He also attacked the colonial system, declaring that France spent $16,000,000 annually on her colonies, and obtained nothing except an increase in exports, with a profit of perhaps $4,000,000. There was, in fact, no French colonization at all, but only a military occupation. THE KAISER'S INTOLERANCE.

At Saturday's session of the Prussian diet, Herr Richter, the Radical leader, attacked the ministers of the interior and public instruction, Count Poeadowski and Dr. Bosse, in regard to the disciplinary proceedings which they are about to institute against Prof. Delbreuck, of Berlin, for criticising recent expulsions from the empire Herr Righter deglared those measpire. Herr Richter declared those measures contrary to the convictions of the ministers, but due directly to the orders of the kaiser. Prof. Delbreuck formed intimate relations with Emperor William when the professor was tutor to the emperor's brother, Sigsmund, who died in 1897. The charge illustrates the emperor's intolerance of criticism, even when made with obviously friendly intentions, as in Delbrueck's case.

Serious Character of the Coming Crisis in France.

Both Sides of the Quesnay de Beaurepaire Feature of the Dreyfus

Case.

New York, Jan. 23.-The World prints today two interviews, giving both sides of the Quesnay de Beaurepaire feature of the Dreyfus affair. The item follows: orially Angio-French relations, hints Paris, Jan. 22.-The decision of the court of cassation in the Dreyfus case, to be made known in a couple of weeks, is likely to produce a crisis, ending in Athens, Jan. 23.-A strong seismic revolution. No event in the whole scandal has created a deeper impression than the resonation of Quesnay de Beaurepaire from the court of cassation. With the object of ascertaining views of the most prominent and active men on each side on Beaurepaire's conduct, and the general out-100k, the correspondent obtained signed statements from Francis de Pressense and Lucien Millevoye. Pressense is one of the ablest and most respected of French publicists. He is the editor of the Temps, the leading paper, who was removed from the Legion of Honor for his fearless advocacy of Dreyfus' case. He writes:

REASON FOR BEAUREPAIRE'S CONDUCT.

"The true reason for Beaurepaire's conduct is the most scandalous feature of the present deplorable crisis, is his irritation against the government on account of the humiliation it subjected him to ten months ago, when, at its instance, during the Panama business, he was brought before a meeting of the court of cassation,

"Probably, also, Beaurepaire will derive from the Echo de Paris better pay than he received from the court of cassation.

"Another reason given by friends anxious to excuse him is that he is suffering from incipient intellectual derangement.

"There is a plot on foot-not a military plot, but simply to discredit the court of cassation. They wish to prevent the judgment of acquittal, which would be a condemnation of the war

'That the result anticipated has not followed Beaurepaire's action was prov-ed by last Thursday's vote in the chamber, and today's, in rejecting Faure's demand for permission to interpellate on the trial of Picquart. "It is a great crisis. The whole forces of reaction are seeking under the mask of nationalism to defeat justice."

"A judgment decreeing Dreyfus's innocence will be accepted by public opinion when that opinion is informed of all the reasons on wnich it is based. I do not know what will be the judgment of the court of cassation, but from documents I and my friends have

"FRANCIS DE PRESSENSE." THE OTHER SIDE.

Lucien Millvoye is the most energetic of the extreme anti-Dreyfus agreators.

"Beaurepaire, a thorough patriot, resigned because he was indignant at seeing certain magistrates of the court of cassation making themselves instruments of an international and antinational campaign. His declarations have already produced a result by holding in suspense the decision of the criminal chamber.

"The resignation has profoundly moved opinion. The partiality of the court is evident, and a judgment rendered under such conditions will not be ratified by public conscience.

'If the criminal chamber remits the case to a new court-martial, France will wait that solution, but if it should dare to annul without remitting, the agitation will assume grave proportions among the people, and in the Big Spanish Flag Captured Froma Schooner in Havana Harbor.

LESSON IN MANNERS

New York, N. Y., Jan. 23.-A dispatch to the Herald from Havana says: Captain Eaton, of the auxiliary cruiser Resolute, captured a 20-foot Spanish flag in the harbor today, and incidentally taught 30 Spaniards a lesson in manners. At 10 o'clock this morning a Spanish schooner of about 70 tons sailed alongside the Resolute, where it hove to, and with a cheer of defiance from the men on board, an immense Spanish flag was run up to the masthead, with the Cuban flag beneath it. Captain Eaton was forced to recognize the insult, and ordered Naval Cadet Tarrant and Marine Officer Thorpe, with a file of marines, into a steam launch, which speedily overtook the Spaniards. The captain refused the order to lower the flag, whereupon the marines went aboard, and took forcible possession of the flag, leaving the Cuban flag flying at the masthead. The occupants of the schooner were then compelled to give three cheers for the Cuban and American flags, after which the vessel was allowed to proceed. The captured flag will be held as a prize.

RUN DOWN

Fatal Disaster in San Francisco Harbor-A Survivor of the Paul Jenes.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 23.—The naptha launch William D. was run down and sunk by the steam ferryboat Oakland in the bay yesterday. Two lives were lost. The dead are: J. Otis Wattles, marine engineer, son of a San Francisco broker; and Frank E. Orr, of this city. Wattles disappeared when the launch went down, and his body has not been recovered. The launch, when rur. down, was in search of a boat containing two men, supposed to have been drowned. These are William Seabury, son of Captain Seabury, of the Mail Steamship Company's Pacific steamer China, and Edward J. Finn, who started out last Friday on a hunting expedition. Later in the day the boat in which Seabury and Finn went hunting was found bottom up off Bed Rock, near the mouth of the Sacramento River, and it is believed both men have been drowned.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 23.-Rev. Edward H. Budd, who was thought to have been lost on the Paul Jones, is alive. The vessel was detained in Pass a L'Outre so long by foggy weather, that Mr. Budd grew impatient, and left the party, returning here. Mr. Jones, the owner of the yacht, has carefully examined all the wreckage found, and has come to the conclusior that the explosion theory is correct.

I was subject to night sweats and sleeplessness. My appetite had vanished; my stomach was disordered, and my blood had turned watery. Finally I was forced to take to bed, and recovery seemed almost an impossibility, as nothing the doctor did for me seemed to produce beneficial results. ### SPRING TRADE WELL STARTED

Big Business Being Done at Montreal and Other Trade Centers-Encouraging Outlook.

Bradstreet's weekly review of Can-Adian trade says: A large volume of business has been done at Montreal this week. The spring trade is now fairly started, and the prospects for considerable expansion as the season advances are very bright. The gradual stiffening of prices in in nearly all departments of trade is materially helping travelers to pile up orders, there being a general desire to get orders booked before prices have a further advance. ,

The reports of the outlook for business in the Northwest and the coast are very encouraging. Business remittances are very satisfactory. Business at Winnipeg has shown some signs | made. The number of picking up in spring lines this week. be increasing, and the six hospitals Quite a few inquiries have been made, | are full. The mounted police have doand the outlook for business is considered promising. The retail trade in seasonable goods has been affected somewhat lately by changeable weather, but the condition of the retail trade is generally healthy. The grain deliveries have not been heavy. Considerable freer movement in wheat to the country markets is expected next month, as there is still a great deal of grain in the farmers' hands, and much of it will doubtless be marketable before the close of the winter. Trade at Toronto has been much better in spring drygoods this week than at any time since the opening of the season. There is a very hopeful tone. All classes of goods are in better demand, and prices generally have been advanced. Grain deliverles are light, but there is scarcely any demand for export, and very little demand for Canadian millers.

The weather at the coast has been very cold the past two weeks, the temperature having dropped lower than for the past five years, and that has to some extent interfered with trade. Prices have quite an advance, provisions, especially, being dearer. The outlook for the coming season is very encouraging. An active demand for lumber for export has developed. The difficulties between the canners and the fishermen are in a fair way of being adjusted, and arrangements are being made by Canadians to engage in halibut fishing, which is very profitable. It is believed the coal output the coming season will be greater in British Columbia than in 1898, when it was the argest on record.

