the party to visit him at Knebworth and offered to provide a special train, but unfortunately the Canadian grain commissioners, the Canadian grain inspectors, and McNair, spent today in inspecting the dock, discharging warehouse and milling operations at Liverpool and Birkenhead under the guidance of the Liverpool Corn Association. They were entertained at a banquet tonight in Liverpool. They find there is general sympathy with Canada's desire to preserve Canadian wheat in the lower grade of American wheat so as to secure full value on the British market. Their experience does not seem however to support the suggestion that the sample system be adopted for the present inspection and certification system.

ABE RUEF WILL NOT TESTIFY AGAINST SCHMITZ
Prosecution in the 'Frisco Graft Charges' Came to a Sudden Stop Yesterday.

CONTINUE THE HEARING IN THE BROWNVILLE INCIDENT
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 10.-James W. Newton, who was knocked down by a custom-house inspector at Brownville by a blow on his head with a six shooter a short time before the town was "shot up," and Frank K. Lipscomb, who accompanied him on that occasion, were both before the senate committee on military affairs this afternoon. Newton and Lipscomb were members of Company G, 5th Infantry, and Newton was one of the twelve men who were placed under arrest and held at San Antonio under suspicion of being implicated in the shooting up of the town.

SCHOOL BOARD
The school board held its monthly meeting last evening. It was decided after a lengthy discussion to continue the twelfth grade for the next school year.

FOR A MILLION OF MONEY

By Arthur W. Marchmont.

(Continued.) They were excellent friends when they parted; and Olive returned to the servant's hall to be assailed with a hundred questions as to what the new master had had to say to her during the long time he had kept her talking to him. It was a little difficult to fence with the eager curiosity which had been aroused, but Olive's laughing good nature, aided by some slight evasions, succeeded. She avoided Purvis for the rest of the day and as Mrs. Merridew remained in bed, there was nothing to prevent Olive from having a long night's rest. On the following day, matters had in some degree settled down in the household; and Mrs. Cooper kept her servants hard at work to make up for the previous day's slackness. Olive again avoided Purvis; but he found her sure to ask her whether she had yet had any news of Selma. Not more than half a dozen sentences passed between them, but a further reference which he made to his hold over the Merridews started a new strain of thought in Olive's mind. She was growing very anxious to hear that Mr. Casement had found Selma; and her plan was to work through the girl to induce Purvis to tell her all he knew about the Merridews, especially about the old marriage. It was a problem beset with the greatest difficulty. If Purvis really had the hold he said over the others, and could force them to do all he wished, it was of course, in the highest degree improbable that he would effect their possession of a fortune from which he could look to gain so great a share. He had shown her that during the interview of the previous day. He had also displayed a deep affection for Selma, but he was not a man whom any sentiment, except rage, was likely to drive to such an extreme course as Olive's needs required. Selma herself might be able to influence him; but even then the greatest care and tact would have to be used in handling him. At present his resentment against the Merridews was mainly caused by their treatment of their child. Olive had carefully worked on that; fostering the feeling, and feeding it with references to the shame of treating Selma so abominably while they themselves were in the enjoyment of the luxuries of Silverbeech. She had harped on this in the last short conversation, and he had taken note as much right as any of them to be at the Manor. It was clear that the girl must be brought to the Manor; that again might involve a risk, that Olive would gain less than nothing as the result. It would certainly bring about the discovery of Olive's identity, she had told Purvis her actual experiences with Selma, while at the Manor, and he would not be slow to assume that they had met as fellow servants. Selma would all too readily reveal this misrepresentation; and it was impossible to foretell what effect that would have on such a nature as that of Purvis. She thought his eyes and over, and at length decided to send the man to Mr. Casement to meet his child, and then have the truth told to him by the lawyer himself. But a hundred obstacles suggested themselves at once. As a convict, Purvis would certainly shy at saying a word to a lawyer, especially as he himself must in some way be concerned in the fraud, if there was one. Nor was it practicable to offer him a reward for telling what he knew; for the reason that he would have more to gain by holding his tongue. Moreover if he agreed to any such proposal, his story might not be so far as Olive could and threaten far more than he knew he could ever hope to accomplish. Of all the difficulties which Olive had had to face, this problem of dealing with Purvis offered the greatest perplexities. She wished to make the restoration of Selma the price of getting the truth from the father, and at the same time conceal her hand so that he should not know her object. Hour after hour she rested with the puzzle without finding any solution that even promised success; and she was dispirited and harassed when she went up to her room. Then another phase occurred to her. Had Purvis himself been actually concerned in the fraud? Could he have taken any part in it? She recalled all that the Sheffield solicitor, Mr. Bingley, had told her of him. He had certainly been on the spot at the time. She had not attempted to deny it when she believed she and Purvis were alone together. Then suddenly the probable solution occurred to her. She had been blind as a bat! The thing was plain. Mrs. Merridew was, of course, already married to Purvis when she had married her father! Surely that would be the easiest thing in the world to prove. Agents must be at once sent to work to trace that out. For that they must have photographs of both Purvis and Mrs. Merridew; and these she could easily get. There were plenty of likenesses of Mrs. Merridew about the Manor, taken at different ages; and there was that photograph of Purvis which she had seen with the report of his trial. She would get that at once, and send it to Mr. Casement with her new ideas; and would at the same time send one or two photographs of Mrs. Merridew. Elated at her fresh plan, she put on her dark cloak and stole out of the room on her quest. It was late in the great house was hushed and still. But she acted with all her usual caution.

