SIX KILLED IN AIR RAID ON ENGLAND

Zeppelins Make Second Visit to English Coast in Week.

TWENTY-THREE WOUNDED; ALL WERE CIVILIANS.

Raiders Engaged at Some Points by British and One Reported Badly Damaged.

London, Aug. 13.—Official announcement was made today of an airship raid last night on the east coast of England.

The official announcement says that six persons were killed, twenty-three were injured and fourteen houses were damaged, seriously by bombs. One Zeppelin, the announcement says, was damaged, but escaped.

The text of the announcement follows: "Two Zeppelins visited the east coast last night, between 9.30 p. m. and 11.45 p. m. dropping incendiary and explosive bombs in various places, resulting in the following casualties: "Dead—4 men, 2 women. "Injured—3 men, 11 women, 9 children. "All were civilians. "Fourteen houses were seriously damaged. "The Zeppelins were engaged at some points, but succeeded in getting away from our aircraft patrols. One of the Zeppelins was probably damaged by the mobile anti-aircraft section."

Last night's raid of Zeppelins was the second this week. On Monday night Zeppelins flew over the English coast and with their bombs killed 14 persons and wounded 40 others. These raids mark the renewal of the Zeppelin attacks on England after an interval of several weeks. The last previous raid with the exception of a minor attack on Harwich early in July, was on June 15 when 16 persons were killed and 40 injured. In all there have been nearly a score of these attacks, resulting in the death of more than 100 persons.

CALLS AMBASSADOR OF ITALY TO THE TURKISH CAPITAL "LEADING SPY"

Enver Pasha Urges Break with Italy and Severe Measures Against Italians.

Rome, Aug. 13.—Reports have been received from Constantinople that the young Turcs held a meeting at which Enver Pasha, the Turkish war minister, argued the necessity for breaking relations with Italy and thus free Turkey from the "leading spy," namely the Italian Ambassador, and simultaneously adopting severe measures against the Italians.

After a long discussion, it is reported, the meeting decided to postpone a definite decision, meanwhile sending Deputy Karasso to Italy to investigate the situation.

DO AWAY WITH PUTTEE ONLY IN TRENCHES

Ottawa, Aug. 13.—It is announced by Senator Loughheed, acting minister of militia, that the change from puttees to boots in soldiers' equipment is for trench use. For home service and marching purposes the puttees is to be retained. This is also understood to be the intention of the British authorities.

GERMAN CAMPAIGN IN THE BALTIC REGION HALTED

Russians Threatening Communications of Enemy's Armies Between Vitkomir and Poniewasch — Russians Change Plans and Are Putting Up Fierce Struggle to Hold Kovno and Vilna.

Petrograd, Aug. 13.—The Russian armies having successfully extricated themselves from the Warsaw sack in which the Germans tried to enclose them, are now stubbornly opposing the German advance toward Bialystok on a line 70 miles to the east of Warsaw and on both sides of the railroad between the Polish capital and Bialystok.

The Baltic German campaign appears to be at a standstill, with the Russians astride the highway between Vitkomir and Poniewasch, threatening the communications between these invading armies.

The Germans are approaching slightly nearer to Kovno. They are pounding that position with their heavy artillery guns, to which Russian artillery is replying effectively.

Peasants who escaped from the German labor gangs described the deliberate preparations for the assault on Kovno which were begun three months ago. The Germans imported an enormous mass of structural materials, built paved roads from the westward and dug foundations fifteen feet deep for mortars, taking endless pains in preparing the cement platform.

When the refugees escaped no 40 centimetre guns had arrived, but those of similar calibre, each requiring three large tractors, were being hauled into position.

Admit Loss of Lukow, Sokolow and Siedce

Petrograd, Aug. 13.—The Russian War Office, in an official communication, tonight admits the evacuation of the towns of Sokolow, Siedce and Lukow, to the east of Warsaw, but claims that the Germans in the region of Riga have been driven back and that near Kovno, under pressure of the Russians, they have abandoned their attack.

The communication says: "In the region southeast of Mitau the Germans have been driven back by our troops beyond the river Aa. In the course of the enemy's retreat we made prisoners. In the direction of Jacobstadt, Dvinsk and Vitkomir, we have also continued to press the enemy, overcoming his desperate resistance.

"In the Kovno district the Germans have temporarily abandoned their attacks. An artillery engagement continues.

"On the front between the Narew and the Bug our counter-attack, delivered on the eleventh, has helped our troops in the sector north of this front in their retreat on the positions situated further back.

"In the Middle Vistula region, in conformity with the exigencies of the general situation, we have evacuated Sokolow, Siedce and Lukow.

"In general on the front on which our troops are operating on the left bank of the Bug there was no change yesterday. On the right bank of the Bug and on the Zlota Lipa and Dniester rivers, there is no essential change in the situation.

Resisting on North and South Flanks, Austrian Headquarters, via London, Aug. 13.—Despite the resistance which the Russians are offering to the pressure of the Austro-German armies on the northern and southern flanks, the Russian armies in Poland are steadily being jammed and crowded together into a mass, the orderly retreat of which is becoming more and more difficult.

"On the southern wing, where signs of breaking were observed in the last fighting around Lubarow, the enveloping allied forces again have inflicted a number of severe blows and driven the Russians' rear guards into their main body. The Prussian guard corps particularly distinguished itself in the fighting in the difficult swamp westward of the Bug. It has broken the most energetic Russian resistance in this region and accelerated Field Marshal Von Mackensen's whole advance against Brest-Litovsk.

Hindenburg Assigned to Task of Taking Kovno.

London, Aug. 13.—Field Marshal Van Hindenburg has personally taken command of the German army attacking Kovno, and, according to the latest

POLITICAL PRISONERS IN WARSAW FREE

German Military Declare Authorities General Amnesty—Noted Russian Labor Leader Among Liberated.

Berlin, Aug. 13. (Via Saville)—Among the items given out today by the Overseas News Agency for transmission were the following:

"The German military authorities, on the suggestion of the citizens' committee of Warsaw, has declared a general amnesty of political prisoners there and set them free.

"Among these was the widely known Russian labor leader, Meden.

"Semi-official warnings have been issued against over-speculation on the stock exchange.

"The Duchy of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha has increased the daily allowance to the inhabitants. The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger announces that a third cut in four and bread prices is probable.

"War correspondents report that Warsaw was not damaged by the struggle around it and that only the corn store houses in Praga were burned. Lublin likewise was only slightly damaged. Some factories in the barrack district were burned."

GEN. HUGHES SPENT WEEK IN WAR ZONE

Inspected Canadians at Front and Had Special Audience With King Albert of Belgium.

London, Aug. 13. (Gazette Cable)—Major General Hughes has just returned from an active week spent in the war zone during which he not only inspected many of the Canadian units now at the front but also was received at a special audience by the King of the Belgians, spent three nights with General French and met the commander-in-chief of the French armies.

The minister of militia also found time to visit hospitals and the Canadian trenches, almost from one end to the other of their lines.

Major General Hughes was accompanied by Prince Alexander of Teck, Lord Brooke, Sir Max Aitken, Col. Carrick and Captains Green and McAdam.

EXPROPRIATE LAND TO BURY THE FALLEN SOLDIERS OF ALLIED ARMY

Paris, Aug. 13.—The Chamber of Deputies today passed a bill to expropriate the land necessary for the burial of the dead of the entente allies fighting in France. The measure was proposed by Minister of War Millerand.

ENGLAND MAY PUT COTTON ON LIST OF CONTRABANDS

Statement by Lord Robert Cecil Regarded in Some Quarters as Intimation of Plan—Says Would be Considered by England as Perfectly Legal Act—Must Use All Lawful Means to Keep Cotton From Enemy.

London, Aug. 13.—Lord Robert Cecil, parliamentary under secretary for foreign affairs in the course of a formal interview today, defining the British government's attitude in the complicated cotton situation, made this statement:

"The Allies must, by all lawful means, prevent cotton reaching their enemies; that it may be considered necessary to make contraband."

At the same time Lord Cecil studiously refrained from any hint that the commodity would be removed from the free list at any specified date or that the government had evolved any solution to meet the demands of American cotton growers and neutral consumers. He stated explicitly, however, that if cotton were made contraband England would consider the act legal and internationally justified.

His statement, being the first in behalf of the government outside parliament relative to cotton, has, coming at a time when the public is clamoring for drastic action to shut off the supply from Germany, is taken in some quarters to presage this step in the near future. Lord Cecil's statement which is prefaced with the explanation that it describes the government's position concerning cotton, "so far as it is at the moment possible to define it," follows in full:

Vital Military Necessity.

"The British government acting in conjunction with allies, is giving the cotton situation its continuous and most earnest consideration. The government is fully aware of the importance of cotton to America. We fully understand that upon a satisfactory adjustment of the matter depends, to a considerable degree, the welfare of nearly a quarter of the population of the United States. The welfare of the whole population of Great Britain, however, also is involved as well as that of all Great Britain's allies, for whom the British government is acting in these and other matters concerning contraband and trade.

"The fundamentals of the situation are quite clear. The allies must by all lawful means, prevent cotton reaching their enemies. That is a vital military necessity, which all the world will recognize. At the same time an equal and important consideration must be given to a great cotton producing country like America and to consuming countries like Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Holland. A policy must be devised which will respect the legitimate rights of neutrals, and yet safeguard the legitimate interests of the allies and inflict as much damage as possible upon our enemies.

"Cotton has not yet been declared contraband, but under our blockade system, which is believed to be destined for Germany is stopped. It may be considered necessary to make cotton contraband. There is a demand in the allied countries that this should be done. There is assuredly ample justification for the action, if it is deemed necessary.

"Cotton is a very important, an essential ingredient, in fact, of propulsion explosives. Copper is contraband by all the laws of the nations, and yet in the present war cotton has been shown to be more important than copper. There may be a substitute for copper in making munitions of war. For cotton there is no known substitute. If American cotton goes through to Germany the Germans use it to kill allied soldiers. Therefore, cotton must not go to Germany.

"Making cotton contraband would be a distinctly legal action and can be internationally justified beyond protest. So far as American cotton is concerned, however, the problem of marketing cotton on this side would undergo little change. American cotton destined for Germany is now stopped. If the products were contraband it would be stopped in the same manner. The principal difference would be that if cotton were contraband, shipments from America, which were suspected of being for Germany, would be seized and would be liable to confiscation by prize court proceedings. If proof were obtainable of German destination, whereas now the cotton is seized, but not necessarily confiscated.

SERBIA MAY UPSET PLANS OF ALLIES

Reported She Will Flatly Refuse to Grant Bulgaria's Demands.

PARLIAMENT WILL MEET NEXT MONDAY.

Much Bitterness Has Developed Among Balkans in Course of the Negotiations — Allied Governments Still Hopeful.

Rome, Aug. 13.—It was learned here today on good authority that representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia are exerting further pressure on Serbia in the hope of inducing her to make the desired territorial concessions to Bulgaria. Serbia has been reminded of the support which she has received since the beginning of her difficulties with Austria last year.

Assurances have been given to Serbia that the Allies will assist her at the time of peace negotiations, provided she now yields to their desires.

Serbia To Balk?

London, Aug. 12.—There are strong indications that Serbia will give a flat refusal to the demands announced by the Bulgarian premier, Vassil Radoslavoff, three weeks ago, and that the hopes of the Entente Allies of bringing Bulgaria into the alliance will come to naught, according to some diplomats here. Serbia's formal reply has not yet been given, but those best posted in diplomatic quarters say that Bulgaria's demands far exceed anything that Serbia could possibly yield.

The outcome is being watched with keenest interest by the chancelleries throughout Europe, as Bulgaria is the chief obstacle to the united action by the Balkan States in joining the Entente Allies and thus throwing the Balkan barrier between the central powers and Turkey.

Bulgaria contends that by a treaty with Serbia the latter ceded to Bulgaria about seven thousand square kilometers of Macedonia, which Bulgaria was compelled by the great powers to relinquish during her enfeebled condition after the second Balkan war. Bulgaria now insists that the original treaty be carried out and that unless she secures the return of Macedonia she will refuse to join the other Balkan States in assisting the Allies.

The present issue has renewed the smoldering feud among the Balkans and much bitterness is said to have developed in the course of the negotiations, all pointing to Serbia's refusal to yield Macedonia and to Bulgaria withholding her support from the Entente Powers. Officials of both sides say, however, that the negotiations have not yet been abandoned and that much depends upon the attitude of the Serbian parliament, which meets next Monday, although personally they see little prospect of accord.

STRIKE RIOTS IN ST. LOUIS

Running Fight Between 500 Striking Teamsters and Sympathizers and Police.

St. Louis, Aug. 13.—A running fight between 500 strikers and sympathizers on one side and three non-striking drivers and a score of policemen on the other, which terminated in a riot in front of the St. Louis Transfer Company's Stable tonight, was the initial act of violence in the strike of 15,000 transfer drivers and chauffeurs which began here today. The men struck for shorter hours and higher wages.

BRAVE RIGORS OF MARCH THRO' SNOW-CLAD MOUNTAIN PASS ONLY TO MEET REPULSE

Austrian Mountaineers Rival Italy's Alpine Fighters but Were Driven Back — Italian Littoral Railway Bombarded by Enemy Ships.

Brescia, Italy, Aug. 13.—The exploit of Austrian troops chronicled in yesterday's communication from the War Office called for audacity and endurance which the Italians concede rivaled the feats of their own Alpine soldiers, of whom they are so proud. The Austrian mountaineers succeeded in penetrating Italian territory for some distance before they were driven back.

The Austrians made their advance through the Pavia Valley. They were obliged to cross Granite Mountains 11,000 feet high, covered with snow. They also made their way over the Forno Glazier, the largest of sixty in that region, being eight miles wide.

After surmounting these difficulties the Austrians succeeded in penetrating five miles beyond the border, but when detected and attacked by Italian troops were forced to fall back.

Vienna, Aug. 13.—The following official communication was issued today:

"The naval commander reports that early Wednesday our ships bombarded the Italian Littoral railway from Molfetta to Sene San Gerolamo. At Molfetta four factories and two railway viaducts were heavily bombarded. One viaduct was shattered and one factory set on fire.

"At Sene San Gerolamo and several depots were burned to the ground and five factories were bombarded. One of the latter was destroyed. The whole of Bari was covered with clouds of dust and smoke and the population was panic stricken. Italian guns of medium calibre fired ineffectively on our destroyers. An attack by a hostile submarine also failed.

The railway viaduct at Sene San Gerolamo was badly damaged by our fire.

"Our vessels all returned undamaged. With the exception of submarines off Bari nothing was seen of hostile naval forces."

Rome, Aug. 13.—The following statement from the Italian general headquarters, dated Aug. 12, was made public tonight.

"In Cadore the close proximity of our lines to those of the enemy, as a result of the progress made by our recent offensive movement, has resulted in slight attacks and counter-attacks by each side.

"On the night of Aug. 11-12 the enemy, after great artillery preparation, advanced against our new positions on top of Caidiana, on Upper Corde valle, but was repulsed.

"On the other hand, our troops succeeded in dislodging the enemy which was entrenched on the western slopes of Monte Piana at the head of Pallorenz.

"On the Isonzo front the enemy made demonstrations, which were easily repulsed, against our positions on the Spurs of Reme and Mrzil, in the Monte Nero range, and against heights recently conquered by us east of Piava.

"On the Carso front the night of the 12th, during a violent storm, the enemy tried to surprise our advance works most menacing to him, but without any result."

PACIFIC MAIL S.S. CO. SELLS FIVE OF ITS TRANS-PACIFIC FLEET

Among largest and best of Company's liners — New Seamen's Law reason for the sale.

New York, Aug. 13.—The Pacific Mail Steamship Company, in pursuance of its plan announced some time ago of disposing of its fleet and other property, has sold five of its steamers—the Manchuria, Mongolian, Korea, Siberia and China—to the Atlantic Transportation Company of West Virginia.

The vessels sold are virtually the largest and best in the Pacific mail service and the last sailing by any of them to Oriental ports under the Pacific mail flag will be on Aug. 25, by the Mongolian.

