R. H. Fryer, representing the R. H. Fryer Company of Toronto, an expert in all matters pertaining to ombustion, who was present at the meeting last night to interest the London Board of Education in the Hoffman patent fuel-saving grate, complimented the board on the very low operating cost of its heating. In reference to a remark by Capt. Robinson, clerk of works, on the coal consumption last year in one of London's schools, he said: "That is the lowest fuel consumption I have met with so far in my travels. There is nothing like that in any of the Toronto schools."

In his talk to No. 2 committee Mr. Fryer proved himself a worthy sales-man, and succeeded in interesting the members in his patent to the extent that they agreed, after going thoroughly into the details of the working of the grates, to try an experiment with one in the Boyle orial School. The agreement entered into by the committee, which has to be ratified by the full board, contains a guarantee by the Toronto company stat-ing that in the event of the grate proving unsatisfactory after a reasonable test it will be removed, the price returned and the old grates replaced free of charge.

ACOUITS VETERAN OF SETTING FIRE TO CARADOC BARN

Crowd Cheers Wildly When Shell-Shocked Soldier Is Cleared of Charge.

TRIAL AT STRATHROY

Strathroy, July 12 .- The packed audience in the town hall nere yeserday cheered wildly, despite the calls for order, when Norman Wilson. shell-shocked veteran of the great war, was honorably acquitted of the charge of setting fire to the barns of At the close of the case for the crown, J. M. McEvoy, counsel for the accused, moved for his acquittal on the grounds of insufficient evidence. Magistrate R. M. Trueman then

It was then burning freely in the small barn, and the only thing wrong to be noticed was that the top part of the double doors to the stable were open. The fire was then beyond control, and rapidly demolished both the small and large barn, as well as contents of stock, machinery, hay and straw. Apparently it had started in the mow full of hay in the small barn. Mr. Howe claimed he had last been in the barn about 9:30 o'clock, assisting Joseph Blackmore harness his horse, and everything was all right then."

Mr. Blackmore, who had been a New Year's guest of Mr. Howe, corroborated this evidence. Frank Marshall, a neighbor, knew nothing of the fire. Where Is France Going?

To read the reports emanating from Paris, it would require no great stretch of the imagination to conclude that we were back once more in that period from 1914 to 1918, when the nations of the world thought, acted that month 5,523 accidents, 35 of them fatal, were and spoke only in terms of armaments and men. Here is a portion of the report presented to the province.

French parliament:

"First-France, so long as she (France) bases her existence and respect for her rights upon the prestige of her strength, must, because of her will for peace, maintain a strong army.

Second-That the army, solidly constructed upon the lessons of the war, ought to be definitely guided toward the search for more perfected armaments than those with which the enemy can be equipped, so that the army may retain the preponderance of force we are going to give it.

"Third-The time may come when those who must decide whether to refuse or accept, or even anticipate, war will have to bear a heavy responsibility, and because of the very brutality and efficacy of the first blows struck, it is important to give them, instead of receiving them."

And yet we were told that the world war was a ar to end war. That statement, in the light of subsetruent events, was as wrong as any statement could possibly have been.

Then came the League of Nations, the Washington conference, all of them for the purpose of pulling the teeth of the dogs of war.

France sat in at these conferences; she subscribed apparently in good faith, to the articles of these conventions; she was a party to the idea of scrapping battleships. Britain subscribed to these same things. and Britain has played the game in accordance with the understanding arrived at.

Today France has not paid Britain either principal or interest of the immense war debt owing Britain, despite the fact that London has undertaken definitely to discharge her war debt to United States, much of which was incurred for the protection of France.

Instead France has gone on piling up an air force, going to end. She does this under the cloak of needing to suit their case." a very strong army to maintain peace, a plea which has been made by militarists the world over ever since determination in adhering to a diet that a grown-up history has been written.

When France was fighting with her back to the Britain. Today, when Britain asks for straight an you believe it, most of them scampered off and voted swers to plain questions regarding France's attitude Tory? in Germany and toward reparations in general, France fails to furnish answers that a faithful and a patient ally is fully and fairly entitled to.

The situation is not reassuring, nor is it positively dangerous. It is not, though, the situation that Canadian soldiers laid down their lives to create.