His men were drawn up in line, saluted, courtesies were exchanged and the Filipinos retired. The incident is significant, as it shows the tendency of the Filipinos to disregard pickets, knowing that the Americans are not willing to com-menace, and it was so demonstrated.

It is an old idea long since exploded that digestion is confined to the stomach. ## SHORT ROUTE

Reducing the Time Between Toronto and Liverpool to 5 1-2 Days.

Toronto, Jan. 23.-A remarkable plan for a fast Atlantic service is proposed here, and the attention of the Canadian Government is called to it. scheme involves a ferry service to Newfoundland, a Pullman car service across the big island colony, to a point within 1,500 miles of Ireland, and a steamship trip across the Atlantic of less than three days. By this route, it is asserted, passengers from Chicago and New York for Europe could be carried in Pullman cars, without change, to within 1,500 miles of Great Britain. The route has been favorably passed upon by railway and steamship authorities.

THE SARNIA CYCLISTS. There is a chance of Angus McLeod and Fred Loughead being team mates the coming season. Loughead will take another turn at racing, and this will likely be his last, whether he wins championship honors or not. With Mc-Leod and Loughead together, Canada will be represented in the world's championship by a pair of riders whom every Canadian may be proud of. They have proved that they are among the speediest on the continent. Loughead's great victories at Philadelphia, when he won two of the American championships a couple of years ago, stamped him as one of the fastest sprinters of America. McLeod, by his riding at Peterboro and Winnipeg, made a reputation that few men in the cycling world can boast of. Loughead is at present in Sarnia looking after his father's business. He says that he was never in ness. He says that he was never in better health, and weighs over 175 pounds. McLeod takes light exercise these days, and is 15 pounds heavier than a year ago. The pair will go south to train about the middle of March, returning about the Queen's Birthday. Whether Loughead and Mc-Leod are team mates or not, they will, if nothing should happen them, ride tandem together in the world's cham-pionships. This event they are both anxious to win.

THE CUE

SCHAEFER AND IVES. All hope of a match between Schaefer and Ives is past. Even the Chicagoan now recognizes its unlikelihood. As for Ives, he started last week for a winter's sleigh-ride in the Adirondacks, and trots on the ice in Canada, owners to drive. It is something gained for him to get away from Brighton Park and its dark, chill and deadly air. All should wish him well. It may be that he has never done much billiards, but what has billiards tried to do for itself in all his time?-Sporting Life.

Maggioli will soon join the colony of billiard players in Chicago and then Carter will not be missed, as the man with the Italian name is as famous a conversationalist as "You Know Me," who is now on a western tour with Schaefer.

KENT COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP. The annual bonspiel to decide the championship of Kent county was held at Chatham on Friday. Robert Ferguson, M.P.P., some years ago donated a cup which the winning club at these yearly contests holds until it is won by some other club. Chatham won at last year, but Thamesville, the original poss-ssors, won it back on Friday. Rinks from Tilbury, Thamesville and Ridgetown arrived early in the morning. In the first draw Chatham beat Ridgetown by 1 shot, and Thamesville beat Tilbury by 25 shots. This left Chatham to play off with Thamesville. Thamesville won by 1 shot. The result was:

FISTIC. SHARKEY FINED.

Thomas Sharkey, the pugilist, and his sparring partner, Robert Armstrong, were arraigned in the municipal court at Boston on Saturday, and fined $15 each for participating in an exhibition which the police maintain partook of the nature of a prize fight. pugilists have been performing at one of the theaters here this week.

FATAL RESULT OF A FIGHT. Tom Lansing, the heavy-weight pugilist, who was injured in a bout with Jack Root, in Chicago, about two months ago, died on Saturday at St. Mary's and Elizabeth's Hospital, at Louisville, Ky. For two weeks he has been unconscious, and it was known death was near. Lansing was knocked down by one of Root's terrific punches, and his head struck the floor with such violence that a clot formed on the brain. An operation was performed, but it was impossible to save his life.

THIRTY-ONE ROUNDS. Chicago, Jan. 23.—About 4,000 men and Hadi Adali, the "Sultan's Lion," saw 31 rounds of fighting at the Tattersalls Saturday night, including one clean knockout. Three eastern scrappers—Patsey Haley, or Buffalo, Joe Butler, and Charlie McKeever, of Philadelphia-were among the contestants, but did not land the long end of a purse. Patsey Haley, of Buffalo, and John Ritchie, opened the programme. These two men met last Monday, Haley losing in the fourth round on a foul. Saturday's bout was declared a draw. Frank Bartley, of Binghamton, and Homer Selby, of Indianapolis, brother of Kid McCoy, met at 140 pounds. Bart-

Charlie Burns, of Cincinnati, and Charlie McKeever came next. The men came together like battering rams at the call of time, and hot mix-ups followed on quick succession. In the sixth McKeever landed a flush right in In the the pit of the stomach. Burns went down in agony and claimed foul. It was declared a draw. John Root, of Chicago, and Harry Peppers, the colored California middleweight, fought six rounds at 145 pounds. Peppers was knocked down four times in the fourth round and three times in the fifth round, the gong saving him in the latter. Root was given the decision.

Joe Butler, of Philadelphia, and Frank Childs, of Chicago, colored heavy-weights, went on for the wind-up and It removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain. What it Childs won.

Harry Gilmore is sorry McCoy lost.

It is said that Bob Fitzsimmons has an agreement with Dan Stuart to pull off all his fights under the latter's management. Stuart, notwithstanding his disastrous experience with the veriscope before, still has faith in it as a money winner, and wants to control the fight for show purposes. Commenting upon this, Tom O'Rourke said: "I have heard it, but it will not cut any figure with Sharkey. Stuart will not offer more than a $15,000 purse for a fight between Tom and Fitz, and his only prospective battleground is Carson City. If he offers $15,000 the Lenox club will hang up $25,000, and so on, no mat-ter how much Stuart bids. If Fitzsimmons can afford to turn down big money, that's his lookout. The Lenox club has barred him for the present, but time may alter things."

Peter Maher, the heavyweight pugilist, has refused the offer of the Lenox Athletic Club to make a match with Jim Jeffries, the "California Giant," unless guaranteed a $20,000 purse, although Jeffries, through his manager, accepted the proposition the club

Corbett and Jeffries have covered Fitzsimmons' $2,500 forfeit to fight Sharkey. It is not likely Fitzsimmons will pay any attention to Corbett now, as the ex-champion has not won a fight since he lost at Carson City.

Tod Sloan can use a "scatter gun" better than many of the men who are at the trap at every opportunity, and in a friendly match at 'Frisco last week the famous jockey killed 14 out of 15 birds, his oponent losing the match by one bird.

Tommy Burns can well afford to pay the $3,000 for his release from Simms, as he not only gets $16,000 for two years' riding for the Schorr stable, but has the privilege of taking all outside mounts he desires to, and collect the fees for such services.

"Father Bill' Daly was fined $50 by the New Orleans stewards last week for making two engagements for his jockey, O'Connor, in one race. Now it is claimed that relatives of the boy are trying to get him away from Daly, so that he can be hired to another turfman for a much larger salary, although it was Daly who educated the lad and made him what he is today.

To Gain Flesh, to Sleep Well, to Know What Appetite and Good Digestion Mean

MAKE A TEST OF STUARTSDYS
PEPSIA TABLETS

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think their nerves are to blame, and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines. The real seat of the mischief is lost sight of. The stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every organ. In some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected: in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still others are troubled with loss of flesh and appetite, with accumulations of gas, sour risings and heartburn. It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, palpitation, heartburn, constipation and headache.

Robt. Burns' Anniversary.

