LONDON, Sept. 17 .- A dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette from Shanghai says the Japanese gained a decisive victory on the 15th, capturing Ping Yang, which was held by 20,000 Chinese troops. After eighteen hours hard fighting the Japs made their way into the city and took the greater part of the garrison prisoners.

Official advices from Tien Tsin received at the Chinese legation yesterday make no mention of a battle having occurred at Ping Yang.

The secretary of the legation, while admitting the possibility that the Chinese may have met with a serious reverse, does not accept as accurate the reports received from Seoul.

London, Sept. 17 .- A news agency here has received advices from Shanghai announcing a two days' engagement at Ping Yang between Chinese and Japanese, in which the Japanese forces were victorious. Twenty thousand Chinese soldiers surrendered. The dispatches further say that no trustworthy details are obtainable, all attempts of British and American correspondents to get to the seat of war having proved unsuccessful.

The number of Chinese killed in the battle is estimated at 2,300.

The Japanese Emperor has telegraphed from Hiroshima, where the headquarters of the army are located, congratulating Marshal Count Yamagata upon the success of the Japanese arms.

A flying column of the Japanese army is pushing northward with the object of taking possession of the mountain passes.

The Shanghai Mercury prints a special edition containing dispatches from the front, and in its editorial comments on the result of the battle expresses ful appreciation of the crushing defeat and great slaughter of the picked troops omprising the Chinese army engaged. the paper dilates upon the consequence of the disaster to the Chinese arms and xpresses fear of invasion. The London Telegraph says th Mongolian Colossus has feet of clay when are erumbling. If the powers, especially England, were to intervene prompt with friendly counsels the conflict mit be > Judge Wm. Elliot Commits Him to the Asylum.

He Was Sultan of Turkey, Owned the Judge and Wanted Him to Give a Chew of Tobacco.

Ives commenced by shamming insanity and then became insane. Such is the explanation given by Dr. Bucke before Judge Wm. Elliot this morning when the case came up finally for disposal.

"He laid himself out to sham insanity," said the doctor, "and the funny part of it is that he really became insane. I know he was shamming to escape punishment at first, because his wife told us all about it. He is insane at the present time beyond all question. He cannot be shamming now, because the game is not worth the candle.' Ives presented a pitiable sight as he was brought in raving. He wore the prison garb, his face was pale, his eyes glistened with an unnatural luster and his beard had commenced to grow. His curly hair was flying, and with his hair lip and English accent it was hard to understand a word aimlessly to the man that held him. "I am going to have my palace torn down," he shouted. Then with a sudden flight of fancy he asked, "Where is my chicken, Lily and Princess Martha, They never come to see me." The judge asked him his name, "I am the Sultan of Turkey. I own all this palace. I own you. Have you got a chew of tobacco?"

Judge Elliot-Where are you from? Ives-From here. This is my palace. These are my cows, my sheep and my ducks. Where is my Princess Martha? "Where were you born?"

"Constantinople." "Where is your home now?"

"This is my home." "What about Constantinople?"

> Monday Afternoon. COMMITTEE WORK.

Yesterday afternoon the committee on the itinerancy came to a decision upon the transfer question. Their proposal is that a standing committee on transfers be appointed, to meet quadrennially, interim transfers to be granted by the general superintendent and the president of annual conferences. The western delegation received the committee's report upon the assessment of circuits. The committee recommended that ministers be assessed 3 per cent on their salaries, no probationer to be assessed less than $15; circuits to be assessed 5 per cent on the ministers' salary plus their connexional payments. The treasurers to be the Rev. Dr. Griffin, Rev. John Wakefield and

Mr. E. Gurney.

The eastern delegation also met during the afternoon. The eastern delegation considered the proposed changes to the constitution of the supernumerary ministers' and ministers' widows' fund. The recommendation adopted were: That no application for a supernumerary relation shall be granted to an annual conference except on recommendation of a committee on conference relations consisting of seven ministers elected by the conference in ministerial session to which such application shall be referred, and this committee of the conference in making their decision shall not take into consideration anything else than the question: Is the applicant physically or mentally unfitted for the itinerant service? The clerical treasurer of the eastern fund is Rev. Dr. Evans and the lay treasurer Mr. John E. Irvine.