CHURCH UNION WARMLY DISCUSSED IN ASSEMBLY

Principal Patrick's Report of Committee Enthusiastically Received

Seconded by Principal Gordon in an Able Speech, Strongly in Favor of the Union Movement—Rev. Dr. MacKay of Montreal has Doubts that the Church Desires Union—Says Better Results will be Accomplished Under Present Conditions.

MONTREAL, June 10.—For a long time this morning the General Assembly discussed various minutes which gave rise to a discussion much of which was of no public interest. The proceedings were of a most prosaic nature. On consideration of the report of Queen's College, Principal Gordon asked the Assembly to note two or three matters. It was gratifying to note an increase of students. There were 1139 enrolled of whom 700 were in arts, 221 in sciences, 116 in medicine and 10 in theology. This was double what it was ten years ago and 97 more than last year. Rev. Dr. MacKay moved the adoption of the report. He believed that the church could do little to afford to lose Queen's though there were so many universities around. Hon. Mr. Laird seconded. He said at any rate whether it was evil or not, it was a university free from state control and was able to speak out its mind. Rev. Dr. Laird read the report of the committee appointed by the General Assembly to co-operate with the trustees of Queen's University in securing the additional endowment for the university. Mr. Laird said the work was going on slowly but satisfactorily. Up to June, 272 churches had been visited and $275,000 had been received. The work was progressing as proved by the fact that $9,000 had been received in that time. Mr. Laird said he had just paid in his subscription of $50,000 of the endowment of the chair of moral philosophy. Another gentleman had promised that as soon as their fund reached $400,000 he would complete the half million dollars. So far men of this wealth had met one much, as most of the subscriptions ranged from $1,000 to $5. He was certain that the endowment was going to be successful and in a year or two they would add $100,000 to enable them to claim Carnegie's gift. Dr. MacKay moved the adoption of the report, and in doing so stated that he believed Queen's was doing a grand work for the Canadian people. The report was carried and the sitting ended.

PRINCIPAL GORDON.

per read before the Pan-American conference by Bishop Carmichael of Montreal on the 11th of the Anglican churches opposed to other Protestant bodies, which paper had been approved by the Pan-American conference and the general synod of the Church of England in Canada at its 28th meeting in 1896. The paper of Bishop Carmichael, Principal Patrick explained, was intended to show the points of agreement and disagreement between the Anglican church and the other Protestant bodies, and the hope had been expressed by the great bodies of the Anglican church that the efforts that were being put forward might have some tangible results. Principal Patrick then proceeded to explain what the scheme of doctrine as regards the scheme of doctrine, the scheme of polity and the scheme of education of the ministry. These have already been made public in connection with the report of the proceedings of the third conference of the joint committee held in Toronto last December.

Success is Surprising In connection with the scheme of doctrine, which was embraced in nineteen articles, Principal Patrick remarked that if anybody had predicted five years ago that the churches could agree upon a common scheme of doctrine it would be regarded as Utopian, and yet they had evolved a scheme which in nineteen articles embraced the great varieties as understood in the three churches. As regards the scheme of polity, Principal Patrick said, there were many details still to be considered. One of the greatest weaknesses of the Presbyterian church was, absence on the executive, and that point still had to come up as well as a number of minor questions, but the broad features had been decided upon. The scheme in its broad lines provided for the general assembly of all congregations all their franchise and local usages should be maintained, their local usages would be as full effect in the united church as in their own church. Presbyteries practically remained unchanged except that the function of ordination had been transferred from it to the higher court. As regards the general assembly it was unchanged except that it would meet every two years instead of every year and that it was proposed to elect a moderator from other duties and to elect him with executive power. There had been a cordial recognition by the other churches of the pastorate without time limit and of no congregations ever being without a minister. (Applause.) Wherever no change was sought no change would take place. As far as the scheme for the education of the ministry was concerned they were sending it down to the synods of colleges and the churches at large for suggestions. Principal Patrick explained that it was desired to have as many suggestions as possible in the joint committee. The committee was to be held in September. Principal Patrick in conclusion said that he would copy the example of J. Richard Cobden who had said that he never made a pronouncement but he only wished to say in conclusion that the best argument he knew in favor of church union was the spirit animating the joint committee and the results its labors as contained in the report.