Wrong, Yet Almost Right.

' In Keppel Township, North Grey, a deputy return ing officer allowed people to vote whose names were not on the list, his explanation being that he knew they as the barber across the street got out of one scrape he had the proper qualifications and should be allowed to got into another. use the ballot.

Of course he was wrong in what he did, and the ballots so marked will probably be thrown out, but there was a big element of common sense in the course beautiful just now—if you can find a place where a picnic party has not cooked a meal.

Nature and all outdoors is very wonderful and very everybody strives to be the one person to hold the head of the victim.

Why should there not be provision for people to

If the deputy returning officer were supplied with forms for taking a sworn affidavit from such voters, that would give ample protection, and provide a means for any necessary prosecution or action afterward in case of false swearing.

The returning officer in North Grey was probably wrong, but there is the added chance that he was only a few steps in advance of the times.

Passing the "Entrance."

The passing of the entrance examination is quite an event in the young life of a boy or girl. It seems to mark the first definite step in having arrived at some standing in education that is required and

"I passed entrance" is a phrase used by many a boy in looking for employment, and it carries the proof of there having been a fairly good grounding in necessary subjects.

As usual, there are those who have failed, and their parents hold, for the time being at any rate, that the evitem is wrong, and that there should have been a commendation without the entrance exams. Not many years ago all the pupils tried entrance; if one failed who had done good work he could be recommended afterward. The old system was quite fair, because as long as there were to be final examinations all had to

At present the system used in London permits of ecommendations on the principal's report, based on the year's work. But the entrance board comes in here, again, and claims that a certain number must write in order to check up the work and reports of the principal. The idea is quite right, as it is necessary that there should be a standard kept, but it does seem unfair o ask some competent pupils who should be recommended on their year's work to write on the finals in order to justify the work and marking of the teacher. The system of marking the papers is fair enough, and there is no move made to keep any pupil back-in fact couraged Dr. Dorten, the leader of the separatist movevery often an effort is made to give every mark consistent to help him along. The present system can hardly be regarded as the last word, as it is probably leading up to some plan that will eliminate entrance land on France's dealings with Dr. Dorten. These date examinations. This would not call for the holus-bolus from the armistice to the present time, and have been passing of an entrance class, but for judgment based on the year's work and effort.

The authorities very wisely hold now that complete failure in any one subject does not necessarily state. Even so he never seems to have had a following mean that the pupil be plucked. There are some pupils, or instance, who cannot spell, but they are well advanced in all other lines. It would be a waste of effort to put such pupils back for a year in all subjects in by the French. order that they might try to secure a better standing

Then, too, there is the privilege of appeal, when parents are given the opportunity of asking for reconsideration of a pupil's case. The examining board invite, rather than discourage, the making of appeals. shed possible. The report on the Rhineland admits as The board of examiners face a big problem; they ealize that there are those who cannot make as good a howing on examinations as in ordinary day-to-day work at school, and in the end their only reason for holding any pupil back would be that his or her going many.

on would be a hindrance to the class entered.

London schools have made a creditable showing in the entrance work; it reflects very favorably on principals and teaching staffs all through, for entrance work is simply the last stage of a process that must be thorough all through.

Far Too Many Accidents.

Ontario made a new record in June of 1923. In reported to the workmen's compensation board of this

Reduced to a day's work, it means 200 accidents. In the first six months of 1923 there were 27.745 accidents, an increase over 1922 of 6,215, or over 1,000 a

The weak spot in accident prevention is that it always refers to some person else.

A man reads of a car wreck on the road. He seldom thinks that the same thing might happen to him;

he looks at once for some reference to careless driving. The man in industrial life is the same. He knows that some chap got his finger smashed, but his hand is not in danger; he knows another man who left off his goggles got an eye put out, but there can be no danger of that happening to him.

Someone wrote that self-preservation is the first law of nature-but we doubt it when statistics go to prove that men have to be coaxed and threatened to quit taking chances.

There are enough inspectors going through factories to eliminate most of the mechanical hazards; safety devices are attached to nearly all machines, and yet we have the bad record of 5,523 accidents, 35 of them fatal. in one month. It is too great a strain on industry as such, as well as on the human element that figures in it.