The next ballot proved to be the most drematic and possibly the most momentous vote of the General Conference. It was for the election of the editor of the Guardian. It had for some time been known that there was a movement for a change. The retiring editor, Rev. E. H. Dewart, D.D., had held the position for 27 years. When he had talked of retiring on account of his long tenure of office, some of his ablest and most prominent friends, especially in the Toronto Conference, had dissuaded him. There was scarcely an expection that any change would be made, and the ballots, as described by a General Conference officer who was re-elected, were a revelation. The first ballot for this officer, editor of Guardian, was: Total vote 211, necessary for a choice 106; Rev. A. C. Courtice 89, Rev. E. H. Dewart, D.D., 83, Rev. J. W. Annis 14, Rev. S. As the vote was announced Dr. Carman's utteranceswere listened to with bated breath by many of those who realized its great import. Dr. Dewart was visibly affected. There was slight applause, which was frowned down and subsided almost as it broke out. Cries of "Speech!" caused the editor-elect, Rev. A. C. Courtice, to step out from under the gallery, where he sat with several of his most intimate ministerial brethren, into the north aisle. If Dr. Dewart was affected, Mr. Courtice was much more so, and with face ashen pale and trembling voice, he attempted, and, with an extreme effort, succeeded in addressing the conference. In the course of his address he said that he to which the vote called him. When succeed him; Elisha must receive Mr. N. W. Rowell asked permission to the mantle of Elijah; Paul must audience to the Grand last night. The play was the old English comedy, "The Heir-at-Law." In assuming the role of Dr. Pangloss Mr. Russell abandons a line of work he has been following exclusively for many years, with such brilliant success, and strikes out on an entirely new one-that of legitimate comedy. Last night is the second time he appeared in the role. It must be admitted that the result was a striking evidence of his versatility, but the theater-going public have associated Mr. Russell's name with a peculiar form of entertainment, in which he is inimitable, and the audience last night was not prepared for the change. They would have preferred to see him in one of those tender, quaint characterizations which have gained for him fame and fortune, and by which he will be most gratefully remembered. They will have the opportunity tonight to enjoy one of his richest roles, that of Hoses Howe in "Peaceful Valley." The house will probably be crowded, Mr. Russell's company is an able one, and showed to advantage in the old comedy, but the people like Mr. Russell best in the plays re he is the whole show in himself.

Grand Sire Campbell of London on the Growth of Oddfellowship.

The Grand Lodge Meeting in Tennessee-The Increase in Canada Gratifyin".

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 17.—The large assembly hall of the Lookout Mountain inn was crowded this morning at the opening of the 70th session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows. The preliminary proceedings were conducted with open doors. On behalf of the State the visitors were welcomed by Governor Turney. Greetings were also extended by the Oddfellows of Tennessee and Chattanooga and appropriate responses were made by Grand Sire Dr. C. T. C npbell, of London, Ont., and other delegates. After these exercises the doors were closed, and the Sovereign Grand Lodge went into executive session for the purpose of receiving the annual report of the grand sire.

Dr. Campbell said that since the last convention in the South, which was held in Atlantic twenty years ago, the membership in what is recognized politically as the Southern States, has increased from 6,000 to 50,000, and to the people of the South Oddfellowship has become an established institution. The total membership of the order is now 780,000, or, including the Sisters of Rebekah degree, 889,000. To this should be added in foreign jurisdictions a membership of 25,000, making a combined membership of nine-tenths of a million of members.

The net increase in membership during the year had been 33,000. In Canada the order has made greater progress than in any year of its history. A charter had been granted for a grand lodge in Sweden, and it was recommended that an application for a district lodge in Naples, Italy, be granted. Overtures had been made looking to the introduction of the order into India, but there were evident reasons by the proposition should not be entertained. A charter had been granted for an initial lodge in Newfoundland, the only portion of British North America not hitherto occupied.