Some months ago the Pacific Steamship Company indicated that it would withdraw its steamers from the Trans-Pacific service, and probably dispose of them, because of the new seamen's law, passed by the last senate of congress. Phillip A. S. Franklin, receiver of the International Mercantile Marine Company, of which the Atlantic Transportation Company of West Virginia is a subsidiary, declined to give the price paid for the vessels.

RUSSIAN RECRUITS IN CANADA SELOOM FAIL TO PASS MEDICAL TEST

Special to The Standard
Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 13.—The medical officers who are examining recruits for the overseas say that a much smaller proportion of Russians fail to pass the medical test than do the native Canadians, or those from Great Britain, in fact it is very seldom that a Russian cannot pass the doctor. Their teeth as a rule seem to be better than the other Canadians, and their eyesight as a rule is considerably stronger than that of English-speaking recruits of French Canadian. This is probably due to the fact that the Russians as a rule work in the open air and do not wear their eyes to the extent those working in offices do. Most of the English-speaking Canadians enlisting have worked to a great extent, at least indoors.

MOOSEPATH RACES

FRENCH GOVT MAY RELEASE THE STEAMER DACIA CONDITIONALLY

Must limit her activities to neutral trade—Release not to imply recognition of right to change registry in war time.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The second payment of the American-owned cotton steamer Dacia was made today at the state department by the French ambassador. The amount was not made public.

The department has not yet declared the detailed report of the French court decision which held the Dacia a prisoner because the change of registry was not made at least thirty days before the outbreak of the war, and no action has been taken toward entering a protest.

Intimations have reached the state department that the French government may release the ship under certain conditions that will limit her activities to neutral trade and will not involve a general recognition of the right to change registry in time of war.

DANES IN CANADA LOYAL TO BRITAIN

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 13.—C. C. Meyer, the Danish Consul at Ottawa, and editor of the Danerog, writes a letter to the Journal today, in which he states that "There are in Canada today no more loyal British citizens than the Danes, who have made the Dominion their future homes, and no other section of foreign-born Canadians have sent more of their sons to the front than the Danes."

BREAKS DOWN ON HEARING SENTENCE

Prisoner swears he goes to prison innocent of charge of complicity in plot to dynamite Windsor Arsenal.

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 13.—"If I am to be convicted of this crime, I am going down as an innocent man."

"This man," pointing his finger above, "knows I am innocent of wrongdoing. I never was in sympathy with the Germans and never shall be while I am on earth."

This was the fervent declaration of William Lester, who was this morning sentenced by Judge Dromkole to five years in Kingston penitentiary on the charge of being an accomplice in the dynamite explosion which partially wrecked the Peabody plant in Walkerville on June 21 and five years on the charge of conspiracy in an attempt to blow up the Windsor arsenal. The sentence is to run concurrently which means that the full term is ten years.

Lester appeared to be dazed and with tears streaming down his face he protested his innocence while Mrs. Lester exclaimed in a voice almost drowned by sobs: "My God, I'll be dead before he is let out."

Kentville, N. S., Aug. 13.—A little boy horse blind in one eye which was bought by the government officials purchasing horses in Kings county last year for the use of our troops, then at Valcartier, was sold at this afternoon's sitting of the Royal Commission now here investigating these purchases.

W. P. Smith, who sold this horse at Kingston, this county, to McKay, the government buyer, testified this afternoon and said he had owned it only for an hour, having secured it in a trade the day of the sale. The horse had two lumps or spavins but he said his horse had two fairly good legs. He said McKay had paid him one hundred and twenty-five dollars for this horse and McKay said that when a man was patriotic enough to sell a horse like that for that money he had better buy it.

The morning after the sale McKay discovered when one Wallace Foster, of Greenwood, was looking over the newly purchased government horses, that this little boy he had bought from Smith was blind in one eye. Then he traded the boy for a hundred and twenty-five dollars for two jack spavins that Foster had brought along that morning on speculation. Foster was on the stand this afternoon and said that he took the little blind half boy because he had owned it before and because he liked something odd. Foster said he still has the boy and that it is going strong.

Burpee Ward, one of today's witnesses, told the veterinary at Kingston that the horse was not sound, stating that she was contracted in the forefeet. She was all right in wet weather but lame in hot, dry weather, said Burpee. The government bought the horse.

Twenty-Three Years Old

Robert Fitch, another witness, presented for sale at Kingston a perfectly sound horse twenty-three years of age. The government buyer gave him a hundred and thirty-five for this old charger. William Franey took to the sale a horse with a cough. He took her to the sale because his son who owned her, feared that she would be sold for the heaves. The government buyer gave him a hundred and sixty for this animal.

Wanted Something for Putting Sale Through.
A number of this morning's witnesses testified that having sold good horses to the government and several were complimented by Sir Charles Davidson upon the straight-forwardness of their testimony.

D. M. Outhin, of Melvin, testified that after selling a horse with two blind spavins at Kingston to the government for one hundred and sixty, one Doctor Church, a veterinary, came to him and told him that he (Church) should get something for putting the sale through.

Outhin gave five dollars to this veterinary.

APPEAL SENT TO FACTIONS IN MEXICO

Expected Carranza Will Continue Defiance, but Many of His Generals Likely to Join in Peace Conference.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The Pan-American appeal to all elements in Mexico to cease fighting and join in a sincere movement to restore constitutional government began to go forward from the State Department tonight. The text will be made public here within a few days. That Carranza will maintain his defiance is expected by the administration, but it is regarded as probable that many of his generals can be induced to join in a peace convention.

Secretary Lansing said today there would be no further conference with the Latin-American diplomats until replies have been received.

No change in the Vera Cruz situation was recorded in navy department despatches.

Announcement was made here today on behalf of General Villa by his Washington agents that all the civil and military elements of his party would eliminate themselves if necessary for the success of a Mexican peace conference.

WEDDINGS.

Brown-Stephen
A quiet wedding took place on Thursday afternoon, Aug. 12, in the First Baptist Church, Vancouver, B. C., when Miss Roberta Stephen, B. A., youngest daughter of John Stephen, Aberdeen, Scotland, was married to Andrew Wilson Brown, M. A., formerly of Corn Hill, N. B. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. P. Waring of the Kiltisland Baptist church, Vancouver. The bride was beautifully gowned in a dress of white silk, ornamented with pearl trimming with an overskirt and sleeves of Brussels lace. She was under a veil with hand of pearls and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations. She was given away by her brother, T. M. Stephen of Vancouver.

FUNERALS.

The funeral of Miss Kathleen McGrath took place yesterday morning at 8:45 o'clock from the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. McGrath, 15 Golding street, to the Cathedral, where solemn requiem mass was celebrated. Rev. P. A. Howland, D.D., deacon, and Rev. W. M. Duke, pastor of St. Vincent's church, officiated at the services. Bishop LeBlanc gave final absolution. The large attendance at the services bore testimony to the esteem entertained for the departed one as well as the sympathy felt for her suddenly bereaved parents. The presence of a number of Sisters of Charity, in whose schools the deceased received her education, added to the impressiveness of the scene. Many members of St. Vincent's Alumnae were also present at the services. A great number of beautiful floral tributes were received, which were conveyed to the cemetery in a barouche. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Urban Kelly, Harold Kane, James I. McManus, Frank McShane, Joseph D. Brosnan and George Callaghan. The remains were laid to rest in the new Catholic cemetery.

OBSTINATE INDIGESTION CAN BE CURED

No trouble causes more widespread suffering and discomfort than indigestion. The ailment takes various forms. Some victims are ravenous for food; others turn sick at the sight of meals; but as a rule every meal is slung by intense pains in the chest, heartburn, sick headache and often nausea. Indigestion assumes an obstinate form because ordinary medicines only subdue its symptoms—but do not cure. So-called pre-digested foods only fine the digestion more and ultimately make the trouble take a chronic form.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure indigestion because they go right to the root of the trouble. They make new rich blood, which so strengthens the system that the stomach does its own work and digests the food in a natural way. Many a terrible sufferer from indigestion has found a permanent cure through a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Among them is Mrs. H. C. Cramm, Locke Street, North, Hamilton, Ont., who says: "Doctor Williams' Pink Pills not only gave me new health, but new life. For five years I was a great sufferer, was almost constantly doctoring, and spent a great deal of money with absolutely no result. My stomach was in such a dreadful condition that frequently it would not retain nourishment of any kind. When I ate I suffered terrible pains, a fluttering of the heart and often a feeling of nausea. In addition to this I was in a very anaemic condition, and felt as if I was lingering between life and death. One day while sitting in the park a lady got into conversation with me, and I told her my trouble. She asked me if I had tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, saying that they had been a great benefit to her daughter. When I went home I decided to try this medicine. I soon found the pills were helping me, and continued taking them for several months when I was restored to better health than I had enjoyed for years, and I have since been the picture of health. I hope my experience may be the means of pointing to others the way to health."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The commission then adjourned until tomorrow.

The fourth and last week of the stay here starts Monday night. Three complete changes of bill will be made during the week, a brand new show for Monday and Tuesday, a repeat of the big hit, "O'Reilly at the Cabaret," on Wednesday and Thursday, and a big revue to close the engagement on Friday and Saturday. A souvenir photograph of Jere McAuliffe will be given to everybody attending the Friday matinee and night performances. Matinee every day except Monday.

Recruiting.
Robert Smith of Shelburne, N. S., was the only man who passed the doctor yesterday. He went forward to Sussex as a recruit for the 55th Battalion. No orders have yet arrived for the heavy battery. The men themselves expect to get away by the first of the week.

THE END OF SIX CENTURIES OF TURKISH RULE

Six Hundred Years' Reign of the Turk in Van Turkish Armenia, Brought to an End When Long Persecuted Armenians No Longer Able to Bear Oppression, Arose in Revolt.

(Cor. of The Associated Press.)
Van, Turkish Armenia, June 18. — The 600-year reign of the Turk has been brought to an end, the present at least, in both the town and the vilayet of Van. It is no longer strictly correct to date this correspondence as coming from "Turkish Armenia," at the same time it is a question whether Van may yet be considered an independent state or whether it will be annexed to Russia. A foundation of Armenian autonomy has been laid, however, by the naming of one of the Armenian leaders, Aram, who was a former supervisor of schools, as civil governor and the establishment of a provisional administration.

The vilayet of Van has an area of about 15,000 square miles with a population of several hundred thousand. The story of the revolt, by which Turkey has lost control of this ancient region, has not hitherto been told with much fullness. In the midst of the racial war, with its innumerable massacres and scattered disorders, it was impossible to gather a comprehensive view of the situation and even now the story of the burglers' fight for freedom must be discounted by the possibility of the Turks' return—although that is regarded as remote.

The origin of the revolt, of course, is found in the hereditary discord between the races and religions of Van, but the uprising of the Armenians was more specifically due to the conduct of Jevdet Bey, the Turkish governor general of the vilayet of Van, in demanding Armenian recruits to the Turkish cause and in the severe measures he took when these recruits were not forthcoming.

During the Turkish mobilization, the Armenians were singled out to do menial work, and were not well fed. Disarmed, they were exposed to the fury of their hereditary enemies, the Turks and Kurds, and an uprising became inevitable, although it was sought neither by the revolutionary leaders nor by prudent Turks. Even Jevdet Bey, who is a brother-in-law of Enver Pasha, the Minister of War, seemed at first disposed to peace. He consulted the Armenian leaders frequently and they trusted his professions of sincerity, but when he returned from the Turkish front, facing the Russians at Saral, early in the spring, he suddenly demanded three thousand additional Armenian recruits. The men were promised, but perhaps not sincerely.

Trouble Started in Mountains.
Trouble first arose between the sturdy Armenian mountaineers of Shadakh and their Kurdish neighbors. Jevdet Bey said that if the Armenians of Van stirred he would make an end of the race throughout the empire. There was shortly war between Armenian and Kurdish villagers in all parts of Turkish Armenia, mutual pillage and massacre, though the Armenians then suffered inconceivable more than the Kurds. The Armenian leaders counseled patience and submission and Jevdet Bey persuaded Ishkan and three other revolutionists to undertake a peace mission to Shadakh. On the way they were treacherously murdered by order of Jevdet Bey, as the Armenians assert.

On April 16, Jevdet summoned Vremyan, another Armenian leader, for a conference and bundled him off to Constantinople. Aram barely escaped seizure. The Armenians now aware of Jevdet's hostile intentions, declared their inability to supply 3,000 recruits, but offered 400 and gradual payment of exemption charges for the remainder.

Dr. C. D. Ussher and E. A. Yarrow, of the American mission, accepted the futile office of intercessors. Jevdet was obdurate; he would put down rebellion at all costs, first at Shadakh and then at Van. He tried to force the missionaries to accept a Turkish garrison of fifty soldiers or to give him a written release from responsibility for their safety. They managed the ticklish problem cleverly; when they gave their final answer that the guard might be sent, though it would precipitate war, the Armenians had so far organized their forces that the road from the Turkish camp to the mission was cut off.

Hostilities began April 20 at dawn. Rifles and cannon fire was opened from five strong positions on the old town or business center and on the Armenian residence quarter, called the Gardens, as every house is partly surrounded by vineyards and orchards. By evening houses were afire in all directions. Fifteen Armenian riflemen, reinforced at times by 1500 youths armed with pistols or hand grenades, manned mighty barricaded houses, connected by trenches and mud walls.

effective at 1,000 yards. Mevassian's boys' band heartened the fighters with continual music. Women and children carried ammunition and food and water. Fourteen year old Neville Ussher and his recently organized boys' scouts did heroic service in extinguishing fires, reporting and carrying sick and wounded and enforcing sanitary regulations among 4,000 Armenian refugees, who were now overcrowding the mission.

Jevdet, now throwing off the mask of friendship, he had worn, for he had known Dr. Ussher from childhood, means considerable weight in case a single shot were fired from Armenian trenches near but outside the mission. Dr. Ussher answered that the missionaries could bear no responsibility for acts of individuals beyond their control. Meanwhile the American missionaries were caring for Turkish as well as Armenian sick and wounded and as the only practical administrators in Van, had organized sanitation, soup kitchens and distribution of bread for the 6,000 refugees who flocked or were driven into Van from the villages. The Armenians organized a city government, with mayor, courts and police and kept better order.

All the American missionaries worked ceaselessly and effectively. Miss Caroline Sillman organized and took charge of a hospital annex for cases of measles. Miss Gertrude Rogers and Miss Elizabeth Ussher helped Miss Bond, superintendent of the hospital, where there were always 150 patients for a fifty-patient capacity. Mr. Yarrow discharged a multitude of administrative duties, assisted by Mrs. Yarrow and Mrs. J. C. Raynolds, the volunteer nurses, having lived there forty-four years with-out slackening energy or enthusiasm. Besides these there were, as sharers of the dangers and toils of the siege the eight children of the Usshers and Yarrow and Miss Knapp, a visitor from the British mission.

In spite of day and night bombardment from the imposing fortress Rock, an isolated crag rising sheer from the flat plain, immediately adjoining the old town, the handful of Armenians remaining there, cut off from their fellows by the intervening Turkish gardens, shortly captured some of the fortified government buildings in their midst. Thirty-three thousand cannon balls or shells were thrown from the fortress into the old town, but mainly fell harmlessly into mud walls, only three lives being lost from the cannonade there.

At the end of two weeks a runner from Ardetch, the second town of the vilayet, brought news that the governor had butchered all the male and many of the female inhabitants and he alone had escaped to tell the story. He had passed under a heap of corpses, he declared, and his story excited the Armenians to a new fury. Provisions and ammunition were running low when the end came with dramatic suddenness. On May 15 and 16 all the vessels in the harbor sailed across the Lake of Van with families of Turks and, to mask the coming Turkish retreat, a more furious cannonade was begun; the American mission, the last to be destroyed, was hit. In two days, half a hundred shells fell in compound, one little Armenian girl being killed. Altogether 12,000 shells or cannon balls had been fired into the Armenian garden or residence quarter. At sunset on May 16 the Turkish batteries from which an unobstructed fire had been trained on the American mission, disgorged its garrison, who were seen to ride away across the farther hills. The Armenians rushed the last positions of the Turks, including the barracks, and set them afire, killing most of the feeble remnant of the garrison.