One hundred and forty years ago, come Wednesday, was born in a small clay "biggin," covered with a strawthatched roof, in the small town of Ayr, in the west of Scotland, the most wonderful poetic genius of the 18th

It is too late in the day to offer apologies for the fautts and failings of Burns as a man. Whatever they were, they were faults common to the best and wisest of men in all ages. But the mists and prejudices which grew around his memory, propagated by censorious bigotry, have at last been pretty well cleared away; and the keenest critics and the best men in the century have come to the front in his defense, and given him the stamp of the foremost genius of his age, and thoroughly vindicated the great purpose of the poet's life.

More than one hundred years have elapsed since the death of Burns; and during that period there have been as many as fifty biographies of him, written by men eminent in literature; and more than one hundred different editions of his songs and poems have been issued from the press of Great Brtiain alone, besides those which have been issued from the American press, which we believe are quite as

It may be questioned if there is a man in our modern literature, from Chaucer to Tennyson, who has been more generally written about than Burns. No writer of any note during the 19th century, either in prose or poetry, but has had some loving word of the powers, but in pursuance of a to say of Robert Burns.

Whenever censure is attempted, it is at once modified by palliations that remove the sting. Even Thomas Carlyle, with all his cynical and dyspeptic virus, has bedecked Burns' memory with the very flower of his genius. It is lenger governs through the Khedive. acknowledged that there is nothing She becomes a coequal ruler and igfiner in all Carlyle's Miscellanies, than his Essay on Burns. It is at once the most just and wholesome criticism of the poet and his works of which we have knowledge.

One wonders, and asks, how is this, that the whole galaxy of literary notables of the 19th century in one voice sing the praises of this "Peasant Born Genius."

There have been loftler themes than And longer scrolls and louder lyres; And lays lit up with poesy's Purer and holier fires.

Few nobler ones than Burns are there. And few have won a greener wreath Than that which binds his hair.

We have the myriad-minded Shakespeare, with an insight into the working of the human soul which seems inspired. And Milton, that old man eloquent, who so glroiously "bodies forth the form of things unknown, and gives to airy nothing a local habitation and a name." Yet they seem like "stars apart, away from mortal Ken." These win our admiration mixed with awe that scarcely draws out our sympathies. It is not so with Burns. He comes to us as a friend and companion. He tells us of his loves, his joys, as we ourselves have felt them. He tells of his struggle for existence, which was the common lot of the masses of his time, and in words which largely appeal to struggling masses of humanity, even at the present day. And it was Burns' loving spirit that was able to extract sunbeams from the dark clouds that surrounded his class and raised them to the rank of nature's noblemen, no matter how humble the toil. He taught that it was not the toil that degraded the man; it was the man that dignified the toil. And when the mandate went forth from an authority greater than that of kings, that "the rank is but the guinea stamp, the man's the gowd for a' that," the toil-worn man felt that a new birth was his, and as Robert Nicol (a kindred spirit) expresses it in one of his poems, that Burns has elevated his class so that

Before the proudest of the earth, We walk with an uplifted brow, Like us thou wert a toil-worn man, And we are noble now.

It was the loving spirit of Burns, not only for suffering humanity, but for everything in nature, animate or inenimate, which draws out our complete sympathy to him Nor was it in any mineing form that he expressed himself for the objects of his love, but in words that came gushing forth from his inmost soul, as Gilfillan says, "in red hot earnest."

The first manifestation of this intense spirit was shown in his love for his native land. There is no doubt that the perfervidium which distinguishes Scotchmen everywhere in their love of country, has been largely influenced by the patriotic fervor which runs through the poems and songs of Burns. Sir Walter Scott's grand descriptions of lake and mountain, of rugged strand and waving heather, make his countryman feel proud as he surveys the beauty and grandeur or us seenery, and can exclaim with genuine feeling, This is my own, my native land." Burns did more than this. He inspired his countrymen, not only with pride in their country, not only for its scenic grandeur and its glorious history, but he knit them together in a common bond of brotherhood, which has become proverbial; and the kindly

BRITAIN AND THE PHILIPPINES. British investors in the Philippines are curiously ignorant of American politics, and are seriously discussing the possibility of President McKinley appointing an Englishman to govern the islands. They argue that it is impossible to find in America an experienced administrator acquanted with the character of the Filipinos, and suggest the name of ex-Governor Creagh, of British Borneo, who is now living in England, as being eminently qualified and willing to take the post. Some financiers are beginning to take a gloomy view of the future of the Philippines. Mr. Ernest Ruffert, the head of a Lombard street house, who bought large tracts of land about Manila, said to a representative of the Associated Press: "The land is useless under the present conditions. We could not plant crops with the possibility of the natives destroying them ward conterred with Mr. Joseph Chamover night. The United States will be unable to rule more than the fringe of the islands without an army of a hundred thousand men. They might buy the native leaders, but they would not stay bought, and the United States must rebuy them periodically. The end of the matter will be that the United States will sell the Philippines.'

A VIVID CONTRAST. Great Britain presents a vivid contrast between the potency of civic and military fame. To put is badly, Gladstone dead is quoted at $100,000 in the memorial market, while Kitchener alive making for a gigantic flasco, and that easily commands $600,000. The promoters of the Gladstone memorial, who expected to secure $1,000,000 to establish libraries in the principal cities through popular contributions, are greatly de-pressed at the results of the appeals to the people. After several months, appeals have only resulted in collecting one-tenth of the sum desir-ed. But in the case of Kitchener, who dazzled the empire with the laurels of a day spent in mowing down thousands of savages by the perfection of military discipline and machinery, the British climb over each other in their eagerness to pour money into the "college " otherwise the Gordon memorial college at Khartoum, to educate a people they have never seen in a country never cared for, as a tribute to the conqueror. THE GLADSTONE MEMORIAL. The Gladstone fund, however, will be made up of wealthy men who will gladly give their money, but who are grievchagrined at the lukewarmness of the people who called him leader, and v. hom they expected to contribute

BADLY BITTEN.

A majority of the London speculators handling American stocks have been badly bitten through pinning their faith to the prevailing idea that a reaction and a drop in prices must soon come. This prediction has been fostered by the financial papers. For weeks they have been declaring that the phenomenai advances were artificial and could not possibly be maintained, speaking of boom" sarcastically, in such terms as the "American mania." The result has been that many professionals have been caught on the bear side, selling Americans for a fall which failed to materialize. They found that the heavy selling of the Venezuelan and "free periods had not left enough stocks here to meet their orders, and they were forced to buy in America at advanced prices. Still the London stock exchange adheres to the opinion that "the boom" will be overdone, that the ebb will set in in the natural course of events, and that it cannot be far distant.

The Statist, in a somewhat alarmist tone, points out that the unprecedented amount of American capital employed in Europe, ten or fifteen millions, chiefly in London and Berlin, may be withdrawn at its owners' pleasure, and that possibly American speculation will become so rampant that the owners will recall their money and invest it there. The paper fears serious ship-ments to New York would send up rates in Europe.

BIG MAN RHODES.

Great Britain seems to shake to its foundation whenever Mr. Cecil Rhodes steps foot on the island. He is the biggest man in the United Kingdom today. Peers, cabinet ministers, promoters with Munchausen schemes, duchesses craving for tips on "kaffirs' (or South American securities), workmen who cherish dreams of emigration and bishops solicitous for African souls, haunt his hotel, and beg for even the briefest interview, as though he had already realized his aspiration. The popular mind credits him with being the potentate of the African con-THE CAPE-TO-CAIRO SCHEME.