THE MASSEYS WILL GO TO THE STATES.

The Massey Manufacturing Company have for the last few days been threatening to take their implement factories to the United States, They say that the Canadian Government collects so high duties on their raw materials that they cannot compete with the United States manufac- grand vice-chancellor. Col. Moffat wat turers in the markets of the world. This England, and in 1872 was elevated to be beautiful miniature house of seeds is worthy is one result of the new Democratic tariff, most puissant sovereign. In 1868 he re- of more than a passing glance. The products which lowers the duties on raw materials entering the United States all around. Here is what Mr. H. A. Massey, president of the company, says:

"We use little lumber in our manufactured articles, the principal materials used being steel, pig iron, bar iron, and nails. McCormick, of Chicago, and the Deering Company also can get a ton of pig iron for $9, while it costs us $16 50 a ton-and this though we buy our iron from the same company. This is because of the Canadian high tariff. Similarly with steel, bar fron, nails, etc. The difference between the Canadian duty and the new American duty is very great, being at least 50 per cent higher in Canada. Just as $9 is to $16 50 so is our ability to compate with American manufacturers in the foreign markets, so long as we remain in Canada. We had, I repeat, either to withdraw from the foreign markets or go to the United States-and we intend to go to the United States. That new Democratic tariff of yours will benefit your country immensely. By freeing raw materials it will cheapen the cost of manufactured articles both to manufacturer and consumer. It will draw to your side manufacturing concerns from Canada who want a wider market and an opportunity to manufacture goods cheaper and more profitably. It is that new tariff bill which has attracted us to your shores." Some Canadian newspapers interpret this attitude of the Massey Manufacturing Company as meaning that they desire an increase in the duty on agricultural implements, and they hope by this means to secure a promise to that effect from the Dominion Government, We care not what the motive of the Massey Company may be, it is plain that they tell the truth. What will the Government at Ottawa do about it? If they had taken our advice they would have thrown off the duty on agricultural implements entirely and thus have obtained that free market for our manufactures in the United States which the new United States law provides. Then they could 10 a.m. have given the Masseys and all other manufacturers free raw materials, enabling them to maintain their works in Canada and employ Canadian labor, instead of forcing them to seek a field where the raw material is cheap and the opportunities to most obtuse that our manufacturers cannot

A MINISTER SCARED.

Hon. T. M. Daly, Minister of the Interior, is in Brandon, Man., personally supervising the revision of the voters' lists. This to some may appear rather prosaic work for a Cabinet Minister of this great Dominion forget that it is not apt to prove more effective in getting votes for the Minister than speechifying would be. Thomas M. rarely opens his mouth that he does not put his foot in it.

The tremendous anxiety of this member of the Cabinet to have the voters' lists in his constituency filled with all the names favorable to him that he can lay hold of should suggest to the advocates of trade freedom the necessity for action all along come it early or come it late,

DEATH OF COL. MOFFAT.

This morning, one of the oldest residents of London (Lieut.-Col. James Moffat) died at his residence, 112 Simcoe street. The deceased had for many months been ailing from a complication of diseases, and his death was not unexpected, nevertheless its announcement will be received by many old friends with sincere regret.

Lieut. Col. Moffat has lived in this city for 49 years. He was born in Lanark, Scotland, and was the son of James and Richard Harrower Moffat. He received a iberal education, and spent his early days on the farm. In 1841, he immigrated to New York, where for a time he remained. Then he went to Lockport, and in 1845 he came to London, with which he has since been actively identified. In 1854, when the late Marcus Holmes was mayor of the town of London, Col. Moffat was returned along with the late John Blair and John Clegg as councilor for St. David's Ward, and in the following year, when London became a city, with Mr. Murray Anderson as mayor, Col. Moffat aldermen for No. 1 ward. In 1860 Col. by the geological survey at Athabasca Moffat was selected as mayor, and in aldermanic board. When the Prince of Wales visited this city, the colonel had the honor of presenting him with the civic address. The deceased took a prominent part in educational affairs, and he made a most efficient chairman. He was a Liberal