There followed a wild night of frenzied rejoicing and incendiarism. The old town and the Turkish garden quarter went up in smoke. Half of Van, one of the prettiest cities of Asia, became a ruin. To make matters worse Aram, appointed temporary governor, allowed the cutting of shade trees in the Turkish quarter, partly for spite and partly to raise revenues.

The splendidly equipped Turkish hospital was plundered of its invaluable medicines before the missionaries, whose medical supplies were nearly exhausted, reached it. They extinguished three incendiary fires started in the hospital.

Turks Abandon their Sick and Wounded.
The Armenians claimed to have had ample provocation for reprisals, the Kurds having committed nameless atrocities and the Turks having executed 160 Armenian prisoners, of whom 80 were sick or wounded, before they retired, shooting besides all the Armenian conscripts in their ranks. The Turks left their own sick and wounded in terrible straits. Seventeen were rescued alive by the Americans. The survivors declared they had neither food nor water for four days. Scores were dead in their beds, largely of neglect.

The explanation of the Turkish retreat came on May 18 in the person of Vartan and 3,000 Armenian volunteers, followed by a Russian detachment. Realizing that revenge must have its limits, both Armenian and Russian

A FRENCH OUTPOST IN NORTHERN FRANCE

The above view shows a group of typical French infantrymen guarding an earthwork in Northern France. The soldiers are wearing the new blue-grey uniform, which renders them comparatively invisible even at a short distance. The French soldier never always carries his full kit, which includes a spare pair of boots and cooking utensils, in addition to the usual trenching tools. Under this by no appearance of having been hastily constructed. It merely consists of a raised earthen breastwork fronting commanders delivered Kurdish women and children to the missionaries, to the number of a thousand. The missionaries, however, were without proper medicines or food and were unable to give these refugees the care they required. Diseases have been raging in their narrow quarters.

The defense of the Armenian residence quarter was directed mainly by Armanek Yekarian, a noted partisan. To the correspondent of the Associated Press he related some of the incidents of the struggle. Early in the siege the Turks fired 110 cannon shot or shells at a position held by five Armenians. One was killed and another was wounded. Three survivors and eight more riflemen took a house held by 230 Turks, killing at least six.

One of the most menacing of the Turkish positions was a barracks in the edge of the Armenian residence quarter. It was held by 120 Turks, Armenian sappers mined and dynamited it and the fleeing garrison left twelve charred corpses.

Jevdet Bey then sent 500 men against the Armenian line held by 41 riflemen. After a three hours' fight the Turks retreated leaving 35 dead on the field. The Armenians here lost one-killed and two wounded.

The Turks had twelve cannon, about half of modern construction. Two of the old smooth bore exploded. The waste of Turkish ammunition contrasted strikingly with the prudence of the Armenians. It is estimated that half a million rifle shots were fired into the gardens in a single day.

What the Armenian revolutionary leaders will do with their opportunity remains to be seen. Grave errors have been committed. Some, not Aram, it is believed, have engaged alien merchants, of the stocks that were saved from the business centre, and villagers of their remaining flocks. There is also murmuring among the democrats, who supplied half all classes, there is some rejoicing now that the reign of the Turk is at an end. They are taking no sides for or against Russian annexation, which many Armenians prefer to autonomy; they say it will suffice if the Turk does not return to sow discord between the races and the religions of Van.

AERIAL OPERATIONS OF FIRST YEAR OF THE WAR

at Chamblay—a total of thirty-two shells and 18,000 darts.

It is generally impossible for the airman to know exactly what damage he has done, except in the case where bombs cause conflagrations. In various ways, however, details of the results of some bombardments, have become known. At the headquarters of the German Crown Prince at Rivigny, Oct. 22, 15 men were killed and 20 horses and 22 men wounded. The men were mostly officers. At the general headquarters of Emperor William, Nov. 1, two of the Emperor's aides-de-camp were killed. In the destruction of a military train at Zebrunze, Dec. 17, 40 soldiers were killed and 100 wounded. At the headquarters of the Prince of Wurtemberg, General Garnebeck and two lieutenant generals were killed.

On May 31, the airman killed 44

Paris, Aug. 11.—During the first year of war so far as accounts have been rendered to the public, thirty German flying machines, not including dirigible balloons, were brought to earth and destroyed by French airmen. The day he was obliged to alight behind the German lines and was taken prisoner. Roland Garros, the well-known civilian aviator, held the record with three machines to his credit. He has since been surpassed by Lieutenant E. G. G., who has brought down four.

Garros used a special armament called by himself with a machine gun regulated to fire across the axis of the propeller. In the first ten days with this machine he brought down his three victims.

What a single airman is able to accomplish against land forces is indicated by the case of Adjutant V., reported by Jacques Mortane, sporting writer and a volunteer in the aviation corps, as having in a single day dropped twelve three and one-half inch shells and 500 steel darts upon batteries of mortars that he destroyed at Norroy, eight shells and 400 darts on the general headquarters at Thiaucourt, four shells and 2000 darts at Fannes and four shells and 2000 darts

To Banish Wrinkles and Freshen Up Quickly

After a strenuous day outdoors, when winds, heat and exhaustion have combined to take away one's freshness and caused the skin to wrinkle and sag—or after a tedious fretful day indoors—one often has urgent need for some quick rejuvenator. Maybe there's a dance on for the evening or some other social event. How in the world can one make herself presentable, looking as she does? It's quite

Just get an ounce of powdered saxolite and a half pint of water. Mix the powder in the water. Then look into your mirror and behold the wonderful transformation! Wrinkles have vanished, faded, dried muscles have been rested and "firmed up," marks of fatigue have flown, and you look so much brighter and younger you can hardly believe your eyes. No one need hesitate to try this, the witch hazel and saxolite being so perfectly harmless.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S RICHES.

From time to time during the past few months The Standard has attempted to convey to its readers some facts in connection with natural resources of the province and information concerning industrial enterprises of more than ordinary interest. In this series of articles have appeared on the Lake George asphyxiation deposit, and there has been experienced since the publication of that article the pleasure of relating that the property having passed to other hands is in prospect of successful operation. Later on there was given a description of the new pulp mill erected by the Bathurst Lumber Company at Bathurst. This week that fine plant commenced operations, with the certain prospect of an almost inexhaustible supply of raw material and every promise of a steady and profitable demand for the finished product. Two weeks ago something was printed about the successful conduct for several generations of the asphyxiation deposits in Albert County and there is a deal of gratification in the knowledge that, despite conditions by which all similar industries are affected to a very marked degree, this important business will come through the stress of hard times as it has come through other periods of depression and will no doubt in future seasons, find itself stronger than ever because of this somewhat trying experience.

Today there is published in another part of this paper certain information as nearly correct as can be obtained touching on the Albert county shales. This tremendous deposit, the importance of which is by no means appreciated by others than those directly connected with it, should in the years to come prove the greatest of all New Brunswick's localized industries. While it may be true that for the benefit of the earnest investor more detailed information than is now available should be secured, it is clear that there exists in Albert and adjoining counties a deposit unequalled in extent and richness, and affording, when capital for such development is more readily procurable than at the present time, an excellent opportunity for the creation and successful operation of a great industry.

SAVING THE SOLDIERS' JOBS.

A movement which is expected to materially aid in the work of recruiting has been inaugurated in Montreal and other large cities in Canada. A number of business and manufacturing firms, large employers of labor, have pledged themselves to hold open the positions of their employees who answer the call to arms. On a smaller scale this plan had been adopted by many firms but it had not hitherto been advertised. Now, however, large employers of labor are openly announcing that they will save positions for their men who enlist.

The idea is a commendable one. Quite a large proportion of the able bodied men who would be very willing to serve their country have held back because they could not afford to jeopardize the future of themselves or their families. Assurance that such men would have regular employment on their return from the front would tend to remove all fear on that score and should result in securing recruits of a most desirable class.

It must be remembered that while the soldier is a hero during the tenure of the war, after peace has been signed and his term of service is ended he becomes a citizen like any other and is faced with the necessity of earning a livelihood for himself and those dependent upon him. It would be a fine thing if every man who offers for active service from Canada could feel that his regular employment will be waiting for him when he returns from overseas. Canadian employers can well afford to be generous toward the men who go forward to make the sacrifice for the Empire.

THE BOY SCOUTS

Some years ago when the Boy Scout movement made its first appearance here it was greeted with a fine burst of enthusiasm. Indeed for a time the country was so full of scouts that they were met with at every turn. There was perhaps too great enthusiasm, for the effort seemed to be toward securing numbers rather than in carrying on in the best possible manner the work for which scouts were organized. Yet a deal of good work was accomplished and the foundations well laid for a much more permanent organization when the time for such action should arrive. Later on, as might have been anticipated, interest waned, and certain troops of scouts in different parts of the province were disbanded. Yet as was bound to happen, this movement, having so much good at the bottom, could not remain dormant and it would seem that the time of resurrection arrived some months ago. Certainly on the reorganization of the provincial council recently there appeared to be on all sides an earnest desire to re-create this body of scouts, to establish it on a more permanent basis and to more carefully apply to its work the ideals on which it was originally established. New troops have been enrolled, and while there has of late been a gratifying increase in membership, it is pleasing to note that the energies of those at the head of the work are directed more to the moral, mental and physical development of the boys than the acquisition of large membership. At the age when boys are most easily influenced, that is during the stage of hero worship, the example and guidance of scout masters, men of high principle and of deep conviction, may readily affect in a marked degree the after life of those looking to them for leadership. And this province, from what The Standard has been able to learn in the past few weeks, is particularly fortunate in that those connected with the scout movement are without exception men to whom no parent need be afraid to trust their lad, in the knowledge that the boys will profit by just as uplifting influence as would be experienced at home.

This paper, recognizing the importance of the truth that it is much easier to help a boy to be a man than it is to help a man to redeem himself, has of late devoted considerable space to the activities of the scouts. It is pleasing to know that this effort is appreciated, and certainly so long as good can be accomplished in this regard The Standard will be delighted to contribute its little share.

FARM LABORERS' EXCURSIONS TO THE WEST.

With the promise of a bumper crop in the west, the Governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta have called upon Eastern Canada for thirty thousand harvest help laborers to assist them in reaping the harvest. The Canadian Government Railways will sell harvesters tickets to Winnipeg from all stations in the Maritime Provinces, Tuesday, August 17th, and Tuesday, August 24th, and Winnipeg, at very low rates the fare from Montreal to Winnipeg being $13.95, and the fares from other stations will be in proportion.

The route will be via the Intercolonial to Montreal, Grand Trunk to North Bay, Temiskaming and Northern Ontario to Cochrane, thence transcontinental to Winnipeg.

Fares based on half a cent per mile may be obtained at Winnipeg to all points west in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Returning tickets will be issued to bona-fide excursionists at very low rates.

GIRLS' CLUB CAMP.

The Girls' Club of the Playgrounds Association has opened a summer camp at Elderkin's Beach at Drury Cove. Through the generosity of Mr. Stewart, the members of the club have been given the exclusive use of this beautiful beach for the summer. There is a commodious tent and a well furnished camp, two stoves, one in the camp and the other for use out of doors. There are excellent facilities for boating and bathing. The girls have secured a good boat and have enjoyed many pleasant outings at their camp. The camp will be open until the middle of October. Employed girls, especially those who are strangers in the city, are cordially invited to "Wo-ho" Camp. For further information enquire at the "Girls' Club," 92 Princess street, on Tuesday evening between 8.15 and 10 p. m.

Patriotic Fair on the 26th.

The Carleton Cornet Band have offered to play at the Patriotic Fair at Seaside on the 26th. Further co-operation, however, would be welcomed by the chairman of the committees, Glendon H. Allan.

Canada's Great Money Importer

(By J. H. Hodgins)

Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, who as general manager of the Bank of Montreal negotiated the forty-five million dollar loan for the Canadian government in the New York money market in July, has been the recipient of a bringing more capital to the Dominion than any other individual.

There have been many brilliant financiers who have striven strenuously in the past ten years and brought huge amounts of money to Canada. But without exception the capital sought has been for the upbuilding of their personal achievements.

Sir William Mackenzie's money-seeking trips to London, for instance, became the subject of cartoons in the daily newspapers. Time after time he has crossed the Atlantic returning with his satchel, so to speak, full of cash.

But the capital went into the Canadian Northern Railway or closely associated enterprises. The money went to further the propositions which the Canadian Northern Railway interests had in hand, immediately. So it has been with the other financiers.

But Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor has occupied a unique position. The capital he sought was not for his own use. It was to further none of his personal ambitions or those of his bank. It was to come to Canada in one form or another, for the upbuilding of the great Dominion in which as a Canadian he took a personal pride.

It might easily be estimated that Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor during his banking career in England, has introduced a billion of dollars to Canada for investment.

Set the Flood Moving

It was Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor (then Mr. Williams-Taylor) who really set the flood of capital losses upon Canada. Almost from the moment, in 1905, that he became acting manager of the London, England, branch of the Bank of Montreal, he began a campaign to awaken an interest in the Dominion. Sir Frederick was not the more aggressive efforts of federal and provincial governments toward inducing a larger settlement of the provinces, the cities, the towns and the countryside. A native-born Canadian, Sir Frederick took a keen interest in all that was Canadian. He went to London thoroughly versed in the fundamentals of his country.

Sir Frederick's appointment as manager of the London, England, office dates from 1906, his appointment having been confirmed a year after he took over the acting management, until the end of 1913, when he became general manager of the institution in which he has had such a brilliant career.

During those years Canada rolled up the monumental sum of £246,275,200 borrowed entirely from British investors. Of this capital acquired, it is safe to assume that fifty per cent was negotiated through the Bank of Montreal in London. It would, therefore, come under the direct supervision of Sir Frederick, as the manager of the branch. It was Canada's growing time, starting out the phrase "the 20th century belongs to Canada."

Sir Frederick's, undoubtedly, was the guiding hand that led virtually a billion dollars of capital into this great country. It was his master mind that advised the Dominion to accept Sir Frederick's, undoubtedly, was the guiding hand that led virtually a billion dollars of capital into this great country. It was his master mind that advised the Dominion to accept Sir Frederick's, undoubtedly, was the guiding hand that led virtually a billion dollars of capital into this great country.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, the C. P. R. president, has been a marvellous many thanks to Sir Frederick, whose worth is admitted and who have been responsible, personally, for a great part of the upbuilding of Canada. But there are none who during his residence in England accomplished more than Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor.

Financial Baedeker of Canada

Was there information asked: the manager of the Bank of Montreal, in London, was always accessible. Was there advice wanted? Sir Frederick was ready. Sir Frederick became to British investors the Baedeker of Canada. That the Bank of Montreal recognized his worth was demonstrated when after thirty-five years' service and at the age of fifty he was appointed general manager of the institution, made foremost of Canadian bankers. The knighthood conferred upon him by King George in 1913 was undoubtedly in recognition for his immense services toward the close of 1912 critical London began to analyze the Dominion's financial position, and many an unkind thing was said of Canada's standing. Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor uttered an energetic defence that carefully and closely reviewed our economic position. He proved conclusively that Canada's fundamentals were sound. He based his defence on the assertion, "surely, it is sound economics and irrefutable logic that no borrower can be charged with over-borrowing provided he is in a position to pay his interest regularly and be undoubted for the principal sum at maturity."

In the course of the well reasoned address, which ultimately commanded the greatest respect throughout Britain, Sir Frederick made use of one thought. It was in substance: "The funds from the country and from other countries, will continue beyond peradventure, and if I may say so, under proper advice there is no better field for investment the world over." Even as he spoke Sir Frederick of course could not have seen into the future. Strange as it may seem Sir Frederick is now proving the one who is succeeding in opening the flood gates of capital from those "other countries" into Canada.

The negotiation of the forty-five million dollar Canadian loan in New York the other day is a notable achievement. It marks the creation of the Dominion's first obligation outside London. It marks at the same

SPECIAL SEWING CONTEST

In Aid of the Red Cross Society (St. John Branch).

This week I am letting you have a special sewing contest, and I want you all to enter for the prize, as the work you send in will be given to the above society, and the poor wounded soldiers will be greatly comforted by your efforts. Here are the particulars: Make a cup cover measuring 7 inches square, using two thicknesses of ordinary cheap cloth, hand stitched in the center and around the edges in the same way as you made the face cloths, then sew little beads or shot on to the corners to make the cover hang over the edge of the cup or glass.

