DON'T STOP MY PAPER. Don't stop my paper, printer, Don't strike my name off yet; I've many things to purchase, Dollars are hard to get; But tug a little harder, Is what I mean to do, And scrape the dimes together, Enough for me and you.

I can't afford to drop it, I find it doesn't pay To do without a paper; However others may, I hate to ask my neighbors To give me their loan; They don't just say, "but mean it," Why don't you have your own?

You can't tell how we miss it, If it, by any fate, Should happen not to reach us, Or come a little late, Then all in a hubbub, And things go all awry, And, printer, if your married, You know the reason why.

The children want their stories, And when I'm anxious, too, At first I glance it over, And then to read it through; And I read the leaders, And on the book reviews, And scan the correspondence, And every scrap of news.

I cannot do without it, It is no use to try, The other paper take it, And, printer, so must I, I, too, must keep me posted, And know what's going on, Or feel and be accounted A foggy Simpleton.

Then take it kindly, printer, If pay be somewhat slow, For cash is not so plenty, And wants not few, you know. But I must have my paper, Cost what it may to me, I'd rather dook my sugar, And do without my tea.

So, printer, don't you stop it, Unless you want my trower, For here's the year's subscription, And credit it right down, And send the paper promptly, And regularly on, And let it bring us weekly Its welcome benison.

OUR MORNING STROLL.

NO. VII. "Success the reward of push and industry" is a motto which might be engrossed in letters of gold on many a man's door post in this new country of ours.

In other lands, where abundant capital and stender and more established modes of conducting business make success a matter almost of certainty, there is not that continual and ever-increasing incentive to action which is present in this country, where men are largely dependent upon their own resources. Such were our thoughts as we entered the large and commodious carriage shop of Duncan Fisher, Victoria st., Farmersville.

Although being familiar with the general premises, still, when it came to asking questions preparatory to writing this article, we learned much that was new to us, and, hastily scrawling a few notes, we are able to give the results of our observations. First, then, we ascertained that Mr. Fisher came to this town upwards of 27 years ago, and worked as a shop hand at $8 per month. Year by year he has added to his hard-earned savings, until to-day we find him owner of a shop two stories in height, with 50 feet frontage with two annexes, one 40 x 60 feet and the other 30 x 40 feet. In the north end of the building is situated the carriage ironing and general blacksmith shop. In this department the veteran horseshoer, A. Niblock, has been foreman for the greater part of a period extending over nine years. In the south end is a large show room, in which have been placed this season over 50 carriages; and only three or four remain at the present time. The wood-working department has been in charge of Craton Niblock for ten or twelve years. We are sorry to say he is just now afflicted with erysipelas, which has laid him up some two or three weeks. The upper story of the building is used as a paint and trimming room. The paint shop is in charge of Fred Bristow, formerly of Oil Springs. Mr. Bristow has demonstrated his claim to the title of not only a first-class carriage painter but of an artistic fresco and sign painter as well. The walls of the Gamble House reading room bear convincing proof of his skill in this direction. Outside his chosen profession, Mr. B. is known as a good musician, and, in conjunction with H. Kincaid, Alex. Compo and C. Fisher, has favored the citizens of the town with many musical treats. In the end of the upper flat is the trimming department, in charge of Wm. M. Stevens, who for over ten years has worked in the shops of either D. Fisher or E. Gilroy. No matter how much the work is behind in the other departments, William has the faculty of always keeping up his end, and we have yet to hear the first complaint of his work being slighted. Mr. Fisher seems to have the knack of keeping his workmen for a long time, as, besides those mentioned, he has had M. Vanloon as a wood-worker for eleven years, Wm. Layng as a carriage ironer for nine years, and the late Geo. Stafford was with him as painter for 17 years.

Preparations for the fall and winter trade have already been commenced, and between 40 and 50 cutters will be built. Mr. Fisher informs us that he will have something new and stylish in the cutter line this season, and we advise our readers to see it before placing their orders. The quality of the work turned out at these works is now so well known that it is not needful to say anything in its praise, and as the whole business is carefully overlooked by the proprietor, and all defects noticed remedied as far as possible, with a view to making each succeeding vehicle better than the last, there is a sure guarantee that every thing is constructed as near perfection as can be. All honor, say we, to the man who endeavors to make himself master of his profession, be he a boot-black or a philosopher. As we sit in our office the ring of the anvil strikes upon the ear, making a musical clamor, and as the sound is carried away on the air, each pulsation throbs with the beating of our own heart and says in language plainer than words, "Work for the night is coming."