Early in his Canadian career Col. Moffat went to Montreal and received instructions in military drill in connection with the Forty-Seventh regiment. In 1856 he raised a Highland company. Six years later he was gazetted a brigade major, and in 1872 lieutenant colonel, proving while in service an efficient inspector of the first military

Col. Moffat occupied a very prominent position in the Masonic fraternity. He received the degree of master Mason in Lanark, Scotland, in 1841, and after coming to London he affiliated with St. John's Lodge, No. 209a, and subsequently with the Tuscan Lodge, No. 195. In 1855 and 1867 he was W. M. of St. John's, 209a, and in 1879 he was W. M. of the Tuscan Lodge. In 1856 he was elected grand senior warden of the Grand Lodge of Canada, and in 1858, 1879 and 1880 D. D. G. M. of the London district. In 1881 he was elected grand master, and in the same year, while on a visit to Scotland, St. Clair Lodge, No. 349, of Edinburgh, and St. George's, No. 333, Glasgow, held crowded meetings in his honor and elected him an honorary member. In Capitular Masonry Col. Moffat has been first principal. He received his degree 1854 in St. John's Chapter, No. 3. Four years later he became a member of Richard Cour de Lion Commandery, of which body in 1865 he was elected eminent commander. In 1865 he was appointed grand register of the Grand Conclave; in 1868, first captain, and in 1878 and Accepted Scottish Rite, up to and including Rose Croix, 18°, and in 1871 went to Detroit and took the remaining degrees of the Scottish Rite. In 1885, while in Order of Scotland.

In recent years Col. Moffat has lived in a comparatively retired manner, but while his health remained he was actively engaged in forwarding the interests of the community. He was vice-president of the Agricultural Savings and Loan Society. In public as well as in private life he enjoyed the esteem of his fellow-citizens. He was twice married-first in New York, in 1843, to Miss Susanna Cox, a native of England, who died in 1881. By this marriage there were eight children, six of whom survive him. His second w fe, who is left to mourn his death, was Miss Helen Wallace Peden, of Galston, Ayrshire, Scotland, and a descendant of Alexander Peden, one of the most celebrated of Scottish Covenanter worthies.

The Dairy Hall.

It will soon behoove the Western Fair directors to rechristen this hall and call it the "Indian Industrial Hall." As in former years a large portion of the space is given over to the Indians and their exhibits, and the red men have every reason to feel proud of their display. The whole length of the southern wall is spread with quilt work, including many beautiful designs and a tasty arrangement of color. On one quilt are about 150 names. What were they? "Well," replied the Indian in charge,

"we bought an organ in our Sunday school, and everybody who paid a certain amount had their names put on the quilt." So, gradually, are the prerogatives of civilization being usurped by the Indian. A few minutes later the same Indian said, "Oh, in about five years we will be all right. Same as white man." If the exhibit of Indian handicraft counts for anything the Indian is already "all right. "I thought potatoes were going to be a failure this year," said one man to another as they gazed at the immense display of 'Irish apples."

"It don't look like it," answered his companion, and it certainly did not. The display of vegetables never looked better. drought or no drought. The cabbages have awfully swelled heads on this account, but they do not try to put on airs when a Chili squash four teet in diameter happens around. Perhaps the most comprehensive agricultural display is that of John S. ceived in London the degree of the Ancient | of three large apiaries take up considerable space in this building. John Newton of Thamesford, has already sold his magnificent display of honey to a Winnipeg firm. Wm. Coleman, Birr, and Byron Aches, Scotland, he took the degree of the Royal | Poplar Hill, are the other honey exhibitors. Mr. Aches had a great many visitors who came uninvited. They were honey bees, and the first comers went back and brought hundreds more. They were too busy gathering loose honey to think about stinging. This season has not been very good for honey owing to the drought.