The cup covers are to be used to keep the flies and dust out of the cups and glasses of milk, etc., in the hospitals of France and Flanders and are greatly needed, pin the above coupon to the cup covers when finished and forward not later than Thursday, August 19th, 1915, to

UNCLE DICK,
The Standard,
St. John, N. B.

This contest is open to both girls and boys, as I want you to make as many cup covers as possible, knowing that they are to be used for the wounded soldiers.

I shall award two valuable story books, one for the best made, and another for the most covers sent in.

POLICE COURT.

James Connell, reported by the Board of Health officials for selling milk without a license and not having his premises in such a condition as to conform with the Board regulations, was ordered to take out a license and fix his premises. He promised to do as he was directed. Dr. J. Roy Campbell, K. C., asked that a fine be imposed, but the magistrate refused, saying that that would be no lesson. He then told Connell that unless he complied with the wishes of the Board of Health he would not be allowed to sell a drop of milk.

One drunk was remanded to jail, after he was warned that he was liable to nine months in jail.

A further hearing was given in the case of Claude Grant, charged by his wife, Eva, with non-support. J. Kinz Kelley, K. C., appeared for the wife, but the magistrate refused, saying that

SAINT ANDREWS HAS ENTERTAINMENT FOR RED CROSS SOCIETY

Andraeo Hall the scene of grand Patriotic demonstration on Wednesday evening.

The Andraeo hall was filled to overflowing with an enthusiastic and appreciative audience Wednesday evening, August 11th, to witness a most artistic and brilliant concert, in aid of the Red Cross Society of St. Andrews.

The dance of the roses to Mendelssohn's Spring Song was most gracefully and artistically performed by the following young ladies: Constance Hope, Ethel Gratz, Dolly Thompson, Gwen and Audrey Hampton, Norma and Gladys Rogers. These young ladies were surprised by a visit from a beautiful butterfly, little Miss Muriel Dryer, who gracefully danced in their midst and finally led them away. These were followed by "Canada," Miss Marjorie Burke and her Province, who marched to the stirring music of the Maple Leaf, then posed at the back of the stage to form a strong defence for a group of Merry Harvesters, little girls of nine and ten years of age, Miss Jean Ganong, Dorothy Lamont, Geraldine Smith, Molly Lawford, Emma O'Dell, Marion O'Hara, Ethel Joseph, Jean Maxwell, Mabel Elliott and Hope McMahon in brilliant and fantastic costumes, carrying racks decorated with scarlet poppies and bunches of wheat, these little ladies danced a stirring country dance, and their brilliant colors contrasted beautifully with the graceful Kitty Greenaway frocks and rose garlands of the Rose Dance. An interesting group in the Harvest Dance was the tiny Sunflower, Miss Ruth Anderson and the Hollyhock, Miss Rosemary Platt and their Bumblebees, Misses Wilton Platt and Darryl Doherty. This little quartette, ages five and six years, gracefully fluttered between the Harvesters and deserve particular mention, being their first public appearance. Miss Muriel Dryer also gave a solo dance in this court, dancing the Spanish dance most artistically. The first part of the programme closed with the striking tableau of Canada surrounded by her Provinces and Harvesters.

The notable features of the second part of the programme were the Allied Nations tableaux; these were living pictures most beautifully posed and elaborately costumed.

Servia—Miss Isabel Adami.
Russia—Miss B. Hanson.
France—Miss Wilfred Tait.
Belgium—Miss Helen Thompson.
Japan—Miss A. Southam.
Italy—Miss Ethel Forgan.
Scotland—Miss M. Forgan.
Ireland—Miss M. Shaughnessy.
Britannia—Miss J. Coulson.

These were all so perfect that words of praise could not express the appreciation of the audience, however, one word for poor little Belgium. She won every heart and her dejected attitude made all feel that "all we do is not enough." The Allies grouped around the royal figure of Britannia, with Plenty and Prosperity, the Misses M. Tunstall Smith on either side and the Angel of Peace, Miss Anna Mitchell of St. Andrews, hovering above, formed an impressive tableau as a finale.

The young boys of the army, Messrs. Henry and Evan Gill, Blythe Maxwell, Harold Hampson, Charles Balfour, Lovel Thompson, Francis Seward and George McBean, and the Navy, Edwin Ganong, Francis Gill, James Ballantyne, Bent Mackay, David Anderson, Brian Doherty, George Gurthie and Tom O'Dell, deserve great praise for the soldierly way in which they marched through their figures, making all feel how well they could do their part if they were men old enough to stand for their country. During their march they were interrupted by little Miss Dryer, who danced herself into the hearts of the audience in the Fisher's Hornpipe.

Other tableaux, "The Tiff," Miss Ruth Smith and Mr. Melville Logan, representing an Irish lover and his sweetheart, in these often quarrels which are sweet in their reconciliation always appeal to the young and old. "What We Have Well Held" was simply splendid, for it is very rare for a real living English bull dog to be seen standing on the good old flag before such an enthusiastic audience. During this tableau, Master Evan Gill pleased the audience with a short military recitation. In a most pleasing and distinct manner, "The Crown of Glory," Master Henry Gill as a wounded and dying soldier with the Angel of Peace, Miss Mitchell, bending over him, brought all over the front with "our dear boys and I am sure many a prayer went up for them and eyes were dimmed.

Miss Wilson, Miss Cassidy, Miss Forgan and Miss Gilmour, all of whom have splendid voices, sang very pretty songs and the only objection was no encores were allowed, so we had not the privilege of listening to the second time. Mr. Kenneth Sills, who read some war poems of his own composition, was also a pleasing number and Mrs. Henry Joseph, who is a great favourite at St. Andrews, was certainly a pleasure to listen to in her recitation of the Austro-Hungarian war, 1848.

The grand finale tableau, Britannia surrounded by her Provinces, Army, Navy and Allied nations, gave to St. Andrews a scene it never saw before, and was never seen again. It was majestic and thrilled every heart.

FURTHER AMOUNT FOR TOWN PLANNING

City Commissioners authorize extra payment—Sewerage work report by Commissioner Wigmore.

Arrangements for the payment of some extra expenses which have arisen in connection with the town planning scheme were made by the Commissioners in committee at noon yesterday. Mayor Frink, Commissioners Potts, Wigmore and Russell were present.

His Worship stated that while the Council had voted $500 for the preliminary town planning work, it had been found that this amount was not sufficient. The cost so far was $548 and there were two items who had yet to be paid. An extra hundred dollars might be required, although it was possible that the expenditure might fall short of this amount. The amount was accordingly voted.

Commissioner Wigmore reported that the sewerage work on Main street, between Douglas Avenue and Adelaide St. had been completed and he was at present carrying on the Douglas Avenue work. The street railway company are still working at the intersection of Main street and Douglas Avenue and Commissioner Potts' department is at work on the avenue. There was no further business to come before the committee and after a brief discussion of these matters adjournment was made.

TROUBLE FOR THE MILKMAN

James Connell, a milkman residing at Coldbrook, had plenty of trouble yesterday. In the morning he was in the police court on the charge made by the board of health for selling milk without a license. He was instructed to comply with the law or he would be fined. When Connell arrived home in the afternoon about three o'clock he learned that one of his cows had been struck by a car. The animal received a compound fracture of the thigh. County Policeman Saunders telephoned to R. W. Frink, president of the S. P. C. A., asking permission to kill the cow. A veterinary was sent out from the city after his examination permission was given the officer to destroy the animal.

tel, assisted by Mrs. R. A. Stuart of St. Andrews, certainly deserve a warm vote of thanks for the way they accompanied all the songs, dances and marches and the splendid music they rendered at the opening of the first and second parts of the programme.

NEWCASTLE DELEGATES TO MARITIME BOARD OF TRADE CONVENTION

Price of Harvesters' Tickets from West to East subject of protest by Newcastle Board of Trade.

Newcastle, Aug. 13.—At the meeting of the Newcastle Board of Trade last night the following (same as for the 1914 meeting, which was not held on account of the war) delegates were elected to attend the annual convention of the Maritime Board of Trade at Summerside, P. E. I., Aug. 18, 19 inst.: Rev. S. J. MacArthur, Geo. Stables, Adl. D. P. Doyle, P. Hennessy, S. W. Miller, Geo. Hood (Quarryville), J. D. Creighton, John Betts (Millerton), W. J. Jardine, Rev. E. S. Murdoch (Renous), H. H. Stuart and C. J. Morrissey.

Alternates—J. J. Ander, H. Williston, Adl. A. H. MacKay, C. E. Fish and C. Sargeant.

It was decided to get in touch with the agricultural societies and the local government re-establishing a mill here. This is a good farming section but no encouragement to grow wheat. It was reckoned that the farmers with a capital of $10,000 could put up a good mill here.

The board passed a resolution thanking the Provincial Agent at London, P. W. Sumner, for his offer of assistance to this board and suggested that he direct as much immigration as possible to the Miramichi where there is lots of good land awaiting the energetic settler.

The question of C. P. R. charging more for a ticket back from the harvest fields than from the east to the west was severely criticised by Mr. Creighton and others and following motion passed unanimously:

Resolved, that this Board of Trade direct the attention of the Railway Commission to the action of the C.P.R. in advertising harvest excursions at a cheaper rate from east to west than return from west to east, and request that the Commission take steps to have this discrimination against the eastern provinces removed.

As both teams will present their strongest line-ups the game should be well contested.

Get Real Tire Economy!

Motoring is two things—a pleasure and a business. One might say it was used sixty per cent. for entertainment and forty per cent. for commercial purposes. Yet no matter whether you use your car to get orders or ozone, your greatest economy will be the reduced cost of mishaps.

No accident ever befel an automobile but what the tires were forced to play a part in it. And no accident ever was averted but what the tires had a say in that, too.

If you will drive fast,
If you will make those sudden stops,
If the city will water asphalt,
If rain will make muddy roads;

Why then—the possibility of skidding will always be with you, unless you figure on those elements of danger when you buy your tires. When you think of how to avert danger in motoring you immediately think of

SHARP BREAK IN EXCHANGE ON LONDON AND PARIS DAY'S FEATURE

To lowest rates on record since New York become financial centre — Interstate Commission ruling has market guessing.

New York, Aug. 13.—The overnight decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, directing sweeping reduction in rates now charged by the Antracite railroads, was the event of primary importance to today's stock market. Shares of the companies most concerned registered immediate losses of 2 to 6 points, the balance of the railway list receding more moderately. This decision was temporarily neutralized by a later ruling of the Commerce Commission, which in essence favored the soft coal roads, but transportation stocks were under constant pressure and closed with a heavy undertone.

In the meantime war specialties, especially those of the more mercantile character, were again taken in hand by pools and syndicates with resultant advances of three to five points. Motor shares were unusually prominent, the movement in this group being wider than in other equipment or industrial fields. New high records for the day included Willco's Overland at 196 and Studebaker at 95, the former scoring a maximum advance of 108 points. Heavy selling marked the trading of the final hour, some of the important railways and United States Steel then selling at lowest prices of the session, with a heavy and unsettled tone at the close. Total sales aggregated 865,000 shares.

To the student of financial conditions the significant feature of the day was another very sharp break in exchange on London and Paris to low rates never recorded since New York became a financial centre. Demand sterling fell to 4.70 1/2 or 2 1/2 cents under yesterday's minimum and Paris checks at 5.89 showed a depreciation of six cents from the previous day's low rate. These quotations hardened with the close of the stock market, but it was nevertheless predicted that all foreign remittances would show greater weakness unless drastic measures were immediately employed to meet the abnormal situation.

Money rates remain at recent easy quotations and the known cash movement for the week points to another large gain by clearing house institutions tomorrow.

Bonds were irregular, with narrow fluctuations. Total sales, par value, $2,370,000.

U. S. coupon 4's declined 1/4 per cent. on call.

CLOSING LETTER OF N.Y. MARKET BY E. & C. RANDOLPH

(McDOUGALL & COWANS.)
New York, Aug. 13.—Hesitation in the last hour with sagging tendency in prices was followed by increased activity on which stocks recorded their low prices for the day. Weakness of foreign exchange to which was attributed break in cotton and grain was something of a factor in the stock market. There was also some talk of renewed foreign selling, but there was nothing confirmatory about such gossip. Market was said to be full of stop-loss orders, and in conservative quarters there were renewed warnings to trim sails over the week-end. Declining tendency gave weight to assertions on Thursday that there had been considerable liquidation at high prices and a railroad official was quoted as saying new anthracite rates appeared in cases to be virtually confiscatory, which was far more drastic than assumed early in the day. Rumor is current that the western railroad case would be appealed. Sales, $28,900,000. Bonds, $2,402,500.

Retail Market.
There was a good supply of provisions in the local market yesterday. Meats were of good quality, but retailers say that business in this department has not been brisk during the week. An abundance of fresh vegetables was in evidence and there has been a good supply of butter and eggs. For the guidance of householders some of the prices quoted are here stated: Beef, roasts, 12c to 24c per pound; lamb, 15c to 24c; veal, 10c to 18c; pork, 15c to 20c; butter, creamery was quoted at 30c; dairy, 28c to 30c; lard, 24c to 28c; fresh eggs were fairly plentiful and brought from 30c to 34c per dozen; case, 28c to 30c; potatoes, now coming in freely bring from 24c to 30c per peck.

Injunction Granted.
Chief Justice McLeod granted an injunction yesterday morning in the case of William Donohue vs. Henry Donohue, restraining the defendant from driving a coach or entering into a hack or livery stable business for the period of two years. The application was made by W. J. Mahoney, on behalf of the plaintiff, and the defendant put in no appearance. The plaintiff and defendant, with another brother, Kenneth Donohue, up to a few months ago did a hack and livery stable business together under the name and style of Donohue Bros. The plaintiff bought out the other two, and one covenant in the agreement entered into at the time of dissolution was to the effect that the defendant should not engage in a hack or livery stable business, or drive a coach for two years. This was a few months ago, and since that time the defendant has again been driving a coach.

ITALIAN SILK PETTICOATS.
Some time ago F. A. Dykeman & Co. sent a repeat order for some of those very excellent Italian silk petticoats which they sold so many of a year ago. On account of the war there was some doubt as to whether they could get a repeat shipment but they have been fortunate in receiving within the last few days 45 dozen of the skirts. They are really made from cotton but are of such fine texture and so highly mercerized that they have the appearance of silk. They have a fine knitted flounce of generous size and are thoroughly well made throughout. All colors, $1.00 each.

MISS CHARLOTTE BROWN TELLS ABOUT HOSPITAL WORK IN CAIRO

Nursing in Dr. Philips' Red Cross Hospital at Giza, Egypt—A member of the Order of the Daughters of St. John of Jerusalem.

A letter has been received by friends from Miss Charlotte Brown, now nursing in Dr. Philips' Red Cross Hospital at Giza, Cairo, Egypt. It will be remembered Miss Brown went to England with a party of nurses from the Daughters of St. John of Jerusalem. Following are some extracts from her letter:

"Well, I'm knocked out, suffering from Egypt air, and I have been taking the rest cure at the Nurses' Home, which was, until a few days ago, the villa of the government agricultural farm. All the professors lived here and all got married but one. He was persuaded to go and board and thus give the building for a home for the nurses. The nurses' rooms, which are given up for the use of the patients. The hospital is just a walk of about from Peel street down Union to Dock. Yesterday all day I had the electric fan going and today I am out on the veranda with roses, acacias, oleanders in bloom in the garden.

"If you have a week of fog count it a blessing. If you have three or four weeks of it, still count it as a blessing. What would any of us here give for it. I have only seen one wet day since I left home. If in your kitchen we could let the water run cold enough to drink and have a tumbler, every drop in it would be worth a diamond. All the water here is filtered and put on ice. They have a great deal of barley water, but even so it is not good.

"While I sit here writing the Arabs outside are jabbering away at each other. It is hardest to know, which are the wisest, they or the donkeys. Did you ever hear a donkey bray? The first few nights I was here I heard the awful noise. I thought that Satan was let loose. It is perfectly terrible, but there are a lot of queer things here.

