Consolation.

A cloud is resting on our way, Our brave and good have passed away. To the dark tomb; Joy's sunny light from us has fled, A lonely path we now must tread, Oft wrapt in gloom.

Friends gather round us in our need, But, ah!—one friend in thought and dec Where is he now? His white hands folded on his breast, With quiet ease, he takes his rest, With placid brow.

His happy spirit, pure and free, In passing to eternity, Its peace has found; The waves npon life's changeful shore Will break his slumbers nevermore, With solemn sound, Gallup's Florilme for the Teeth and Breath Roll on—dark, ever restless sea, Roll on—in haughty majesty, 'Tis sorrow's hour; We're tempest-tossed in many a gale. And many a drooping, broken sail, Must feel they power.

Beyond the sound of thy deep roar. There is a brighter, better shore, Where friends will meet: The forms now banished from our sight, Radway's Ready Relief, Arnold's Balsam Will greet us there in robes of light, With accents sweet.

> We will be patient, we will wait, Til entering through the pearly gate We look around; There joy unspeakable we'll find-Our all-they were not left behind, ·Not lost—but found.

accounted the body toung on the morning of July 3rd with the description sent by the Pittsburg Chief of Police, and it was not until the posting of a placard offering one thousand dollars reward for definite information as to the whereabouts of Thomas Munce, alive or dead that any connection between the Schuylkill corpse and the Pittsburg requisition seems to have been established.

The minute description on this placard included mention of a gold hunting case watch worn by the missing Thomas Munce, and numbered 3,415. By judicious manœuvring the Philadelphia police finally discovered that such a watch was in the possession of an uptown pawnbroker. The story of the pawnbroker had a certain air of mystery, but forms an important link of a very singular chain to which several, perhaps many, other important links are wanting. He says that on July 16th (about two weeks after the discovery of the body) a young man brought him the watch and asked him to loan him five dollars on it, refusing to take more.

THE MONEY WAS LOANED, the young man went his way and the pawnbroker saw him no more up to the date when the police made their inquiries. This must have been about the 3rd or 4th of August, for the detective who was immediately set to watching the shop watched night and day for two weeks before the young man returned there, and this brings us to August 18.

With the reappearance of the young man, who returned to claim the watch, the plot thickens. He was, of course, im-mediately arrested. If the pawnbroker's story is strange, the young man's is still more so. His name is William McEwen. and his occupation is-what? Nothing less than driving the "dead wagon" and removing dead bodies to the morgue. He it was who drove the body of Thomas Munce thither. But then there was another corpse in the wagon, and this second corpse was in a box. The box was so large that the remains of Mr. Munce were pushed against the driver, and the dead man's watch fell out almost into William McEwen's hands. McEwen kept the watch, held his tongue and got new works inserted into the time piece, in place of the old ones, which were dam.

And now comes a third point, which is more remarkable still. William McEwen drove the body to the morgue; but who drove it away from there? No one appeared to claim it, and after a certain in. terval it disappeared and was found only a day or two ago. Enough, that after a good deal of careful manipulation on the part of the police, it was traced to a house at the corner of Ninth and Spruce streets, a building which, our correspondent states, has some connection with the University of Pennsylvania. There it was discovered in an immense vat awaiting dissection,

The house occupied an isolated situation, and when the neighbor's reached it it was a mass of ruins. The charred remains of Knightly were found near a win dow, with a partly burned shotgun at his feet, and the bodies of his sister and his nephew near the front door, but so badly charred that it could not be determined whether they had been killed by Knightly or whether they were suffocated. The Coroner's jury inclined to the latter opinion, although the neighbors testified to having heard three shots fired while the house was burning.

HARBOR GRACE, SEPT. 17, 1873.

THE "Confederate cruiser" Isabella arrived here on Saturday last from her expedition to some of the Northern Bays. We cannot say what success attended the cruise, but are inclined to think the efforts put forth by the voyagers failed to meet with the approbation of the inhabitants of the localities visited. Our Bonavista correspondent informs us that the people of that place preferred fish of a more profitable desscription than the SMALL FRY discharged there from the bait-skiff Isabella, and consequently, a speedy re-shipment was deemed necessary. It is to be regretted that the "baitskiff worthies" failed to honor Harbor Grace with a visit on their way home. We can assign no reason for the apparent negligence, unless they were ashamed of their "turn out." At all events, the cruiser put into Portugal Cove and landed her PRECIOUS FREIGHT before calling here. Yesterday forenoon we took occasion to go on board the Isabella and interview the captain. CONTINENTAL LIFE

INSURANCE COMPANY

OF NEW YORK, N order to complete their line of Agencies from London to San Francisco, California, and to extend universally the benefits and advantages offered by their Company, and to place within reach of all the means of making provision for the Widow and the Orphan, have decided on establishing Agencies in St. John's and Harbor Grace Newfoundland.

The CONTINENTAL, beyond all comparison, the most successful and most popular Company ever established in Europe or America. It has only been Seven YEARS in existence, but at its organiza tion men of enlarged views, and great experience in Life Insurance, were placed in its management, who, having discarded all useless and annoying restrictions, and adopted all the improvements known in Life Insurance—many of them origina with themselves, it at once received, and continues to receive, a support unpre cedented; and it now stands far ahead of many companies TEN YEARS older than itself. It has issued over FIFTY-NINE THOUSAND POLICIES, and has over $6,750,000,000 assets, all securely invest | Far Superior to Anything Ever ed, as required by law, in Bonds of the United States, Bonds of the State of New York, or in Real Estate. For that portion invested in Real Estate, it holds in all cases Double Security. So popular is its management and so great the public confidence that there are only Two Companies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it in Black Beetles, Fleas on Doglies in the World that now approach it is not the World that now approach the amount of business done.

The Reserve Dividend System Is one more step in the march of progress. Presented only after mature thought, it invites the test of the severest scrutiny. Its chief merit is its PERFECT ADAPTABILITY to the wants of insurable lives. The RESERVE DIVIDENT and RESERVE ENDOWMENT POLICIES originated and published by the Company's Actuary, under copyright in 1869. The principle involved renders every form of insurance a provision in life. I converts an ordinary life Policy, otherwise payable only in the event of death, finter a CASH ENDOWMENT, MATURING EVERY TEN YEARS.