We Agree With the Doctor.

Are men contrary, indifferent, or what? A London doctor informed this paper that it is one thing to put a man on a diet and quite another to make him stay on it.

"I have several cases now where patients have been ordered to eat certain things and leave others alone. It is all very well for a few days, and then they start to supplement with something they are sure is all right; studying new military methods, and setting a pace they know it won't hurt them, and in a few days they that makes Britain wonder at times where it is all are back with the complaint that the diet doesn't seem

M. Poincare has denied that he seeks the dismemberment of Germany, but it is impossible to find any other motive for these intrigues in both the Rhineland and Bavaria. MARRY YOUNG.

As arrows in the hand of a mighty man, so are the children of youth. Modern life (which we call civilized) is against early marriage and large families.

But there is much to be said for the other side, and the psalmist He says that religion is the only sure foundation of a family; and then he shows us the picture of a father with his loyal and stalwart children about him. "Children of youth." he calls them; meaning thereby to give a strong and sensible commendation to early marriage, and to teach that it is a great privilege for a man to have his children grow up and come to maturity in his own house, under his own guidance. Thus he can have the joy of seeing them established in life before he leaves it, and their strength will be a support and stay to him in his declining years. They will be like arrows in his hand, whose course he can direct so that they shall hit the mark. They will be an honor and a protection to him; and he shall not be

TO THE EDITOR. THE NAUGHTY ALDERMAN.

Editor of The Advertiser.

Sir: Undoubtedly the action of the London Ministerial Alliance, which resulted in the Thames Park swimming pool being closed last Sunday, has aroused some of our city fathers from their peaceful slumbers and disturbed the wonted serenity of our civic life, which in these sweltering July days cannot be regarded as at ministers. His worship the mayor was very indignant when he heard of the situation on Monday morni and according to the press, declared. Now. Mr. Editor, there are, and robably always will be, widely different views as to that which is and that which is not "Christianity.". The would not close the swimming pools Sunday, while the minister the contrary, believe that tianity" would and should prohibit course, the mayor is sincere and so are the ministers. His worship is against depriving the kiddies of a cool plunge on hot Sundays, while the ministers believe that the greatest good will accrue to the greatest number by making Sunday a quiet, restful day on which both old and young can gratefully and reverently worship God, and inasmuch as there are six days on which our boys and girls can splash about in the waters to their hearts' content, there seems to be no urgent need for keeping the pool open on Sundays. So evidently there must be room for differences opinion, and freedom for all within the law and the gospel. I agree with the logic of the mayor when he asks: "If they are going to bar the children and adults from to protect themselves from careless-ness in the water, and it would be a these pools on Sunday, why then should we not halt Sunday bathing at Port Stanley?" and I will gladly delight to hear his personal expresjoin his worship in an enort to discourage this mad rush of all sorts of people to the Port on Sunday, both by public and private conveyances.

Peter Rabbit was satisfied that neither Reddy Fox nor Mrs. Reddy had caught Danny or Nanny Meadow Mouse. But Danny and Nanny had disappeared, and all Peter's efforts to find them had failed.

"Somebody has caught them," declared Peter. "Somebody must have caught them. Perhaps it was Old Man Coyote. I wonder why I didn't think of him before. He must be the one. Hello, there he is now!"

Sure enough, there was Old Man Coyote just coming down on the Green Meadows from the Old Pearly of the country of the Coyote just coming down on the Green Meadows from the Old Pearly of the country of the Coyote just coming down on the Green Meadows from the Old Pearly of the country of the Coyote just coming the Old Pearly of the country of the Coyote just coming the Old Pearly of the country of the Coyote just coming the Old Pearly of the Coyote just control of the Green Meadows from the Old Pas-ture. Peter was glad that he was in the dear Old Briar Path and not on his way home. He sat up, the better to watch Old Man Coyote. He wondered what Old Man Coyote was for. He didn't have to wait long to find out. Old Man Coyote headed straight for the place where Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse had been living when Peter last saw them. When he got there he began to hunt. He ran this way and that way, back and forth, crossing and recrossing his own trail, and covering every bit of that ground. Most of the time his nose was to the ground. Once in a while he would stop to prick up his ears and listen. Peter watched every move Old Man Coyote made. He understood perfectly what Old Man Coyote was He was hunting for Meadow Mice. There wasn't the least doubt about it, he was hunting for Meadow Mice. He was hunting for Danny and Nachny Meadow Mouse.