"The hospital was a boys' school until ration time and may be required again after the holidays. It is most admirably adapted to the purpose of a hospital.

"Sunday week I attended service in the recreation room. It reminded me of the service 'there came forth the blind.' There were about fifty Tommies, the matron, twelve nurses, and

Mr. Kenney of Government Steamer Aberdeen Badly Burned—Two Explosions

At eleven o'clock last night Edward Kelly was leaning over the gasoline tank in his motor boat while he held a lantern, there was a loud explosion and in an instant the gasoline was on fire. Second Mate Kenney and Oiler Selridge of the government steamer Aberdeen, which was lying near to the motor boat in Lower Cove slip, heard the explosion and hastened to the assistance of Kelly and managed to put out the fire.

Kelly was uninjured but Captain Kenney had one of his hands badly burned and had to receive the attention of a doctor. After the fire was out Kelly took his lantern and was looking about to see what damage was done when there was a second explosion and once more the boat was on fire. An alarm was sent in from box 45; the second fire was also quickly extinguished. The damage to the boat is not extensive although it is said that the engine may be somewhat damaged. Kelly does work about the harbor and is, practically a new one, is one of the best in the harbor.

Lieut. McFarlane Recovered.
The many friends in St. John of Lieut. Wm. T. McFarlane, of the 26th Battalion, will be pleased to hear that he is probably out of the hospital by now. He was taken sick with appendicitis, when the ship was three days out of St. John, and the physician aboard decided to wait till the steamer landed in England before operating. On arrival Lieut. McFarlane was placed in the military hospital in Devonport, where he was operated on. In a letter received in the city yesterday, dated July 21, he said that he would leave the hospital in about a week, so by this time, he is probably with his regiment at Shorncliffe.

The Turnkey's Birthday.
Samuel Clifford, the turnkey at the county jail, was all smiles yesterday and he was being congratulated for the 13th was his 66th birthday. The turnkey is as spry and well as he was fifty years ago and his friends wish him many more birthdays. Mr. Clifford has been a turnkey in the county jail for the past thirty three years and during that long period has handled a great number of prisoners.

There will be a tea and sale at Renforth this afternoon under auspices of the Ladies' Aid. Proceeds for St. James' church.

RICHEST BODY OF OIL-BEARING SHALES YET DISCOVERED IS WAITING PROPER DEVELOPMENT

FRESHET ON FREDERICK BROOK GAVE FORTUNES TO ORIGINAL ALBERTITE MEN

But Dr. Gesner, Who Had First Claim to This Rare and Valuable Mineral, Was Unable to Profit by Its Discovery—The Story of Solidified Oil, Which Meant Riches to Many, Reads Like a Romance—Nothing Doing for Thirty Years Now Since the Big Vein Ran Out, but the Shales are Still Untouched.

Because a little bit of a milldam on Frederick Brook was not strong enough to stand the pressure of a rather unusual freshet a number of people in New Brunswick made their fortunes, and it is altogether probable that scattered through this country, and perhaps even very near at home there are some who are still able to take their case because of the fact that Robert Steeves failed to build as strongly as he should have done. This situation, fortunate to some, and unfortunate to others, was very largely brought about through the mistake of the courts of New Brunswick, but by the time those in authority came to realize their error it was too late to make amends, and the advantages had all passed from those who were entitled to a share in them to others whose claims were perhaps not as strong. The mineral now known as Albertite was declared by the various learned judges composing the courts of New Brunswick sixty years ago to be coal, and because they decided in the vastness of their own knowledge that it was coal, the people who knew better were deprived of the opportunity of profiting by its discovery.

Exposed by a Freshet
In 1849 during a freshet a dam below Robert Steeves's Mill on Frederick Brook in Albert County, some six or seven miles from the town of Hillsboro gave way, and in the continued rush of water the bank a short distance above the dam was washed out, exposing to disintegration a large quantity of a jet-black shiny mineral, easy of ignition. Fragments of this following the course of the water down the brook, found their way into another pond at a mill owned by John and Peter Duffy and located of course on the same brook. Peter and John because of Frederick Brook. Dr. Gesner owned the rights to some of these lands, and of course developed the idea that the discovery of this new mineral belonged to him inasmuch as in his own opinion it was not in any sense a form of coal, but was in reality a mineral pitch or hardened petroleum, occurring in the form of a vein running as a regularly bedded deposit, and not the usual manner of coal beds. Dr. Gesner who had been cruising the country in the interests of the geological survey, had previously applied to the crown for the right to search on certain blocks of land, so when the Duffy boys made their find Dr. Gesner naturally endeavored to sustain the rights which he had received from the Government.

A Famous Lawsuit
Peter and John foresaid took out from this deposit a small schooner load of the newly found coal and shipped it to St. John, where it was sold by them at five dollars per chaldron. They continued for a short time to dig, but very shortly, in view of the publicity which the discovery had received, they had an offer from William Spurr, Allison, Gilberts and other local capitalists, for the purpose of carrying on a more systematic development of the product. This company became the defendant in what proved to be a very famous lawsuit in those days, the action brought by Dr. Gesner in defense of his rights. This lawsuit was commenced in 1852, and involved the ownership of the entire deposit of this peculiar mineral which promised to be of very great economic the matter to Frederickton and lost again, and finally carried his case to Halifax where the decision was once more against him. At these various hearings a large amount of evidence was given by experts with the result that the jury decided in favor of the contention that the mineral was a true coal, but Dr. Gesner who by this decision lost his personal interest in the property and practically everything else that he owned, was after all truly entitled to consideration for it, has since been abundantly established that the vein was not a coal in any sense of the word, but was a true asphaltic mineral.

A True Fissure Vein
The company operated for a time as originally formed, but later reorganized with a larger capital. The work was carried on for some thirty years and during that time it is estimated that not less than two hundred and thirty thousand tons of Albertite as the mineral was named, was taken from the deposit. This vein was a true fissure vein running from west to east for a distance of about two thousand eight hundred feet, just like the blade of an enormous knife forced down among the shale formations and extending to a depth of fourteen hundred or fifteen hundred feet. It varied greatly in thickness and was frequently broken and thrown out of exact alignment. In places it narrowed to eight or ten feet, and again widened out so that according to the tales told by men still on the ground who worked in the mines, timbers twenty-two feet long were supported at both ends by the walls of the vein. Albertite was sold at from fifteen dollars to twenty dollars per ton, and it is said that as much as twenty-two thousand tons were taken out in one year. The company sank what is known as the Gesner shaft, a thousand feet deep, forming what is known as the Victoria pit. On the crest of the hill just above Frederick Brook they put down the main working pump shaft to a depth of one thousand four hundred and sixty feet, and there installed a powerful hoisting engine and pumps. The ruins of the massive masonry forming these buildings are shown in the accompanying photographs. They dug as well the east shaft to a depth of one thousand feet and ran through, connecting these shafts on the workings, a distance of some three thousand feet. Towards the close of operations when it was found that the deposit was running out, the company went down some two hundred feet below the main shaft in the hope of locating larger deposits, and found there the vein to be only fourteen inches in thickness, and not providing profitable mining. hydrocarbonaceous material. Cashed in, and Quit

Having come to the conclusion that some time he held an option of the lease and of the freshet to three hundred acres, for fifteen thousand dollars, but that transfer was made in which he was left out and that he profited nothing by the sale. Mr. Lodge disposed of his interests to the present holders of these areas, Senator Domville and associates, the price

Extent of These Shale Deposits Can be Definitely Ascertained Only by Systematic Survey Over the Entire Areas Now Controlled by Different Interests—But There is Enough in Sight to Run a Dozen Plants for the Next Hundred Years Without More Than Scratching the Surface—How the Products are Obtained.

Albert County Deposits
The Albert County deposits as stated have received perhaps more attention than those found elsewhere, but it is a matter of great regret that almost since their discovery they have been to a very large extent the plaything of speculators, and that there has never yet been a well organized or systematic endeavor to operate on these deposits in a commercial manner. Nor indeed has there ever been a proper survey of any one of these various properties, a survey made by a man who thoroughly understands their business, and who can go to the prospective investors and say, "Here is so and so, known to exist through actual scientific investigation." There have been surveys, there have been borings, there have been tests of samples taken from many of these deposits, and there is no question but that perhaps hundreds of millions of tons of shale, carrying oil in quantities sufficient to pay very satisfactory profits, are lying in Albert County awaiting the investor who means to do business. There is not so far as The Standard can learn, any one property which has been thoroughly and accurately surveyed and of which the owners can say, "We have so many tons, we have so many beds of shale bearing thirty gallons, forty gallons or fifty gallons of oil to the ton, the shale at five hundred feet carries so many gallons to the ton, at one thousand feet so many."

Proper Survey is Needed
The one method absolutely necessary to place these properties properly before commercial investors, is a true and accurate report made by a man who knows his business, who is given a sufficient amount of money and sufficient help to carry on work, and if this were once done and the true facts made known, there is not the least question but that the Albert shales be recognized as one of the greatest and most valuable mineral deposits in all America. Perhaps the various owners through whose hands these properties have passed, have not deemed it wise to spend the necessary amount in securing such accurate and detailed knowledge, and maybe they have depended wholly on the reports of engineers who after glancing over the deposits feel that they are justified in saying that everything is lovely, and that it will pay well. Perhaps came interested and started out to find where this coal, as they presumed it to be, came from. They followed up the brook finding fragments here and there, until in the vicinity of Steeves's mill on John Steeves property they came to an eight foot outcrop.

THE MAIN DUMP CREATED DURING OPERATIONS IN MINING ALBERTITE—THERE ARE PERHAPS EIGHT HUNDRED THOUSAND TONS OF SHALES, RICH IN OIL, IN THIS DUMP, WHICH CONTAINS ALSO MUCH ALBERTITE TOO SCATTERED TO BE OF VALUE.

Dr. Gesner Claimed It
Now Dr. Abraham Gesner a native of Halifax and one of the ablest geologists Canada has ever produced, had been prospecting in this vicinity for some time. He knew considerable about oil shales and similar formations and he too located this jet black shiny mineral easy of ignition on the value. Dr. Gesner's claim was that the mineral was not a true coal and therefore was exempt from the Crown Lands regulations applicable to that mineral. In this he was supported by Dr. James Robb, of the University of New Brunswick, and by R. C. Taylor, a chemist of Philadelphia. William Cairns representing the company contended that the mineral was a true coal and as such was subject to the regulations then in force by the New Brunswick Government.

Social Notes of the Week

This has been a gala week amongst the younger folk at least. Outings of all kinds have been indulged in. On Wednesday the Bishop's picnic took place, the day was an ideal one and it was a fine sight to see the hundreds of small boys and girls with their happy faces marching down King street on their way to the station where they embarked for the picnic grounds at Torriburn. Everybody pronounced the picnic the "best yet", which indeed spoke volumes. Meetings this week have been held by the united Chapters Daughters of the Empire and it has been decided to hold a fair and auction for a whole week—the first week in October. It will be made a provincial affair, and its object will be to raise funds to swell the Patriotic Fund. As in the past there is not a doubt but that will be a grand success if undertaken with the co-operation of our generous citizens. The engagement has been announced of Miss Kathleen Fawcett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Fawcett, Sackville, to Mr. Maurice Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Shives Fisher of this city. Miss Jane Rainsford (Boston), is the guest of Miss Frances Tibbitts, Cranston Avenue. Mrs. (Dr.) Currie and son, Mr. Bayard Currie (Boston), arrived in the city on Thursday on a short visit. By-Products are Valuable The result of distillation of shales in retorts are, permanent gas which is used as fuel in carrying on work, crude oil which is pumped into tanks and then refined, naphtha which is recovered by the scrubbing process, and ammonia water which is distilled for the manufacture of sulphate of ammonia. A modern plant capable of producing the best results from New Brunswick shales will cost perhaps one and three quarter millions of dollars, but in view of the success which has attended this industry in Scotland, and keeping in mind the fact that there comparatively small deposits are operated while in New Brunswick the deposits are all immense and of high quality, much higher in certain respects than Scottish shales, it is only reasonable to suppose that Albert County shales as a whole would be sufficient to justify the investment in operation, of a successful business proposition, of a number of distilling plants. The fuel is on the ground, shipping facilities are all that can be desired, there is abundance of water, and there is enough ore in sight ready to be shovelled in the retort, to keep a modern distillery operating to full capacity for the next generation without digging a foot underground. It is but fair to say that a good deal of money has been spent at various times in investigating these properties, that a Scotch engineer, Mr. James Caldwell, who is described by the residents of Hillsboro as the only man who knew anything about shales, and who has ever gone to work on these properties down in Albert County, spent a few months ago, and now there is some talk of action being taken by him for breach of contract. The whole oil shale history of Albert seems to be so complicated that it is hard to get at the bottom of it, but that does not interfere in any way with the truth that these deposits are immensely rich, and so vastly extended, that their value cannot readily be appreciated, and that if properly worked they would indeed become some day the greatest industry in New Brunswick.

Reliable Recipes

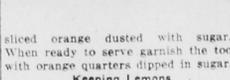

Invalid's Broth
Chop one-half each of carrot, beet leaves, chervil and purslane and two big heads of fresh lettuce. Put them in a saucepan and over them pour a cupful of boiling water. Bring again to boiling point, cover, remove from fire and stand aside for 25 minutes. Add two ounces of butter and salt to taste, strain, and serve very hot.

Berry Shortcake
Strawberries, raspberries, or black berries may be used. Take one quart of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one pint of milk. Sift flour, salt and baking powder together, then rub in butter thoroughly and put in enough milk to make a dough easy to handle. Divide in half and roll out each part pie-pan size; spread butter on top and a light sprinkling of flour, and then put the two round pieces of dough together and bake on a buttered tin plate. Have ready a pint of berries picked over and well washed and sprinkled with powdered sugar a half hour before needed. Divide the pastry without breaking the disks and put the berries between, serving the shortcake hot.

Currant and Cherry Preserve
Put three quarts of stemmed and washed currants in the preserving kettle and cook until the juice begins to exude. Crust and strain through cheesecloth to get all the juice. Have ready twelve quarts of cherries, pitted, and put into the preserving kettle with the juice of the currants and eight pounds of sugar. Heat slowly to the boiling point, skim and simmer fifteen minutes or until the jars or glasses and seal. If more acid is desired half the quantity of sugar may be used.

Currant Jelly Without Cooking
Wash, mesh without stemming and strain through a sterilized cloth. Weigh the juice and to each pound add a pound of sugar. Mix together, stirring until the sugar is dissolved, place in glasses and stand in a window where the hot sun may strike them for at least five days. Cover and set in a cool, dark place.

Orange Omelet
Add three tablespoonfuls of orange juice and two tablespoonfuls of sugar to three well beaten eggs, fry the omelet in the usual way and place in the center before folding one third.

be removed first with a sharp knife, a piece of the breast being attached to each wing.

Next cut the breast into thin slices. Then remove the side bones, and, if necessary to serve the back, divide it into two portions. Divide the legs at the joint before serving.

Silver Pudding
Dissolve one ounce gelatin in a cupful of water over the fire, add half pound sugar. When cold, pour into a deep basin, and add the juice of two lemons and whites of two eggs. Whisk all until it is stiff and white. Pour into a mould to set.

When trimming a pineapple for jam or candying, drop the peeler into warm water for about five minutes. Drain and put into sauce pan with cold water enough to cover. Simmer for one half hour. Strain through thin cloth and add one cup of sugar to two cups of water and boil until it is as thick as cream. Cool and bottle.

This is fine for mudding sauces and adds any fine drink will improve its flavor.

Five Ways to Stop a Cold
First—Bathe the feet in hot water and drink a pint of lemonade, then sponge with salt water and remain in a warm room.

Second—Bathe the face in very hot water, every five minutes for an hour. Third—Snuff up the nostrils hot salt water every three hours.

Fifth—Take four hours exercise in the open air. A ten grain of quinine will usually break up a cold in the beginning. Anything that will set the blood actively in circulation will do it. But better than all, if your cold is inveterate, or serious, consult your family doctor at once.

To Remove Tomato Seeds
Take the tomatoes from the can and wash well; put on fire and let boil. Remove from fire and add a little cold water. Let set a few minutes and then pour into another vessel; all the seeds will have settled to the bottom.