The cabinet met especially to discuss Mr. Rhodes' scheme for government guarantees of the Cape to Cairo railroad and telegraph. Mr. Rhodes afterberlain, the secretary of state for the colonies, and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the chancellor of the exchequer. Mr. Rhodes says $50,000,000 will be the entire cost of the work, and there is little doubt that he will carry his point with the government, and raise all the money he needs in the city. Before the projectors can act in the matter, there will be a formality in the shape of a parliamentary bill, but the imperialists may be backed to drive over the socalled "little Englanders," who are preparing an opposition to the scheme, declaring that the Rhodesian empire is Mr. Rhodes wants the government to lift him out of a hole by throwing good money after bad, into a railroad through a wilderness. They also find a coincidence in Mr. Rhodes' home-coming and the revival of newspaper outbursts against the Boers' oppression of British subjects in the Transvaal. NOT SURPRISED.

Berlin, Jan. 23.-The news from Samoa has not caused great surprise here. It was foreseen long ago that trouble would break out sooner or later. The tri-partite treaty has always been considered in official circles here as being a most peculiar diplomatic document, creating a most unsettled situation, which is really at the bottom of the present disorder, although the election dispute precipitated hostilities. It can be safely said, however, that the German Government is not particularly annoyed at the fact that matters have come to a crisis, as it will give Germany an opportunity for reopening the Samoan question with the view of establishing order on a permanent basis.

BUT SOMEWHAT PUZZLED.

A high official of the German foreign office, Dr. Hamann said yesterday: "The government has just received a detailed report from Samoa, which they think reliable, all the more so because many; but the situation is different now, and Germany no longer objected to Mataafa. And why Chief Justice Chambers annulled Mataafa's election we do not know. It was tertainly under the terms of the Berlin treaty. The decision is all the more regrettable because bloodshed might have been foreseen. No whites' property, however, has been destroyed, and we do not know why the chief justice sought refuge on the British warship Porpoise.

AN ILLEGAL ACT. "Dr. Raffel, the German municipal president, acted illegally in breaking into the court house. We can only explain these things by assuming that everybody there had grown nervous. The German Government, however, takes the whole business calmly, and, doubtless it will be adjusted diplomatically by negotiations between Washington, Berlin and London. We do not expect any difficulties. Germany adheres strictly to the terms of the Berlin treaty. Whatever illegal excesses Germans may have committed we shall disavow.

The United States' ambassador, Mr. Andrew D. White, said to the correspondent of the Associated Press, af-ter having been informed of the above interview:

"I am without news and instructions, but I do not anticipate considerable trouble. I expect the matter will be amicably settled, as in the case of similar difficulties in the past."

HONORS TO BISMARCK. The proposal adopted by the stu- strikes Mr. Morley that he will have dents of the German universities to perpetuate the memory or Prince Bismarck by the erection of columns over and their Liberalism, they say, is the the face of the country is now approaching realization. A considerable fund has been collected and a committee has been formed to carry out the details. The columns will be high, massive, granite pillars, surmounted by an urn in which a fire beacon will be kindled on each anniversary of Prince Bismarck's birthday until the end of time. The students are greatly impressed with the sublimity of the notion, and have offered a wreath of iron laurel leaves for the best design for the column. Prince Herbert Bismarck has signiance of the contemplated honor of his father's memory. In addition to 27 universities, each of which is pledged to erect its column, 47 towns have declared their intention to co-operate, and it is expected that at least 200 cities and towns will join in London, Jan. 23 .- The week has passed in France with nothing beyond those mutual recriminations which now constitute the daily reading of the French public. M. Jules Guerin gives the following so-called synthesis of public feeling: "People discourse freely and more often now than ever about a coup d'etat, which now appears inevitable. Nobody knows who will accomplish it, nor in whose favor it will be brought about. That which is known very well indeed is that the present situation cannot continue much longer. The people are tired of it," The opinion is growing that the report of the court of cassation will not only acquit Dreyfus, which is a certainty, but will contain other revelations of a startling character. Hence, the been received from the Rhine and its frantic efforts now being made to affluents. The new dam near Mayence criminal chamber only.

PREPARATIONS FOR TROUBLE. Meanwhile several battalions have been ordered to strengthen the garrisons at Bizerta and other points on the North African coast, 2,000 volunteers having been enrolled. I learn, moreover, that a considerable force is about to be sent from Senegal, in view of the operations of strong British expedition near the hinterland of Sierra Leone; also that the foreign legion is to be increased by two regiments of three battalions—a total of 6,000, A rumor reaches me that a special attempt will be made to enlist Irishmen in this force. As an example of the utter uncertainty that prevails everywhere in Europe with regard to French affairs, I may point out that Saturday's Daily Chronicle contains one telegram from its correspondent in Paris, alleging that the British ambassador there is in negotiation with Mr. Delmatters between Britain and France that only a few details of mutual compensation remain unsettled, and another telegram from its Berlin cor-quire the exact position of affairs. PROTEST FROM FRANCE. The Paris correspondent of the Central News says there is reason to believe that M. Paul Cambon, French ambassador to Great Britain, and M. Delcasse, French minister of foreign affairs, were aware of the substance of the Anglo-Egyptian convention some days previous to its publication. M. Cambon, the dispatch says, has intimated to Lord Salisbury that France considers the agreement a violation in some respects of the rights of France and the signatory powers represented in former agreements, but his protest is not of a character which will prevent the continuance of diplomatic negotiations.

In this matter the Bretons regard the rest of France as foreigners engaged shameful conspiracy against The abrogation of the French treaty rights in Newfoundland would, it is asserted, ruin thousands of reion rammes, and any compensation given by Britain would be diverted into channels away from the real sufferers. The Bretons want the compensation to take the tangible form of hard cash, which can be comfortably divided among the Breton fisher folk. M. Radigute, a Breton now in Paris, has conceived the idea of appealing to the Celtic race all over the world in behalf of the unhappy Celts in Northwestern unhappy Celts in Ambassador France, He denounces Ambassador Cambon as "the agent of Latin decay and the enemy of the Celtic race," and suggests that if there is to be a deal over the French shore business it should be made after a discussion between the British Government and a delegation of elected bodies from Brittany and Normandy, "in order to the official thieves of Paris from having an opportunity of robbing our meet the ambassador face to face. Mr. John Morley has broken silence and charged home with great spirit upon his old Liberal colleagues, Lord Rosebery and Mr. Asquith, because of what he would deem their wallowing in the mire of jingoism. Mr. Asquith and Sir Edward Grey have returned the charge with equal spirit. It may be well to know exactly what it is against which Mr. Morley protests, heart and soul. It all lies in Mr. Morley's definition at Montrose on Thursday of the hated creed of jingo, as follows: First, that territory is territory, and all territory is worth acquiring. Second, that all territory, especially if anybody happens to want it, is worth paying any price for.

Third, that the country possesses the purse of Fortunatus, and is free to fling millions here and millions there, with the certainty that benignant fairies will, by magic, make them good. Fourth, do not show the slightest regard for the opinions of other nations; you have no share whatever in the great collective responsibility of civilized peoples as the winged guardians of peace and good order in the state system of Europe. Fifth, the interests of people of this country, and advancement in all the arts of civilized life and well-being, are completely and utterly secondary and subordinate questions. It is because the new Liberalism thus nothing to do with it. Mr. Asquith and Sir Edward Gray protest warmly this definition. Their creed same Liberalism which led Mr. Morley and his colleagues in the Rosebery cabinet to warn France off from the Nile valley; which led Sir Harcourt to applaud Lord Kitchener's reconquest of the Soudan in the cause of civilization; which has made cordial co-operation with America the cardinal point in the Liberal programme; which, in the far east, as in home markets, urges the policy of the open door. imperialism, plus common sense. Here, then, is the line of clevage among the Liberal leaders. How it will affect the rank and file of the Liberal party remains to be seen. One effect is already evident. the Liberal press throughout the country, Mr. Morley's views throughout can claim the support of only two journals of mark—the Manchester Guardian and the London Evening Star, and they seem inclined to make the least of Liberalism in the future. BANNERMAN.