HOW IT WORKS.

Ever since the Scott Act came into force in these counties, the anti-Scott Act organs of Brockville have treated their readers, nearly every Monday, to items concerning the large number of persons who went over to Morrisstown and Old Man's Island on Saturday nights and Sundays, in search of anti-Scott Act beverages. From the tone of these alleged items of news, persons at a distance from the frontier would be led to believe that a large number of persons were in the habit of frequenting these places for the purpose of imbibing intoxicants, and that the Scott Act did not prevent those who wished for liquors obtaining all they wanted. We have always accepted some of the statements made by these organs with a considerable morsel of salt, and came to the conclusion to quietly investigate the truth or falsity of the reports for ourselves. Accordingly, on Saturday evening last, we hired a boy to take us over to Morrisstown. Starting after six p.m., we kept our weather eye open for the large number of persons reported as usually crossing on Saturday evenings for their customary drinks or bottlefuls; but we did not see a single boat headed for either Morrisstown or the Island. During the evening we made two trips to the hotels, and all was quiet and orderly as usual. On Sunday morning we concluded to investigate further, and procuring a row, rowed out upon the river, expecting, if the organs' stories were correct, to see any number of boats bound for the two objective points; but although we were on the river from 10.30 a.m. to nearly two p.m., we did not see a single boat land at Morrisstown excepting those that our companion (a Morrisstown man) stated belonged to residents of that village. We were near enough to the Island for more than two hours to see all the boats which landed, and only one boat (with three or four occupants) was seen to land. Just at sundown, we crossed the river to Brockville, and did not see a single boat land at the Island, nor any boats but those belonging to Morrisstown going towards that port. Our companion, a young man whose word we believe to be thoroughly reliable, informed us that for a few weeks after the Scott Act came in force a number of Brockville roughs would go over to Morrisstown for weekly sprees, but that on a certain Saturday night some of them kicked up a row in one of the hotels, which so disgusted the hotelkeepers that they thereupon refused to give liquor to a known Brockville man on Sunday, and that since the day, and as free from Brockville toppers before the passage of the Act. No doubt the organs will try to disparage these assertions, and also try to make their readers believe that we see through Scott Act goggles; but we know whereof we speak.

CANNIBALISM IN GEORGIA.

A Child Killed and Eaten for a Party of Pioneers.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 28.—The full account of the Tattaloo County cannibal affair is as follows:—A few days ago some of the coloured people in the lower end of the county held a picnic. They had engaged as cook and general overseer of the culinary department an old negro woman. Great preparations had been made for the festivities, and the sports ran high. It was a hungry band that gathered for dinner and awaited the summons. It was served at last, and the merry-makers fell to with a will. Hardly had the edibles begun to disappear when fell upon the boisterous group; one had been served with a piece of meat clung to a small jointed bone. It did not look like anything that he had ever seen come from a fryingpan before, and he showed it to his neighbor. The other looked at it attentively for a moment. "It is the finger of a child," he said.

There was a sensation which quickly spread into a panic. A hasty examination of other plates was made.

MORE FINGERS WERE FOUND, and pieces of meat that were evidently human flesh were held upon forks and gazed at by the now thoroughly excited negroes. They gazed at each other in a frightened way, and then there was a simultaneous break for the cabin, in which the cook had prepared the meal. She met them at the door, brandishing a large knife. A wild light—like that of a maniac—gleamed from her eyes. The crowd paused as the knife was flourished over their heads, all but one, a woman, who rushed forward with a shriek. "My child, what have you done with my child? There was no answer from the old cook, "I left it here in her charge," cried the excited mother, appealing to the friends about her.

"WHERE IS MY CHILD?" She has killed it." With fiendish yells the dusky army, fired by her agonizing cries, bore down upon the cook and in spite of her frantic struggles tore the knife from her grasp. Evidences of the murder were about them, there was blood on the floor and the table was smeared with it. The living child was not there to be seen, but in its place was a portion of a little human body which had been TAKEN FROM THE OVEN. Pieces of flesh had been carved from it. The excitement among the searchers was of the wildest kind. They tore everything to pieces in the cabin in their fury. It was plain enough that the old woman had murdered the child there, and had cooked half of the body. Where was the other half? There were drops of blood across the floor. Someone, less excited than the rest, followed the tell-tale trail. It led to a barrel just inside and behind the shanty. A shout informed his companions that the missing portion had been found. They rushed out to find him pulling it from the barrel, where it