An oddity in the shape of a cucumber snake is shown in this building. The cucumber is several feet long, and curls gracefully and tapers like a snake. When quite small a bandage was placed within a few inches of the heavy end, and as a result when full grown it presents the appearance of a snake's head. The mouth is cut and painted red and an imitation tongue has been inserted. Beads for eyes give the vegetable a close resemblance to a snake,

FAIR NOTES. Adam Beck's string of prize winners from the Toronto Fair will be exhibited in the ring at 4 o'clock tomorrow. It includes all kinds of turnouts and is first class in every respect. The driver of Meg Dinmont was accused of crossing in front of Adam Beck's horse in Monday's race and barring the latter from second place.

The drivers of Pay Rock and Annie Rooney were given a severe reprimand in the third heat of the pacers race yesterday. They used the whips too freely and urged the horses on by yelling. It was an association track, Judge Minhinnick said, and such conduct was not going to be allowed. The grand stand cheered,

Yesterday was "Citizens' Day" at the fair city-the business center of Western Ontario-were "not in it" to the extent that might be expected, for the attendance was below the average. It may have reached 7,000, but did not exceed that number. In this connection it may be mentioned that the directors have left nothing undone in any line to make the Fair what it generally is-"the" exhibition of Canada, and citizens doubtless will redeem themselves by turning out in force during the remaining days of the week, dropping their good quarters on the counters of the ticket offices, running up the figures in the turnstiles, and making the hearts of the managers swell with joy. The weather yester-day was of the kind to prevent an attack of melancholia. The sun shone as brightly as he could, but on account of his desperate exertions during the summer was a little week. This made the weather all the more enjoyable, and if there had been a 35,000 or 40,000 crowd on the grounds nothing could have stopped the Fair people from exhibit-ing joy by dancing the Highland fling, Irish jig, or some equally lively step. the London B. THE BICYCLE RACES. The balance of the bicycle races, postponed from Saturday, went off very successfully. In the one mile, 2:50 class, Rowen, of Guelph, who finished second, was ruled out of the race by the referee, The third man finishing getting second prize and the fourth rider third prize.

The boys' one half mile race was one of the most remarkable of the day, being new suits and headed by a redman in full won by Frank McCormick, a member of the London Bicycle Club, in the exceedingly short time of 1:12, Ferguson getting second and Brown being awarded Western Fair, but the inhabitants of this third on being fouled by another rider.

The team race was won by the L. B. C. team No. 2, captained by Frank White, with Radway and Reid as mates. The trophy was a very choice one, being valued at $80. Hutchinson, "The King of the Air," high above the earth. It took a roaring fire about one hour to fill the balloon, and when ready to ascend the top was high above the trees. The balloon was held down by many willing hands, and the two daring aeronauts soon put in an appearance. They took their places on the bars attached to the parachutes, and at a given word the airship was freed, and in a second was speeding skyward at a rapid rate. Higher and higher it went, until at an altitude of several thousand feet, Mile. De Vean cut herself loose, and was soon descending to terra firma with her parachute wide open. Prof. Hutchinson continued on his journey for some time afterwards. The fear was expressed that an accident had befallen him or that he was unable to break away, but the minds of the spectators were set at ease when the big umbrella was seen to open and start downward. There was very little wind, and both Mile. De Vean and Hutchinson landed safely a short distance south of the Fair grounds near the G. T. R. property. Mons. and Mile. De Coma performed a clever bicycle feat in mid-air. Mons. De Coma navigated the wheel on a wire about 50 feet from the ground, while Mile. De Coma, on a trapeze pendant from the wheel, executed many perilous feats. Acrobats who had displayed themselves in London before were outclassed by Rajan. His many acts are, to say the least, clever and exciting.

Siegrist and Lee, in the laughable acrobatic pantomime, "The Clown and His Sagacious Monkey," furnished plenty of amusement. The present Mr. Seigrist has a capable partner in Mr. Lee.