"I'm wrong again," muttered Peter. 'Yes, sir, I'm wrong again. Old Man Coyote is hunting for Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse, and of course, he wouldn't do that if he had already "Go ahead!"
"I never seen Mr. Gresham at all at the station. And when I seen I'm sure that Mrs. Reddy didn't. Im now I'm sure that Old Man Coyote didn't. It must have been Redtail the

without opening his eyes.

Bud slipped down to the lowest branch, opened that nice long knife and cut that high-up knot. "Sic 'em, Rusty," he rasped, pointing toward the garden, where a wee pullet scratched under the peonies.
"A-r-r-wow-wow," shouted Rusty and tore into the garden with ten feet of rope whirling behind him, wrapping itself about the peonies and scattering a shower of pink and

Jess and Luis Fit For Fight GALT SOUEEZED To Produce Title Challenger

Popular Interest At High Tension Over Chance of Willard To Make Ring History.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, July 11 .- Fit and ready for their 12-round battle tomorrow night in the big pine bowl at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City, Jess Willard, former champion of the world, and Luis Angel Firpo, the pride of the Argentine, will be the principals in what is expected to be one of the greatest ring dramas in years. Popular interest in the match has proken all records for a contest in which no championship is involved. The fact no championship is involved. The fact that Firpo and Willard will fight for the right to meet Jack Dempsey in a championship struggle has focused unusual attention on the bout. Tex Rickard has signed Willard and Firpo to contracts containing the stipulation that the winner fights Dempsey, and the promoter expects to come to terms with the champion's manager, Jack Kearns, within a few days.

The advance sale of tickets tonight approximated 35,000, it was announced, with the receipts close to $350,000. There remained, however, 27,000 reserved seats, together with 30,000 rush seats. All are expected to be sold.

Prominent figures in national, state and municipal public life, together with a throng of society folk and other notables, will occupy ringside seats. Willard may enter the ring a slight favorite, experts conceded tonight, despite the fact that a few weeks ago his opponent was favored by a majority of boxing followers. In ring prowess, stamina and hitting power, they are closely matched. Willard's advantages in height, weight and reach offsetting Firpo's youth and aggressiveness.

Both fighters had light workouts today. Neither did any sparring, but went through several rounds of shadow-boxing, bag-punching and exercise with the medicine ball.

Willard is expected to enter the ring around 240 and Firpo at about 214

Billings Goes Back In When McPhee Yanked-Galt Kid Stars.

Special to The Advertiser. Galt, July 11.-With a sensational ninth inning finish, which netted two runs, the Terriers beat the St. Thomas Saints here this afternoon in a return witnessed this year.

From a local standpoint, the feature of the game was the pitching of "Chuck" McCarthy, the local kid southpaw, who held the visitors to seven hits and had six strikeouts. He had good control and has proved a find to the Terriers, whose pitching staff at present is badly crippled. The team gave him fine support in the field. Dolson, playing third, also proved another find, turning in a great game. The Terriers were without the services of four of their regulars, Wilkinson, Hoffman. Oliver and Kinsman.

St. Thomas came down full strength. Bill Billings pitched the first five innings and pitched beautiful ball, showing a great burst of speed and allowing but two hits, and striking out seven. He then went to first base, McPhee going to the mound. An error by Watts gave St. Thomas their only run in the sixth, Barclay making the circuit on what was only a single. The Terriers fought back hard, and found McPhee an easter proposition than Billings. In the ninth Kress opened with a single and Dolson was safe on the hit and run play. A long fly to right field, two successive bad throws, let Kress go home and McPhee was yanked, Billings going back to the mound. PRESTON SENIORS STOP KITCHENER'S STREAK

Hand Wolves 7--3 Defeat On Own Twin City

Special to The Advertiser.