HAD BEEN SALTED DOWN. Then there was a general cry for vengeance, and the frenzied shouts rang through the trees. Some suggested lynching, but there was no rope. Others wanted to hack her in pieces with the same knife that took the life of the little child. Still another cried "burn her," and the cry was taken up, and repeated until all in the excited crowd were crying "burn her, burn her." She crouched and struggled, and used her teeth and hands. But her captors were too many to cope with successfully, and she was led out to the slaughter-kiln and shrieking. They dragged her to a tree and BOUND HER TIGHTLY TO IT. Then they heaped brush around her and fired it in a dozen places. A circle of fire surrounded her, and from the midst of it she begged for mercy one moment and shrieked her imprecations the next; and around her stood her excited negroes watching the flames as they scorched her flesh and seized upon her clothing and enveloped her in a sheet of fire. It was a scene too terrible to paint, but not one of them took their eyes from her until the fall into the ashes of a blackened corpse. The woman was undoubtedly insane.

Ned Bastline left an estate valued at $20,000 and two wives. A workman digging post holes near Uniontown, Pa., found a watch which had been dropped by one of Bradlock's officers in a battle 130 years ago.

At the Brockville market a lady purchased a pair of raspberries at what she considered a bargain, but changed her opinion when she found the pair half filled with basswood leaves.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Edited by the Scissors and Paste-Pot.

The steamer Passport was sunk in the Cornwall canal on Saturday night. No lives lost.

The Gazette says that cricket is all the rage among Almonte youths.

The Kempville correspondent of the Smith's Falls Independent says:—"The Scott Act is having a desired effect here; people can go to bed now and sleep, but it seems rather hard for some of the old tipplers to come down now to hop biters."

The great power and heat of lightning have not been overrated. On Sunday night a bolt of lightning killed and roasted 800 spring chickens in New York at a single stroke. When the proverbial toughness of the average spring chicken is remembered, the full power of electricity may be imagined.

Mrs. Cunningham, an old lady of 96 years, who is visiting Mrs. John Thompson, South Lake, came to town to the Salvation Army meeting last Monday week, and attended church at Maple Grove last Sunday. Pretty good for one of her years. She is hale and hearty and seen a good for a number of years yet.—Gananoque Journal.

A physician reports a very strange case which came under his notice recently. A little girl in the city suffered for some time with a severe pain in her head, and nothing would relieve her. A few days ago she experienced a suffocating sensation in her nostrils, and later a large grub or worm came from her head, giving her instant relief. Since the grub came away she has experienced no pain whatever. It is thought that the worm entered her ear while she was lying on the grass at a picnic.—Kingston Chronicle.

Two young clergymen from Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, named Rev. Father Andrews and Rev. Father Kerney, arrived in Canada about two weeks ago, and are engaged as missionaries in the Ottawa Valley. They belong to the order of the "Passionist Fathers," which order was founded by St. Paul of the Cross. They are the first representatives of that order who have visited Canada. Missions have been conducted in Osceola and Renfrew parishes, and at present a mission is being held in Pakenham, over which the American missionaries are presiding. Without attempting oratory their superior missionary and persuasive powers had marked effect on their hearers wherever they have been. The "Passionist Order" is one of the most strict of the various religious orders in existence. They fast three days of the week, and are conspicuously attired inasmuch as they wear no boots.—Ottawa Journal.

The thunder and lightning which passed over the district to the north-east on Sunday evening, is reported to have done considerable damage in the rear part of Hull. In the vicinity of Joseph Goireau, where a wake was being held around the dead body of a woman, the lightning struck the chimney and passing down into the death chamber struck the mourners, it is said killing two women, affecting another slightly and seriously injuring Mr. Godreau. In other parts of Hull also damage is reported to have been done.—Ottawa Journal.

Since the above was set up we learn that the story is an exaggeration, so far as its fatality is concerned, although it is true that the victims were severely injured.

A Tory opinion of the beautiful Franchise Act is the following, taken from the Chronicle, the leading Tory organ in South Grey:—"The Dominion Franchise Act has had its first trial in South Grey, the last of the final Courts of Revision being held last week. The only advantage over claimed for it was that it extended the franchise. Experience has demonstrated, though, that its technicalities are so numerous and its provisions so vague that, that no uniform interpretation of its most essential points is possible. The machinery of it is not only complex, but outrageously expensive, and adds only to the burden of the people and emoluments of the judicial and legal functionaries. The final Revision Courts have caused an incredible amount of personal expense, and many a poor man and wage-earner has been put to considerable annoyance."