Very disquieting reports have been received from the Rhine and its frantic efforts now being made to postpone the verdict by handing over the whole question to a complete the whole question, instead of the criminal chamber only.

The flew dain lear kayotte was washed away by the floods while a freight train was traversing it. The engine and six cars fell into the harbor, but there was no loss of life. The rivers continue to rise, and are causing anxiety.

A NEW NOSE. Sergt. Freeman, of the 24th Lancers, has been subjected to a serious, but successful surgical experiment. In saving his lieutenant from the dervish onslaught at the terrible charge of Omdurman, he had his own nose slit off. While Freeman was in the hospital here, Col. Martin, his commander, learned of the skill of a Wolverhampton surgeon named Grove in curing facial disfigurements. He sent for him, and now Freeman rejoices in the possession of a new nose, and it is said there is absolutely no trace of disfigurement. On Feb. 4 he will sail for Cairo to rejoin his regiment.

AUTOMOBILES. From a story by the hunting correspondent of the Daily Mail, the four-inhand, hitherto used in meets of the casse, and has so far arranged all hounds, seems doomed. During the hunting season several country families have been going to the meetings in automobiles. Lord Carnarvon is an enthusiastic supporter of the new mode of going to the hunt. At his house at Newbury, Berkshire, his lordship keeps several machines, and the Prince of Wales expressed himself delighted with the noiseless carriage, when taken out with the Earl and Countess of Warwick in the automobile. The only difficulty at present is in taking the automobiles over the ground as readily as the horse carriages.

Scrofula Frem Birth.

Dr. Radway—Dear Sir: It is with pleasure I take my pen in hand to inform you of the great cure effected by your medicine called Sarsaparillian Resolvent. I have a girl three years old last September who has suffered with scrofula ever since she was two years old. It fact, the ductor told us she was born with it. We had our best local doctors with her, and it seemed like all hope was gone, for they told us if the disease settled on her lungs she could not be cured. This frightful disease seated or seized upon her lungs severely. I began to think that our little girl could not live very long, our physician's medicine doing no good. In the meantime I received a copy of your medical publication called "False and True," which you sent me. After seeing the accounts of so many cures effected by your treatments, I at once resorted to them, and by the time she had used one bottle she was most well. The ulcers that were making their appearance on her body are one bottle she was most well. The titlers that were making their appearance on her body are entirely gone, her lungs almost healed, or at least she has quit coughing. She has begun on the second bottle, and I believe by the time she uses all of it she will be well. She had a very bad cough. I am yours with respect, SAMUEL S. BARKER, Flat Top, Mercer County, W. Va. "LIFE A BURDEN."

Dr. Radway—Dear Sir: For a long time past I have been suffering in the most distressing manner from a long train of symptoms which have baffled the skill of all the medical men down here, and which I feared, if not arrested in their progress, would terminate in the total prostration of my strength. Loss of appetite and desire of stimulating and artificial means of suitenance at irregular times, want of and desire of stimulating and artificial means of sustenance at irregular times, want of healthy sleep and consequent depression on arising in the morning rendered life quite a burden to me, until a friend induced me to try your medicine. So I got a bottle of Radway's Sarsaparillian and a box of Radway's Pills and took them according to directions. I sconfound Sarsaparillian and a box of Radway's Phils and took them according to directions. I soon found relief. I got three boxes and three bottles more and I am in better health than ever before. I remain your humble servant, ARTHUR D. WRIGHT, Unionville, Mich.

Pains in the Foet and Limb-A Complete Cure Accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"For a number of years I was afflicted with acute rheumatism in my left side and all the way down my limb into my foot. I live five blocks from my work and had to stop and rest several times in going and coming. I could get no relief from my trouble and was on the point of giving up my job when I happened to hear of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Discovered in the Room Occupied by Mrs. McDaniels. of Ingersoll.

Singular Actions of the Mother-Her Speedy Flight to Ingersoll After the Child's Birth-Coroner Flock Investigating the Case.

Mrs. Lawrence, a widow, living at 266 Clarence street, with her two daughters, reported a strange occurrence to the police on Saturday night.

A short time ago a woman about 25 years of age, calling herself Mrs. Mc-Daniels, and in delicate condition, rented a room from Mrs. Lawrence. 'Mrs." McDaniels prepared her own meals and little was seen of her about the house. On Saturday morning, about 8 o'clock, Mrs. McDaniels complained of feeling unwell and was given a cup She then expressed her intention of going to Ingersoll, where her well-to-do and respectable parents reside. Mrs. McDaniels went to her room, where she gave birth to a fully de-veloped female child, then dressed herself and accompanied by Miss Lawrence, Mrs. McDaniels went to the station and left on the 10:20 train for Ingersoll. Mrs. McDaniels had said nothing to Mrs. Lawrence about what had haphappened, and late in the afternoon the latter opened the door of the room which her boarder had occupied, and found it in an untidy condition. Mrs. Lawrence suspected what had happened, and searching the room, found the body of a dead infant con-

Passengers and Crew of a Ferryboat in Deadly Peril.

Ice Jam at the Falls-Thrilling Experience of a Young Couple.

Buffalo, Jan. 23.-Locked in a huge ice floe, the Canadian ferry Niagara, with nineteen persons on board, was swept helplessly down the Niagara River Saturday night, and dismantled by the international bridge. The boat, which plies between this city and Erie, Ont., left her dock near the mouth of the river in the early evening, on her last trip of the day, having on board fifteen passengers, six of whom were women, and two children. Her crew consisted of four men. The river was full of floating ice, that was drifting in her way to the center of the stream, where she became imbedded in a great field of ice, and her engines were powerless to propel her. The current at this point is exceedingly swift, and the momentum of the ice field carried the ferry with it. HORROR-STRICKEN!

The passengers, realizing their situation were horror-stricken with fear of being carried over the falls, and the more imminent danger of being smashed against a pier of the international bridge. The calls of the ferry whistle attracted attention from the shore, and to rescue the helpless craft.

FACING DEATH.

The passengers and crew put on life River navigation being closed, the draws the upper works of the boat could not clear the span, but the great menace was the piers of solid masonry. The current favored the boat, and swept her between the span, a little to the east side of the center of the river.

SAVED! The iron girders of the bridge raked the boat clean of her second deck, carrying away smokestack, pilot house, hurricane deck. The passengers and crew were below decks, and escaped injury from the wreckage. Swinging clear of the bridge, the Niagara broke free from the fice, and drifted into a patch of clear water. A hand gear was attached to the rudder, the engines, which were uninjured, resumed their duty, and the dismembered craft was slowly worked to a dock on the American shore.

ICE JAM AT NIAGARA.

The ice bridge of 1899 will go down in the history of Niagara as being the greatest ice jam ever known. The past few days the flow of ice over both falls has been tremendous, piling up mountains high in the basin below the falls, and with the great force of water behind grinding it, and upheaving the great body, so as to choke in the basin in small mountains. Some time during the night the great force of water shifted the ice jam down the river for about 100 yards. Some of the ice cakes as they dropped over the brink of the Horseshoe Falls would project over 40 and 50 feet, and would take their plunge with a great splash in the river below.

A GRAND SIGHT.

This morning there was a complete jam from the whirlpool rapids right up to the base of the Horseshoe Falis, and was witnessed by thousands of people from both banks of the river. Standing as it does in some places 50 feet force of the water bodily lifted the tons of ice, and moved it down the river 400 kenzie, of Toronto. yards.

THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

At the time about a dozen people were on the ice bridge, and with a hasty scramble all made good their escape on the American side, except a young lady and her escort, who were carried down for 400 yards, and landed near the mouth of the tunnel on the American side, and were unable to make a land-ing, there being several feet of water between them and the shore. They had to make their way across the ice jam to the Canadian side, which was a very hazardous trip, and was witnessed by Port Antonio, Jamaica, Jan. 23.-An | the thousands of excited people that lined both banks and bridge.