Major Hendershott, "the boy drummer of the Rappahannock," who served in the American civil war, is very clever in handling the sticks. He carries with him the drum presented to him by Horace Greeley after the battle of Fredericksburg, and also the drum sticks presented to him by Presidents Garfield and Arthur. The side shows were a great attraction to them and the manager of the menagerie admitted them to a performance free of charge. They were generally very orderly, and as the crowd on the grounds was not very great the sharp-eyed attendants had little trouble in keeping track of them. A demented woman lost her head when she saw the animals and commenced to rup. Two attendants had a sharp chase after her. One of the men fell in love with a cheap jewelry race course. The Northwest exhibition car has made its appearance. It stands on an impromptu switch next to the Centennial dining hall.

The management can well afford to prohibit the firing of guns on the grounds to attract a crowd. It is a dangerous backwoods custom.

The Tecumseh brass band of Muncey played some of their choice selections at the Fair grounds and were well applauded by the public. This band consists of the direct descendants of the late great chief and warrior, Tecumseh, who fell in the defense of Canada. P. C. Rowell is doing mounted police duty inside the ring.

Mr. James Jackson, a member of the Windsor police force, is in attendance at the Western Fair. He weighs 257 pounds. Mr. Wm. D. Watson, of the Watson Manufacturing Company, Ayr, and Mr. D. J. Waterous, of the Waterous engine works, Brantford, are attending the Fair.

The Seventh and Oneida Indian Bands played out to the Fair grounds this afternoon. The Oneidas were resplendent in warrior's costume. The officials in the horse races were:

Starters, Ald. Dreaney and J. R. Minhinnick; judges, J. D. Brown and D. Ferguson; timers, J. W. Hyman and Dr. O'Neill. Wednesday morning the city band will travel to London in full force to fill their day's engagement at the Western Fair. Reid's Crystal Hall. After 50 years of successful business in the wholesale trade the firm of W. J. Reid & Co. are still leading. That it is the premier china and glassware establishment in Canada is exemplified by their large four-story establishment-197 and 199 Dundas street-by their large staff of hands, and by their over increasing trade, reaching from the Atlantic and Maritime Provinces in the east, to the Northwest Provinces, British Columbia and the Pacific on the west. The bulk of our clothing is manufactured by the TWO LARGEST and BEST MANUFACTURERS in Canada, and a large part of it is made specially to our order. This is why clothing sold by us fits so much nicer and looks so much better than ordinary readymades. There is an individuality about our garments that strikes the customer favorably the moment he puts them on. Then the linings and trimmings are all of the best possible description, thus securing real agood wearing qualities, besides the comfort of wearing clothes that fit a person properly. All these things along with a very moderate price go a long way in making large sales. Our new fall stock is now complete, and we ask you in your own interest to come and look through our great assortment, feeling certain that a thorough examination of OUR CLOTHING and OUR PRICES will lead to business.

See our Boys' Suit, $2. See our Youths' Suit, $3.

See our Men's Black Worsted Suit, $10. As good as you can buy anywhere at $12 50. It is a specialty with us, and IT'S A DANDY.

Own Fault

If those lovely French All-Wool Black Dress Goods selling at 50 cents, well worth $1 to $125 per yard, are all sold before you secure one. If you saw the way we are running them off, you'd be quicker about coming for one. It's not every day you can secure for $3 a beautiful Black Dress worth from $6 to $7, and it's not every day we can get such a snap to offer you, but it's now or never, so Don't Delay, as Delays are Dangerous.

We have a Mantle for You. Call and See It.

MADAM JARRE, "Advertiser" Office, Correspondence strictly private. ywt

Stealing softly along, went she, until she came to the turning, and then she looked cautiously round. The projecting bushes favored her. To do Jelly justice, it must be affirmed that she had neither malice nor ill will in her nature; rather the contrary; but a little innocent prying into her neighbors' offairs presented an irresistible temptation. What, then, was her astonishment to seenot a dying swain and his mistress, side by side; but her own mistress, Mrs. Cumberland, seated on the bench in an agony of grief, and Dr. Rane standing with folded arms before her.

Jelly, great at divining probabilities, easily comprehended the situation. Her mistress must have stayed to take tea with Mrs. Gass, and encountered her son in walking

To come down upon lovers with a startling reprimand was one thing; to intrude upon her mistress and Dr. Rane would be quite another. Jelly wished she had not gone stealing up like a mouse, and felt inclined to steal back again.