The Orangeville Advertiser says that there is a movement on foot in that town to change its name to Dufferin. The reasons assigned for this are that "Orange" smacks too much of sectionalism, and that the name of the place has as a whole been brought into contempt by Scott Act outrages, dynamite and scoundrelism generally. The practice of giving a county and its county seat both the same name is of doubtful wisdom. We come to the aid of Orangeville with the suggestion of a nice, mild, easy name—Lemonville. Perhaps the Orangevillians will refuse to accept our lemon aid, but in any case they should remember what Horace says about men not changing their characters when they change their names. Neither do towns change their characters when they change their names.—Toronto World. It is rumoured that a recent occurrence in Ottawa furnished ample ground for a breach of promise suit. All the arrangements for a wedding had been made, but on the very eve of the marriage the young man withdrew from the contract and the ceremony has been postponed indefinitely. It is not expected, however, that the young lady will take proceedings.

From Isle Royal, in Lake Superior, come reports that its fishermen are suspected of having rifled the bodies of the forty victims lost in the Algoma disaster last fall, and that to avoid detection they sunk the bodies far out in the lake. The Revenue cutter Andy Johnson left Milwaukee on the 2nd for Lake Superior, and will probably make a thorough investigation. Wreckers are now at work on the Algoma, and although a careful search has been made no bodies have been recovered except one or two pinned in the frame of the vessel. That the Islanders robbed and sank the bodies is strengthened by the finding of mutilated clothes and articles of value in their cabins.

Modern Progress.

Let the studios mind look back one hundred years and see the improvement in the methods of work, and the rapid progress of the century in the mechanical arts will be apparent.

Again, Fulton's application of steam to navigation, in 1807, deserves special mention as one of the greatest inventions of the age; and although the first steam boat entered up the Hudson at the rapid rate of four miles an hour, yet in those days it was a good model, and had many points of excellence still clung to by our modern ship builders.

Morse's invention of the electric telegraph (1835), although improved upon from time to time, was certainly a marvellous discovery, which the infiltration of ether, as a preventative of pain, introduced by modern Willis and Jackson, was not of so much importance to the commercial world, yet it can well and truly be called the greatest boon ever conferred by science upon the human race.

But perhaps no invention of the present century has produced such wide spread social and business changes as that of steam locomotion. While the electric light, the telephone, the phonograph and the microphone can truly be termed the four new wonders of the world, there are many other inventions of note that could be spoken of. But what are all these compared with the new Davis Vertical Sewing Machine? This new machine entirely dispenses with the old under-feed, and consequently entirely obviates the necessity of having it. It has a less number of working parts, and is therefore the easiest running and most durable. It is fine in appearance, and of range of work, in light or heavy goods, we boldly defy competition. J. L. GALLAGHER, agent.

That Wildcat.

The now famous wild-cat appears before the newspaper reader for the last time in this paragraph. After its experience, as related in the last issue, it had no further desire to live, and permitted itself to be shot last week by Delbert Wood on Chaney Hayes' farm, two miles and a half from the scene of its recently recorded midnight prowling.

No Reciprocity About it.

The Ogdensburg Republican is ready enough to clip items from the Reporter, but up to the present has evinced no willingness to exchange in return for the paper we send regularly to them. There is evidently a streak of boorishness running through our contemporary, which may perhaps be eliminated after it has clipped enough from us to have imbibed a small amount of editorial courtesy.

Lithograph Posters.

We beg to call the attention of our conferees of the press, to the fact that we are the agents in Canada of the Strobridge Lithographing company of Cincinnati, Ohio, and can supply one, two, or three sheet bills for fair or race meetings at the company's prices. The quality of the work sent out by the Strobridge Co. is first class, and the prices reasonable. Samples furnished on application.

Accidents.

It is with regret that we learn that W. Riley, one of the foremen on the railroad, had his foot slightly injured, one of his employees getting his shoulder dislocated at the same time. While loading heavy stones in one of the cars, the front fastenings unlocked and tipped over, thus throwing out the stones which fell on the two men. Mr. Riley is able to get around again, and the other fellow is rapidly recovering.

Camp Meeting.