THE RAILWAYS

Swift Ride Over the Wabash-Windsor to St. Thomas in 111 Minutes.

Two of the "standard lines" of the Vanderbilt system-the Michigan Central and the Lake Snore-have withdrawn from the Chicago Railway Association, the oldest organization of its kind in the west. Presidents of American railroads are to be held personally responsible for rate-cutting in the future. They have been told so plainly by the interstate commerce commissioners, and many of them already have accepted the responsibility. A bill to reduce the maximum passenger fares from 3 cents to 2 cents a mile is being prepared for introduction in the Indiana Legislature. A similar measure was introduced in the legis-lature of that state about two years ago, but failed. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has purchased a large dock at Sandusky, Ohio, which has been idle for years, and will spend $75,000 to double the capacity of its coal-loading machinery. Contracts have already been let for the delivery there of about 1,000,000 tons of coal for lake shipments.

St. Thomas Times: Gen. Hubbard, one of the directors of the railway, given a swift ride over the Wabash on Friday, in the Southern Pacific special car San Carlos. The special was drawn by engine No. 1,470, Engineer Caider, Conductor Downey. The train left Windsor at 1:26 p.m., and pulled into the depot in St. Thomas at 3:17 p. m. The special was delayed four minutes at Chatham taking water, and five minutes at Baird's, meeting No. 3 express. The distance from Windsor to St. Thomas is 1071/4 miles, and the train covered the distance in 111 minutes. Deducting the nine minutes lost in another train, the special made the 1071/4 miles in 102 minutes. Several times during the journey exceptional bursts of speed were made. For instance, the run from Chatham to Glencoe, 341/2 miles, was accomplished in 31 minutes. It is 28 miles from selle River to Glencoe, and

the distance was made in 25 minutes. AMUSEMENTS

After leav-ing the Forest City he spent some time in New York, fitting himself as a gold expert, and in one of the pictures he is shown weighing gold dust, the nature of a large proportion of the deposits received there. There was a choice collection of morning. George W. Doxtator exposed to view two lovely black eyes. In explanation of how he received them, Doxtator said that his horse became frightened at a piece of white paper on King street on Saturday, and ran away, throwing him out. He had been drinking, he said, and did not know where his horse went after he was thrown out. He was discharged. John Murphy's excuse for being behind the bars was that he had chills running up and down his back. He thought it was the grip, and doctored himself with hot rum and Jamaica ginger. "Instead of knocking the grip out," said Murphy, "it knocked me out." He was advised to consult a physician next time, and was allowed

Mr. Keenan, commenting on his release, this morning, said: "It looks to me as though Pete Lehman was going to play his own favorites, and he can have them, but he can't get me for any such money. I played good ball all season, and that the public will bear me out in saying. I have two offers in my pocket now, one from Hamilton and one from Mansfield, Ohio. The latter is the better of the two, and I am waiting for the con-Keenan thinks that baseball will never be any good in London until certain of those who have so much to say about the management of the players quit the business. # THEY CALLED HER "CANADA"

The First Doukhobor Born Under the British Flag.

A Remarkable People-All in Excellent Health.

Halifax, Jan. 22.-The decks of the steamer Lake Huron were crowded with the Doukhobois this morning, tak-ing their last look at Halifax as the Lake Huron, about 7:30 o'clock, slowly steamed away to St. John, to commence their weary rail trip to the west. The examination of the immigrants at the quarantine grounds yesterday was most satisfactory. The Doukhobors were passed down the gangway and examined separately. As they streamed from the vessel they presented a picturesque appearance. The immigrants were well clad—that is, warmly clad. The men and boys wore goatskin coats and caps, while drunks before the police magistrate this the women wore skirts of bright red blue, heavy black jackets and colored shawls as headdress. All were found to be in excellent health, and they were allowed to roam round the quarantine grounds at will. It was a welcome change to the poor people after having for almost a month been Labor. cooped up in the hold of the steamer. Comm A REMARKABLE PEOPLE.

The Lake Huron was an object of great interest on Saturday, and many people from the city went down to gaze at the strangers. They excited the admiration of all. They are a finelooking lot of people, with honest faces and stalwart frames. Even the children-and there are many, from the litlle tot of a couple of years up-looked the perfect picture of health. Young people seemed to predominate. One old gentleman with flowing beard commanded great attention. He was as active as a boy, though he had passed his 85th year. His history is the history of Russian tyranny. Nine years ago his property was confiscated and he was sent into penal servitude in the Russian galleys. One year ago he was allowed to return to Russia proper, but not to his friends, with the inderstanding that he would leave the country at the first opportunity. The opportunity came, and the old man is now in a land of freedom with his friends. The immigrants are in charge of Leopold Subeyitzky, who represents Count Tolstoi. There was one birth mountains high, and now and again dashing over the ship, came into the world the first Doukhobor born under the British flag. The happy parents at once called the child Canada. The Doukhobors did not drink Miss Canada's health, because they do not drink, but they wish her the best of health all the same. There were six marriages on the voyages.

Mr. A. J. White, of the immigration department, Messrs. Elkinton, of Philadelphia, and Job Gidley, of Dartmouth, Mass., representatives of the American Society of Friends, are accompanying the Doukhobors round to

"DIED AT HIS TRADE"

Reason Given by a Police Chief for Not Acting in the Case of a Pugilist Who Received a Fatal Blow.

Chicago, Jan. 23.-A special to the Chronicle from Louisville, Ky., says: It is probable that no inquest will be held to determine what caused the death of Tom Lansing, the pugilist, who was knocked out a few weeks ago by John Root, of Chicago. Chief of Police Haager advanced a novel reason for non-action. "I have no proof that Lansing's death was caused by a blow," said he, "and, besides, what would be the use? Lansing was a fighter. That was his business. He was hurt while working at his trade. Many similar cases have been tried, and all those who were ac-cused were acquitted. I do not think any action necessary."

Men of National Reputation Were Present-Cleveland, Bryan, Bishop Potter and Others Sent Letters.

New York, Jan. 23 .- A mass meeting of citizens was held in the Academy of Music last night under the auspices of the Continental League, for the purpose of protesting against the policy of "imperialism and entangling alliance with European powers." The meeting was attended by a great crowd. Long before the doors were opened three transpared prodoors were opened three thousand people were clamoring for admission, and in a short while, the police ordered the doors unlocked because of the crush. Ten minutes later there was not a vacant seat in the house.

Mr. Bryan said that he was fully in sympathy with every effort put forth in save the nation from the dangers of imperialism.

Bishop Potter wrote: "The purposes of the meeting have my hearty approval and I should be glad if I had time to say how strongly I feel that the policy of imperialism or expansion, in any such sense as proposed, at present, threatens equally the moral integrity of the nation and the conditions on which its prosperity has hith-Resolutions were adopted in line

TEN DAYS OVERDUE

during the voyage. During a great storm, when the seas were running of 25 Men.

> New York, N. Y., Jan. 23.-Considerable comment is being made among shipping men as to the whereabouts of the British freight steamer Almida, which has been out 33 days from Shields for New York. She sailed from Shields on Dec. 19, having called for coal on her way from Hamburg for New York in ballast, consigned to Barber & Co., and was reported passing Dunnet Head, at the north of Scotland, on Dec. 21. Since then the weather on the Atlantic has been bad, and nothing has been heard of her.

At the office of Barber & Co., it was stated this morning that they had no word of the Almida, and that she was about ten days overdue. The Almida is a staunch steel vessel of 1,542 tons, and hails from Sunderland, where she was built in 1886. She is commanded by Captain A. McGregor. Barber & Co. said later that the Almida carried a general cargo, was not in ballast, and had a crew of 25 men. They were beginning to feel a good deal of uneasiness about her.