Cold Currant Jam
Wash, stem and look over carefully. Crush by putting in a press or through a food chopper, then add a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Have ready sterilized cans with new seals. Seed rubbers and tops that fit perfectly. Test to be sure they are air tight by filling with water, adjusting the rubbers, and screwing as tight as possible. Invert and note if any water escapes. If not, fill with the prepared fruit, seal tightly and keep in a cool, dark place.

Rub salt over griddle and it will not smoke. Add a pinch of salt to starch to keep the irons from sticking.

In making fruit pies, when they boil over, sprinkle salt in oven and it will not smell.

Bedtime Stories For the Children.

MARY CAW CAW AND BILLY BUSHYTAIL.

By HOWARD R. GARIS
(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Johnnie Bushytail, the little squirrel boy, came home, after having spent a day visiting at the hollow stump bungalow of Uncle Wiggly (the rabbit gentleman who lives on the crook-and-land) Johnnie was visiting in his brother Billie's house. "Oh, I did have such a good time!" "What did you do?" asked Billie, looking for a hickory nut to play with.

"Well, I fell in Uncle Wiggly's make believe ocean," answered Johnnie. "I had a grand time, and I might have drowned, only Jimmie Caw-Caw, the crow boy, bit holes in the box and let the water run out," answered Johnnie. "I don't call that a very good time," spoke Billie. "Falling in salt water and nearly drowning? Huh! I guess not."

"Oh, that was only the beginning," Johnnie explained. "It was after that I had the fun."
"I wish I could go to where Uncle Wiggly is staying, and have a good time. May I, mother?" asked Billie.
"Why, yes, I think so," replied Mrs. Bushytail. "If Johnnie went you may go also. Tomorrow will be our turn. But don't fall in anything, Billie."
"I won't," promised the little squirrel boy, and then he felt so polly that he made his tail go up and down, just like a jumping-jack on a Christmas tree.

"And when you come back the next day well both go together and visit Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy," said Johnnie joyfully.
"Yes, indeed!" chimed in Billie bubblingly.
"Oh, I don't know about that!" said Mrs. Bushytail. "Uncle Wiggly and Nurse Jane won't want you two squirrel boys bothering them all the while. But Billie may go tomorrow."

So the next day Billie went. That is, he started for crook-land, where Uncle Wiggly was paying a visit near the Caw-Caw family, but something happened before the squirrel boy really got there.
Johnnie had told his brother which road to take, how to jump from the top of one tree into the top of another, how to run along the broad limbs and leap here there from hickory nut trees to elms and beeches and pines.

"And," said Johnnie, "when you come to the tall pine tree, in that is the nesthouse of the Caw-Caw family, and at the foot of that tree is Uncle Wiggly's bungalow."
"I'll find it," said Billie.
Off he started, but he had not gone very far before he became lost. He must have jumped out of the wrong tree. He searched all over, but he could not find Uncle Wiggly's hungry. He asked a crow, but the crow said he didn't know. He asked a squirrel, but the squirrel said he didn't know. He asked a rabbit, but the rabbit said he didn't know. He asked a bear, but the bear said he didn't know. He asked a fox, but the fox said he didn't know. He asked a wolf, but the wolf said he didn't know. He asked a pig, but the pig said he didn't know. He asked a cow, but the cow said he didn't know. He asked a horse, but the horse said he didn't know. He asked a sheep, but the sheep said he didn't know. He asked a goat, but the goat said he didn't know. He asked a chicken, but the chicken said he didn't know. He asked a duck, but the duck said he didn't know. He asked a turkey, but the turkey said he didn't know. He asked a pig, but the pig said he didn't know. He asked a cow, but the cow said he didn't know. He asked a horse, but the horse said he didn't know. He asked a sheep, but the sheep said he didn't know. He asked a goat, but the goat said he didn't know. He asked a chicken, but the chicken said he didn't know. He asked a duck, but the duck said he didn't know. He asked a turkey, but the turkey said he didn't know.

Uncle Dick's Chat With the Children

My Dear Nephews and Nieces—
I have received a number of letters from you during the past week, asking where the Jumbo picture was, I am afraid some of you have not read the contest instructions which have been appearing each day, as in some I give particulars of another kind of drawing competition. I want you to try and draw Jumbo yourselves, and then each winner's picture will be published in the Corner. Now go ahead and let me see what you can do.

A few of you have suggested to me that a weekly contest hardly gives some of you time to get the paper, do the work, and then mail to me, so I have decided to let you have two weeks in future, in which to try for the prizes. I am glad so many of you are entering for the sewing contest, but I trust ere the competition closes, I shall receive a large number more to be handed to the Red Cross Society. I am going to award two splendid story books in the contest, which will be well worth trying hard for.

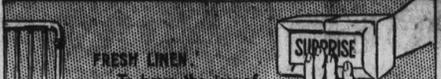

I should like to draw your attention this week to page sixteen, which you will notice is devoted to a full description of the Boy Scout Camp which was held at Chipman, N. B., as I am sure a large number of my nephews would like to join such a splendid organization. If you write to the Scout Editor, he will be glad to let you have any information you may require.

With best wishes to all my kiddies

Uncle Dick

Rev. Thomas Harrison, of St. George's, N. B., has been appointed chaplain to the 6th Battalion.

Rev. W. J. Fowler, of Westmount, P. Q., formerly of South Richmond, N. B., is visiting in the province. He will conduct services tomorrow in St. Paul's Church, Woodstock.

Rev. S. John Pligie, of St. Andrews Church, Sydney, N. S., who went over to England as chaplain to the First Canadian Expeditionary Force, is now "somewhere in France" as chaplain of the First Brigade of the First Canadian Contingent. S. Pligie was the only Presbyterian chaplain at Shorncliffe, England, during the winter months.

Rev. Capt. C. W. Gordon (Ralph Connor) who went over to England in June as Chaplain to the 43rd Infantry Battalion, returned to Canada a fortnight ago, accompanying his brother, Lt. Col. A. R. Gordon, who has been given three months' leave. Rev. Capt. Gordon sailed at once for England after seeing his brother safely invalided home.

Rev. J. C. Robertson, of Toronto, General Secretary of the Board of Sabbath Schools, and Young People's Societies is on the staff of instructors at the Summer School being held at Berwick, N. S., Aug. 12-19. Revs. C. A. Myers and S. A. J. W. Myers, of the same board, are among the instructors at similar school being held at Geneva Park, Lake Umbagog, Ont., Aug. 16-23. All three of these are Maritime Province men. Mr. Robertson's home being Salina, N. B., the Messrs. Myers coming from Prince Edward Island.

Rev. Gordon Dickie is again at his post in St. John, after a July vacation in his native province of Nova Scotia. During the month of August, he will conduct united services in St. Andrews and St. Stephen's Churches. Mr. and Mrs. Dickie are taking up a new residence on Mount Pleasant.

First Presbyterian Church, St. John, West, has been ministered to for a few Sabbaths by Prof. W. C. Kierstead, of the University of New Brunswick, during the absence of the pastor S. J. A. Morison on his vacation.

Rev. E. B. Whyllie, of St. Stephen, N. B., and Rev. D. McGuire, of McAdam Junction, have been among the adult leaders in the charge of the Boy Scouts' Summer Camp, which has been held for the past two weeks in the vicinity of Chipman. About 165 boys have been in attendance from various parts of the province, including St. John, St. Stephen, Fredericton, Grand Falls, Norton, Newcastle, and Chipman. Mr. McGuire is the provincial field secretary and organizer for the Boy Scouts' Association.

The Board of management of Manitoba College, has offered the principalship of the college to Robert Whyllie, D.D., of Knox College, Toronto. Mr. S. Law is not only a successful college professor, but is also reputed to be one of the very best preachers in Canada.

"Best Little Book on the War"

In such times as these, does the Presbyterian Witness speak of "The German Tragedy and its meaning for Canada," a book recently issued from the University of Toronto Press, written by President Falconer, formerly Principal of Halifax Presbyterian College. The Witness says, "It is a book which every Canadian should read, who would understand the significance of a war which has shocked the world. Written by a broad-minded and judicious scholar and observer, who possesses an intimate knowledge of Germany. The book is a convincing arraignment of Prussian militarism, and an unanswerable indication of the great cause for which the Empire is fighting."

Death of Principal Springer

The sudden death of the late Principal Springer has caused mourning throughout the Presbyterian Church in Canada. His decease occurred at his summer home in Bic, Que. In his usual good health he conducted a service in commemoration of the outbreak of the war, on Wednesday, Aug. 4. On Friday evening following, after only a few hours illness, from which no serious consequences were feared, he passed away, death being due to heart failure. His family surviving are his widow, two daughters, living in Montreal, and two sons, Capt. Francis Springer, serving at the front, and recently honored with the V. C. medal, and Rev. John Springer, of Melrose, Scotland.

S. Springer was born in Gaul, Ont., in 1849. He was educated at the University of Toronto, and Knox College, graduating from the latter, in 1873. Ordained to the ministry in the same year he was inducted to the pastorate of Calvin Church, Montreal, which he held for nine years until he was appointed professor of Theology in Montreal Presbyterian College in 1882. To this honor and responsibility was added his appointment to the Principalship in 1904, to fill the vacancy created by the lamented death of the late Principal MacVicar, father of S. J. H. MacVicar recently minister of St. Andrews Church, St. John. Dr. Springer proved himself worthy of the confidence reposed in him by the church. Taking high rank both in scholarship and in executive ability, he was among the leaders in the organization of the present co-operative arrangement between the several theological colleges affiliated with McGill University. He was a warm supporter of the cause of Church Union, and was on several occasions representative of the Canadian Church at the meetings of the Par Presbyterian Alliance, giving an address before that body at its last meeting in Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1913.

His funeral was held in Montreal, on Tuesday, August 10th, service being conducted in the David Morrice Congregation Hall, of the Presbyterian College, by Prof. E. Welsh, moderator of the Montreal Presbytery. At this service an address was given by Prof. D. J. Fraser, formerly of St. Stephen's Church, St. John, now the senior professor of the college. The head of all the other denominational colleges also took part in the service.

Rev. S. J. H. MacVicar to China in September.

In a letter received recently from Rev. J. H. MacVicar, D.D., late of St. Andrews Church, St. John, we learn that he is soon to leave for the mission field of the Presbyterian Church in Honan, China. Since leaving St. John in March last, S. MacVicar has spent the greater part of his time at P. Q. He has been preaching in many of the churches in Montreal and elsewhere nearly every Sabbath since.

While on week days he has been faithfully applying himself to perfecting his knowledge of the Chinese language. At the close of an address on a recent Sabbath evening to the Chinese congregation in Montreal, a Chinese boy of twelve years of age stepped to the front and in good English made a speech of farewell to him, and in the name of the Chinese Christian Association of the city, presented him with a very handsome Revised Mandarin Bible.

Dr. MacVicar will leave Montreal, Aug. 16, for a brief visit to Toronto and will preach in his former congregation, Melville Church, Ferguson Ont., which has always had a reputation for its missionary spirit, on Sunday, August 22. This will probably be his last sermon in Canada before leaving for China, as he will take passage on the Pacific Mail Steamer "Persic," which will leave from San Francisco on Sept. 11. Other Canadian missionaries sailing by the same steamer, include Rev. J. and Mrs. Griffith, Rev. J. H. and Mrs. Bruce, Miss Ada Ross and S. Isabelle McTavish all going to Honan and Miss Annes Dudgeon for Formosa. His many friends in St. John and the Maritime Provinces will wish him Godspeed as he leaves for his far-away field of labor.

Not a German Spy

The "Baptist Times" Table Talk has the following paragraph: "Mr. R. Klieckmann had a rather amusing experience the other day. As he was not able to attend the annual meetings of the Dutch Baptist Union in person, he sent a telegram message—Romans xii. 5."

The following morning a messenger appeared from the post office to say that the censor was holding up the message and assuring him by special telegrams that it was not a German spy using the Apostle as a cloak for revelation as to the whereabouts of the British fleet.

METHODIST

The editor of The Christian Guardian, Toronto, Ontario, (Rev. W. B. Creighton, D.D.) would like the name and address of every Methodist minister of our church who has one or more sons either at the front, in training in England or Canada for active service, the names of such sons, their rank, the arm of the service, with which they are connected, their Battalion, and the full statement of particulars in the case of any casualties. It is important this list should be accurate.

On Tuesday, August 10th the Methodist of Australia celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the arrival of the first Methodist Missionary on that continent. The exercises will be on Sunday 8th, with a meeting for prayer and fellowship in all the churches at seven o'clock a. m. The evening service in all the churches to be preceded by a prayer-meeting, opened by the singing of the hymn, "See How Great a Flame Aspires."

On Tuesday the exercises are to take the form of an old-fashioned tea-meeting, and Methodist family gathering, held in some central place in each circuit, special offerings to be taken either for local or continental purposes.

The "Men's Union" of Newcastle, N. B., which includes ministers and men of all the churches are doing good work for the suppression of the liquor traffic in that town.

Some day we shall have a wonderful book of great interest, when Rev. H. Raley completes the task assigned him by the British Columbia Conference in collecting the legends, stories, and facts relating to the native people of that province. As principal of the Comox Valley Church, he has peculiar qualifications for the work.

The Rev. W. J. Clements of Duffield, Alta., formerly of the N. B. and P. E. Island Conference, gives some very interesting facts concerning the Indians and the work of his Mission in the Christian Guardian in his Mission here and in P. E. Island.

Sir Robert W. Parks presiding at the London Mission, said that Methodism offered the whole organized strength of its officers and people to the nation in war time, and also the Methodists in the British Dominions over the seas. These are not the times for eight hour days, but for double shifts.

They did not want personal quarters and backbiting were a short speech flashing with wit, epigram and pathos expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him. There are no dull moments when he speaks.

Chaplain Rev. C. Roberts with Camp Aldershot, England, says, that the Army is the cleanest ever seen, but it is still necessary to deal with the drink evil. Some predicted chances that will come after the war, made by a Chaplain are more than plausible. After the War, young people will be more ready to marry on small incomes, even at the price of some financial anxiety. The old demand for security and settlements will vanish. Large families will again come into fashion. Women will have to be admitted to the full rights of citizenship.

Here are some of the items asked for by the Anti-Saloon League of the United States. Modification of Civil Service Laws to permit Government employees to take part in local option and prohibition campaigns; barring intoxicating liquors from inter State commerce; barring newspapers and periodicals containing liquor ads from the mail; the submission of a national prohibition amendment to the people.

This may shock and surprise whisky folk, who may think these proposals unfeasible and unreasonable. Yet many of them will come. We must risk large things and insist on having them. We have lost by not hitting hard enough.

BAPTIST

From Rev. Dr. J. H. MacDonald

The following is from an interesting letter: "The Maritime Baptist by Dr. J. H. MacDonald, of the Division Ammunition Column, Second Canadian Division, Otterpool, Kent, England: "From what I can gather it is not at all likely there will be any effective offensive movement on the part of the Allies till a general advance will be made all along the line. When that time will come nobody whose opinions are of any value will venture even a conjecture. An officer fresh from the front, who has been all through the thirty-seven miles of British lines, reminded me that the importance of the British and Colonial defence is not to be measured by the distance covered. We are, he said, defending an area which the Germans are most determined to break through. It is a vertical Pass of Theropylae. The French have done nobly along a much more extended front, but the British and Colonial troops are just now bearing the brunt of it. He also informed me that it is the opinion of the military experts that the Kaiser is not desirous of reaching Calais and Dunkirk in order to make that section of France a base of attack upon England, but rather for the moral effect which such a conquest would carry with it. He would in the event of such a victory be able, with some show of honor, to sue for peace. Those who know best the defence in Flanders, however, are strong in the belief that the Kaiser's lessons will not break through."