But the attitude and appearance of Mrs. Cumberland riveted her to the spot. Her face, never so gray as now, as seen in the moonlight, was raised to her son's, its expression one of yearning agony; her hands were lifted as if imploring some boon, or warding off some fear. Jelly's eyes opened to their utmost width, and in her astonishment she failed to catch the purport of the first low breathed words.

'I tell you, you are mistaken, mother," said Dr. Rane in answer, his own voice ringing out clearly enough in the still night; though it nevertheless bore a husked tone. "Is it probable? Is it likely? I drop the copy of the letter out of my pocket book! What next will you suppose me capable

"" it-Oliver,"-and the voice was raised a lie le-"how else could it have been found upon her carpet?"

"I have my theory about that," he re-joined with decision. "Mother, come home; will tell you more then. Is this a fitting time or place to have thus attacked me?"

Air, voice, action, were sharp with authority, as he bent and took her hand.
Mrs. Cumberland, saying something about "having been surprised into speaking," rose from the bench. Jelly watched them along the road; and then sat down on the bench herself to recover her amazement. "What on earth does it mean?"

Ah! what did it mean? Jelly was pretty sharp, but she was afraid to give full range to her thoughts. Other steps fell on her They proved to be those of Mr. Alex "Is it you, Jelly! Waiting for your sweetheart?"

Jelly rose. "Standing about to look at funerals, and such things, tires one worse than a ten mile race.' "Then why do you do it?"

"One fool makes many," returned Jelly with composure. "Sir, I'd like to know who wrote that letter." "It strikes me the letter was written by a

"A woman!" echoed Jelly, in genuine surprise, "Good gracious, Mr. Alexander!"
"They are so sharp upon us at times, are women," he continued, smiling. "Men don't attack one another."

"And what woman do you suspect, sir?" ried Jelly, in her insatiable curiosity.
"Ah! there's the rub. I have been speaking of women in general, you see. Perhaps it was you?"
"Me!" exclaimed Jelly.

Mr. Alexander laughed. "I was only joking. Jelly. Good night. But Jelly, sharp Jelly, rather thought he had not been joking, and that the suspicion had stipped out inadvertently.

She went straight home. And when she rived there, Mrs. Cumberland was seated by the drawing room fire, herface calm and still as usual, listening to the low sweet singing of Ellen Adair.

And Oliver Rane had passed in to his own house with his weight of care. Half wishing that he could exchange places with Edmund North in Dallory churchyard.

CHAPTER VII.

The two guests, Sir Nash Bohun and his son, were departing from Dallory Hall. They had arrived the previous afternoon in time to attend the funeral, had dined and slept there, and were now going again. Their coming had originated with Sir Nash. In his sympathy with the calamity—the particulars of which had been written to im by his nephew. Arthur Bohun-Sir Nash had proposed to show his concern and respect for the North family by coming with his son to attend the funeral. The offer was accepted; albeit Mrs. North was not best pleased to receive them. From some cause or other, madam had never been anxious to court intimacy with her first husband's brother; when thrown ito his thing with a keen relish and feel like society, there was something in her manner a new man. I have sold over 30 that almost seemed to say she did not feel at ease with him.

Neither at dinner last night nor at breakfast this morning had the master of the house been present; the entertainment of the guests had fallen on Richard North as his father's representative. Captain Bohun | tainly saved my life, as I never expected to was of course with them; also the rest of the family, including madam. Madam played her part gracefully in black crape elaborately set off with jet. For once in her ife she was honest and did not affect to feel he grief for Edmund that she would have elt for a son.

Sitting disconsolately before the open vindow of his parlor was Mr. North. His black clothes looked too large for him, his whole air was that of one who seems to have ost interest in the world. It is astonishing MOW aged, as compared with other moments, men will look in their seasons of abandoment. While we battle with our cares, they spare the features in a degree; but in the abandonment of despair, when all around seems dreary, and we are sick and faint because to fight longer seems impossible, then look at the poor sunken face! The room was dingy; it has already been said; rather long but narrow; and it seemed [ Children's photos a specialty.