Kitchener, July 11.—The winning streak of the Twin City Wolves was stopped tonight here, when the Preston Riversides walked off with the long end of a 7 to 3 score in a senior intercounty game. The result was a surprise, but the visitors deserved their win, they having much better pitching and playing a steadier game in the field. They played errorless ball until the ninth, and then had two bobbles.

Heppler started out for the Wolves, but he was wild throughout and was derricked in the fourth with two men down. Owing to his wildness and Molson's error with two down in that inning the bags were loaded, and Hewer tripled. Then McGinnis, a junior, went in and the visitors got one hit from his delivery, that coming in the ninth frame.

Nichol was touched up for ten hits.

The Tecs staged another of rallies yesterday in the ninth inning, falling one run short of tieing the score, the Hams taking the odd game of the three on a 6-5 count. Rain prevented the first game of the double bill. When Thut crashed a triple on a line almost to the left field fence, scoring two runners in the ninth with two laid away to rest, something like real e-athusiasm broke ten ninth with two laid away to rest, something like real eathusiasm broke out, but Schaefer varied the "Casey at the Bat" role by driving out to Blake instead of whiffing.

The Tecs lost the game first through errors, then ill-advised base-running and finally in the ninth when Zolla weakened and yielded two singles which were scored in as a brace of runs by Blake's ripping triple almost to the score boards. Hesitation by Barbelon on Carlin's fielder's choice in the first frame and finally a wild throw to first permitted Dollie Gray, who had singled, to take third from where he scored on Kaylor's smash past third. A fast double play. Zolla to churry to Boyle, retired the side. Again an error in the fifth turned into one of three runs, the infirm Hams gathered. Thut fielded Gray's bouncing smash with his chest, Carlin singled and Stutz drew a walk while chatting amiable to Churry and the umps. Kuhn's double to right drove in two runs, and Kaylor's sacrifice fly pushed Stutz across.

meantime the Tecs had pulled out three runs. Stimpson tripled to start in the first frame and was scored by Bloke's sacrifice fly. Thut took second on a wild pitched fourth ball, took third when Schaefer's hit carommed off Lupyfe's shins, but succumbed there when Churry popped and Barbelon forced Schaefer at second. Four hits and an error produced another pair of nicks on the local totem pole in the second. Mc-Namara singled to right, so did Getsie. Getsie was out, trying Joe Briger's pegout, and Zolla, lifted a sacrifice fly, scoring McNamara.

Stimpson singled to left and stole second and was scored by Boyle's single to centre, taking third on Blake's peg to the plate which bounced high over Briger's head. Boyle steamed in on a bold sneak of home plate, but as he apparently didn't let Thut in on the deal, was an easy out.

From then on Noonan's prayerful stuff fooled the Tecs until the sixth when, with two gone, Barbelon beat out a hit to Kuhn. McNamara whanged a single to centre, but was foolishly sent down to second and thrown out by Blake's peg. With two gone in the seventh Stimpson drew a pass, stole his second base of the day and went to third on Boyle's single, but Thut forced Boyle at second, and that opportunity was killed off.

Zolla rân into a small blizzard of hits in the minth, netting the Hams their in the Had Made Three Runs.

RUSH FOR TICKETS

Expect Largest Assembly Fans in History Will See Interesting Battle.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL. Special to The Advertiser. Jersey City, N. J., July 12,-Four of the biggest mitts on the American continent will flail through the night air here, driving for a shot at the million-dollar heavyweight championship, when Jess Willard, the giant of Nort.. America, and Luis Firpo the mammoth of South America, pull their bulk through the ropes Boyle's Thirty Acres tonight Before a crowd that probably will run close to 100,000, the former heavyweight champion and the caveman from Argentine will battle twelve rounds to decide the next opponent for the discredited world's champion, Jack Dempsey. Expecting the biggest and perhaps the greatest heavyweight fight of years, thousands swarmed into Jersey City today, and thousands more were waiting across the Hudson in New York to take a late dash through the tubes for the scene of the battle.

Rush for Tickets. The quest for tickets was much greater and more earnest than on the previous occasion here when Dempsey and Carpentier were get-ting ready for the first battle of the century. Representatives of Rickard were here picking spots for the circus wagons from which would pass out one dollar and two dollar seats, starting at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The wagons were followed by swarms who were ready to grab off first position in the line.