Loud Applause Principal Gordon of Quebec seconded these remarks in a powerful speech, which was frequently interrupted by loud applause. Principal Gordon expressed his strong conviction that there was a duty resting upon them all as members of Christ's Church, a duty to seek after as far as it was possible to attain it. The necessity for argument rested with those who were opposed to union rather than with those who approved of it. Dr. Gordon referred to feeling that existed among the members of the Presbyterian Church in favor of some revised and briefer statement of the creed than that furnished by the three-hundred confession of faith, and this was furnished to at least some extent by the statement presented at the meeting of the day. Presbyterians would lose much by such a union, because it was asserted that they had a higher standard of ministry and it had even been held that they had a higher type of membership. As to the ministry, that might be so, but they had paid a tremendous price for it. They had paid the price of neglecting many districts that could have been evangelized, and of losing many that could have been gathered to the church. As to the membership, if it were the case, they had also paid a tremendous price, the price of drawing solely or largely from educated and respectable classes and falling to go down to the level from which less respectable were drawn. When he thought of the work of Wesley, when he thought of the work that was being done by the Salvation Army, rescue work that the Presbyterian church had failed to do, he did not feel like priding himself on respectability of membership. (Applause.) When he heard such objections raised he felt like replying that the church of Christ was not a mutual admiration society, but a mutual admiration society, but at a hospital for the sick, that, like its Master, it was a friend of publicans and sinners. (Applause.) Principal Gordon in conclusion, said that an opportunity came the call to use it. Could it be possible that Canada would have glory before any other nation of witnessing some approximation of a united Christendom? The present movement at least seemed to give some promise of such a glorious consummation. Principal Gordon resumed his seat amidst prolonged applause. At this point an evasive was read from the Presbytery of St. John's, advising the steps to be taken to obtain the sense of the church on this question before committing it to any scheme. Rev. Mr. Finlayson, in explanation of the evasive, said that there was no objection to the principle of union. Rev. Dr. MacKay, of Crescent Street Church, Montreal, presented an amendment to that portion in which reference was made to asking for suggestions. His amendment was to the effect that suggestions should be asked on the whole question of union, and especially in regard to the desirability of the union in principle. Dr. MacKay protested against the false impression that had got abroad in regard to the position of the church on this question. From the proceedings of the committee the impression got abroad that the General Assembly, and the whole Presbyterian Church, was not free to discuss whether union was desirable even if feasible. The general committee was acting on the assumption that the whole Presbyterian Church was behind it. He believed that the committee would wake up some fine day and find that the whole church was not behind it (applause)—but that on the contrary many members were opposed to it in principle. The first factor in having a successful union was a cordial desire to have such a union. A false impression had gone abroad that the Presbyterian church in Canada had never decided in favor of organized union. He took issue with Dr. Gordon as to the meaning of the Lord's words, and declared that there was nothing in the Scripture and nothing in the practice of the early church to justify the churches should be one. Dr. MacKay declared that it was not until the arrogant claims of the church of Rome were made that this nightmare of union arose, the deadly weight of ecclesiasticism which had always meant the death of spirituality. Dr. MacKay also took further issue with some of the previous speaker's arguments and declared as his enthusiastic belief that the Presbyterian church represented the highest type of church life in the world, a statement which was received with considerable applause. In conclusion Dr. MacKay expressed the view that the churches would continue their work in the world better by remaining as they were. The discussion was adjourned until tomorrow morning. At tonight's session Rev. Messrs. MacLennan, representing the United Free Church of Scotland, and Nichol of Edinburgh, representing the old Church of Scotland, delivered addresses. The report on French evangelization was presented and adopted without discussion and a number of contributions for the school at Pointe Aux Trembles were received.

WOODSTOCK'S NEW BEER BY-LAW TO BE TESTED IN THE COURTS.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., June 10.—Woodstock's new beer by-law is to be tested in the courts. This morning a local beer merchant named John Y. Smith, who refused to procure a license, was before Magistrate Dibbles on complaint of the beer inspector for selling non-intoxicating beer without the necessary permit. J. C. Hartley conducted the prosecution and T. C. L. Ketchum appeared for the defendant. The sale was proven by the evidence of George Ritchie, and as the defense was prepared, and in fact anxious to suffer a nominal fine, the defendant was sentenced to pay one dollar and costs. Mr. Ketchum will probably take the case to the county court. Authority was obtained from the legislature last winter to regulate the sale of non-intoxicating beer. The local police magistrate has always held that such beverages as these drinks and others of a similar nature the legislation was secured. The town council at first thought of putting the license fee at a prohibitive figure, but finally compromised on one hundred dollars. The ruling of the judge will be awaited with great interest. About half the beer men have taken out the new license.

NOT SO VERY MUCH COLDER THAN LAST JUNE

Temperature for the Past Ten Days Only One Degree Lower Than Last Year—Warmer Weather Coming.

The weather continues to remain cold and many citizens have been heard to remark that this has been the coldest June weather for many years. They may be right but on looking up last year's record it is found that the spring was equally backward and the first few days in June were nearly as cold as they have been this year.

The mean temperature for the first ten days of June, 1906, was 53.6 and for the first ten days of June of this year 52.5.

The first thunderstorm of the season came on June 3rd last year. Thunder was heard here on Saturday last, but the storm did not pass over this section of the country.

The lowest temperature this morning was 42. The wind is now blowing from the north-east and warmer weather will probably follow.

The spring has been equally backward in British Columbia, Manitoba and Saskatchewan. The weather was quite warm in British Columbia during the first of May and an early spring was looked for. But during the past few weeks cold weather has prevailed in that district and the crops there promise to be backward.