Sir Robertson Nicol published a striking leader on "The Claims and Rights of Women." It was occasioned by the women's procession the previous week, and its leading thought was that the time had come for men to revise their whole attitude towards women. The world has changed during the last few years, and it is no use shutting our eyes to the facts of life and persisting in thinking, talking and acting, as if we were still living in a vanished past. For food or ill, for good as we believe, women have come out from the sheltered life and have taken their place by man's side in the world's work. And though their opportunities are still limited, they have already shown that they are fitted to be his comrades, and to take an equal share with him in the responsibilities and duties of life as a whole. We read Sir Robertson Nicol's article with the warmest sympathy and approval, and we fully agree with him that it is time for men graciously, manfully and, shall we say respectfully, to recognize what has happened and is happening.

SHARP ATTACK

REPULSED

Dangerous Condition Relieved Just in Time by "Fruit-atives"

MR. F. J. CAVEEN

632 Gerrard St. East, Toronto.

For two years, I was a victim of Acute Indigestion and Gas in the Stomach. It afterwards attacked my Heart, and I had pains all over the body, so I could hardly move around. I tried all kinds of medicines but none of them did me any good. At last, acting on the advice of a friend, I decided to try "Fruit-atives." I bought the first box last June and now I am well, after using only three boxes. I recommend "Fruit-atives" to anyone suffering from Indigestion, no matter how acute.

Simple Indigestion often leads to Heart Attacks, Catarrh of the Stomach and constant distress of mind and body. If you are bothered with any Stomach Trouble, and especially if constipation troubles you, take "Fruit-atives."

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-atives Limited, Ottawa.

STRUCK BY

TRAIN, HURLED INTO RIVER

Newcastle man, painting S. W. Miramichi bridge, knocked into water and drowned.

Newcastle, N.B., Aug. 13.—(Special)—Ergert Mueller, while sitting too low on a seat viewing from the top of the Southwest Miramichi railway bridge, which he was painting this afternoon, was struck by the south bound Limited and hurled into the water and drowned. Deceased came here many years ago from England, was a sergeant in the Brighton Army, about fifty years old and unmarried.

John Robinson's auto, containing himself, a Whitney boy, eleven years old, the latter's sister, Mrs. Mann of Chatham and her little child, went over a bridge into a ditch thirty feet below this afternoon a short distance above Redbank about sixteen miles from here. All the occupants were badly hurt. The older three sustained broken ribs and many cuts and bruises, narrowly escaping death. Mr. Robinson, who is manager for Arthur Robinson, the American millionaire, who has a villa at Holmes Lake, drove the car himself. It skidded on the bridge and was over before it could be stopped.

PARTY TO 1,000 WOUNDED. About a thousand wounded officers and soldiers who are now recuperating at Hove and Brighton Army, about yesterday at a garden party given by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Baron, at St. Ann's Well Gardens, Hove.

Invitations were sent out to all the wounded in the district. All the men who could be moved were taken to the ground in chrys-buses; others shared in the day's enjoyment to the extent of receiving liberal gifts of cigarettes and chocolates.

Mr. Baron is the chairman and manager of the Hove and Brighton Army, who have given about three million "Black Cat" Cigarettes for the use of the troops at the front. In the last half-million 150,000 were specially marked "For the Canadians."

NEWS IN THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

STUDEBAKER SIX HILL CLIMBER

New Model performs in remarkable manner in severest kind of try-outs.

A 1916 six cylinder Studebaker holds the remarkable record of climbing the steep incline of Boston's Corey Hill in high gear. Just to show that it was not merely a one time or lucky feat, the car was made to repeat the test, performing with the same ease as marked the first ascent. This was but one of a series of difficult performances shown by the car in one afternoon, without its having undergone any preparatory adjustment.

The insistent demand on the part of automobile buyers for increased power coming with the more extended use of automobiles for touring purposes, has been met by Studebaker in the new models, as the Boston and reports of other tests made over the country can be considered to conclusively show. Not only in hill climbing, but in negotiating rough and rain soaked roads have the new Studebakers realized the ideals of the designer, and the successful demonstrations are pronounced by witnesses as speaking volumes for the car's ability. Other performances sharing honors with that at Boston took place on Lookout and Signal Mountains near Chattanooga, Tenn., on the mountain roads out of Portland, Ore., where the Studebaker simply ran away from other cars attempting the same trying out, and in Edward Scampton's "sealed hood" drive from the Detroit factories to Baltimore.

J. E. Donovan made the Boston test. The Studebaker with five passengers was driven out over Commonwealth Avenue and up the sharp hill which marks that thoroughfare. Halfway up the incline it was brought to a full stop. From a rolling start, in high gear, the Studebaker moved forward when the clutch was applied, finishing at the top of the hill traveling in same gear. This in itself was an exceptional feat, but there was in store another opportunity for proving power ability. Mounting Corey Hill from the rear, still in another gear, the car came back to Beacon street. This attempt was to be so severe a test that as a matter of fairness—even though only a machine and not a thing of life—one passenger was dropped, but the gear shifting lever was left unchangeable. Sturdily the car moved forward at good speed, so that at halfway the climb the speedometer registered a pace of 27 miles an hour, but at three quarters it was slowed down to 25. Despite the pull, due to grade and weight at cargo, at the top the car was running twenty miles an hour, the lowest point recorded at any time in the Corey Hill performance.

Lookout and Signal mountains, given fame by the memorable struggle of November, 1863, were travelled for the entire route in high gear by one of the new six cylinder Studebakers driven by Chattanooga parties. When it is known that Lookout mountain attains an elevation of 2,126 feet, the wonderful performance of the car is the more appreciated, the trip being made with perfect ease, according to the participants.

At Portland the "try-out" included every hill which it is the demonstrators' joy—or despair—to mount. King's Heights, the final testing place, was taken without extended effort on the part of the motor at 25 miles an hour, no shift from high gear being necessary. The car carried six passengers at the time and despite sharp curves, the motor actually "picked up" speed during the performance. The Ford street grade in Portland also proved easy for the newest Studebaker. W. C. Carbe, of that city, said following the tests, that without wishing it to sound like vain glorious boasting: "It seems that the Studebaker announcement, backed now by actual performance, has thrown a life sized bomb into the automobile world."

Those who have driven the new Studebakers are of one voice in declaring they have never held a steering wheel over a car showing the power of the new Studebaker. Six Robert McGraw, of Bellaire and William McConaughy, of Bridgeport, O., drove one from Cleveland to Bellaire. Notwithstanding the intense heat of the day and that heavy rains had put the water in the radiator was not replenished, nor was extra gasoline required for the trip.

Edward Scampton, in his "sealed hood" drive encountered rain along the entire route. At times, he states, the car sank to the hubs in mire, and then only was the gear shifted from high to second. On a hill locally known as Mountain Goat Run, just out of Lisbon, O., second speed was again used, but later on for five miles up over a mountain out of Uniontown, Pa., the car climbed on high. This hill is regularly used for climbing tests, and Scampton declares the Studebaker mounted it steadily and rapidly, as he expresses it "without a whimper or falter." During the run Scampton placed in the car four quarts of water, a gallon of gasoline for every 12 miles covered, and on reaching Baltimore three quarts of oil refilled the reservoir.

MORE FLOOR SPACE—THE CRY OF MOTOR CAR AND ACCESSORY MANUFACTURERS

With the price coming down and values going up the demand for the modern motor car is exceeding even the hopes of the manufacturers themselves.

To fill orders production is increasing daily with the better known makers of cars and parts. This means more space and big building contracts. Some factories have been using tents as a make-shift while more substantial additions are being built.

One of the most phenomenal in the industry is that of the Willard Storage Battery Company of Cleveland. Their rapid rise has come about largely through the popular demand for electrically equipped cars. Large orders have meant a new factory site with ten new buildings. All of these are not yet completed, but as each is finished it is quickly occupied. The latest of these to be opened is a brick building 130 x 300 feet. When the plan is completed it will be one of the most uniformly handsome factory groups in the country.

REALTY MEN TURN CARS TO PROFIT

Among the competitors of street railway companies for "fares" in several cities have been found numerous real estate dealers, who recognize the opportunity for turning their business equipment to profit. A real estate dealer without an automobile in these days finds it hard sledding.

There is some advantage, other than in nickels, gained by the realty men who are in the transportation business. Quite often they find among their fares a prospective buyer, or get track of a deal that nets a goodly return. The Studebaker sales of station auto-wagons has reached the point where the buyers come to the factory to get the cars as built. Some of this style were sold recently for the operation of an interurban line out of Memphis.

NEW MODELS INTEREST PUBLIC

Automobile Sections of Newspapers vie for favor with other pages—Studebaker Announcement Excites Comment.

It is surprising how much interest is displayed by the general public in the plans of automobile manufacturers relative to new models. This has been very noticeably emphasized the past week by the comment the Studebaker announcement for 1916 has created in numerous cities. Word received from Studebaker branch house managers and dealers over the country is to one effect, that never before has such interest and enthusiasm been shown over new models. Indications are also said to point that the coming year will prove the greatest selling season in the history of the industry.

More than ever the automobile is being used for business purposes, for pleasure and recreation. Horse delivery is regarded as a luxury to a business of even ordinary size. The day seems to be approaching rapidly when every man with what may be considered a comfortable income will be the possessor of a motor car. These conditions help in creating a general public interest in what the manufacturers are doing. The effect of this interest is to develop the new buyers who make it possible for the quantity producer to lower his prices. A goodly portion of these readers of automobile advertisements may not be immediately concerned in the purchase of a car, but their interest indicates that the educational effect may some time produce results.

Each succeeding year has brought more exacting demands from the buyers of cars in way of greater serviceability. Recognizing the demand for more pulling power, Studebaker has enlarged the bore of the motors in the new models, and made other changes that now produce fifty horsepower in the six cylinder motors and forty in the four cylinder.

Another effort on the part of manufacturers has been to lengthen the life of cars. This is a feature to which Studebaker has also given close attention in the new models. Vibration has been greatly reduced and silence secured by increasing the rigidity of parts, following European engineering practice. The crankshaft has been made stiffer, for one thing, and made to revolve on larger ball bearings, while the motor bearings are bronze backed babbit. A rotary balance device at the Studebaker plants makes it possible to see that shafts are properly balanced at critical speeds.

All these improvements have the effect of reducing the wear on a car to the minimum, which naturally means for it greatly prolonged life. A person of sufficient wisdom to gather enough money to purchase a motor car may be reckoned upon as casting about for the greatest value when he buys. All of which make the automobile sections of this newspaper the more attractive to the average reader.

TWELVE INCHES IN FRENCH WAR ZONE MAKES A FORT

That is Why so Little Progress is Being Made by the Allies—During Last Six Months There Has Been Veritable Siege Warfare from North Sea to Swiss Mountains.

Paris, Aug. 7.—An explanation of why so little progress is being made in the French and Belgian war zones, so far as actual ground gaining is concerned, is afforded in a statement from unquestionable authority, in which the almost insurmountable difficulties of the present struggle are set forth. "During the last six months," says this authority, "from the North Sea to the Swiss mountains, there has been veritable siege warfare along the length of the broken line of trenches. In this warfare all strategic manoeuvres are absent, because manoeuvres are impossible on ground where every square metre is marked and swept by artillery fire. The only alternative is a frontal attack. Such an attack is smashed to pieces in one part or another against the formidable organization of defence in which all the resources of art and science have been employed by the two adversaries. In concrete subterranean works, armored and casemated, flanked with rapid fire guns and mortars, and linked to one another by marvellously concealed communicating trenches, which are protected by the fire of heavy batteries, dwell the infantry abundantly provided with rifles and hand grenades. To take possession of one of these works, it is first necessary to dismantle these trenches and destroy the material which they shelter. This is the artillery's task.

Vast Amount of Shells Needed
"No one before the war could have imagined the vast amount of shells required. Several thousand shells fired during a few hours on a restricted space announce an attack for which this preparation is being made. "But no matter how numerous the heavy guns or how well directed the fire, it often happens that the preparation has been insufficient. One or two rapid fire guns mow down the troops who climb from the trenches ready for the charge and after suffering heavy casualties the attacking party arrives at the first line of the trenches of the enemy. The opposing artillery with a literal war of fire effectively prevents any reinforcements from advancing to their support. They must fortify the captured trenches, being subjected while to a much more accurate bombardment, as the enemy knows the exact range of their former positions.

Offensive Too Costly and Demoralizing
Such offensive movements could not be multiplied nor prolonged indefinitely as much on account of the moral and physical effort which they demand of the men as on account of the losses which they involve. Neither can such offensives be improvised. Before attempting an attack, large quantities of material and projectiles must be gathered in one place, previously appointed by the commander, advanced fortifications dug and the ground minutely studied.

Marne Victory Stopped Invasion
"If, despite these difficulties, the French army renews an offensive at the price of a bloody sacrifice, it is with the conscientious mission of holding large enemy forces on the western front. By the Marne victory it stopped the invasion and ruined the first German plan, which was, first to shatter France and return then against Russia.

"By the victory of the Yser, with the aid of the allied armies closing the line of defenses, it effectively prevented the enemy from getting a foothold in Pas de Calais. "By continuous offensive actions from February to July in Champagne, the Artois and Arras, it demoralized approximately 2,000,000 men and captured an enormous amount of material. Without allowing the enemy an instant's respite, it forced the German general staff to utilize on the western front reserves in barracks and arsenals.

Wearing Down of Germans Real Goal
"It would be a serious mistake to measure our effort by the ground conquered. The demoralization and wearing down of the German army is the real goal.

"We have attained this goal, since it has been proved that during these six months the enemy has suffered heavy losses, and taking everything into consideration, he can only remove from our front eight per cent of his total effectives. "The great battles on the western front were fought in Champagne during the months of February and March; between the Meuse and the Moselle during the month of April, and in Artois during May and June. "In Champagne we have broken the enemy's defenses for a depth of from two to seven kilometres (from one and one-third to four and one-third miles), which repeated and heavy counter-attacks have not been able to recapture. Between four and five German army corps have suffered heavy losses, two regiments of the Guard being almost destroyed. On the captured ground nearly 2000 German dead were counted. We took 2000 prisoners, rapid fire guns and a large number of trench cannon. "Between the Meuse and the Moselle we now occupy the Eparges crater, which was very strongly fortified. There two Bavarian divisions, having received orders to hold out at all cost, left heaps of bodies.

"To this great success must be added the success in the Bois de Ally and the Bois LePetre, which the Germans call 'Bois de la Mort.'

"In Artois more than 8000 prisoners, cannon of all calibres, a hundred quick-firers and bomb-throwers fell into our hands.

Advance Along Six Miles Front
"Along a front of ten kilometres (more than six miles) we have advanced from two to four kilometres and captured the villages of Ablain-St. Nazaire, Carancy and Neuville-St. Vaast, transformed into fortresses by our adversaries, who brought up to stem our victorious offensive sixteen veteran divisions, one company being reduced to four men.

"Besides these three principal actions, operations of less importance permitted us to take at Toulvent twelve hundred metres of trenches and at Quenneviers twenty-five hundred metres.

"The capture of Vauquois, in the Artois, and Metzeral and Hartmanns Weller in the Ficht valley in Alsace, constituted brilliant victories for our troops. Judging from the desperate character of the fighting, the amount of munitions expended and the number of forces engaged those engagements were veritable battles. Their preparation and realization represent large sacrifices.

Life of Troops Continual Battle
"But even when no engagements take place the life of the troops in the trenches is a continual battle. The first line of infantry, only a few metres distant from the enemy, enjoys not a single minute of quietude; it is under the constant menace of grenades, bursting shrapnel, bombs from mine throwers; and there is continual fear of subterranean mines.

"The infantryman must remain continually on the alert—occasionally in the smoke of asphyxiating bombs—hold himself ready at every moment to repulse an attack, repair fortifications, remove obstructions that have fallen into the trenches and live in the continued presence of death. Such a life demands continual activity on the part of the officers, calmness on the part of the men, patience and bravery at all times.

"The French army has gained from its long sojourn in the trenches magnificent endurance; it has lost nothing of its eagerness and confidence. Its faith in the offensive remains intact; its morale is the admiration of those who command it. This morale is the best gauge of final victory, by which our territory will be liberated, Europe freed and peace re-established."

The Petit Journal states that no fewer than ninety communes which have been reconquered in Alsace are now being served by the French postal system.