Rickard announced that 35,000 of the choice seats nad been sold and that 25,000 cheaper seats in the reserve sections were available. He predicted that all the reserved seats would be sold hours before the gates f the big pine arena are opened. Frank Hague, mayor of Jersey City, announced that all arrangements have been completed to handle what may turn out to be the biggest Considering everything, size, experience, gameness, and fighting spirit, Firpo looks the winner. He can hit harder; he is more of a fighter at heart, and he is likely to carry just the kind of a fight to Willard that the former champion loes not like. The card will start at 8:15 (eastrn daylight time), with a six-round number between Charley Nashert and George West. This bout will be followed by eight rounds between Floyd Johnson and Jack McAuliffe. After the main bout, which will go on about 10 o'clock, Young Bob Fitzeinmens and Town Roses will Fitzsimmons and Tom Roper will box eight rounds.

MAKE GENERAL BOOST IN RATES AT MARKET

Finance Committee Moves To Get More Money From Rentals.

Members of the finance committee are out to reap further financial re-turns through the medium of the market and buildings thereon, and ecommendations for a general boost in rates have gone to the council. "The market represents an investment of $6,500, from which we receive annually but $6,000," pointed out the mayor, urging the increase and Ald. Geo. Burdick, who conducted a recent survey concurs

Rent for the outside locations was raised from $15 to $50 a year on corner sites and from $12.50 to $35 in other locations. Upstair stalls in the Covent Garden house were elevated from $20 to $25 per month, while basement stalls, now $7 a month, were raised to $10.

Similiar action affecting the but-chers' pavilion was deferred until the rights of Smallman and Ingram are ascertained definitely, Ald. Drake protesting that an increase in this instance would be unjustified. Upon his motion it was also recommended that no "hucksters" be allowed to park their conveyances on the market square overnight to monopolize

So Says Mrs. MacPherson of Lydia E.Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brantford, Ont.—"I was always tired and the least exertion would put me out for a day or two. I had a pressing pain on the top of my head, pain in the nape of my neck, and when I stooped over I could not get up without help, because of pain in my back. I did not sleep well and was nervous at the least noise. I keep house, but I was such a wreck that I could not sweep the floor nor wash the dishes without lying down afterwards. A friend living near me told me what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for her so I began to take it. With the first bottle I felt brighter and got so I could wash dishes nd sweep without having to lie down. Later I became regular again in my monthly terms. After all, aren't we told that restlessness is one of the problems of the age? It is apparent everywhere about us. TO CALL OR NOT TO CALL. "Do let me tell you the most delightful instance of true thoughtful-ness and courtesy that I've come across in years," writes a woman friend who has taken a house for the summer out on a lovely country road. "As you know, I have spent a desperately busy winter and spring in the city, working for that hospital benefit, getting the children prop-erly graduated, and running the Mon-day Music Club. All I asked was to day Music Club. All I asked was to be let alone—entirely alone—for the summer, so that I wouldn't have to talk to a lot of people, preside over anything, or do anything except read, about in the woods, and go to bed at dusk. "Imagine my horror when I found that some other summer people and the regular winter residents were planning all sorts of affairs-garden parties, bazaars, masquerades, and dear knows what not. I was sure that as a newcomer I would be urged to go in for these things and would be considered ungracious if I didn't. "And then the most interesting thing happened. Out on the sunny road, a day or two after we arrived, I met a pretty woman, stylishly dressled. She smiled at me and then frankly held out her hand.

"'I'm your neighbor, Mrs. Arnold,' she said, and we have been trying to decide a very important question about you and a few other summer residents-to call or not to call! Baldwin delivered a statement on Britain's attitude towards reportation. with cheers by crowded house, Premier Baldwin delivered a statement on Britain's attitude towards reparations "The sole ground of divergence among the allies is as to best effective means of realizing ends which are vital to all," the premier declared, "namely, payment of reparations and recovery of the security of Europe. Britain is as determined as any of the allies to make Germany pay reparations to fullest extent of which she is capable, but if we as Germany to pay in excess of her capacity, we shall not succeed in accomplishing our purpose. I am firmly convinced that measures resulting in the ruin of Germany will be fatal to Britain, to the allies, and to all the world. The allies are obtaining less reparations now than before the Ruhr venture began, and such reparations as we receive have been exacted at the price of growing dislocation of the German economic system and probably the entire collapse thereof."