RUSH TO ATLIN

Americans Will Be There Before New Law Can Be Enforced-Race From Seattle to Dawson.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 23.-A rush almost equal to the Klondike rush in its zenith, has set in here for Atlin. It is reported at the American consulate that the recent alien law will make little if any difference this year, and that Atlin will be dug dry by next winter. All Americans who want to get to Atlin will be there before the present law is enforced. G. W. Cole returned from the Ashcroft trail with the statement that the lost baronet, Sir Arthur Curtis, is dead. Cole says he knew Curtis intimately. There had been much bickering in the party, Sir Arthur had supplied all the funds, got tired of the other man, slipped away at night, and made his way north alone, and took up claims either at Atlin or Klondike. He changed his name. Cole says, when he reached the QUESTIONS ANSWERED. CREDITON .- I am the owner of a field of wheat. A corner has been bought for a school site. When the school is built am I compelled by law to maintain half the line fence between my property and the school premises? The trustees claim that I must pay for the cost of half of an ordinary fence in any case. Ans .- The Line Fences Act requires owners of occupied adjoining lands to keep up a just proportion of the line fence. The regulations under the Public Schools Act requires the trustees to inclose the school premises with a substantial fence, and the act itself requires the trustees to build and repair the fences. In our opinion the Line Fences Act does not apply to public property such as a school, 'although a contrary opinion has been given, but has never been sustained by any reported judicial decision. And any such decision would be contrary to the intentions of the act, which deals with individual owners of occupied property, not with the property of the public. The school act is imperative in requiring the school fences to be built and maintained at the public expense by the trustees, and you are thefefore not liable to do more than pay your school rate in providing for the cost of the school fence or any part of it.

The World's Preference.

"You are worth every bit of it, my love," he said. "Don't forget that you have your share to bear for marrying But cheer up, sweet! We'll ged over this business, and be well and prosperous yet, if only you will be a to we little girl and consent to the Australian scheme."

"Oh, yes," she said, cheerfully. "I'd go anywhere with you, dearest." "But, my sweetneart, don't you understand? It's too rough and wild where we are going for you. I thought George and Mary would look after you for a bit.'

For answer Nellie burst into passionate sobs, and begged him to take her with him-not to let them part. She could not bear it, she went on.

Vernon turned pale as he listened to her passionate pleading, but he re-mained firm. It was impossible to take her, quite out of the question; and in a little while sne grew caimer, and agreed sorrowfully to the plans he had put before her. He had already written to George and Mary, and proposed to take her down there on the following day.
"So soon?" she whispered, trembling.

"I sail the day after tomerrow," he answered.

Poor little Mrs. Chetwynd! She was a fragile, gentle little thing, unfitted to battle with poverty and trouble, and made for a life of sunshine and galety. She bore up bravely, but it was plain to her agonized husband that the grief and pain was telling upon her terribly. It was a sorrowful journey on the following day to Harrowford, and a sorrowful meeting between the two sisters. Mary Forces received her sister with great kindness, and promised to look after her well while Vernon was away. But the young wife felt her position a hard one. She nad left this quiet little home to become the bride of a wealthy man, and she returned in poverty and trouble to become again a burden on her brother-in-law, whose means, as she well knew, were barely sufficient for the needs of his own household.

Vernon handed a hundred pounds to George Forbes on the evening of their arrival.

"I hope to send more soon," he said: "but if I don't succeed at once you shan't lose by it, Forbes, you shan't indeed. If only my own people were not such brutes I could leave her w h:

"She's better here with Mary," Forbes returned cheemly; "and she's heartly ever she likes to stay. You needn't fine people, and forget all the poor trouble about the money, you know." "You are a good fellow, Forbes," said poor Vernon, nuskily, as he wrung his hand hard; "and I feel now what a fool I've been to put poor little Nellie in such a position; but, upon my word, I never dreamed of my father cutting up so rough! If it were not for you my poor little wife-but, upon my word, I'll repay you some day, if I live."

At ten the next day Vernon and his wife parted. The poor girl was quite overcome. She had borne up very bravely till the end; but when the moment of parting actually came she gave way alto-"I shall never see you again!" she sobbed, wildly; "I know I never shall!"

"Nonsense!" Vernon said, trying to speak cheenfully. "I shall be back before you know where you are, with my pockets full of gold!": 'No," she answered, steadily and ear-

During the weeks that followed, Nell went about with a white, haggard face, and big black eyes, that showed how she was suffering. But she struggled bravely to appear as usual, and help her sister in her household duties.

At last, one wintry morning, when the snow was falling fast, a feeble cry was heard in the house, and Nellie lay on her pillow with a little new-born daughter beside her.

The wintry day was fading into night when Mary softy opened her husband's face.

CHAPTER II.

"More sugar, Maggie."
"On, Ted! You've had six lumps." "Nonsense! Arthur has. I've only ad one."

The curate's young people were taking tea in the garden, and making considerable noise over it. Six young Forbes, ranging from Maggie, aged 23, and engaged, to Freddie, aged 13, their cousin, Vere Chetwynd, and Harry North, their father's pupil, who was reading for the Vere Chetwynd was sitting very quietly among the noisy group. She was 17 years old, a lovely girl, with her mother's fluffy golden hair and beautiful complexion, and her father's deep gray eyes. In Vere's case the eyes were shaded by lashes so long and black as to make her eyes look black Her face was oval in shape, her figure perfection, and, in short, she was a supremely beautiful girl; but the lovely face did not look a happy one. There was a wistful sadness in the beautiful eyes, and in the curve of the soft red lips-a look as of coming trouble over the sweet face.

Maggie, a little dark dumpling of a girl, six years her cousin's senior, had twice her merriment.

Maggie was always gay and good-humored. Her laugh rang out merrily now at some absurd joke of the boys, while Vere only smiled faintly. Yet there was nothing in the least ill-tempered or discontented about Vere. It was only that the girl seemed to live under a shadow, as if her mother's troubles had fallen upon her, or as if she were, as the old nurse had said, "an unlucky girl." Harry North, a fair-haired young felow of 22, was lying on the ground at her feet, and presently, as the mirth grew uproarious, he looked up at her and whispered softly:

"Shall we slip away? It is the last night, you know." The girl's beautiful eyes filled with tears at the reminder, and she rose to her feet. Harry North rose, too, and they sauntered off, disappearing into the old kitchen garden. "I can hardly believe I am really going away," the young fellow said, as they strolled slowly along among the cabbage and Sweet Williams, and peas and roses, which grew anyhow and everywhere.

"Nor I," Vere said, in a low tone. "I. can't imagine Harrowford without you,

"And yet I have only been here two years," he reminded her.

"I know, but it seems long. You will soon forget us all, I daresay," she added, with would-be carelessness, as she turned aside to gather a rose; but there was a tell-tale break in her voice, and her hand shook as she endeavored to detach the blossom.

"That isn't fair, Vere!" Harry North said, .eproachfully. "You know I am not likely to forget any of you, but especially you. We have been good friends always, haven't we? You promised we always should be.

"Oh, yes; I shall not forget, but you welcome, I assure you, for as long as will go out into the world and meet

Her hand trembled more and more on the roses, when suddenly Larry's arm went round her waist, and Harry's voice said passionately: "Vere, my darling! Don't drive me wild! How could I forget you, when I love you!" He held her close to him, and for a few moments she was silent, her tears flowing fast.

Harry went on, quickly and eagerly: "You knew, didn't you, dearest, that I loved you! I thought—I always thought you understood. Tell me, Vere! Didn't you know?"

"I—I thought so," murmured Vere, tremulously. "But—but you didn't speak, and I—I thought I was mistaken. Oh, Harry! You have been breaking my heart."

"Don't blame me!" he said, passionately. "Blame your uncle, Mr. Forbes. I spoke to him six weeks ago, and

"He forbade me to speak to you."
"Oh, Harry—why?"

"A foolish reason," said the young man, evasively.
"Tell me—dear." Harry North stopped and kissed her passionately.