FRANCE UNDER WAR CONDITIONS

At a meeting of a committee of the French Textile Association the question of compensation to the textile industries for injuries caused them as a result of the war was taken under discussion. These industries are for the most part located in the region where the actual tide of battle has flowed, and have consequently been heavy sufferers. In the judgment of the representatives of the various interests, the State could be held liable in full for all damage incurred to property, real or personal, in the districts which had virtually served as a buttress for the country at large. Despite the fact that they unanimously held this opinion, the members of the committee concluded that, as practical men desirous of obtaining effective action, it would be wise to submit their claims for damages on the basis of the intrinsic value of the property destroyed or carried away. The committee, moreover, asserted that any waiving of this compensation because of existing conditions would not only be a blow to the freedom of action of those who had suffered injuries, but also to the principle involved in the conception of the State as an insurer against the risks of war.

A revolution which in ordinary times says the Journal des Debats, would cause streams of ink to flow, is taking place in France almost unnoticed. As a result of the mobilization, women are superseding men as waiters in the restaurants, and are apparently giving efficient and satisfactory service. The paper, in commenting on this new state of affairs, suggests that this field is one in which women could be retained to advantage after the war, as their continuance in it would not mean the enlistment of Frenchmen from the positions which they held before going to the front, but merely the substituting of native women for foreign waiters, who had recently been employed in large numbers.

At a recent meeting of the French Academy of Medicine, M. Ginestous proposed certain modifications of the existing regulations in regard to the enlistment of men troubled with defects of vision. He called attention particularly to the fact that men who have the use of but a single eye are excellent shots if the sight of that eye is acute, and also stated that a much larger number of men suffering from nearsightedness and astigmatism could be enlisted if pains were taken to correct their faults of vision.

Most of the Paris theatres are doing half-time. The Theatre Sarah Bernhardt is the solitary exception. Mme. Bernhardt, who is still at Bordeaux, though quite well, has just put on a new piece, "La Vierge de Lutece," written in Alexandrine, by Auguste Villeroz, and as the heroine is St. Genevieve, patroness of the city of Paris, the play is quite d'actualité. There is a marked decrease in the number of patriotic performances, due, no doubt, to the weary prolongation of the war. Citizens are less fervent, and adopt quieter methods in their charities. The fact is the mind wants rest in anxious times such as these.

At the Odon and the Comedie Francaise they have wisely continued their classic repertoires with a selection from famous pieces of more modern date. Every time the bill is "Tartuffe" or "Le Jeu de l'Amour et du Hazard" or "Le Voyage de M. Perrichon," and others of the sort, the theatre is crowded, and people forget sad thoughts for a moment. The enormous inconvenience it entails to get back safely home, through the dark and abandoned thoroughfares of the great city at night, is proof that such relaxations supply a real need.

A medical correspondent who recently visited the French Government hospitals at Dieppe furnishes the following account of what he saw. The college and all the large hotels on the sea front, such as the Grand, the Meropole, the Paris, and the Beau Rivage, have been hurriedly transformed into hospitals, and contain between them some 1,200 wounded, and many more in the Dieppe Hospital. Some weeks ago there was a panic in Dieppe, as the Germans were expected to enter the town, which is a ville ouverte. At one o'clock at night Dr. Gaullard received instructions from headquarters to remove the whole of his wounded and the hospital equipment immediately by rail to Havre. Before morning they were all, some 400 in number, on the train. On arrival at Havre they received word to cross the Seine to Trouville, and on arrival there they were sent on to Deauville, where the Casino was rapidly prepared for their reception.

At the moment the largest number of cases are in the Collège de Dieppe, where some 250 beds are installed, 40 being occupied by wounded Germans, whose condition is much less favorable than that of the Allies, as they have all been left much longer on the battlefield, and apart from their wounds, which are more severe, they are described as very dirty when first received into hospital. Ordinary bullet wounds unless they have penetrated some vital organ, are not usually very serious; even if they have struck bone

Chloroform is only administered for major operations, and the probing and cutting down for the extraction of bullets is performed under the very partial anaesthesia of cocaine and adrenalin. Fresh batches of wounded arrive by train, always in the middle of the night. The surgeons go round from bed to bed, an infirmiere carrying a bowl to receive the bullets as they are removed, and the monotonous click of lead falling into the bowl continues until this receptacle is filled, when another takes its place.

BOY SCOUTS OF NEW BRUNSWICK SPEND TWO WEEKS UNDER CANVAS

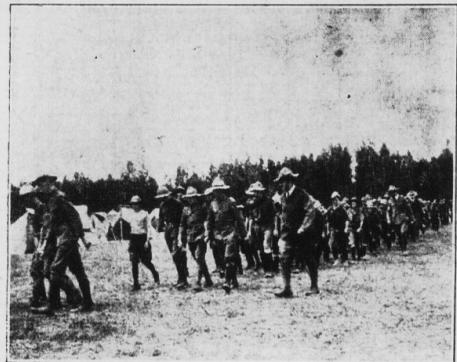

Chipman Instruction Camp for Boy Scouts a Great Success -- Officers and Boys All Satisfied With The Work Accomplished, and Healthy, Happy Time Have Had.

From Reveille to Lights Out

A sharp thrilling blast on the bugle sounded forth in the still morning air, followed a few minutes afterwards by the merry chatter of some hundred and fifty boys as they sprang from under their warm blankets into the bright sunshine of the early morning. The Boy Scouts of Chipman Instruction Camp thus start a happy daily routine full of interest, instruction, health giving exercise, and amusement. Some twenty minutes afterwards viz. 6.20 a.m. the boys all parade for parades, physical exercise, flag raising and orders.

A survey of the lines as they stand facing their officers reveals little as to where the boys have been gathered from, or what sort of home life they have left. They are all looking in the best of health, with full happy faces, and clear eyes, always on the alert, and ready to obey instantly. There are young sons of well to do, and prominent business men, standing shoulder to shoulder with those whose parents have not been blest greatly with this world's goods. No distinction, all standing on the common platform embodied in the Scout Law.

Breakfast follows at 6.45, and then one of the secrets of the splendid health of the camp is revealed. What boy could be weakly or sick, who is allowed to have as much as ever he wishes of beans, porridge, or flakes, which are the main courses in the first camp meal? Each boy takes the tin plate, mug, knife, and fork, which he has been using, down to the water-edge.

THE BOYS FREQUENTLY WENT FOR LONG MARCHES

One evening after a day full of incidents connected with the daily camp life the boys marched in to Chipman and back, a distance of seven miles, without one scout falling out.

and washes them with the aid of sand before putting them tidily away, to be ready for the next bugle call to the mess tent. Blankets are then thoroughly aired, and the tents tidied, in time for the morning parade, when a certain amount of instruction is given, and tent inspection. At 11 o'clock a lecture is then given by one of the officers, on such subjects as fire lighting, cooking, etc. This feature of the camp is worthy of special note, as it is at such times that the boys receive knowledge, that not only assists them to pass their different tests, but helps to fill them for the work they will afterward occupy in the business world, as men with an object in life, with clean bodies and minds.

As the sun rises to the central position in the heavens, the bugle notes calls the now hungry boys to the mess tent again. This is certainly a sight never to be forgotten. From all parts of the camp is seen Scout garbed figures dashing, with tin plate, mug, knife and fork in hand, to take their place in the lines.

Following an hour and a quarter's rest, and the afternoon parade, swimming is then indulged in. This is particularly interesting as not only are the boys taught how to swim, but every care is taken by the officers in charge, so that no accidents may take place. The boys are divided into two parties, those who can swim, and the others who have not mastered the art. With each group are two boys, Life Guards, and excellent swimmers who watch for any boy who may find himself in difficulties. Besides these two in the water, other two are stationed on the shore from which point they keep a careful lookout and are ready at once to dash to the rescue of any boy needing their aid. No boy, however, will be able to swim is allowed to go far from the shore. Two or more boys, however, may swim across the river if they are accompanied by a boat. Thus it will be noticed every care is taken so that none of the distressing drowning fatalities may mar the scene.

On the sounding of the whistle the boys all leave the water, and return to their tents, to dress in time for parade. At 5 p.m. the call to the mess tent is again sounded, and the happy Scouts then sit down to a most appetizing meal of beans, potatoes, tea or coffee, rolls, cakes, etc., which they enjoy to their hearts content. Athletic games are then indulged in, until the retreat sounds, and the boys gather around the camp fire. First post is given on the bugle at 9 p.m. followed fifteen minutes afterwards by the last post and prayers. By 9.30 the whole camp is absolutely quiet, all lights being out and the boys, tired out with their happy healthy day, snugly under the blankets.

Thus ends a day which has done much towards changing boys who are perhaps thin into strong strapping lads, and giving them a constitution upon which to build firm manly flesh in the years to come, with a mind that is not lying dormant, but alive with knowledge, and purpose.

Boy Scouts Have Great Time at Chipman

Few of the boys who were privileged to be among those who attended the splendid Instruction Camp for Boy Scouts at Chipman, N. B., will forget the two happy weeks they spent. Many of them coming, as they did, in much need of a real change after their hard work at the school exams soon put on flesh and a tanned skin as a result of the healthy open air life. All day long the camp rang with their merry laughter, except when they sat with interested, and intelligent faces, listening to the various instruction lectures given by their officers. Two things contributed largely to the great success of the camp, viz. The situation and the care of the arrangements exhibited.

The ground chosen for the camp could hardly have been better, stand-

THE OFFICERS IN CHARGE

Anyone who visited the Boy Scout Camp at Chipman must have been especially impressed with the high standard of the officers and scout masters. They were without exception men of ability and energy and particularly suited for the leadership of boys.

camp, and be responsible for all fatigue and camp discipline.

7. ORDERS. All detailed instructions for the day following will be posted each evening at retreat.

8. Lectures and conferences will be arranged.

9. A scout obeys orders under all circumstances. This is a scout law and all orders must be carried out for the benefit of all concerned.

Besides the above named officers, the following had charge of the various troops:

St. John Troop, S. M. Ingleton.

Grand Falls Troop, S. M. Wright.

Assis. S. M. Rev. Grabtree.

Chipman Troop, S. M. Hamilton and Assis. S. M. Turner.

Fredericton Troop, S. M. Prof. Stiles.

St. Stephens Troop, S. M. Rev. Whyte.

McAdam Troop, S. M. Rev. McGure.

Sackville Troop, P. L. Reid.

There were also boys from the Newcastle Troop.

During the camp a number of visitors from all parts came to see the boys, among them being Mayor Mitchell, of Fredericton, who gave them a stirring patriotic address. Mr. A. C. Skelton, of St. John, Dr. Hay, of Chipman, The Rev. F. H. Wentworth, of St. John, and Dr. and Mrs. Bridges, of Fredericton, also visited, and were high in their praise of the camp.

The religious side of the boys' life was also well looked after, as besides the usual daily prayers, the boys who had no religious objections were given a most interesting and instructive address on the Sundays.

Last Sunday the Rev. Whyte, of St. Stephens took up the subject of Patriotism, and referred to the Canadian various people, the result of which will be published in the scouts corner next Saturday.

On August the 4th, the first anniversary of the war, each scout master came up to Lt. Col. F. W. Wedderburn at the headquarters tent, shook him by the hand and declared their loyalty.

In the course of a chat with the Colonel, he told the writer of one or two incidents that caused much amusement. One little fellow, just after leaving the mess tent, and anxious to carry out an order he had just received, dashed up to the Colonel, and as he brought his hand smartly up to salute, said, "Colonel, would you mind looking after these?" handing him his tin plate and mug.

During a visit to the mess tent, whilst some six boys were scrubbing tables, the lads started to complain a little because they had been set to do the work as a punishment. The Colonel who is quite a tall gentleman, just remarked, "How would you like to scrub me?" upon which a smart scout at once replied, "Ladder and mop sir!"

High Standard of Scout Masters at Camp

Anyone who visited the Boy Scouts Camp at Chipman—as the writer did—must have been especially impressed with the high standard of the Scout Masters who were present. They were without exception men of ability and energy, and particularly suited for the leadership of boys, and from all appearances they were extremely well posted in Scout work. The successful lines the Camp is conducted, they would be glad to let their boys go, as the training, both in the matter of discipline and in Scout Law, cannot fail to be of benefit to any boy. The writer of this article, a resident of St. John, and one deeply interested in the Boy Scout movement, was disappointed to find that both in the matter of Scouts and Scout Masters, St. John was not better represented at the Camp this year.

The Boy Scouts to Aid Recruiting

The Boy Scouts Association, Canadian General Council, Ottawa.

Dear Sir—

His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, has been much gratified, as the Chief Scout of the Boy Scouts Association for Canada, to notice that Boy Scouts in various parts of the country are assisting the recruiting officers in connection with the enlistment of volunteers for service overseas, and I am directed to express the Chief Scout's earnest hope that Boy Scouts and their officers throughout the Dominion will cooperate with the recruiting authorities along these lines in whatever way their services may be made of value. In some localities there have already been Boy Scout parades on behalf of the recruiting cause, whilst elsewhere the lads are helping with messenger services and in other ways. The form of the Scouts' "good turn" to this patriotic cause may vary in different localities on account of local circumstances, but these are matters of easy arrange-of the Boy Scout movement depends almost entirely upon the class of Scout Master, and unless more men such as the above named, are willing to give up their time to the work, it will undoubtedly suffer.

The attendance at the Camp at Chipman was somewhat below expectations, and in this respect St. John was a disappointment. Troops from two of the St. John churches had already been under canvass at a camp of their own, which would account for at least twenty-five Scouts being absent, but there were other troops which, strange to say, did not supply a single boy. It is to be hoped that more St. John men will interest themselves in this Scout work, so that when the next Camp is held, the representation from St. John will be the largest, instead of the smallest, in proportion to the number of Scouts from any town in New Brunswick.

There is no reason why Boy Scouts should not attend such a Camp, and if their parents only realised on what ment, and any help which may be given in this way will be as much enjoyed by the lads themselves as it will be appreciated by the military authorities. Anything which is done by the Boy Scouts along the lines above indicated should in all cases be done only by arrangement with the local military authorities.

By Direction,

GERALD H. BROWN,

Hon. Dom. Secretary.

How to Run a Troop

First Week's Work

1. Arrange the boys in patrols, and allot positions in the clubroom. Each patrol should have its own section, and be expected to keep it clean and tidy. Dirt and disorder in a clubroom are a disgrace to the patrol of the troop.

2. Give a few words about the use of signs by Indians and others. Teach

Things Worth Knowing

How to Carry a Clock

In lifting and carrying a clock from one place to another, the pendulum, which most clocks have, being loose is liable to twist the connecting spring, as it is shaken during the transit. To prevent this the clock should be carried slanting backwards at the top, so that it causes the pendulum to rest against the back, and thus remain steady, thus keeping the spring safe from twisting. (Sent in by a Scoutmaster interested in the Scouts' Corner.)

The Thanks Badge

It is the privilege of any Scout, of whatever rank, to present the official Badge of Thanks to anyone who does a Scout a good turn. It entitles the wearer to make use of the services of any Scout at any time.

The Court of Honor

After each evening meeting there will be a Court of Honor for arranging the general work of the troop.

The Library

Each troop should have a small library. Each book will be numbered, and a list made, so that if, say, No. 24 is lost, you will know what book No. 24 is. The books should be borrowed on one night a week, and a definite time fixed as to how long a book can be kept.

A Wonderful Weapon

The Sikh warriors, who have been doing splendid work for the Motherland, wear on their turbans a wonderful weapon called a "chakkar."

It is somewhat like a quill in appearance, but has an edge as sharp as a razor (says "Things to Know About the War." By twirling it round his finger a Sikh can make the weapon fly in the air, revolving all the time, and inflicting terrible wounds on anyone

A Contest for Boy Scouts Valuable Scouting Book as Prize

Here is quite a new contest, and one in which I trust a great number of scouts will take part. Choose the name of any man who has become famous during the war, and make a sentence, the words of which commence with the letters in his name, in their correct order. Here is an example of what I mean: "Admiral Sturdee"—Seeing Troublesome Underwater Raiders, Drove Everyone Eastward.

I will give a valuable scouting book to the sender of what I consider the best sentence.

Send the scouts' contest coupon, correctly filled in, with your sentence, to Scout Editor, The Standard, St. John, N. B. All attempts must reach this office by August 19th, 1915.