There was no change of importance in local prices and the undertone remains firm.

Toronto, July 12 .- There was but a small market today. The demand was quiet, and the clean-up very slow. Packers apparently were well supplied with the week's purchases, and one or two fairly choice lots of light butcher attle found an indifferent buying market, and it looked as if some would have to be held over. Prices were barely steady, and for a ew round unfinished cattle concessions ing dodge in literature is the Grand Guess Contest Mystery Story. Everybody is invited to the content of the co story will end at any time before the last chapter is published, and inci-dentally to buy a paper or subscribe. It is the easiest thing in the world to write a story of mystery that will defy the most ingenious guessers in the country.

To prove it, here is one that we offer $10,000 to any man and $15,000 to any woman who guesses the mystery before the last chapter. CHAPTER I.

Judge Smith, a highly esteemed citizen of Plunkville, is found murdered in his bed at his home. He has been stabbed with a pair of

The coroner is summoned and the room examined. On the ceiling is a bloody footprint, and on the floor was found a lady's lace handkerchief, embroidered with the initials "J. B.," a package of cigarets and a ham sandwich. The coroner renders a verdict of suicide. CHAPTER II.

The judge leaves a daughter, Mabe aged 18, and ravishingly lovely. The night before the murder she exhibited a revolver and an axe in the prin-cipal saloon in town and declared her intention of "doing up" the old man. The judge has his life insured for $100,000 in her favor. Nobody suspects her of the crime. Mabel is engaged to a young man named Charlie, who is seen on the night of the murder by several citizens climbing out the judge's window with a bloody razor and a shotgun in this hand. So ciety gives Charlie the cold shoulder A tramp is run over by a street car and before dying confesses to having committed the murder, and at the judge's funeral his brother, Col-onel Smith, breaks down and acknowledges having killed the judge i order to get his watch. Mabel sends to Chicago and employs a skilled de tective to work up the case.

CHAPTER III. A beautiful strange lady, dressed mourning, comes to Plunkville and registers at the hotel as Jane Bumgartner (the initials on the hand-kerchief).

The next day a Chinaman is found who denies having killed the judge and is arrested by the detective. The strange lady meets Charlie on the street and, on smelling the smoke from his cigarette, faints. Mabel discards him and engages herself to the Chinaman. CHAPTER IV. While the Chinaman is being tried for murder, Jane Bumgartner testi-fies that she saw the detective murder Judge Smith at the instance of the minister who conducted the funeral, and that Mabel is Charlie's step-mother. Cash and Carry Selling Whether you are one of them or not, you know this: how enthusiastically a great many people patronize the cash and carry stores. Paying cash, contributing their time, there is sound economic reason why such buyers can buy for less. 'Cash and carry,' applied to various businesses, in practice has lived up to its promise. The world knows this. That is why the expression, "Cash and carry," interests and appeals to many people.

There is a special reason why "cash and carry" plans are especially fruitful in the Want Ad section. Thrifty people read the Want Ads-people keen to save money, even though they must furnish their own delivery as a part of the bargain. Want Ad readers have ready money. Show them you'll sell for a lower price in return for their cash and their automobile mileage or legwork, and they are quick to respond.

A laundry in a city where all laundries have granted cash discounts for called-for work for years, adopted the name, "Cash and carry," and ran Want Ads using it. The laundry is still running the Want Ads, extremely productive. "Cash and carry" were the magic words.

A great deal of Want Ad selling is regularly on a cash and carry basis. A flower grower sells flowers at his gardens. If he will advertise in Want Ads his "Cash and carry" plan, quoting prices, there'll be added pull in his advertising. The same holds for the beekeeper, who sells honey direct, and for numerous other farm product sellers.

"Cash and carry" expresses in a nutshell, very forcefully, the merits of certain selling methods. If you use these methods, why not use the words, too? (All Rights Reserved.)