But if the parlor was dingy, the capacious window and the prospect on which it looked, brightened it. Stretching parterre of many-colored flowers, Mr. North's only delight for years past. In the cultivation of these flowers, he had found a refuge from life's daily vexations and petty cares. Heaven is merciful, and some counter-balancing interest to long-continued sorrow is often supplied to us.

It is far easier to prevent disease than it is to cure. No loving mother should take chances with her baby.

Experienced mothers and nurses are aware of the fact that dysentery and 13,000 bushels of corn at the Grand Trunk diarrhea come on often with a surprising suddenness in the early autumn.

In order to prevent such attacks, baby's daily diet should be pure Lactated Food. This wonderful nourisher strengthens the stomach and all the organs of digestion, and keeps the baby bright, healthy and vigorous.

To mothers who have weak and delicate babes, we confidently say, give Lactated Food a week's trial, and see what it will do for your little one in the way of building it up. The trial may be the means of saving your darling's life.

> A DISAPPOINTED MAN, Thought He Was Going to Die Before Summer Was Out, But He's Alive and Well and Working

Today. SOMERSET, Man., Sept. 17 .- "Hard Times" is the cry from farmers in this country. Arthur Coley, a farmer living near here, has had double reason to cry 'hard times," for eight months ago he lay to be dead before the end of summer, but his expectations have been most pleasantly disappointed, and all summer he has worked on his farm just as though he had never known a day's illness. Last spring he hegan taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, and a few boxes completely cured him, as they have every other victim of this disease who has used them.

A River Rescue. What might have been a serious accident happened down the river about 4 p.m. yesterday. Two gentlemen and two ladies hired a row boat from Milne's boat-house, and all went well until they reached the spot where the Victoria disaster occurred. One of the cars became entangled in something, and the young ladies becoming frightened, the boat was upset, throwing the four into the water, which is very deep at this place. None of the party could swim. One of the young ladies was sinking for the last time when Mr. J. F. Heintzman, the oarsman, who was out for his spin down the river, came to the rescue. He directed his attention first to Detroit Evening News Rev. J. C. Tolmie, the sinking young lady, and then sucthe paster of St. Andrew's Presbyterian ceeded in bringing all ashore safely. Detective Thomas Nickle yesterday afternoon added another to his list of important captures when he took into custody Wm. Baker, of Chicago, formerly of this city. Baker is charged with breaking into the office of the Wabash Railway at Springfield, Ill., and robbing the safe of $1,177.33 on the night of Sept. 3. The police in Springfield had suspicion of a certain gang, and the case was followed up by the company's detectives. On Sept. 3 George Baker, a brother of the prisoner; "Happy Kennedy," alias Paul Hamilton, and Teddy Frost, a crook of some notoriety in Chicago, were arrested at Wm. Baker's house in the outskirts of Chicago. The officers took the trio to the lockup, and returned for the prisoner William Baker, but he had fled. Since then Detectives Furlong and Wm. Ballard, of on his back in bed, a victim of Bright's the Wabash Railway force, and W. W. Disease. He acknowledges that he expected | Ansley, an operator and detective in the company's employ, have been searching for Baker. They traced him to London, and the party arrived here on Sunday. Detectives Nickle and Rider rendered them all the assistance possible. A photograph of Baker was produced, and on this clue was the arrest made. Nickle was coming towards the city on a car about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and spotted his man going east. Together with one of the Chicago officers, Nickle took a right about face, and on reaching the Fair grounds saw Baker jumping through the fence. The handcuffs were applied and Baker was soon on his road to the station in the wagon, whence he was transferred to the jail to await extradition proceedings. Baker is a native of London, and is said to be a tough character. His father lives on Eva street, East London. Baker goes by the alias "Betry," but the genuine Betry Baker, who is a brother of the prisoner, is now in Rochester. He was sent down from years in Kingston for burglary. Baker will fight extradition. He was
