If the maxim "that birds of a feather flock together" be true then it follows that we have quite a few crows around the corners. There is one in particular of which I would like to say a few words, for he is I think a half brother to Edgar A. Poe's raven, and is, if possible, more impertinent, more insolent and decidedly more bold. Then he has just such an insulting expression in his croak. It is no uncommon occurrence to see him perched upon a hitching post croaking at every man that goes past. If that croak was translated into English, I am confident it would mean something like "shoot that hat," "pull down your vest,"

"wipe of your chin." Now all that kind of thing makes a fellow feel mean. With young ladies he takes a more decided way of drawing their attention. cided way of drawing their attention. A Quiet Game of Cards.

Sometime about the commencement of the year 1871, a train was passing over the Northern railroad, between Oshkosh and Madison. In two of the seats, facing each other, sat three lawyers engaged at cards. Their fourth player had just left the carriage, and they needed nal. another to take his place.

"Come judge, take a hand," they said to a grave magistrate, who sat looking on, but whose face indicated no approval his apparent refusal only increased their eagerness to secure him.

"O, yes, yes! We can't get along one game." They persisted in their urgency, until finally with a flushed countenance, the judge slowly rose and took

AN INTRICATE PROPOSITION

With Which Major Max Greatly Puzzled His Wife.

The Detroit, Mackinac, and Marquette Railroad Company NOW OFFER FOR SALE OVER 1,300,000 ACRES

Of the Choicest FARMING and TIMBERED LANDS, in the Northern Peninsula of Michigan,

Destined to be the best wheat-producing region in the world. These lands are situated in the counties of Chippewa, Mackinac, Schoolcraft, and Marquette, and embrace many thousands of acres of the best agricultural lands in the State of Michigan.

Among those in the counties of Chippewa and Mackinac are tracts of what are known as the "burnt or cleared" lands. These lands offer many advantages over the prairie lands of the West, as the timber lands adjoining insure a supply of fuel at little cost. The soil being a rich clay loam of great depth. The timber remaining upon the land being generally sufficient for the settlers' use in building and fencing.

These partially cleared lands are now offered at the low price of from $1 to $1.50 per acre, one-fourth cash, and the remainder at purchasers' option, at any time within nine years, with interest payable annually at seven per cent.

Roads are being opened through these lands, and no better opportunity has ever been offered to men of small means to secure a good farm, and intending purchasers will be wise by availing themselves of this chance before prices advance, as the lands are heing rapidly taken and settled upon.

The lands more immediately on the line of the Detroit, Mackinac, and Marquette Railroad from the Straits of Mackinac to Marquette are more heavily timbered, and are almost universally good agricultural lands, leaving splendid farms when the timber is removed.

The iron and lumber interests of the upper peninsula are of such magnitude as to call for all the charcoal and lumber that the timber and wood upon the lands will produce—this will enable the settler to make good wages while clearing the land.

Lumber Mills and Charcoal Kilns will be built at various points along the line, and Furnaces are now being erected along the line of the road at Point St. Ignace.

The great demand and good prices for labor, both in winter and summer, make these lands particularly desira Of the Choicest FARMING and TIMBERED LANDS in the Northern Peninsula