A very interesting and profitable four day's meeting was held on the St. Lawrence Central camp ground last week. The Rev. G. O. McElhiney, Supt. of the district, presided and aided much to the success of the meeting by his able sermons and his happy method of conducting the prayer meetings. The services were characterized by clear expositions of the doctrine of holiness and were pervaded by the Sanctifying Power of the Holy Ghost. Gracious results are looked for, on the various circuits represented at the meeting.

The Railway.

The work on the Farmersville sec. of the B & W. R. R. is progressing very rapidly, and the foremen have done their duty towards both men and contractors. They have finished the rock cut opposite Mr. Pierce's on the Delta road and have done about as fast work as any men could do in rock. There has been excavated, in the neighborhood about 1,000 yards in eighteen days, with an average of about 20 men. The foremen, Tom McIlvanna and Wilson Riley, have performed their duties in a manner which must be gratifying to the contractors, Mitchell & Robinson.

A large number of Italian navvies are expected on this section shortly. Fay & Co. are making good progress on their section of the road.

Improvements.

C. L. Lamb, commenced on Monday morning to remove the balance of his goods from the store so long occupied in this line. He will close business until the building is again rebuilt. Mr. Algarie, the owner, is going to rebuild the store, leaving only the old walls standing. An addition will be put to the rear of the building, the ceilings and roof raised, and a stair, was leading from Main street will lead to the upper flat, which will be made into one of the finest lodge rooms in the back country. The Odd fellows will occupy it again when completed, in the meantime they will meet in the Orange Hall in the Canal House.

Measuring a Road.

W. Beattie, P. L. S., is here for the purpose of measuring the road from Farmersville to Mallorytown. The work is being undertaken by S. L. Hugaboom, the mail contractor, to settle the disputed point of the actual distance between the two places.

Judging Crops.

The judges appointed by the Unionville Fair Association are judging the second class growing field crops this week.

SCOTT ACT NOTES.

Witnesses who were refused their fees in a Scott Act case in Simcoe entered suit and recovered ten cents per mile and seventy-five cents per day.

The temperance people of Hallow are beginning to prosecute false witnesses in Scott Act cases for perjury. Two have already decamped. The anti-perjury crusade will probably become general.

The Police Magistrate of Peterborough has received word that eighteen or nineteen trees in his orchard at Askbuzian, have been badly barked by some unknown parties.

Though the Scott Act was carried in 1884 in the county of Norfolk by a majority of over 1,000, the county council has passed a formal resolution condemnatory of the operation of the Act.

The hotel keepers in the various towns and villages along the C. P. R., have adopted a new system of building the authorities, who are exerting themselves to vindicate the law and enforce the Scott Act. The first claim in the constitution of the new organization, which has been inaugurated in almost every town, is that if any of the brotherhood should be victimized by a fine all shall pay a share. The constitution also provides that informers, or any person who, by accident, may be caught leaving a hotel with such information as might lead to a conviction shall be kept out of the way by the combined efforts of the hotel men. By such means they have succeeded in accomplishing the desired end on several occasions recently. Ottawa Evening Journal.

Modern Progress.

Let the studious mind look back one hundred years and see the improvements in the methods of work, and the rapid progress of the century in the mechanical arts will be apparent. In 1793 Eli Whitney, a mere lad in obscure circumstances, was led to the idea of inventing the cotton gin, a machine for picking the cotton from the seed. For some time he labored with but little success, but being of a determined turn of mind he eventually mastered it. The result, as we all know, was to make cotton king of the United States. Again, Fulton's application of steam to navigation, in 1807, deserves special mention as one of the greatest inventions of the age; and although the first steam boat went up the Hudson on the rapid rate of four miles an hour, yet in those days it was a good model; and had many points of excellence still cling to by our modern ship builders. Morse's invention of the electric telegraph (1835), although improved upon from time to time, was certainly a mark of great progress. While the inhalation of ether, as a preventative of pain, introduced by modern Wills and Jackson, was not so much important to the commercial world, yet it can well and truly be called the greatest boon ever conferred by science upon the human race. But perhaps no invention of the present century has produced such wide-spread social and business changes as that of steam locomotion. While the electric light, the telephone, the phonograph and the microphone can truly be termed the four new wonders of the world, there are many other inventions of note that could be spoken of. But what are all these compared with the new Davis Vertical-feed Sewing Machine? This new machine entirely dispenses with the old under-feed, and consequently entirely obviates the necessity of basting. It has a less number of working parts, and is therefore the easiest running and most durable. It is fine in appearance, and for range of work, in light or heavy goods, we boldly defy competition. J. L. GALLAGHER, agent.