"You darling!" he whispered.

"The reason, please!" Vere said, seerely.
"He thought we were too young," said

"Some months before my baby came I found myself in rapidly failing health," writes Mrs. W. J. Kidder, of Hill Dale Farm (Enosburg Center), Euosburg, Vt., in a grateful letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "I suffered dreadfully from bloating and urinary difficulty. I was growing perceptibly weaker every day and suffered much sharp pain at times. I felt that something must be done. I sought your advice and received a prompt reply. I followed your directions and took twelve bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and also followed your instructions. I began to improve immediately, my health became excellent, and I could do all my own work (we live on a good sized farm). I walked and rode all I could, and enjoyed it. The Care of the Hands.

In frosty weather, particularly if dark clothes are worn, the hands very soon become soiled, and require frepuent washing. They should be washed in warm water, and, if possible, in soft water. After washing they should be dried very thoroughly in bran or oatmeal, and great care taken that the nails and most thoroughly dry; in the drying the cuticle can be pushed back sufficiently to show the half-moon at the base of the nail. Nail-scissors, not used for any other purpose, should be used to cut off any hang-nails, but it is better to use a file to keep the nails short, and for this purpose there should be three or four files of varying size. To give the lustre desired there is a new kind of wash that makes the nails pink, not deep red, and also gives a gloss and finish. After this is put on the hands should be washed, but sufficient of the polish will remain.

After the hands are washed the second time to remove the polish the nails should be rubbed briskly, either with a piece of chamois, a nail-polisher, or by rubbing them again with the palm of the hand. This last method is perhaps the best of all, for it polishes just enough without giving too exaggerated a finish in appearance. Rings are so much the fashion that the hands must of necessity be well kept, but it is a mistake to wear too many rings, particularly with a plain gown; it is to be hoped that it will soon go out of fashion to wear them with anything but evening dress .-Harper's Bazar.

The Creative Power of Women.

It is foolish to speak with too much confidence of the creative power of woman in art. She does not stand among the greatest, and only those who are dull to the highest art will make that claim for her. Ranting women with an impatient propaganda for universal enfranchisement, cry out hysterically that but for oppression women would have matched with men in the making of books, and pictures, and songs, But is it not maintained that out of oppression and pain, out of deep passion and protest, come the finest things? The truth is, and let it offend no woman, the creative powers of woman are evoted to natural, not to artifi To make sons and daughters is her fine responsibility, and if she resents her destiny, she is (though perhaps unknowingly), impious. She blasphemes who rails at this state of things. Let her also accept that as a mystery, and wait God's good time for explanations of it all. If it seems at times a heavy burden, and she revolts at the pain it involves, and the subjugation of self, let her remember that in this she has been subtly blessed, since the highest type of Manhood the world has known or imagined, is that which stands for self-subjugation. Moreover, there are compensations for motherhood, and the pain and immolation of it. Thank God, there are the sweetest and most exquisite of compensations! It is not even necessary to say what they are, for every mother knows.

A German Way of Serving Suppers.

It is odd that someone does not introduce the German fashion of serving suppers at evening entertainments in this country, or, at least, that it does not become general, as it probably is not unknown. Instead, as is the habit over here, of having one room set apart for the purpose, which quickly becomes overheated and overcrowded, in Germany a regular mushroom growth of little tables appears suddenly in all the apartments, as if placed there by magic. In the ballroom, the card room, everywhere, where the guests are congregated, these are quickly set by the numerous attendants, who serve supper with the same celerity, and then per with the same celerity, and then remove all traces of the repast. Even at court balls this way of serving a repast is in vogue, and it certainly is most comfortable, for, besides doing away with the dreaded solemnity of an exedus to supper, it prevents all the discomfort of crowding and insufficient attendance, which is such a marked fea-ture of entertainments at moderately

The Womanliness of Queen & Victoria.

There is always an exquisite and womanly touch in the letters which Queen Victoria addresses to her subjects, whether the letter be general, like that one addressed to the public when her grandson, the Duke of Clarence, died, extolling his lovable and gentle quali-ties—a letter hung in fac-simile in many an English inn and home—or whether it be addressed to special individuals whose special bereavements have touched her. One of these letters one to Lord Selborne on the death of his wife—has just appeared in his published memoirs. "It is for you, to whom she was so devoted," the Queen writes, lished memoirs. "It is for you, to whom she was so devoted," the Queen writes, "that I feel so deeply, for to lose the loved companion of one's life is losing half one's own existence. From that time everything is different, every event seems to lose its effect; for joy which cannot be shared by those who feel everything with you is no joy; and sorrow is only redoubled when it cannot be shared and soothed by the one who alone could do so. The longer God has permitted us to remain together, the more acute must be the agony of separation, and I do most sincerely feel No children can replace a wife—or a husband—may they be ever so good and devoted. One must bear one's burdens alone."

It is in letters like this that the se cret of the Queen's peculiar hold upon her subjects is revealed.

There is a period in every boy's life prior to which he can't be put to sleep at night, and after which it's difficult to get him up in the morning.

they did him a world of good. His trouble was constipation and fluttering of the heart. 'In my own case the trouble was very similar, i.e., constipation, fluttering and palpitation of the heart, and pains in my legs, like rheumatism, when I lay down at night. ## JESUS THE TEACHER

Interesting Discourse by Rev. W. H. A. Claris at the Southern Congregational Church.

Following is a brief synopsis of Rev. Mr. Claris' discourse, given last evening, from the text, "And beginning at Moses and all the prophets, he exthe things concerning himself. (Luke, xxiv., 27.)

Here we have the example of Jesus, the teacher sent from Goa, in dealing with sad and bewildered men. Two disciples were on their way to Emmaus, on the morning of the resurrection of Jesus from the tomb. They had been disappointed in their expectations concerning their Master; they had hoped to have seen him proclaim himself king, and by help from heaven to have enforced his claims; but instead they have seen him betrayed and crucified. Their minds must have been full of recollections of all the wonderful things that he had said and done in their midst since his appearance among them, and all that they had witnessed during the last few days, together with the strange reports that had just come to them since the morning had dawned upon them. These hopes had been frustrated, their minds confused, and their hearts filled with sadness when the Saviour joined them, and by one or two simple questions he drew from them their own description of the situation. This he did while "their eyes were holden that they should not know

Now, notice what divine wisdom and skill he here manifests; bringing home to them their great folly, and want of understanding, he leads them away to the source of all light, and comfort. Notice, in our lives we often find ourselves as followers of Jesus in situations where everything seems to be wrong and contradictory to our hopes, to God's promises, and to what we think should be, and it may faith is threatened, and out minds bewildered. And we see where others have been foolish and done wrong, and where God's dealings seem so altogether different from what they should be, while the real difficulty all lies in our want of understanding and trusting

We need communion with our Master; we need his reproofs, his corrections and instruction. Nothing else will ever bring light and comfort.

Again, notice how Jesus deals with them in their perplexity. He does not speak to them of their lack of reason and intelligence, but he takes them to the Scriptures, to Moses, and the prophets, and all Scriptures, which are so much despised by many would-be teachers of the present day. He seems neither to have questioned Moses, to have corrected the prophets, or to have corrected all the Scriptures; but he confounded all the Scriptures; but he expounds them as if they were all good and safe authority. He finds in them all a purpose and an intelligent reference to himself; and thus he makes their hearts burn within them, and soon their eyes are opened to know better, and they are no doubt greatly relieved and comforted; and are ready to go forth and trust God while they faithfully work to correct wrong, both in themselves, and in the world at large.

At the adjourned sessions of the peace, Saturday, the trial of George F. Gibson, of William street north, on charges of perjury and bigamy, was postponed by Judge Edward Elliott until June. Gibson's case has been pending for over a year. Gibson is alleged to have married Mrs. Ann Hyde.
